Students Starred On Radio Forum

Four University of Nevada students took part in KOH's "Child Clinic Forum of the Air" last Monday night at 8:30. This is the second in a series of radio programs sponsored by the Nevada State Association of Women's Clubs in which Nevada students have participated.

Jack Musselman, Bonnie Yturbe, Dorrie Maloney and Harold Hayes were the university students who participated in the program this week. Musselman acted as moderator on the roundtable discussion and Yturbe summarized the opinions of the group, which also included Reno and Sparks high school students. Miss Maloney and Hayes represented the university on the forum.

Press Club's Bids To Be Announced During Mackay Day

Bids to join the Press Club will be issued on Mackay Day, and names suggested to receive these bids were discussed at a meeting of the organization Monday night, February 17, at the Kappa Alpha Theta house, Dick Armstrong, president, said.

In order to qualify for membership, a student must have seven or more credits in journalism or have worked for two years on either campus publication, the Sagebrush or the Artemisia.

Additional dues were collected from members for the Press Club pictures in the Artemisia. Jane Perkins and Virginia Olesen were appointed to form a committee to amend several by-laws of the Press Club constitution, Armstrong added.

The problems discussed included, "How should a girl who has lost her reputation because of malicious gossip redeem it?" and "Why should a high school student demand to stay out much later than college regulations allow university students?" A five dollar prize will be offered for the best solution sent in by the listening audience, said Mrs. Margaret Von Fluee, director of the program. Each Monday the university will be represented by one or more students.

Practice Teaching Enrollment Rises

Enrollment in practice teaching classes has increased from 13 during war years to 40 students at present. However, the latter figure is still only half of the peak enrollment of 1941-42, Dr. Fred D. Traner, dean of education, said this week.

"Although there was a general trend away from teaching during the war, enrollment in the school of education has indicated a slight pickup in the field this year," said Dean Traner.

In view of the greater attention directed toward the teaching shortage, and the comparatively low salaries, prospects are high that Nevada legislators will do something to make the teaching profession more attractive to students, he added.

Return of veterans to the campus, said the dean, has made no appreciable difference in enrollment in the department. Only those men who were interested in education before the war have returned to continue in this field.

New Books Donated To Campus Library

Mrs. Edith Holmes recently donated several new books to the library memorial created in honor of her husband, the late Prof. William Olmstead Holmes.

Among the new books given were two copies of "Of Human Bondage," five copies of "Look Homeward Angel," and three copies of "The Web and the Rock," both by Thomas Wolfe.

Mr. James J. Hill, librarian, said that Mrs. Holmes also plans to make available some books for English students soon.

Representatives from the University of Nevada will include Miss Elsa Sameth, professor of physical education for women, Miss Jacquelyn Van Gaasbeek, instructor in women's physical education, and students Harriet Lee and Jeanne Worlock. Griffin Appointed To Housing Group

Dr. Robert S. Griffin, dean of men, was appointed to the Reno Housing Authority by the city council, it was recently announced.

The housing authority was established by the City of Reno to provide emergency housing for veterans and their families, Dr. Griffin explained. The mayor appointed a board of five men during the war when the group was formed, three of whom were members of the city council. The other two men are local businessmen.

Highland Terrace and the New Park Terrace projects are directly under the jurisdiction of the group, Dr. Griffin added.

Dr. Griffin will fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of councilman William P. Barrett.

Fine Arts Group Sponsors Exhibit

Fine Arts sponsored an art exhibit held Monday through Friday in the English seminar room of the university library. Miss Muriel Goodwin, arts and craft teacher at Reno high school, exhibited pastels, watercolors, oils depicting Reno, Lake Tahoe and Virginia City scenes. There were 17 paintings in all.

The exhibition included two Indian girls, one in oils, and the other in watercolors; a snow scene, an approaching storm at Mt. Rose Bowl; "The Kenough Home" on the Reese River, Nevada; Reese River, Nevada; "Parlor," McCleary's ranch, Plumas county, California, done in oils; scene of Lake Tahoe, oils; St. Mary's Church scene; opera house in Virginia City, watercolors; corner of opera house, peak of the Brewery; top of St. Mary's Church, Virginia City; "Looking up Douglas Alley," Reno.

Faculty Council, Student Senate Discuss Grading

Students Raise Questions, Get Explanations By Dean Wood

Instructions have never been issued to any department in this university stating that it is necessary to fail 10 per cent of a class. Dr. Fredrick Wood, dean of the college of arts and science, said Wednesday afternoon in a joint meeting of the administrative council and student senate.

