

World Campus Speaker To Address Assembly

Federalists Talk On December 3

Speaker Making Nationwide Tour of Universities

Student Federalists will present Colgate Prentice, president of the organization, at an assembly on Tuesday, December 3, at 4 pm, said George H. Himes, Student Federalist representative on the campus and regional director for the states of Colorado, Nevada and Utah.

Prentice attended Swarthmore College before entering the army and is now on leave of absence from that college to tour the different schools and colleges in the United States. He was elected president of the organization at the Chicago national convention last summer and is an experienced speaker, said Himes.

The Student Federalists were organized at Scarsdale, N. Y., by Harris Wofford in 1942 and now have more than 4000 students in the organization.

According to the charter passed at the Chicago national convention this year the Student Federalists are striving to stimulate thinking on the urgent need for federal world government; to educate our generation to the principles of federalism; to find, train and organize necessary leaders; to support all proposals which embody the minimum essentials of federal world government, and to make world citizenship a political fact to create a world government dedicated to human rights and justice under the law, Himes added.

New Indoor Sports Schedule Announced By PE Department

A new schedule, featuring indoor sports, was announced for the Women's Athletic Association by Miss Elsa Sameth, head of the PE department.

Badminton will be held at odd hours during the day in the old gymnasium. Hours will depend on the attendance during the week.

Swimming is scheduled for 7:30 Thursday evenings at Mowana Springs.

The first basketball turnout was held Tuesday, November 19, at 7 pm in the new gym. About 40 girls attended the meeting.

Bowling is scheduled for Friday afternoons from 1 to 3 in the Reno Bowling Alley. This class is open to beginners and professionals alike.

ENGINEERS TO LEARN DESIGN OF JACKPOTS

"Jackpots—how they pay off" was discussed at the American Society of Mechanical Engineers regular meeting at 7 pm, Tuesday, November 26, in the new engineering building, according to Jimmy Glynn, publicity chairman.

The engineering students will delve into the design and mechanics of the slot machine after the regular business meeting said Glynn. Refreshments will be served following the discussion.

HOUSING WILL BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING

All phases of the veterans housing problem will be discussed at a meeting for all married veterans and their wives who are applying to the university for housing accommodations, Tuesday, December 5, at 7 pm. The meeting will be held in the education auditorium, announced Robert S. Griffin, dean of men.

Community Chest Aided by Greeks

All sororities and fraternities have pledged 100 per cent in the drive for the Community Chest. This announcement was made at the recent meeting of the student service board. The money contributed by these organizations must be turned in by January 1.

During the meeting, at which Rachel McNeil presided, Marianne Wells was elected secretary and thus is in charge of the finance board which heads the community chest.

A special meeting took place Thursday to revise the constitution.

Attending the Wednesday meeting were Miss McNeil, chairman, Billy Heath, Dorothy Sewell, Virginia Cole, Marianne Wells and Janet Da Costa.

Lucky Shots Sack Turkey Day Birds

Ersatz hunters invaded the university rifle range last night for a chance at "bring home the turkey" in the first indoor turkey shoot staged in this area, stated Kenneth Rice, president of the University Rifle Club.

Winners of the first three turkeys were Eugene Tidball, Bob Ewers and Lee Darrach. Competitors were allowed to use their own guns provided that the sights complied with the National Rifle Association rules and the inspections made of all rifles by Col. Gilbert Parker and Sgt. Claude Morris, officials selected from the university military department.

Eighteen turkeys were on hand to be given away during the evening's shooting. Three shots were allowed contestants in each contest and the highest score from each group of 30 riflemen was awarded a fat young turkey. Shooters were allowed to enter as many contests as they desired, but only one turkey was allowed for each competitor.

The range was crowded with gunners all evening and until press time three of the turkeys had been given away. "We are satisfied with the turnout and we're sure there will be 18 winners before the range closes at 10 pm," stated Rice, university rifleman.

