

Souvenir Auction Features Music To Close Drive

The WSSF auction next Tuesday in the education auditorium will feature music by Joyce Ficus and the "Irishers," and a variety of student entertainment. Sam Debitanto will act as master of ceremonies, and faculty members will be auctioneers, said Will Rogers, chairman of the event. Articles received from movie stars and famous persons will be auctioned off to University of Nevada students beginning at 7:15 pm.

The World Student Service Fund drive has been in progress on the University of Nevada campus since February 28, and the auction will end it. The purpose of the drive is to raise funds for aid to foreign students. So far, about 150 dollars has been raised, said Rogers.

Sigma Nu Leads In Mural Sports; Track Meet Next

The inter-fraternity race for the Kinnear trophy is now well into the home stretch. Intramural basketball is nearing its end and the cinder experts are ready to take over.

At present the Sigma Nus are leading the field with a 46 point lead over their nearest opposition, the ATOs.

The trophy now graces the mantle of the Sigma Nu house as a consequence of last year's triumph. The Sigma Nus, they say, intend to keep it there.

There are a few events to be considered, namely baseball, track and tennis, before the Nus can feel the coveted cup is out of danger of being carried off.

Lining out in first, second and third order are Sigma Nu 217.60 points, ATO 160 points, SAE 140.20 points.

The theme of this year's conference will stress Pan-Hellenic relations and good sorority rushing.

A program has been outlined for the weekend including informal discussions, a formal banquet and a guided tour of scenic spots in the San Francisco area.

Among the Gamma Phis who will attend are Shirley Bell, president; Helen Burr, Jean Nash, Norma Walsh, Jean Haginbuch, Lea Glaser, Betty Burr and Joan McCabe.

Monday Classes: 8 am, 8:40; 9 am, 8:50-9:30; 10 am, 9:40-10:20; 11 am, 10:30-11:10. Assembly 11:20-12:10. Morrill Hall bell will signify class periods.

Prof's Salary Raise Petition Circulated To Students on Hill

Petitions asking the state legislature to retain the proposed budget for the University of Nevada are now being circulated around the campus by the Independents.

The contents of the petition are as follows: Whereas: The University of Nevada must compete with other colleges in its faculty salary scale or lose members of its staff to said colleges; whereas the proposed budget of the University of Nevada would allow it to compete favorably with other universities in the acquisition of capable faculty members; and whereas the withdrawal to employ such capable faculty members has been hitherto insufficient.

Be it resolved by the undersigned students in good standing at the University of Nevada, that the budget of the university for the next biennium, as ratified by the regents, be enacted into law without change or alteration.

NOTICE

All men must have their excuses for not growing beards in to Joel Morris, Whitey Knowles, or the ASUN office by March 15. None will be accepted after that date.

Bean Feed Slated For Campus Women April 8, Gow House

A bean feed for all the women at the University of Nevada will be held April 8 at the dining hall, it was announced.

Althea Benedict, senior student, is chairman of the affair whose purpose is to promote friendships and create more harmonious relations among university women.

Entertainment and refreshments are being planned by the various women's organizations.

The party will be strictly informal and the committee has suggested that all those attending wear jeans.

Logandale Student Given Scholarship

John David Lewis, 17, Logandale, Nevada, has been selected winner of the Carl Raymond Gray Union Pacific scholarship, which allows a $100 stipend for attendance at the University of Nevada beginning the fall semester 1949. The scholarship was awarded on the basis of vocational agriculture achievements and scholastic attainments.

He is a senior student at Moapa Valley high school, Overton, and also president of the Moapa Valley chapter of Future Farmers of America. He has conducted a supervised farming program in dairying, under the direction of Neil Stewart, vocational agriculture instructor.

The Carl Raymond Gray scholarship is awarded annually to the outstanding vocational agriculture student of Nevada in areas traversed by the Union Pacific railroad.

Elwin Pulsipher, Logandale, was selected alternate for this award.

ASSEMBLY

A student assembly will be held Monday morning at 11 am at the new gymnasium. All classes will be cut 10 minutes, staggering the schedule for the morning classes.

Julie Hayden, who will star in the forthcoming Reno production of "The Glass Menagerie," will be present to say a few words.

Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society, will award their keys, and Rex Jemison, ASUN president, will discuss the proposed budget.

The band will be on hand to furnish music at the beginning and at the end of the program.

22nd Army Day Will Be Observed Saturday, April 9

Special military ceremonies Saturday, April 9, at Army installations throughout the Sixth Army area will mark the 22nd observance of Army Day. It was announced today at Sixth Army headquarters.