Dean Wood stated that it is logical to assume that a certain per cent of a class will fail. As this university must maintain standards that will compare with those of other institutions, a grade of "A" here must be just as hard to get as it is in other schools.

Members of the student senate presented various cases to the council where students felt they had been graded unjustly.

Hans Wolfe, ASUN president, cited a case where one instructor had told his class at the beginning of the semester that an "A" grade was reserved for God, a grade of "B" set aside for the professor; therefore, the only grades that the class could receive were "C," "D" and "F."

Unjust statements of this nature would not be made if the university were able to hire more professors with background and experience. Word has been sent to all department heads to notify their instructors to read and understand the grading regulations thoroughly and to stop causing confusion among the students, Dean Wood added.

Ty Short, Sigma Nu senator, asked about the "personal equation" formula used by some instructors for determining grades. He stated that 25 per cent of the grade is based on final examination, 25 per cent on class work, and the remaining 50 per cent on the instructor's opinion of the student.

In explanation, Dean Wood stated that the instructor is responsible for determining the amount of emphasis placed on each phase of class work.

Instructors have been told to straighten out these difficulties with students. "The faculty makes and obeys its own rules and students with complaints may come to see me," Dean Wood said.

Dr. George W. Sears, head of the department of chemistry, stated that the students can not expect perfection with new and inexperienced instructors on the staff.

This condition not only prevails at this university, but in schools all over the country. We are passing through a period of expansion in American colleges and there is bound to be deficiencies, Dr. Wood said.

Wolfe stated that the students need some assurance that their complaints would be relayed to the entire faculty.

"It's one thing to talk about these problems and another to act on them. All students who have registered complaints about instructors saying that they must 'flunk' 10 per cent of their class or lose their jobs, want some action taken," Wolfe emphasized.

The scores were 3620-3560 and 1843-1759, both in favor of Nevada. Soger Olmsted was high for Nevada in both matches with a score of 374 out of a possible 400.

Matches against the University of Idaho and University of Pittsburg were also fired, but returns from these two schools have not been received as yet.

Actives Command Pledges to Slave

SAE Work Week to Begin Monday Afternoon

February 24 spells trouble for Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges.

"Work week," according to SAE officers, means exactly that. Woe unto those pledges who throw all caution to the winds and take the expression lightly.

During the war GIs inhabited the "happy home" of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. What could be worse than GIs? In other words much can be found with which the neophytes of the group can occupy their time—spare or otherwise.

Walls need washing and painting, the garret and basement need a good straightening out, the grounds need a raking, silverware needs polishing, and if you need a baby sitter during the midnight show Saturday just call the SAE house.

Projects catering to the untortodox are also on the menu. Entering the house upon hands and knees, rising at three in the morning to shine "big brother's" shoes, no shaving, no showering, no smoking, no drinking—no love, no nothin'! Absolute silence in the presence of actives is a must; eating meals from paper plates on the floor is a mess!

Pledges will serenade the sororities after dinner Monday night. This will be in celebration of the "silent seven" days which ensue thereafter.

Taking part in work week, which commences at noon Monday, will be approximately 25 pledge members. Those surviving will be announced at a later date.

on preparations, refreshments and cleanup will be appointed later from freshman women with an upperclass chairman, Miss Amodie announced.

ATO Pledges Don Overalls for Week Prior to Initiation

Neophytes Perform Tasks At Informal Initiation Held Last Night

Pledges of ATO will wind up their "work week" tomorrow, Dick Elmore, president of the fraternity, announced.

An informal initiation was held last night at which time "neophytes" performed various tasks of tradition.

Those surviving the "week" are Neal Corbett, Todd Kerr, Jack Wolfe, Mark Bray, John Laxalt, Glen Menu, Bruce Leggett, Clifford Bauta, Franklin Rahbeck, Jerry Dondero and Gene Mills. James Wright, James Miller, Robert Pearce, Pete Pridgen, Emil Ott, William Stoops, William Hancock and Donald Smales are fellow sufferers.

Other pledges include Joseph Smales, Fred Hiltz, Robert Sumner, Ed Bosler, David Kinneberg, George Groth, Daniel Hellwinkle, Fred Shave, Emmet Munley, Robert Ken.

Amateur Radio Club Meets on Campus

The bi-monthly meeting of the Nevada Amateur Radio Association was held today on the campus, according to Professor Irving Sandorf, professor of electrical engineering.

The group was founded 17 years ago, and is composed of persons in amateur radio.

The main objectives of the association are to write various city ordinances for Reno's radio stations, and to instruct those people who are interested in the mechanical phase of radio.