LAST YEAR'S YEARBOOK DELIVERY DATE IS SET

Last year's Artemisia will definitely be here by the latter part of next week, or the first part of the following week, according to Joe T. McDonnell, graduate manager.

The publication is now in San Francisco being bound, and freight shipments will determine when they will arrive, Mr. McDonnell said.

MAYBE THEY WILL, WHO KNOWS?

Maury Haglen, halfback on last year's grid team, scored six points last week, or rather six points, thirteen ounces, when his wife presented him with a bundle of baby girl. Said Maury, "Honest, we REALLY wanted a girl... besides, maybe they'll let girls play football and baseball by the time she grows up."

SKIERS TO SEE SHOW

Movies will be shown at the first Ski Club meeting after Thanksgiving, according to Barnes Berry, president of the organization.

The meeting will be held in the education auditorium Wednesday, December 4, at 7 pm.

NEVADA CAGERS TACKLE FALLON HERE TONIGHT

Game Experience Needed As Pack Prepares For Senator Tilt

University of Nevada basketball squad plays host to the Fallon town team tonight in the second warm-up game of the season. The game, which starts at 8:15 pm, is to prepare the Pack for their first regularly scheduled meet of the year with Sacramento AAU on Saturday night at the Nevada gymnasium.

Tonight's game is not expected to give the Wolves too much trouble, but will probably not be a runaway, as was last week's 73-12 drubbing handed to the Hawthorne Marines. Fallon consistently has had one of the top teams in the town team cagers. Besides having their old players, Summerbell, Beeghley, Capucci, Deputy, Weaver, Loft-house and Mafi, Fallon has been bolstered by former Fallon navy players Hill, Poe, Ward and Webb who are now living in that town.

However, Saturday's game will be the big test for Nevada, since Sacramento has one of the best teams in the western AAU hoop league. Their team includes many former college players, Gus Mota, Roy Tamm and Gordon Gareson, all of California; Verne Hoffman of Utah State, Hen Hashagen of Penn, Warren Taylor of Oregon and Bob Gill of Washington State.

Jake Lawlor, Nevada's basketball coach, is expected to start O'Shaughnessy and Bill Moylan at guards, Hal Fischer at center, Grant Davis and Jim Melarkey at forward. This will be the same squad that started against Hawthorne last week.

Pineapple Pickers Meet Toughest Foe In Nevada Wolves

University of Nevada Wolf Pack will be the toughest team remaining on the University of Hawaii's football schedule this season, said Coach Tommy Kaulukukui and Francis D'Eliscu, athletic director of the Rainbows of the University of Hawaii, according to a statement printed in a recent Honolulu paper.

University of Hawaii is to meet Stanford on December 21 and University of Utah on January 1. To a man the Rainbow squad said Nevada will be the toughest team they will face this year, the article further stated. The Rainbows saw Nevada play St. Mary's before going to Stockton to play College of Pacific which was a 19-13 victory for Hawaii. While on the mainland they also scored a 7-2 victory over Fresno State.

Coach Kaulukukui further stated that Nevada is big and powerful and has one of the heaviest lines on the Pacific coast and excellent backs.

Food Handling Class To Be Given Soon

Persons concerned with preparation of food served in any dining room where students eat will attend a course on food handling and preparation directed by the Nevada State Board of Health in connection with a similar program for downtown restaurants.

The instruction will be given under the auspices of Reno Chamber of Commerce, Restaurant Association, Retail Merchants Association, Culinary and Bartender unions, Parent-Teachers Association, the Tuberculosis Association and the University of Nevada.

Phases of the course will include proper storage facilities, display and preparation of food, and disposal of waste.

THE BRUSH STAFF SAYS EAT HEARTILY TOMORROW!

Police Department To Give Immunity To Sign Snitchers

Independents Will Have to Foot Cost If Signs Fail to Show

The Reno police department promises immunity to anyone bringing back the three traffic signs which disappeared from the IOOF hall the night of the Independents' dance. The statement was made today by Captain Berrum of the Reno police department.

