

14-3 Senate Vote Puts Assessment on Ballot

The student senate at its Wednesday night meeting approved an amendment favoring acceptance of the proposed $5 assessment on each member of the student body. The assessment is intended to establish a maintenance fund necessary before construction can begin on the new student union building.

A vote of 14 for, two against and one abstaining passed the amendment proposed by Senator Bert Munson and seconded by Jerry Markoski. The senators took this action on the basis of a predominantly favorable reaction of their constituents in fraternity and sorority houses and the residence halls.

Questioned to the effect that this assessment will raise from $30,000 to $35,000 for the maintenance fund and the necessity of the amount, Munson explained that other sources are being sounded out for funds. He said that the assessment should be considered as a safeguard in case these outside sources fall through.

Ten Days Posted

The amendment will be posted on campus bulletin boards Monday, in compliance with the constitution which requires that it be posted ten days before a student election. Students will vote Thursday, November 5, before Homecoming at the same time that they vote for queen candidates. Another amendment and student vote would be necessary to change the amount fixed by the present amendment.

Commenting on the senate action, Senator Jacqueline McGowan (Pi Phi) who voted against, said, "although the pledges were not present at the house meeting, the actives felt that it was like paying for a dead horse." John Darling, Sigma Rho Delta, was the other negative vote. Dave Mort, engineering department representative, abstained on the grounds that he is a new member and not sufficiently acquainted with the problem.

In addition to the amendment action, the Senate heard a financial report by Leah Gregory, senator-at-large. Since the beginning of the school year, the ASUN fund has underwritten student activities for the following amounts:

- Hello on the Hill: $152 (which returned a profit of $60).
 - Song Leaders: $192.
 - Homecoming: $431.
 - Wolves Frolic: $1020 (which made a profit last year of $700).
 - Student Union: $130.
 - Associated Women Students: $429.
 - Play Productions: $270.
- Otto Schulz, ATO, was elected Winter Carnival chairman.

Blue Key Selling Alumni Tickets

Following the Homecoming game November 7, there will be five lucky ticket holders chosen and awarded prizes of a radio-television set as first prize to the winner; a freezer as second prize; a roaster as third prize, and $100 worth of women's and men's clothing as fourth and fifth prizes. Attendance at the game is not necessary to be eligible for the prizes.

Members of the Homecoming committee and heads of all campus organizations will assist the Blue Key in the sale of tickets. A

$1,000 WORTH OF BACKING FOR BIGGER, BETTER AG SHOW

"Over $1,000 is being raised by subscription from Nevada merchants to make this year's Aggie horse show bigger and better than ever before," said Rex Cleary, president of the University of Nevada Aggies.

This year's show will feature local participants as well as professional riders, and entertainers. A new innovation of this year's aggie show will be night entertainment. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the various events. Races, cattle handling and thoroughbreds will be contested for the $1,000 prizes.

Two Managers

Because of the enlargement of the program, two managers have been elected to handle the business of presenting the show. Rex Cleary and Dale Odneal, seniors, will be in charge, assisted by Frank Stewart, a junior.

The first public appearance of the Aggies this semester will be at the Nevada day parade where they will ride in the procession. Miss Marlena Neddrenrip, last year's Aggie horse show queen will accompany the aggies in the parade.

Cal Judging Trip

Also coming up on the Aggie agenda is a trip to the University of California at Davis where seven aggies will assist in judging livestock. Rex Cleary, Frank Stewart, Bob Genasei, Dale Odneal, Gerald Whittwer, Elbert Gardner, Frank Reed and Jim Hunter as coach will make the trip for the first time since the contest was discontinued four years ago.

ORCHESTRIS HAS SKIT

Plans for the Orchestris skit in the Wolves Frolic were made at their last meeting. Evelyn Nelson is in charge of skit. Each week the senior members of the modern dance group plan a program on some phase of the dance to entertain the new members.

booth will be constructed downtown, and tickets will also be on sale in downtown Reno stores.

Last year the tickets were sold by fraternities and sororities with the ATO's and KAT's winning the $25.00 prize for having sold the most tickets among the campus organizations.

"Proceeds from the sale of tickets, which sell for $1.00, will go to the Alumni association," said Blue Key president Olaf Liefson.

Game, Parades Will End Season For UN Band

The band will go to Davis, California, leaving tomorrow at noon and returning Sunday night by train to play at the Cal Aggie-Nevada football game Saturday night.

