Sororities Choose Candidates for Mackay Day Queen; Photographs of Six Coeds Go to Earl Carroll for Selection

Six contestants for the title of Mackay Day queen were chosen Monday night and their names submitted to Bill Friel, chairman of the Mackay Day committee. The girls are Gloria Springer, Kappa Alpha Theta; Myra Rowley, Gamma Phi Beta; Alma Hochstrasser, Independent; Mary Watts Moore, Delta Delta Delta; Jacquie Prescott, Pi Beta Phi; and Maie Nygren, Zeta Phi Zeta, and Alma Hochstrasser, Independent.

Photographs of the six contestants, along with their vital statistics, will be sent to Earl Carroll, internationally known authority on beauty, and he will select the girl to be crowned queen. Last year, his choice was Beulah Haddow, Pi Phi from Carlin, Nevada.

The candidates aspiring for the title of Mackay Day queen were nominated by the various sororities and feminine social organizations on the campus, and the one selected will reign over the festivities that annually honor the chief benefactors of the university, the Mackay family of "Big Bonanza" fame.

Theta Candidate
Gloria Springer from Hawthorne, Nevada, is majoring in English and education and is a member of WAA, Sagens, Saddle and Spurs, publication board, YWCA, Fine Arts Club, courtesy clinic, and is prexy for Orchesis.

Mary Moore from Reno is a mathematics major, president of WAA, secretary of ASUN, business manager of the Artemisia, and is a member of the student service board, Cap and Scroll, Phi Kappa Phi, Saddle and Spurs, Gothic N.

Students Help Needed In Circulation of Mackay Day Brush

Richard Armstrong, circulation manager of the University of Nevada Sagebrush, issued a call this week to any and all interested students to aid in putting out the Mackay Day edition of the Brush.

Armstrong stated that this is an opportunity for students wanting a campus activity to obtain full credit for their efforts. One hour a week is required to fill this requirement.

Reorganization of the circulation department is taking place in order to facilitate delivery of the paper on Friday. Those interested in helping should contact Richard Armstrong at the Silver State Press, 421 North Virginia, at 3 pm on Fridays.

Coleman's Turtle Entered in Trudge

Evie Payne Nominee For Queen of Fete

Little did Mathy, short of Me-thuselah, know when he wandered into Jim Coleman's backyard a year ago that he was heading for fame, and possibly fortune, in the annual "Turtle Trudge." He will be sent to compete in this national event at Detroit, April 25, in the contest sponsored by Delta Pi Kappa, Detroit University journalism fraternity.

Mathy is a turtle, or to be exact, a Gopherus agassizii, or desert tortoise. According to his owner, Jim Coleman, he is about 50 years old, and gentle except when overly upset. Mathy just woke up from his winter slumber three days ago, and since then he has been very active around the backyard in preparation for his forthcoming race.

Evelyn Payne was selected by the University of Nevada Press Club to represent Nevada at the nationwide coed photo beauty contest sponsored by Delta Pi Kappa, in conjunction with the "Trudge."

Evie is competing with coeds from all parts of the country to rule as queen of the "Turtle Trudge." If her photo wins, she will be sent to Detroit by the journalism fraternity.

Refrigerator Added To Student Center

A large restaurant type electric refrigerator is the latest piece of equipment added to the student center this week.

With the installation of this necessary item, the YWCA snack bar is one step closer to opening date. Further action towards the completion of the snack center was taken this week when blueprints for the bar were drawn up.

Last week leather covered furniture arrived and was placed in the main room of the student center.

Program Director Seeks Student For Announcer Job

Any male student having a good speaking voice and who reads well is urged to try out for permanent announcer of the university radio program, according to Jim Coleman, program director.

The tryouts must first contact Tosca Masini, talent director, for the weekly student broadcast held each Friday at 8:30 pm over radio station KQH.

Last week's student show featured Bob O'Shaughnessy, Nevada's All-American cage star, as the celebrity of the week. He was interviewed by Bobby Durham.

