University of Nevada Places Large Group on List of University Who's Who

Twenty-six University of Nevada students have been named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Each year students are selected on the basis of scholarship, extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service to school and promise of future usefulness.

Last week ten students included in Nevada's roster of Who's Who were sketched in Sagebrush. The remainder of the 26 named are: ANGELINE LILLIAN FARROS, a journalism major from Reno, was Trident correspondent, assistant rush chairman and marshal of Delta Delta Delta. Member of Cap and Scroll, French club, University of Nevada Singers. Cold, Hard Facts Many Students Are In Grade Troubles

Almost 300 students have been disqualified, suspended, or placed or continued on probation, according to the February report of the Scholastic Standing committee of the University of Nevada.

There were 17 students disqualified. If a student is readmitted after suspension, he is disqualified whenever his grade-point average falls below 2.0 unless he has reduced his total grade-point deficiency to less than 22. A disqualified student may not register in the University for credit in any program of instruction offered by the University.

The number of students suspended was 71. If a student is deficient 22 or more grade points at the end of any semester, or if his conduct is poor, he may be suspended from the University. After an interval of one semester, he may apply for re-admission.

A total of 208 students are on scholastic probation. This means if a student is deficient 12 or more grade points, he will not be allowed to register for more than 80 per cent of the regular number of credits of his prescribed course, unless his grade-point average is 2.0 or better for the preceding semester.

Caps and Gowns Are Order of Day

University of Nevada seniors and faculty members may now order their caps and gowns for the June commencement exercises, reports Mrs. Ruth Talcott, director of the campus YWCA.

Silps have been sent out to faculty members through the campus mail. If any member of the faculty has not yet received a slip, she stated, they may call her at the YWCA, FA 3-6470.

The deadline for faculty members is March 8. Seniors are not yet bound by a deadline, but Mrs. Talcott wants all measurements taken by March 31.

Seniors may be measured any week day between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the campus YWCA in the basement of Stewart hall.

Seniors who are not sure of graduating this spring should be measured anyway, she said, as cancellations may be made until May 5. There will be no charge in such cases.

Seniors will not be required to make their deposits until they pick up their caps and gowns before graduation. The amount of the student fee has not been determined as yet.

Additional information can be obtained from Mrs. Talcott at the campus YWCA.

12 More Students Receive Sentences By Discipline Body

The University of Nevada Discipline Committee meeting held yesterday took action against 12 more students involved in the cheating incident which occurred on the campus just prior to Fall semester final examinations. This brings to 17 the total number of persons who have been found guilty in the cheating or the forced break-in of the English department.

'Long Hair' Tunes Made Popular in Spring Musical

"It just goes to show that 'long hair' music presented to people in the right way can be popular," commented "Kismet" musical director Keith Macy in his office Thursday afternoon.

With about thirty singers, Macy has his hands full but says, "I'm very happy with my solists. All of the singers are very cooperative. I am getting excellent help from

The Office of Student Affairs announced late this morning that one student has been suspended indefinitely, two placed on conduct probation, one student receiving a suspended sentence, and eight others given reprimands and counseling by the Dean of Student Affairs.

The student who was handed a suspended sentence will be placed on conduct probation instead of temporary suspension.

The policy of withholding the names of the students implicated in the affair is still being upheld by the Dean of Student Affairs as in the case of the five students suspended earlier this month.

In an earlier action the Discipline Committee recommended that five students directly involved in the cheating incident be suspended from the University for the period of one year.

These five may be allowed to register for classes at the University in the Spring semester of 1959.

The action of the Discipline Committee was the result of investigation of the incident by the Office of Students Affairs and the Student Relations Committee.

The five students were given the opportunity of a hearing before the Dean of Student Affairs, Sam Basta, and by both committees involved in the investigation. The suspension action has been approved by Dr. William R. Wood, acting president of the University.

