PACK CAGERS---ONE UP, ONE DOWN

ASUN Committee Plugs for Faculty Salary Increases

Publicity Program Planned
To Bring Problem
Before Public

At a special Christmas assembly Wednesday from 11 to 12 o'clock in the new gym, aims of the improvement committee and university administration will be presented to the student body. Plans are to have the student audience approve the platform by means of a standing vote.

The assembly is being prepared and conducted by pre-class men under the direction of Norman Olsen, freshman manager, and Franklin Gardner, sophomore manager. The band will be on hand to give with musical numbers.

Points in the platform are:
1. salary increases.
2. staff increases.
3. more and improved equipment.
4. building renovation.
5. three new buildings.

"We'll have to do something soon, or we won't be able to do anything," Henry Stewart, chairman of the student improvement committee, said today.

Stewart pointed out that the prime objective of the committee was to bring before the public the fact that there is a need for higher salaries among the University of Nevada faculty.

Stewart outlined the committee's plans for an elaborate publicity program. This program, he said, should bring to the minds of the students, alumni and parents the importance of the problem confronting the university.

Faculty Members Leave

"More than 10 per cent of the University of Nevada faculty have resigned during the past two years, and many others have received tempting offers from various institutions," continued Stewart.

He went on to say that the University of Nevada faculty is the second lowest paid on the west coast. Instructors have begun to dig into their savings in order to keep up their standards of living, he asserted.

"We intend to let the students and Nevada inhabitants know what the student improvement committee is and just what it is trying to do," the chairman explained.

Radio Broadcasts

He then elaborated on the committee's proposed publicity program. Letters are being sent to all students and parents, and also to all legislators who will attend the next Nevada assembly. These letters will explain the ends and aims of the committee, according to Stewart.

"During the Christmas holidays we plan to broadcast radio programs from each of the three radio stations in Reno," said Stewart. "We must make all the students realize that this is their problem. They will play an important role in the choosing of our instructors."

He stated that many of the instructors at the University of Nevada don't want to leave. But, he pointed out, that they were accepting new and better paid positions in other schools because it is becoming a matter of necessity.

NOTICE

There will be an important meeting of the ASUN senate Wednesday. Upperclass committee changes may be proposed, while the ski carnival committee will be voted upon.

Christmas Carolers Plan Campus Round With Holiday Songs

Most of the fraternity houses, and all of the sororities plan to go out caroling this Christmas. Since nearly all of the Greeks will be going home for vacation, they will do their singing the week before the holidays.

Those planning to make the rounds of sorority and fraternity houses, the halls, and President Moseley's home, are Delta Delta, Delta Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Theta Chi.

Sigma Nu plans are not definite, Sigma Rho Delta is not singing this year, while Phi Sigma Kappa is still undecided.

'Tavern' Plot Built Around Suspicion About Identities

Student Play Goes on Stage
At Little Theater
December 16-22

On a wild and stormy night there arrives at a lonely tavern a romantic vagabond, a homeless woman and the governor of the state and his family who have been held up by footpads at a neighboring crossroads. The plot revolves around the suspicion which develops as to the identity of each of the characters in turn. The result is satire, mystery, melodrama, farce and comedy.

Such is the synopsis of the play, "The Tavern," to be presented by university students at Reno Little Theater, December 16 to 22, and directed by Professor William C. Miller.

Changes in the cast of characters place Jack Walling as the hired man, Helen Brania as the governor's wife and Leslie Smith as the sheriff.

The remaining cast includes Rondell Shaw as the tavern keeper's son, Joy Butler as the hired girl, Scott Whitney as the tavern keeper, Rex Jamison as the vagabond, Harriet Lee as the woman, Martin Risard as the governor and Norma Carruth as the governor's daughter.

Dale Riley is cast as the fiance, and John Etcheto, Richard Miles and John Sweatt as the sheriff's men. The attendant is portrayed by Robert Nelson.

James Coleman is technical director of the play and his assistants are James Moell, Bernard Friel, James Knight and Charles Shields. Those in charge of properties are Helen Brania, Evelyn Payne and Jac Petersen. James Coleman is the advertising manager and Alice Williams is the script girl.

Artemisia Xmas Fete Plans Are Completed

Plans for the Christmas party for the women in Artemisia Hall are now being completed by Gen Swick, house manager, and Laura Lu Johnson, general chairman.

Scheduled for Wednesday evening from 11 to 12 pm, the pre-Christmas get-together will find those attending garbed in their gayest pj's.

Each girl is buying an inexpensive gift. These gifts will be distributed minus all names.

Committee members include: food, Pat Wolfe, Alice Cordes and Alberta Ellis; entertainment and decorations, Adriene Fotos, Lucille Thompson and Louise Thompson; gifts, Lorraine Houghton and Beverly Brown.

Vandals Run Wild In Snack Bar Raids

Juke Box Robbed; Cards,
Grid Display Stolen

"The students at the University of Nevada do not deserve a new student union building," Miss Barbara Thompson, YWCA director in charge of the snack bar, said today.

