High Accreditation Rating For Nevada U

As a result of teams of investigators who studied facilities, faculty and the academic program, unrestricted accreditation was granted the University of Nevada for a period of five years, subject to a progress report for the annual meeting of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools in

Election Board Meeting Is Held

The election board held a meeting this week to appoint members to work on the board for the Dec. 10 election. A referendum concerning the proposed student court will be put before the student body in the election.

At the meeting it was decided which houses and living groups would work on the board. Two persons will be in charge of the ballot box, one to check the list and one to give out the ballots.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., including the noon hour.

Jean Rivkin, chairman of the election board, said that members of the board have now increased to 15. The two new members are James Reed of Lambda Chi Alpha, and Rex Newell of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Five Students Take Part in Program

A total of five students are now working on the University Hour, Frank Way, the student director of the program, announced this week.

They are Gary Bullis, a freshman majoring in drama and speech; Richard Brown, a freshman majoring in journalism; Buck Winter, a freshman majoring in engineering; Mrs. Arnold Dahlke, a junior majoring in journalism and Ross Rosenbaum, who is majoring in pre-law. Station representatives for KNEV-FM is Dan Hanley, a junior majoring in journalism.

The University Hour broadcasts five days a week from the studios located on the third floor of Morrill hall over radio station KNEV-FM.

Snack Bar Additions Expected To Be Completed Soon; Patio Started

Two new additions to the Student Union snack bar will be ready within the next ten days. They are a patio and an infra-red sandwich machine.

Ground has been broken for the construction of a patio on the west side of the Student Union building. The patio will be used as additional snack bar space during warm weather.

An infra-red sandwich machine has been ordered and will be in operation soon, according to Robert 1961, it was announced by president Charles Armstrong at a press conference in Morrill hall this morning.

The completed report was issued to Dr. Armstrong at a meeting of the accrediting association in Portland, Ore., earlier this week. The report was made on findings by several groups of professional educators who visited the University in March.

In the association report, a number of recommendations were made concerning the various academic divisions at the University. They are:

The Board of Regents could increase the effectiveness of the faculty and the administration, and could improve the relationship between the two by clearly defining the responsibilities of each. Definite progress has been made along this line.

General faculty meetings could well be held several times each year for the transaction of business which is normally the responsibility of the whole faculty.

The Registrar's office should occupy a appropriate place on the organization chart.

All admissions to the University should be administered by the admissions officer.

The present library building is entirely inadequate. Immediate steps should be taken to provide a building, preferably a new one, which can adequately serve the needs.

The library budget for binding is inadequate for efficient operation. Plans should be made to catch up on the binding project.

The visiting committee felt that better library facilities, reduced teaching load for major professors and improved research opportunities and responsibilities would need strengthening before a Ph.D. program could be successfully put into operation.

Kersey, Student Union director. The machine, which heats sandwiches in one or two minutes, will make it possible for the snack bar to offer a larger selection of hot sandwiches.

The patio, which will cover more than 1500 sq. ft., will be surrounded by a wall and will feature tables with umbrellas and colored lighting.

In addition to being snack bar space, the patio will be an excellent place to hold dances, Kersey added.

Burglars Continue To Operate on Nevada Campus

The rash of burglaries which has plagued the University of Nevada campus for the last three weeks continued last weekend when Manzanita hall was burglarized again. The last time the hall was broken into was the night of Nov. 13, the same night that the Student Union building safe was burglarized of more than $270.

Delta Delta's house was also a victim of burglary last weekend.

The Manzanita hall burglary was first discovered at about 7:30 p. m. last Sunday evening by Sophomore Mary Bandoni. She and her roommate, Sophomore Bonnie Rae Ramos, were last in their room at 3 p. m. the previous Wednesday afternoon.

"Our room was just a mess. Apparently they were looking for money," said Miss Bandoni. The only things known to be missing are a bottle of perfume and a small purse containing some foreign coins.

The thief ripped off the window screen and entered the room by opening the unlocked window. There are latches on the windows, but residents of the hall occasionally have their rooms open during the day and then forget to lock them at night.

The burglarized room is No. 108, a first floor room in the northeast end of the building near the dining hall. The room is right next to the room which was broken into several weeks ago.

Outdoor floodlights will be installed to illuminate the now dark east side of Manzanita hall. In the future windows on the first floor will probably be checked to see that they are locked before all vacation periods.

Reno police were notified and went through the room thoroughly checking for fingerprints.

"The real solution lies in 24-hour police protection for the campus, which we don't have," said Mr. Kersey.

Mrs. Charles Engelke, Manzanita hall housemother, declined to comment upon the theft.

The burglary of the Tri-Delt house was first discovered at about

Business Class Hears Copper Man

R. W. Crosser, comptroller for the Nevada mines division of the Kennecott Copper corporation, spoke to about 30 students in the office management class of Dr. Edward Vietti, Wednesday, Dec. 3.

Arriving by private plane from McGill, Crosser described his duties within the Nevada mines division and explained Kennecott's annual report to stockholders.

Annual Presenting Of Handel Classic Scheduled Dec. 14

The 24th annual performance of the Messiah—Handel's famous Christmas classic—will be presented by the University-Community Symphonic Choir and Orchestra Sunday, Dec. 14 at 8:15 p. m. It will given in the University gymnasium.

