

Controversial Compulsory ROTC Program Brings Comment at U. of N.

by ROBERT DHOM

Compulsory ROTC is currently a hot issue on the larger campuses across the United States. Newspapers and magazines give wide coverage to it, and this causes more and more institutions to become involved.

A recent issue of Time magazine told of the resentment students have toward "playing doughboy with World War I machine guns." Time also stated that if the compulsory feature of ROTC was dropped, only an estimated one-fifth of the 127,000 students currently enrolled in the basic course would remain. This seems a great deal of unrest in the ROTC ranks.

A questionnaire given to all male students on the University of Nevada campus in the spring of 1958 showed that 32 per cent of the student body thought that ROTC was definitely necessary. Another 39 per cent thought that it is not necessary but is a good thing. Only five per cent thought that it should not be on campus at all. Concerning the compulsory feature, 64 per cent wished to do away with it and make ROTC an elective course. One fourth of the students polled thought that both of the two years of basic should be compulsory. Only three per cent wanted no ROTC at all.

Student Opinion

Opinions were asked this week of a number of students who either had taken basic, or who are currently enrolled in the course. The words of a senior student, Lynn

Peterson, best sums up the current opinion of the program: "The idea of the program is good and I am in favor of the ROTC, but I think that the curriculum should be revised. The courses are antiquated and the credit received does not warrant the effort required. The people interviewed did not seem to be aware of the announcement last week that the military department will change the courses to some extent next fall. Among other things the study of 'World War I machine guns' will be dropped."

The faculty and the administration are behind the ROTC program to a man. Dr. Art Broten, director of athletics, says, "With the freedom of democracy comes responsibilities to that democracy. The training for the defense of our way of life is one of the main responsibilities. I am wholeheartedly behind the ROTC."

Dr. Ralph Irwin, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, states, "There are respectable arguments for and against the compulsory ROTC program, but three hours is a little enough contribution for the defense of our country."

They all agree that it would be nice if we could do away with the compulsory part, but freshmen and sophomore students do not, for the most part, care about realizing their obligations, hence the compulsory feature.

Morrill Act

ROTC began with the Morrill Act of 1862, which stated that all institutions receiving money from land grants must provide schools of agriculture, mechanical arts and military. The act also stated that the institutions themselves shall decide whether military shall be compulsory or not.

The University of Nevada has under 3,000 students. If the compulsory part was dropped and the enrollment fell to one-fifth the present figure, the government would be pouring many thousands of dollars into the military department for the training of under one hundred men. Because of this, it seems inadvisable for this University to allow the basic ROTC course to be changed to an elective.

Student opinion ran in many different directions. Jerry Merrill, a sophomore in chemistry, said, "It

Isola Sweeps AWS Election

Diana Isola was elected Associated Women Students president Wednesday by Nevada women. Miss Isola received 187 votes to 112 cast for Billie Mae Morris in the AWS general election.

"I'm thrilled," said Miss Isola when informed that she had won. "They are both excellent girls," said Pat Reynolds, outgoing AWS president. "The students made a good choice."

"I'd prefer not to comment at this time," said Miss Isola when asked by a Sagebrush reporter as to what her plans are for the AWS next year. She promised a full statement to the students at a later date.

Only 299 valid votes were cast in the election compared to the 308 recorded in the primaries. The drop was attributed to the fact that only two groups had candidates in the general election compared to the three groups represented in the primary.

Bonnie Rae Ramos of Artemisia-Manzanita association was dropped out in the primaries. Miss Isola, Delta Delta Delta, led Miss Morris in the primary election by 32 votes. This lead was increased to 75 in the general election.

Miss Isola will not serve as ASUN vice-president if the revised ASUN constitution is approved by the students this spring. By action of Senate Wednesday evening she will serve as a Senator if the new code is adopted. Miss Isola made no comment on the new plan.

She is a junior student in elementary education. Miss Isola graduated from Sparks high school in the spring of 1957. Elko was her birthplace.