"If their attitude and lack of cooperation remains what it is now, how would they treat a new building? I am ready to close the snack bar now, and I will if the students do not show some cooperation in taking care of it," Miss Thompson said.

The juke box in the snack bar was broken into on December 4, she said, and approximately $75 was taken, and 36 decks of playing cards disappeared between eight in the morning and four in the afternoon one day recently. The piano has been broken three times, dishes are broken and not paid for, cigarette butts are thrown on the floor, students put their feet on the furniture, in fact, everything from carelessness to larceny has been taking place regularly.

A football display put up by the Chism Ice Cream Company lasted six hours after taking two men 68 hours to prepare.

"If the Christmas decorations meet the same fate there will be no more snack bar," the director said.

The snack bar operates on a non-profit basis, selling coffee, doughnuts, orange juice and other refreshments at wholesale prices, purely as a service to the students, Miss Thompson pointed out.

Ed Prof's Attend Teacher Session At State Capitol

Dr. Harold N. Brown, professor of education and director of summer sessions, and Dr. Fred W. Traner, head of the education department are participating this week in the annual State Teachers Institute convention at Carson City, reported Dr. Brown.

"We are taking part in the discussion of requalification and revision of the school law," he said.

The two professors are alternately attending the discussions between Tuesday, December 12, and Friday, December 15.

Ease of Divorces Discussed During Campus Club Meet

"Is Divorce Too Easy?" was the topic discussed at a recent meeting of the Campus Club, the oldest religious club of its kind on the campus, at the Federated Church, it was revealed today by Vernon Meisei, president of the organization.

Joan Matcovich presented the topic for discussion while Ruth Armstrong and Stanly Smith led the group in analyzing the question.

Most people who receive divorces here, it was said, have another prospect just around the corner.

In the discussion that followed this statement, it was found that there were several members in the group who were divorced and who denied the statement vigorously.

No conclusion was reached.

Entertainment for the meeting this Sunday will be a movie on "Wheels Across India" and a pre-Christmas musical program.

Lloyd Rogers will take over the editorial reins of the Sagebrush, effective with next week's issue.

Hot and Cold Wolf Pack Wins, Then Loses on Barnstorming Tour in East

By Gene Evans

Nevada's upsetting basketeers were handed a little of their own tactics last night when they received a 55 to 47 setback at the hands of Georgetown University in Washington, D. C.

Georgetown, rated on a par with the St. John's team that the Wolves had beaten two nights previously, stopped the Nevada winning spree at six games.

With Andy Kostecka, Hoya center, potting 22 points for the scoring honors of the night, and the rest of the team playing deliberate ball, the Georgetowners jumped into the lead at the outset and were never headed.

ROGERS NAMED BRUSH EDITOR

Sagebrush editor ship
changed hands this week.

Forced to resign because of a heavy scholastic load, Bill Henley, will turn over the editorship next week to Lloyd Rogers, junior journalism major from Reno.

Rogers left Nevada in the fall of 1941 to enter the army air forces. At that time he was assistant editor of the Sagebrush under Bryn Armstrong. While in the army Rogers served for three years in the public relations office and worked on the editorial staff of the "Fort Logan (Colo.) News and Views." He is a member of the Press Club.

Another change in the Sagebrush staff was the appointment of Bill Buck as circulation manager. Buck is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and is president of Sagars.

Assisting Buck will be Al Cecchi, assistant circulation manager, and Earl Gilmore, Jerry Wyness and Pat Emery.

Nevada Delegate Invited to Attend Student Conference

Notification of a students' conference in Chicago December 28, 29 and 30 to which all colleges and universities are asked to send representatives, was received by Hans Wolfe, ASUN president, this week.

The purpose of the conference, as outlined in a letter from Smith College student council, is to hear a report of the newly formed International Union of students and to consider the formation of a National Union of American students.

It is doubtful if Nevada will be able to send a delegate due to the comparatively small size of the student body and the fact that the date set for the conference falls during the Christmas vacation, Wolfe stated.

McGoogle Hall Jig Begins at 9 Bells

Al Donahue will be the man to watch tonight when his orchestra strikes up at 9 pm at the El Patio ballroom. The dance is being sponsored by McGoogle Hall, a Highland Terrace dormitory.

It is one of the first times an independent organization on the campus has sponsored a name band, and it might create a demand for more and better social activities on the campus, said Bob Campbell, a member of the committee that succeeded in getting Al Donahue.

Chaperones for the dance are Dr. Ernest Inwood, head of economics department, and Dr. Alexander Wilkie, assistant in English. Other members of the faculty will also be present. The dance will be informal.

Campus Imbibing Twice Discussed

Student Affairs Committee
Studies Social Code

"Spiking" punch and drinking at sorority and fraternity dances were discussed with regard to revision of the social code of the university at two meetings of the student affairs committee held Monday and Wednesday of this week and attended by a representative of each campus social group.

Also discussed were the length of socials, preserving Nevada traditions and conduct of some of the students in the snack bar.

Proposed revisions of the social code will be presented to all of the social groups at their Monday night meetings and discussed by the groups. The representatives and student affairs committee will meet again Tuesday night and probably appoint a sub-committee to revise the code.

