Louise Fleming, national student personnel chairman of the YWCA, visited the university Thursday and Friday of this week to meet members of the campus organization and discuss current problems facing the association. During her stay here Miss Fleming held conferences with members of the faculty and university administration and student officers.

Thursday noon Miss Fleming was honored by Mrs. Alice Marsh, acting dean of women, and members of the Y advisory board at a luncheon. Mrs. John D. Bibb, president of the advisory board presided at the luncheon.

"The Scope of the YWCA" was the topic of an address delivered by Miss Fleming at a cabinet meeting held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Rose Nannini, student president of the organization.

INFIRMARY REPORT

Virginia Auchampaugh, junior Kappa Alpha Theta of Reno, has been confined to the university infirmary this week with a cold, according to Mrs. Kathryn Lynch, assistant nurse.

CALENDARS AVAILABLE

Social calendars containing dates of each campus function as set by the calendar committee have been printed and will be available to organizations on Monday, according to Rose Nannini, committee head. One hundred calendars have been printed for use of social groups, campus offices and faculty members. Other members of the calendar committee are John Baker, Ellen Turnquist and Dick O'Connell.

Campus BMOC's To Be Chosen For Who's Who

Twelve upperclass Nevada students are to be chosen for recognition in this year's Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, according to a letter received by Acting Dean of Men Robert S. Griffin from H. P. Randall, editor of the book.

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is an annual publication naming prominent students from campuses all over America. Nominations of the most prominent students are based on scholarship, leadership, character, participation in extra curricular activities and indication of future usefulness to business and society.

Only juniors and seniors are eligible for nomination, and they must have attended Nevada for two years previous to their nomination. According to past accomplishments, the students are recommended by the student senate and voted on by the administrative council.

Pi Phi House Mother To Be Honored At Informal Tea

Mrs. Grace Tyler, Pi Beta Phi house mother, will be honored at an informal tea at the sorority chapter house Friday, November 9, from 3 pm to 5 pm.

Pouring will be Mrs. John O. Moseley, Mrs. Frank A. Tracy, Mrs. Faralie Spell and Miss Kathryn Riegelhuth.

Vivian Davis is chairman of the committee for the tea, and will be assisted by Marilyn Etchegaray, Maxine Jones, Betty Sue Bogges, Barbara Burhans, Theresa Caprio, Joylin Johnson, Mary Lou McPherson and Marilyn Pruett.

Wolf Pack Seeks Fourth Home Triumph Against San Diego Aztecs on Sunday

VFW Sponsored Armistice Football Game Ends College Competition for Nevadans

Seeking to gain their fourth straight home game triumph, Coach Jim Aiken's Wolf Pack will play host to San Diego State College Sunday in Nevada's last contest of the season against college competition. The Pack has yet to taste defeat in Mackay Stadium this season having vanquished the Pocatello Marines, Santa Barbara Marines and Fresno State College. With only three games remaining on the 1945 grid menu, Nevada will be out to hurdle their last main threat to completing the rest of the season undefeated. Other contests still remaining to be contested include games with the Great Bend, Kansas, Army Air Base Sunday, November 18, on the local gridiron and the Wolves will wind up the current campaign the following Sabbath afternoon, November 25, against the Las Vegas Army Air Base in Las Vegas.

Defeating San Diego will require more than just fielding 11 men on the turf as the Pack will discover soon after the kickoff. While inexperienced, the California border city lads, after dropping their first three encounters of the season, suddenly came to life against Fresno State College two weeks ago. They dropped a favored Bulldog eleven by a 7-0 count and followed that up last Saturday with a convincing 26-6 victory over Pomona College, a trend which indicated that the Aztecs are on the upgrade.

In contrast, the Wolves, after pointing for California and Fresno on successive weekends will have a normal tendency to enter the fray minus the pep and enthusiasm which characterized their last two starts. Observers who have witnessed this week's scrimmage drills are of the opinion that the locals are inclined to take their forthcoming contest in too light a vein, an attitude which forebodes evil misgivings if the mental outlook is not remedied before game time.

Prove a Good Match

WOLVES FROLIC CUPS WON BY SAE, TRI-DELTA

Sigma Alpha Epsilon's "Beerman Boogie" and Tri-Delta's "Wolf Pack Wonderland" captured the trophies for the winning skits of the Wolves Frolic last Friday night at the Granada theater.