"I'm in the Mood for Love," was the song choice of the week by Gamma Phi Beta, harmonized by Carol Keith, Esther Golich and Roma Garner, followed by an editorial read by Helen Brania, subject: the university alumni secretary.

"Feature of the week" was campus beards, narrated by Don Ealy, while front page coverage went to Bill Friel. Warren Hursh reviewed the sports, and the entire program was announced by Jim Coleman.

The choice of song goes this week to Lambda Chi Alpha.

Tea Held in Honor Of Mildred Huber

Miss Joanna Chapman, assistant professor of education, held an informal tea last Friday afternoon for Miss Mildred Huber, newly elected state vocational education director in the Nevada State Education department.

Miss Huber graduated from the University of Nevada in 1934 with a major in home economics. She began her career as a teacher of home economics in the Sparks high school.

Univ. Band to March

Making its first appearance of this semester, the University of Nevada's band will march in the Army Day parade tomorrow morning at 10:30.

Directed by Felto Hickman, the band will march through Reno led by drum major Jim Thompson and majorettes Sylvie Geraghty, Teddy Hicks and Pat Ireland.

Nevada WAA Tops California Clubs By Good Margin

Instructor, 3 Coeds Return From Athletic Foundation Conference at Berkeley

"Nevada's WAA has a bigger variety of activities and a larger percentage of membership than any California university," Miss Ruth Russell, assistant instructor in physical education, announced.

Miss Russell and three WAA members, Marianne Wells, Mary Watts Moore and Billie Kennedy, returned last Sunday from a conference of the Nevada-California State Athletic Federation of College Women at Berkeley, California.

Miss Russell went on to say that California universities limit their members to advanced students capable of tournament participation and have only two activities going at once and a total of six the entire year. Nevada students have their choice of nine sports at all times and the advantage of being able to become WAA members while still beginners.

Discussion Group

Mrs. Moore, president, was the Nevada summarizer in the co-recreational discussion group on the question of more activities with mixed groups. These sports include folk dances, archery, riflery, swimming and bowling.

Other topics discussed by the convention were telegraphic archery, bowling rifle meets, and intramural competition for sport days.

Name Changes

On other campuses the name Women's Athletic Association has been changed to Women's Recreational Association. Nevada's WAA will vote on this subject soon, Miss Russell stated.

On Sunday following the convention, Mrs. Moore, Miss Kennedy, Miss Wells and Miss Russell were entertained aboard the battleship Massachusetts with an inspection of the ship and dinner in the officers' wardroom.

Discovery of Error In Campus Calendar Shifts Various Dates

Easter vacation will commence Saturday, April 13, at noon and will end with the 8 o'clock classes Tuesday, April 23, a notice from the president's office stated, after a mistake in the campus calendar was discovered.

It was also announced that the university library will be open daily from nine to 12 with the exception of Good Friday and Sunday during vacation. Reference books will be available to take out.

Miss Alice Terry, the president's secretary, stated that several graduation functions were left off the calendar. Commencement will take place Monday, June 10, and baccalaureate will be held Sunday, June 9.

UN Directories To Be Available

Student directories containing the names, addresses and telephone numbers of University of Nevada students and faculty, and the heads of campus organizations, will be on sale next week, according to Gloria Rosaschi, publication chairman.

Members of Sagens will sell the booklets at 15 cents each. Jo Miller, junior, is in charge of sales.

There will be a meeting of Sagens next week when new officers will be nominated. Definite date of the meeting will be announced later.

DESKS FOR HALL MEN UNDERGOING REPAIRS

Desks for the use of veterans residing in the two Highland Terrace dormitories are undergoing repairs, according to Carl Horn who is in charge of the work.

The desks, which were received from the Reno Army Air Base, are being painted and generally overhauled, so as to be ready for use as soon as possible.

Interfrat Track Meet Revived In Mackay Stadium Saturday

Taus, Lambda Chi Named Favorites; Six Greeks Vie for Kinnear Points

By Max Dodge

Another sport that was wiped in moth balls during the war will be wiped from the inactive list Saturday when the University of Nevada stages its first big post war intermural track meet.

