DIANA CONTON

Men students will choose the 1959 Homecoming Queen next Thursday from a group of five campus beauties. The five are Diana Conton, Gamma Phi Beta; Billie Morris, Pi Beta Phi; Ann Scott, Pi Beta Phi; Judie Smith, Independent; and Tammie Tenk, Independent.

Selection of queen candidates this time was a change in practice from that of years past. Instead of the old custom where each of the five women's living groups nominated one candidate for each queen contest, this year each of the groups nominated three candidates.

The fifteen candidates went before a board of judges last Tuesday evening. At that time the group was narrowed down to five. Affiliation and class status were not considered by the judges.

Selection was made on the basis of poise, beauty, posture, grooming, charm and voice.

Five University staff members and eight men students took part in the selection of the finalists. Faculty members were Glen Clark, electrical engineering; Dr. Kenneth Kemp, assistant professor of chemistry; Robert Kersey, director of student services; and

Plans for Annual Homecoming Are Fully Completed

Plans for Nevada's 1959 Homecoming celebration are in the final stages with only last minute details left to be attended to.

Festivities begin Wednesday, Oct. 14, with sorority open houses. Thursday at 11 a.m. is the Homecoming assembly, and that night the rally and bonfire.

The annual Wolves Frolic production is Friday night at the Civic Auditorium, with eleven skits entered.

The celebration will be brought to a close Saturday with the parade in the morning, the Nevada-San Francisco State game at two in the afternoon, and the Homecoming dance that night. The annual cross country race will start at 9 a.m. Saturday.

This year's Homecoming assembly will feature Foster Edward's 14-piece jazz band and possibly a quartet from the Sierra Singers. The five queen candidates and the Homecoming committee will be introduced. The new freshman class president will be sworn in at this time.

The rally Thursday night will take place in the new gym and possibly have entertainment by the Gaylords. It will move from there to Mackay stadium for the traditional bon fire, into which freshmen may throw their dinks. A snake dance will start at the stadium and wind downtown, probably ending at Powning park. Peter Palmer, the rally chairman, hopes that something can be organized for after the snake dance, such as a record hop in the Student Union.

Eleven living groups on campus have entered skits in the Wolves Frolic. The themes submitted are: Gamma Phi Beta, "The Cats"; Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, "Deep in the Heart of Alaska"; Pi Beta Phi, "Around the World in 10 Minutes"; Independents, "The King and His Court"; Alpha Tau Omega, "The Good Old South"; Theta Chi, "Volga Boatman"; Phi Sigma Kappa, "A Foggy Day in London Town"; Sigma Nu, "Monster Rally"; Sigma Alpha Epsilon,

ROOTER SPECIAL TO BE RUN FOR GAME AT SACRAMENTO

Arrangements are being made to transport Nevada rooters to the Sacramento game by special train, Roger Christensen, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, announced this morning.

"At least 300 persons must sign up in order to have the Southern Pacific provide the train," he said. It will cost students $10 for round trip passage on the train, scheduled to leave Reno at 7 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 24.

The train will be equipped with a lounge car and dancing will be allowed, he said. Persons interested may sign up in the student union building in Bob Kersey's office. Deadline for signing up is October 15.

AWS Fashion Event at Riverside

The annual AWS fashion show will be held this Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Olympic room of the Riverside hotel.

Whereas most fashion shows are directed at women, men are invited to attend this year, according to Joanne Dumble, chairman.

Honored guests will be presented before the fashion parade starts. The clothes will be presented in three groups with an intermission between each. The best dressed coed on campus will receive an award at the end of the show.

The 12 models from the show are selling tickets, and they can also be obtained from the AWS chairman of the show Joanne Dumble and Sally Atcheson, and Jean Rivkin through Friday. They are on sale at Joseph Magnin's through

Five Selected To Sit As Student Justices

The student court is in effect. Five justices Wednesday night were named to sit at the student judicial bar. Their election was held by the ASUN Senate.

The five justices are Virgil Bucchianeri, Frank Clawson, Ross Rosenbaum, Brenda Higley and Fred Dugger. They appeared before the Senate and explained why they wanted the positions of judgment.

Four of the justices told the Senate that they did not want press coverage at proceedings. As a result this news story will be the last official coverage the University community will have on its new legal system.

The five justices were picked from a field of 10 nominees, which was submitted to the Senate by the nominations committee. The other five nominees were Jean Rivkin, Carol Thiex, Jim Westfield, Joyce Casazza and Marilyn Nelson.

Bucchianeri

Justice Bucchianeri is a senior student majoring in history. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho. Justice Bucchianeri said he was not opposed to press coverage of court proceedings and the student body should be informed. He contended that criticism would not pressure justices if actual justice voting was not revealed. Justice Bucchianeri said anyone who could not accept constructive criticism had no business seeking the position.

Clawson

Justice Clawson is a senior student majoring in foreign languages. He is a veteran. Justice Clawson told senators that he was seeking the position because the University of Nevada would soon be his alma mater and that he wanted to be proud of it. In explaining, Justice Clawson said that as a justice he would be in a position to change some of the activities which give the University a bad name. Specifically, Justice Clawson said in some circles the University of Nevada is known as a "party school."

Rosenbaum

Justice Rosenbaum is a senior student majoring in pre-law. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa. Justice Rosenbaum told the senators that he was seeking positions in student government, but that because of his short time on campus he had not met many people. He said he chose to seek the justice position because there was a smaller group which would have to know him in order to put him in office.

Higley

Justice Higley is a junior student. She is majoring in chemistry.