By tradition, April 6, anniversary of the entrance of the United States into World War I, is the date customarily observed. However, General Mark W. Clark, Sixth Army commander, has announced that major military installations in the Sixth Army area, which includes California, Nevada, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Utah will plan special activities for Saturday, April 9, in order to afford the public maximum opportunity to attend and participate.

This year Sixth Army observances are aimed to demonstrate the ways in which the Army operates as a part of a team for security. Close cooperation with the Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps will be emphasized in ceremonies scheduled at all installations in the Sixth Army area. The National Guard, Organized Reserve Corps and Reserve Officers Training Corps will also participate.

Tentative plans include day-long open houses at the Presidio of San Francisco, Fort Ord and Fort MacArthur, California; and Fort Lewis and Fort Worden, Washington. Parades have been scheduled in Los Angeles, Portland and special programs for the observance of the day.

In planning the observance, the Sixth Army is carrying out President Truman's proclamation requesting Army units throughout the nation to mark the day with appropriate ceremonies.

Mr. Truman said the Army is, "a bulwark of the nation's defense in war and a faithful servant of the people in time of peace."

"Since the fortunes of our nation and the peace of the world depend in part upon the skill, the gallantry and the uncompromising devotion of the Army of the United States," the President said, "let us all accord to our Army the signal recognition that it deserves."

Book Illustrations Drawn by Sheppard

John Craig Sheppard, assistant professor of art, has been signed to illustrate "Horses of Conquest," a story of the role horses have played in the history and development of the world.

The American publishing rights have been purchased by the University of Oklahoma Press. The book, by R. Cunningham-Graves, has been published in England and South America.

VETS ADVISED TO SPECIALIZE IN VOCATIONS

Record-breaking college enrollments since the end of the war will, in the next few years, result in increased competition for professional and administrative jobs, a Bureau of Labor Statistics report, prepared for Veterans Administration, revealed.

Vocational advisers and appraisers in VA guidance centers use the report as an aid in counseling disabled veterans planning to take courses of education or training.

Because of the unprecedented number of college graduates entering the labor market, the report said, employment requirements for many jobs "are likely to be raised."

The report suggests that veterans enter courses of education or training "as closely related as possible to their interests and capacities."

Those who plan to go into office occupations, the report continued, should "consider specific training in this field, as many employers prefer workers with well-rounded business school or college business administration training to those with college degrees in liberal arts."

A veteran seeking advice and guidance from VA "should be made aware of the competition which he is likely to meet in many fields," the report said. "He will be well-advised to consider more of the less-crowded though perhaps less-glamorous fields, and to take courses which will enable him to qualify for more than one type of job."

Five Nevada Men Apply for Admission To Army Academy

Five University of Nevada students are among the 2000 applicants for admission to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. The candidates took a three day series of mental, physical and medical tests last week at the Presidio in San Francisco.

University of Nevada students taking the test were Leonard Lewis Battaglia, Donald Leslie Carter, James Emmett Martin, Jack Evan Parke, and Dennis D. Whalen.

Lt. Col. H. M. Snyder, Jr., West Point instructor, said that probably three per cent of the group would fail the physical aptitude test, and 30 to 40 per cent would be disqualified in the medical examination. Only 700 of the 2000 applicants will be admitted to the July class at West Point.

Group Work Course Now Being Offered

"Orientation for Group Work," a course for people who may need to handle groups, is being offered for the first time by the school of education at the University of Nevada.

The course is sponsored by the group work section of the Council of Social Agencies. Guest speakers will conduct most of the lectures. Miss Jean Howden, executive secretary of the campus YWCA, has been named co-ordinator of the course and will give examinations and grades.

Although intended for second semester sophomores, the course may be taken by others with the permission of Dean Fred W. Traner of the school of education. The course will be catalogued as Education 383, and will be for two credits.

Administration Deadweight Cited As Undesirable Factor

Chicago Railroad Fair to Feature S. F. Cable Cars

A complete San Francisco cable car system will be transplanted to Chicago and operated at the Railroad Fair this summer by the Western Pacific Railroad.

On a site directly inside the main gate of the Fair, which last year drew over 2½ million visitors, the Western Pacific will build a replica of the turntable at Powell and Market Streets and a loop of track along the shore of Lake Michigan, complete with cable slot and rumbling cable. One of the famous cars, which are now rated as San Francisco's number one tourist attraction, will be loaned by the Municipal Railway and operated by San Francisco platform men adept at playing concertos on the gong. Visitors to the Fair will be given free rides as a taste of what they may enjoy on a visit to the "cable car city."