Professor Felton Hickman, music department, said that he was very pleased with the performance of the band and especially the baton and flag twirlers.

Play at Carson

The following week the band will play in the Admission day parade in Carson City and then wind up the football season with the Homecoming parade.

Short Horns

Professor Hickman said the band could still use trombone players, clarinet players and two drummers.

BEAT THE DRAFT

Application forms for the Selective Service college qualification test are available at any local Selective Service board.

The test will be given November 19. Afterwards, the test papers will be distributed to the proper draft boards for deferment consideration.

Destroy yourself. It's later than you think.

Frolic Skit Ideas Released This Week

The Wolves Frolic began to take shape this week as sororities and fraternities produced rough sketches of their proposed skit ideas.

Tickets for the Frolic will be on sale at the book store throughout next week. The prices are $2.40, 1.80, 1.50 and 1.20.

Dr. William C. Miller, director of the Frolic, has revealed the ideas around which the skits are being built. These ideas, however, are subject to change.

3-D and Showers

The new student union building is the general theme of the Theta skit, 3-D movies that of the Gamma Phi's, females in a shower room for the Pi Phi's and campus queens for the Tri-Delts.

The Sigma Nu's will do a blues number and the ATO's a cross country race, while Theta Chi will center their theme around the tune "Dragnet," and Lambda Chi will present a satire on the motion picture industry. SAE and Phi Sig have not yet formulated any definite ideas for their skits.

A new feature will be initiated in the Frolic this year. Songs characteristic of each sorority and fraternity will be played as an introduction to their acts.

Dr. Miller will buy the costumes for the kick and tap choruses in San Francisco this week-end.

Game Half-Time To Feature Drills

Half-time activities at the Homecoming game will feature a special event in the form of the Moffitt Air Field drill team. The navy will present a 15-minute drill.

The annual crowning of the queen will also take place at half-time. Additional entertainment will be offered by the university band.

Freshmen Threatened! Upperclass Committee Cracks Down On Frosh Who Break Traditions

Freshmen are still guilty of violating the dink and ribbon traditions. Many evidently have the idea that because they won the Frosh-Soph field day they can forget the ribbons, dinks and handbooks.

"They have to be worn until the Homecoming bonfire. Starting Monday, October 26, all violators between then and the Homecoming assembly will be punished," vows Evelyn Nelson, chairman of the women's upperclass committee.

"Revenge" Is Battle Cry

Miss Nelson stated that because of the many meetings during the past week, the upperclass committee has given the frosh a rest, but now with Miss Nelson's swats still a burning incentive, "Revenge" is her battle cry.

A few reasons freshmen gave for ignoring the rules are, "I think it's kind of silly, so a lot of times I forget my ribbon."

"We went to all the trouble of winning the Frosh-Soph field day, so why should we have to wear them?"

"A lot of the dinks are too small for us and make us look like high school students all over again."

Book in Wrong Pants

"I keep my handbook in my pants pocket and when I change pants I forget to change it."

"I don't know why I don't wear my ribbon, I guess it's just too much trouble."

"I keep my hand book in one of my books so I'll always have it."

President Stout Gives Brushfire $100 Underwriting

President Minard W. Stout recently gave the Brushfire staff an underwriting of $100. This money will be used to cover any losses the student literary publication may have this semester.

Co-editors John Hall and Janice Van Tassel and business manager,

Hazel Johnson, talked to President Stout last Tuesday afternoon about this year's Brushfire. Hall said that the president offered his services to foster student creativeness on campus.

Board Chosen

The editorial board members of the Brushfire were chosen last week. They are Robin Jackson, Priscilla Miller, Evalyn Gaase, Vincent Mahoney, Barbara Brown and Bruce Bledsoe.

'53 Coed Capers Will Come Later

Plans for Coed Capers, the semi-award dinner sponsored by the AWS, will be drawn up after Homecoming, according to Norma Etchegoyhen, AWS president.

All women students are invited to Coed Capers. After dinner and a song fest various talented coeds entertain with dances and skits. Then a scholarship cup for the sorority house having the highest scholastic average is presented.

Eight Year Winner
Delta Delta Delta has won this cup for the past eight years.

The pledge class with the highest scholastic average receives a cup which last year also went to the Tri Deltas. A pledge improvement plaque is awarded to the entire sorority showing the most improvement during the previous year.

Cake Sale Profits To Benefit Orphan

A Korean orphan will benefit from the profits of a cake and pie auction to be put on by the Home Economics club. A tentative date for the sale is November 2.

