Mosley, Gorman End University Service

President Instrumental in Acquiring Many Campus Improvements

President John O. Moseley, who is leaving the university this June along with Comptroller Charles Gorman, will have completed five years in that office this summer. During his tenure, many important changes and improvements have been made in the school.

After taking office in 1944, Dr. Moseley was instrumental in organizing the administrative council, composed of deans and directors and two faculty representatives elected by the faculty. This council has taken over the work of the old registration and scholarship committee.

He was responsible for grouping together courses and teachers of a single department whenever space permitted. This policy has been singularly successful in the cases of the departments of English, journalism, and art.

When Dr. Moseley arrived at Nevada, the registrar's office was crowded in with the comptroller's office in Morrill Hall. The dean of men had his office in Morrill Hall and the dean of women was using space in the library. Construction of the quonset huts behind Stewart Hall has given all of these agencies room enough to function properly and to speed up administrative procedure.

Dr. Moseley, following the recommendation of the citizens committee on agriculture, has had an over-all dean appointed to have direct supervision over and responsibility for the work in resident teaching, research, and extension service. These were formerly three independent units.

All of the departments in the university have been strengthened during Dr. Moseley's tenure, and a correspondence school has been added. Also, afternoon and evening courses, designed to appeal to adults, have been offered in English, art and education.

Dr. Gorman

Dr. Gorman has been a member of the university staff for 38 years, and has already achieved retirement age and status. He had earlier decided to retire in 1950.

A native of Nevada, he was born at Gold Hill on the Comstock, and has lived here most of his life. He was connected with the Southern Pacific railroad outside the state for four years.

He became an auditor for the Eureka county bank in 1906, after working for the railroad at Carlin.

Dr. Gorman became assistant registrar and comptroller in 1911 and was acting president of the university prior to Dr. Moseley's appointment.

Victory Heights Apartment Units Reported 'Full Up'

Married veterans who want to secure an apartment in Victory Heights for the coming year are going to have a hard time, according to Dean of Men Robert Griffin.

At the present time there is a waiting list of approximately 150 couples, and, at most, there may be only 20 vacancies.

Some of the apartments will be available in June for subletting, but these will have to be relinquished at the beginning of next semester.

Dean Griffin said that letters have been sent to all present tenants of the veterans housing district requesting additional information as to how long they will wish to keep their apartments but that so far the replies have not been complete.

No residents of the university trailer court have indicated that they will be moving either this summer or next fall.

NOTICE

Caps and gowns will be distributed to graduating seniors Tuesday through Saturday, 9 am to 12 noon in the library, said James J. Hill, librarian.

They will be available in the northwest corner of the first floor, now the binding department.

Scott Whitney Gets Harvard Scholarship

Scott C. Whitney, outstanding University of Nevada debator and orator, has received a Harvard University scholarship, and will continue his law studies there after his graduation in June.

Whitney is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic fraternity, Phi Alpha Theta, national historical honorary society, and Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic honorary fraternity.

Clipping Service Inaugurated Here

With the cooperation of the Nevada Press Women, a press clipping service is being inaugurated by the journalism department of the University of Nevada.

The clipping service will be staffed by journalism students, and will service various organizations throughout Reno.

Band Get-Together Honors Year's End

The University of Nevada band had a picnic Thursday afternoon during regular rehearsal period at the grill behind Mackay Stadium.

Hot dogs and cokes were served to the band members. The picnic was held as a last get together of the season. Professor Robert Z. Tate is director of the band.

Artemisia, 'Brush Heads Announced

Briner, McKenna, Publications Editors; McKissick, Kent, Business Managers

At a recent meeting of the publications board, the editors and business managers for the Artemisia and Sagebrush staffs were elected for the coming year. William S. Briner will be the new editor of the Artemisia; Howard F. McKissick will be the yearbook's business manager. The editor of the Sagebrush will be Gene McKenna, and Bob Kent is to be the new business manager for the weekly campus newspaper.

Briner is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and is on the varsity ski team. He was a photographer on the Artemisia staff for the last two semesters and is enrolled in the college of arts and science. McKissick, also a Sigma Nu, and a student of A and S, was in charge of this year's Winter Carnival. He is also a member of Coffin and Keys and other campus groups.

Gene McKenna, a member of Theta Chi fraternity, is a student in the college of arts and science and belongs to Coffin and Keys. For the past year he has been assistant editor of the Sagebrush.

Kent is an ATO, student in A and S, and a member of Coffin and Keys. He was the business manager of this year's Artemisia.

Other students who will serve on the staffs of the campus paper and the yearbook for next year will be chosen later and will assume their positions next September.

227 Students to Graduate At June 6 Commencement

Seniors Honored, Heads Installed, In WRA Meeting

Senior members were honored, new members were initiated, and new officers were installed when the Women's Recreational Association held their last general meeting.

Gothic N awards, which are given to seniors who are outstanding in WRA, were presented by Miss Ruth Russell and Miss Marge Price. Phyllis Green, outgoing vice-president, received a life membership; Bonny Molignoni was awarded the Gothic N blanket, and life passes to university athletic events were given to Miss Molignoni and Doris Hanssen, Beverly Simon, and Marilyn MacDonald.