The five students who have been suspended were notified of the action of the Discipline Committee through identical letters. The text of the letters reads:

"I regret to inform you that as the result of the deliberations of the Faculty Discipline Committee, you have been declared suspended, effective immediately, and declared not eligible for readmission to the University of Nevada until the Spring Semester of 1959.

"If and when you are readmitted you must submit the name and place of your residence to the Dean of Affairs for his approval.

"It is understood, of course, that any decision handed down, you, as an individual, have the right of appeal."

DR. KEITH MACY

Orville Fleming, a music graduate student who is my rehearsal assistant, and Earl Hultberg, who will play the piano for the performance. Barbara Katona, Bob Strange, and Margot Burney are playing the piano for the rehearsals."

Dr. Macy, who is teaching the chorus members their complicated parts, will direct the orchestra for the performance.

"Kismet" music and lyrics are adapted from Alexander Borodin's music. The "long hair" music is actually the same in the production of the numbers but words and interpretations are added to the Arabian-night musical.

"Stranger in Paradise," "Not Since Nineveh," "He's in Love," are all from Borodin's Polovtsian Dances. "Prince Igor" is the source for Students at the University of Nevada may be wondering about the noise that has been coming from the north end of the campus the past few evenings. It is a noise seldom heard at the University, and will probably mystify some of the newer students.

This strange phenomenon is a result of high school basketball being played in our gymnasium.

High school basketball is principally the same as college basketball. The scoring may not be as high, and a few more loose balls may roll out of bounds, but the chief objective of the game in each instance is to put that big round object up through that little hoop with the net attached, and to try to keep the opponent from doing it quite as often.

This is an exciting thing to witness, especially when both teams have been evenly successful in carrying out their objective. But there is one primary difference in the two contests—high school and collegiate. There is noise at high school contests.

Now, theoretically, there should also be noise at the collegiate contests, and occasionally this occurs when there are enough people on hand to vocally produce some. Vocal noise adds much to the atmosphere of the contest, and for some, it is their prime purpose in attending the contest. Regretfully, this is rare indeed.

Since college students are on a much higher intellectual level than the lower types who attend America's high schools, they have the ability to control their emotions. They have learned to suppress their inner desire to scream out their feelings at sporting events. If on occasion one should momentarily lose control of himself and voice some kind of enthusiastic expression he is immediately stared at by those sitting near him. Upper classmen frown and seek out the noise to discover if this person has brought shame to their living group. Girls giggle to themselves.

The new generations that come to receive their higher education in our colleges and universities quickly learn to control themselves at collegiate sporting events and in no time at all can be as calm and seemingly unconcerned about what is taking place as those "older and more mature" students who have already gone through the phase of emotion-control.

In the event there are still some students who may have the inner desire to yell at the top of their voices when they see a fine performance of skill on the basketball court, all is not lost. Tonight and tomorrow night high school basketball will still be in session at the University gymnasium. If you can slip away from your colleagues, go over to the gym and hide yourself among the high school students and yell to your heart's content. No one will stare at you—it's even expected!

We recommend it.

Kellogg's Krispies

By NORA KELLOGG

March is really going to "come in like a lion" . . . sunshine, rain, and snow in the course of a few days is really pushing it. It seems that Mother Nature is a little bit mixed up, but she isn't the only one.

Fraternities have been having their "hell week" ceremonies and last weekend was the time for the usual sorority-visiting escapades. Frat boys collected their usual prizes . . . (need they be mentioned?) . . . and are now proudly wearing big brothers' pins while Balfour is shining theirs.

It seems that Deanne Munk was seen tripping the light fantastic at 2:30 a.m. Saturday with a candle-bearing figure on the front porch of the Pi Phi house . . . in her pajamas yet! Just warming up for the annual P.J. dance?

Wedding bells are breaking up some of the old U. of N. gangs. On March 29, Gama Phi alum Donna Fisher and Buzzy Frey will tie the knot.

Anita Taylor and Sigma Nu grad John Ingram announced their engagement recently. The big day is set for April 4 in Henderson. Anita is leaving school Tuesday to finish up her wedding plans and to sop up a little Southern Nevada sun.

