AWS Prexy Candidates Speak Before Assembly

An assembly and posters have been high points so far in the campaign for Associated Women's Student president. The assembly included skits, announcement of the scholarship trophies, and speeches made by the candidates. Barbara Hampton was the mistress of ceremonies.

The scholarship trophies were awarded by Dean Elaine Mobley, dean of women. Highest average for a pledge class was taken by Kappa Alpha Theta. Pi Beta Phi won the highest active average. The trophy for improvement went to Kappa Alpha Theta.

The Candidates

The three junior candidates are Karen Knudson, Edith Rittenhouse and Carol Gardenswartz.

The primary elections are today and the two winning candidates will go into the general election Wednesday.

The Promises

Karen Knudson is a journalism major and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She stated, "I feel that my past experiences with student government, namely with my office of senator at large, have helped to train me for such an important office."

The independent candidate is Barbara Rittenhouse. She is majoring in home economics. "Due to the recent campus disturbances and the resulting unfavorable publicity," she said, "I feel that the power of AWS should be used to draw attention to the more constructive side of the university. If elected this will be one of my major goals."

Carol Gardenswartz is a Delta Delta Delta and an English major. Carol said, "If elected, I will use this office to weave the students into a unified body . . . for the good of the entire university."

Kappa Alpha Theta's skit was a satire on the parking lot. It was entitled "Carl Horn's Memorial Swamp." "Lollypops" was the title of the Delta Delta Delta skit. Pi Beta Phi drew a verbal picture of college life. Gamma Phi Beta sang a group song describing "College Queens."

The new president will take office May 10.

Ski Club Dance Set at Sky Tavern

The annual Ski Club party will be held tonight at Sky Tavern. All members of the University of Nevada Ski club and their dates are welcome.

Bob Autry, president of the organization, is in charge of the festivities. He has announced that the major part of the expenses will be defrayed by the treasury of that organization.

The plans for the evening include a spaghetti dinner and a dance. Ski clothing is the accepted dress and a dollar per person is the fee.

Brilliant Settings, Costumes Grace Spring Musical

Staging of "Kismet," the University of Nevada's Spring production, involves not only dancing, singing, acting and orchestration, but also much work behind the scenes.

Behind the scenes activity involves the work of persons who take care of lighting, scenery and scenery changes, props of many sizes, shapes and kinds, and the ever important person who is in charge of pulling the curtain.

Many costumes must be designed, fitted and finally made for the University production. There are also those who are in charge of "making-up" the characters.

These jobs all come under the heading of the "stage crew."

The stage crew of "Kismet" is headed by stage manager "Buzz" Foster. Designer for the play is Bill Eddelman. Trudy Brock is in charge of make-up, while Marian Burleson, Janet Olsen, and Edith Rittenhouse are doing the costumes. Lighting technician is Bill Helms.

Others working in the stage crew besides those who will be used from the cast of "Kismet" include Tom Brown, Katherine Christense, Don Jones, Bob Riolo, Mickey McBride, and Shreve Stanwood.

Undergrad Group Elects Frat Officers

Officers for an undergraduate chapter of a professional business fraternity will be nominated and elected March 10 and 12 respectively.

The meetings, open to all students in business administration or pre-commerce, will begin at noon on both days and be concluded by 12:30 p.m. to allow students to start their afternoon classes.

97 Students Listed on Fall UN Honor Roll; 12 Get Perfect Marks

A total of 97 students are on the Fall semester honor roll at the University of Nevada.

Twelve students had a perfect 4.0 average. There were 85 students with a 3.42 to 3.94 average.

Nevada Southern placed six on the honor roll. The junior class headed the list with 29 students, sophomores and seniors tied with 23 each, and freshmen had 22 names on the roll.

Scripps Talks to UN Journalists

E. W. "TED" SCRIPPS II

Edward William Scripps II, nationally known newspaperman and 1952 graduate of the University of Nevada department of journalism, addressed Sigma Delta Chi Thursday night. Sigma Delta Chi is the national professional journalistic fraternity.

The meeting was held at the SAE fraternity house. A buffet dinner preceded Scripps' talk.

A group of ten sophomore journalism students were guests of the

Two events are coming up in the next two weeks that will need the support of all the students on campus for complete success. One is next week's presentation of "Kismet," the other is the P.C.I. boxing tournament scheduled to begin March 20.