New members of Gothic N for the coming year are Fay Fryberger, Shirley Hornbeck, Betty Ann Rice, and Marilyn MacDonald. Gothic N is the honor society for WRA.

Six women were initiated into the group and they are Venus Jolley, Laura Parker, Pat Royle, Joan Metzger, Terry Alauzet and Kathleen McGill.

Jackie Wilson, new president who succeeds Freda Kornmayer, introduced the old and new officers. The new officers are Virginia Shaw, secretary, succeeding Mary Micheo; and Beverly Simon, succeeding Fay Fryberger, as treasurer.

The executive committee which is composed of managers for the different sports was announced and is as follows: Rose Oyarbide, volleyball; Natalie Curtis, basketball; Beth Miller, softball; Laura Parker and Martie Miller, tennis; Mary Micheo, archery; Mary Ann McKnight.

College Seniors End Careers at Nevada With Full Teak of Activities

Two hundred and twenty-seven students are candidates for graduation from the University of Nevada at commencement exercises to be held June 6 in the gymnasium. A week of festivities featuring a picnic, teas, campus trek, and commencement exercises, will climax the college careers of these students whose home for the last four years has been the campus here in Reno.

Senior week activities were preceded this week by senior examinations in order that final grades could be recorded in the office of the registrar.

Of the 227 graduates, 26 completed their work in the university's summer session last year, while 35 students finished their university training at midsemester.

This number is nine below last year's class which totaled 236 graduates.

June candidates for graduation from the college of arts and sciences who will receive bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degrees are as follows: Catherine May Aldrich, Chester J. Anderson, Thornton Andrain, William Belew, Aurelio Barbieri, Betty Boggess, Mary Jane Boyle, Roger Brander, Dudley Brooks, Richard Brundy, William Buck, Elizabeth Buss, Evelyn Callahan, Gus Cammerano, Robert Carrick, John Carter, John Chamberlain, Lloyd Elements, Chester Collins, Richard Colon, Patricia Crandall, Robert Crevelling, Anthony Cudinski, Harold Dale.

"TOO-SHAY!"

With this last edition of the 1948-49 Sagebrush going to press, it may be appropriate to become sentimental, let a few tears drop in our beer, and close with best wishes and an honest hope that we have pleased.

We can see passing along the good wishes and hopes, but beer is too scarce to dilute with sentiments. Then, too, in view of the sour grapes that came from the finance control board this week we feel that there is no alternative but to go down swinging.

The sour grapes took the form of vetoes on the traditional celebrations of the various committees that have operated during the year. These celebrations usually consisted of picnics or small banquets for the purpose of providing a token reward to the people who worked unselfishly to bring success to student activities.

Reason given is lack of funds. Who is trying to kid who? Or, has someone forgot about the $800 publication board reserve that has been sitting idle since last year without an earmark?

It's true that the students of Nevada are capable of thinking for themselves and defeated the proposed ASUN fee increase. And, it's also true that this action was quite a jolt to the FCB. It means that a few people are going to work at economy instead of haphazard spending. However, such a curtailment is nothing, more than sour grapes. We'll bet our bottom dollar that Coach Joe Sheeketski, on top of his $12,000 a year, wouldn't be denied any extra little token that might be lying around.

Perhaps if we had a few less people in our student government who sit on big named boards and stew, between pouts, about conditions, and a few more willing to attempt doing something for the students, such as getting some kind of return on the $22,000 the students invest in the board of athletic control each year, conditions wouldn't be so bad.

Well, with that happy thought, we see it's just about time for "thirty" so we'll break down, push our beer aside, and express our sincere gratitude for having had the opportunity to work for our fellow students at Nevada.

"THIRTY"

National Magazine Publishes Speech Given by Moseley

A speech delivered by Dr. John O. Moseley, president of the University of Nevada, at a student convocation at the University of Idaho in March was published in the April 15 issue of "Vital Speeches of the Day."

This national semi-monthly magazine publishes "the best thought of the best minds on current national questions."

The title of Dr. Moseley's speech was "Training for Citizenship in a World That Is To Be" with "It Takes Courage" as the main theme of the address.

Dr. Moseley opened his address by remarking that the University of Nevada and the University of Idaho have much in common, both being combined state universities and land grant colleges in far western states. He further stated that his remarks would consider what can be provided by a university in training citizens for the future outside of regular curriculum.

"Do you think we are the first people who have been confronted with a problem like this?" asked Dr. Moseley in regard to the lag in the social sciences as compared to scientific progress. He then stated examples from athology to support his negative answer to this question.

In referring to nuclear fission, Dr. Moseley said, "You see, we are right where man has always stood—on the crossroads. Are we going to use it to destroy each other, or shall we cooperate to create a heaven here on earth?" He stated that "by the use of seven long jaw-breaking words" he wanted to illustrate how education can make up for the lag in social sciences.

"... If you forget everything else please remember these seven words because I think they are the key to the citizenship of a new world which is to be," Dr. Moseley emphasized. The words he gave were humanism, integrating, dynamic, sublimating, liberal, disciplinary and implementing.

Dr. Moseley's concluding statements were, "Implementing education is the act of storing the mind with tools—some for practicability only, some combining beauty with utility, and some only for beauty; but all for service. If our homes, churches, schools, and civic clubs are to train citizens for a world that is to be, it must be a training of whole free men, growing Godward in power and service."