With Lenten season comes the depriving oneself of one thing or another. Evidently Dick Deleissegues is giving something up . . . or was he given up???

Through sleet and snow, the postman brought Sally Sherman an anonymous letter this week. She has been voted the "least forward-looking girl" on campus. Hummmmm!!!!

Karen Knudson, Theta, took a weekend jaunt to Vegas last week to celebrate her fiance's 21st birthday. It couldn't have been the birthday cake that attracted her!

SKIS AND SHES—Harry Ericson has a new ski-teaching technique: student takes one turn and has surprising results. It appears that his prize student, Kay Kelly, didn't pass the test, but she did manage to tear some ligaments. John Darrah, Theta Chi, is paying for instructions with a long-leg cast.

Who's (been with) Who around campus recently—Rita Woods, KAT, and Gene Pieretti . . . Joanne Rogero, Gamma Phi, and Phi Sig Bill Raney . . . Taunya Woodford, Pi Phi, and Sam Salmon, Sigma Nu . . . Nancy Arnold, Gamma Phi, and Homer Williams of Fresno State . . . Renato Schroeder and Bruce Lee, Theta Chi . . . Karen Gaffney, Theta, and Phi Sig George Wilson . . . Verda Murphy and Frank Donathan, SN . . . DDD Ann Jones and Tau Del Rice . . . KAT Gayle Hall and Bill Sprow, SN . . . "Kismet" co-stars Gay Lane and "Walking Confusion" Jim DePriest, SN.

Newman club convention in Frisco (San Francisco for those Californians who object to the previously-used name) and the Sac State game last weekend provided vacation time from the old grind for many. Jim Hill's little painted Easter egg made the trip without mishap also.

Larry Burke, SAE, and Dorothy Cook, Theta, put to practice the philosophy of Omar Khayam's "Rubiyat" Saturday night. Who says wine isn't the essence of life?

Well, enough of this trivial dissertation on "sweated broads, eligible athletes, and Saturday nights!!!"

Dear Sir:

In this "best of all possible worlds," where some people are lucky and get ahead and others who aren't so fortunate hear death in the form of a "Travisonic Boom," I would like to congratulate the few people who made Who's Who this trip around.

I bet you students are proud to be one of the select twenty-six people out of thirty-one candidates to be commended for your outstanding extra-curricular achievements.

Since it seems that to move forward to success takes blond hair, a sheepherder's license or a strong string attached to "Travisonian" democracy, I again say "be proud." You are fortunate, too, in having been chosen, since some memberships and chairmanships in specific organizations were more a detriment to the five people who did not make Who's Who.

Remember that you were selected on the basis of what you have done—this includes personality and active association with the "better" types of your campus.

Of course, there will be those who criticize your selection and wonder why they didn't make this "plum" of all honor rolls, but the "chin up and out" philosophy is your best defense. After all, you made it and they didn't!

May you all be successful hereafter,

BOB HEMPHILL.

Book To England

"Sweet Promised Land," a novel written by Bob Laxalt, editor of publications at the University of Nevada, made its debut in the book stores of London this week under the title, "Dominique."

The book was originally published by Harper and Brothers of New York in September. The London publishing house is Secker and Warburg.

"Sweet Promised Land" was a reading selection of Family Reading Club, Peoples Book Club, and the Literary Guild.

Debaters Compete In Arizona Meet

Four University of Nevada debaters are taking part in the South-west Arizona Tournament at the University of Arizona at Tucson, this weekend.

The debaters include Stanley Jones, Mack Fry, Richard Bryan and Jim Santini. They will be accompanied by Dr. Robert Griffin, professor of speech and drama.

The question for the debate will be, "Resolved, That the Requirement of Membership in Labor Union as a Condition of Employment Should Be Illegal."