A "Gay Nineties" bar fully equipped with straw hat singers, bartender's sideburns and a hefty-legged kick chorus that boogied the can-can were featured in Sigma Alpha Epsilon's "Beerman Boogie." The scene was a barroom filled with the melodious strains of "Genevieve, Sweet Genevieve" and the rattling of glasses.

Freshman's Dream

"Wolf Pack Wonderland" was a winter scene including igloos, Marjorie Menu on ice skates, Sylvie Geraghty and her sparkling baton, the fraternity sweethearts, a silver legged chorus and Tosca Masini as a playful penguin and also master of ceremonies. The theme was built around a freshman's dream of an ideal college.

The pajamboree on Friday night preceding the Wolves Frolic went off according to schedule, stated Royden Beardall, rally committee chairman. After assembling downtown, the students were addressed by Lloyd Rude, "Happy" Reed and Gus Cammerano. On the campus the rally started off with the lighting of the bonfire while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Former student body president, Bill Cashill, spoke on behalf of the alumni. Joanne Berg, Homecoming sweetheart, was presented to the students and alumni at this time by Gen Siri, chairman of the Homecoming committee.

The Wolf Pack victory over Fresno Bulldogs was sin keeping with the spirit of Homecoming. During the game the bonfire flared up again to be put out by the Reno fire department.

Homecoming Dance

Climaxing the Homecoming events was the dance held in the State building on Saturday night. The dance committee carried out the "welcome back, grads" theme with Nevada's silver and blue streaming from the ceiling.

Joanne Berg, Homecoming sweetheart, received a silver identification bracelet from the student body presented by Betty Walter, chairman of the dance committee, and a dozen roses from the football team and campus men with Max Dodge making the presentation. Miss Berg in turn awarded the cups for the best sorority and fraternity skits and cups for the sorority and fraternity having the best attendance at the dance. Pi Beta Phi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon received the awards for the largest percentage of members at the Homecoming dance.

Prof's to Speak Over Station KOH

In observing American Education Week from November 11 to 17, two university instructors will speak over station KOH next week.

Dr. Harold N. Brown, professor of education, will speak on "Developing Good Citizenship in a Democracy," Monday, November 12, from 9 to 9:15 pm.

"The Critical Situation in the Teacher Shortage" will be the subject chosen by Dean Fred W. Traner of the school of education. Dean Traner's broadcast is scheduled for Thursday, November 15, from 6:45 to 7 pm.

Other speakers appearing on the programs in observance of the Education Week are Roger Corbett, principal of Reno high school and instructor in summer sessions at the university; W. C. Higgins, director of the Reno recreation commission, and Rev. Arthur Rice of the Federated church.

Monday Declared No Holiday For UN Students

Dr. John O. Moseley, president of the university, this week was advised by Governor Vail Pittman that Monday, November 12, had not been designated as a school holiday.

Gov. Pittman, in setting aside November 12 as a legal state holiday earlier this week, qualified his statement by referring to the state constitution which applies only to state offices and does not include institutions of learning.

President Moseley added that in view of the fact that there have been several interruptions in the fall scholastic schedule, classes would be conducted as usual on Monday.

UN Service Flag Now Bears 63 Gold Stars

University of Nevada's World War II service flag now bears 63 Gold Stars, according to figures compiled by Dr. Robert S. Griffin, assistant in administration and in charge of the University war records.

This is almost four times the number of university men killed in World War I when Nevada's Gold Stars totaled 17.

Subject to Change

In releasing the list, Dr. Griffin stated that the figures may be subject to change if further information is received. Every effort has been made by the administration to keep complete war records for every Nevadan.

Fallon casualties included Ben Morehouse, Garnett L. Freeman, James E. Gibbs, Joseph Barney Macari, Wayne Van Voorhis, Thomas W. Bafford.

Sparks Men

Sparks men killed were William E. Blake, Charles William Casey, Walter Richard Kellison, Frank R. Puccinelli, Don A. Purdy and Edgar Corbiere.

From other Nevada communities were Buford H. Perry, Maurice A. McBride, Elko; Ross Morris Jr., Stephen Michael Zoradi, Tonopah; John Robert Anderson, Winnemucca; Frank M. Andrews, Minden; Lee Conway, Caliente; Elmer L. Davis, Alamo; Woodrow S. Ellertson, Carson City; Anthony C. Fialdini, Alazon; Harvey Eugene Johnson, Beowawe.