LET'S TALK TURKEY

By Tahsin Karacabey Turkish Student

(Conclusion)
Social Reforms, Education, the Result . . . Turkey Today

After the acceptance of the constitution, Kemal Ataturk set himself to the other needed reforms, necessary to the modernization and westernization of Turkey.

His major moves were those that separated religion from the state, gave women the freedoms enjoyed by the men, including the right to vote and to hold office, and to become professionals such as doctors and the like. Today, Turkey has a higher percentage of women legislators than any other nation in the world, and her doctors, lawyers, chemists, judges, teachers, architects and the like include women by the thousands.

Full political rights were granted to women in 1934, and many of them now hold offices in municipal, provincial and the national governments.

Another sweeping change involved the adoption of the Latin, replacing the old Arabic alphabet, with Ataturk himself teaching the new tongue to many of his people. November 25, 1925, marked the end of the wearing of the old type headgear, the fez, which was then outlawed.

Education was the next target of the sweeping change in Turkey. The program now in use includes free education, from the grades to and including the doctorate, for all those who desire it. Progress in primary education is shown in the increase in primary school students from 35,000 in 1923 to one million in 1947, with a goal of 1,500,000 for 1950.

Secondary education in Turkey is divided into two parts, comparable in the United States to high school and junior college work. Teachers colleges and pedagogic institutions have been established throughout Turkey, as have village institutes. These village institutes have been set up to teach scientific livestock raising and farming, history, civics, and other associated forms of education.

In addition to these steps, the government annually sends several thousand students abroad, to the United States, Switzerland, France and other countries.

Throughout the first two installments, and the first part of this one, we have seen how the government took steps to create a modern Turkey, a nation that would take its rightful place in the world as a leader in the movement for peace and democracy. Here are some more of the details, and the results.

At the end of World War II the Turkish people installed a multiple party system. There are at the present time 13 political parties, although there are but three that can be classified as major parties. These three are the Republican People's party, the Democratic party, and the Nation's party. Most of the political leaders of the nation belong to one or another of these three.

Delegates to the grand national assembly are elected every four years, with all Turkish citizens who have reached the age of 22 eligible to vote.

Billboard Remains Last Campaign Sign

"I meant what I said about changing the ASUN for time involved in removing signs from the campus," says Carl Horn, superintendent of buildings and grounds. "Since the election, students have removed all of the advertising except for a large billboard in front of Stewart Hall."

Any Turk, man or woman, who has reached the age of 30 may hold office in the assembly.

Deputies are elected by secret ballot, and the results made public as soon as possible.

One thing that should be made clear is the total absence of a Communist party in Turkey. There is a strong anti-Communist feeling throughout the country, and it is doubtful that there are any Communists at all within the nation's borders.

As we can see, the people of Turkey have responded wholeheartedly to the words of Kemal Ataturk, who said: "We shall continue to move onward, in unity, as we have done this far, upholding one another and supported by the nation's will. There is an arduous road lying ahead before our people. Whatever aims we are bound to reach, we shall reach, and fulfill the glorious destiny of becoming a factor of peace and progress. That is why our watchword must be: forward, always forward."

Making long distance SHORTER

There's a new and faster way to handle Long Distance calls. Made possible by new electronic switching equipment, it's called operator toll dialing.

You give the Long Distance operator the number you want. On keys before her at the switchboard, she punches out your call. In instant response, the new equipment takes over. It speeds your call to the distant city and rings the telephone you want. Just like that.

Toll dialing now reaches some 300 cities and more and more will be added until the network is nationwide. It's a part of the effort to make your telephone service better and better, at a cost within the reach of everyone.

Kinnear to Deliver Commencement Talk

Dr. Charles McAllister Named Speaker At Baccalaureate Services

J. C. Kinnear, vice-president of the Kennecott Copper Corporation, will deliver the 1949 commencement address at the University of Nevada on June 6.

The mining executive was chosen for the honor, according to President John O. Moseley, because of his leadership in one of Nevada's chief industries.

Dr. Charles Eldridge McAllister, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist of Spokane, Washington, has been chosen to preach the baccalaureate sermon on June 5, Dr. Moseley said.

Dean McAllister is a regent of the University of Washington and an authority in the field of publicly controlled higher education in the United States.

Kinnear has been connected with mining in Nevada for more than 40 years, most of the time with various companies mining, smelting, and refining copper ore in the Ely district.

Since 1945, he has been stationed in New York City as vice-president of Kennecott, in charge of its domestic mining operations in Nevada and other states.

When he was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1907, Kinnear immediately came to Nevada, and was employed by the Goldfield Consolidated Mining Company.

Later he worked with the Diamondfield Daisy Mining Company, then operating a lease at Diamondfield.

After a short term as an engineer with the Bigham and Garfield Railroad in Utah, he returned to Nevada and joined the staff of the Steptoe Valley Smelting and Mining Company in White Pine county.

This company later became the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company and then a part of Kennecott Copper Corporation. From 1910 to 1945, he was connected with the Nevada operations in various capacities, including the general management.

Kinnear is director and vice-president of the Nevada Northern Railway, a subsidiary of Kennecott, and vice-president of the Ely National Bank.