The program will be under the direction of Dr. William Keith

False Fire Alarm at Manzanita Hall

Nearly a hundred residents of Manzanita hall were routed out of their beds early yesterday morning by a false alarm which had fire horns blowing in the building for over a half-hour.

The alarm was touched off at 12:46 a. m. and fire department equipment arrived on the scene at about 12:50. It was discovered that the alarm was touched off somewhere in the north end of the second floor.

It could not be determined immediately whether the false alarm was set off accidentally or purposefully. The automatic fire detectors in the building are set off by any excess amount of heat, and the alarm continues until the detection system is reset, whether the source of the heat is removed or not.

Elaine Mobley, dean of women, reminded students that Reno's fire chief has issued a warning that there will be no consideration because of student status if the person who turns in the alarm is detected. "We will prosecute," the chief said.

Yesterday morning's alarm was the first at Manzanita hall this semester. There were three false alarms there last year.

Dean Mobley warned that turning in a false alarm on this campus may make Reno firemen lose the sense of urgency the next time that an alarm comes in from the campus. She also noted that in hurrying to answer the alarm a bad accident involving fire department equipment may result.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR UNDERGROUND TO ELIMINATE ORR DITCH FROM CAMPUS

Approximately 3,000 feet of the Orr ditch running through the University campus will be eliminated with the construction of a 700-foot inverted siphon scheduled for completion early next year.

James D. Rogers, University engineer, said today plans have been drawn and a bid date has been set for late this month. The siphon will have its intake at a point between the Home Economics and Agriculture buildings and re-enter the original Orr ditch east of Evans avenue. It will pass underground in front of the Agriculture building.

Irrigation requirements of water users demand a maximum flow of 100 feet per second through the Macy, chairman of the music department. This will be Dr. Macy's fourth year as director of Messiah presentation.

For the past thirty years the annual presentation of the Messiah has been a holiday tradition in Western Nevada. It was first given in 1927 as a community project, and the University has presented the classic as a gift to the community since 1934.

This year's performance will feature four soloists, and a combined chorus and orchestra of 175 members. One significant change this year, Dr. Macy said, will be in the orchestra. There will be considerable more strings than in the past.

Written in 1741, by German-born George Frederick Handel, the Messiah has been acclaimed as one of the world's great works. Handel, using a Biblical text, set the story to music and scored it in the remarkably short time of 23 days. It was presented for the first time the following year, under the baton of Handel, and became an immediate success.

Graduate Applications

"Senior class students who are considering further study should start making applications for acceptance in graduate schools, in the near future," James C. Hayes, student counselor, said.

Graduate record exams and the other screening exams are administered on this campus from time to time, Hayes said.

Two tests to be given in the near future are a dental aptitude test Jan. 10, 1959, and a graduate record exam in Jan. 17, 1959. Applications for these tests must be made before Christmas vacation.

ditch, Rogers said, but the four and a half foot flooding conditions that might occur toward the upper areas of drainage, he added.

Elimination of the north loop of the present ditch will permit better utilization of the area for University expansion and reduce the danger of flooding of the lower campus, the engineer concluded.

VETERANS CHECKS

Veterans may sign for their subsistence checks at Room 103 in Ross Hall on Dec. 10. James C. Hayes, student counselor in the office of student affairs made the announcement today.

Next Wednesday the student court comes before the student body for approval or rejection. At the risk of sounding repetitious, this final opportunity is being taken to once again look at the proposed court.

Students going to the polls Wednesday must remember that they may or may not create something that will remain at the University long after they have graduated. It is felt by many that even though the court is up only for trial-basis approval, once it has been started it will be hard to be rid of, should the court fail to live up to expectations.

The most objectional part of the court is that it is selective in the cases it will try. But that, it is meant that many cases that could come before the court will be handled by the AWS, IFC and Pan-Hellenic councils. It is supposed then that similar cases that will arise concerning Independents will be run through the court.

Although promises have been made by the court's creators that Independents will be fully represented on the court, this is not guaranteed in its constitution. It must be remembered that the majority of students at Nevada are Independents, even though they have minority representation in the Student Senate. In the present Senate, there are three students from the Pi Beta Phi sorority, two or which are supposed to be Senators at Large, representing all students. Also, both men's Senators at Large are fraternity members and one rarely is present for regular meetings.

Last year the Student Senate, composed of many of the present members, rejected an attempt by the Independents to organize by turning down the group's proposed constitution. In the past Independents have been accused of voting in a block, but it is common knowledge that fraternities and sororities, who force their members to vote or risk a fine, often trade votes in block form.

Sponsors of the court say they are now only asking that the court be given a chance to prove itself and defend it by stating that many other universities have their student courts. They forget to mention that there are many more that get along very well without a student court, especially when there are persons hired to take care of disciplinary problems.

AND HOW ARE STUDENTS GOING TO KNOW IF THE COURT DOES PROVE ITSELF IF IT IS TO BE CLOAKED WITH SECRECY? Except for court members themselves, and perhaps a few members of the Senate, there will be no students on campus who can know whether or not the court is working. Students will be asked to take the word of a small group when the court is brought back for final approval next Spring, should the court unfortunately pass on a trial basis Wednesday.