Tickets went on sale for the Spring Musical yesterday, and reports state that they are moving slowly. The show promises to be highly entertaining. Asher Wilson, director, feels that he has a superior cast, and that the voices are "magnificent." Dr. Macy has been working hard with the musical direction, and talented Bill Eddelman can be counted on for a good job of designing sets and costumes.

Only once a year are Nevada students given the opportunity to see a production of this quality, and they should make it a point to take advantage of it. Students have a financial interest in the production since it is paid for out of University funds.

For the first time in thirty years, the P.C.I. boxing tourney will be held at Nevada. Athletic directors at the University have spent a lot of time and effort getting the tournament which has been held annually at Sacramento State College in the past. Unless students go all-out in hospitality to visiting boxers and give full support to the tourney, chances are Nevada will not be considered for future activities of this caliber.

With fifteen colleges and universities scheduled to attend, the tournament will be a colorful spectacle. Some of the best boxers on the West Coast, including national champions, will display their talents. Rarely has the University had the good fortune to be able to present a program such as this.

The success of these events depends upon the students. One hundred percent attendance should be the goal.

Comment From Other Editors

WHY???

Again this semester we are waiting for our student body funds to come from Reno. We have been told that they go to Reno for "distribution" after they are counted.

This is something that a lot of us cannot understand. A letter to the Editor read in part "... maybe some of us wouldn't mind the idea of our money going to Reno if someone bothered to tell us why."

Whoever wrote the letter was right. If we knew why we might not mind. And until we find out why, we feel that the money is collected from NS students (the $10.00 activity fee), therefore why must it go to Reno?
—Nevada Southern Rebel Yell.

KELLOGG'S KRISPIES

For NORA KELLOGG

Poor Nora Kellogg—she's got the measles. Not so "krisp" this week. Spends her time in the infirmary.

Romances and affairs (love) will not receive the regular treatment this week. No exposure to the public, or the measles.

Nora's staff of secret spies has taken the week off while the commander is in hiding, waiting for the red spots to vanish and the unpleasantness to subside.

This week, instead of looking into the dark corners for love and romance, let's take a general look at how things look around the campus.

Carl Horn's men have just completed repair of the tram where an auto "driven" by one Donald Ridinger plowed across the lawn to knock a few boards loose. One set of furrows in the lawn was made by Ridinger, the other set by Horn's men as they moved in the few necessary pieces of lumber on the back of a pickup truck.

Aggie students are wandering around their new quarters trying to locate classrooms. Each student can have his own. The rest should be filled by 1990. Meawhile, commoners crowd into the "temps" for English, art and speech courses. It's a funny world.

Midterms are rapidly coming closer, and it is hoped that the book store can supply the much needed books before the time comes.

New traffic lights are springing up all over Reno, but none on the corner of Ninth and Virginia. So brakes screech, people curse while trying to get across the street because the guy in front is trying to make an illegal left turn, and girls walking to the "Homes" thank God they had to buy insurance at the beginning of the semester and wonder how many missions they can make before their number is up.

All that junk between Stewart Hall and the Journalism building is still cluttering up the campus.

The back door to Ross Hall can be used only occasionally. The rest of the time the water pours off the roof so that it's impossible to enter the building without getting soaked—even when the sun is shining.

This early Spring weather has made the "parking lot" one big area of mud, and the campus cop wonders why everyone tries to park across from the Education building.

Garbage collectors don't get up early like they used to. Now they come around clanking cans during nine o'clock classes.

And now, we'll all probably get the measles.

Can things really be this bad?
—D.B.

Fine Arts Building Gets Nod of Board

Plans for a million and a third dollar Fine Arts Building won the approval of the University of Nevada Regents last Saturday.

The building, to be erected on the north side of the new gymnasium facing Virginia street, will house the art, music, speech and drama departments.

Richard Nuerta, one of America's top architects, represented the Los Angeles architectural firm of Nuerta and Alexander at the board of regents meeting. He presented what may be the final plans for the structure, estimated to cost one million three hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

Included in the design of the three story building is a 275 seat little theater and an experimental theater for small unusual productions. The experimental theater, which will seat seventy people, will also be used for a drama workshop.

Also in the plans is a 62-foot corridor which will serve as an art gallery.