Student Rights Disregarded

THE UNDERLYING THEORY of the American legal system is based on two assumptions: (1) a person accused of an offense is presumed to be innocent until he is proved beyond a reasonable doubt to be guilty, (2) the accused person is entitled to an open and fair trial.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, the leaders of student government destroyed one of these basic concepts by banning press coverage of the Student Court.

THE STUDENTS should have a right to all information necessary to evaluate the operation of its legal system. This right is taken away when court sessions are held in secret.

IT IS COMPLETELY unreasonable to think that intelligent United States citizens can destroy one of the basic American rights. And it cannot be understood how university students will allow this basic right to be abolished.

A Farce at Best

FIFTEEN attractive and intelligent young women were hopelessly and haphazardly grilled by a panel of "queen-judging experts" Tuesday night. The embarrassing spectacle was the new plan to pick University ceremonial queens.

AFTER THE NOMINEES were displayed en masse, they were then brought before the "judges" in groups of three. As the first nervous trio entered the judging chamber they were asked to sit in three chairs before the panel. They were then grilled by the "experts."

ONE NOMINEE was asked a second time what her major was because the "judge" forgot he had previously asked the "important" question. Another was quizzed how the deer hunting was in her home town area. The same question was put to a nominee from a populated California area.

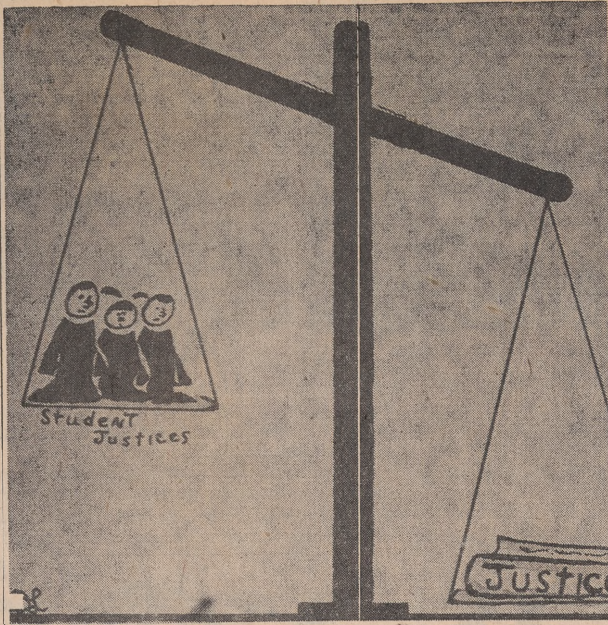

Naturally, she answered that she hadn't seen any deer in that residential area. Her answer probably struck the "judges" as being a bit stupid, but the truth is that the question was pathetically stupid. Another nominee was asked how much money she had bet on the Dodgers in the World Series. These questions, ill chosen and inappropriate at best, were the essence of the interrogation.

AFTER THE "JUDGING" was completed, five women were selected to run in a general election in which male students will vote. Those selected are as qualified as any to be candidates for the coveted Homecoming Queen throne. It is a shame that the AWS council had to choose a poor method to select the queen candidates.

THE NEW PLAN was created because of outright objection by men students last spring in the Mackay Day Queen election. Men students felt they should be able to vote for whom they pleased in the queen election. As a result they picketed the election, claiming the AWS Council was being undemocratic by not allowing the voters to write in candidates.

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that when the AWS Council got together to revise the queen selection method they did not have the simple insight to realize that the nominating should be done by the men—the voters. Instead they chose to have a complex, ill-logical and undemocratic method. Instead of the voters, a panel of self-styled "experts" will say who best should be a queen candidate. The panel consisted of, among others, the men senators. What price government?

Don't complain about the campus beat-niks, it is the fad at every all-American university this year.

Hats off to the finest football team University of Nevada has seen in many a year! It is a pity the student body couldn't see the games, but someone has chosen to put all Nevada students in the bottom eight rows and no one could see. Oh, well, if you or your date knows a little about football you can follow the game by watching the yard markers. The new "spread formation" in the stands also lends to group cheering, ask the cheer leaders.

EDITOR, THE SAGEBRUSH:

The Student Court is in and democracy is out. The U. S. Constitution and ASUN Constitution could just as well have been used for . . .

Your paper should be congratulated for its untiring effort in defense of student rights.

The closed court or secret sessions and the Gestapo actions are birds of a feather. The U. S. Constitution will apparently have to be re-written so as not to conflict with the Student Court constitution.

Certainly no student with the I. Q. to gain college entrance will give credence to a court decision if he even bothers to answer a court summons in the first place.

Next weekend will be that glorious time of Homecoming. Floats, the Frolic, a football game and gay parties will unveil. A Homecoming queen will be announced and crowned, and thousands will cheer—that is, all but the Tri-Delts and Thetas who saw their candidates eliminated before the contest really got started. Such is life in regal matters.

It is believed that Nevada is the only university where English students can sit in a classroom adorned with moth-eaten animals that fell prey to a taxidermist.

What this school needs is a lot more coffee tables in the Student Union and two less pool tables.

Students of the present era had a chance to see something last weekend that hasn't happened in many years: a Wolf Pack that could come up with a win over Chico State.

Also last weekend Sagebrush Editor Warren Lerude and Reno police were looking for a typewriter missing from the Sagebrush office. Richard "Sherlock" Morris discovered the "theft" after he noticed somebody had kicked in the door to Mr. Lerude's office. Mr. Lerude himself had kicked in the door a few weeks ago when the key got locked inside. I returned his typewriter later this week.