The dean of men and dean of women and inter-fraternity council have received inquiries from colleges and universities all over the country requesting information as to what Nevada is doing to better social conditions and relations. They asked that Nevada send them information on any progress that has been made on this campus so that they might apply it to their problems.

Frat Paddle Week Avoids Group Eye Of Campus Council

"Hell week and hazing" have not yet reached the attention of the Interfraternity Council, announced Dr. Robert S. Griffin, councilman, today.

The council met last Monday afternoon, according to Dr. Griffin, and the "hell week and hazing" problem which has confronted the University of Nevada fraternity men was not brought before the group at that time.

X-Ray Campaign Figures Released

Late Thursday Tally Shows
803 Pictures Taken

Miss Christine L. Gabel, representative of the U. S. Public Health Service in charge of the tuberculosis campaign on the campus, has released the number of students and faculty members who have had their X-rays taken.

There had been 803 pictures taken by 4 pm Thursday, December 12. These included townspeople and a number of veterans' wives.

A novel method has been adopted by the members of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the honorary pre-medical fraternity on the hill which is sponsoring the campaign, to get more students into the gym and in front of the X-ray machine.

The members first engage a girl in a rapid conversation about some current topic and start walking down the quad, the next thing the girl knows she is in a line and someone is taking her name, home address and the name of her family physician. It works pretty well, so it has been reported.

Miss Gabel and her assistant, Wallace Escallier, have been assisted by six university students, Rondell Shaw, Robert Paterson, Hal Okholm, Hans Wolfe, Henry Stewart and Verla Ashby Schmidt.

FACULTY MAY SECURE SEASON CAGE TICKETS

Faculty members interested in seeing University of Nevada home basketball games can purchase season tickets for $5, thus saving $14.50 for the season. If general admission tickets were purchased for each individual game, the total cost would be $19.50.

Tickets for the season are now on sale at the comptroller's office and will be numbered around the edge from one to 18 and will be punched upon entering the gymnasium. Joe McDonnell, graduate manager, is in charge of the sale.

center, potting 22 points for the scoring honors of the night, and the rest of the team playing deliberate ball, the Georgetowners jumped into the lead at the outset and were never headed.

Melarkey and Davis Jimmy Melarkey and Grant Davis, gathering 18 and 16 points respectively, carried the brunt of the Nevada attack, but as the local sports editor covering the game for a downtown paper reports, the Wolves just couldn't "skate" fast enough to catch up to the Hoyas.

Apparently, the Wolves were playing under adverse game conditions. The arena used for the contest doubles as an ice skating rink, or as a basketball court, depending upon the occasion.

However, word received from the capitol city indicates that the Nevada squad that took the court against the Hoyas of Georgetown was as good a ball club as that one that gave the 18,000 fans in Madison Square Garden something to write home about.

Wolves May Return To New York

On the strength of their showing in Gotham town, the Wolves are considered a sure bet to be asked to appear for a return engagement at the Garden along about National Intercollegiate Basketball tournament time.

To be invited to that little clambake, you have to have something on the ball. Regardless of their loss to a good Georgetown team, the Pack gave the New Yorkers a fair sample of that "something."

St. John's Game

Playing a sensational brand of basketball, the likes of which has not been seen in Madison Square Garden for some time, Nevada's Wolf Pack became the current rage of sporting circles all over the country by downing a highly rated St. John's College five Tuesday night, 55 to 49.

Taking the floor 12 points underdogs, the Wolves lost no time in establishing their claim to fame, by jumping into a lead which they relinquished but once throughout the encounter.

Eighteen thousand partisan New Yorkers who witnessed the game expecting to see their pride and joy boys come through with

Campus Clerks Plan Xmas Party

Clerical staffs of the University of Nevada offices are giving a Christmas party December 23, for all office workers and a few guests.

The party will be in the student center in Stewart Hall at 4 pm. Admission is one gift to be hung on the tree. Only Santa Claus is exempted from bringing a present.

NO NUTTIN'

No old business. No new business. No members present.

Such was the order of the last Sagars meeting, held last Tuesday, Bill Buck, president, announced today. The uneventful meeting was quickly closed, Buck said, as roll call found most Sagars absent. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, December 17, Buck

The opinions expressed in the editorials of the Sagebrush are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the viewpoint of any other individual or of any campus organization.

EARLY "30"

The Sagebrush changes hands with this issue. Effective next week Lloyd Rogers takes over as editor. So, then, this has to be an early "30."

Lloyd should do a very good job. He has the qualifications, having served several years in the public relations department of the army, in addition to previous experience with the Brush.

The circulation department has had a shot in the arm. Bill Buck has lined up his staff, and henceforth the paper's subscribers should be receiving their weekly paper right on time. (We hope, we hope, we hope.)

This is a little late in the ball game for retrospect on "what might have been." After an inability to line up an executive staff early in the first part of the semester, I have been more or less scholastically strapped the rest of the way. That was the big single mistake this editor made; not putting the prod hard enough on potential assistants. From that sour beginning, I haven't been able to retrieve my studies sufficiently to be able to carry on both scholastic activities and Sagebrush successfully.