Voting was held in the upper level of the Jot Travis Student Union building. In both the primary and the general elections several ballots had to be discarded because of improper marking.

The forty per cent turnout of the some 750 women in the AWS was somewhat less than the over fifty per cent that often turn out for ASUN elections.

Campaigning for the AWS presidency was considerably more reserved—as is usually the case—than that found in ASUN primary and general elections. An election assembly was held a week ago last Tuesday, the day before the primary. Skits were presented, but no major campaign proposals were brought forth by the candidates.

Continuing through March 26, this is the poignant drama which first won acclaim for its author Tennessee Williams, who has been described by the N. Y. Herald-Tribune's critic as "the Eugene O'Neill of the present period on the stage."

As Amanda Wingfield, a woman both amusing and pathetic, with love for no one but herself, Miss O'Leary, seen last as "Florence" in "The Curious Savage," will be portraying the role which is generally conceded to have been the greatest ever acted by the late Laurette Taylor who created it in New York.

Janice Aalbu, last seen as "Fairy Mae" in "The Curious Savage," will be seen as Amanda's daughter, Laura, the lame and retiring girl who cannot bear to mix with people, but whose heart cries out for affection and understanding, like the kind she lavishes on her collection of glass animals.

Band in Sunday at Four

The Sunday-at-Four concert by the University of Nevada Symphonic Band will feature a number of new compositions for the concert band, according to Dr. John Carrico, director of bands, who will conduct the Nevada musicians on Sunday, March 20, at 4 p.m. in the new gym.

The public is invited and there is no charge.

One of the highlights of the concert, which will feature contemporary music will be the finale to Symphony No. 1 by Basile Kalinikov. The appearance of a guest reed quintet, in the style of Glenn Miller, will be heard in "Five Mellow Winds," by David Schanke. The reed quintet will be comprised of top professional musicians from the Reno-Lake Tahoe entertainment centers, including Orville Fleming, Foster Edwards, Don Crandall, Cliff Jackson, and Carter England.

The program is one of the most challenging ever undertaken by the University band, according to Director Carrico. The selections include "Arioso," Clifton Williams, "Brighton Beach," concert march, William P. Latham, "Tamerlane," Frank Rickson, "Praeludium and Allegro," Vittorio Giannini (its Nevada premiere performance), "Sakrava" H.R.H. Prince Noredom of Cambodia, "Die Nacht," Richard Strauss, "Unistrut," concert march, Don Gillis, "Five Mellow Winds," and "Symphony No. 1, Finale," Kalinikov.

Legislature Favors Money to U of N

The University of Nevada this week won a battle in the state legislature's financial war. Capital construction funds have been recommended for the University. The Senate finance committee and the Assembly ways and means committee have approved $3,896,972 for the building program at the Reno campus and Nevada Southern.

The University will receive over four million dollars over-all from the legislature, including capital expenditures and the regular operating budget, Dr. Charles Armstrong, University president, told the Sagebrush late yesterday afternoon.

Governor Grant Sawyer reversed his hold-the-line economy program and agreed on a statewide capital expenditure of $7.1 million. The governor finally approved the proposed engineering-homes building, when one-and-one-half million of when one million of the cost was to be financed by bonds. The total cost of the building will be $2,188,272 to be paid out of the general fund.

Nevada Southern

Nevada Southern will have a new science and technology building, at a cost of $657,600, and about $300,000 was appropriated for land acquisition for the southern branch of the University.

President Armstrong expects the enrollment to increase 12 to 17 per cent in the next year, therefore the building program should keep pace with enrollment.

Governor Sawyer originally cut over eight million dollars from the state operating budget and capital expenditures including that proposed by the University and approved by the state planning commission.

The money committees of the legislature had already approved the capital construction program when Sawyer announced the change in his stand. Assemblyman William Swackhamer and Senator Fred Settlemyer led the fight to invest the state's general fund balances in needed buildings. It has been agreed that over eight million will be left in the general fund after the $7.1 expenditure.