The Chicago Railroad Fair will run from June 25 through October 2. Many of the nation's important railroads will have exhibits dramatizing features of the territory they serve, entertainment being the prime motif; Theme spectacle of the Fair is the gigantic pageant of the history of rail transport "Wheels a-Rollin'," written by the late Edward Hungerford. An old-fashioned narrow gauge railroad carries visitors from one end of the grounds to the other.

The Sundowners will initiate several members into their organization soon, but they won't say who, when, where, what it will be like, or even why.

Sundowners Select Somewhere Soon, Sombody Says

"Certain lucky members from various fraternities," one Sundowner said, "who can prove to be worthy of the traditions and standards of the club will be initiated."

The university catalog says of the Sundowners: "The organization is composed of men who are elected to membership because they have exhibited the characteristics of good fellowship. Membership is not restricted to undergraduate students."

Dance Limelighted For Campus Groups

Dances will highlight this week's social calendar with four campus organizations holding affairs this weekend.

Honoring new pledges, Theta Chi fraternity will stage a sweat-dance at the chapter house Saturday night. Harold Tiggler is in charge of the affair.

Sigma Nu's will hold their pledge dance at The Strip with Harry McKissick in charge of arrangements. The Irishers will furnish the music.

Highlanders, a campus veterans group, will entertain at a semi-formal dance at the Reno air base. Dan Linfesty, social chairman, said an orchestra will be on hand.

Changing the trend of dances, the Independents will travel to Galena Creek ski hut for a hamburger fry tonight. Gordon Baker, social chairman, said that a bus will leave from Stewart Hall at 7 pm.

Concentration on Four Colleges Advocated by Lattin

During a meeting between the student improvement committee and the ways and means committee yesterday, Senator Ralph Lattin denied opposition to the university's plan for improvement. He stressed, however, that he was against further expansion which would tend to weaken the four major colleges which in his estimation constitute the purpose for

SENIORS

Let's once and for all get this complicated business of the senior ball straight.

Each senior is entitled to two invitations his own and one for a friend. Each invitation, when accompanied by a ticket entitles one couple to attend the dance and breakfast. The dance will be held at the 20th Century Club on Saturday, March 19.

To be entitled to a late night of 3 am each girl must show the invitation to her house mother.

The "get-up" for the dance is formal for the gals and tux's or dark suits for the guys.

The bids (invitations) and tickets may be picked up at the ASUN president's office during office hours which are from 2-4 on Mondays and Wednesdays and 8-9:50 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Now that every one is either straight or really confused we will see you there Saturday.—Signed Wally Green, senior class president.

Student Employment Hits All Time Low

Available jobs are at an all time low, according to information received from the offices of the dean of men and the dean of women.

Elaine Hammill, secretary to Dean Mobley, reports that applicants come in every day, but no jobs have been available for some time. The biggest majority of girls are looking for part time typing or baby sitting jobs.

Virginia Hamilton in the dean of men's office says that the situation is just as bad in the men's department. In Dean Griffin's office there is a job notice bulletin board where jobs are posted, but the board has been vacant of notices recently.

DISTRICT PRESIDENT VISITS THETA HOUSE

Mrs. James Lively, district president of Kappa Alpha Theta's seventh district, visited Beta Mu chapter on the campus the first three days of this week.

Pebble Beach, near Carmel, Calif., will be the scene for the sorority's district convention the latter part of June, she announced.

Mrs. Lively consulted with new chapter officers and spoke to members in a joint meeting Monday night. She was a guest at several dinners where she talked with members of the faculty.

PATT PIOCH TO WED DR. JOHN W. SUTTON

Patt Pioch, sophomore journalism major and Dr. J. W. Sutton, instructor in chemistry, will be married tomorrow in the First Methodist Church. The Rev. Mr. Don S. Fleming will read the single ring ceremony.

Susanne Weiner, freshman, will be maid of honor. James Sutton, Menlo Park, Calif., will be best man for his brother. Miss Pioch plans to continue her studies at the University of Nevada.

NU ETA EPSILON MAY BE REVIVED

The Associated Engineers, headed by its executive council, is working on plans to reinstate Nu Eta Epsilon, a local engineering society which lapsed during the war, according to Jim Helmick, president of the association.

Those eligible for admission to the society are senior students ranking in the top fourth of their class and junior students who rank in the top eighth of their class scholastically.

A faculty committee, supervised by Dr. Everett W. Harris, associate professor of mechanical engineering, is investigating student engineering grades to determine who is eligible.

Members of the Associated Engineers executive council are President Jim Helmick and the presidents of the various engineering departments: Jim Chester, electrical engineering; Alberto Barrios, mining engineering; George Newell, mechanical engineering, and Bob Bryant, civil engineering.