Looming on the horizon as the teams showing most promise are Lambda Chi Alpha and Alpha Tau Omega. Looking strong in the last week and a definite threat is Phi Sigma Kappa with a husky aggregation of football stars. Sigma Nu also might well upset someone's wagon and will bear watching. It's anybody's meet and should give track coach

TWO PLAYS SET FOR EARLY MAY BY DRAMA CLASS

H. Brania, M. Wogan Act As Show Director; All Students Eligible

For the first time since the 1943 production of "High Tor" and "The Wind and the Rain," the play production class will resume active work by producing, directing and casting two plays in the early part of May.

The two plays to be produced are "Half an Hour," by James Barrie, to be directed by Maurya Wogan, and "Show Off," by George Kelly, directed by Helen Brania.

Casting will be on a try out basis and all campus students are eligible for these productions. Scripts of the two plays can be obtained in the library on the reserve shelf until Easter vacation, and it is advisable for students to have some knowledge of the plays before trying out.

Schedule of rehearsals have been set for the following hours and will be held in the education auditorium. Monday, 4 to 5 pm; Tuesday, 2 to 4 pm; Wednesday, 4 to 5 pm, and Thursday, 2 to 5 pm.

More plays will be produced by the class throughout the year, and notices of activities will be posted on the bulletin board.

Coeds Take Peek At Chin Foliage On College Males

Beards, beards and more beards they still keep coming. It looks like a bumper crop this year. In keeping with the Mackay Day traditions the campus men are going all out to foster these items of masculine pulchritude.

While the men in general have all taken readily to the idea of raising these beards we thought it might be a good idea to ask a few members of the fair sex their opinions of the campus men's whiskers. Here are some of the answers we received to the question, "What are your opinions of the 1946 beard crop?"

Mary Ann Wells says, "I think that they are rather disfiguring and wouldn't care to put up with them for a very long period of time. They are a change, though." "Right now they look like their faces need washing, but they might look better later," is the opinion of Billy Heath. Pela Oyarbide thinks that "the beards are cute, but I can do without the mustaches."

Marilyn Reynolds said that she thinks that the beards are "swell as a tradition, but the whisker rash really irritates." "In general whiskers are quite inconvenient among other things, but I especially like the type worn by Johnny Beyer," is the opinion of Betty Waugh.

Billie Kennedy seems to think that the beards are a "riot" and that most of the men now look the "wolfman himself." Looking at the situation in a different light is Carol Riley who says, "I like 'em. They really make the fellows look distinguished." Leslie Harvey says that the beards are "all right for Mackay Day, but not for any other time."

Suzie Evans says beards are "awful cute," while Helen Foster has the following to say: "I don't like 'em period. Amen."

Jake Lawlor an idea of what to expect when spring football subsides enough to permit a good turnout.

Lambda Chi Alpha has several prospective winners and varsity prospects. Dick Gorman, state champion in the high jump, has an excellent opportunity to crack the existing record come Saturday afternoon. Dick Rowley, another state champion, will be rated to come in ahead of the field in the hurdles. Other Lambda Chis who will be hard to beat are Eliades in the sprints and Foley in the hurdles.

Taus Strong

ATO has few men who could be picked as winners but rank strong in most events and should rack up quite a few seconds and thirds. They will rate strongest in the weights and dashes.

Phi Sigma Kappa will be a power in the weights and middle distances. Sigma Nu is the "dark horse" and have potentialities in all events. Theta Chi has entered three men in all events and if they don't tire they might make a good showing. These strong men are Johnson, Raker and Schwartz. Little is known of SAE but Harry Paille will probably give a good account of himself.

Several men are entered this year who placed in previous meets. Orsie Graves placed third in both the high and low hurdles in 1942 for Sigma Nu. In '41 Harry Paille took second in the shotput, tied for second in the high jump, placed third in the broad jump and fourth in the javelin. Fausto Mentaberry, now competing for Sigma Nu, placed second in the pole vault and tied for fourth in the high jump for LCA.