The music department will have a band room, music room, and chorus room. It will use the little theater for its presentations.

The speech department will have a special debate seminar room, according to Nuerta's plans.

Phi Sigma Kappa Holds Annual Pledge Dance

Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity will hold its annual Pledge Dance this evening at the newly remodeled La Mesa. Pat Lavin, social chairman, stated that the semi-formal affair is to honor the incoming pledges. Dr. John Gottardi, professor of foreign languages, will chaperon.

Music will be provided by The Playboy Jazz Quartet under the direction of Dave Hansen.

 DUCATS ON SALE

Tickets for "Kismet," the Spring musical being presented by the University of Nevada, went on sale yesterday at the ASUN bookstore. The tickets for the March 14 and 15 presentation are selling for $1.25, $1.50 and $2.00. All tickets may be purchased by students with student-body cards for $1.25.

Sunday at Four

An original work by a University of Nevada student will be featured on this week's Sunday at Four in the new gymnasium. Robert Stange, a student at Nevada, wrote "Caribbean," a piece to be played by the University-Community orchestra.

Rodney Mercado will conduct the orchestra at the concert.

Highlights of the program will include "Andante Cantabile" by Tchaikovsky from his Fifth Symphony and "Concerto Grosso" by Bloch. The Bloch work, written for the piano, will be played by Dr. Frederick Freeburne, associate professor of music.

Also on the program will be "Suite on Fiddler's Tunes" by McKay and "Toccata for Percussion" by ChaVez. "Toccata" is a modern Mexican work for percussion instruments only. "Russian Sailor's Dance" by Grieve will complete the program.

journalism fraternity. They were Richard Barsanti, Robert Brown, Dick Dorworth, Mayer Freedman, David Hansen, Roger Joseph, Richard Madsen, Robert Ryan, Dick Tracy and Owen Vaught.

Scripps spoke on the Scripps-Howard newspapers and their policies. He also mentioned his work to have Reno chosen as the 1960 site for the national Sigma Delta Chi convention.

"Ted," as he is known to his friends, is the grandson of the famous Edward William Scripps I, who founded the United Press Association and the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain.

Scripps is now one of the three managing trustees who control the chain, which includes 17 newspapers as well as several radio and television stations throughout the country.

During his days at the University of Nevada, Scripps was a member of the Sigma Delta Chi undergraduate chapter and served as its president during his senior year. He has since been elected to the national executive council of the fraternity and is now its national secretary. He is also a member of the University Press Club and of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

He was graduated from Nevada in 1952 and went to work on the San Francisco News as a reporter. He is now a reporter on another Scripps-Howard paper in Denver, the Rocky Mountain Daily News.

Scripps married the former Jean Wilton, also a University of Nevada graduate.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I like (and get) 'start-to-finish' engineering assignments"

"When it comes to making a job interesting, I think the assignments a man gets are more important than the size of the project he's working on," says Roy Vaughn of Illinois Bell Telephone Company. "I found that out soon after I graduated. My first job was with an organization where the projects were big, but the individual engineering assignments lacked variety and scope.

"After this experience I looked over power engineering opportunities in a number of companies. I joined Illinois Bell because it promised the most interesting and challenging work. That was three years ago. My work with IBT has everything that I was looking for.

"My job is to engineer the power requirements for telephone central offices.

The work never gets routine. One job may be for a new building, the next for expanding existing plant. And power needs vary tremendously from little rural dial offices serving a few hundred telephones, to big metropolitan telephone plants serving hundreds of thousands.

"But what I like best is that I generally handle the job from start to finish. I determine the operational and emergency power requirements of the facilities to be served, and order the equipment needed. And I'm usually on hand during installation to see the job through.

"Not only does this kind of engineering assignment keep work interesting, but I find it is helping me become a better manager. And that improves my chances for advancement."

Roy L. Vaughn, Jr., graduated from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1954 with a B.S. in E.E. degree. He is one of many young men who are finding interesting and rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone Companies. Find out about career opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus, and read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

NEVADA TO HOST PCI BOXERS

SPORTS

BOXERS MEET CHICO TONIGHT

Carl Looney, Nevada boxer, faces Chico State's John "The Bomb" Nelson in tonight's matches to be held in the University of Nevada gymnasium.