That says it, and you'll forgive me if I'm not in the mood right now to add more.

One final note—best of luck to Lloyd and his regime for success throughout the rest of the year.

DO YOU WANT A SNACK BAR?

Evidently not. That is the conclusion of Barbara Thompson, snack bar director. Virtually everything has happened to the place. Paintings have been snatched. The juke box has been rifled. Playing cards have been mutilated. Guests have generally kept the place looking like a pig sty.

The word "guests" is used advisedly. All patrons of the snack bar are taking advantage of a service rapidly becoming extinct. They are buying goods at cost. The YWCA establishment is a non-profit organization, run for the benefit of the students.

Why, then, this "hell with it" attitude? It is just as easy to keep the place orderly as to tear it apart. It is also just as easy to observe a few common rules of courtesy. The solution lies within those people who want to use, and enjoy, the snack bar.

Only two or three people out of line can wreak havoc on an otherwise orderly place. It takes only one fellow scattering a pack of playing cards to the four winds (and this has been done) to disrupt the entire appearance of the room.

The thefts are, of course, indefensible. It seems hard to believe that students would tear apart a juke box, or pilfer paintings; there must be a lot of "rotten apples" in the barrel some place. Should they ever be discovered, not only should suspension be imposed but court action should be instituted.

For the rest, however—the loungers, the persons who dump cigarettes on the floor, and leave coke bottles around and generally raise hell—Miss Thompson has another solution.

The snack bar will be padlocked—unless some changes are made, but quick.

CASE HISTORY OF 903 "T" By Sam Bull

Even as a youngster Willis K. Jellycoe showed precocious talent for gambling. Back on his dad's farm in southeastern Nevada his skill and luck at any game of chance kept his little friends—and his dad's hired hands, as well—in an eternal state of financial insecurity. Little Willie just couldn't lose.

The old man didn't take too strongly to Willis K.'s proclivity and, after an all-night crap-shooting session in which he attempted to teach Willie the errors of his ways, Willie left for Ely with a mortgage on the old homestead in his left hip pocket. Willie was 16 years old at the time.

It's an easy thing to do to trace Willis K. Jellycoe's activities from the time he hit Ely. He broke the bank in Ely's largest gambling house three times hand running, shooting craps. He ran away with everything in sight (including the dealer's wife) at black jack. And when he sat down at the roulette table the little ball acted like it was mesmerized. Three weeks after his arrival Willie left town via the fast freight, about two jumps ahead of a vigilante committee.

It was the same thing all over again in all the rest of the towns on Willie's itinerary, with exception, of course, in his mode of departure. Fallon, Tonopah, Carson—they all paid tribute to his mastery of the pasteboards or his talent for selecting numbers. At 22 years of age Willie was several times a millionaire.

Willie was getting bored. He was so uniformly successful in anything to do with betting that nobody would gamble with him any more. He decided to give Reno the benefit of his undivided attention. He'd always wanted to go there.

The last anybody ever heard of Willie is that he's shilling at the Palace during the afternoon and taking a course in philosophy from Professor Bugbee of the U. of N. during the mornings.

Willis K. Jellycoe, it seems, went broke betting that the Mapes Hotel is the largest hotel in the whole world.

Campusites Cast In Little Theater Stage Production

Professor Miller to Take Title Role in Play

Two University of Nevada faculty members and one student will take part in the Reno Little Theater's production of "The Late George Apley," Pulitzer prize play of 1937.

Edwin Semenza, director of the theater group, announced today that Professor William C. Miller of the English department will play the title role. Mr. James Forsyth, assistant in foreign languages, and Miss Joyce Nielson, a junior in the college of arts and science, also have parts in the show, which has a cast of 16.

Director Semenza said the play is a satire on the Brahmins, a typical family in the Boston "400" of 1912. He also said the play would be in period costume.

Opens January 13

Third production of the Little Theater's 1946-47 season, "The Late George Apley," will open January 13 and play seven evening performances, with one matinee before the final show.

Expressing the wish that University of Nevada students interested in the technical side of the Little Theater's productions would come in and see him, Mr. Semenza said he is at the theater every afternoon and evening.

"We need experienced or inexperienced technical help," he said. "We are so rushed around here that I'll probably cast the next show between breakfast and dinner on Christmas day."

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Math Club members have been invited to be guests of Dean Frederick Wood for a Christmas party at his home, 203 College drive, on December 13, at 7:30 pm.

Gamma Phi Eat 200 Hot Muffins At Annual Affair

Gamma Phi Beta pledges served more than 200 hot muffins to alumnae, actives and other pledges at their annual muffin worry Wednesday evening. All active members and alumnae were presented with corsages of desert holly tied with red ribbon. Gifts were exchanged, with Marjory Kean taking the role of Santa Claus.

Ida Kellough, pledge trainer, announced the committee chairmen as follows: Jean Nash, entertainment; Joyce Cliff, refreshments; Arlene Sorensen, invitations, and Mary Lou Sewell, decorations. The Christmas tree was presented to the house by Joyce Cliff. The mantle was decorated with pine boughs.