Previous Records

Most of the intramural records were set some years ago dating all the way back to 1927 in the two mile. The chances of any record with the possible exception of the high jump being broken are very slight.

First Meet

Intramural track was started at the university in 1921 and it might be interesting to take a gander at the results of the first meet and contrast them with today. Phi Sigma Kappa won the meet with a total of 33 points followed by ATO with 27. Sigma Nu garnered 19 and SAE and the Independents had 13 each. This was in the days of Rabbit Bradshaw and he proved his versatility by winning the 100 yard dash in 10:4 and the broad jump with 20 feet nine inches. Other winners with times and distances were:

220 yard dash, 25:1, Peart.
440 yard dash, 53:1, Lohse.
880 yard run, 2:15:4, Lohse.
One mile run, 5:15:4, Koehler.
Two mile run, 12:8:2, Schultz.
120 high hurdles, 17:3, Cotter.
220 low hurdles, 29:4, Church.
Shotput, 36 feet 5 inches, Carlson.

Discus throw, 112 feet 9 inches, Carlson.

Javelin throw, 140 feet 1 inch, Hobbs.

Pole vault, 11 feet 1/2 inch, Hug.

High jump, 5 feet 4 inches, Martin.

Since this first competition there have been a total of 22 meets held. Records for three of these years are unavailable, '22, '24 and '31. For the 19 years that statistics are available ATO has won the title 12 times, Sigma Nu four and Lambda Chi, Phi Sigs and Sigma Phi Sigma (now inactive) each had the pennant once.

Last Meet

The meet was last held in 1942 when it was dropped along with most other intramural activities.

Editor's Note: The following does not necessarily represent the views of the Sagebrush but as a contribution from Bill Friel, chairman of the Mackay Day committee, we consider it a timely piece of work.

BEARDS AND TRADITIONS

This is in the nature of an appeal to those male students who have not seen fit to grow beards for Mackay Day.

It is not the responsibility of this writer, as Mackay Day chairman, to see that men do grow beards; rather this has traditionally been the responsibility of the men's upperclass committee and still is. But this writer is responsible, along with his committee, for the success of the Mackay Day celebration, and since the growing of beards contributes to this end, this appeal is made to those who are not growing beards.

It has been pointed out that most of those who have seen fit to ignore the dictum are veterans. This is probably true, and for some such men, tired of long years of being told what to do, their attitude may be understandable.

But they should realize that most of the men who are growing beards are veterans, too—most of the men in school are veterans, and these few holdouts are hardly special cases.

And it should be realized that those who are growing beards are doing so, not because they are any more terrified of the men's upperclass committee than the others, but simply to enter into the spirit of the occasion, simply because it is an old and cherished tradition at their school, at which they are primarily, now, students—and veterans only secondarily.

Probably most of those who are not growing beards are men who did not attend this university before the war, because the others know what Mackay Day is—know that it is the big event of the spring semester and one of the important celebrations of the year, and perhaps more to the point, simply a lot of fun if everyone enters into the spirit of the occasion.

Some men may wonder what the growing of beards contributes to the celebration of Mackay Day. In answer it may be said that the fete is traditionally one of a western theme in keeping with the background of John W. Mackay, who the affair principally honors, along with other members of the family, who made large benefactions in honor of John W.

And growing of a beard makes every man a walking advertisement for the affair, both in Reno and throughout the state, and when everyone grows a beard it is an expression of unity among the students which creates a favorable impression with the citizens of the state.

Some students new to the campus—and, sadly, some who have been here some time—may even wonder at the reason for the celebration (which was indicated briefly above).

John W. Mackay, whose statue by the famous sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, stands at the north end of the quadrangle, was one of the Big Four who took millions from the Big Bonanza of the Comstock Lode in Virginia City. In his honor, his wife and his son, Clarence H. Mackay, gave more than $2,000,000 to the University of Nevada in buildings, books, art and grounds.

Some 33 years ago a celebration in Mackay's honor was instituted here, and while modified over the years, many of the original features of the celebration are still with us, and one of these traditional features is beard growing by all male students.

