

YPARRAGUIRRE NEW ASUN PRESIDENT

Dr. Rufus B. Von Kleinsmid, USC, To Deliver Commencement Address

Baccalaureate To Be Given by Dr. White

Presidents of two nationally recognized universities will deliver the principal addresses at the University of Nevada's 54th annual commencement exercises to be held in the new gymnasium on May 13 and 14.

Dr. Rufus B. von Kleinsmid of the University of Southern California, will give the address at the awarding of degrees on Monday, May 14, at 10 am, while Dr. Lynn T. White, Jr., of Mills College, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 13, at 11 am.

Prominent Educator

President Von Kleinsmid is one of America's best known educators. For more than 20 years head of the University of Southern California, he also served as president of the University of Arizona for almost as many years.

He was graduated from Northwestern University, then served as school superintendent in Illinois. His career in higher education, began at his alma mater as an instructor, after which he taught at DePauw University in Indiana before coming west.

He has been honored with awards by foreign countries, and has received honorary degrees from universities and colleges, here and abroad. He has been a leader in promotion of international understanding and good will.

Baccalaureate Speaker

President White of Mills taught history before his election to that presidency two years ago. A native of San Francisco, he took undergraduate work at Stanford University, continued his studies at Union Theological Seminary in New York, and completed his work at Harvard for the doctorate of philosophy.

First an instructor at Princeton University, he taught in Stanford in 1937 and remained there until he was chosen to head Mills. He is author of a book on Latin Monasticism in Sicily.

Additional Bids To Commencement Available Soon

The University of Nevada is providing official invitations to the 1945 commencement exercises in addition to those purchased individually by graduating seniors. Graduates who wish to supplement their own announcements, and students or faculty members who desire them for friends or as souvenirs, may call for the invitations at the president's office, announced Dean Fredrick Wood who is in charge of distribution.

The announcements are now available and should be picked up immediately, said Dean Wood. Procedure in other years has been to print only a limited number which are mailed out to regents, honorary board of visitors, state officials, and educational executives. This year the mailing list will be extended to include service clubs and others interested.

In explaining the innovation, Dean Wood stated that because of the increased seating capacity made available by holding commencement in the new gymnasium, President John O. Moseley felt that graduating seniors would appreciate additional invitations, not only for friends but also for mailing to former students now in service.

WARD NICHOLS

Ward Nichols, seaman third class, is now in Australia. Nichols, who has been overseas for several months, is awaiting further orders. While on campus Nichols was a member of Lambda Phi Alpha.

Mrs. H. Lehnert To Address Group

"Are You Just a Clothes Hanger?" will be the topic of a courtesy clinic talk given April 24 by Mrs. Hazel Lehnert of the Doris Wilson Shop. The meeting will be held at the Gamma Phi Beta house at 4:00. Freshman women are required to attend.

Mrs. Lehnert's talk will include tips on spring fashions and hints as to the contents of the college woman's wardrobe. She will also mention color combinations and designs of clothing most becoming to the various types of figures. Rachel McNeil, courtesy clinic member, was in charge of arrangements for the talk.

Independent Coed Named AWS Prexy

Newly appointed University of Nevada Associated Women Students president is Maurya Wogan, junior Independent student, according to Judy Bogard, Independent president.

As AWS president, Miss Wogan will serve as vice-president of the ASUN student body and vice-chairman of the ASUN senate.

Qualification for the revolving office is the required number of hours for senior standing. The office will revert to one of the sororities next year.

Dr. Clark Speaks Before Students

Sponsored by the YWCA Dr. William H. Clark, missionary from Kunming, China, spoke last night at the education auditorium in regard to our attitude toward China.

Hope for the future of China, he stated, lies in the educated people of the country. He has worked extensively with the refugees from universities and colleges in the part of China under Japanese control.

Eight-Year War

Dr. Clark stated that the Japanese underestimated the Chinese army when they attacked Manchuria, so that instead of taking it in three weeks or two months, it has taken them eight years. He said that only a very small portion of United States lend-lease material had gone to the regular Chinese army; most of it went to troops in the Burma-India theater.