Reno Men

Reno men listed include Francis E. Brown, Russell Byington, Fredrick B. Coalwell, Marshall Stevens Creel, Donald C. Good, Ray D. Harris Jr., Joseph L. Haslett, John H. Jorgensen, William J. King, Francis Menante, Franklin I. Peck, Jack A. Quaid, Dean L. Quilici, Richard D. Sawyer, William A. Shaw Jr., George Shogren, James M. Thompson, Eric R. Young, Clinton W. McKinley.

Others included in the Gold Star list were out of state students who had attended the University of Nevada.

PAPER CUPS FOR SOFT DRINKS AT HOME GAMES

Due to the disorderly conduct of spectators at home football games, no more soft drinks will be sold in bottles, according to Paul Parraguire, student body president. Paper cups will be used to serve all drinks from now on.

Beginning with the first football game, bottles were thrown from the stands by spectators and since then the situation has developed into a real hazard. People in the stadium were in danger of being badly hurt.

GIVEN LIFE MEMBERSHIP

Professor F. L. Bixby, head of the department of civil engineering, has just been awarded a life membership in the American Society of Civil Engineering. He will go to Sacramento on December 10 to be officially presented with this honor.

Noel Willis Appointed Head of Men's Upperclass Group; Succeeds Wilton

Noel Willis, Phi Sigma Kappa, was named head of the men's upperclass committee succeeding Hugh Wilton, Sigma Rho Delta, at an ASUN senate meeting held last Wednesday. Wilton resigned as chairman earlier in the week, but will remain a member of the group, it was revealed.

A motion to the effect that the upperclass committee head need not be concerned with policing duties, such as handing out tickets, but rather with directing policy and committee organization was also passed.

Single Day Season Nets Two Pheasants For Four Students

Several university students took advantage of the one day pheasant hunting season which opened last Sunday and closed the same day. Betts Seddon, Kappa Alpha Theta pledge, who did her shooting in Smith Valley, brought down one.

Kay Sterling, also a Kappa Alpha Theta pledge, and Bett's hunting companion, tried and tried and tried again, but did not bring home the bacon as did Betts.

Dave and Paul Parraguire also indulged in the mild sport of pheasant hunting after an exhausting Homecoming weekend. Paul was the lucky one, bringing in one pheasant, while Dave went home empty handed.

Three Directors Of Houses Come To UN This Fall

Three new housemothers have come to the university campus this year, Mrs. H. Starr, Mrs. Lola Stout and Mrs. Mary Grace Taylor. Mrs. Starr is house director for the Tri-Delts, Mrs. Tyler for Pi Beta Phi and Mrs. Stout is in charge of Manzanita hall.

Mrs. Starr, an Englishwoman, formerly resided in London. She has one son in the United States army. Music, reading and traveling comprise Mrs. Starr's hobbies. She is anxiously awaiting Reno's first snowfall, for she has never seen snow except at a distance. Although she has spent the last 20 years in the United States, she intends to journey back to England.

Pi Phi's new housemother, Mrs. Tyler, is a Florida native, though she has traveled extensively. She has previously worked with this sorority. Her hobbies include horseback riding, golf, and most other sports. Mrs. Tyler is a school teacher by profession. She replaced Mrs. Katherine Rawles, Pi Phi house director, during the first three weeks of this semester, who went to Boulder City for her health.

Professionally, Mrs. Stout, the new dormitory housemother, is a home economics teacher and is a resident of Nevada now, though she originally came from Oklahoma. She also supervises the campus dining hall. Raymond Stout, now in Lincoln hall, is her son.

Mrs. Duke, resident of Nevada and for the past eight years Kappa Alpha Theta housemother, audits university classes as a hobby and has traveled through Europe. Her great-grandfather, Governor L. R. Bradley, signed the bill which founded the first state university at Elko, Nevada. Mrs. Duke has one son now in southern Germany.

Mrs. Seamonds, a Reno resident, has been Gamma Phi Beta house director for two years, this making her third. She has travelled extensively throughout North America and her hobby is knitting. She has one daughter who also lives in Reno.