All of which should be sufficient explanation. Some men still may say, all right, so beard growing for Mackay Day is a tradition. So what? Why should we observe traditions?

This writer can probably best reply by quoting from something he wrote in these columns more than three years ago on the subject of growing beards and traditions—even though there were few violators at the time.

"However much trouble they (beards) are in terms of personal discomfort or bother, most of those who have been around here very long don't mind them at all, really.

"For they realize that the important thing about these traditions is not the trouble they cause the individual, but the things in common they give the many individuals.

"A simple thing like growing a beard is a kick really, when everybody does it.

"And bucking a tradition isn't an expression of individuality so much as it is an evidence of a lack of an appreciation of the human values involved in the observance of such things.

"Traditions can bind a group together, and even give it a connection with groups long gone from the Hill and still to come. Their sum total is important in setting the character of the school, and in making it a cohesive group instead of a bunch of scattered individuals who happen to go to school in the same place.

"At Nevada, these traditions are part of what helps you to become a true Nevadan.

"And everyone who has ever felt suddenly, in any of the various ways the feeling comes to different people, that he was rather surprisingly a Nevadan instead of just lonely John Jones, wouldn't pass up the feeling for the world.

"And those who go to school here without ever having it come to them—well, they miss something fine, that's all."

Which should be enough on the subject. So let's grow those beards, huh? It's a small thing—but it helps.

Billings Back From Conclave

Dr. W. D. Billings, associate professor of biology, returned this week from St. Louis where he attended a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. While there, he met a number of Nevada people, including a former student.

His research paper, based on the relationship of climate, soil and vegetation of arid regions, was read by Dr. Billings at a joint meeting of the Ecological Society of America and the Botanical Society of America.

Robert Hecker, a former botany student at the University of Nevada, who is now studying that subject at the University of Illinois, attended the convention and met Dr. Billings.

Frank B. Headley of the farm management department of the Nevada agricultural experimental station also attended the meeting and returned to the campus this week.

Dr. Billings also saw Dr. E. W. Lowrance, associate professor of biology, now on leave from the campus.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Missy:
Three groups constitute the University of Nevada. They are: The Associated Studentbody, the Alumni Association and the administration. These groups are singularly independent and mutually independent. Each group formulates its own policy and administers it. Likewise, each has its own treasury. This division within the university is very important, in fact, it is the backbone of the university, and any attack on it is serious. These three groups check each other. When the Associated Studentbody makes a mistake they are immediately told about it by the other two groups.

This is also true when the administration or alumni makes a mistake. We feel, here in Nevada, that if one person or one group were to control the whole university that there would then be no one to check that person or group if it were to make a mistake.

During the war years the Associated Studentbody dropped not only in quantity but in quality. Few of the valuable traditions that had come to make Nevada a fine university were enforced. The studentbody government declined until it became a joke on the campus. Women took over the Sagebrush; good sanitary conditions and discipline disappeared in Lincoln Hall; most students cut campus; few students went to football or basketball games; eligibility rules for both athletics and politics were broken constantly. Most things were done backwards and no serious attempts were made to improve or correct the conditions. No effort was made by anyone to bring these faults to the students' attention.

At a joint meeting Wednesday of the finance control board and the athletic control board, attended by members of the Alumni Association and members of the administration, the board of finance control made what I hope will be its last backward movement. Ordinarily the alumni comes to the aid of the students. This time three members of the student body and two members of the faculty, acting on the suggestion of a university professor, and without most students knowing about it, reversed the normal procedure, and voted to underwrite a possible alumni deficit up to $1800 through its Associated Studentbody treasury, whose funds should only be allocated for studentbody functions.

Each group has its own policy. If the alumni wishes to administer the student body policy, then we have some reason for financing that part of their policy. My fraternity consists mostly of engineering students who often wonder why the great emphasis is on athletics when they have to attend classes in an engineering building that is not fully equipped; when there are not enough profs to handle all the work in the university, and when their profs are all under paid. The Alumni Association is determined to sell the university to the citizens of Nevada. That is good if they sell it on its academic merits, and not only on the strength of its athletics.