Anyone who is shy about carrying the signs down to the police station can leave them at the ASUN building, Hans Wolfe, student body president, said today.

The police department loaned eight traffic signs to the Independents, five of which have been returned. The night of the dance, some university students were apprehended by the police in downtown Reno with some of the signs under their arms. The students passed it off as a lark, but the value of the signs puts it closer to grand larceny than to a lark, Captain Berrum said.

The signs, worth about $75, will have to be paid for by the Independents if they are not returned, stated Captain Berrum.

Mining Films Are Shown to Students

Crucible Club and Freshmen Students See Films

Several films were shown to the mining and mechanical students of the University of Nevada, said Professor Jay A. Carpenter, director of the Mackay School of Mines.

The Crucible Club was shown "copper smelting" filmed by the Felter-Dodge company, and the orientation classes for all freshman engineer students saw the film "Black Jack" produced by the Ingersoll-Oran company on the mining of zinc in the Tri-State district.

"The Legacy of Rudolph Diesel" was the film shown to mechanical engineering students. The picture was an outline of the development of the Diesel engine and showed how the idea of the Diesel submarine engine first came into existence.

Professor Carpenter, who conducts the engineering courses, believes in the educational value of films and uses them whenever possible in his classes.

Gridsters Head for Hawaii Next Week For Final Game

Nevada's football team leaves by plane for Honolulu next week to play their final game of the season against the University of Hawaii which will be a feature of the first observance of Pearl Harbor Day on the island. More than 26,000 tickets have been sold for the game, which is to be played Saturday, December 7.

Most of the squad leaves San Francisco Thursday, December 5. Others will leave on the third and fourth, as reservations could not be obtained for the whole team at once said Joe McDonnell, graduate manager. They will all return Sunday following the game.

Turkey Day Calls Greeks to Homes For Mom's Meals

Sorority and Frat Members Celebrate Thanksgiving In Home Towns

Greeks, 90 per cent strong, will scatter to the four winds today, as fraternity and sorority members leave for many towns to celebrate Thanksgiving.

Four Theta Chis are planning to travel to California this week. Three more are going to Fallon, while Epic Johnson and John Milburn, with New York their home, stated that Thanksgiving seemed to be a good day to clean up their room.

Phi Beta Phi's Sally Beebe is indefinite in her travel plans today, but her sorority sisters, with few exceptions, had definite ideas for Thanksgiving trips. Las Vegas is the destination of four girls, with three traveling to California.

Tops Among Travelers

Alpha Tau Omega is tops among the frat travelers, having seven men going to California. Twelve men are traveling to way points in the state of Nevada.

Delta Delta Delta has one member, Bernadette Ertter, going to Boise, Idaho, while two girls are planning California trips. Seven girls will travel to Nevada cities.

Lambda Chi Alpha's Dick Fulstone and Jim Collins are planning to travel to Bishop, California. Twelve other members of the house are to visit folks and friends in towns of Nevada.

Phi Sigma Kappa had four men planning visits to Yerington, with seven spending Thanksgiving in other Nevada towns. Two Phi Sigs will make the trip to California.

Kappa Alpha Theta's Sue and Kay Brennan were planning trips to Auburn, California, with eight more girls planning to visit other California cities. Seven Thetas will visit towns in Nevada.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon had three men scheduled to visit San Francisco, with ten SAEs traveling to cities within the bounds of the sagebrush state.

Sigma Nu had six men making the trip to Las Vegas, and ten men visiting other towns in the state. Three men will make trips to California.

TB X-Rays Slated In Old Gymnasium

Sigma Nu, SAE Continue Winning Volleyball Games

Sigma Alpha Epsilon added another victory to their lengthy win streak by edging past Sigma Rho Delta 11-15, 15-10 and 15-13, last night in the interfraternity volleyball tournament.

Sigma Nu, in the other game last evening, took the measure of Theta Chi 15-2 and 15-4 in the only other games this week.

Tennis doubles, with bad weather hampering further play, is nearly completed and present Kinnear standings may be juggled when the results are announced, probably in the near future.