Before you go to the polls Wednesday, ask yourself if there are truly enough advantages in the court to make it worth while. Also realize that the present method of the University's handling of disciplinary problems has been working well for a great number of years.

Federal Authority Allots U of N Funds For Student Loans

University of Nevada has qualified for participation in the student loan fund plan set up under the National Defense Education Act of 1958, Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, president, has announced.

The University will receive an initial allotment of $4,373 from the Federal Government in time to have the student loan fund in operation by the Spring semester. The fund will be used to make low interest loans to students who otherwise might not be able to continue their education. Under the terms of the act, the Federal Government will contribute 90 percent of the loan fund and the University will contribute 10 percent.

Special consideration will be given first to students with a superior academic background who plan to teach in elementary or secondary schools and next to those whose academic background indicate a superior capacity for, or preparation in, science, mathematics, engineering, or a modern foreign language.

Students may obtain a maximum loan of $5000 for five years at the rate of $1000 per year. The interest, at 3 percent per year, and the repayment of the loan will not begin until one year after the student graduates or ceases his work at the University. Those students who become full time teachers will have their loan indebtedness reduced by one half and will be given ten years to repay the remaining half.

Sam Basta, Dean of Student Affairs, was appointed by President Armstrong at the beginning of the academic year to prepare the University's application. All requests by students for loans will be processed by the office of student affairs. Dean Basta said that in order to be eligible for a loan, a student must be in need of assistance, must be capable of maintaining good standing at the University and must already have been accepted for enrollment as a full time student.

The loan fund will be established for five years. Dean Basta pointed out that high school seniors slated for graduation next spring can conceivably qualify for a loan if their high school work is of a superior quality.

In addition to the stipulation regarding the reduction of loan indebtedness for students who become teachers, a waiver of interest and postponement of payment for three years will be granted to those students who enter the Armed Forces.

No security or endorsement will be required of a student when he obtains a loan unless he is under 21 years of age. In the case of a minor, the student will be required to have an endorsement by his parent.

Regional Meeting Held at Nevada

A meeting to exchange information and to report on control projects relating to forage crops in the eleven western states and Hawaii is now being held at the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture.

Attending the meeting are representatives from Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Oregon, California, Hawaii and the Agricultural Research Service in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Edwin H. Jensen is representing the University and the state of Nevada. Dr. Jensen is an associate professor of agronomy and associate agronomist in agronomy and range management for the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture.

FATBOY...

By GEORGE A. MROSS

in a phone booth

Ghost Writer in the Psy

Life is troublesome enough, being responsible for one's own opinionated prejudices and shortcomings without having to account for others but such was the case when I was cornered and grinned at concerning a paper written in a psychology class criticizing the prof for his choice of subject matter. This may not seem startling outside the fact that the paper falsely bore my name.

Now, I don't mind taking credit for an exceptional something on anything, only this struck me as a rather tasteless attempt to attribute a mediocre creation to myself. As a bubbling smut writer and prodigal son of the ingrate school I would like to present the paper written by Godfrey Grutts then follow up with my own version—same subject, different channel, the second half of which is brought to you by Burgie, and Leslie thanks you too.

Volume C XX, Book XXIX, Chapter 43 of the Grutts Family saga as compiled by the Britannica research board of the University of Chicago. It is a chilly, wintry, brooding and black day while in the background we hear 101 stereo-chirping canaries. Godfrey's unemployment check is overdue and his mother-in-law refuses to work. The electricity and water have been turned off. The pantry is empty. What can he do? Oh, what? He can't steal school funds, or can he? The canaries stop chirping in a four-speaker crescendo. The next voice you hear is Godfrey's (it will be the only voice you hear, since this is a monologue):

Trying to evaluate these past five lectures is similar to evaluating a wasteland. When a professor with a Ph D. will purposely misuse five lecture periods in such an unintellectual way, the professor, rather than the lectures should be evaluated. The proverbial needle in a haystack is easier to find than the purpose of the lectures.

The selections of modern art indicated a perverted sense of values indicative of an oversexed artist (?). To put Dante's masterpiece to such vulgar use as presenting it to undergraduates is unpardonable. It is in the same class as presenting Freudian tendencies to a maladjusted kindergarten student.

The classical music selections resembled African tribal music. All that was lacking was the clickety-clack of missionary bones in the background.

To extend this discourse into the poetry sampled would be a waste. It was clearly the work of an inferior poet disillusioned with life. In writing this I realize it may not meet with your approval, however, as this person has been to some classes he realized the value of rebellion on considered grounds.

It's obvious that Godfrey has had a college education. But as I have said, metaphorically speaking of course, I would have interpreted Godfrey's lines with a little more gusto, or oomph since that seems to be a more picturesque "woid." My sponsors have been aforementioned. Same season, same predicament.

Daddy, daddy, daddy, what are thou trying' to do? For shame. And you with a Ph. D. It's like T. S. breeding violets out of a wasteland, and I think all that talkin' and all that cuttin' up and all that dilly-dallin' around and not sharin' your thermos bottle should not be the point at all and forgotten about and you should be E-valuated. Thou knowst the bit on the proverbial needle, well, that's what I mean.