After a good fight in which Looney held off Sacramento State's Jim Flood last Monday, Coach Jimmy Olivas figures Looney has the weapons to outbox Nelson.

Chico was host last weekend to a four-team tourney, in which the Wildcats held their own against Sacramento State and beat out California and Cal Poly. Chico defeated Nevada earlier this season by a score of 6-2.

The match schedules for tonight are as follows:

Dick Short, N., vs. Don Stapp C., 125-pound class.

David Hoy, N., vs. George Aranda, C., 132-pound class.

Joe Bliss, N., vs. Bucky Strong, C., 139-pound class.

Bill Short, N., vs. Bill Moule, C., 147-pound class.

Jim Gardner, N., vs. Marv Watley, C., 155-pound class.

Jim Sloan, N., vs. Jim Karr, C., 165-pound class.

Angus McLeod, N., vs. Ed Netherton, C., 178-pound class.

Carl Looney, N., vs. John Nelson, C., heavyweight.

There may possibly be another match scheduled in the 156 or 165-pound classes.

UN Rifle Team Back From Texas

The University of Nevada Rifle team returned from El Paso Saturday, with Texas dust in their hair, and a Texas squint, but few medals.

The University of Nevada team made a creditable showing in the annual Southwestern Invitational Rifle meet, however, by finishing 12th in a field of 30.

Competing in the meet were colleges throughout the Southwest and South-central states. This is the same meet that the University of Nevada won in 1956 and 1957.

The match was won by the University of California team. Second place went to Oklahoma State University, whose team has also won the 1958 Hearst Trophy National championship.

Sophomore Daniel Sobrio was the outstanding individual performer for the University of Nevada. Sobrio shot a score of 1155 out of a possible 1200, and won the third high aggregate medal for the event.

THREE TEAMS FIGHT FOR BOWLING LEAD

Season records for the Interfraternity Bowling League are being broken right and left as the three leading teams scramble for first place.

In Thursday night competition Alpha Tau Omega broke the record for season high game with a 956 series effort. The Tau's, who shattered the 913 record set by Sigma Nu last week, recaptured the title which they had held for several weeks. Del Driver's 211, Carl Wegren's 218, and Noel Thorne's 204 led the team to a two-game victory over Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Sigma Nu clipped Lambda Chi Alpha for two games, but Lambda Chi Pete Clark broke the season record for high game by rolling a 233. The former record of 227 was held by ATO Mel Watson.

FIRST TIME FOR 30 YEARS MATCHES WILL BE HELD AT NEVADA LOCATION

The Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Boxing finals will be held at the University of Nevada on March 20, 21, and 22. This will be the first time the finals have been held at any place other than Sacramento in the past 30 years.

"It is an honor for Nevada to be able to host the finals and if good attendance and friendly hospitality on campus is shown the visiting boxers and coaches," said physical education instructor George A. Broten, "Nevada stands a good chance of hosting the national tournaments in the future.

Teams attending the PCI classic in addition to Nevada will be Washington State, Sacramento State, Cal Poly, Stanford, Cal Aggies, San Jose State, Chico State, Montana State, College of Idaho, Southern Oregon, University of San Francisco, the University of California, Santa Clara and Idaho. Coach Broten believes it should turn out to be a very colorful spectacle.

For the first time in college history each team will bring its novice boxers along with the varsity team members. The novices, or less-experienced boxers are to compete in a separate division.

Entries will include outstanding boxers such as national champion Dick Rall of Washington State, national winner Jim Flood of Sacramento, Nevada's powerful Joe Bliss, College of Idaho's Nick Spanakas, and John Egan, new intermountain champions, and Sac's Terry Smith, former golden gloves boxer at Seattle, AAU champion, a finalist in the 1956 Olympic try-outs, and veteran of 128 fights.

Pack Boxers Lose Hard Fought Bouts

The Wolf Pack boxing team was defeated by a score of 4½ to 3½ in a closely fought card against the Sacramento State Hornets last Monday evening.

The most interesting event of the evening was caused by a difference of opinion between Nevada's coach Jimmy Olivas and Sacramento's coach Hank Elespuru concerning a draw decision given the Angus McLeod and Joe Jimenez bout. The final outcome, to the disappointment of the crowd, was not an exchange of blows between coaches, but an announcement that the decision was a draw. Announcer Lee Frankovich said "majority rules."