He has been honored by many high offices in his profession of mining engineering, including directorships in the American Mining Congress and the American Institution of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the presidencies of the Nevada Mine Operators Association and the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America.

Dean McAllister is an Episcopal clergyman who has held charges in Virginia, Washington, D. C., New Jersey, Maryland, Illinois and Washington.

A graduate of Bard College, Columbia University, and General Theological Seminary, he has earned the B.A., M.A., and B.S.T. degrees. The University of Maryland has conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity on Dean McAllister and St. John's College the honorary degree Doctor of Letters.

Baccalaureate speaker is a member of the executive committee of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities, of which he was president in 1947.

He has toured nearly 100 American colleges and universities in behalf of the association, of which the University of Nevada is a member.

Dean McAllister is the author of a number of books on higher education and church subjects, including "Inside the Campus."

TO ADDRESS U. OF N. GRADUATES

Bob Bryant Gets Engineer Award

Civil engineer Robert Bryant, a senior student from Los Angeles and president of the student American Society of Civil Engineers, was presented the 1949 American Society of Civil Engineers' award at the ASCE annual banquet Saturday night.

Kristian Tanning and John Smith were in charge of the affair, which took place at the El Cortez hotel.

Bryant received the award from Fred Paget, president of the Sacramento branch of the ASCE.

The award has been presented nine of the 11 times in the last 15 years to an outstanding Nevada graduate by the Sacramento group. Paget praised the achievements of University of Nevada civil engineering graduates, and stressed the success in civilian life of those who had received the award in the past.

President of the ASCE, Professor Franklin Thomas, and a member of the faculty of the California Institute of Technology, was also present at the banquet. He spoke on the aims of the organization, as well as the promising future in engineering.

Another prominent guest at the affair was Professor S. T. Harding, director of the 13th region of ASCE, to which Nevada belongs, and a member of the University of California at Berkeley faculty. He also addressed the group of more than 100 students and members of the ASCE.

The 19 members of the senior class in civil engineering who will be graduated in June were honored guests at the banquet. They are Gordon N.

Nevada Student Named Sparks Softball Czar

Robert Petrini, University of Nevada student, has been named to the post of Sparks softball commissioner, it was revealed recently by the Sparks Athletic Association.

Petrini is a freshman student at the university majoring in journalism. He is also sports editor of the Sparks Tribune.

Last December Petrini held the job of Sparks basketball commissioner and successfully ran off the annual Sparks basketball tournament. Petrini is a graduate of Sparks high school, where he lettered in football. He also participated on the high school track team and on the "B" basketball squad. While in high school, he was sports editor of the school newspaper, the Streamline, and also on the school yearbook, the Terminus. Petrini has announced that the Sparks league will open on Friday, June 3, with a gala program now being planned. It is expected that many University of Nevada students will play in the Sparks league during the 1949 season.

Tim Sullivan Named President

Timothy P. Sullivan, junior student in electrical engineering, was elected president of Nu Eta Epsilon, engineering scholastic honor society at the University of Nevada, at an initiation banquet held last Friday.

Aiding Sullivan will be Thomas J. Blackham, electrical engineering vice-president; and Dr. E. W. Harris, faculty secretary-treasurer.

Nu Eta Epsilon members are rated among the highest group of engineering majors at the University of Nevada, and this fall will petition for membership in Tau Beta Pi, national engineering scholastic honor society. Tau Beta Pi is the engineering equivalent of Phi Kappa Phi.

Cap and Scroll
Extends Bids
To Eight Coeds

Cap and Scroll, honorary organization for leading women of the University of Nevada, elected eight new members recently. Norma Carruth, Fay Fryberger, Pat Fee, Kay Sterling, Barbara Smith, Angela Navaran, Sue Broadbent, and Moray Black will be initiated Saturday afternoon at Lake Tahoe in an out of door ceremony.

To be eligible for election to the honorary group, a student must have an overall 2.7 average; must be of senior standing; must be the past president of a campus organization, and must be participating in three activities at the university.

Previous to the election, Cap and Scroll was composed of three members: Althea Benedict, president; Doris Hansen, marshal, and Bonny Mollignoni, secretary-treasurer. Elaine Mobley, dean of women, is an honorary member of the organization.

Following initiation ceremonies, a bachelor dinner will be held at the White House at Tahoe.

Cap and Scroll, whose activities are secret, was organized for the purpose of developing the highest ideals on Nevada's campus by combining in organized form the women of the university who are leaders in student life and activity.

Dr. James Edward Church, noted snow surveyist, is the patron of the group.

Professors End Service Totaling 69 Years
At University of Nevada

Dr. George W. Sears (left) and Director V. E. Scott, veteran University of Nevada professors, who will retire from their teaching duties at the end of this college year.

Two pioneer University of Nevada professors will retire from their teaching duties at the end of the college year in June.

Professor V. E. Scott, director of residence teaching in the college of agriculture, joined the staff in 1912, while Dr. George W. Sears, professor of chemistry, became a Nevada instructor in 1917.

Both are well known throughout the state because of the many alumni they have taught and because their work has often been related to the economic development of Nevada.

Director Scott has served at the university as a classroom teacher, as an administrator, and as an agricultural extension service specialist during his 37 years on the staff.