Everyone else thought yo uwaw out on that modern art kick, well, let me tell you I listened between lines and you is a pervert, you hear. A p-e-r-v-e-r-t. Your case history should be in a text book, since something was (def'a-nit)ly indicated there in your voice—your purity mannerisms didn't fool me—somethin' smug like oversexed. You bet, I could tell. I thik you're sorry you're a college professor and wish you were teachin' kiddies about Freudian nasties. You, you, you . . . masher.

And then the suggestiveness of that classical music—why didn't chew come right out and say it. You were a white salver for the F B I posing as a missionary.

To extenuate the circumstances in the 10-day trial period poetry sample is a bit obtuse a pi squared hypothesis of the mumble-jumbled surplus store variety, and would be time burning if I went on, if you can follow earlier except to save you the embarrassment. I know you shan't jump up and glee-club your goodie yea for my effort to set you straight, however, as this able-Mable personage has been tutored in the clear and precise art of rhetoric, I extend my condolences for your problem.

Public Forum

Dear Editor:

This letter concerns the proposed student court discussed in your editorial columns of Friday, November 21. After careful reading of the proposed constitution of the court I cannot help but feel that the students of the University of Nevada will want to reject it completely.

Mimeographed copies of the proposed constitution, currently available in the office of the student body president, are titled, "Tentative Draft for the Constitution of the Student Court." If this is indeed an experimental draft, is its presentation for final approval not premature? But this is admittedly a minor point when one considers some of the philosophical implications of this august document.

Supporters of the proposed student court have tried to convince the writer of this letter that his fellow students are qualified to judge the merits of his actions by advancing the flattering, if somewhat suspect, argument that he should himself feel qualified. Surely this perverse sort of argumentum ad verecundiam can deceive no one in the matter of determining the qualifications of court justices. Yet Article I, section B, of the proposed constitution would make any student with a minimum 2.1 grade average qualified to sit in judgment over a student who might easily be his intellectual superior. Those students who earn their standing in academic subjects will feel the injustice of placing so much power in the hands of some barely literate activities major.

The Sagebrush has already pointed out the convenient provisions of sub-clause D of Section B for shelving possible political rivals and no more should be said of it. Appointment, according to Article II, will be made by "the ASUN Nominating Committee and the Chief Justice of the Student Court who will be an ex officio member." Presuming that this means that the Chief Justice is an ex-officio member of the Nominating Committee we may only wonder at the power of this spectral committee that presumes to determine the membership of the court. And presuming too that someone really knows how many members the senate has a, "two-thirds vote of a quorum of the Senate," seems a small number to represent the opinions of the entire student body.

On the other hand it is much more difficult to be removed from the court. Section F, Article II, states that charges for impeachment must come from the senate and that a three-fourths vote of the entire senate is necessary to bring a justice to trial. What happens to the right of the people, in this case the students themselves, to file petitions of recall?

Perhaps it would be best not to ask what the nature of the warning would be that "may or may not be entered on the personal record of the defendant." Or to ask what is meant by the statement, "this recommendation (for dismissal) will be given by the Court in writing to the appropriate University organization." Will an "organization" be set up to handle these dismissals? And it would certainly not do to ask what kind of loopholes the AWS, Panhellenic, and Interfraternity Council constitutions provide since the proposed court would not "try any cases coming under the jurisdiction" of these convivial leagues.

Much has been made of the fact that Dean of Student Affairs Basta is in favor of the proposed student court, but well he might be since Article IV, Section C, gives him complete power over the court and all of its activities. For those who may not have seen this beautiful example of political chicanery here is the clause in full: "All cases will be referred to the Student Court through the Office of Student Affairs, and all questions arising concerning the jurisdiction of the court will be determined by said office."

There is little need to comment on this. In effect the court would work two ways for the Dean. He could, if he wished, avoid making a difficult decision by handing the matter over to the student court, un-banely abiding by their decision. On the other hand those deluded supporters of student justice who believe that their court would be allowed to make any major decision requiring prompt and speedy action will be in for a great many surprises.

And Article V, Section B, that states that, "all sessions of the Student Court shall be in closed session due to possible outside pressures," means, of course, an end to freedom of the press to report the news.

One of the more disastrous omissions in Article V, Section G is that a minority report, again one of the cherished traditions of our nations courts. Sometimes the dissent of two members of a court is as judiciously made as the condemnation of the other three.

President Bryan, in his statements to the reporter, deliberately and/or mistakenly, phrases his comments in such a way as to give the impression that the student-faculty relations committee is the only disciplinary committee functioning at the present time and that the student court would inherit its powers. The proposed constitution, however, refers to the Disciplinary Committee as one of the appellate authorities. It can also be supposed that President Bryan is giving his personal guarantee to the right of a defendant to have counsel since this is nowhere mentioned in the proposed constitution.

If the proposed court were indeed a student court instead of the tool of the Office of Student Affairs few would find fault with it. In its present form, however, the proposed constitution is totally unacceptable to thinking members of the student body. Protest at the polls by voting against this referendum is the only solution.

Management Advancement Society Elects Officers; Lectures Scheduled

"SAM," the Society for Advancement of Management elected four officers at its last meeting and have scheduled a lecture on the practical aspects of investment.

George Gillett is the first president of the newly organized chapter.