Ed Allison and a friend, we see, have turned columnists. Playful young things.

Freedom of the press took a nasty blow Wednesday night when our illustrious student senate made it clear that student court proceedings would be entirely secret in nature. Take notice that Phi Sigma Kappa got two members into the new court—other fraternities didn't get one. To the victors go the spoils.

And the Thetas were the only sorority to get court representation. It was a bad week all around for the DDDs.

It just doesn't seem possible that the Sundowners are really going in for volleyball, even though the game was "dampened" somewhat. Must be a front.

By reading the local papers we learned a new daily is planned for Reno. Probably won't affect the circulation of the Sagebrush. Probably will be good for Reno.

Now that September is past, we no longer have to look at Bob Brown's shaded profile on the University calendar. Football is featured this month.

Wonder why penicillin can't be injected in the arm? According to nurses at the infirmary a flu patient gets about $12 worth of medicine and treatment on the initial visit. The eight-dollar infirmary fee is a real bargain.

Inquiring Reporter Gets Nosy

By DON GRAYDON—Sagebrush Feature Writer

Enter: Two freshmen. Number one: Blond, cute, pony tail, skirt and sweater, stary-eyed. Number two: Blond, cute, crew-cut, white bucks, letter sweater from small town high, red-blooded.

Scene: Student Union. Warm day. Round, white table. Two cokes. Tension in the air. Moral conflict.

Sue: "Are you going to join a fraternity?"

Joe: (Reflects briefly on what he has heard in the past about this thing called fraternity life: Togetherness. Fellowship. Join a fraternity and be somebody. Brotherhood. Independents have independence. Brotherhood. Social life. Beer. Meet girls.) "I don't know, Sue."

Sue: (Smiles wryly; sighs.) We'd better get some advice from other people."

Joe: "Yes. Let's ask around and see what people think are the advantages and the disadvantages of going Greek."

Exit: Two confused souls in search of answers.

We followed them around school. Here are the answers they got:

Jackie Siemens, 18, freshman, business, Reno: When you join a sorority, in a way you're labeled. You're judged by your sorority, not by yourself. If you're outgoing enough, you can meet people as an individual. You don't need the sorority behind you as a push for prestige.

Dick McConaughy, 18, sophomore, political science, Lafayette, Calif., Lambda Chi: I decided to buy a place in society, so I joined a fraternity. No, seriously, I feel that a fraternity offers social advantages for a very reasonable cost.

Bob Hawkins, 20, sophomore, pre med, Reno, SAE pledge: In a fraternity, you learn to work as a group; you work for a common purpose. You retain your independence, but you learn to control it.

Carol Richards, 18, freshman, business, Sparks, Pi Phi pledge: I don't think there are any disadvantages to joining a sorority. Where a school develops you academically, a sorority develops you socially. I consider one to be as important as the other . . . well, maybe socially is just a little more important.

Paul Smith, freshman, music, Reno, Phi Sig pledge: You'll find that your independence will be pushed into the background by the group. But in society you have to learn to bend your desire to the good of the group. Therefore, the fraternal system is good practice in getting along with people.

Darlene Giuliani, 26, freshman, psychology, San Francisco: Everyone needs to become independent and to realize themselves. One of the constituents of self-actualization, or maturity, is that a person not have excess dependency. Sorority attitudes will be inculcated in the girls, and they will not be able to think for themselves, which is a necessity of university life. Joining a sorority is like staying in high school.

DID YOU KNOW?

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER CASE HISTORY

Bob Allen and his Chief Operator, Mrs. Julia Chipman, discuss Long Distance records which will soon be converted to automatic processing.

Meet Bob Allen—he's growing fast with a fast-growing company

Robert E. Allen got his B.A. degree from Wabash College in June, 1957, and went to work with Indiana Bell Telephone Company at Indianapolis. "It looked like a growing company where I could grow, too," he says.

It was. Today he is an Assistant Traffic Supervisor there. He's in charge of six other supervisory people and about 100 telephone operators.

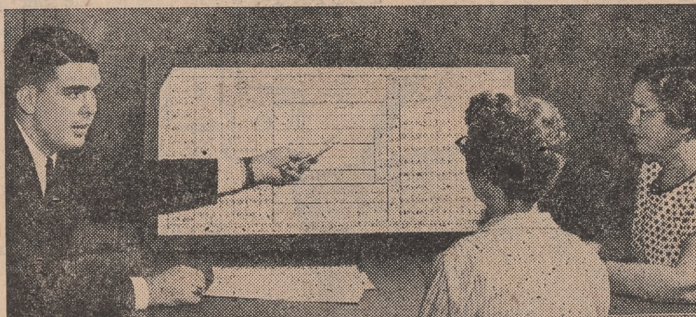

Bob attributes his rapid progress to two main factors: the thorough training he received and the steady growth of the telephone business.

"I was trained to be a telephone manager, not just a traffic specialist," he points out. "I've also had practical, on-the-job experience in the plant, commercial and engineering phases of the business. So I'm equipped to handle new responsibilities all the time. And in this fast-growing communications field, that means I have more chances to keep moving ahead."

What about a Bell Telephone Company career for you? Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus—and read the Bell Telephone booklet in your Placement Office.