There are two groups within the Associated Studentbody. One group wants to think for itself and will not decide anything until all the facts are known. The other group allows their profs to think for them. The senator from Lambda Chi told me that he won't decide what to do about this loan until he has all the facts. Many others have told me the same thing. This brings me to the point of my whole letter, and also restates the point I made at the joint meeting held Wednesday. When are the students going to find out what is going on in the university? In short, what is wrong with the Sagebrush?
FRANCIS ESCOBAR.

You posed a good question when you asked why the Brush doesn't run stories on campus politics. Truthfully, my friend, there has been damn little of printing caliber this school year—just an occasional small trifling gripe from one or the other of our local radicals.

Secondly, we feel sure that if anything important comes up the student senate will be far-sighted enough to act before the Brush has to launch a clean-up campaign.

Trailers Arrive At Site for Use by Veterans

Only 13 Applications Received for Trailers, 36 To Be Available

With part of the trailers already on the West Second and Chism street site and the remainder expected to arrive early next week, Acting Dean of Men Robert S. Griffin this week announced that only 13 applications for the trailers have been filed to date. The trailer court, when completely finished on April 15, will contain 36 portable homes and Dr. Griffin advised all interested parties to contact the dean of men's office for application forms.

A check of the trailers already on the lot revealed that each contains two folding beds, a three-burner kerosene stove, sink, ice box, oil heater, chairs, tables and kitchen utensils. The trailers measure 22 feet in length.

In addition to the 36 trailers which will be used for housing quarters, Dr. Griffin stated that two will be utilized for laundry and lavatory accommodations. He added that a bus system to and from the court and the university will be installed at the earliest possible date.

Belly Laughs in Order At Senior Assembly, Say George and Don

"The Senior Follies" will be presented as the senior assembly next Friday during the assembly period, according to George Ross and Don Segerstrom, co-chairmen of the committee.

Theme of the entertainment is being kept a close secret by the committee, but may be disclosed during the week when a poster advertising campaign will be launched. oRss and Segerstrom were even more close-mouthed about the affair than other members of the senior class in the know, but each made a short comment for posterity about the show.

"A hell-roarin' event," said Ross, modestly.

"Lotta belly laughs," said Segerstrom, belly laughing.

"What's it going to be about?" said a less confident member of the committee, before being dragged off the scene by the co-chairmen.

The campus would have to wait and see.

Return of the Native Plant to Hill Made

For the first time in many years, sagebrush is growing on the Nevada campus. The bontay 22 class grew the native Nevada plant from seed and planted it on the ditch bank on the east side of the greenhouse, Dr. W. D. Billings, associate professor of biology, said.

"I'm fed up on that," said the baby, pointing to the high chair.

More money is spent by campus coeds at Magnin's than any other store in town, according to a recent poll of a substantial percentage of female students. Coeds seem to prefer it for specific things such as blouses, shoes, campus wear and dress clothes.

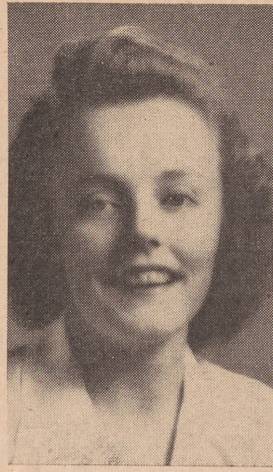

The Wonder and Town and Country rank second in the choice of campus women. The Wonder is especially popular for sweaters and other campus garb. Town and Country is generally popular because of the choice of items obtainable.

Taits is by far the most popular shoe store in town, according to this poll. As the warmer months draw closer you will see more of their line of Joyce shoes on the campus, along with dress shoes making an appearance at many campus social functions.

With the yearly enthusiasm for skiing the Sportsman is crowded with student skiers. Before snow bunnies, and experts take to the tall snow-capped hills, they buy ski clothes and equipment there to make their annual weekend trek as successful as possible.