Other officers are Stanley Jones, vice-president; Heinz Schelling, secretary, and David Wheeler, treasurer. Delwin Rice is the chairman of the program committee.

The organization intends to bring prominent business men to meetings to inform undergraduates of the problems, policies, and methods of industry and management.

Dr. Stephen J. Barres, associate professor of business administration and the advisor of the new chapter, believes that the experience gained by learning about management will be of great advantage to the student in latter life.

One of the first projects of the organization will be to purchase, as a group, several shares of stock.

Students will then have an opportunity to watch the movements of investment first-hand.

The members will learn about group-stock owning at their next meeting, when they will hear Mr. Jack Baxter, investment counselor at the Walton Agency, discuss group investment.

The meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. at the El Cortez Hotel.

Dr. Barres urges all students interested in investment to come to the luncheon, no matter which school they attend at the university.

Many Entries for Snack Bar Name

More than three hundred entries in the "name the snack bar" contest were received before the deadline on Dec. 5.

A complete list of names submitted is now being drawn up for the Student Union board, which will judge the contest.

Campus Burglary

5 p.m. Sunday evening when Nedra Norton, Jody McNally, and Demetra Assuras noticed that their jewelry boxes had been rifled.

A window was found open in an upstairs closet, and it is assumed that was where the burglars got in.

Only things known to be missing are about $1.50 in small change left out by Miss McNally and an undetermined amount of money stolen from Sharon White's belongings.

Miss Norton, tri-Delt house president, speculated that the house might have been broken into by some youngsters who were looking for something to do. She thought that they probably just couldn't resist taking the money.

Fraternity Dances Usher in Season

Three fraternity dances will highlight the start of Christmas dance season this evening.

Alpha Tau Omega will have its dance at Rosemont Lodge. Guests will include Dr. and Mrs. Willard F. Day and Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Sax. Dr. Day is assistant professor of psychology, and Sax is a lecturer in the college of business education.

Lawton's will be the scene of the Theta Chi Christmas formal this evening.

Guests will include Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Roelofs. Dr. Roelofs is an associate professor of philosophy.

Music will be furnished by the Valentines, local group.

Members of Phi Sigma Kappa will hold their dinner-dance at the Mesa. Guests will include Dr. John R. Gottardi and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Hart of Sparks, and Prof. and Mrs. Henry Domingos. Dr. Gottardi is professor of foreign languages, and Domingos is assistant professor of electrical engineering. Music for the evening will be provided by the Bob Strange Combo.

Tomorrow evening, the Halfway House will see members of Lambda Chi Alpha at their dance. Guests will include Dr. and Mrs. William C. Miller and Dr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Kinsinger. Dr. Miller is professor of speech and drama. Dr. Kinsinger is assistant professor of range management.

Press Club Xmas Party Set Dec. 11

The University Press Club will hold its annual Christmas party on Dec. 11 at the SAE house.

Members of the club, its alumni, and all students enrolled in journalism courses are invited.

The traditional satirical skit depicting events of the year in the journalism department will be featured in the entertainment for the evening. Dancing and games are also being planned.

Guests will include Professor A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the journalism department, and Mrs. Higginbotham, and Prof. Keiste Janulis and Mrs. Janulis.

President Carol Crisler is in charge of program arrangements.

Captain Ward Back After Long Illness

"It's good to be back," said Capt. Walter J. Ward, assistant professor of Military Science and tactics, who returned to the University this week after a long illness.

Captain Ward was flown to Fitzsimons Army hospital in Denver, Colo., on Oct. 25 and returned home just in time for Thanksgiving.

The day before he entered the hospital the captain became father of his sixth child, but, he says, "this had nothing to do with my illness."

Job Applications

Interviews for jobs with the U. S. Immigration Service will be held Tuesday, Dec. 16. A representative of the U. S. Immigration service will interview candidates in Room 103, Ross Hall.

James G. Hayes, student counselor in the office of student affairs, says that a substantial increase in starting salaries and fringe benefits are being offered.

... JUST WHITTLIN'...

By JUDY V.

Good grief, what an exciting week! Two costume dances, Thanksgiving recess, and Georgie read my column. Gosh darn, how lucky can you get? Can't say I understood it all; it was sooo—well you know, abstract and all that. Tell me Mr. Mross, how does it feel to be a literary giant? One thing I can say for this cute collection of original Mross metaphors is that it brought to my attention something which I was never aware of. Did you know that serious readers went to the SAGEBRUSH for their material? Good luck, kids! Might try either the weather report or a Viceroy Ad, there's something in this paper to interest everyone.

Now back to the "Good Housekeeping" side of life, or as the Life-Blood of this publication might say, peon prattles. Right before Thanksgiving recess we had a couple of real good costume dances. The ATO's held their Bowery Dance. Among the couples stumbling were: Paul Huffey and Gamma Phi, Dorothy Howell; Bill Burgess and Tri Delt, Sharon Winter; Ray Regon and Judy Wadsworth; Dick Bryan and Theta, Bonnie Isola; Pete Menicucci and Gamma Phi, Lorelee Smith; Ray Vernon and Gamma Phi, Sue Hale; Jim Atcheson and Pi Phi, Lynn Spell; and George Smith and Independent, Arthur Bandoni.