A new central heating plant will be built with the appropriation of $337,600. This brings the total to $3,896,972 committed to the University building program on both campuses.

The last session of the legislature appropriated $118,000 for the planning of the engineering build-

'Brush Editorial Comment

THE ARMY ROTC program controversy which is now spreading over many U. S. universities drew comment this week from University of Nevada students and faculty members. Because the actual issue involved has not been clearly understood, many viewpoints aired are cloudy. Coverage of these viewpoints is in a special news feature in this edition. THE CONTROVERSY lies not in whether ROTC should be offered at universities, but whether it must be offered on a compulsory basis. The problem herein is a natural one for a democracy because basic military and democratic philosophies are in opposite camps.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION through the Morrill Act, which provides for land grant colleges such as the University of Nevada requires that a military program be offered. But, it does not require that the military program be offered on a compulsory basis. This decision is left up to the universities. Of the 313 schools which have military programs, 136 are now being conducted on a voluntary basis. Recently involved in the controversy through efforts of boards of regents, university presidents and student governments are the universities of Missouri, Washington, Arizona, Wisconsin and Oklahoma, Oregon State College, Michigan State College, and the University of California at Berkeley and U.C.L.A. ROTC CRITICS are opposed to the compulsory requirement. They are not opposed to military training on a voluntary basis. They claim that military obligations required of American men today are sufficient without further imposing an obligation to study military at institutions of higher learning.

DEFENDERS OF ROTC, however, usually do not meet the controversy head on. That is, they do not openly discuss the compulsory requirement of the program. Instead, they branch into flag waving arguments about how their opponents in the debate are un-American, not interested in the defense of the country, or, as a U. S. Army brigadier general opines, "guileless cowards and panty waists."

IT SEEMS UNLIKELY that the 2,300 UCLA students who signed an anti-compulsory ROTC petition recently would fit into the general's description. The UCLA movement against compulsory ROTC is typical of student action at other universities. And, if the general and others in his camp feel that the thousands of American students across the nation, who are opposed to the compulsory requirement, are "guileless cowards and panty waists," it would seem that the army is producing some rather shoddy thinking.

WHEN THIS NATION was threatened in World War I, World War II and the Korean War, a great bulk of the American fighting men came from the ranks of college men. It is ridiculous to think that since those times the American college man's ideals have changed to the pitiful position which the general implies.

THE ODDS, HOWEVER, are pretty good that if this nation's security is again threatened, the "guileless cowards," whom the general talks about will be amongst those who go forward in the defense of the United States.

PERHAPS the DIFFICULTY stems from some of the inadequacies of the army, itself. Nearly everyone who has taken ROTC courses will testify that many of the program's training departments and methods are now out-dated and obsolete.

THE CONTROVERSY, however, is presently spreading at full force. Now that it has drawn comment from the University of Nevada community, it seems that the time is ripe for public discussion to weigh the pro's and con's. Perhaps this could be done at well-publicized open meetings between ASUN government officials, members of the campus military department, professors and others who show interest in the problem.

Campus Politics

ON THE RECORD

by D. A. O'DONNELL

The biggest free show on the Nevada campus takes place about twice a month on Wednesday evenings over in the aggie building, sometimes known as the "Cow Palace." The show? It's the Senate of the Associated Student of the University of Nevada.

Comedy, drama, and sometimes-brilliant, sometimes-ridiculous debate is there for the asking. But usually not more than about five or so students think it is worth their time to watch it.

This week's "Roman Circus" had one bedazzled spectator muttering "I've been brainwashed" as he left the meeting. Motions and amendments were popping up like groundhogs on February 2. Half the time the Senators didn't know what was going on, let alone the ones who were making the motions.

Jim Megquire, senator-at-large, was shifting gears like an Oldsmobile with the burps as he was trying to keep up with the current topic of debate. "But this is double representation," he would pop up with every few minutes during Senate reorganization discussion. His only mistake—if it could be called that—was that he was actually making a concerted effort to try to find out what actually was going on there.