EIGHT TO TEN. Six Nevada students debated the same question against top competition in a debate tournament at Stockton, California, February 21 and 22. The team of Richard Bryan and Jim Santini and the team of Richard Madsen and Roger Joseph each had records of four wins and two losses. Virgal Buccianeri and Dan Sobrio won two out of six.

Bryan and Santini defeated a team from Los Angeles that had won seventeen of its previous eighteen debates. In power-matched rounds, where top teams debate each other, both the Bryan-Santini and Madsen-Joseph teams met Stockton Junior College, one of the undefeated teams in the tournament.

In the individual contests, Santini and Joseph competed in dramatic interpretation, Madsen and Bryan in impromptu talks, and Madsen also competed in oratory.

Phi Sigma Kappa Plans Anniversary Fete

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity will celebrate the 84th anniversary of its founding at a buffet style dinner at the fraternity house Saturday night.

Scheduled for 7 o'clock in the evening, the dinner will be attended by many of the fraternity alumni. Entertainment will be furnished by members of the fraternity.

The fraternity men wore suits and a red carnation, the fraternity flower, to their classes today.

UN Students To Attend SF Meeting

Several carloads of University of Nevada students will leave today for a province-wide Cardinal Newman Day to be sponsored by the San Francisco State Newman Club.

Representatives from 25 schools will join the Leadership school Saturday. Sunday morning the entire group will attend Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral. The Mass will be celebrated and the sermon preached by the Most Rev. Merlin J. Guilfoyle, Auxiliary Bishop of San Francisco. A customary formal breakfast will follow the Mass in St. Cecilia's.

Ruth Ruhl, president of the University of Nevada Newman club, will be Nevada's representative at the council meeting on Sunday. An appraisal is given of each zone by the respective Newman club presidents.

WINE AND DINE. The club, recently observing Cardinal Newman week, initiated ten new members at a special Communion Mass in St. Albert's church. An informal dance and dinner followed the initiation honoring the new members.

Newman club is open to any Catholic student attending the University of Nevada interested in religious, social, and intellectual phases of college life.

A five-cent cigar may be a thing of the past, but the five-cent dollar could very well become a reality.

Come Early and Get Allotment Checks

Veterans are doing themselves a disservice by not coming to the Student Affairs office on time to fill out their V. A. forms, said Dr. James C. Hayes, veterans' co-ordinator for the University of Nevada.

To get their monthly allotment checks by the 20th, vets should come in before the 10th of each month.

Any major changes in degree plans or schedules should be reported to Dr. Hayes. His office will save the veterans difficulties which could cause allotment checks to be held up.

In the past, said Hayes, there has been confusion at the Veterans' Administration office downtown and on campus due to a backlog of forms which were supposed to have been filled out.

The important thing is not to be on the right side, but on the popular side.

SIGMA NU INITIATES TWENTY-FOUR NEW MEMBERS SUNDAY

University Farm Is Said Not Justified Within City Limits

Graham Erskine, chairman of the Urban Renewal commission, thinks that maintenance of the University's agriculture experiment station farm within the Reno city limits is not justified.

At a public meeting of the Regional Planning Commission this week, Erskine said that the Valley Road farm should not take up valuable space in the heart of a growing city.

Dr. William R. Wood, acting president of the University, said: "I have no comment at this time. The matter undoubtedly will be taken up by the College of Agriculture, the administration, and the Board of Regents. In this office, as yet, no invitation has been received to meet with a committee of city commissioners."

Dr. Wood's reply was made on February 27, the day after Mr. Erskine made his remarks.

Only a handful of people attended the gathering at which Erskine spoke. The meeting was intended to answer questions about local planning for urban growth.

That steps be taken to use the land in the farm for urban use was strongly suggested by Erskine. He suggested that part of the land might be used for University housing projects. This would allow the north part of the campus to be used for classrooms and instructional purposes.

Raymond Smith, planning director, said there has been confusion over the status of the University's land for several years.

There is a widespread belief that the land is deed restricted for use as a farm. Mr. Smith commented that a title search by the planning commission did not indicate this.