Pastries will be auctioned at fraternity houses and Manzanita hall by the club members. Co-chairmen of the benefit are Evelyn Nelson and Marlena Neddenriep.

A contest to bake the best cake and pie will be held between home economics students.

Irene Marshall, president of Eta Epsilon, the Home Ec club, announced that an initiation is set for November 9. Any students enrolled in home economic courses are eligible.

Things ain't getting better.

Newman Club Has Breakfast

The Newman club held a communion breakfast last Sunday and a Halloween party last night.

On Sunday the club received communion in a group at St. Albert's Catholic church at 9:00 a.m. mass. A communion breakfast was held at the Trocadero following mass.

Dancing, Games

The informal Halloween party was held in the Knights of Columbus club room, formerly the Blue and Silver cafe. A short business meeting preceded the party. Various Halloween games were played and the members danced.

The committee members in charge of the party were Dave Ryan, Gail Altenburg, Anna Serpentina and Inez Pasquale.

This year's Newman club officers are John Hanifan, president; Pat Norton, vice president; Georgia Myers, secretary; Rose Saponara, treasurer; Andree Anchart and George Schindler, social chairmen.

Clean Up

No election, campaign, activity or rally goes unnoticed on campus. Every tree, building, lawn and corner is littered with the tattered and torn posters of past events.

There the broken bits of cardboard and scraps of paper lie, unless a good wind removes them or one of the university lawn keepers picks them up.

It's a fine thing to advertise activities and upcoming elections. It's better yet that some persons are willing to devote time to making posters and printing bulletins. But why leave them tacked all over when they're no longer needed?

If the committee or persons designated to hang posters and banners all over campus can't bother to clean up afterwards, then have another committee to do just that.

A great deal of time and money is spent on the university grounds, trimming lawns and keeping the buildings and shrubbery looking decent. It is to no avail if the campus is to be decorated with extremely unsavory and sloppy remnants of long since happenings.

Pitiful Propaganda

As a rule, today's movies are mediocre at best. Content, plot, characterization and photography leave much to be desired.

Films put out by such organizations as United Nations, Red Cross, Security Council and the anti-Communist groups put even the B-grade cowboy movies to shame, however. These generally take the prize for asinine tear-jerking, distorted facts, and lousy casting.

Particularly obnoxious and stupid was the one shown at the Majestic this week on the structure of the United Nations.

This is not to say that these organizations should not keep the public informed as to their activities and plans. Movies are an excellent media for disseminating such information. But when the information is cluttered with repellent and time-wasting plots, with much fanfare, flags and shouting, it becomes a nuisance and an insult to the average person's intelligence.

Much of the good that could be accomplished by these would-be educational and informative films is destroyed by public disgust and derision.

Sigma Nu Offers Support for $5.00 Tax, Activities

Sigma Nu fraternity voted unanimously to back the proposed $5 assessment to be levied on each student for maintenance of the new student union building.

A resolution giving full support to all football games, rallies and student assemblies was passed by the house.

President Paul Argeres stated that the purpose of the promised Sigma Nu support is to show the people of the state that students do want a new student union building, and also to instill school spirit on the campus.

Miner's Magazine To Be Published

The Mackay school of mines is entering the publishing world this year. A magazine, "The Mackay Miner" is being published by the Crucible club. Ed Barroch is editing the "Miner," with the assistance of Jim Skinner, business manager.

The "Miner" is featuring a "report to the alumni" article which will inform past graduates of current mining school news, and report on student affairs. Essentially a non technical magazine, the "Miner" hopes to enlarge over past editions by running articles of general interest. The first edition is tentatively scheduled to appear in May.

DIRTY BITS

By SANDRA MITTS

Several alumns, who are known by those of you here last year and the year before, are in the news this week.

Chelly Leonard, who is coach of the ski team, will marry Diana Strong on November 1 at the Reno Federated church. Chelly is U of N graduate and a Sigma Nu.

The engagement of Leila Rowson and Gene Brown was announced last week. Both are recent graduates. Leila is a Tri Delt and Gene an SAE.

A lot of you will probably remember Howard McKissick. He is to be married this Sunday to Barbara Jean Taylor, former Theta.

A new group has been formulated among some of the men on campus. They have dubbed themselves the Grubs. They promise to be a pretty strong group and are already planning a social schedule.

The Pi Phi and Theta alumns honored their new pledges at teas given at their houses Tuesday night. The Pi Phi's also had a cookie shine. Ask them what it is!