Wolf Pack Atones For Past Defeats At Hands of Lions

Wolves 'Devour' Foes With 53-0 Defeat On Vegas Turf

Nevada's Wolf Pack made up for past defeats at the hands of Loyola's Lions last Friday night on Butcher Memorial Field, Las Vegas, when they handed the southern California lads an overwhelming 53-0 defeat.

Tommy Kalmanir, swift little halfback, started the touchdown parade when he took a lateral from Bill Mackrides on the first official Nevada play, and raced through the entire Loyola team for 70 yards and the first score of the game.

Mackrides to Gillom was the combination which set up the next counter, a 40 yard pass of the ball to the Lion's 15 yard line. Lloyd "The Horse" Rude took the ball on the next play and crashed his way over the goal line. Francinelli kicked the extra point. Score 13-0, Nevada.

Scott Beasley, big end, took a pass from Mackrides and scored the Pack's third tally of the evening.

CAMPUS CARVERS ARE BRIEFED BY SHARP SAGEBRUSH SCRIBE

By Lewis Barrett

Because of the large number of married students on the hill, the Sagebrush considers it a duty to inform all new family men on the art of carving the turkey.

Many will be called upon to perform this important function at the Thanksgiving dinner table and will be embarrassed unless they come to the table prepared.

Of course, the most important tool used in this operation is a relatively sharp carving knife. Bone handle, wood handle, or no handle—makes no difference, but it must be sharp. Most experts prefer protective padding in the abdominal region in the event the knife slips.

The leg is the first part of the turkey's anatomy to receive the knife. First grasp the leg firmly with feet spread widely to afford maximum leverage, then cut the skin by drawing the knife back and forth. Then sever the joint. This does not mean to leave. Press the leg away from the body with the flat side of the knife. (If there is excess bleeding a pressure bandage should be applied at the joint.) Any dangling skin should be trimmed away. Make sure you include the oyster (choice dark meat in spoon-shaped bone on the back) with the leg. Place the leg on a platter and lick fingers discreetly.

Calisthenics

Disjoint the drumstick from the thigh by holding your leg at right angles to the plate and cutting through the meat to the bone. Then, holding your thigh with the knife, press the drumstick down with the other hand until your joint snaps. To slice the leg meat, hold the drumstick at right angles to the plate and cut down, turning your leg to get uniform slices. To slice thigh meat, you straddle the bone with a fork and cut the meat in length-wise joints. In removing the wing you place the knife at right angles to the breast about one and one-half inches above the wing and cut straight down through the skin and wing joint.

Queensbury Rules

To slice breast meat, straddle the keel bone and insert fork in rib section on the side opposite that being carved. Hold the knife parallel to the breast and cut with a sawing motion, starting first slice just above the spot where the wing was removed. Once you have sliced meat to go around the first serving it is proper to turn the whole bird over to your wife.

These instructions were taken from an article published by the Consumers Information Service and any injuries sustained from following this procedure should be accredited to the Sagebrush reporter who adapted it for publication.

Faculty, Students To Get X-Rays For Tuberculosis

AED Sponsors Campus Tests Given in Old Gym December 4-13

Chest X-rays will be given to students and faculty members from December 4 through December 13, as part of the state-wide drive against tuberculosis. X-rays will be taken in the old gym from 10 am to 1 pm and 2 pm to 4 pm daily except Saturday, announced Dr. George R. Magee, chairman of the university's health council.

The portable X-ray unit, which is operated jointly by the Tuberculosis Association, the United States public health service and the Nevada department of public health, will move onto the campus December 2. X-rays are not compulsory, and all reports on the analysis are confidential, except in case of positive findings, when the family physician will be notified. The law requires all positive findings to be reported to Dr. Harold W. Bischoff, state epidemiologist in Carson City, Dr. Magee said.