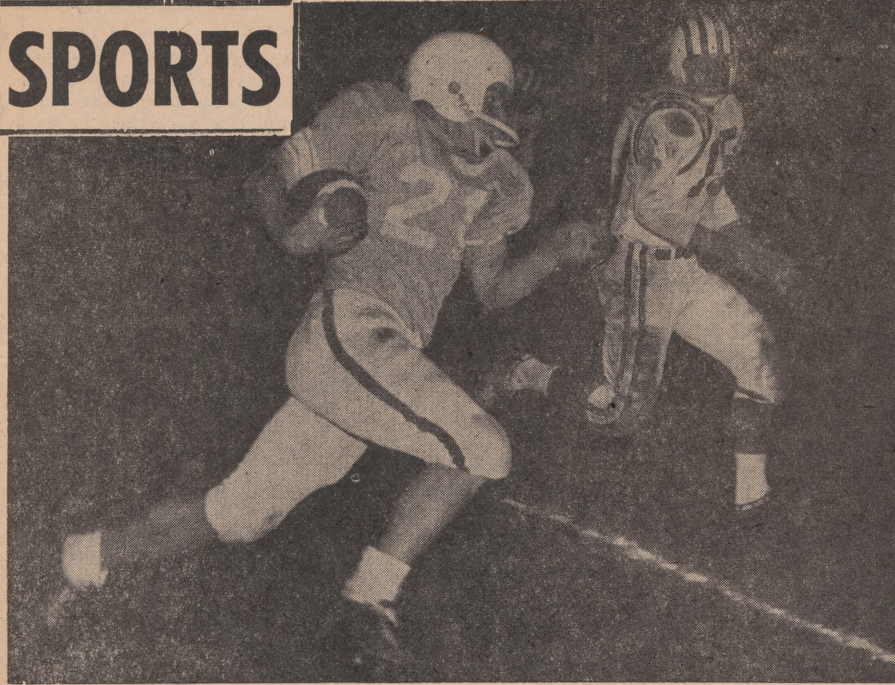

With Mrs. Chipman and Miss Gee, Group Chief Operator, Bob reviews a blow-up of the automatic processing card which will mechanize Indiana Bell's Long Distance billing.

Turning on the Steam Around the Corner

SPORTS

BEEP, BEEP—Jerry "Road Runner" Tobin turns the corner and takes off for a substantial gain against Chico State at Mackay Stadium. The senior halfback from Winnemucca has been a consistent ground gainer for the Wolf Pack all year.

Injury-Riddled Wolf Pack Hosts Cal Aggies at Mackay; Seek Third in Row

Nevada's Wolf Pack goes for three in a row tomorrow night in Mackay Stadium. Cal Aggies are in town for the Pack's second conference go. Game time is set for 8 p.m.

Dick Trachok's Nevadans, fresh from 27-8 and 27-12 victories over Chico State and Pepperdine, will go into the game substantial favorites. For the Aggies it will be their first conference game. They are 1 and 2 on the season, having lost their opener to Whittier, 20-0; defeated Pacific University, 14-7; and bowed to Occidental, 13-8.

The hated gridiron insect, the injury bug, could affect the Wolf Pack's performance. Tackle Bill Daniels' thigh muscle is still hurting; John Genasci is suffering from a sore knee; Rod Cook will be slowed by an ankle sprain; and Jerry Tobin is nursing a tender shoulder. All of these men are starters and Trachok and his staff won't know until kick-off time if they are healthy enough to receive the opening nod.

Cal Aggies boasts a good-sized starting eleven but the club isn't noted for its speed. Big gun in the backfield is fullback Lon Cagle. At 185 pounds, he is supposed to generate plenty of power. He was an all-conference selection in 1955 and 1956.

Up front, the Californians are led by 180-pound end Barry Stracher and center Wes Fry, who weighs in at 210. Stracher has a fine reputation as a pass receiver.

Doing the firing to Stracher will be quarterback Eddie Evans. He will be operating the Aggies out of a slot-T with straight-T variations.

Besides Cagle, Evans will be calling on halfbacks Al Vom Steeg, 161, and John Barovetto, 185, for running yardage.

It will be another revenge game for the Pack. Cal Aggies came out on the long end of a 14-2 count last year at Davis.

Backs Don Hunt and Archie Curtis looked good in the Chico game and will probably be in a good deal of the time tomorrow if Cook's and Tobin's injuries start bothering.

Cook received the player of the week award for his outstanding running and line-backing against the Wildcats.

On the brighter side of the injury situation, big Chris Nenzel, 200-pound defensive end and line-backer from Elko, is back out this week after a lengthy lay-off with a shoulder separation.

Trachok expects to go with about the same opening line-up tomorrow night as he did in the Chico game. This, of course, depends on the injury situation.

Off their fine showing in the Chico game, such non-starters as guards John Dolan and Bob Lemmon; tackle Harry Culbert; end Elijah Green; center Terry Batchelor; and halfback Gordy Lemich are expected to be in the thick of the contest.

All-around handyman O'Neil Sanders will be set to move into Daniel's defensive tackle spot if Daniel is not ready to go. Trachok and line coach Floyd Edsall were especially pleased with Sanders' performance in that position last week. It was Sanders' first crack at the job. He has seen service for the Silver and Blue at end, center, fullback, line-backer and now tackle.

THE FAMOUS OLD LITTLE WALDORF . . . NORTH OF THE TRACKS . . . RENO, NEVADA

Fired-up Wolves Chew Up Wildcats For First League Win; Score . . . 28-7

by ROYCE FEOUR

The University of Nevada came from behind to drub Chico State, 27-8, and end five straight years of supremacy by the Wildcats over the Wolf Pack last Saturday at Mackay field.