Morning, noon and night . . . anytime at all. That seems to be the sort of schedule the sorority and fraternity men and women will be having to live under for the next couple of weeks. Practices are being held at all hours.

As seems to be the tradition, the Theta Chi pledges took their turn in honoring their pledgemaster last Monday night. Steve Stewart was taken 30 miles out on a lonely road and left with only one "friend." He had no trouble getting back to town, but as soon as he reached the Wolf Den, the girls robbed him of his friend. Nothing has been seen of the latter since.

Mrs. Belle Drew, house mother at Artemisia, has taken a short leave of absence from her duties. She flew to Portland Thursday and will be back in a few days.

Bill Clark forgot where he'd left his car when he went to the library one night last week. He was sure he'd left it parked right in front. After an extensive search the lost was found—out in the middle of the lawn by the tram.

The Phi Sigs are having theft problems, too. A plaque is missing from their house. Little is known of its whereabouts except that it can be found somewhere in the Theta House.

This promises to be a big weekend for many . . . those who are going to the Davis game. No classes Monday, I guess. (This is not a legal announcement).

Season's Messiah To Feature Bass

Handel's Messiah, the nineteenth annual Christmas choral program, will feature Mr. Holly Mertel, bass, now of New York City, formerly a Nevada graduate.

Students who are interested may try out for the chorus which practices Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:00 p. m. in the Education building.

The performance of the Messiah will be given the night of December 14. In addition, the student chorus will have community and street singers from Sparks and Reno.

On The Hill

By DAVID TRAITEL

The Lull—The last week and week end were dead. Perhaps it's only in comparison with the previous weekend that it seemed so, or it might be the lull before the storm forthcoming in Sacramento. At any rate things moved slowly, and about the highest person observed was the German daredevil tippy-toeing above Virginia street between the Mapes hotel and Hatton's. General crowd reaction seemed to be, "I think I'll quit looking now, while he's still up there." Mothers kept a weary eye on their youngsters, ready to clap a hand over their eye at the slightest sign of a downward plunge. According to a few amateur campus cyclists it was impossible for the motorcycle to tip over or fall off the wire. Really no trick to it. Still it seems there must be an easier way to make a living than to do handstands on that motorcycle several hundred feet above the pavement.

Gone Fishing—Although the campus was dead, downtown Reno was jumping. Highlighting the activity was the filming of the Universal-International picture "Johnny Dark." While eagerly gawking at the stars, activity, etc., I happened to hear one of the minor actors discussing the movie industry with a fellow onlooker. "Yeah," said the actor, "the last time I was on location was in a little town in Montana. Me and another guy got burned to death on page nineteen, so we spent the rest of the time fishing. It's not a bad deal." Not, not really a bad deal.

They Went All the Way—It was a week of upsets throughout the nation: Stanford took UCLA, Illinois stopped Minnesota, Notre Dame was held to three touchdowns by Pitt, but unfortunately the Wolf Pack didn't join the upset parade, as Fresno State set them down 47 to 7. From listening to the game it would seem that if Nevada could have pushed across a few tallies in the first quarter it might have been a different story, but they didn't so the bad news stands. Coach Jake Lawlor points out that the numerous injuries suffered by the team didn't do them any good. The injuries necessitated the play of green men who just didn't have the equipment to fill the bill. At the present time it looks as though Joe Leal will be able to play in tomorrow's game, but Stephens' condition is still doubtful. Ed Jesse turned in another fine passing performance, with end Mert Baxter doing some great receiving. Jesse completed 17 out of 35 aeri-als for 218 yards. Lawlor was pleased over the fine showing by halfback Don Jones, and commented favorably on the gameness of the forward wall. He explained the line was stopping the Fresno backs, but when they did get through, the secondary couldn't hold them. Incidentally, when Nevada tangles with S. F. State at Homecoming it should be a real aerial circus. S. F.'s quarterback completed 26 passes Friday night against powerful Cal Poly, to gain over 300 yards by air.

It's Almost That Time—With November 7 but two weeks away, another Homecoming is almost upon us. Already the various activities are beginning to shape up. (Continued on Page Five)

LOVE CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

By DEBORAH DESIRE

Editor's Note: The reader response to this column has been truly remarkable. The Sagebrush has had twenty seven subscription cancellations. A bomb was found wired to the editor's typewriter. Miss Desire has received a one-way ticket to Fairbanks, Alaska. In the face of such heart-warming recognition of her good work, Miss Desire has graciously consented to dedicate her forthcoming book to her host of loyal readers. The book will be entitled: "People Stink."