Reno Harolds Club Scholarships Given

Harolds Club of Reno announced last night, for the fourth consecutive year, the coming award of scholarships for the complete course at the University of Nevada. This year there will be 20 of the $4,000.00 gifts made by Harolds Club. By alternate years, the club gives 34 scholarships, including the 14 smaller schools in Nevada.

The scholarships, which will amount to a commitment this year of $80,000.00 call for the complete four year course and pay for all expenses, including studies, recreation, clothes, and student activities.

NEVADA'S PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATURE?

Nevada's 1949 legislature has an excellent opportunity to take steps towards making this state financially sound.

Legislative moves to adopt either in part or in full the Gorvine report on administrative reorganization would eliminate much of the fiscal turmoil in Carson City.

The opportunity to do something about this report has been present during the entire legislative session. Still, nothing has been done other than a little talk. Could it be that some legislators would rather see duplication, waste and inefficiency burden the taxpayer, than risk the possibilities of agitating their government-job-holding constituents?

Editor Joe McDonald of the Nevada State Journal performed a great public service when he published the Gorvine report as a supplement to his newspaper several months ago. Unfortunately, it was probably a little gray for the average citizen to read. Those who took the time found that the reorganization of the state government as proposed by Gorvine is not entirely original, but based on the successful operation of similar plans adopted in other states.

Gorvine points out that by 1939 twenty-seven states had completely or partially remodelled their administrative structure. And, since 1939, about one-third of the states, in spite of the diversion of activity and interests resulting from the war, have instituted administrative reforms.

If other states can raise the value of the "tax dollar" through reorganization of government, then why can't Nevada?

The small population of the state should be a decisive factor in facilitating such streamlining. However, it appears that it's a drawback inasmuch as the "politicians" come too close to outnumbering the voters.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Jon:
For several years now the old gym has been used as a catch-all for visiting personnel as well as a university dormitory; we have not been averse to having all varieties of visiting basketball, ski, track and tennis teams moved in with little or no notice, with the attendant midnight long distance telephone calls and other furor.

Now, however, some of us think that higher echelons have gone a bit too far. Last week some 19 contestants in the national high school ski finals were moved into the gym. Why? These people are in no way connected with university sports or other activities. Telephone calls for these gentlemen came in at all hours, including those of the early morning, when most of us try to snatch a few hours of sleep for next day's classes. Life was made miserable by heaps of ski equipment all over the tables, the constant stink of ski waxes, discoveries that the visitors had used up the hot water when we wanted to shower, etc.

Most of us don't mind living in the old gym, difficult as conditions sometimes get; some of us, such as myself, would live nowhere else. However, a man's home, no matter how humble, is purported to be his castle. It seems to us that someone is getting out of paying expensive accommodations for his high school ski teams through the sinecure of payment of a dollar per night per man to the university.

Persons at fault here are not, I am sure, campus people; commercial interests in matter like this tie the hands of university officials in more examples than this. The question seems to be this: Is the university going to let its life be controlled by extra academic interests?

How about this?
Yours very truly,
Barney Childs.

To the Citizens of Nevada:
In order to continue efficient operation, the University of Nevada must have buildings, equipment and able personnel. Of these things the last named is most essential. No physical plant can provide good educational facilities without an efficient teaching staff.

For years the burden of maintaining academic standards has been borne by a group of men who were permanently located in Reno, who had taken firm root here and who were not to be induced to go elsewhere by offers of higher salaries and better conditions. Death and retirement are rapidly depriving the university of the services of these men. We recently lost three by death alone within a period of 60 days. These men must be replaced by men of equal abilities and training who will become permanent members of the staff. Salaries now paid do not attract men of this class or, if we secure them at all, they go elsewhere at the first opportunity. Opportunities are numerous, and there is constant turnover in the teaching staff.

Because of constant change in personnel, the staff tends to be composed largely of younger and relatively inexperienced men. Many of these are able and conscientious but, by the time they have gained one or two years of experience, they are offered better opportunities elsewhere. The largest single department of the university, in point of enrollment, normally employing eight full time and several part time instructors of different ranks, now has only two full time members who were on the staff prior to September, 1948.

Here as elsewhere one gets no more than he pays for. If the people of Nevada want to maintain an efficient university that will provide adequate educational opportunity for this and the generations to follow they must make provision to pay salaries that will permit competition with other schools for the services of competent instructors.

The Regents and the University administration have recently approved a scale of salaries somewhat higher than those now being paid. They have done their part; let us see to it that the Legislature provides the funds necessary to put this policy into effect. These funds are requested in the budget already submitted to the legislature Faculty, Alumni, and student body are strongly supporting the Regents and the Administration in this policy; that is to say that those most interested and best informed as to the needs of the University are in agreement.