Pack Drops Final Basketball Game

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack lost its last game of the season to the Montana State College Bobcats with a score of 72-57, giving them a season record of 13 wins, 13 losses.

The Bobcats controlled the sluggish game from the beginning, carrying the Wolf Pack for 4½ minutes before they were able to hit from the field.

At the midpoint of the first period the Bobcats led by seven points. This margin widened to a halftime lead of 40-20.

A flurry in the closing minutes by the Wolf Pack narrowed a 22-point margin to 15. Center Chuck Walker, of the Bobcats, scored the final basket as the buzzer sounded to make it Bobcats 72, Nevada 57.

Bobcat Larry Chaney was top man on the floor with 24 points. Freshman Val York was high point man for the Wolf Pack with 16.

The Bobcats will be back next year with the same team, with the exception of 6-foot, 7-inch center Ted Carter.

Women's Cage Tourney Heads for Second Round

The WRA-sponsored women's basketball tournament will go into its second round Tuesday night.

At that time the first place Independents will be matched against the second place Theta's. Pi Phis will be opposing the Gamma Phi six. The fourth place Tri Deltas will not be in action.

Legarza Named Athlete of Month

John Legarza, University of Nevada varsity basketball team captain, was chosen "Athlete of the Month" by the Sierra Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters association.

Legarza was cited for his accomplishments with the Wolf Pack this season. The six-foot, 187-pound senior student was called "a tough man on the backboards" by the association, and described by Coach Jake Lawlor as "one of the finest set-shot men I've ever coached."

The 25-year-old athlete played very well in football when in high school, where his ability and grid potential attracted several offers from various schools.

Currently practice teaching at Sparks High School, Legarza will graduate from the university this spring as a physical education major. He wants to coach starting next fall.

BAREFOOT BOY...

By GEORGE A. MROSS

With Cheek

Sam was a freshman then and still wore his hero button, signifying his status in high school as having been school president or Saturday crowd-pleaser or super handsome. He was teenager-top-cabin living in an orbit of attention and activity, on his way to being socially well-rounded, as they say. Thus he was hot material for the fraternities whose by-products are reputed as being the potential extroverted leaders of tomorrow, a step in the right direction for the organizational man. The invitations to rush parties came early.

But I think we ought to add something about Sam, he's more than we have made him out to be. Somewhere along a summer night he began to dig pornography, spending many emotion-strained hours contemplating maturity. From this he learned skepticism; and when he finds himself drinking free beer among the brotherly faces, communicated against the wall, jazzed with fraternal merits, egoed by flattered praise, toured through regimental living, dined with varied starches, surgeoned and debated in private evaluation sessions, he feels bad because he is brought down. Someone had once told him that this was the only route. Remember, he's still a freshman. The script went something like this:

What do you think of the house? Structurally, I think it's very sound.

Do you think you'd like to pledge?

What's in it for me?

Well, we don't like people to think that way. We like people to do things for the house, and then begin to receive its benefits.

Like communism.

But no, I mean, like all working together for one cause, like helping each other socially and academically. Were you thinking about pledging another house? We'd sure like to have you in.

No, I like your house, but you see I'm Yiddish.

Oh, that's all right as long as you're not Jew, Negro, or Oriental. Not that we're prejudiced, but, well, you know . . . I mean, how is a sub-minority group fit into our plans anyhow?

Our?

Semi-Climax in Sequel

Well, Sam is pressure pledged. You probably saw him last week, unshaven and running, worn by carrying personality conflicts of those who dislike him and use Hell Week as a crutch to gloat in false superiority, mental or physical, passing it off as proving the neophyte worthy of the brotherhood. As he runs the pieces begin to match, but Sam has gone too far now to quit. They would call him chicken. But giving odds, before he graduates he will. Because he knows now.

Sticklers!

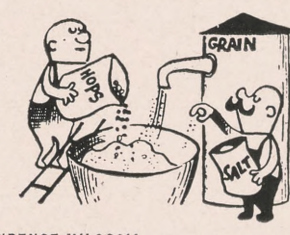

WHAT IS THE MAN WHO KEEPS THE CIGARETTE MACHINES FILLED WITH LUCKIES?
 (SEE PARAGRAPH AT RIGHT)

THE REALLY GREAT MEN of history are forgotten men. Who did throw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder? Is Kilroy still here? Does anyone remember Dear John's last name? No, friends, they're all (Sob!) forgotten. So right now, let's pay homage to the greatest of them all—the man who keeps the cigarette machine filled with Luckies! Let's honor the guy who supplies the one cigarette that's packed end to end with fine, light, good-tasting tobacco, toasted to taste even better. Let's salute (Fanfare!) the Vender Tender! Touching, isn't it?