It was the second straight victory for coach Dick Trachok's Nevada gridders, and the first win in conference competition for the season. Last week, the Wolf Pack thumped Pepperdine 27-12 in a non-league go.

Again the stout Nevada defense stopped a speedy backfield of their opponents. Chico State's "pony backfield" gave Wolf Pack fans some hectic moments but were held in check when it counted.

The hard-tackling Nevada defense—led by Jay Vre Non, Niel Sanders, John Genasci, Dick Ripley and Dan Baldini—accounted for seven fumbles by the Wildcat backs.

Fullback Rod Cook broke loose around end for a 35-yard scoring dash to put the Wolf Pack ahead to stay on the first play of the second quarter. Nevada took over on the Chico 35 after a crazy punt by the Wildcats bounced backwards into their own territory.

The Wolf Pack scored first on a pass-lateral play from quarterback Bobby Peck to end Tom Whitaker to halfback Clyde Sanders who went over from the 10-yard line for the tally.

Chico State marched down field 65 yards to score after taking the kickoff. Speedy halfback Bill Morris scooted over for the touchdown to climax the drive. The play covered seven yards.

Nevada increased its lead on an unusual play in the third period.

Wolf Pack defensive halfback Johnny Prida snatched the ball from the hands of Chico back Morris who was running downfield with the pigskin. Prida grabbed the ball, looking almost as Morris had deliberately given it to him, and legged it 24 yards for the tee-dee.

Nevada scored again in the fourth quarter when Don Hunt, freshman from Hawthorne, bowled over from the two-yard line for the final TD. Another frosh, Archie Curtis from Las Vegas, along with Hunt led the Wolf Pack scoring drive.

A Lot of Hustle . . . And A Little Luck

by GIB LANDELL

"The legs are the first to go," has often been heard when groups of athletes and ex-athletes begin discussing condition. This belief was put down recently by Dr. Steve Seymour, former national javelin champion and Olympic veteran. Seymour, who now lives in Long Beach, Calif., and conducts a hospital for alcoholics, brought out some interesting points on athletic conditioning recently in a talk to students at Whittier college.

Seymour says: "It is commonly said that the legs are the first to go, I disagree. The will, the desire to sacrifice in athletics for the sake of progress, is the first to go. The abdomen is the second to go and the legs third. The legs are the easiest to return to condition. The will is almost impossible to restore to condition."

Seymour made a tremendous comeback in recent years after a long lay-off. He found himself fat, tired and completely out of condition three years ago. He decided to conduct an experiment on himself. He wanted to see if he had the desire to work himself back into competition form. He had the desire and now as a member of the Southern California Striders track and field club, he can, on occasion, hurl the javelin out over 250 feet.

Although Seymour was not aiming his talk at track and field competitors alone, but to athletes in general, he did bring out an interesting contrast in coaching methods by two of the world's foremost track mentors. These illustrations can be readily tagged to coaches anywhere including the University of Nevada as Wolf Pack athletes will no doubt testify.

Seymour: "Dink Templeton—'You're lousy. I don't care if you did just set a world record. You better get out to that field today and practice 100 times for a change! And don't forget to practice the day before the meet.'"

Dean Cromwell—"Hi ya, champ! Do it the natural way, for that's the easy way. First thing you know you'll be a member of the Olympic team. And don't forget to rest a couple of days before competition."

Seymour believes that to the young athlete the crowd in the stands is of uppermost importance. The more matured athlete will keep both the crowd and his performance in mind. However, to a truly great athlete, his performance is the only thing. To him, the crowd is unimportant, non-important or non-existent or simply another aid in getting the job done, serving only as a source of inspiration.

"I am always surprised," Seymour concluded, "at the capacity and flexibility of the human body to achieve success. An athlete not in condition can increase his tolerance and abilities 1000 per cent—if he wants to."

Kicking off the 1959 University of Nevada Homecoming whirl Monday night is a twenty-fifth anniversary tribute to a gridiron upset that rocked the nation. It was on October 12, 1934, that the undefeated Gaels of St. Marys ran into the winless Wolf Pack in Kezar stadium. St. Marys was tuning up for a national championship clash with Fordham in New York the following week. Final score: St. Marys, 7; Nevada, 9. The 1934 club will be feted at a banquet in the Garden room of the Riverside at 6 p.m. The public is invited, men and women alike, at $4 a plate. Tickets are on sale at the Little Waldorf, Grand Bar, Southworth's, and the Riverside. Tom Cashill, who drop kicked the winning field goal, will be on hand.

Should the 1959 edition of the Wolf Pack get by Cal Aggies (or the University of California at Davis, as the farmers prefer to be tagged) tomorrow night in Mackay stadium, Nevada will be in good position for a shot at the Far Western conference title. The big road block will be San Francisco State the following week. Everyone in the bay area is raving about Joe Verducci's undefeated Gators. "Loaded," has been the warning since the San Franciscans opened camp. A Vallejo sports editor, Dave Beroni, has even gone so far as to say that State's Charlie Fuller is "better than C.O.P.'s Dick Bass." This we have to see. Nevertheless, the Pack is going to have its work cut out. San Francisco will go into the tilt a definite favorite. It will be homecoming here in Reno and the Silver and Blue should be "up." They'll have to be, but the job can be done. This we know, Fuller and running mates Hank Marshall and Ed Rollins aren't going to average any seven yards per carry against the rock-ribbed Nevada line as they did against Long Beach last week.