If you are with us, contact the members of the Legislature others with whom you have influence, urging that University of Nevada be given adequate support.

Combined Student and Faculty Committee of the University of Nevada.

Campus Queries

What do you think the Sagebrush cartoon of the professor receiving his monthly pittance as he looks over at the high salary positions in private business? Asked this question this week, students had much to say about it.

Pat Welty, freshman, journalism major, Gamma Phi, "More of the same type of cartoon should be used in the Sagebrush until something is done about this situation of low salaries."

Bonny Malignoni, senior, Spanish major, Tri-Delt, "It is good to know that the students are behind this and that it just isn't the professors that are worried about the low salaries."

Dick Eason, junior business student, Sigma Nu, "It's just an illustration of the truth, that's all."

R. C. Sieber, junior history major, "A mass meeting of students should be held to protest the low salaries of professors and the evacuation of profs from Nevada to higher paid jobs. Nothing will be accomplished with just one or two people talking to the legislature."

Jackie Tavell, freshmen sociology major, Theta, "Students should have interest in this because it is one way to get their families interest so something will be done."

Charles Keever, sophomore psychology major, "This cartoon is typical of the whole situation in Civil Service and the teaching profession."

Dave Towner, veteran sophomore engineering student, "This cartoon represents the situation very accurately and is not the least bit unfair. The Sagebrush is absolutely right for printing it."

Dorothy Halfacre, junior Tri Delt, "This situation is truer in Nevada than in some other states. I'm glad the Sagebrush printed the cartoon."

Will Rogers, junior business student, "This problem should be publicized more than it has been. If you compare the education required of a teacher with that of a business man, and then compare salaries, you see a reason for this problem."

Preston Cedarholm, veteran engineering sophomore student, "An increase in salaries is warranted in some cases but not all."

George Holden, sophomore psychology major, "The more you pay a professor, the better he will be. Our university professors should get more money."

You learn little from victory—much from defeat.

VETERANS' QUESTION BOX

Q. I was honorably discharged from the army in 1946, but have not applied for readjustment allowance yet. How long will this benefit remain available to me?

A. Generally, this benefit must be claimed within two years from discharge or release from active service or two years from July 25, 1947, whichever is later.

Q. As an honorably discharged veteran of World War II, I would like to know to what hospitalization I am entitled.

A. If you have a service-connected disability, you have top priority for VA hospital care. If you suffer with a non-service connected disability, you may be hospitalized under existing law if beds are available and you say you cannot afford treatment elsewhere.

G. I am at present receiving compensation for 30 per cent disability. If I take a job carrying rural mail three hours a day, will my compensation be stopped?

A. Compensation is not reduced because of your employment. Reduction in compensation is made only if your disability has lessened in degree.

Q. Early last year I received an adjustment check on my compensation from the Veterans Administration. Do I have to pay income tax on this payment?

A. No. By law, all payments made under laws relating to veterans are exempt from federal income tax payments.

Q. Am I eligible for a GI loan to buy a share in a going business in another city?

A. You are eligible if you devote your personal labor or supervise the business either on a full time or part time basis.

Helen Keddie Crowned Queen Of Military Ball

Helen Keddie, sophomore and member of Delta Delta Delta, was elected queen of the 20th annual military ball held at the Mapes Hotel Saturday, March 5. Governor Vail Pittman crowned Miss Keddie at the climax of the dance. "The dance was one of the high points of my life. It was the most wonderful dance I ever attended," she said.

Miss Keddie was chosen from among six popular university coeds to reign over the ball. The names of all the candidates were printed on the back of the tickets, and the dancers voter during the evening.

The Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society on the campus which sponsored the dance, estimated that more than 250 people attended.

The orchestra of Merle Snider furnished music.

This was the second time that Miss Keddie had been so honored. Last spring at the Theta Chi dream girl dance she was chosen as queen. She is a sophomore and is majoring in sociology.

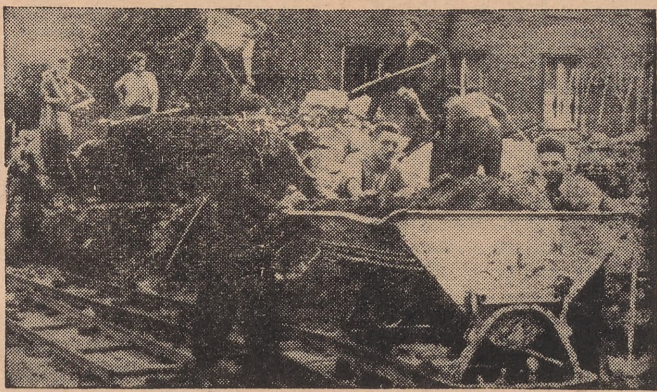

Mayor and Mrs. Francis Smith of Reno and Major General White, former adjutant general of Nevada, attended the dance and participated in the program.