A take-off on actives by pledges was followed by a skit by the alums depicting the passing of time and changing of styles. Donna Wittwer and Arlene Sorensen led the girls in Christmas carols.

Alumni Association Prepares Directory

All graduates and former students of the university will receive double reply cards from the alumni association urging them to join the group, it was learned from Rex Daniels, secretary of the alumni association.

The alumni association is making preparations for compiling the 1946 edition of the alumni directory, an information book pertaining to former students. A general history of the student from the time of his graduation, his accomplishments and other matters of importance will be included in the book.

Senate Swears in Four New Members

Four men were sworn in as members of the university senate at a meeting held Wednesday, December 4. Of the four new senators one is to be a regular while the other three are alternates.

The new senator is John Witte, representing Sigma Rho Delta. His alternate is Ed Blair. The other alternates include Nick Jackson, Sigma Nu, and Bob Mills, from Theta Chi.

Hans Wolfe, student body president, said that representatives from Bourbon Hall and McGoogle Hall will probably be sworn in at the next meeting on December 18 after they are selected by their respective houses.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor: During half time at the Chico State-Nevada basketball game last Saturday, two of the yell leaders talked with the Chico State coach's wife. At that time, she told us of the favorable impression Nevada's athletic department made upon visiting teams. However, we did not ask her how impressed she was with Nevada's rooting section. Needless to say, this year, Nevada has the best team in its history. The question is, do Nevada students want to back their team enthusiastically or do they want organized rooting to cease?

It is not the function of the yell leaders to force students to sit together at games and support their team. It is, rather, to integrate the individual efforts of the students into an organized whole. Students should realize that it is the team they are backing—not the yell leaders.

We have been informed that the reserved student section will be abolished unless there is an immediate marked increase in student support.

Next week, Nevada plays host to three teams. What are they going to see—enthusiastic, organized yelling for the Nevada Wolf Pack or a discontinuance of all organized rooting?

Feeble attempts are worse than none.

Sincerely,
Tosca Masini

Library Receives German Volumes As Federal Gift

Sixty-three German books have been received by the University of Nevada library from the Library of Congress.

The books were acquired from foreign countries captured by the allies by the Library of Congress, which then created a new division called the Cooperative Acquisition of Recent Foreign Publications, and is sending the books to all research libraries interested.

One of the books written during the first part of World War II, is a history of German preparations for war, complete with photographs of war factories, hospitals, and civilian life during that time.

Other books are history, technology, economics, sociology, political science, science, and agriculture.

These books will be put on the library shelves for the university students.

TELEPHONE men are hard at work extending and improving telephone service in rural areas served by the Bell Companies. They're pushing a $100,000,000 three to five year program to give telephone service to all who want it just as fast as possible.

To do this they had to look beyond conventional telephone practices. New techniques and new and improved equipment had to be planned, developed and proved: Now they are furnishing telephone service over rural power lines, over new steel wire that requires fewer poles per mile, over insulated wire that can be buried directly in the ground and by means of rural radio.

Men who approach every problem with open minds . . . who are guided by ingenuity and resourcefulness rather than by established method . . . find telephony an ever stimulating and interesting career.

Nevada Trounces Chico State, 66-44

Sights Set on Bigger Feats In Coming Cage Tilts

With their sights on bigger things the University of Nevada Wolf Pack easily trounced Chico State by the impressive score of 66 to 44 last Friday evening. Floor play was ragged and spotty, but the Wolf Pack showed its capabilities, if not consistently throughout the game, at least in short bursts of energy and in a fast breaking down-court offense.

Bob O'Shaughnessy, after an unsuccessful first half attempt at the basket, seemed to have been rejuvenated by Coach Jake Lawlor's half time pep talk and "Bombsight" Bob zipped in eight field goals and four free throws for a neat total of 20. Grant Davis, springy Pack forward, followed with 17.

Bill Moylan did a fine job of keeping "forever shooting" Tip-ton, high scoring Chico man, to four buckets and Hal Fischer seemed to have complete control of the backboard.

Jim Melarkey played a good floor game, but was off on his jump-shot.

Modern Dance Films Shown to Classes

Dance films entitled "Design for Modern Dance," are being presented to all dance classes this week in the new gym, Miss Jacqueline Van Gaasbeek, dance instructor, announced today. The films were made by Mary Jane Hungerford, California dance instructor, and a southern California dance group.

Orchosis, women's dance club, is working on a spring dance program to be presented on the campus next semester, Miss Van Gaasbeek said, but details are not yet available.

Nevada Ski Club Will Meet Soon

University of Nevada Ski Club will meet shortly after Christmas, although a definite date has not been set, according to Barnes Berry, president of the organization.

Featuring the meeting will be a speech by Jim Scrugham, who is in charge of the ski patrol at Mt. Rose Bowl, on the "art" of skiing.

Also of interest at the coming meeting will be the moving picture illustrating action skiing.

Berry added that membership is still open for all university skiers interested in joining.

APPLY BEFORE DEC. 20 FOR DORM RESERVATION

Applications for accommodations in the men's dormitories for next semester must be submitted to the dean of men's office not later than December 20.