According to Dr. Clark, the missionary in China has done much for American-Chinese relations with their humble attitude. Religion must be one of the first steps toward friendship with the Chinese people.

Clark's Work

Dr. Clark has been working as a Presbyterian missionary in Kunming, at the upper end of the Burma Road, since 1938. This region has become the center of industrial China, and has had a large part in the war between China and Japan, as well as being a strategic point in the American and British offensive in the southern China area.

Judy Bogard Elected Independents' Prexy

At ceremonies held Monday evening in the Agriculture building on the University of Nevada campus, Judy Bogard, sophomore chemistry major, was installed president of the Independents.

Miss Bogard, recently appointed to Sagens, and co-entertainment chairman of the university war board, served as vice-president of Independents last year.

Received of the Jewett Adams scholarship this year, she now serves as secretary-treasurer of the Chemistry Club and social chairman of Artemisia-Manzanita Association. She is a member of WAA, University Dancers and the university women's choir.

Other officers elected to assist Miss Bogard are Irvin Mallin, vice-president, and Bob Craig, senator. Miss Bogard will act as temporary secretary-treasurer.

FILM ON CANCER

Discussing the purpose and activities of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Lawrence Parsons, chairman of the Washoe county branch, addressed the student body in the education auditorium last Thursday.

YOUR ASUN PRESIDENT

He is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and a member of Sagens, Coffin and Key, ASUN senate and was chairman of the Mackay Day committee in 1945.

Yparraguirre will replace Leonore Hill, Gamma Phi Beta, out-going president. His election marks a return to pre-war standards renewing the tradition of a male president of the Associated Students of the University of Nevada.

The new president presented his political platform at a rally held last Tuesday in the education auditorium.

Installation of new ASUN officers will be held Tuesday, May 1 at 9 am.

Rankin Mansfield Speaks to Group

Ancient Greeks were the first to entertain in theaters, stated Rankin Mansfield, director of Reno Little Theater plays, in his review of the theater from ancient to modern days given at the regular meeting of Chi Delta Phi, English honorary, this week.

Mansfield continued that although the Greeks had originated the theater, the forerunner of today's theater was founded in 17th century Italy.

Shakespeare's Stage

From the Italian stage drama moved to England where Shakespeare's influence added women to theatrical productions, against all precedent. Many of the bard's plays were produced on wagons parked on the lawns of country estates, as well as the peculiar Shakespearean playhouse, such as the old Globe theater.

American influence made the theater more respectable and closer to the people as a whole, particularly through such movements as the little theater groups.

Little Theater

Mansfield concluded his review with a short summary of Reno Little Theater history, saying that the group has been established 10 years ago this spring. Many campus thespians, Jo Miller, Helen Brania, Tosca Masini, Marion Gotberg and several professors, as well as local people, have presented their talents in Reno Little Theater productions.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL TO INSTALL PAT USSERY

At a dinner to be held at the Pi Beta Phi chapter house Tuesday at 6 pm, Pat Ussery, newly appointed head of Pan-Hellenic Council, will be installed, Pat Traner, out-going president and chairman in charge of arrangements, revealed today.

Possibly the last meeting of the year, the council will discuss revision of the Pan-Hellenic handbook as it must go to press before the end of the year. This is a project the council has undertaken in order to bring rushing rules up to date.

HOW MANY CARED?

It seems that few students really cared who was elected student body president. The political rally on Tuesday was attended by approximately 100 students, less than one-fourth of the entire student body. And those in attendance that night were the ones who are interested in campus affairs, not only in regard to government but in any situation. They are the ones who make Nevada what it is and determine, to a large extent, what it will be.

Next year there'll be those who grumble about the student officers, about the way things are run. They seem to forget that in order to have a student government amiable to their views, they must take an active part in the formation of policies and the placement of students in the ASUN senate.

Counting of the ballots last night brought to light the fact that only 320 of Nevada's 450 students cast ballots. That leaves approximately 130 students who were not sufficiently interested in a vital aspect of university life to take five minutes between the poll hours of 9 and 4:30 to vote.

Now that the student body president for the coming year has been elected, it is the duty of every student to give him the support he needs for the good of all concerned at the University of Nevada.