Governor Pittman was given a military aide for the evening. Bob Patrick, advanced military student at the university, was given this position.

The crowning ceremony and part of the festivities were broadcasted over a local station.

The ballroom was decorated by the Corps of Sponsors in cooperation with the Scabbard and Blade.

GENE KLOSS DISPLAYS WORK AT UNIVERSITY

Displaying the work of Gene Kloss, the first exhibition of etchings and aqua-tints to be held on this campus in several years is being sponsored by the Fine Arts Club at the art department.

Gene Kloss is a well known artist, noted for her craftsmanship. She is represented in art collections of the Library of Congress, Carnegie Institute, Smithsonian Institute and several colleges and universities.

Her choice of subjects ranges from Indian ceremonies to portraits and landscapes. The etchings displayed are scenes from New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and northern California.

"The average Nevada student has never had the opportunity to see a real art exhibit before coming to the university," said Craig Sheppard of the art department. "Students should take advantage of this exhibit while it is here to increase their culture background. They will also find it most enjoyable. The Fine Arts Club invites the student body and faculty to come and see this exceptional show."

Accrediting Loss Fears Are False, Says Professor

"The fears of some of the undergraduates that the school of engineering may lose its accrediting are false. Accrediting has always been a matter of individual departments and not of the school as a whole," according to James R. Van Dyke, professor of mechanical engineering, in a recent statement.

"The department of mechanical, electrical and mining engineering have been accredited since 1938 and earlier and are in no danger of losing their ratings.

"The department of civil engineering has never been accredited, but with the recent addition to the school of a new, modern building that department has a good chance of being accredited too."

A recent released letter from a member of the engineering council for professional development remarked that the teaching staff of the civil engineering department was somewhat overloaded.

"Actually, the letter was encouraging," said Professor Van Dyke, "and, further, it was only a letter from one of the members of the board of examiners. The final report is not expected until next fall at the earliest."

Red Cross Campaign Extends Deadline As University Sets Goal of $1500

Faculty and students of the University of Nevada are giving cooperation in the American Red Cross 1949 campaign for funds. A goal of $1500 was set for the university.

Although the drive was to have ended last Friday, the final date was extended because workers found collection difficult because of bad weather and Reno's Thursday "blackout."

The campaign at the university was conducted as a special project in itself by university people. Dean of women Elaine Mobley was put in charge of faculty and employee donations and Norma Walsh, of Gamma Phi Beta, was in charge of student contributions.

As a part of the organization for the campaign, the campus was divided into sections. Each building, fraternity house, and sorority house was treated as a separate unit, and all sorority and fraternity presidents were asked to take part in the campaign.

Faculty members and employees who had learned of the drive through the newspapers brought contributions to Dean Mobley's office without being asked. Student solicitors reported that the student body as a whole expressed willingness to contribute to the drive. Even though high prices have brought student spending money to low levels, everyone seemed willing to give something to the drive.

The University of Nevada doesn't limit its cooperation with the American Red Cross to money. Student entertainment programs are often presented at the Reno Veterans Administration Hospital, with the cooperation of the Red Cross. The last program to be taken to the hospital was "The Meteor," which was recently presented on campus.

Red Cross activities have been widespread in Washoe county during the past year.

Most spectacular event in which the Red Cross took part was the Lake street fire, in downtown Reno. A whole block of Lake street was destroyed and hundreds of people were injured. The Red Cross provided emergency first aid, coffee, sandwiches and bandages to the injured, and spent $1861 during the day.

Though the Red Cross is usually considered to be a valuable agency for disasters, community projects are carried on the year round. During the past year $35,540 was spent on community welfare.

Home nursing courses were completed by 107 residents of Reno. Water safety certificates were given to 187, and 270 were trained in first aid. The entire Reno police department has been trained in first aid by the Washoe county chapter of the Red Cross.

Gray ladies and nurses' aides are provided for the veterans hospital and 85,016 surgical dressings were given last year.

As an aid to unfortunate people in foreign countries, 432 garments were sent overseas.

Many Spring Doings Planned by Home Ec

The University of Nevada Home Economics Club has been having weekly meetings in order to formulate plans for all of its future spring doings.