The city has decided to appoint a committee to meet with University officials to determine whether a street can be constructed thru the farm.

Sigma Nus Take Three; Lead League

Sigma Nu's have secured their first place position in the Intrafraternity Bowling League by winning three games over Sigma Alpha Epsilon. They are now four points and three games out in front of the league.

The club was led to victory by Denny Jones, whose 602 series is a new season record for the high independent series in the league. Jones also came within six pins of breaking the high independent game record of 227 held by Tau Mel Watson.

The record for the high team series, held by ATO, was challenged twice during the night; once by Sigma Nu, whose 2626 came within two pins of tying the record, and once by the Independents, who bowled 2625.

The higher team game record of 904, formerly held by ATO, was broken twice by the SNAkes with a 911-913 effort.

The Independents gained second place by blanking Theta Chi three games, which puts them one game ahead of Alpha Tau Omega.

The Taus, who have led the league until recent weeks, won two games over the Lincoln Hall Independents.

'Long Hair' Music Gets Popular Dress

"Rhymes Have I" and the "Olive Tree." Borodin's D Major quartet provides the popular "And This Is My Beloved." A piano composition, "Serenade," provides "Night of My Nights."

All this music was lifted, as is customary in many Broadway musicals, and was adapted into its final stage by Robert Wright and George Forrest.

Last year's musical production was "Kiss Me Kate," written by Cole Porter. "Kismet" is a more legitimate production, said Dr. Macy. "Much of the singing is in 'parts,' and not the jazzy type of music that we had last year."

BAREFOOT BOY...

By GEORGE A. MROSS With Cheek

A Really Sincere Guy

I have often marveled at the farm-boy stereotypes, wholesomely crew-cut, who come from the backwaters to populate this University, run its campus politics and president its fraternities by leaning together in home-town clots, a coagulative desire for things in common, jeaned and unconsciously tactful, Protestant and suspicious of the indifferent, indulgent manner of the city boys, yet all the while overwhelming the campus cuties by nice-guyism. Freddie is never late, always proper, and above all conscientious. He's never stepped on anyone to get where he is, because there are enough of his own kind to support him unquestionably. What the hell, he's from their home town. He's really a sincere guy.

This swing to innocence is particularly noticeable during the climatic change from a balling, carefree summer to the hard facts of winter, when Sue—who came to college to find a husband—knows that Sam will never marry her; and if he wanted to, well, he's just not substantial or staunch enough about his convictions. He'd never settle for that white picket fence and four rugrats or that 8-5 routine at the office, besides he hates chicken farms too. He's restless and speculates about big ideas which have not materialized to date. But he knows one thing: nice guys never win, they just die. So, he lets it slide, since there's nothing he can do to interrupt the affair between the panicky girl who needs security and the nice guy who can offer it to her. It's too laborious. But that overheard conversation still haunts him:

"Are you really sincere, Freddie?"

"Yes, I am sincere," he said sincerely.

Deviating a bit from the role of iconoclast, I would like to say something about the Fine Arts. At present there is an exhibit of abstract paintings in the art section of the temporary buildings which I feel are quite worthwhile. Not that I claim to understand abstract art, but the brashness of colors in "Song of the Flesh" and "Lavender Landscape" evoke an "external awareness of inner realities" a term I memorized from class, it sounded learned—recalling moods and dreams that could never be uttered or expressed, that were jumbled in the unconscious repression of nightmares we didn't wish to face, the inadequacies we didn't wish to know. Maybe all that wasn't in them, but they are interesting.

Moving along to fill space, I wonder whatever happened to the naked man who was terrorizing the campus maidens so ardently last year? He was never actually caught, and I used to hold a secret opinion that he was an anime creation of a sex-starved, depraved group of girls subduing their true desires. Oh, well, they're just not making the girls the same this year.

Pack Splits Games With Sacramento

The Nevada Wolf Pack split with the Sacramento State Hornets in a two-game series last weekend. The Wolf Pack, sparked by John Legarza's scoring of 22 points, won the game Friday night 56-52. Saturday night the Sacramento Hornets defeated Nevada with a score of 75-70.