Requisites for Nevada's student body presidents have always been few. The candidates need only be students of normal capacities and the average number of arms, legs, ears and eyes. The principal requisite is that he have the students' backing and the plurality of votes proves this.

Whether the student body president elected was your choice is no longer important. The man has been elected. It is up to all students to see that his term is successful for the welfare of the University of Nevada.—M. M.

Dr. Brown Reports to Fleischmann On Uses of His Gift to Nevada U.

By Helen Corica

In a report to Major Max C. Fleischmann, Dr. Harold Brown, chairman of the scholarship committee, outlined the practical use to which Major Fleischmann's generosity has been put on the University of Nevada campus since the inauguration of the scholarships in October, 1938. A total of 40 Fleischmann scholarship recipients have already been graduated and 11 are now on campus.

Awards are based on good character, financial need to the extent of the award, sound patriotic citizenship, good scholarship, active participation in extra-curricular and community activities, and a well rounded personality. Applications from students are considered together with faculty recommendations by members of the scholarship committee.

Recommendations

Data collected from high school principals, the registrar and lay citizens is also considered in the selection of applicants. The committee's recommendations are then presented to the president of the university. Upon concurring, he notifies the student of his award.

61 Benefit

In all 70 awards have been made since 1938. Nine students have been named recipients a second year, so 61 different students have received financial aid from the fund. By means of the Fleischmann scholarship many of these students have been able to participate in extra-class collegiate activities more fully than would have otherwise been possible. In some cases continuance at the university would have been impossible without this financial aid.

High Scholarship

Holders of Fleischmann awards have maintained a high standard. Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic society, has elected 21 of the 61 recipients. Two or three now in school may be elected before they are graduated. Three Fleischmann students have led their classes to become gold medalists. Since scholarship average is only one of six qualifications necessary to selection for the scholarship, Dr. Brown cites this achievement as noteworthy. With one woman included, 18

Fleischmann students are now serving in the armed forces, while four more are doing significant work in research, physics, chemistry and radar for the war effort.

The school of journalism is represented by three graduates who received Fleischmann awards and now hold good positions in the newspaper field. Teaching positions are held in the state by about 10 of the recipients, Dr. Brown said.

Campus Dancers To Give Program

University Dancers who will present "Emperor Waltz" and will also assist in the Mexican music and dance appearing through courtesy of Mr. W. A. Morby, are Jean Bicknell, Judy Bogard, Norman Ferguson, Wilburta Flavin, Anna Garamendi, Gloria Rosaschi, Nora Saunders, Gloria Springer, Genevieve Swick, Betty Waugh, Barbara Whipple and Jean Worlock.

Foreign Countries Ask Information On Snow Survey Work by Dr. Church

By U of N News Service

From India, Spain and Canada have come requests for information on the snow survey technique perfected by Dr. J. E. Church, for many years professor of classics at the University of Nevada, and now meteorologist of the institution's agricultural experiment station.

More than 40 years ago Dr. Church began his series of expeditions to Mt. Rose in the Sierras near Reno, out of a love of nature and the adventure of winter mountain climbing.

His keen intellectual curiosity soon led him to scientific application of the knowledge gained through observation of Sierra snowfields, and the science of snow surveying to forecast the amount of water runoff for a given area was developed.

Northern India

The snow sampler perfected by Dr. Church has been requested by the Punjab government in northern India. Where two high dams similar to Boulder dam are planned, one to be built on the Punjab river, the other on the Sutlej river.

The state of Punjab is governed autonomously, and already its leaders are looking forward to post-war possibilities in both irrigation and water power for electricity in building the dams.

Need Natural Cover

Dr. Church said in explaining the Punjab situation that goats, which are the principal livestock of the region, have cropped off the natural grasslands of the region and eaten the shoots of young trees as soon as they grew above the ground so that the soil has become loose and easily eroded, with no natural cover to retard spring runoff in the mountainous region.

A representative of the Punjab government is now in the United States studying various types of dams and water control.

Nevadan Writes

From Ontario, Canada, a request was received from a former University of Nevada student, George Dawson, employed by a mining company there. Dawson is mining iron ore from the basin of a lake which has been drained, but which fills with silt and water during the spring runoff.