First of the projects successfully underway is that of decorating and furnishing a play room in the Agriculture building. The room is used to observe children and to understand their actions in the study of child development.

Funds to promote the play room project were raised in a successful cake sale held by the club February 26.

At present, the club is planning the annual Mackay Day luncheon, which it has handled yearly. Virginia Shaw, home ec president, is chairman of the committee making luncheon arrangements.

RICHARD GORMAN PINS MICKEY WHITEHAIR

Candy was passed at the Delta Delta house last week by Mickey Whitehair, announcing her pinning to Richard Gorman, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Miss Whitehair, a junior, is majoring in Spanish. Gorman is studying electrical engineering.

Chem Society Initiates Three

Three Chemistry Club members were elected to Sigma Sigma Kappa, local honor society for chemistry majors, at a meeting of the club Tuesday.

Those elected were Warren Adams, senior; Gus Lowry, junior, and Wallace Schulz, senior. The only active members on campus before the initiation were Albert Richardson, junior, and Mrs. Shirley Williams, graduate student.

Initiation ceremonies will be performed at the next meeting April 12. Each initiate will present a demonstration lecture on some special technique in chemistry. The member of longest standing, Mrs. Williams, will preside at the initiation.

The program will include a Walt Disney technical movie supplied by the Firestone Company entitled, "The Building of a Tire." There will also be other selected short subjects.

Theta Chi Plan Coast Convention

Theta Chi fraternity will hold a regional convention in San Diego late in March.

The local Theta Chi chapter is expected to send ten delegates. To date the house is not sure which of the men will attend, as it is waiting further information from convention headquarters.

Chapters from Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada will be represented.

Big Crown Sees Wolves Get 5-3 Nod; Surber Loses to Star Heavy

Nevada belted Idaho Southern five bouts to three in a high-tension boxing show at Elko Monday night.

Gordon Surber, 220, Nevada heavyweight, was stopped by Gene Bledsoe in the first round. Bledsoe has been undefeated for three seasons and has won the Intermountain championship twice. The referee halted the bout after Bledsoe delivered a haymaker square on the Nevada's Frank Sanchez battered Idaho Southern's Bob Cycle badly in the 175-pound class.

In a series of straight lefts and hard rights to the body which accounted for two knockdowns, Jack Swobe of Nevada plastered Idaho's Florine Hulse for a cool victory in the 165-pound class.

Don Blackham, rangy red-head from White county, 155, finished his Idaho opponent, Ralph Butler, in 1:25 of the first round with a right cross that terminated in a knockout.

Bob Thronson of the Wolf Pack trounced Idaho Southern's Bill Haycock in a three-round bout to win in the welter weight class.

Nevada's Martin Rodriguez, whose last week's performance provided an action-packed epic, did it again as he decided Merle Hepworth in the hottest bout of the evening to capture the 135-pound win.

George Brackenberry of Idaho won a decision from Bob Bandoni of Nevada in the 130-pound bout.

In the 125-pound class Wayne Osborne of Nevada was stopped by Idaho Southern's Jack Olson who won the decision.

A record crowd of 1,100 fans witnessed the boxing show.

Varsity Linksmen Slate Six Matches

Without the services of a coach, University of Nevada golfers get ready to turn out for their first practice session at Washoe county golf course.

Last year Bob Swartz, instructor in the business department, handled the coaching duties for the Pack divot diggers. The club had a good year in play at various intercollegiate tournaments.

This season, however, Swartz is engaged in private business, and the linksmen are carrying on without a mentor.

Six matches have been lined up to date and several more are

New Tennis Coach Calls First Drill; Net Talent Needed

Coaching of Nevada's tennis fortunes falls into the hands of Bob Fairman, Reno resident, and renowned netter.

Fairman moved to Reno about three years ago and has been affiliated with the Reno Tennis Club during that time. Before coming to Nevada, Fairman played in several top tournaments on the east coast.

During the last six months of his army career, the new Nevada net coach was attached to special services and during that time played in exhibitions with Alice Marble and Bill Tilden.

Fairman issued the first call to practice this week and announced there would be several vacancies to fill and the squad was wide open to talented netters.

Approximately 15 prospects have turned out thus far and are working with veterans Alva Tabor and Ron Brubaker of last year's team.

A six man team is to be chosen and spots will be won in ladder play among the prospects.

Home and home agreements have been reached with Cal Aggies and Chico State with the first match scheduled April 16 against the Aggies at Davis.

An attempt is being made to line up a practice match with the Reno Tennis Club before that time.

Nevada Pair High In National Junior Ski Tourney Here

Joan Metzger and Allen Ramsey, of the University of Nevada ski team, finished near the top of a field of more than 60 competitors in the second annual National Junior championship met, held at Mt. Rose.