As an extension staff member, he has worked with farmers throughout the state, especially in dairying, poultry husbandry, and farm accounting. Because of his efforts to build up dairying, he is sometimes called the "father of the Nevada dairy industry."

When he came to Nevada from Wisconsin in 1912, he was instructor in dairy husbandry. Three years later, he was made state extension leader in dairying. He recalls that the toughest part of this job was battling bad roads, which were almost in the "horse and buggy" stage.

From 1919 to 1929, he served both as professor of dairy and poultry husbandry and state extension dairy and poultry specialist.

For the next eight years, he was extension agricultural economist, helping Nevada farmers set up efficient methods of accounting and management.

The last two years he has been in charge of the teaching in the college of agriculture.

Professor Sears began his career at Nevada after teaching at the University of Illinois. In 1924, he was made professor of chemistry, and, in 1926, head of the department. For a year he served as acting

First Session
Summer Students
Register June 11

Registration day for the first term of the summer sessions at the University of Nevada is set for Saturday, June 11, from 8:30 to 12:00 noon, according to information received from the office of Dr. Harold N. Brown, director of summer sessions.

Students must have their registration completed by Saturday, June 18, or they can not be accepted for the first term of the summer school. However, classes are scheduled to begin at 7:30 am on Monday, June 13.

At the summer sessions, out of state teachers can become acquainted with the Nevada school system and get their teaching certificates validated.

After ten weeks of summer attendance they are eligible for positions in the Nevada schools, and they may take advantage of the placement office at the university in securing such positions.

A special advantage is offered to freshman students. They may accelerate their education progress by attending the summer sessions.

To others simply wishing to acquire additional knowledge and not pursue full university course, the summer sessions are opportune. The only requirement is that the student be a graduate of a high school.

Registration for last year's summer sessions broke all records. It is expected by the registration office that this year's registration will equal if not exceed that mark.

Lambda Chi's Hold
Formal and Picnic
Ending Social Year

Lambda Chi Alpha reached the climax of its spring social season last weekend with its annual spring formal and picnic. The fraternity held the formal at the Palomar Country Club Saturday and the picnic at Lake Tahoe the next day.

The ballroom was decorated for freshmen students. They may accelerate their education progress by attending the summer sessions.

Professors J. E. Martie and Louis Skinner and their wives chaperoned the crowd. The song team which competed in the Mackay Day competition served on the program.

The picnic, held Sunday, was at Incline Beach at Lake Tahoe. Sixty people attended.

dean of the college of arts and science.

As head of the department, Dr. Sears has seen it grow into one of the better undergraduate chemistry departments in the far west.

It has been continuously on the list of accredited chemistry departments in the nation. Large numbers of its graduates have been successful in their fields, many of them rising to distinction in industry and university work.

The Nevada professor's standing in chemistry education has been recognized repeatedly by his being chosen to help inspect other universities which have applied for accreditation.

Author of a number of textbooks in chemistry, Dr. Sears has also been active in research in the field of inorganic chemistry and the rarer metals.

He was, at one time, a consulting chemist for the United States bureau of mines.

Concession Booth At Scrimmage Game Handled by YWCA

YWCA members served the football fans for the first time at the inter-squad spring scrimmage Sunday afternoon, May 22.

One booth was open and candy, peanuts, 500 hot dogs, and 36 dozen cases of soft drinks were sold. Also on hand were 15 gallons of hot coffee which remained unsold due to the hot weather.

Pat Welty was chairman and was assisted by Faye Briggs, Jean Howden, Beth Miller, Doris Linsea, Irene Waterman, Joan Barbash, Carol Thomas, Barbara Andrae, Joan Fregger, Mae Gregory and Susie Leake.

Frosh Y Club Holds Picnic

Members of the Frosh Y Club and guests had a picnic at Zephyr Cove, Lake Tahoe, Saturday. About 25 people attended and spent the day eating, playing cards, and sunbathing.

Mae Gregory and Lavern Crosson of the Thursday freshmen group were the chief chefs and served hamburgers and cokes.

Several officers of the YWCA cabinet attended including Barbara Smith, president. Guests for the day were Misses Jean Howden, Y secretary; Faye Briggs, physical education instructor, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkie, instructor in English.

Sigma Nu Wins Kinnear Trophy For Third Time

By virtue of a victory over Theta Chi fraternity this week, Buddy Garfinkle and Elmo Derrico copped the intra-mural tennis doubles championship and with it the Sigma Nu's claimed undisputed possession of the Kinnear trophy for at least another year.

Besides taking tennis doubles and singles, Sigma Nu during the year picked up titles in rifle, skiing, basketball and softball.

In baseball this week, the heavy guns of the unorganized Independents have shaken up the pennant chase and a playoff between the Tau's and Phi Sigs is in the offing.

This game will spell the finish to a banner year of intra-mural sports and decide the intra-mural baseball championship. The time and place of this crucial contest has yet to be announced.

The Kinnear trophy, which has existed since 1933, now shows the first ten tags bearing the name of Alpha Tau Omega, indicating that the Tau's dominated possession up until 1943 when the war forced the award into temporary retirement. When it was revived in 1945, Lambda Chi Alpha was the winner. Then Sigma Nu surged into athletic prominence and the battered mug has rested on their mantle since 1946.