In his letter, Dawson stated that, if accurate measurements of the water content of the snow fields above the lake bed could be determined, he might be able to calculate the amount of flooding to expect and devise methods of combating it.

Spain Inquires

The inquiry from Spain was received by Dr. Church some time ago and involved a dam to be constructed on the Ebro river which runs through northern Spain, emptying into the Mediterranean Sea below the city of Barcelona.

Snow surveys made in the higher regions of the Cantabrian mountains, where the river has its source, will be of value in estimating water flow in constructing the dam.

Wide Use

The snow survey methods developed by Dr. Church are now in use in many sections of the United States and have been adopted by several foreign countries.

Accurate forecasts of water runoff are obtained by use of the snow sampling device, which weighs a core of snow and records the water content, thereby making estimates for a given area possible. Samples of snow are taken at various spots where snowfall depth is representative of the actual precipitation of the area and sheltered so that drifting is negligible.

By topographical surveys, these key areas are determined as representative of the runoff sections, and calculations made by combining the records from each sampling station.

AIME Meets Here; Discusses Affairs

The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers met Monday, April 16, at a dinner at the Riverside Hotel to discuss institute affairs, and to hear news of Nevada engineers.

Postponed

The dinner, originally scheduled for April 14, was postponed due to the death of the president of the United States. The change in plans necessitated J. C. Kennear, national director of the institute, leaving before the dinner. He was to address the group on institute affairs throughout the United States.

Carpenter Presides

Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Mackay School of Mines and of the Nevada state bureau of mines, presided at the meeting and reported on the New York meeting of the institute to which he was sectional delegate. Mrs. Carpenter addressed the group for the women's auxiliary which held its meeting simultaneously with the institute.

Preston Funkhouser, Nevada mining man, told of his experiences in a Japanese concentration camp near Luzon from where he recently returned. P. A. Lewis and W. S. Edelman, mining engineers of Reno, described pre-war mining experiences in the Philippine Island region.

Women's Athletic Activities Frequent As Coeds Participate in Various Sports

A practice softball game between Artemisia Hall and Manzanita Hall will be held next Wednesday on the women's softball diamond. Zina Coe, manager, stated that the final contest is slated for some time in the near future. Last year the upper-class women defeated the underclass women living at ATO by a 14-11 score. With several hard sluggers appearing this year's game should prove worth watching.

dents are invited to attend the stunts which will be held in the old gym. The stunts and drills to be presented are the ideas of the women students. Miss Ethel Dixon is in charge of the class.

Tennis Results
Gwen Miller, tennis manager, disclosed the results of the first rounds of the tennis tournament. Jo Miller defeated Florene Miller 6-3. Alberta Brunner dropped a 6-4 to Naomi Batjer. Roberta Butler took Shirley Campbell for a score of 6-4.

Riders Enjoy Weather
WAA riders have enjoyed the spring weather with the usual weekly riding classes. The skill test will be given to prospective Saddle and Spurs members and initiation will be held on the "lunch" ride scheduled for May 5.

Batjer Bowls 195
The "Holy Rollers" are leading the bowling tournament and with two weeks left anything can happen. Naomi Batjer set a high score for the bowling classes at 195.

Roller Skating Stunts
The roller skating class is planning on presenting original stunts Tuesday, May 1, at 10 am. All stu-

Spring practice has been going along smoothly the past week with the boys shedding some excess poundage under the blazing sun. Coach Jim Aiken has been drilling the candidates in fundamentals and stressing the learning of plays he intends to use next season.

Norb Smolinski, freshman tackle from Chicago, shows great defensive promise, continually breaking up varsity plays along with Jim Clarkson, one of the better defensive men on the squad.

Titus Injured
The first casualty of the practice occurred early in the week when Bob Titus suffered a badly wrenched knee when tackled by Vic Onofrietta. Titus will be forced to forego practice with the varsity indefinitely.

John Helstowski, who Jim Aiken has moved to the end position from center, has been making the backs look good with some good blocking on the tackles.