Top scorers Friday night for Nevada were John Legarza with 22, followed by Chuck Walker with 13. During the final period Nevada came from behind, by scoring 12 out of 12 shots, and the final attempt by the Hornets to regain their previous lead was suppressed.

Sacramento State's high scorers were Chuck Mobley and Frank White. Each scored 12 points.

Saturday night's game, won by Sacramento, was a see-saw affair with the lead changing hands several times.

A serious blow to Nevada came when center Chuck Walker fouled out in the opening seconds of the second half.

SPORTS

Pack Basketball Team to Bozeman For Two Contests

Coach Glen "Jake" Lawlor will take the University of Nevada basketball team to Bozeman, Montana, for its final contests of the 1958-59 season. The Wolf Pack will play a two-game series with Montana State College this weekend, with the first game scheduled for tonight.

Nevada's basketball season was cut short with the 59-54 loss to Chico State College last Tuesday in the first game of the western eliminations for the NCAA small college tourney.

Tomorrow night's game will close a successful season for a Wolf Pack that has had to substitute hustle and superior ball handling for height. Nevada's tallest player is Chuck Walker at six feet, four inches.

The Nevada squad ended the current season co-champions of the Far Western Conference, sharing the honors with Chico State College. Nevada, last year, wound up FWC champions.

Starters for the Wolf Pack tonight against Montana State will be George Nelson and John Legarza at the guard positions, Chuck Walker at center, and John "Slug" Flynn and Bob Lyon at the forward positions.

Sagebrush predictions are one hundred percent correct. Prediction for this week: The Nevada Wolf Pack will not go to the Rose Bowl next year.

Rifle Team Makes Trip To El Paso For Internationals

The University of Nevada Rifle Team left Wednesday morning to attend the annual Southwestern Invitational Rifle Match at El Paso, Texas. Had it not been for the U. S. Air Force, however, they would not have left at all.

STEAD INSTEAD—Lt. Col. Charles H. Ronan, PMS&T, said that the Army would not have been able to provide transportation back from El Paso until the fifth of March, which would have cut too deeply into the class attendance of the team members.

However, through the courtesy of Col. Charles Long III, base commander, Stead Air Force Base, the necessary transportation was provided.

The University team is the defending champion in the match, having won the past two years.

M. Sgt. Kenneth Day said that he expects the team, though lacking in experience, to place fairly high in competition.

The only veteran rifleman making the trip is Daniel Sobrio, a sophomore. Other members of the team are sophomores and freshmen. They are: Allen Richardson, Ruben Salcedo, Ramon Salcedo, Robert Oliver, and Ralph Cameron. The coaches are M. Sgt. Kenneth Day and SFC James Coffey.

Pack Drops One In Eliminations

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack Tuesday night was defeated 59-54 by the Chico State College Wildcats in a Western Elimination basketball game for the NCAA National Small College Basketball tournament.

Nevada, defending champion of the Far Western conference, ended the 1957-58 season tied for first place in the FWC with the Chico Wildcats.

TOUCH AND GO. The game, as played at Chico, California, was a nip-and-tuck affair. The score was tied 17 times during the hectic contest. The halftime score was even at 28-all. The lead changed hands many times, with Nevada leading 13 times and Chico eight.

With just one and one-half minutes remaining in the contest, the score was tied at 53-53. Chico State went ahead 55-53 and broke thru Nevada's defense to score twice more before the final whistle.

John Legarza, who has been a consistent high scorer for the Wolf Pack all season, was Nevada's high scorer in the contest hitting seven field goals and three out of five free throws for 17 points. Also hitting 17 was Chico State's Bill Graham, nine of them on free throws.

Bob Lyon scored 12 points for Nevada, and big Chuck Walker turned in a fine performance on the boards, as well as scoring 13 counters in the contest.

