dents, to 'sell the University,' and build up our institution because its reputation stays with you."

These were the words of ASUN President Don Travis, when he addressed sorority houses early this week.

As part of launching a studentdriven public relations program, Travis and Don Rasmussen, president of Blue Key service organization, appealed to University women with the idea that, "We should promote our school and encourage students to come to Nevada."

Losing Graduates

Travis stated that the University is losing too many Nevada ganizations. high school graduates to out-ofstate colleges, partially due to ignorance on their part as to the opportunities available at this school.

"Nevada is an institution of high life.

"It is our responsibility as stu- | caliber and offers equal, if not better, educational and social opportunities for a school of its size,' he added.

> Rasmussen stated that many new students could be encouraged to come to Nevada if they were approached by college students in person. "Before and even after graduation, many high schoolers are undecided as to where to attend college and a plug for Nevada at this time could possibly persuade many to come here," he said.

Many campus groups have not as yet been approached wth this idea, but Travis hopes to spread the plan through the aid of Blue Key, Sagens, and other campus or- awarded the trophy.

Possible future additions to the promotion of Nevada will take place through students speaking to high school clubs and assemblies on various aspects of college

CAUTIOUS REGENTS MAY BOG ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The Board of Regents, acting on a petition signed by all members of the Nevada football team, voted to name a special committee of faculty members, alumni, students and others to develop a program which would assist the football players.

Several of the regents seemed somewhat cautious of setting up a program. Regent Roy Hardy warned against letting the situation get out of hand as it has twice in the past eight years. Regent Cyril Bastian said the program should be only as large as the public will support as indicated by the gate

The gate receipts are understandably low now because there has been no athletic program. A losing team can hardly be expected to fill the stadium. If the regents do not put effort into designing a good program then chances are the gate receipts will remain as they are now.

Most of the schools in the Far Western Conference have a far better football program than the one at Nevada. Almost all have a junior varsity squad, larger coaching staffs, and see that the players have aid through employment.

f some of the regents are skeptical even before a suggested program has been submitted, it may be a long time before Nevada's program is brought up to equal that of other conference schools.

If the regents want to make a business out of Nevada football they should not expect profits before they have something to sell.

Propose Students Assume Duties of Orientation Week

A recommendation that students take over a large part of Orientation Week was suggested by the Dean of Student Affairs, Sam Basta, to the ASUN Senate at a meeting this week.

Dean Basta proposed that through this participation, students fulfill a desire to become more active in University affairs and gain a better knowledge of the operation of the University.

He said students could possibly handle such aspects of orientation as explaining the registration process to freshmen, arranging the Campus Trek," and assigning dormitory rooms.

Following the dean's proposal, a committee was appointed to investigate improvements in the week's schedule, and offer recommendations in thsi area.

Marie McDonough was appointed chairman of the committee. She is to be assisted by Jim Santini, Braden Stauts, Maria Anastassatos, and Myram Borders.

Dick Bryan and Dick Deleissegues were appointed to look into the possibility of having a clear plastic coat put on the statue of Jahn Mackay to protect it. They will also consider a plan of placing flood lights on the statue after dark.

Bilbo Helms appealed to Senate for a new public address system, stating that the old equipment is very obsolete, dangerous, and not suitable for campus needs.

The intersection at Ninth and Virginia streets is one that handles sporadic pedestrian traffic with the peaks coming three times per day-in the morning, at noon, and from three to four p.m. A check has revealed that this intersection during peak times handles a volume of 150 pedestrians. This, however, according to the Reno traffic department, does not constiute an "active" enough volume of pedestrian traffic to warrant a stop light.

In keeping with this type of thinking, it was also reported by the traffic department that because of grade difficulties and the fact that the intersection is on a U.S. Highway, it is extremely doubtful that a stop light will be placed there in the immediate fu-

To subject the alumni, many o whom will only see one game per season, to a 52 to 14 slaughter seems to be a needless dramatiza tion of our athletic plight.

Kellogg's Krispies

This column marks the half-way point, or point of no return, in the social and scholastic functions of the semester. Homecoming, with its thousands of grueling hours of labor . . . unrewarded for the most part . . . is now past. The sting of competition is still burning in many, and will be the spark in further competitive activities.

The fraternities and sororities have all had their pledge dances now, except for Lambda Chi which had its big dance last spring. Names will not be mentioned at this late date as they would include over half the campus, and space does not allow for it.

News in theromance department has slackened to one pinning in the past three weeks. The spotlight is turned on Ann Warren, Kappa Alphat Theta, who announced her pinning to Ben Bingamen of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Sharon Workman, Gamma Phi, is trying her hardest to keep romance alive on campus. Honors should go to her also for announcement of her engagement? Her sorority sisters were worried until they found out the ring was a Woolworth's exclusive.

And now that pledge dances are out of the way, take a fast breather, because the formal season opens tomorrow night with the annual Military Ball. Queen candidates have made the rounds of the fraternity houses, each with the hope of being awarded the traditional military blade. Only one will get the blade . . . four will get the shaft!

Dances have been only one phase of the university's social life. Sigma Nus had a "Gay '20's" social in their newly-decorated basement for all sorority pledges. Pi Phis showed up en masse in their roaring twenties flapper costumes.

Pledge sneaks have not been forgotten either. Tri-Delt and Theta pledges sneaked with the Sigma Nus for a party out at Flint ranch. Tri-Delt actives were literally left in the dark. It seems that the pledges absconded with all of the light bulbs.

Melody Lane hosted many wayward university students who turned out for the Nevada Day celebration in Carson City last week, but the police gave them ample protection. Dean Capsellas was given special attention, and Bobbie Ferrari and Jim Gardner were given a personal escort upon leaving town.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind. If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful young manwhatever his college background-who is weighing career possibilities.