To Sponsor Test

Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-med fraternity, will sponsor the X-rays, while Ridgely Cummings, health educator, is in charge of the tests. The X-ray unit will be operated by Miss Christine Gable, USPHS, senior technician, and Wallace Escoller, who is training under Miss Gable. No charge will be made for the test and disrobing will not be necessary, stated Mr. Cummings.

Dr. Magee said that cooperating with him in making arrangements for the tests will be Dr. R. S. Griffin, dean of men; Col. Gilbert Parker, head of ROTC; Miss Elsa Sameth, head of women's physical education department; Dr. J. E. Martie, director of physical education, and Hans Wolfe, student body president.

Wolf Pack to Meet Rainbows in Hawaii

After a delay of five years, the Wolf Pack is to meet the Rainbows. On December 20, 1941, the University of Nevada was scheduled to play the University of Hawaii in the Pineapple Bowl. December 7, 1941, automatically cancelled the game, but this year on December 7 the game is to be played.

For the 1941 game the Wolf Pack was slated to leave San Francisco by boat. This year the pack will fly to Honolulu leaving here December 4. The game will be part of the Pearl Harbor Day observance in the islands.

Rex Daniels, now alumni secretary, was a member of the team scheduled to play the '41 game.

COMMITTEE NOMINATES FAIRCHILD TO HEAD WINTER SKI CARNIVAL

Mahlon Fairchild was selected by the nominating committee of the student senate for chairman of the ski carnival to be held in February. His name will be presented to the student senate for approval at their next meeting on December 4.

Barbara Culley, Dick Gilbert, Jac Francovich and Lewis Barrett were selected for members of the committee to work on selection of a new school song. These students must also be approved by the student senate before the committee is actually formed.

NOW IS THE TIME

These Thanksgiving holidays afford university students a great opportunity to perform a public service.

During the early part of this month an election was held. There was a considerable shakeup in Washington and in the state as well. That last shuffle is the one which interests this campus. For it is there that the students can get in their plugged nickel's worth for the university building program.

Currently three building improvements are being asked of the state legislature—a new heating plant, a live sciences building, and an annex to the engineering building.

In order to build these structures, money is needed—and needed badly. Perhaps we may argue on the relative merits of some of the buildings—but assuredly bickering will not solve the problem. The die has been cast, and the program presented is the one which will go before the legislature.

How can the student body help?
During this Thanksgiving vacation most of us will be back in Elko, or Ely, or Eureka, or Pioche, enjoying Thanksgiving turkey. It will be a splendid opportunity to go before the legislators and lobby for the university.

Without improved building facilities, this campus may soon be relegated to the position of a second-rate establishment. That heating plant, for example—without that there will be some cold, hard winters, and there will be no opportunity for future buildings—the present heating facilities will simply not take care of the load.

The student body, then, should look up the winners of this month's election while they are back in the old home town. Many legislators have no conception of exactly the importance of the state university. Explain that we are badly in need of improvements—that there will come a day when, if our building program is consistently behind modern educational needs, a degree from Nevada will be the equivalent of a mail order catalogue in importance.

This is the only university we have in this state. It must—it shall—WILL—be kept up to required standards. This is for our benefits, and it's up to us to help push it.

Home Ec Students Show How Turkeys Become Entrees

Good, Too, Say Visitors As They Smack Lips And Yell for Seconds

By Joan Mardis
With hungry looks, and armed with a fork in each hand, home ec students, and several visitors, along with a couple of reporters, swarmed into the demonstration room, where members of the home ec foods class were roasting turkey. Thanksgiving comes early to home ec'ers.

Dorothy Thomas and Mary Clontz demonstrated the preparation of turkeys from beginning to end. With excellent timing, the first bird, started before hand, was done just when the second bird was ready for the roasters. A good thing, too, since by that time on-lookers were famished.

Many have learned by cruel experience that carving turkey the way father does isn't as easy as it looks, but after watching Miss Thomas perform the task, turkey surgery begins to appeal to this reporter.

After gleaming the last tidbits of meat from the bones, "Sagebrush Culinary Commentator Lewis Barrett, offered the following comment: "Yum." He added, "The university's prospective wives have really got a knack for making turkeys talk to a man's epicurean delight.