Vaughn Elected Sigma Rho Delta President for Year

Bob Vaughan, president-elect of the regional and Nevada Blue Key organization for next year, won another presidency last week when he was elected president of Sigma Rho Delta.

The fraternity held its last meeting of the year on May 16. Vaughan will begin his term next September.

Other officers who were elected were: vice-president and senator, Bill Devlin; interfraternity representative, Charlie Pulsipher; secretary, Eddie Carr; treasurer, Ray Aiazzi; alternate senator, Clarence Lund; alternate interfraternity representative, Irving Hackett; historian, Homer Sosensberry, and custodian, Riley Jensen.

Lake Tahoe Picnic Held by ATO's

Members of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity held their annual spring semester picnic at Lake Tahoe last Sunday.

The picnic, which was held at Incline Beach, was attended by over 100 students, and refreshments were provided.

Most of the Taus and their guests went in swimming during the day, either voluntarily or unvoluntarily.

Golfers Matched Against Chico This Afternoon

Winding up the most successful season in history, Nevada's golfers play host to Chico State at Washoe county golf course today.

The Wolf Pack linksmen will be looking for their fifth win in a row and hope to keep their undefeated record at home.

Nevada already holds one win over the Wildcats of Chico, a 10-5 decision at Chico that started the Pack on its present winning streak.

Dick Evans, Nevada's golf coach, is still undecided on who will play for Nevada for one of the team's regulars, Earle Charleton, is on crutches and is not expected to be in shape for the final match.

Wayne Adams Jr., Charles Mayo, Walt Vilas, Charles Sancie, and Stan Kosakowski will play the sixth spot which probably remain open.

Orchasis Initiates Four New Members

From Orchasis initiates were honored at a breakfast held by the group at the Riverside hotel last Sunday.

New members of the modern dance group are Georgia Ames, Nilda Cox, Joanne Rich and Irene Waterman.

Guests at the affair were Elaine Mobley, dean of women, Ruth Russell, head of the department of physical education for women, Faye Briggs and Marjorie Price, instructors in women's physical education.

Blue Powerhouse Defeats Whites In Grid Finale

A goodly crowd of cash customers witnessed a preview of the Wolf Pack's Missouri "T" last Sunday afternoon at Mackay Stadium.

The Blues served their "T" with more zip than the Whites in this final scrimmage of the spring session and came out on the long end of a 44-7 score.

Johnny Subda, one of the afternoon's standouts, ran a punt back some 90 odd yards for a score after retrieving his own fumble. Bill Osborne was a powerhouse all afternoon and Alva Tabor suited up long enough to toss three touch-down passes for the Blue cause.

The Whites, sparked by Al Nociolo and Herman Fisher, kept the informal game interesting despite the lop-sided score. Nociolo, who romped 70 yards for the White's lone tally, was slightly injured and had to leave the game in the third quarter.

'Gardenia' Has Diploma And Scholarship Offer

Book-Carrying Pooch Roamed Halls At Will; Given Special Sweater

By Joyce Fiscus

"Dis univoisity is goin' ta th' dogs!"

But a lot of worse things could happen, particularly since "Pup MacQuery" came to the campus to uphold the reputation of his species. The aforementioned canine is the brown and white, book carrying pooch seen daily at the heels of "Mac" MacQuery, helping out with his share of the scholastic load. "Pup" or "Gardenia," a polite form of his real name and the one by which he is better known, is not only a dog with a future, but he's one with a pretty impressive past, too.

Gardenia isn't just kidding with that book he carries. He's fully qualified for college work by way of a high school diploma and a scholarship offered him by a southern university. The story of his unusual career began eight years ago when, as a lost puppy, Gardenia wandered into the MacQuery household from a nearby highway and took up permanent boarding.

By the time master Mac was ready to enter high school, Gardenia was old enough to "dog" his footsteps, and because of the puppy's persistence he was given a private seat in a study hall and permitted to roam at will in class rooms.

During his schooling, Gardenia didn't keep his black button nose to the grindstone all the time, either. Activities kept him busy acting as mascot for the Fay high school athletic teams, the basketball team in particular. Numerous trips with the teams over the state of Oklahoma pretty well filled his weekends. He was given a black and orange sweater (school colors) which he wore at games and on cold days.

Gardenia's integrity concerning attendance was without reproach. Even when his master was injured and confined to a hospital bed for a year, the dog went to school. Balmly breezes and the old swimming hole was a spring combination offering no temptation to Gardenia, however tempting it was to his classmates. When they played you-know-what, Gardenia went to school.

When Mac re-entered and completed high school, Gardenia was "held back" a year so the buddies could graduate together. Gardenia was right in the middle of senior activities, too, with a part in the senior play which called for his head to stick out of a suitcase. "I graduated, and Pup graduated with honors," recalls Mac, "and he even got a citation for a perfect attendance record." He had a graduation picture taken which typically posed him with the pin-feather look peculiar to blushing graduates that Mac prizes highly. Although Gardenia was not given his diploma with the rest of the graduates, at the end of the ceremony he gas given his certificate which he carried in his mouth to the door.

After high school Mac went into the army and left the dog with a friend who worked at

Yerington, Reno Track Stars Get Block N Awards

Two Nevada high school track stars were named this week as recipients of $100 track scholarships sponsored by the Block N Society.