Dear Miss Desire:
I am a young man in love. I met Yvonne at a hog-skinning contest a month ago and fell in love with her at once. She wields a skinning knife like no one else in this world. It was a whirlwind romance. We went out every night. We stood on the bridge in the moonlight and spit in the river and necked. It was delightful. Now, a terrible change has come over her. I proposed marriage, but insisted that she give up hog skinning as I do not want my wife to work. Yvonne claims that hog skinning is her career. She says it is her life. I insisted. She cried. A week ago, she went up a cottonwood tree behind her house. She has not come down. I know she is up there as I can hear her breathing and sharpening her knives. I have tried everything, but Yvonne, I fear, has lost her mind. I love her. What can I do?
—Poor Richard

Dear "Poor Richard"
Yours is not an unusual problem. I think that with a little careful planning, you can convince Yvonne to marry you. First, however, you must get her back down to earth. Why not throw a few fresh-killed hogs around under the tree so that she will be tempted to come down and skin them? After she is down, then perhaps you could take her to dinner and explain things. Dinner is an excellent idea if she has been up there a week.

Dear Miss Desire:
My son in law wrote to you last week. He said I was doing strange things to him and that I was turning his children against him. This is an unspeakable lie. That is not the worst of it. You advised him to throw razor blades in my oatmeal. If I ever meet you face to face, I will rip your head off and have it mounted over my mantle-piece.

Sincerely,
Mother-in-Law

Dear "Mother-in-Law"
Please do me the favor to take gas.

Dear Miss Desire:
My husband is a retired fireman. He is a good man. But he misses his old call. He sits around the house all dressed in his raincoat and holding his axe. Every time he hears a siren, he runs out in the street and starts chopping down telegraph poles. Perhaps we should have another child maybe? We have 23 now.

—Fireman's Bride

Dear "Fireman's Bride"
My advice to you is to humor your husband. Start little fires around the house and make siren noises. This will keep him in the house and out of trouble. Twenty-three children? I would like to talk to you.

Heavy Duty for Regulars Tomorrow

Downfield Blocks And Tackling Must Improve

Heavy duty will again be required of the Pack's regulars in tomorrow's game with the Cal Aggies. Coach Lawlor said that Jesse, Baxter, Einstoss, Ford, Leslie, Lash, Jones, Brooks and Melton will be called upon again to produce full or near-full time efforts. Leal, Stephens and Mross will all be ready.

The bulk of ground gaining and tackling has rested with the first stringers against Chico and Fresno and they will all turn in repeat performances if the Pack is to hand the Aggies their fourth loss in five games.

Better Tackling

Coach Lawlor will require downfield blocking by the linemen and improved tackling by the secondary. Missed tackles in the secondary defense were a contributing factor in last week's loss to Fresno. Lawlor has not been able to stress tackling in practice sessions this week because of a lack of targets resulting from injuries that must be carefully nursed.

None of the injuries are serious, but the host of minor aggravations can cut down the length of time a man can produce maximum effort. Under the new one-platoon style, sustained effort is doubly difficult. Quarterback Ed Jesse is a prime example. The only T-formation quarterback on the squad, Jesse can scarcely be spared at any time. He runs the team on offense, does all the passing and then must remain in action on defense. Although he is a first rate defensive halfback, he runs the risk of injury because the new rules forbid his return to action on offense in the same quarter if he leaves the field.

Jones will have to develop more maneuverability instead of constantly diving into tacklers. Altenburg may do extra duty tomorrow. A knee injury has held up Lawlor's plan to use Giles as a defensive halfback as well as at end on offense.

Less Depth

The Aggies will field a strong line and a pair of good running backs. Although they do not have as much strength in depth as Fresno, they will furnish trouble for the Pack with their system of passing from a wide-open spread formation. They have two passing quarterbacks where Nevada has one. Lawlor has been working on a defense against the spread attack.

He pointed out what he terms to be the obvious disadvantage of one-platoon football. Injuries, he said, are the natural result of the new system. Football, under the two-platoon style, built up into a high speed, wide-open game. Now, the style is the same but the rules have put the strain and the danger on the men who get doubly tired and are much more easily hurt.

Veterans Hammered

Lawlor gave his tackles, Einstoss and Leslie, as cases in point. All substitute tackles are young, fairly green men and the veteran pair take a sustaining beating at this vital spot in the line.