In preparation, consider that the turkey is picked, drawn, and cleaned. No pin feathers. Do not stuff the bird to capacity unless you want the oven lined with dressing, one demonstrator pointed out.

THE HELL BOX

Coffee Nerves

Brazil may have a lot of coffee but U of N students are cutting into the surplus at the rate of 1200 cups a day, more or less. The Wolf Den, with a seating capacity of 40, draws 800 to 1000 mugs of Joe each day to speed up student action. According to Joe Joinville, Den manager, 90 pounds of coffee go into the urns each week. The YWCA snack bar brews an average of 225 cups a day. Most of these are gulped by students between classes but the rest is consumed in a more leisurely fashion during card games and bull sessions.

Repertue

The saga of Leslie Smith is still getting chuckles at the SAE house. It all happened during his jalousy trek to the Nevada-St. Mary's game. Smith was stopped by a burly California gendarme on the bay bridge who seemed to need someone to talk with. "Where ya goin, bub?" queried the cop. "To see Nevada beat St. Mary's," was the reply. Then, "Got a tail light?"

be laced, in the manner of shoe laces. Tying the legs and wings down are a part of trussing and is a necessary procedure in keeping the turkey in shape.

To get a nice brown effect, rub a little fat on the bird, and then put him in a moderately hot oven to cook slowly. Estimated cooking time per pound of turkey is 20 minutes. A 300 to 350 degree oven is right.

If instinct doesn't tell you when the bird is done, try sticking a fork in the leg. The turkey, that is. If he doesn't say "ouch," he is done. Thanksgiving should come more often.

The University of Nevada library will remain closed all day Thursday and Sunday of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Students who wish to use the libe during the holiday will find it open on Wednesday until 5 pm, Friday 9 am to 4 pm and Saturday 9 am to noon, Mr. J. J. Hill, head librarian, announced this week.

GUESTS AT BANQUET

Twenty-six members of the University of Nevada football team were guests of the Las Vegas Alumni Association at a banquet held in the Frontier Hotel after the University of Nevada-Loyola game November 22, in Las Vegas.

"Got a match?"

answered Smith with another question. When supplied with the match he went around to the back of his car, lit a red lantern, got back behind the steering wheel and drove away leaving an open-mouthed policeman scratching his head.

Phi Alpha Theta Holds Initiation

Program Tells Purposes of Honorary History Club In Month's Meeting

Frances Ullom and Bruce Anderson were initiated into the Alpha Iota chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history society.

The club's monthly meeting took place in the "Y" room of Artemisia hall with Wilburta Flavin, president, in charge of the session.

After the initiation a program was given telling the purpose of Phi Alpha Theta, and what the members could do to further their club work. This was followed by a business meeting and social hour.

Seventy Stanford Skiers Scheduled

Approximately 70 students from Stanford University will arrive here between Thursday, November 28, and Saturday, November 30, for the holiday skiing, announced Hans Wolfe, ASUN president, today.

Most of them will stay at fraternity or sorority houses.

Several will lodge with town residents who have offered their hospitality, Wolfe said.

Elbert Sigal, Stanford student, will arrive today to make further arrangements for the California group.

WHEN THAT ROLL IS CALLED THEY'LL BE THERE

With Thanksgiving drawing near, an ever increasing number of students can be observed casting eager glances at the wild fowl taking refuge in Manzanita Lake. Anticipation of taking a goose home to mama has brought about several suggestions of how to capture the elusive birds.

One fellow's solution was to fish them out, using a kernal of corn for bait. Another suggested pouncing on them in the dead of night, and still another was enthused about building a box trap and using grain to lure the birds into it.

Shooting them with an air gun brought on several favorable nods.

Grab 'Em by the Legs

One student, who spent some time in Japan, suggested that someone swim under water, grab them by the legs and drown them. "That's the way they get 'em in the rice paddies over there," he continued. The reason he said "someone" was probably due to the fact that the swimmer would likely freeze to death, or drown in the attempt.