The other costume dance which was held was the Sigma Nu Comic Strip Dance. Prizes were given for the best costumes. Lois Piritto won the award for the best girl's costume, and Ron Wilson, for the best fella's costume. No, no, no, Ron wasn't with Lois, so don't go a gettin' all upset. Ron was with Sharon (that's nice, don't you think-), Lois went with Dick Lewis. Others attending were: Frank Kendriks and Pi Phi, Tish Saule; Pete Looney and Theta, Gay Brennen; Clay Darrow and Gamma Phi, Segrid Nielson; John Metzker and Romanda Wheeler; Bill Provin and Delta, Nancy Hansen; Tom Herman and Independent, Sally Peterson; Joe Nickotera and Joan Neelson; Carl Looney and Theta, Kathy Zimmerman; Stan Salmons and Pi Phi, Tayna Woodford; Don Ritche and Theta, Barbara Heward; Larry Damon and Gamma Phi, Emmy Hanf; Doug Salter and Lee Ann Zimmerman; Bob Silory and Theta, Kathy Bailey; Carl and Marilyn Shaff; Allen Van Vorste and Pi Phi, Sally Sherman; Louis Cantinella and Betsy Anchors; Lee McKenzie and Barbara Pope; Denny Jones and Independent, Ann Stockwell; Bob Burns and Gamma Phi, Jean Raker; Bob Perchetti and Romona Booth; Gary Bartlet and Gamma Phi, Melinda Mackie; and Lyle Damon and Karen Decker.

There were also a lot of new pinnings over Thanksgiving. Lambda Chi, Bill Keith and Pi Phi, Gayle Furman announced their pinning, along with Sue White and SAE, Ron Broderdorf, and Georgie Weaver and SAE, Howard Chambers. There was also the pinning of Joyce Stevens and Russ Westover, ATO. Nancy Hansen, Tri Delt, and Bill Provin, Sigma Nu, announced their engagement. Congrats, all!

Well I think I will spare you all this week and give out with a few short passages of bad writing, instead of the usual.

Incidentally, don't go thinking' old G.M. got the watchbird. Must of just been some energetic outpourings of his frustrated sub-conscious.

Campus Display of Hartman Works

"I try to achieve light that emanates from the painting itself," said Robert L. Hartman, whose paintings and drawings are on display at the University of Nevada art gallery.

Hartman, assistant professor of art at the university, has used oil, enamel, plastic, watercolor, and charcoal on the works displayed. Most of the work is recent, having been done in 1957, and '58. Yellow is the predominant color in most of the paintings.

Prof. J. Craig Sheppard, chairman of the art department, said that students who view the work with no preconceived notions will see in what direction at least one segment of contemporary American artists are going.

College students are more open-minded about contemporary art than their parents, he added.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

John O'Neil likes the interesting contacts his job gives him. At left, he talks with Bill Shaw, Manager of radio station KSFO, about the baseball reporting service John helped develop. At right, he discusses a private-line telephone service with R. E. Kaehler, President of The Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, San Francisco Division.

He sells ideas—to sell communications

San Francisco baseball fans don't know it, but they're indebted to John R. O'Neil of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

John made it possible for them to get up-to-the-minute reports on Giants baseball games last season. He sold radio station KSFO on the idea of recording inning-by-inning announcements using automatic answering equipment. Fans would simply dial an advertised phone number. The service began last August, and was a big hit.

That's an example of the kind of creative selling John does. "We really sell an idea and then provide the equipment to do the job," is the way John puts it.

John joined Pacific Telephone after graduating from the University of California with an A.B. degree in 1956. He wanted to work into management through Sales and was impressed with the training program and advancement opportunities offered by the Telephone Company.

"As a Telephone Company salesman, I deal with owners and managers of top-level businesses," John says. "Every contact is a challenge to solve a communication problem or to sell an idea for better service. What's more, I'm getting valuable experience that will help me move ahead in the telephone business."

John O'Neil is one of many young men who are finding interesting careers in the Bell Telephone Companies. Find out about the opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus. And read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

UN Debaters Go
To Final Round

Two university of Nevada students were finalists in the largest debate tournament on the west coast.

Dan Sobrio and Virgil Buccianeri won four straight debates before being eliminated in the semi-final round by a team from Pacific college.

The Nevada men were debating in the Far Western Invitational tournament at Salt Lake last week with two other Nevada teams.

The Salt Lake tournament was described by Dr. Robert S. Griffin, chairman of the speech and drama department, as the largest that Nevada has taken part in on the west coast. Dr. Griffin accompanied the debaters on the trip and remained in Salt Lake over the Thanksgiving vacation to take part in the Western Speech association convention.

The other debaters that took part in the tournament were Richard Madsen, Tom Herman, Roger Joseph, and Robert Van Lydegraf. Both the teams of Joseph and Madsen and Herman and Van Lydegraf had identical records of two wins and two defeats.

The debating team will not take part in a tournament until next semester. Nevada will travel to tournaments at Stanford, University of Arizona, Oregon State college, and Southern California.

The Nevada school will also host a tournament in the spring and may travel to Cincinnati to take part in a national tournament.

Faculty Christmas
Party on Dec. 16

The annual Faculty Club Christmas party will be held Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m., on the upper floor of the Student Union building.