The victory will give the Chico State Wildcats a chance to move on to the Western Regional playoffs. The Wildcats will play their first game at Fresno, California, against one of the three other teams slated for the playoffs. Fresno State College is one of the teams scheduled for the regional playoffs, and is a favorite of the four teams.

JOHN FLYNN, senior from Sparks. Regular Wolf Pack starter all season. Will see action tonight and tomorrow night at Bozeman, Mont.

HIGH SCHOOL ZONE FINALS HERE

The new gym on the campus of the University of Nevada has been the scene of much activity the past few days, and the activity will continue through tomorrow night. The northern Nevada high school zone playoffs are now in session at the gymnasium.

Saturday night, the best high school teams in the northern half of the state of Nevada will be playing for the championship, and competition this year has been keen among the several schools.

Going into the playoffs, the top team in northern Nevada was the Senators of Carson City High School. The Senators have the best league record of the teams entering the tournament.

The top teams in the zone tourney will travel to Las Vegas for the state playoffs later in March.

Cage Squad Starter Initiation Banquet Concludes Week For Gamma Phi Beta Pledge Class

GEORGE NELSON of the University basketball squad, has been a key man in the Nevada lineup this season. Nelson, a starting guard, is from Fallon.

Eleanor Bonnefant was chosen outstanding pledge at a recent Gamma Phi initiation banquet. The banquet, held at the Riverside theater-restaurant, concluded the "Gamma Phi Beta Week" for the Fall-1957 pledge class.

"Gamma Phi Beta Week" was a pre-initiation trial period to be observed strictly by the pledges. HATS AND FLATS. The eleven pledges had to wear the sorority's ribbons of shades of brown in their hair and had to have gum, life-savers and cigarettes for actives at all times. They also ate "square" meals in a mechanical manner, wore hats and mittens to a noon-day meal, and, on the last day of the "week," in addition to regular school-wear, the women wore flats, bobby-sox, and sunglasses to classes.

Initiation for the pledges took place Friday night.

New initiates are Jacquelyn Curti, Barbara Galeppi, Eleanor Bonnefant, Bev Stapes, Joyce Casazza, Carolyn Brown, Jane Nevin, Nancy Samuels, Shirley Vietti, Lynn Miles and Jean Rak-er.

FEBRUARY 27, 1948—

Ten Years Ago

A woman's piercing cry for help wakened several Thetas at 2:30 Thursday morning. The scream was repeated, and the girls jumped from their sleeping-porch bunks, rushed to the phone, and called the police. The telephoning process was slowed up by one of the dazed rescuers who tried to find the number in a near-by dictionary.

Arriving within five minutes, the police searched the surrounding territory unsuccessfully. Back in bed, but not asleep, the terrified Thetas waited for morning.

Not until lunch time was the mystery solved. The Tri-Delt mock initiation had lasted until the early hours of the morning.

Nevada's representative to congress, Charles H. Russell, made a slight error in his recent letter to Mr. Robert Griffin, dean of men at the University of Nevada, concerning appointments to the naval and military academies at Annapolis and West Point.

Congressman Russell addressed his salutation in the letter as follows: Dr. Dean Robert Griffin, dean of men, University of Oregon, Reno, Nevada.

HOSTS MAKE GHOSTS. At one time during his travels, he says, he was the overnight guest of one of the fiercest of the Jivaro warriors, who reputedly killed 56 men in his lifetime.

Charlese Rupley was elected pledge president. Bonnis Cunningham was elected vice-president of the pledge class.

The new pledge treasurer is oyce Forwood. The new house manager is Carolyn Mather. Nancilyn Sanders is elected chairman of scholarship and activities.

Sky-Divers Wanted

Plans are underway to get a collegiate parachuting organization started in the West. Organizers of the new sport hope to get students interested in forming parachute clubs at western colleges and universities.

Interested students wishing specific information on the sport of sky diving may do so by contacting Deke Sonnichsen, California Parachute Club, 2240 Dwight Way, Berkeley 4, California.