Mrs. Florence Peacocke, Artemisia hall housemother, is spending her second semester on the hill. She was deputy supervisor of schools in northern Nevada for eight years, and this is her home state. She has two married daughters.

Acknowledgement Made to UN Prof.

Acknowledgement is made to Professor Albert G. Weiderhold, assistant professor of philosophy and psychology, by author William Stidger in his best seller, "There Are Sermons in Stories," which is a collection of short human interest stories recently received by the library.

When Professor Weiderhold was attending the University of Boston he wrote short stories for Stidger, who at that time was professor of homiletics at the University of Boston. Professor Stidger, who is considered one of the most outstanding ministers in the east today, supplied short five-minute stories to a radio program and a number of these stories were written by Professor Weiderhold.

IT'S OUR DEBT, TOO

Today the university is again launching a drive for the sale of government bonds—this time they're Victory Bonds that mark the successful conclusion of the war.

This nation, state, city and school have not been niggardly in providing funds for the war. Our people, both students and citizens of this community, surely will not be niggardly in providing funds for the expenses of war's aftermath.

We all know the purpose of this drive. We know that it will take money to bring our fighting men home—just as it took war bonds to put them overseas. There can be no excuse in neglecting our duty to help where help is needed.

We students must realize that we are as important a part in this victory loan drive as the citizens of any community. Our debt to America's fighting men is just as large as that of anyone else.

So if you haven't yet contributed, make it a point to do so at the earliest opportunity.

Professor C. C. Smith Speculates on Question of Lasting World Peace

By Max Dodge

Whether we are to have peace or war is an issue resting squarely in the laps of three nations, the United States, Great Britain and Russia. Any of the three is in a position to sabotage the world system envisaged at Dumbarton Oaks and perfected at San Francisco. These views on world peace were expressed today by Professor Claude Carson Smith, associate professor of history and political science. Professor Smith voiced the same distrust of Russian foreign policy that Or. Charles Hicks, head of the department of history and political science emphasized in the first of this series of articles last week.

"The one great interrogation point written across the field of international relations, is the empire of the Soviets. The long range foreign policies of Russia have the chancelleries of all countries in a quandary," observed Professor Smith. "This uncertainty as to Russian aims and ambitions hung like a wet blanket over the San Francisco conference."

"There are those who say we must cooperate with Russia. They are actually talking about appeasement rather than cooperation. What they are urging, in effect, is that we allow Russia to do as she pleases, a privilege we emphatically denied to Germany, Italy and Japan," Smith declared. "Cooperation is a two-way thoroughfare. It must necessarily arise out of a mutuality of interests, common ideals and common objectives. The democracies must and will cooperate with the Soviets in the realization of the objectives visualized in the Atlantic Charter. An accord cannot be reached on any other basis."

He added that this social and economic council might prove to be the most important agency of the United Nations in the prevention of war. "When issues are allowed to materialize to the point where the peace of the world is endangered resort can only be had on the part of peace-loving states to diplomatic, economic and military pressure. Fortunately, the security council, provided for in the San Francisco charter, will not only have an international police force at its command, but can dispose of it on its own initiative to vindicate the rule of law and common decency in the international relationships," Smith explained.

"Too much confidence, of course, cannot be placed in mere machinery. The League of Nations was an entirely adequate mechanism for the maintenance of world peace, had the members been willing to utilize its resources for the accomplishment of the purposes for which it was created.

"The league did not fail; the member states failed in the proper use of its facilities. The success of the San Francisco conference will be measured exclusively by the degree to which the great powers will live up to their commitments," Professor Smith concluded.

Service Command Sets Pace in Fighting Fires

Fire prevention week is observed at Ninth Service Comman army installations every week of the year.

Indicative of the success of the Ninth Service Command's fire prevention program are fire loss statistics on file at Fort Douglas, Utah, where collective reports for the first eight months of 1945 show that property losses decreased 87.54 per cent.

During the 1945 eight month period property losses totaled only $384,094 as compared to $2,704,237 for the same period of 1944.

The drastic slash in property loss from fire is attributed to the constant efforts of the command's fire prevention and safety branch program to make both civilians and military personnel fire prevention conscious.