REGENTS ACCEPT LIST OF GIFTS TO NEVADA

The University is $31,150 richer since last Saturday when the board of regents accepted a number of donations.

Heading the list was an $18,000 grant by the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation. This money will be used to establish twelve graduate assistantships.

The assistantships will provide graduate students with income from teaching while doing graduate work. They will be in the fields of biology, chemistry, mathematics, political science, civil engineering, metallurgy, and geology, plus one assistant in an unspecified field.

Raymond I. Smith donated $10,700 towards the Harolds Club Scholarship fund. Although this scholarship has been dropped, there are still several past recipients of this scholarship receiving $1,000 a year.

The Indian Education Division, Department of Education, in Carson City, donated $750. This money is to be used in scholarships for three Indian students.

American Potash and Chemical Corporation and the Las Vegas Distributing Company gave $500 scholarships to the school.

A Reader's Digest special feature article has given $400. This fund will be jointly administered by the journalism department and the university administration. This money is to pay travel expenses for journalism students while doing research work for feature articles.

Some graduate from Las Vegas high school will receive $300 yearly from Ted and Agnes Criss.

Plan Instructions For Other Cities

A proposal to establish college level instruction centers at Ely and Elko was submitted to the Board of Regents at their March 1 meeting.

The tentative program would be open to residents of the two cities including qualified high school seniors.

Plans call for freshman-level courses carrying on-campus credit at a cost of $10 per credit hour.

Regents authorized further study of the proposal, which was introduced by Acting University President William Wood.

Dr. Wood said that the program would provide "additional opportunity for exceptional high school students," as well as older residents of the communities wishing further study.

Regent Cyril Bastian of Caliente strongly endorsed the plan and called for similar centers in all the state's major communities. He pointed out that courses taken by high school seniors would lessen the heavy registration load in the freshman courses on campus.

Nevada High Pupils Short Changed on Foreign Languages

Nevada high school students are offered a "starvation diet" in foreign languages, while their Russian counterparts are compelled to study foreign languages, usually English and German, for six years, said a recent issue of the University of Nevada Foreign Language Bulletin.

Dr. Christian F. Melz, editor of the bulletin, said that eight of the state's 36 public high schools offer no foreign language training at all. Those schools which do teach foreign languages are limited to Latin, French, Italian and Spanish. Only one school teaches German, one teaches only Latin and 14 teach only Spanish. No Nevada schools offer courses in Russian.

The bulletin went on to say that only thirty-five percent of Nevada's high school students are enrolled in foreign language courses, and that instruction is rarely given for more than two years.

"Even a good and devoted student taught by excellent teachers," said Dr. Melz, "cannot possibly gain enough proficiency in a language in two years."

Organizational Meeting Held by UN Nurses

An organizational meeting to form a club for students majoring in nursing was held last week at the home of Mrs. Helen Gilkey, dean of the school of nursing. Elections were also held.

The organization will be known as the Nevada State Student Nurses Association and will be a chapter of the national association.

President of the organization is Bartis Nordlon. First vice-president is Ann Thornburn and second vice-president is Edna Tracy.

Eleanor Roman is recording secretary while the job of corresponding secretary belongs to Eugenia Choy.

Treasurer is Carolyn Swinney. Dean Gilkey is the advisor.

The club decided to hold meetings on the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. The location will be announced before each meeting.

A constitution and by-laws were tentatively approved.

ROTC Inspection By Army Expected

The ROTC program of the University of Nevada will be inspected some time this month by an Army wheel.

Mr. George Schueller, a representative of the Chief, U. S. Army Reserve and ROTC Affairs, will be in the Sixth Army Area from the ninth of March to the twentieth, and will spend most of his time here on the campus.

The University of Nevada is the only college that Mr. Schueller will visit in the Sixth Army area, and the reason for his visit is related to a nation-wide study of the ROTC program being undertaken by the Army.

Be normal—don't laugh.