Plan Organization Of Delta Sigma Pi

Five students of the College of business Administration were nominated to meet with Dean Robert C. Weems to discuss the possibility of setting up a local chapter of the Delta Sigma Pi, a national professional business fraternity.

More than forty students at the meeting heard a talk by Jim Thompson, executive director of Delta Sigma Pi, then voted unanimously to set up a committee to study the proposal. Nominated for the committee were Ennos L. Arascada, Harvey M. Gordon Jr., Edgar Olsen, Kris Rhodes and Myron J. Watkins Jr.

The organization would "foster study of business in the University," and establish closer contact between the business world and the student.

Membership to the chapter would be open to students of business administration and pre-commerce.

Thompson encouraged the students to consider setting up a local chapter. He said that after six months the group could submit a formal petition for national affiliation.

A national tie-up would offer many benefits, foremost of which is a placement service for undergraduate students.

Thompson outlined a short history of the group and pointed out that over 90 member chapters are now in operation.

Don't suppress your thoughts; write a letter to the editor.

PLAN PURCHASE OF FURNISHINGS

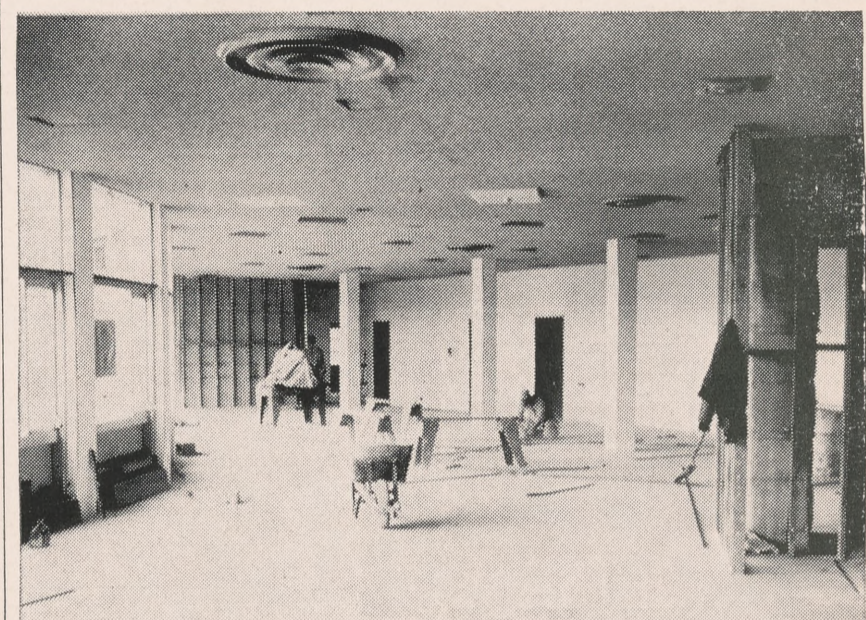

An initial five thousand dollars has been allotted to the fund for furnishing the new Student Union building.

Bob Hemphill, president of Student Union, said that he and Student Union Director Robert Kersey, within the next two weeks, will make a buying trip to San Francisco. They will be accompanied by Dr. Craig Sheppard, who will help in the selection of furniture, drapes and blinds, as well as utensils for the snack bar.

Hemphill expressed hope that the Student Union building would be open in time to be used in conjunction with this year's Mackay Day celebration. If the building is ready a dance and open house will probably be scheduled.

Changes in the present Student Union constitution are now being discussed by the Student Union. The major change is to be in the representative system now used on the board. Instead of having representatives from each college, each living group on campus would have a seat on the board. This move is expected to better coordinate the activities being planned for the new building.

INTERIOR VIEW of new Jot Travis Student Union building. Construction is well on way to completion, and Robert Kersey, new student union director, has expressed desire to have new facilities open by Mackay Day (May 3). New building is expected to become the future "social center" of student activity. It will house the offices of the ASUN president, AWS president, and graduate manager, as well as a snack bar and lounge.