A survey of the new gymnasium for the purpose of installing a permanent public address system is now in progress, Dean Stanley G. Palmer, head of the school of electrical engineering, announced. The present system was originally designed for the old gymnasium and is inadequate for the new gymnasium.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
Recently appearing in one of your editorial columns was an invitation to voice student gripes. I'm one of the enthusiastic members of the ASUN who just so happens to be very interested in school spirit, activities in addition to the cultural aspects.

In short, I'm one of the 35 members of the band who run around in blue and white uniforms playing horns at football games, parades and rallies. Besides this I marched down Virginia street in a pair of pajamas—and I marched back with the band while the routers and team rode on cars.

I play at all the games; I march in all the parades; I go to practice twice a week. I enjoy adding this pep and spirit to the student activities and each time your student band appears you wonder how you got along without it for three years. Then you yap at us, the staunch members of the band, who blow and beat their brains out for you because there isn't a bigger band.

In the pre-war years one out of every nine students enrolled at the university was in the band, which then numbered some 70 to 80 pieces. At present the band is supplemented by guest players to fill out the inadequate sections. Nevada could have a good all-student band if the members of the ASUN who can play would come out.

Even if you haven't played since your high school days, it doesn't take long to get back into the swing of it. There are enough students on campus now who can play instruments that aren't in the band to enable a 75-piece band or larger.

Nothing adds more pep to a football game, an assembly or a parade than a good band. Nevada has a good band even though it is small. However, it could be bigger and better. It's up to you—you can still join the band. So what's it to be—put up or shut up!

Band Member.

To UN Students:
I would like to express my thanks to the many people who helped make Homecoming such a success. Especially my committee which included Florine Miller, Jo Miller, Barbara Miller, Betty Walker, Marilou Ferguson, Clayton Trigero, Buck White, Jim Coleman, Mel Rovetti, John Bradley, Rex Ricketts, Royden Beardall and Noel Willis. Also to Frank Apa and John Baker who worked very hard backstage for the Wolves Frolic.

Besides all of these people I would also like to thank Dr. John Moseley, Mrs. Alice B. Marsh, Dean Robert Griffin, Dr. William Miller, Dr. Ernest Inwood and the faculty for all their cooperation.

But without the backing and help of the entire student body this celebration would not have been possible, so I would like to thank each and every member for supporting all of the Homecoming activities.

It was indeed a pleasure to have been chairman of this 26th annual Homecoming and next year I will look forward to returning to the campus for Homecoming as an alumni.

Nevada Eleven Ends 13-Year-Old Jinx With 7-4 Win Over Fresno Saturday

Pack Takes Lead in Fourth Quarter With Catch in End Zone by Kitchner

It's been junked, meaning of course, the jinx. Writing fins to a successful Homecoming celebration Coach Jim Aiken and the Nevada Wolves finally defeated Fresno State College last Saturday afternoon in Mackay Stadium by the count of 7-4. Thirteen years have passed since Nevada last downed the visiting Bulldogs and the victory was both sweet and gratifying. For Coach Aiken it was his first win over the Raisin City team and one he will long remember. The victory also kept the home game record for 1945 intact. The Pack have yet to play a losing game before a home crowd this year.

No Easy Victory

The Pack didn't gain their victory in any easy manner. They had to come from behind late in the fourth quarter thanks to a circus catch in the end zone by lanky Stan "Make Mine Vanilla" Kitchner. Up until the time they tallied the touchdown, the locals were definitely taking the worst of everything.

For two quarters the Nevadans played with the indifference which seemed to indicate that about the only thing they intended to junk was the game. Listless and ragged in their blocking and tackling the Wolves didn't in the slightest way resemble the team that had fought the California Bears to a virtual standstill seven days before.

Trailing at Half

Trailing 4-0 as the result of a pair of safeties when they trudged off the field at half time, the Pack suddenly came to life midway in the third period. That fact can be attributed to just one man — Jim Taylor.

"Dandy Jim" hasn't seen much action in the last few games and when he finally did get into the fray he went completely wild. For Jim it was his greatest demonstration, both defensively and offensively, this year. Fourteen times he carried the ball for a five yard average every time he gathered his arms around the pigskin.

Statistically speaking, he was BMOG (big man on the gridiron), and he played the part well. His longest romp went for 24 yards and Fresno had a harder time corraling him than a wild mustang.