Selected Justices Planning To Hold Secret Sessions

Justice Higley, during the interview, said Sagebrush representatives should not be allowed to attend court hearings. When asked by Senators how the students should be informed of the court's operation, Justice Higley said she didn't feel that Sagebrush reporters should attend because names of defendants would be released to the public. This, Justice Higley, contended, would hurt people's feelings. When asked what she thought of an arrangement being made between the newspaper and the justices to withhold publishing names, Justice Higley stated that there was an integrity factor involved and that Sagebrush reporters might publish the names anyway.

Dugger

Justice Dugger is a junior student. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa and is majoring in math. Justice Dugger said he thought the student court was a good idea because the students should have a voice in discipline problems. He stated the operation of the court would relieve some of the pressure exerted on the deans.

Chest Tally Next Tuesday To Find Winner of 'Faculty Hashers' Contest

Community Chest containers will be collected from all living groups next Tuesday to determine the winners of the faculty "hashers".

The women's and men's living groups which donate the most money per capita will have their choice of a list of faculty members. The per capita system is being used in order that all living groups will have an equal chance in the contest.

Those who have already agreed to wait on tables as "hashers" are Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, University president, Miss Elaine Moble, dean of women; Samuel M. Gerald Wulk, dean of men; Richard M. Trachok, head football coach; Richard T. Dankworth, assistant football coach, and Glenn "Jake" Lawlor, head baseball coach.

Other possibles for the list include Dr. Alex D. Dandini, Dr. Willard Day, Dr. Don Wallace Driggs, Professor John Gottardi, and Dr. Willem Houwink.

"Give Until It Helps" is the theme for this year's Reno-Sparks Community Chest drive that will benefit 12 community groups in this area which also includes the Y. W. C. A. on the University of Nevada campus.

Independent Social Held at Jot Travis

Dancing, refreshments, and door prizes were on the program at Lincoln hall's social Wednesday night with Artemisia and Manzanita halls. The party took place upstairs in the Jot Travis Student Union from 7 to 9.

Some one hundred dorm residents danced to music from records supplied by girls in the dorms. The girls also donated two long-playing records for door prizes. Donuts and hot chocolate were served.

Chuck York, Lincoln hall president, mentioned that this was the first all-dorm social held in the student union. Several previous parties have been held in the University dining hall.

MUCH SMOKE, LITTLE FIRE; CONFUSION!

The study-time monotony of Manzanita hall was broken last Tuesday night as smoke-bombing pranksters struck the women's dorm.

Some sort of smoke bomb was pushed or thrown through the window of room 104, breaking the window and screen, at about ten minutes after ten p.m. Occupants of the room were saved from the broken glass by the window shade, which was pulled down. In the room were coeds Mary Bandoni, Linda Borer, and Marilyn Fletcher.

The University policeman was summoned, and came to the aid. He guessed that the smoking object was pushed through the window on a stick, and then pulled back out, since no remains were found of the bomb.

Miss Bandoni, when contacted, refused to give additional information, but offered the following statement: "Don't you dare print this!"

University Student Is Holdup Victim

"I've got a gun. Turn around and don't look at me."

These were the last words that John Cladianos, a freshman student who works at the El Rancho motel, heard before he was hit over the head "with a hard object" last weekend.

Cladianos told police that a man with a scarf over his face entered the motel office at about 3 a. m. Saturday morning. The motel is located at East Fourth street and Wells avenue.

Dazed but still conscious after the blow on the head, Cladianos was ordered into a side room while the masked man cleaned the till and fled.

Cladianos was unable to give police a description of the robber.

Still nursing a lump on his head, Cladianos recalled that this was his second such encounter with armed robbers. He was the victim of another holdup at the same place in July of 1958.

Cladianos is majoring in business administration.

New State Pact Gives Student Nurses Training

University of Nevada's Orvis School of Nursing has signed an agreement with the Nevada State Health department enabling students to obtain field experience in public health nursing.

The agreement was also the final arrangement necessary to meet standards for accreditation of the school by the National League for Nursing. Signing for the University of Nevada was President Charles J. Armstrong and Mrs. Helen Gilkey, dean of the Orvis School of Nursing. The Nevada State Health department was represented by Dr. Daniel J. Hurley, state health officer and Mrs. Ethelda Thelan, director of public health nursing.

The agreement places the facilities of the State Health department at the disposal of the school so that students may obtain field experience in public health nursing, which is a necessary part of their collegiate program.

Washoe county is expected to sign an agreement with the University in the near future so that the first nursing students will gain field experience in the county during the coming spring semester. The program will include school nursing, environment sanitation, epidemiology, clinic services, and family health services.

Students from Washoe county currently enrolled in the Orvis School of Nursing include: Marian Ceresola, Annette Ezell, Theresa Hall, Ann Prida, Mary Jane Wehe, Susan Zelis, Alice Boesen, Barbara Brannen, Louis Clark, Jacklyn Combs, Joyce Hollenback, Maureen Fulte, Janet Riddle, Amy Louise Schultz, Eugenia Choy, Wendy Freedman, Ann Thorburn and Carolyn Swinney.

Housing for Married Students Is Being Studied

Married students or students contemplating marriage who are interested in low-cost University housing are urged to fill out a questionnaire at the Student Services office in the student union building.

The one-bedroom, unfurnished apartments, will be completed by the Spring semester and will rent for about $65 a month plus utilities. Refrigerators and stoves will be included in each apartment, and a laundry room will be available to all occupants.

The questionnaire will be used to determine the married students needs and to establish a priority system for the 40 apartments, said Robert L. Kersey, director of student services.

The Student Services office is located in room III of the Jot Travis student union building.