The Vanity Shop, Gray Reid's and Moss all rank about the same in the eyes of the college belles. Moss is especially popular for lingerie, and in particular nylons which are just now making their post war appearance. The Vanity Shop jewelry is popular on the hill, as are their everyday and dress clothes. Blouses, previously almost unobtainable, are one of the Gray Reid items that college lasses always want. They also carry a nice line of cosmetics, which are popular items queen will be presented at the Mackay Day luncheon, where she will begin her reign; that evening, at the climax affair of the celebration, the costume ball, she will be formally crowned.

Following past tradition, the

At the Mackay Day committee meeting last Tuesday afternoon, it was recommended that the upper-class committee be reinforced. This recommendation was made by Bill Friel, head of the Mackay Day committee, in recognition of the fact that at this early date there are many beardless offenders of the age old Mackay Day tradition of growing a beard for the celebration, and justice will have to be meted out.

Snakes, Phi Sigs, Barbs Open Diamond Play With Triumphs in Interfrat Loop

Gillis' No-Hitter, Meffley's Homers Feature Contests

Sigma Nu, Phi Sigma Kappa and the Independents took a one length lead in the interfraternity baseball league this week by pounding out convincing wins over Theta Chi, SAE and Sigma Rho Delta respectively.

The seasonal debut on Monday between ATO and Lambda Chi was "snowed out" 15 minutes before game time and will be played at the end of the season. The Tau's were scheduled to open their play this afternoon against the once victorious Sigma Nu Snakes.

Headlining next week's games will be the Wednesday clash between the Independents and the Phi Sigs, while ATO battles the SAEs on the following night. Other games will find the Lambda Chis taking on SAE Monday; Sigma Rho and Theta Chi battling for their first victory on Tuesday and Sigma Rho and Sigma Nu taking the field on Friday.

Sigma Nu 15, Theta Chi 1
With Dick Meffley supplying the big spark, Sigma Nu slugged out a four inning 15-1 victory over

Theta Chi in the season's opener on Tuesday. Theta Chi jumped into a first inning short-lived lead when they pushed their only run across the plate, but the Snakes came back in their half of the frame to score three times. They followed that up with two more in the second canto and completed the coupe de grace in the bottom half of the third when ten men crossed the plate.

Meffley's two round trippers and Thornton Audrain's triple were the big noise of the victory. On the mound, Audrain and Jim Trail divided the hurling chores for the Sigs, giving up two hits while Shewan, who was the victim of some sloppy work afield, tossed for the losers.

With Bill Gillis hurling runless and hitless ball for five innings the Phi Sigs pounded out a 10-0 win over the SAEs on Wednesday evening. In chalking up the no-hitter, Gillis whiffed 11 batters but he was more than matched in that department by Pat Francellini, SAE chucker, who ko'd 12 of the Phi Sigs at the plate. Francellini dished up only six hits during the abbreviated contest. The SAEs fell apart at the seams afield, committing 11 miscues.

Phi Sig catcher Morley Bookman, besides turning in a terrific game behind the plate, contributed the day's longest hit when he smash-

Independents 11, Sigma Rho 7
Counting four times in the opening inning and adding five more runs in the second stanza, the dark horse Independent nine romped to an easy 11-7 victory over the Sigma Rhos on Thursday afternoon. In the first inning Independent first baseman Vaughn Marker went for the circuit and Lloyd Rude, peppery unaffiliated catcher duplicated the feat in the second canto.

Held in check by moundsman Tom Hagar until the third inning, Sigma Rho loaded the bases on two walks and a hit batter and third sacker Bill King produced a round tripper for the only Sigma Rho hit of the game. In the fourth insing Sigma Rho added three more runs as a result of three walks, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Sharing mound duties with Hagar was Roy Nishiguchi while Bob Butler twirled the route for Sigma Rho. Hagar struck out six, Nishiguchi two and Butler nine.

The win set the stage for next week's feature game on Wednesday between the Independents and the Phi Sigs.