Rude Out Front

If Taylor was brilliant, Lloyd (the human horse) Rude was great. Much of the credit for Taylor's gallops can be shared by Rude who was always out in front leading the way with his back breaking blocks. Rude is easily the greatest defensive man on the club.

Not to be overlooked in the after game cheering was the defensive exhibition of Turk Eliades, discharged war vet. Turk, before he retired from the game late in the fourth quarter due to an injury, had the Fresno lads wishing that he was still in a German prison camp. Eliades was individually instrumental in breaking up more than one Bulldog offensive end run thrust.

Winning Pass

Kitchner, who snagged the game winning pass thrown by Happy Reed, returned to the lineup after several weeks of absence due to an injury. The Philadelphia Quaker displayed a little of his early season abilities and his catch was one of the finest here this year.

On the line, Stolfi, Dysle, Simms and Robinson were particularly outstanding.

Grid Guessing Contest Won for Second Time By Dick Gorman; Oxborrow Places Second

Continuing where he left off last week, Dick Gorman captured the Sagebrush grid guessing contest for the second time. In second place was Elmer Oxborrow who finished in third place last week.

Gorman in winning the contest for the week of November 3 tabbed every game correctly to compile the amazingly low score of 64 points, or 44 points less than Oxborrow. Two of the games ended in ties, Notre Dame and Navy and the California-Washington State encounter.

Gorman will again be the guest of Club Fortune and Oxborrow will receive two theater tickets.

With only a couple of weeks remaining of the 1945 national grid schedule the Sagebrush contest enters the final weeks of its existence.

Top games to be tabbed for the November 17 weekend include the Michigan-Purdue fracas, Columbia versus Pennsylvania and Ohio State and Illinois. On the coast, in addition to the Nevada and Great Bend, Kansas, Army Air Base game, Oregon will engage California and Washington State will square off against Oregon State.

All that is necessary to enter the contest is to clip the above coupon, predict the winner and probable difference of the final score. A container has been provided in the book department of the Wolf Den for all entries.

Nevada Linemen Honored by Sports Writer

Buster McClure and Max Dodge, University of Nevada linemen, were honored nationally this week by being named to the first football All-American team of the year.

Selected by Oscar Fraley, New York sports writer, Dodge and McClure were placed on the second team at end and tackle, respectively. Fraley's syndicated column is distributed nationally.

Placed on the first eleven ahead of McClure were Tom Hughes of Purdue and DeWitt Coulter of Army. McClure was honored last year also by numerous sports scribes of the country.

Navy's Dick Duden and Army's Henry Foldberg edged Dodge for the mythical first string berth at the wing positions.

Highlight of Fraley's picks was his naming of five Army gridsters to the first team. Alabama followed with two men on the first eleven.

In addition to Nevada, Navy with one player on the first string and another on the second team, and Indiana with two players on the second squad were the only schools having more than one player tabbed on the first two teams.

St. Mary's Herman Wedemeyer and Utah's Gay Adelt were the only men, accorded honors by Fraley, whom the Wolves have faced this year. Wedemeyer gained first team laurels while Adelt received honorable mention notices.

GAMES FREE TO KIDS

All youngsters under high school age who previously paid 25 cents to get into football games at the University of Nevada will soon be admitted free of charge. Professor Ernest L. Inwood is making plans with Scout executives to police the youngsters.

Attend all Nevada games.

SAE, ATO Tangle For First Frat Basketball Tilt

Interfraternity basketball season swings into action on Monday afternoon, November 19, when the first of a 56-game schedule will be contested at 4 o'clock in the new gymnasium. Students are invited to attend all games.

To the ATO and SAE fraternities will go the honor of raising the curtain on the current season. At five o'clock, Sigma Nu and Sigma Rho will take the floor in the afternoon's only other encounter.

Other games for the Thanksgiving week will pit Theta Chi against Phi Sigma Kappa and Lambda Chi and the Independents on November 20.

With eight teams in the league, a round robin schedule will be used in determining the championship.

Schedule for the season will appear in the next issue of the Brush.

FINAL WEEK OF MINOR LEAGUE ACTIVITIES

With two sports already completed and points totals compiled, interfrat competition entered the final week of minor league activities with only a few games to be contested.

Only the Theta Chi-Lambda Chi and Phi Sigma Kappa-Lambda Chi matches remained to be played to complete the tennis singles schedule while the Theta Chi-Phi Sigma Kappa and Independent-Phi Sigma Kappa matches were all that remained to finish up the horseshoe doubles playoffs. The tennis doubles has reached the halfway mark and will wind up some time this week.