Gene Mendiola, Reno, and Lee Schroeder, Yerington, were the pair selected by an impartial board of judges composed of downtown business men interested in track at the university.

Alternates, should either Mendiola or Schroeder decline the scholarships, are John Buccambuso, White Pine, and Ron Lyman, Carson.

Originally the Block N had established only one award but finances from sponsorship of track activities at Nevada proved profitable enough to extend a second scholarship.

"That new member of Student Council seems to have a pretty good opinion of himself" said the president.

"You're not fooling," agreed the secretary. "On his last birthday he sent his mother a letter of congratulations."

FRAT HOUSES TO BE OPEN DURING SUMMER

The four sorority houses will remain closed during the summer months, all the fraternity houses but one will remain open for students attending the summer sessions.

Sigma Nu house will be the only fraternity closed during the summer.

The Theta Chi house is the only one offering board during the summer. Two meals a day will be served. The other fraternities are offering room only.

The four sororities will be closed officially for the summer and will be evacuated some time after graduation exercises. The Pi Beta Phi house will be taken over by boarders, and the other houses will be closed until the fall semester.

Campus Infirmary To Close June 4; To Reopen in Fall

The University of Nevada infirmary today announced plans to close for the summer on Saturday, June 4. The infirmary will remain closed during the summer and reopen for the fall semester.

Students who still have infirmary equipment are urged to return it promptly as it will be necessary to withhold the records of those who do not comply. According to infirmary records, some 70 students still have hospital owned equipment that has not been returned.

The equipment that is now loaned out includes crutches, ace bandages, hot water bottles, ice caps, chest binders, canes, ear syringes, and slings.

The infirmary, which has a bed capacity of 17, has never been full during the past school year. It is manned by Dr. Locke and three nurses.

All Quiet Prevails On Social Front

This weekend promises to be a quiet one as far as most major social events go. There are, however, two picnics on schedule.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is planning a swimming party and Theta Chi a steak fry. Although the Sigma Alpha Epsilon swimming party is only tentative and no definite plans have been made, the Theta Chi steak fry is a certainty. It will be held at Galena Creek tomorrow afternoon.

"It's Wonderful", Says Miss Nevada

Wants to Raise Calf for Atlantic City 'Miss America' Contest

By Ed Slingland

Miss Nevada, like the rest of the students at the University of Nevada, is back to her studies now that the local competition is over.

Carol Lampe, who was chosen to represent Nevada at the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City in September, is trying hard to catch up. Preparation for the contest demanded a lot of time, and studies suffered.

"It's wonderful," was Miss Lampe's first reaction when she was asked how she felt about winning the contest.

A three minute talk on the way she raised and trained a calf for a Four H show was Miss Lampe's "talent" display. "I'd like to train a calf and display him for the contest in Atlantic City," she said.

Carol Diane Lampe was born in Reno, and has lived most of her life in Nevada. She attended elementary school at Smith Valley, and high school in Yerington. Her parents moved to Middletown, California, where Miss Lampe played basketball on the high school team which won the county championship. She was salutatorian of her graduating class at Middletown.

Miss Nevada is an education major, and expects to teach in an elementary school when she graduates, but would like to do some spare time modeling. She hopes her father will go back to ranching, however, because she likes animals.

Lorraine Houghton, outgoing president of the Associated Women Students, the organization that sponsored the joint fashion show and Miss Nevada pageant, said that the AWS made about $300 on the contest. This money will be used to pay Miss Lampe's transportation to Atlantic City for the Miss America pageant on September 5.

For the record, Miss Nevada's specifications are as follows:

Height.....	5 feet 10 inches
Weight.....	150 pounds
Bust.....	36 inches
Waist.....	26½ inches
Hips.....	36 inches
Neck.....	12½ inches
Upper Arm.....	9¾ inches
Lower Arm.....	8½ inches
Wrist.....	6 inches
Thigh.....	19 inches
Calf.....	14 inches
Ankle.....	8½ inches
Eyes.....	Green
Hair.....	Brown
Complexion.....	Light bronze
Dress size.....	14
Shoe size.....	9
Glove size.....	7½

1949 Graduates To Encounter Job Competition

This year's graduates, as many graduates of universities all over the United States, will become a little better acquainted with job hunting than graduates of the past nine years who could wait for the jobs to come to them.

A present decrease of demands for jobs created by the war and a tightening of employment by industry have deflated employment demands in many fields back to a more normal level.

Although Nevada's graduating teachers, journalism students, home economics specialists, and agriculture students will have no trouble in finding positions, most of the engineering students will find the demand a little more contracted than in previous years.

Of the 40 graduates with teaching certificates, over half of them have been placed already and most of them are expected to accept positions by summer. There is a greater demand for grade school teachers.

The journalism department has reported that there have been more inquiries for journalists than there are graduates.

The agricultural department's three graduates have already made their plans.

There is an increasing demand for dieticians and home economics teachers, so Nevada home economics majors need feel no insecurity. This year there are majors in the home ec department. One of them will serve a one year internship next year in Massachusetts to become a dietician. The other is a general major and is not seeking a home economics job.

Most of our physic and chemistry graduates are planning to attend grauate school next year.