Lenny Marmor, fullback, and Ed Diercks, end, both veterans of last year's varsity, left early Tuesday morning for Salt Lake City to take their physical examinations for the United States army. They will be back to the campus the end of this week to continue practicing with the squad.

LAWLOR TO RETURN

Jake Lawlor, former football and basketball coach at the University of Nevada has been rehired and will return to the campus September 1. For the past year he has been director of athletics at a California high school.

Former Nevadan Named USC Coach

Lawrence Timothy "Buck" Shaw, former University of Nevada men's and all-American tackle at Notre Dame, has been appointed head football coach at the University of California to succeed Leonard "Stub" Allison.

Coach Shaw played four years of tackle under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame before coming to the University of Nevada in 1922 as line coach under Raymond O. "Corky" Courtwright. In 1923 the Wolf Pack tied the University of California 0-0 and St. Mary's College 10-10. The Wolves were led by Captain Chet Scranton, now an instructor in the university physical education department.

Former Track Coach
Shaw remained on the campus until 1924, when he became head football and track coach at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, North Carolina. The "Silver Fox," as he is called on the Pacific coast, returned to become head coach of the Wolf Pack in 1925 and remained until 1928, when he went to the University of Santa Clara and won national recognition with two Sugar Bowl champions. He continued as coach of the Broncos until 1942 when the Jesuit school dropped the gridiron sport.

Graduate Manager Clinton Evans of the University of California stated that Shaw will remain as head coach of the Golden Bears until it is necessary for him to assume his duties as coach of the San Francisco professional team in the all-American professional conference to commence after the war.

Bonds and stamps will reduce loss of life, injuries and will shorten the war.

Article Depicts Journalism Dept.

Presenting a comprehensive sketch of the school of journalism at the University of Nevada, an article by Prof. A. L. Higgenbotham appeared in the March edition of the Nevada Educational Bulletin.

The journalism department has a record in placement of graduates in the type of journalism in which they were trained. Many of the former students have reached high positions in their field.

The article also points out several characteristics which are distinctive to the school, stating that every student of the department must obtain a well-rounded education in language, literature, science, the aesthetics and similar fields.

Illustrated by a picture of journalism 22 class of this semester, the article shows the typical classroom scene in the news writing and gathering course.

Nevada Educational Bulletin is issued each month by the state department of education, directed by Mildred Bray, superintendent of public instruction and edited by George E. McCracken, office deputy.

GEORGE STUART

Capt. George H. Stuart of Fallon, a former University of Nevada student now in Italy, has been awarded the bronze star for "meritorious achievement in support of military operations."

Overseas for 23 months, since he left the campus in 1938, the young officer is squadron adjutant in a 15th air force flying fortress group operating in the Italian theater.

AWARDS OFFERED TO ME STUDENTS

A contest has been announced by the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, donor of the welding library in the new engineering building on the University of Nevada campus, for awards to be given for the preparation and publication of textbooks on machine design and another on structural design.

The welding library, according to James R. Van Dyke, professor of mechanical engineering, includes the latest books on welding ships, planes and general arc welding. A check for $100 was given the university for this library in 1944, in addition to free subscriptions to three magazines on arc welding. The library is to be placed on a special shelf in a library room to be set aside in the near future in the new engineering building, Prof. Van Dyke said. He also stated that the books would be available for work on the contest. At present they are located in Prof. Van Dyke's office upstairs in the building.

Any person in the teaching profession, in industry, or engaged in private consultation in engineering is eligible. No one person may enter more than one manuscript in each class, or two or more persons may submit a manuscript. In each class, $5000 is awarded for first prize, $3000 for second and $200 for third. Closing date for the contest is May 15, 1946.

OLD AND NEW SENATORS ATTEND ANNUAL PICNIC

The yearly senate picnic was held Wednesday night after a short meeting of the group to install the new senators in office. The picnic was under the direction of Jack Dieringer and Gordon Shelley.

The affair was held at Idlewild park. Hotdogs and accessories were on hand for refreshments, while each senator added his part to the entertainment of the evening. Those attending the picnic were the outgoing senators, new members and the alternates of each social group on the campus.