To date no birds have been missing from roll call. Maybe they have a few tricks up their sleeves about getting Thanksgiving dinner from the gow house.

Back the Wolf Pack.

Observe Nevada's traditions.

Mackrides Gains Prestige as Top Passer in Nation

Wolf Pack Quarterback Leads in Yardage Gained Via Completed Aerials

By Matt Klemaszewski

On the campus at the university, wearing the silver and blue football uniform, we have one of the most talked, and written about football tossers in the country, Bill Mackrides.

Practically every newspaper in the country has been writing about "our Bill," who at present is still leading the nation in yardage gained by pass completions, so it is about time we gave you a little dope on this pass slinging wonder.

Bill hails from Philadelphia and is 21 years old. He was honorably discharged from the marine corps just before the beginning of this semester. He saw duty in the South Pacific and was stationed in Japan. It was there that Bill practiced tossing the pigskin during his few leisure hours.

Although few people know it, Bill was not always a talented passer. When he made his football debut at West Philadelphia high school, all his passes were in reverse, for Bill with his big hands was picked to handle the pivot spot on the team. He mastered this position and was named all-public high center. This took place in 1941.

Nominally Center

When Bill came to Nevada in 1943, he was nominally a center, but soon Coach Aiken moved him to fill a guard position and by the end of the season he was a glue-fingered end. When the next season rolled around, Coach Aiken decided to use Bill's big hands to an advantage in the backfield and in 1944 he alternated at halfback and fullback.

Then came the hitch in the marine corps, and following a

PACK TRACKS

By Gene Evans

Well, to the surprise of just exactly NO ONE, the Wolf Pack made up for past humiliations suffered at the hands of Loyola. Playing before the Wolf rooters of Las Vegas, the sturdy lads ran up the largest score ever amassed in a contest between the Lions and the Wolves.

A look at past records show that the Silver and Blue machine went so far as to register MORE points than had ever been tallied by both teams COMBINED. Of course that few short weeks at home, he was Reno bound to take up where he left off. We all know of Bill's feats with a football, but he is also an accomplished amateur boxer and somewhat of a basketball player having lettered here in 1943.

Bill's hobbies include photography and stamp collecting. Besides playing football, Bill enjoys dancing and swimming as recreational activities.

His ambition is to try his passing arm in the professional football league, which was his initial inspiration several years back when he was a happy mascot of the professional Philadelphia Eagles football team.

fact can serve no other purpose than to erase sour memories, and help keep the alumni happy.

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

With the Thanksgiving vacation upon us, we are given to allowing our thoughts to wander turkeyward. Not that turkeys have any place in the sports section of a newspaper (the Sagebrush DOES fall into that category), but thinking of turkeys makes us think of great feasts, more particularly, those GREAT feasts that were to be had at the expense of most of the wild fowl that grace our Nevada plains.

Many are the mornings that sportsmen from the campus have wended their sleepy ways to the "spots" to do mortal combat with the enemy, in this instance any duck, goose or migratory fowl that happened to be winging in that area.

Many are the evenings that campus sportsmen have wended their tired, weary, WET ways homeward—minus any aforementioned duck, goose or migratory fowl. "Just wait, though," is then the familiar remark, "We'll get our holiday dinner yet. Now I've got a new spot . . ."

OUR only comment upon this is: When that spot is found, PULEESE leave us in on it, will ya, huh?

Basketball season is just around the corner.

"The British bombs upon Munich have had such a powerful effect that, a week after the bombardment, pictures of Hitler were still fluttering out of windows."

Gow House Open On Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the "gow house" at 1 pm Thursday, said Mabel Fulton, social director and house mother of Manzanita Hall.

Tables will be formally decorated with fruit, candles and green wreaths, and according to Mrs. Fulton, approximately 300 students are expected to eat at the dining hall that day.

The complete menu has not yet been planned, but the typical American dish for this occasion will probably be served.