The office of dean of men announced that no responsibility will be assumed for the housing of anyone who fails to have his application on file on or before the deadline.

Pack Aerial Attack Blasts Hawaii, 26-7

Mackrides Completes 11 Passes in Aloha Bowl Game

University of Nevada's Wolf Pack launched their famed aerial attack Saturday, December 7, at Aloha Bowl football game. Over 25,000 spectators witnessed the muddy contest.

The Aloha Bowl, traditionally held on Christmas day before the war, was moved up this year as part of the anniversary program marking Pearl Harbor Day. Proceeds of the game go to the Shriner's Hospital to aid crippled children.

Bill Mackrides, Nevada's passing ace, spearheaded the attack by completing 11 passes with a soggy ball.

Mackrides and Gillom Score

The first Nevada score came when Mackrides fired a pass to Horace Gillom who took it on the one yard line and went over the goal. Buster McClure converted for the extra point.

A few minutes later, after a pass interception by "Cyclone" Sullivan, fullback Lloyd Rude plunged over for the Pack's second score.

In the opening minutes of the second quarter the Wolves added seven more points to their total. After a series of passes by Mackrides, Bill Bass raced over for a touchdown and McClure converted.

Nevada's final tally in the second quarter was made with sub-fullback Trachok packing the ball.

Hawaii Rolls in Closing Minutes

The Hawaii Rainbows were unable to get rolling until the closing minutes of the game when Dick Mamiya threw a touchdown pass to James Gormard.

The Hawaiians staged a colorful ceremony with 12 bands participating. A Shrine sponsored putt-putt race with all the characters taken from history was presented at half time.

Prominent ex-Renoites attending were James (Rabbit) Bradshaw who played for the Wolves in the Nevada-Hawaii tilt of 1920, and "Spud" Harrison, also a former Nevada grid star.

Nevada Ski Team Receives Invitation To Utah Ski Meet

An invitation has been extended the University of Nevada ski team to participate in the "snow cup" race at Alta, Utah, December 22, according to Barnes Berry, president of the ski team. The university athletic control board will meet shortly and decide whether the Nevadans will make the trip, stated Hans Wolfe, ASUN president.

The bid has been sent to Nevada and includes only "A" class skiers to enter the giant slalom course in Utah. There are six skiers in that bracket at the university, but with the ankle injury of Barnes Berry, the possible team entry will list five men.

The "snow cup" race is not a team competitive contest, but an independent race. Therefore, the Wolf Pack skiers will be seeking individual honors.

The five other Nevada skiers in the "A" class are Ashley Van Slyock, Cliff Benta, Mickey Munley, Ted King and Les Hawkins.

BUS ROUTE EXTENDED TO TRAILER COURT

Reno Bus Lines has extended its route for the benefit of people living in the university trailer court. Continuation of the bus line near the court will depend on the extent to which it is used, announced the office of the dean of men.

The bus runs every half hour from 6:30 am to 11:30 pm.

Nevada is the friendly campus. Watch where you park.

U.P. HEAD GUEST AT PRESS CLUB

Bob Bennyhoff, former university student and now manager of the United Press bureau in Reno, was the guest speaker at the University Press Club meeting, held on Monday, at the Theta house.

Mr. Bennyhoff told of his experiences while covering the news on "operations crossroads," atomic bomb tests at Bikini. He also showed photographs of the atomic explosion.

Following the speaker, a regular business meeting of the Press Club was held.

RIDING GROUP WILL INITIATE

A total of 32 new members will be initiated into Saddle and Spurs following the Christmas vacation, making a sum of 67 members, announced Pela Oyarbide, president of the campus organization.

Plans are, as yet, indefinite for their spring horse show.

Nevada Gridsters Return Home From Hawaiian Jaunt

Gridsters Enjoy Hawaiian Hospitality; Mud Bowl Ends Season

By Bob Sullivan

ALOHA, the Hawaiian word of greeting, parting and well wishing, means "I am always thinking of you," and that is exactly what the University of Nevada football party just returned from the land of enchantment will be doing for some time—thinking of their very pleasant week there.

Although we had a rugged football game, and the Aloha Bowl was turned into the "Mud Bowl" by two days of torrential rains, the trip was a fitting climax to a successful football season.

Arriving at the Honolulu airport at 10 pm Thursday, we were greeted by alohas, leis and the wonderful Hawaiian custom of a kiss with each lei by delegations from the Shriners and University of Hawaii student body. Of course, Pat Heher, Bill Morris and "Turk" Eliades, advance guard of the party that had been there for two days, were on hand with their contingent of hula girls.

Friday was spent resting from the long trip and with a short signal drill at the stadium. Friday evening we were guests of the University of Hawaii at a pep rally. And do we like their pep rallies—Hawaiian music, comedians and, of course, fascinating hula dancers. A couple of the boys were given ten minutes of instruction by professional hula instructors and wished it had been ten years—or so they said.

The real climax of the 1946 football season came Saturday night when, with the stubborn Rainbows off our hands and the mud finally off our bodies after two hours under a shower, we were the guests of the Shriners at a 12 course dinner. After the dinner we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of Reno at a party football players dream of from early September to December.