History of U of N Traced From 1885

By Pat Ussery

Ten acres of unimproved land, bounded by sagebrush and irrigation ditches, was the University of Nevada campus in 1885. It was rough and uninviting, but there was a great panorama of mountain and valley, farm and desert, lying at its feet, and the regents saw its possibilities. They purchased it June 11, 1885.

First Building

The cornerstone of the first building was laid in September of that same year. Special trains from Virginia City and Carson brought down nearly 100 people for the celebration. Strikes delayed the progress of building, and it was not until February 15 that it was ready for occupancy and was accepted by the board of regents. That building was called Morrill Hall.

Ten Years Later

Ten years later, on the little plateau overlooking the frontier town of Reno, were five buildings. Almost in the center of the group was Morrill Hall, now used for a variety of purposes. Its three stories and basement housed the department of physics, chemistry, commercial studies and languages, the president's office, laboratories in assaying and rooms for class meetings and debates.

Campus in 1903

Eight years later, the university was still in a pioneer period of hardship and struggle. The university register of 1903 told of a campus on which there stood Morrill Hall, Stewart Hall, Hatch Station, Mining Building, Lincoln Hall, Manzanita Hall, gymnasium, president's house and the hospital. But within the next two years there came a new period for the University of Nevada.

In honor of John W. Mackay, pioneer of old Virginia City, Mrs. Mackay and their son, Clarence, began a donation to the university which founded the Mackay School of Mines, the Mackay athletic field and training quarters and contributed toward beautifying the grounds.

Dr. Lowrance to Resume Position

Dr. Edward W. Lowrance, now teaching at the University of Kansas, expects to be back on the campus for the fall semester, Dr. Philip A. Lehenbauer, biology department head, stated this week. In his recent letter he explained that he would be free to resume his duties in Dr. Lehenbauer's department as soon as the man whose place he has taken returns.

Though he at first taught histology, the microscopic study of tissues, he is now instructing in human anatomy and supervising the dissection of cadavers. As a matter of fact, he states, "I'm myself dissecting a cadaver, keeping one step ahead of the class so I can tell them what to do."

"I am very glad Dr. Lowrance is coming back," said Dr. Lehenbauer. "He will be all the better prepared to instruct and advise pre-medical students here because of all this additional experience."

In his letter, Dr. Lowrance stated that he might have to teach a histology course there this summer.

PROF. GIANELLA TELLS STORY OF MOST RECENT VULCANISM HERE

By Adele Marsh

A young volcanic dome on Steamboat hills and easily seen from the campus on a clear day, was recently pointed out by Prof. Vincent P. Gianella, head of the geology department, who explained its history.

Light buff in color and smoothly rounded, it looms above the hills about two miles southeast of Steamboat Springs. A mass of pumiceous rhyolite, it is about 1500 feet in diameter, 150 feet high, and represents the most recent vulcanism known anywhere in this vicinity, he stated.

Ancient Lake

The ash was deposited in the form of sediments in an ancient lake that covered most of Washoe valley several thousand years ago, he continued. Also, similar ash is found in the upper sediment of prehistoric Lake Lahontan which covered a large portion of western Nevada in the past.

From Craters

Walker river, near Yerington, also shows Lake Lahontan sediments containing holtic ash that came from the Mono craters, he explained.

This would indicate that those craters and the Steamboat volcano are of the same age and were in eruption at the time of Lake Lahontan's highest level.

Since Mono craters are proven to be post-glacial in age, he went on, this would indicate that Lahontan, contrary to the belief of most geologists, is also post-glacial in age.

Scatter Lava

It erupted basaltic lava, which is low in silica, he explained, whereas the Steamboat and Mono craters were high in silica. Bombs from Soda Lake crater are scattered over the Carson sink to the southeast.

Steamboat Springs

How Steamboat Springs got their name may not be common knowledge, Mark Twain, on a sojourn in Nevada years ago, was made so homesick for Mississippi steamboats when he saw similar puffs of steam emerging from the springs, that he promptly baptized them "Steamboat" Springs. And so they have been known ever since.

People overseas are impressed by the American fighting man's friendliness among his fellows. They see his home-ways and customs—his good humor.