In point totals, Theta Chi holds a commanding lead toward the Kinneer trophy, annual award to the organization chalking up the most points throughout the year.

DIESEL ENGINE RECEIVED BY ME DEPARTMENT

A new Waukesha single cylinder diesel engine used mainly for fuel testing has just been received by the mechanical engineering department, according to Dean Stanley G. Palmer, head of the school of electrical engineering.

This engine, though a lab model, is complete in every way, has variable compression and is equipped with an electric dynamometer which loads the engine for testing.

Record of Artist Reviewed by Brush Reporter

By Billy Heath

Richard Guy Walton, local artist whose "atomic art" pictures have been displayed in the Fine Arts exhibit in the art rooms of the engineering building this week, was raised around Reno and did his first drawings here.

He later enrolled in the California School of Fine Arts. After that he worked with James Swinnerton in Las Vegas and was presented with $50 for outstanding work. Then, following the advice of Swinnerton, who "discovered" his talent, Walton went to the Chouinard Art Institute for two years where he won a scholarship and worked with such noted artists as Pruet Carter, Lawrence Murphy, Millard Sheets, Phil Paradise, Herb Jepson, Phil Dike, Don Graham, Carl Beetz and later with Frederick Taubes.

Art Exhibited

During the next months Walton's paintings were exhibited in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Carmel and the University of Chicago.

The artist meantime became active in the Federal Art Project, and during those years of experimentation he made 132 water colors, 170 oils and 248 drawings, a total of 550 works.

Prior to the war, Walton rallied Nevada artists and managed downtown exhibitions in Reno during American Art Week.

Paints Panels

Meanwhile, during the years 1939 to 1940, he completed four Tom Sawyer paintings for the children's room in the Washoe county library. Later the panels were moved to the State Museum in Carson City where, due to the foresight of Judge Clark T. Guild, they were stored.

In '41 another of Walton's paintings, his 12x5 mural "Snake River Ferry," was hung in the Buhl, Idaho, post office.

An exhibition in the San Francisco Museum in 1942 received very favorable comments by the well known critic, Alfred Frandenstein. Walton's work was later shown at the Crocker art gallery in Sacramento.

During the war Walton worked for the State Department of Health and promoted the pre-marital examinations for Nevada under the supervision of Dr. B. H. Caples, director of venereal disease control.

Students to Converse In German at Noon

Anyone wishing to practice conversing in German may do so any week day during the noon hour in room 200 in Stewart Hall, according to Dr. Christian W. F. Melz, assistant professor of foreign languages.

At this time German students will bring their own lunch and will do all of their talking in German to gain experience in speaking the language.

Jumping to a conclusion may also be defined as jumping from a plane when the parachute doesn't open.

Prof. to Return To UN Next Fall

Dr. Warren Wagner, associate professor of civil engineering, expects to return to the university for the 1946 fall term, Dean Stanley G. Palmer, head of the school of electrical engineering, announced. Dr. Wagner was given a leave of absence in 1941 and since that time has been employed by the navy on special assignments.

Dr. Wagner's major field is hydraulics and he will supervise the installing of the new hydraulic equipment on campus next year, according to Dean Palmer.

Canadian Student Holds Several Skating Awards

Because ice skating is one of the popular outdoor sports of Canada, Phyl Green, sophomore from Manitoba, claims it as her hobby.

Phyl has been skating since she was six years old, and has won a dancing shield, and bronze metal for ice dancing. She is particularly interested in figure skating.

Phyl has not only skated for her own enjoyment, but has taught others, especially those under school age, to enjoy the sport. Her youngest student was a little girl 22 months old, and her oldest five years old.

Besides teaching she has helped with practice routines for ice shows, which incidentally, she has participated in herself, and has judged skating competitions.

Art as a Hobby

Helen Brania, junior class member at the university, claims painting as her hobby, especially in water colors. She has done both landscape and still life work, and has about 25 pictures.