Dr. Alex Dandini, committee chairman, reports that "Santa Claus has agreed to be there, too."

Hosts and hostesses include: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dandini, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gorrell, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Macy, Mrs. Helen Gilkey, Miss Patricia Tripple, Mr. Vern Frazier, and Mr. John Gottardi.

Rate for Accident
Insurance Rises

The cost of student accident insurance is being raised next semester from $2.50 to $3.50, Dr. Ruth Russell, chairman of the university health committee, announced this week.

The reason for this increase, Dr. Russell said, is that students' injuries are costing the insurance company more money than it receives in premiums from student policies.

Last year the insurance company paid out to the University $2,000 more than it received. RSBaE4

The University had eight accident cases last year, each of which came to about five hundred dollars. Other accidents ran from five dollars to five hundred dollars.

Cases last year included skiing accidents, a gun shot wound, car accidents, and accidents which occurred in sports other than intercollegiate.

Nineteen hundred and ten students at the University are covered by the accident insurance.

The insurance covers a student accidentally injured at a cost of up to $500. It does not matter whether the injury is on or off campus. Injuries are covered even when they occur outside of Reno. The insurance covers the cost of X-rays and casts when total cost does not exceed $500.

Suicide Excluded

There are some conditions which the insurance does not cover, including suicide, injuries resulting from flying except when the person is a passenger in a commercial airlines, injuries incurred as a result of participation in intercollegiate athletics.

This insurance also does not cover cases which can be cared for by the University Health Service. It is a supplement to the Health service.

Sigma Pi Sigma Will Hear Dr. Barnes Talk

"The Physics of Automobile Accidents" is the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. George Barnes, associate professor of physics.

Barnes will speak before the physics honor society Sigma Pi Sigma on Tuesday, Dec. 9 at 4 p.m. in Room 324 Mackay science building.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Handicapped Children

The shortage of competent teachers for physically or mentally handicapped children was discussed by educators from 12 western states this week in Salt Lake City.

Dr. Harold D. Holstine, dean of the University of Nevada college of education, was one of fifty teacher education specialists attending the three-day workshop, Dec. 4-6.

Sports Spotlight

By RICHARD I. TRACY
Sagebrush Sports Editor

I've wanted to do this column in particular for a long time, and now is a good time to do it. Instead of the usual look into intercollegiate sports, I'll swing the spotlight into an intramural sport currently rolling along hot and heavy: Bowling.

Bowling is my game. As far as I'm concerned the only thing more important than bowling is women. If somewhere in the wild blue yonder there awaits me my own personal heaven I'll bet it's equipped with a 24-lane bowling alley. I guess that sore of makes me a fanatic, doesn't it?

Every Wednesday night, however, I have to swallow a bitter pill. You see, that's the night the interfraternity league shows up to break in the alleys at the Town & Country bowl, and they really do a good job of it, too. The thing that I don't like about that particular night is that I have to admit that there are a lot of guys in this school that can bowl a lot better than I can.

This brings to mind one team in particular: The Sigma Nu's. They're on the top of the pile, and unless lightning strikes, I'll be willing to bet that they are still there at the end of the season. So far they've won 18 games in a row, and the end if not yet in sight.

My own team, Phi Sigma Kappa, has come a long way since last year, when we were sitting on the bottom of the pile, and we average roughly 154. But those guys from the EN club have a rough average of 171, and how they do it is beyond me.

Take for instance the time we first bowled against them this season. We were entering the ninth frame, and according to the number of marks (strikes and spares) tallied at the bottom of each frame we were even. Frankly, I was so surprised I got frightened. WE were going to beat the Sigma Nu's!!

At least that's what I thought until the tenth and final frame rolled around. By that time the close score had attracted attention in the nearby alleys, and the members of the other teams thought hopefully, "The Sigma Nu's just haven't got it this year, why they're practically tied with the Phi Sigs!"

Well, they (The Sigma Nu's) seemed slightly nervous, but didn't really give me the impression that they were concerned. My team finished up with four or five marks in that fatal frame, while they piled us under with about twelve marks. And what's more they didn't think anything really spectacular had happened.

After looking at the averages of the teams they have beaten, I am proud to say that "we almost beat them . . . once."

But, there is a happy note to my story. The rest of the frats are not sitting around lethargically accepting defeat. No sir; The ATO's have a red-hot team, led by the consistent high scorer, Mel Watson, and also containing the bowler with the highest average in the league (180) Rick Maguiness. The Independents, also, have a darn good team with McQuaid, Borda, and Cooper, the returning nucleus of last year's team. One of these two could get fired up some night and really "show the world" by breaking up the winning streak of the "Snakes."

Anyone that can beat the Snakes, though, will have to be really hot to do it, and have lady luck on their side. But whoever does will get lots of publicity, I swear it!

The way things stand right now, Sigma Nu is in the lead, about 5 games above everyone else, the Tau's and Independents are neck and neck for second place, and that's a tossup as far as I'm concerned, with the Civil Engineers, SAE, and Phi Sigs battling for third, and the P.E. Majors and Beta Alpha Nu trying to fight their way out of the cellar.

If you'd like to see some real good bowling, drop in the alley anytime between 9 and 12 on Wednesday nights.