Of course the party broke up at last and the boys drifted off to various parts of Oahu, gone with the tropical winds, roaring surf, mid-Pacific moonlight, grass skirts, etc.

Most of the boys were back by Sunday afternoon when we were again guests of the Smiths, this time for dinner at the Moana Hotel, a swim party at Waikiki, and seats for the Tacoma-Honolulu pro-football game. Sunday evening the Smiths were again hosts at a banquet at the beautiful Queens Surf on Waikiki beach.

Monday most of the boys went shopping in Honolulu. Don Talcott must be about the most popular boy at the SAE house by now, he bought a 100 pound sack of sugar and lugged it all the way back to Reno.

No one knows what Buster McClure and Wildcat Morris got on their shopping tour, but it must have been nice—they missed the returning plane for it.

Don Talcott got the game ball and had all the players autograph it. The ever-thoughtful Don had a reason for this, he had a nephew born on the morning of the game, December 7, and brought the ball back to him.

Frats Are Planning To Greet Santa

Dances, Parties, Banquets Planned for Yuletide

With Santa Claus soon to make his formal appearance, fraternities are planning to greet him and the Christmas holidays with all the festivity due the occasion.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have a dinner dance for all alumni, active members and pledges to be held December 20 at the Twentieth Century Club. Carl Beams and his orchestra will provide the music.

Lambda Chi Alpha, along with its annual Christmas dance to be held tonight at the Twentieth Century Club, is also planning a Christmas dinner for about 12 underprivileged children. The dinner will be given at the Lambda Chi house Friday, December 20. Gifts will be presented to the children by Mike Galli who will act the part of Santa Claus for the fraternity.

Sigma Nu's are holding their annual Christmas dance Saturday, December 14, at the newly opened Strip night club on South Virginia Road. A seven-piece orchestra will provide the music.

Sigma Rho Delta held their Christmas dance last Saturday, December 7, as did Theta Chi which met at the Palamar Club. The theme for the formal was snowball winter. The dance floor was decorated with a large white snowball hanging from the ceiling in the middle of the ball-room.

Alpha Tau Omega are celebrating the yuletide season with their traditional gift exchange party which will be held this Monday, December 16. The party will take place at the ATO house.

Boulder Power Use Outlined in Speech

Use of Boulder dam power by southern Nevada industry was outlined by Mr. A. J. Shaver, resident engineer of the Colorado River Commission, before the Associated Engineers at a meeting held Friday, December 6, in Mackay Science Hall.

Mr. Shaver, a graduate of the University of Nevada electrical engineering school with the class of 1924, spoke of the future use of power from Boulder dam and explained problems of withdrawing power from the dam.

At the close of the meeting there was some discussion and refreshments were served to the assembled engineers.

Friday morning Mr. Shaver spoke to freshman engineers in the education auditorium and showed moving pictures of the building of Boulder dam.

THETA PLEDGES GIVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

Kappa Alpha Theta pledges will give a Christmas party for the active chapter, alumnae and mothers Tuesday night, December 17. The Theta house is decorated for Christmas with spruce and fir boughs, while on the mantle is a miniature house and snow scene. Poinsettia plants and a Christmas tree complete the yuletide season decorations.

Open house for all campus women was held by the Thetas last Thursday evening at 7:30. The house will be closed during vacation.

Phi Sigma Kappa are holding their Christmas dance tonight. Their chapter house is decorated for the occasion and "Ole" Santa Claus will be on hand to see that the "good" boys and girls get his heartiest greetings along with many presents.

Old Santa to Visit Campus Next Week

From all indications, the little, round fellow with the long, white whiskers will put in his appearance on the university campus early.

Santa, with the assistance of department advisors, should have his "presents," in the form of cinch notices, ready by Friday, December 20, the last school day before the Christmas vacation.

Information gleaned from the office of the registrar, directed by Mrs. Jeanette Rhodes, discloses that notices of delinquency are due on December 14 for compilation into lists for the deans of the colleges.

From the registrar, to the deans, to the advisors, to you who are "eligible" will be the route taken by the notices. The overall trip, taking not more than a week, should be completed in time to bring each recipient its cheery little greeting, "Merry Christmas."

ARGENT & AZURE, YET!

Do you know your school colors?

Probably the greater percentage of students would answer silver and blue. Well, being very technical, you are wrong.

According to one of the better authorities on such matters, namely, the World Almanac, the official colors of the University of Nevada are argent and azure.

If we are to use these exact terms, however, confusion would reign on the campus, especially in the executive branch of the rooting department . . . as students, joyfully break into the strains of "March, march on down the field, oh argent and azure."

would be a fallacy. The entire second half was a fight all the way, with the Pack emerging on top at the finish. Leading 27-21 at half time, the Wolves were headed early in the last period by a determined New York team that for a while looked like the world-beater club, advance publicity had proclaimed it. Putting on a spurt that would not be denied, the western team forged ahead late in the contest, and at the final whistle were well out in front.