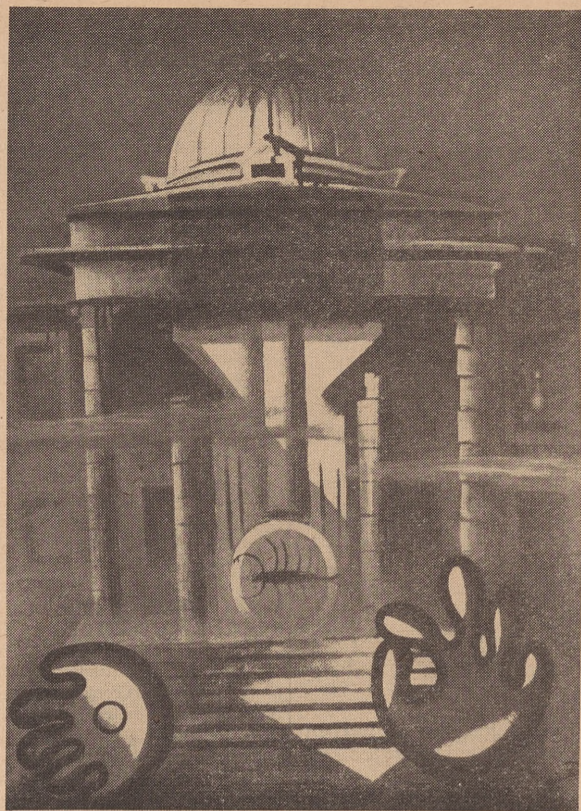

Helen started this hobby at school last year because she has always been interested in it, and hopes, as all artists do, to sell one of her works some day.

Morrill Hall, Lincoln Hall and the Mackay School of Mines have been the subjects of some of Helen's works.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT GETS NEW PROFESSOR

Andrew Morby, graduate of the university an returned veteran of World War II, was employed by the board of regents last Saturday as part time instructor in the language department.

WALTON'S 'ONE SOUND STATE'

Richard Guy Walton's most striking painting, in the opinion of many students, is "One Sound State."

Traner-Hattala Wed At Federated Church

Alice Martha Traner, daughter of Dean Fred W. Traner, dean of the school of education, and Lt. John Hattala, were married Thursday evening at the Federated church, according to Dean Traner.

Both are former students and were active in campus affairs. Mrs. Hattala, a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, graduated in January, 1943.

Lt. Hattala was a football letterman and star halfback. He left the university to join the army.

Miss Patricia Traner, sister of the bride and senior student of the university, was bridesmaid. Alfred Sorensen, graduate of 1944, acted as best man.

A reception at the Pi Phi house followed the wedding.

LT. TO LEAD DISCUSSION AT WESLEY FOUNDATION

Lt. Allen Saunders of the Reno Army Air Base will lead the discussion on "A Soldier Looks at God" at a meeting of the Wesley Foundation on November 11.

The Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church will meet at 6:30 pm on Sunday and following the meeting will be a short recreation period led by Betty Tracy. Refreshments will be served.

Wolf Pack Seeks

and company. Against Fresno, the Aztecs outcharged, outfought and outkicked the Bulldogs, a feat not to be overlooked when viewed in comparison with the Homecoming Day Fresno game.

Last week, without McClure, the Pack did not show to advantage when compared with earlier season performances. McClure's presence in the Armistice Day lineup will undoubtedly heighten the morale and strengthen the line.

While the visitors possess no standout backfield star they have been receiving some first rate coaching attention, recently, from Ambrose Schindler, former Aztec and University of Southern California grid great. Schindler, a national sensation several years back is presently in the navy and his presence on the San Diego strategy staff is purely of the unofficial status.

Right now, the Pack backfield is the big question mark on Coach Jim's mind. In no two games this year has the starting quartet of backs been the same, due in part, of course, to injuries. Last Saturday, after exhibiting less punch than at a Halloween party, for fully three-fourths of the game, the Nevadans suddenly unleashed a smooth running attack in the final period to put on several sustained drives which proved to be instrumental in pushing over the game's lone touchdown.

With Rude in top condition again, Aiken's fullback worries are over. Starting at the halfback positions on Sunday will be Maury Hagleen and Jim Taylor. Both speedsters have been out with injuries recently but there is no reason to believe that either will be hampered by physical ailments against San Diego. Taylor proved to be the spark that ignited the flame against Fresno while Hagleen has been outstanding in practice the last few days.

At quarterback, Bob "Bull" Durham gets his first starting chance of the year.