Speaking of the Nevada line play, Lawlor was pleased with the consistently good job of the men in the middle, Melton, Ford, Einstoss, Drakulich and Leslie.

Life is "dog eat dog." This is very hard, especially if you happen to be a dog lover. Or a dog.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

The KAT women's softball team will meet the winner of the Independents-Gamma Phi game next week to decide the championship. The Gamma Phi's will meet the Independents Tuesday, October 27.

The Theta's have racked up one win over the Gamma Phi women and have defeated both Pi Phi's and Tri Deltas. Miss Lois Fitzgibbons and Mrs. Mary Frye have officiated at all games.

Wolf Pack Flattened by Bulldogs

Win-Hungry Fresno Too Much For Nevadans

By ROLLAN MELTON

A win-hungry Fresno State Bulldog pounced on the Nevada Wolf Pack after a quarter and a half of closely-contested football at Fresno's Ratcliffe stadium Saturday and went on to win a high-scoring ball game, 47-7.

The Pack, suffering its first defeat of the grid season, went into the game with injuries to key players, injuries which were to be aggravated more than slightly during the game.

Cap and Scroll Holds First Dance

Cap and Scroll, campus honorary society, started the year with a dinner at the Santa Fe hotel this last week.

According to Andree Anchart, president, the group will raise money for the new student union building for their annual project.

Attending the meeting were Andree Anchart, Dorothy Bell, Leah Gregory, Rosemary Cochran, Marie Nielsen, Diane Lewers, Barbara Van Meter, JoAnn Menu, Carol Normandy and advisor Dr. J. E. Church.

Members for this organization are chosen for their leadership and scholarship. It is the equivalent of Mortar Board on other campuses.

Joe Leal, Nevada's soph half-back, went out on the fourth play of the game with a badly twisted ankle, Ed Stevens followed not long afterwards, Don Jones was shaken up several times during the contest, and Buddy Brooks suffered a knee injury.

Bulldogs Dynamite

The Bulldogs, taking their first win of the year after dropping to powerful San Jose, COP and Los Angeles state, gained momentum after being stopped cold in the first quarter by a stubborn Pack defense. Coach Clark Van Galder's eleven rolled to a well earned 15-0 halftime lead, then exploded for a series of long runs which spelled TD's in the final two periods.

Ed Jesse, Nevada's stellar play caller, engineered the Pack's lone touchdown in the third quarter, spinning aerials to Nevada's great pass catching end Mert Baxter. Baxter scored the Nevada TD on a pass to the left.

Jesse converted.

During the final half Fresno's downfield blocking turned the tide of the ball game as Fresno backs broke through the Nevada secondary on tricky reverse plays.

Might Have Won

Despite the lop-sided score, on any other given day, provided Nevadans were in good health, the Pack would give Fresno a much stiffer battle, perhaps beat the Bulldogs.

The host team had greater strength with its depth, faster backs, and a better pair of ends than those appearing here with Chico two weeks ago.

Playing outstanding ball for Nevada were these workhorse linemen: Boyce Ford and Stan Drakulich, guards; Mike Leslie, tackle; Ciles Altenburg, Baxter and slashing Joe Lash, ends; backs Jesse, Jones, Brooks, while he was in there, and previously untried George Schindler.

Five frosh lovelies will try their best to swing and sway the male portion of the student body into electing one of them queen for a day. The fraternity men are already anticipating long nights of work in preparing the floats, knowing that, more than likely, the last napkin will be stuffed in on the way to the point of departure. The kick chorus sweethearts, and male kick chorus not-so-sweethearts have already started their nightly workouts. Campus organizations are frantically writing and revising scripts for the Wolves' Frolic. Cutting out those little goodies that Dr. Miller just won't let pass. And so it goes, by the dance time Saturday night everybody's so tired they don't feel much like dancing; but it was sure fun getting that beat.

Art Dept. Will Build Xmas Scene

A Christmas scene below the tram on campus will be designed and built by university art students in time for the holiday season, disclosed J. Craig Sheppard, head of the university art department this week.

A Christmas scene was set up on campus previous to the war. They were discontinued during the war until 1947. Since 1947 a Christmas scene was constructed for four years. They were discontinued for two years since 1947 because of the scarcity of materials and damage done by Reno youngsters to the scene.

Suggestions Wanted

Sheppard stated that the art department will welcome suggestions from the student body on a scene to be depicted. He said he feels sure that there are many students with imagination who could think of a scene that would represent the spirit of Christmas bigness and brotherly feeling instead of the material side of Christmas. He will appreciate and consider any ideas or suggestions that the students are willing to submit.