If you like women even better than bowling, go to the Sparks Bowlarium around 5 p.m. on Thursdays where the girls try their hand at the game. The Pi Beta Phi team is currently leading that league, and according to what I have heard they would not wind up in last place in the men's league if they entered.

Alpha Tau Omega Leads Kinnear Race; Takes First Place in Three Events

One hundred points separate Alpha Tau Omega from its nearest competitor in the annual battle for the Kinnear trophy. ATO has 220 points, Sigma Nu, 120; Independents, 100 SAE, 40; Lambda Chi, 15 and Theta Chi, 5. Phi Sigma Kappa is in last place with no points.

ATO has won three first places in the three completed events. Softball, volleyball, and cross country have been played, basketball and bowling are still being played, and track, baseball, and skiing competition will begin next semester.

Sigma Nu has taken a commanding 5½ game lead in the bowling competition, with an 18-game winning streak.

The race for intramural basketball honors is deadlocked with SAE and SN tied for first place. Both teams have won four games without a loss. If SAE and SN each win their next game, they will play the deciding game this Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the new gym.

Wolf Pack Quintet To Meet Presidio

The University of Nevada's 1958-1959 basketball season will officially get under way tonight when the Wolf Pack meets Presidio of San Francisco here in a two-game series.

Varsity game-time in the campus gymnasium is 8:15 p.m. both tonight and Saturday evening. At 6:30 p.m., the Wolf Pack Frosh will meet local town-league teams, the Holiday Hotel's team tonight and the Isbell Construction Company squad tomorrow night.

Nevada's head basketball coach Jake Lawlor isn't making any pre-game predictions because he doesn't know "how tough these Army boys are." The Presidio has two wins and no losses so far this year. They scored a 71-51 victory over Hamilton Air Force Base and a 61-51 victory over Travis Air Force Base.

The Wolf Pack's 15-man squad has been working hard since the middle of October and according to Lawlor, are somewhat weak in defensive play.

Probable starting lineups for Nevada will be Stan Summers at center, Bob Ferrari and Ken Longero as guards, and Val York and Bob Lyon at forward positions.

Summers, a 6 ft. 7 in. senior from Lake Tahoe, has two years varsity experience. Bob Ferrari, also a senior, has three years on the court for Nevada, and six-footer Bob Lyon of Sacramento, California, has one year of varsity basketball behind him. Ken Longero of Carson City played one year of basketball for Nevada before military service interrupted his education. Val York, a six-foot freshman from Fallon, played varsity ball last year as a freshman.

Golf Prospects To Hold Early Meeting

"Anyone shooting in the eighties, should be able to land a position or be in close contention for a spot on the 1958 golf team," says coach Gordon T. McEachron.

A meeting to discuss varsity pre-season golf practice will be held for interested linksmen in the new gymnasium Monday, December 8, at 12:30 p.m.

"We must begin our short game practice on Clark Field and make our rounds on the local golf course, now, while we are not handicapped by snow," said McEachron.

New Social Group Growth Is Rapid; Housing Planned

Growth of the University's newest national social fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon, is being examined this week by Mr. Darrel D. Brittsan, Province Didector for the fraternity.

Brittsan is interested in speaking with any men interested in the fraternity and is encouraging them to contact him through Dean Samuel L. (Sam) Basta's office or at his room in the Mapes hotel.

The growing Sigma Phi Epsilon Colony now has 12 members. They are: Terry W. Batchelor, Dan B. Chatfield, David R. Allen, Charles R. Thomas, Robert J. Fisher, Harry W. Garner Jr., James G. Welsh, Charles M. Flatter, Donald A. Orten, Larry R. Newell, Kirk H. Terrell, Vincent R. Fagan, and Frank C. Blomquist.

Advisors to the group are Louis C. (Chap) Bortz, John C. Petriciani, Darrell W. Swartzell, Donald L. Rasmussen, and Keiste Janulis, associate professor of journalism.

Alumni in the Reno area who are handling the problem of housing the group hope that housing will be secured by the end of this semester.

The colony is participating in the intramural sports program and is also conducting a rush program. Various social events are being planned.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is the second largest national social fraternity in number of chapters. There are 148 chapters in the 48 states and over 52,000 members throughout the world.

One Man Show on UC Davis Campus

Edward W. Yates has a one-man show at the University of California at Davis. Yates is an associate professor of art at the University of Nevada.

The month-long display of 20 pieces of ceramics and eight of sculpture will run through Dec. 19.

Prof. Yates' work has been shown in the Syracuse Annual. The competitive Syracuse Annual is recognized in art circles as the world's outstanding ceramic show, said Prof. J. Craig Sheppard, art department chairman.

Prof. Yates has also shown his work in Kansas City, Denver, San Francisco, Dallas, and at the University of Oklahoma. Locally, he has had displays at the Reno Little Theater and the Nevada Art Gallery.

Dave Sharp Meets With Accident

The old story of girl meets boy was re-enacted for David D. Sharp last Sunday, but she did it the hard way. The girl's car clobbered Sharp's pick-up and knocked it 50 feet.

David D. Sharp, sophomore U. of N. track star, told sheriff's deputies that he was turning off the new I street thoroughway onto Sullivan lane, when his vehicle was struck by one driven by a 17-year-old Reno girl.

Both cars were heavily damaged, but neither driver was injured.