Joan took third place in the downhill run, sixth place in the slalom, and was fourth in combined points for the two events. Ramsey was fifth in the downhill, 6th in the slalom, and fourth in the combined awards.

Winners for the downhill run were Carolyn Teren, of Portland, Oregon, and Mac Miller, of McCall, Idaho. Slalom winners were Charlotte Zumstein, Bishop, California, and Darrell Robison of Salt Lake City. Combined winners were Charlotte Zumstein and Mac Miller.

The downhill race, held on Slide mountain, was delayed for two hours while officials considered calling off the event because of weather conditions. Visibility was seldom better than 50 feet through the falling snow. The contestants, however, persuaded the officials to hold the race and came down the course without accident.

The slalom was held at Mt. Rose Bowl, on Sunday, with excellent weather conditions and a large crowd of spectators. Darrell Robison, who won the men's slalom, had six teeth knocked out in a collision while practicing a few days before the meet and was promptly christened "The Whistler" by the other contestants.

Grid Opener Slated With Cincinnati U. Sheeketski Reveals

Nevada will open its 1949 football season in Ohio when the Wolf Pack takes on the University of Cincinnati in the first meeting between the two schools.

Members of the Mid-American conference, the Bearcats are noted for a top-caliber brand of football. A couple of seasons back the Cincinnati team gave one or two of the Big Nine schools a run for it.

Joe Sheeketski in making the announcement of the game said: "We are happy to schedule a team of the caliber fielded by Cincinnati. They play good football and the game is in line with our policy of inter-sectional contests."

Last year, the Bearcats met some pretty fair competition including Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Miami, Hardin-Simmons, Butler, Ohio, Western Reserve, and Xavier.

The game is on a single year basis and not home and home. Signing of the contract brought the Nevada schedule to nine games although all game sites and dates have not been officially announced.

Already scheduled are St. Mary's, USF, Portland, College of Pacific, and Fresno State. Highly possible are Loyola and Wichita, along with negotiations with University of Dayton.

Twenty Tracksters Showing Progress In Early Sessions

Deciding to wait until after track season to sign a professional football contract, Tommy Kalmanir reported for cinder path duty this week.

Had Kalmanir raked in the chips for signing to play pro ball, Nevada's track team would have been minus one of its stellar dash men. As it is, Jake Lawlor, track coach, can look forward to having strength in the short distances. Tommy also can broadjump.

Lawlor announced this week that three college meets have been scheduled to date and a fourth, a triangular affair, with San Jose and College of Pacific.

Twenty prospects are working out each afternoon at Mackay Stadium. In the sprints with Kalmanir are Ted Ensslin and Charlie Springer, letter winners last year; Myron Leavitt, former Vegas high star, and Mike Rauhut of Reno.

4440 Standout
A standout 440 man at Nevada for the past two seasons is Dick Trachok who dons the track shoes for his third and final year. Supporting Trachok in the middle distances are Marvin Byars, Reno Hi product, and Ed Klosterman of last year's team.

Homecoming cross country champ Warren Novack heads the list of 880 runners and up. Ross Smith will run the mile and Phelps the half mile.

In the weights, Lawrence "Punjab" Hairston looks as a shot putter, as well as Paul Stimac, Tom Bell and Duane Lemon. Roger Brander, Bell, Art Wigg, Gerkin, Lemon and Fisher are hurling the discus. Pole vaulters include Red Higgins, Dick Sullivan, Lemon and Carl Robinson.

Kalmanir tops the broad jump group. Sick Gorman and Wilbur Jager are doing high jump chores.

U. N. Legion Gives Prep Boxing Boost; Glove Tourney Near

Veterans of the University of Nevada campus post are two years ahead of the American Legion's national plans when it comes to encouraging high school boxing.

The national Legion is making plans for a country-wide program of junior boxing, on the same basis as its successful junior baseball system. But the idea probably won't be put into action for at least another year.

Meanwhile the U. N. Legion post is going ahead with plans for its second annual high school ring tourney, an innovation which made its successful debut last year. Held in conjunction with the Reno Golden Gloves March 31, April 1 and 2, the high school meet is expected to attract another large entry list.

The AAU boxers are in the junior (for the less experienced men) and senior divisions, while the high school class forms a third group. For benefit of the smallest youths, a sub-flyweight (108 pounds and under) classification is made. Otherwise the prep punchers compete in flyweight (under 112), bantam (118), feather (126), lightweight (135), welterweight (147), middleweight (160), light-heavy (175), and heavy (over 175).