Noted California Newspaperman To Address First Meeting of Journalists

A serious as well as humorous talk by a veteran California newspaperman will highlight the first dinner-meeting of the year Sunday of the University of Nevada undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

Henry C. MacArthur, owner and manager of the Capital News Service, Sacramento, Calif., is expected to "reminisce on California politics," according to a letter received by Don Graydon, chapter president.

A graduate of Sacramento Junior college, MacArthur has worked through his television show, a public service show in which personalities are interviewed.

He recalls having started his career at the age of 14 as a "printer's devil" with the Winters Express as a reporter with the Sacramento Union.

During his many years in the business, he has worked with the Woodland Democrat, Capital News Bureau, California Real Estate Magazine, Associated Press, Editor and Publisher; Stockton Independent, San Francisco Examiner, Oakland Tribune, public relations officer, Department of Employment, State of California; Western News Service, and Capital News Service.

The dinner-meeting, to be held at the Santa Fe hotel, will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. followed by a roast beef dinner at 7. A movie showing a brief history of Sigma Delta Chi may also be shown, Graydon said.

Pedestrian Count Is Project For Business School

How many pedestrians are on the streets of downtown Reno? One of the projects of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research of the College of Business Administration is an attempt to answer this question.

The project, which started in May, 1959, and will end in March, 1960, is to determine where the largest number of pedestrians gather downtown. The survey will be conducted four times during the year, in May, August, November, and February. An additional survey will probably take place in March, 1960 to compare the number of pedestrians during the Olympics to a regularly slow month of March.

Surveys

The surveys that have already taken place were taken in May and November by a staff of twelve persons. Forty locations were watched, and each survey lasted six days. Three times a day the locations were watched for 20 minutes at a time: 10 a. m., 12 noon, and 2 p. m.

The block in front of Harolds Club had the most Pedestrians. It is called the 100% block and every other block is compared to the street running in front of Harolds club. The heaviest pedestrian populated section of Reno is on Commercial row, running to the Truckee river. After one leaves this section the count drops rapidly. The lowest count of pedestrians was only one block away from Harolds Club, on Plaza street, one-half block off Virginia.

This and That

In comparing the two surveys already taken in May and August there is quite a difference, the survey shows. The summer is the tourist season and downtown Reno is then heavily populated. Heaviest concentration was in the gambling area and August was more populated than May. The weather had quite a bit to do with the population in the summer. Even though August was more populated than May, in the afternoons of August there were less people downtown and the ones that were there stayed on the shady side of the street.

New Student Enrollment Exceeding Previous Estimates; Facilities Taxed

A deluge of new enrollments at both Reno and Las Vegas campuses of the University of Nevada has boosted student population totals high above expectations.

University officials had based present school year operations on an estimated 10 per cent increase. However, at the close of registration September 28, the main Reno campus had a 15 per cent increase in students, and the Nevada Southern campus at Las Vegas had a soaring increase of 33 per cent, or more than triple the prediction.

On the Reno campus, preliminary tallies released by Registrar Clarence Byrd have spotted day student population in all categories at 2,551, marking a rise of 337 students and 15 per cent over last year. This includes an equivalent 15 per cent increase in full-time undergraduates, or a 293 jump from 2,214 students last year to 2,551 this year. Other categories include 115 graduate students, 133 part-time students, and 13 auditors.

The traditional undergraduate male majority over co-eds on the Reno campus—nearly 2½ to 1 last year—was whittled down substantially this year. Men students now outnumber the co-eds only 1.9 to 1.

At Nevada Southern in Las Vegas, a sharp 33 per cent increase has pushed overall enrollment to 877 students, or 219 more than last year. The rise in full-time undergraduates was even higher, 35 per cent and 103 students, making a regular population of 394. Other categories include a whopping total of 441 part-time students, 38 graduate students, and four auditors.

The evening adult study division on the Reno campus now has 562 students with registration still incomplete. This represents a 12 per cent increase over last year's total of 504 fall semester students. Registration in off-campus centers, also incomplete, now stands at 66 students.

YWCA 'Slimnastics' Course Is Offered

Women who are interested in keeping physically fit are being offered YMCA facilities for classes in "slimnastics", defensive judo, and water ballet.

The YMCA is located on Foster Drive in Reno near the high school.

Slimnastics are from 10 a. m. to 12 noon on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and 7 to 9 p. m. on Wednesday. Exercises and games such as volley ball and badminton, as well as trampoline and swimming are included in these classes. The morning gym classes are supervised by Beverly Wetzel. The swimming instructors are Myra McCue and Norma Ellett, with Jayne Mackin as substitute.

Defensive judo classes are filled at present and a waiting list has been started for the next class. John Pascek, Reno police officer, is the instructor. He is assisted by Darryl Pelizzari, security officer for a Reno casino, and Bill Daniels, a University football player.

Classes in water ballet and synchronized swimming will be started if enough interest is shown in instructions of this nature.

Instructors will be Wendy Rupp, who is majoring in physical education, and Myra McCue, a journalism student.

Miss Rupp has appeared in several local aquacades and is trained in water ballet. Mrs. McCue produced two aquacades at the "Y" and instructs women's swimming classes.

Chess Club Holds First Meeting

Sarah Jane Futch was elected treasurer of the chess club during its first meeting last Wednesday night. The other officers, president Dick Morris and vice-president Wayne Chapman, were elected last year.

The club will hold two regular tournaments this year: a class A tournament, and a class B tournament.

Prizes will be given, including an award for the women's championship given to the highest woman player. There will also be a rapid transit tournament in which all games will be played at the rate of 10 seconds per move.