These ideas can be dropped into the campus mail and sent to the art department, or brought to Sheppard's office anytime.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Rhodes scholarship applications are on hand in the office of Professor Loring R. Williams, Mackay hall. Professor L. R. Williams, chairman of the committee on scholarships and prizes, urges everyone interested to apply before the October 31st deadline.

The last Rhodes scholar from Nevada who went to Oxford was Robert Barney Childs, in 1949. Preceding him was Russell W. McDonald, 1937.

Thirty-two scholarships are awarded annually. The United States is grouped into eight districts of six states each for the purpose of making these appointments.

The scholarships carry with them a stipend of $1650 a year plus an approximate yearly allowance of $400. The duration of the scholarship is for two years.

One alumnus, Fred Anderson, settled in Reno as a local doctor after concluding his studies abroad as a Rhodes scholar.

Qualifications

1. Unmarried male citizen of the United States, five years as a resident.
2. Passed his 19th and not his 25th birthday by October 1st of his election year.
3. Have at least a junior standing in an accredited university of the United States.

Farmers to Join Student Ranks In Short Brush-Up Ag Courses

University enrollment will surge upward beginning November 8 when farm men and women come to the campus for a short course in agriculture being offered for six weeks. The students will find these men and women taking an active part in campus life. They will live on campus, eat in the dining hall, and take part in the physical and social life of the university.

However, the aggie men and women will miss the most integral part of student life—the cramming for tests and final examinations. Because the courses are not being offered for university credit, no exams will be given.

New Methods

The short course is intended to give farm men and women a chance to brush up on their agricultural skills and to learn new, improved methods. Any Nevada farm man or woman 18 years of age and willing to do the work is eligible. The course runs from November 8 to December 17.

The courses are designed to summarize the important things in the production and marketing of Nevada crops and livestock, and they have been chosen so that they will apply to nearly every part of the state. Courses are being offered in livestock feeding, breeds and livestock judging, marketing farm products, pastures, soils and soil management and

Skating Scheduled Free Saturdays

Roller skating is being offered on those Saturday nights when a game is not scheduled. It is held in the old gymnasium, and is under the sponsorship of WRA.

Skates may be rented for 35 cents. There is no charge for those who have their own skates. Miss Lois Fitzgibbons stated she would help anyone who wants to learn to skate. She added, "there have been good crowds, but I hope even more people will start coming."

Unfinished Dorm Open to Visitors

Lincoln hall will be open for inspection during homecoming to alumni, faculty, students and townspeople.

The men's dormitory has been under a renovation process since January, 1952. It is scheduled for completion by the first of November.

Work was held up last week when the fireproof paint did not arrive as scheduled. By tomorrow the painting will be done and next week the new furniture will be uncrated and set up on second and third floors.

Tile is still to be laid on all three floors. A great deal of work is left to be done on the main floor.

After completion of Lincoln hall Mianzanita will be renovated. This is planned for two years from now. Artemisia is relatively new and was completely refurbished this summer.

Sorority Dances Honor 54 Pledges

Tri Delt and Theta's are honoring their pledges at dances to be held this week-end. Tri Delt's 21 pledges will be recognized at their dance at Lawton's hot springs tonight from 9:00 to 12:00 p. m.

The KAT'S will hold their pledge dance in the Theta chapter house where their 33 pledges will be honored. This dance is tomorrow night from 9:00 to 12:00 p. m.

Guests for the Tri Delt dance will be Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Monson, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Len Watre, and Dr. and Mrs. Gray. The SAE serenaders are singing and playing for the dance.

Guests for the Theta dance will be Dr. and Mrs. David B. Slemmons, Mr. and Mrs. Burton C. Newbry, Mrs. Philip Auchempough and Mrs. Dean Duke. Bill Azbill's band will play for the dance.

United Nations Week Review

"A Layman's View of the United Nations" was the title of a talk given to the university students by Joseph P. Williams Thursday.

Mr. Williams, assistant vice-president of the Bank of America, has been associated with the United Nations for several years and heads the Northern California and Nevada council.

United Nations Week

The talk commemorated United Nations week, October 18 to October 24, and was given in the Education auditorium at 11:00 a. m. Flags of the member nations were displayed as well as posters drawn by the art department.