"Miss Nevada" Carol Lampe, Reno born, Yerington raised University of Nevada coed, who will represent this state at the "Miss America" contest in Atlantic City next September. Carol, Kappa Alpha Theta, will be the first Nevada representative to the world famous pageant of beauty.

Rhodes Scholar Qualifications Set for Oxford

The newest memorandum regarding eligibility and basis of selections for the Rhodes scholarships, tenable at the University of Oxford for a minimum of two years, has been received at President John O. Moseley's office.

The information mentions that scholars who qualify for benefits under the GI bill of rights may expect benefits at Oxford equivalent to those they would receive at an American university.

Under the conditions of eligibility, a candidate must be a male citizen of the United States and unmarried; he must be between the ages of 19 and 25; and he must, by the time of application, have at least two years of college training.

As specified by Mr. Rhodes in his will, basis of selection must be based upon four groups of qualities: literary and scholastic ability and attainments, qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship, exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates, and physical vigour as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

The memorandum further states that some definite quality of distinction, whether in intellect, character or personality, or in any combination of these, is the most important requirement for a Rhodes scholarship.

No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes scholar's choice of studies.

"There's No Substitute for Good Engraving"

Let us help you plan your summer trip

7 reasons why you'll enjoy S. P. trains

Economy Chair cars and coaches on Southern Pacific trains take you there cheaper than you can drive. Rates are only slightly higher than the lowest cost transportation.

Comfort You can stretch, walk around, visit the dining car or take a nap. Long-distance trains are air-conditioned, too.

Speed Chair cars and coaches on S. P. trains provide the fastest low-cost transportation available.

Relaxation Let the engineer do it. You arrive fresh and rested.

Convenience Eat on the train, read your favorite magazine, play cards or plan your next day's business meeting.

Luxury Think of Southern Pacific in terms of luxury travel, too. Here are some of the fine trains that are at your service:

Streamliner City of San Francisco and San Francisco Overland to Chicago; the Daylights between Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland-Sacramento; the streamlined Golden State to Chicago via Los Angeles; and the Sunset Limited to New Orleans through the Old South.

Ask Southern Pacific for details about our trains and services. We'll be glad to help you plan your trip.

Safety Travel with confidence. Weather makes no difference to the railroad. Sun, fog, wind or rain, you'll be safe with Southern Pacific. Steel rails are the safest highway ever built.

Artemisia Distribution Now In Progress

Editor Sinclair Melner Beats Deadline; Books Given Out at ASUN Building

The 1949 Artemisia was distributed today at the ASUN building. Sinclair Melner, editor, was in charge of distribution of the annual. All students who were not able to pick up their books were asked to contact Melner to make arrangements.

Melner said, "As yet there is no report on the financial success of the book. However, I feel that there is a very good chance for the book to break even."

This year will mark the golden anniversary of the year-book, and will commemorate the diamond anniversary of the University of Nevada.

"The 1949 Artemisia is the biggest issue ever published in the history of the university," according to Bob Kent, business manager.

The theme of the red bound, 312 page volume is the 75th anniversary of the University of Nevada.

'Required' Eating At Dining Hall Unfounded Rumor

In response to rumors that all students living on campus would be required to eat at the university dining hall next fall semester, Dean of Women Elaine Mobley said today that they are unfounded. However, Miss Mobley added, the dining hall committee hopes to make a survey on the question as soon as time allows and arrangements can be made with the new administration. This survey may not be possible for more than a year.

The survey would look into the possibility of approximating room and board costs together and requiring students to pay them in one lump sum at the beginning of each semester. This is done on the UCLA, USC and UC campuses, Dean Mobley said.

She further stated that most students fail to realize that the present cost of rooms in university controlled buildings has not been raised in recent years in proportion to economic trends and that they are actually operating at a loss or at least with no margin for repairs and improvements.

ROTC Awards Are Given at Gov. Day Campus Ceremony

Company "A" of the student cadet battalion received nearly all the honors presented for drill competition for the school year. The awards were made last week during a ceremony in honor of Governor's Day.

Governor Pittman presented James O. Parker, cadet lieutenant colonel, with the governor's medal. Parker is student commander of the cadets.

Leonard Battaglia and Myron Manley, both of Company A, received gold medals for outstanding drill work. Battaglia was judged the best drilled sophomore cadet, and Manley won the freshman competition.

Company A also entered the best in the squad competition. The squad was led by first sergeant Earle Dempsey. Company E won the competition for the best drilled platoon.

The air force medal was presented to Alfred Larson, Jay Atwood and Tom Macaulay received citations of marksmanship and service to the rifle club.

Five men were given honorable mention for the governor's medal. Howard McKisick, Irving Crawford, Alfred Larson and George Hill, all of whom are cadet officers and George Becker, cadet private, received mention.

Other finalists for the sophomore and freshman drill competition were cited for their work. Second prize in each case was a silver medal; third prize was a bronze medal and fourth place received honorable mention.

Men receiving these honors were: sophomores: Malcolm Short, second place; Dale Riddle, third place, and Gee Gay Woo, fourth place. Freshmen: James Webber, second place; John Anderson, third place, and Lazo Pavlakis, fourth place.

First year advanced military students commanded the cadets for the first time during the parade.