Other activities of the club include a yearly match with Reno Chess club. Meetings are held every Wednesday night at 7:30 in the card room of the Student Union.

Queen Aspirants

Student judges were Dan Sobrio, ASUN president, and seven senators from men's living groups. Those present were John Heward, Sigma Nu; Roger Christensen, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Gerald Boden, Alpha Tau Omega; D. A. O'Donnell, Phi Sigma Kappa; Gene Piretti, Lambda Chi Alpha; Bob Scott, Theta Chi; and Chuck York, Lincoln Hall.

The candidates were first brought before the judges in a group and then in groups of three. Each of the women was asked a series of questions ranging from general information to preferences in the World Series. The questioning was designed to help the judges in rating the candidate's charm and voice.

Each candidate could get a maximum of thirty points from the judges. From one to five points were given for each of the six judging categories—poise, beauty, posture, grooming, charm and voice.

Homecoming

"This Is Your Life"; and Lambda Chi Alpha, "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

Intermission at Wolves Frolic will feature the announcement of the Homecoming queen.

The Homecoming Parade begins at 10 a.m. Saturday. Entrants will line up on Ryland St. and travel north on Virginia St. as far as Seventh, where the parade will disperse.

Eleven floats have been entered. Themes will be woven into an overall theme of Disneyland. Other entrants include the queen and her attendants, bands, marching groups and Nevada dignitaries. One entry the committee could not discourage is the University of Nevada's Sheep Herders club and its sheep. They will be placed at the end of the parade.

This year's annual cross-country race will be run over a new course. The winner of that race will therefore automatically set a record. The race will begin at the Sparks Intermediate school, the old Sparks high school. The new route will go down Prater Way to Sullivan Way, north on Sullivan to Odie Blvd., west on Odie, around the race track at the fair grounds to Sadlier Way. From there it travels west on Highland Ave. to Evans Ave., then to Ninth St. and into the campus. The race will end after a lap around the track.

Of the 90 who have signed up for the race, 70 are expected to qualify, and possibly 50 of these will finish.

Homecoming queen will be crowned at half time of the football game.

Tickets are on sale now for the Wolves Frolic. They will remain on sale until Friday.

Professor Injured

Dr. William Halberstadt, assistant professor of philosophy, was injured in an automobile accident near Sacramento, Calif., last Saturday evening. Dr. Robert T. Roelofs, chairman of the philosophy department, reported his condition as "not too serious."

Dr. Halberstadt sustained back injuries in the accident which hospitalized all three occupants of the car in which he was a passenger.

YERINGTON SERVICES FOR DAVID BAILEY

David Bailey, 19, University of Nevada sophomore, who died suddenly last Tuesday, was found to have suffered from a rare disease.

Although his death was first believed to have been caused by a heart attack, an autopsy later indicated that arromegaly may have been a contributing factor in his death.

Bailey acted normally from the time he had left Lincoln Hall to some two minutes before his death, his roommate said. He and his roommate, John Wynn, had left Lincoln Hall in Bailey's car and were proceeding down Evans Avenue when Bailey stopped the car and slumped over on the wheel. His roommate immediately ran to the S. A. E house for help. An ambulance was called, and George Allison and two others tried to revive Bailey. John Platanina, seeing Bailey had stopped breathing, administered baptismal rites.

Bailey lived in Yerington most of his life and had played basketball for Yerington high school.

He entered the University of Nevada in the fall of 1958 and lived in Lincoln Hall. His major was physics.

Burial was last Saturday at Yerington. Several members of Lincoln Hall and other University students attended the funeral.

San Francisco Concert

Ronald Williams of the music department has made arrangements for a student group to attend the San Francisco Opera performance of "Madame Butterfly" on Sunday, Oct. 18, at Sacramento. The full price of $6.45 includes round-trip bus fare and student-rate admission to the opera.

AWS Fashion Show This Weekend

Saturday. The price of tickets is $1.50.

The first set of clothes will be dorm and sleepwear, next will be campus and coke date clothes, and then the third portion of the show, after-five and formal fashions.

There will be an intermission between each group of clothes. During the first one Kitty Tillman is going to sing, and Roberta Barnes will present the scholarship trophies to the sororities and the AWS scholarship during the second.

Judging of the best dressed coed has been taking place on campus for several weeks by the fraternity presidents, the ASUN president, and president of Lincoln hall.

Grooming and appropriate dress are the basis for the judging. The winner need not be a "Greek". An independent won last year.

Two models from each living group were chosen. They are Stephanie Mass and Sue Rauch, Delta Delta Delta; Siegrid Neilson and Olivia Forsythe, Gamma Phi Beta; Marilyn Nelson and Brenda Higley, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Lois Rothschild and Sherry Applewhite, Independents; Barbara Rurark and Del Loomis, Pi Beta Phi.

All the clothes in the show will come from Joseph Magnin's Reno store. Muriel Sinclair, a fashion commentator from San Francisco, is being sponsored by the store.

The twelve models will make about four changes each, so there will be about 48 outfits shown.

Money taken in from the event goes into the AWS scholarship fund. This year's scholarship will be presented by Roberta Barnes during the second intermission.

The honored guests expected are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Dr. and Mrs. William Wood, Dean and Mrs. Sam Basta, Dean Mobley, Mrs. Trini Erquiaga, Mrs. Alice Terry, Miss Roberta Barnes, Mrs. Maurine Inama, Dan Sobrio, Pat Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. James McNabney, Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Wulk and Mr. and Mrs. Shirley.