United Nations week was further recognized by a party at the State building Saturday night where Renoites of foreign heritage entertained guests with songs and dances of their respective cultures. Information about the United Nations was broadcast throughout the week on the radio and television.

Student Jobs Are Fewer This Year

Job hunting is more difficult for students this year than in the past. Twenty five men and 13 women now have employment applications on file in the deans' offices.

Thus far this year 16 women have been placed on jobs, most of them on campus. A few men have been placed with service stations and garages. One is now working as a clerk at Western Union, and another as an assistant engineer at a laundry.

Jobs available that no one has shown any interest in are posted on bulletin boards in the deans' offices.

Several persons are looking for students who wish to tend children in exchange for their room and board.

Brushfire Staff Now Organizing

The co-editors and faculty advisors of the 1954 Brushfire, a university literary publication, are formulating plans for the staff organization and policy of this year's magazine. John Hall and Janet Van Tassell, both junior English majors, co-editors of the Brushfire, are working with faculty advisors. Mr. Howard R. Houston, Dr. H. Stuart Daley, and Dr. Paul Eldridge. According to Hall, the rest of this year's staff will be chosen within the month.

The editors said they hope the Brushfire would have more scope this year than ever before. They plan to make it more representative of the various colleges and departments in the university.

Hall asked students with any poems, short stories or articles for the Brushfire to submit them now if they are ready. These may be

PROFESSOR'S MEET

The Nevada chapter of the American Association of University Professors discussed competitive athletics in schools at its first meeting of the school year Wednesday, October 21.

Military Set Up In New Battalion Organization

A new battalion system for organization of military classes was put into effect this semester, disclosed Captain Leslie E. McNair, assistant professor of military science and tactics.

In previous years the various classes were meeting separately. The freshmen learned basic drill. The sophomores took more advanced drill and served as squad leaders and assistant squad leaders.

The juniors served as non-commissioned officers and the seniors served as officers and instructed the freshmen classes.

One Battalion

Captain McNair explained that this fall all companies were organizing into one battalion for drills with the seniors serving as officers. A feature of "one battalion formation" is that each man, as he advances in rank, will stay with his company, unless he receives a staff position. The last drill of the battalion this semester will be held November 6, during Homecoming.

The battalion staff members are Donald Hill, battalion commander; Elbert Gardner, executive officer and squadron leaders Jack Cherry, Donald Tippin, Floyd Vice and James Straight.

The company commanders are William Clark, William Kottinger, Bill Brown and Leo Quilici. John B. Harris is company commander of the Pershing rifles.

ACTIVE RIDERS

Saddle and Spurs, WRA riding group, are still active on Fridays from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., and Saturdays from 10:00 to 12:00 a. m. Rosy Strachwitz, president of the group, stated plans for Homecoming are being made.

Team, Rooters Hit Homecoming

Tomorrow will be homecoming day for the Cal Aggies. A letter was received from the Davis homecoming chairman inviting the students of the University of Nevada to participate in the activities planned for the day.

In the afternoon, the Aggie Golden Hoof club will hold their annual Little International Stock Show from 1:30 to 4:30. Following the evening football game, Gordon Marvin and his orchestra will play for the Homecoming dance at which the 1953 Homecoming queen will be crowned. The price of admission to the dance will be $1.00.

At the game, the Nevadans will have a section reserved. According to Milton Sharp, ASUN president, between 200 and 300 Nevada rooters are expected to attend.

The Wolf Pack band will present a half-time performance,

Interfrat Rifle Meet Planned Next Week

An interfraternity shoulder to shoulder rifle meet will be held October 26 to 30, said Captain Leslie E. McNair, assistant professor of military science and tactics.

The shoot will be held at the university rifle range and the winning team chosen by the elimination process. Captain McNair said the men have been practicing since October 12.

Six Teams Compete

Six fraternities and the independents will have teams competing in the shoulder to shoulder meet. Five men will be picked to represent each house.

Last year the Sigma Nu team won the meet. Captain McNair mentioned that last year the independents did not enter a team,

Second Hand Water Explained

Reclamation of water was the subject of a talk by Mr. Thomasson of the United States Geological Survey office in Sacramento at the first meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, October 14th.

The ASCE student chapter gathered in the new engineering building to hear Mr. Thomasson discuss various ways of re-using water and to urge students to attempt to develop new methods of obtaining this end.

Coffee and donuts were served after the meeting.

but this year will have a very strong one.

Posters giving the time of the shoot will be posted on campus bulletin boards. Everyone is invited to attend.