Individual standouts were hard to pick on the Wolf Pack squad for each player turned in exceptional performances. Bob O'Shaughnessy, captain of the Wolves, brought the crowd to its feet time and time and time again with his superlative long shots and general floor play.

Davis High With 19 Points
Grant Davis, who was high man for the Pack, was great offensively and defensively. Jimmy Melarkey, coming through with his jump shot late in the game produced the points that caught and passed the New Yorkers.

Bill Moylan, although getting only one field goal, turned in the game's best defensive performance. Moylan's great defensive work was the spark that kept St. John's from scoring more points in the final minutes of the game.

Hal Fischer, guarding perhaps the best center in collegiate circles, was slow in getting under way, but as the game progressed, his backboard play was instrumental in starting the ball toward the New York end of the court.

Max Dodge, from all reports, displayed some faking tactics that left the fans gasping. Big though he is, Dodge's ability to handle himself on the floor is becoming more apparent.

Game Not All Nevada
The show wasn't entirely a Nevada affair, however. Harry Boykoff, the greatest center to play in the Garden, was good for 22 of the St. John's total 49 points. Six foot, nine inch Boykoff's condition was offered as an excuse for him not getting more points than he did, although his efforts were good enough for the evening's individual scoring honors.

Coach Joe Lapchick, mentor of the St. John's outfit, said after the game, "Nevada deserved to win from start to finish. We were beaten by a great team and I don't want to see them again." St. John's players who opposed the Wolf Pack voiced the same sentiments.

Bonnie Yturbide, University Student, Unhindered by Physical Handicap

"What a bizarre situation," Bonnie Yturbide remarked when he discovered that the sign he had carried down the main street of San Jose, California, was a funeral home's "reserved for parking" sign.

Yturbide, who has been blind from early youth as the result of an accident, enjoyed the joke his colleagues played on him for he has a fine sense of humor, S. H. Vinocour, speech instructor in English, said of him.

While in San Jose, in addition to carrying signs down the street and hunting frantically for his pants which were hidden outside of his room, Yturbide took first place in the Western Association of Teachers of Speech debate tournament.

A graduate of Reno high school, Yturbide is now a sophomore at the university majoring in political science. He is a pre-legal student and has plans of completing his law work at Stanford University.

The campus is by now familiar to him and by snapping his fingers he can tell how close he is to solid objects. Students of physics will understand that he gets the bounce of sound waves reflected from the solid objects.

Attended Salem

Before coming to Reno, he attended Salem high school in Oregon where he was state amateur wrestling champion. At the school for the blind in Berkeley, California, he learned to read and write in Braille. All notes that he takes in classes are done with the Braille slate and stylus.

Yturbide was president of the senior class in high school and was graduated with honors. He is one of Nevada's Pepsi-Cola Company scholarship winners. In selecting the students for the awards, a thorough and difficult examination is given.

To enable Yturbide to attend the university, Ray O. Smith of Harold's Club has set up a fund through the comptroller's office of the university to be used to hire a person to read assignments aloud to him. Martin Risard, who is his reader, stated that he never has to read material to Yturbide more than once.

Vinocour is liberal with praise for Yturbide. At the first speech contest Yturbide attended in Compton, California, Vinocour was worried about how he would get around from place to place. But his debate colleague, Scott Whitney, and he are inseparable during the contests and difficulties are never encountered.

He enjoys a good cigar when nervous and, nervous or not, enjoys a glass of beer or wine. Barbara Thompson, executive secretary of YWCA, told how amazed she was to discover that when riding in a car Yturbide could estimate within a few miles the speed at which the car was moving.

Christmas Concert Will Be Staged In Gym Monday

Tuttle, Mertel Featured as Singer, Soloist in Xmas 'Messiah'

Nona Lee Tuttle, university student and well known local vocalist, and Holly Mertel, former Nevada fellow in chemistry and prominent church soloist, will be featured in the Christmas concert of the "Messiah" to be staged in the gymnasium Monday evening, December 16, at 8:15.

The Reno civic chorus and orchestra have been rehearsing Handel's oratorio weekly since November 5 and has averaged 100 voices in the chorus. University singers have also been rehearsing the "Messiah" in music classes. Combining the talent in the two groups, a total of approximately 125 voices will be heard in the concert.

"This is the first Christmas season since the war began that we have attempted to present the 'Messiah' because of the shortage of male voices, but the men are back en masse this season and the eleventh free Christmas concert is shaping into one of the finest in the history of the civic music groups," stated Professor Theodore H. Post, concert conductor and director of the university department of music.

A combined rehearsal of the orchestra and chorus will be held Sunday afternoon, December 8, at 2:30 and a final dress rehearsal will be conducted the following Sunday afternoon at the same time.

In addition to Nona Lee Tuttle and Holly Mertel, the following soloists will add some of Handel's brilliant arias to the concert: Grace Coltrane Kilkelly, formerly a member of the "Hour of Charm" choir and currently a local choir soloist; Ruth Ceander, who has sung before many civic and fraternal groups in Reno; Dorothy Mohr, former church vocalist in New York City, and J. Henry Welton, visiting tenor from the College of Pacific music faculty.