Then there was that well-known conservative, Pat Reynolds, AWS president, saying, "I think Senate is fine the way it is." Chuck Dyer, outspoken Independent in a Greek camp, was trying an open-bidding approach to get enough support to change things around.

It's a constant guessing game, even for those who are regularly there for the meetings. It's sort of like the Soviet Presidium, the French Assembly, and the British Parliament all thrown into one. There can't be much reference to the U. S. Senate because the ASUN Senators haven't engaged in any filibusters yet, although some Senators are distinctly capable of doing so.

After watching—and sometimes participating in—Senate meetings for over a year, this reporter has a sneaking suspicion that some Senators meet secretly ahead of time and decide what kind of show they're going to put on.

The Soviet Presidium approach was in full blossom a year or so ago under railroading student body president Dick Bryan. Bryan was a well-liked, highly competent executive who had an un-hurving habit of pounding his gavel in a most unparliamentary-like manner to swing debate or end it entirely.

A front populaire or sorts developed in the months-long debate over the student court last semester. It almost got to a point where all an anti-court Senator would have to do would be to open his mouth and say "I move . . ." when someone from the pro-court majority would yell out "nay" by reflex action.

Something of the same sort is developing with Chuck Dyer and his progressive plans and ideas on the new constitution. It looks as if Senate will just be playing a new tune on an old fiddle as far as Dyer is concerned. As the soap operas say, tune in for the next exciting chapter next Wednesday evening.

is good training."

Allen Zeme, also a sophomore in chemistry, said, "I hate the ROTC!"

Phill Hebert, a junior in physics, said, "There are thirty-two ways to fulfill one's military obligation; why should those people who are currently enrolled in a reserve unit be compelled to take ROTC also?"

Miss Karen Thoyre, a sophomore in psychology, states, "I guess its OK if the boys want to play soldier."

Our Readers Write

EDITOR, THE SAGEBRUSH:

The fraternities on the University of Nevada campus have taken progressive and positive steps to make their initiations more worthwhile and constructive.

The fraternities which have held initiations since the revised Interfraternity Council Constitution has gone into effect are to be congratulated and commended for upholding and abiding by the Constitution. This reflects an increased strength in the I.F.C. and indicates that the fraternities are developing closer ties as Greeks and are moving closer together in fraternal brotherhood.

ALAN GATES,
IFC President.

EDITOR, THE SAGEBRUSH:

As a result of the legislation passed by Congress donating the land upon which many universities such as the University of Nevada are constructed, the basic course in ROTC is required of all freshmen and sophomore students who otherwise are not exempt for reasons such as physical disability or prior military service.

The purpose of a college education is, as you will probably agree, not the same in meaning to all individuals. I will comment upon the program in the light of what my concept of a college education necessarily must be.

I feel that the student, upon graduation, is the sum total of the experiences which he has had throughout his lifetime as well as the most important ones that he obtains in college. Many students go through life in one way or another without learning the important role that the American military service has played in the winning of the ideals which we all value and cherish. As citizen leaders, these individuals will be deciding what the disposition of the United States' military service will be.

I am of the firm conviction that the basic course of ROTC supplies the individual with a well-rounded concept of the role of the American military service, both in past periods, and future years. To be a well educated individual, I feel that a knowledge of American military history and present military missions is necessary; and because the program adds in this way to the overall background of our future leaders, I feel that it is not only warranted, but indeed an integral portion of the education of every university student.

By MARILYN KOTTER

The Spring social season got off to a roaring start last weekend as many students had what could be described as a "lost weekend."

The reason for Pi Phi's and their dates wandering around in pajamas last Friday night was not the Homecoming Snake Dance but the annual Pi Phi Pajama Dance. Nancy Thomas and Al Pagni, wearing "sleepers," won the prize for the best costume. Dancing sleepily were Barbara Ruark and George Allison, Penny Pemberton, who is leaving soon for Utah to continue her pre-med studies, and Gene Fuller, Billie Mae Morris and Tom Whitaker, Karen Decker and Lyle Damon, Lillian Mason and Don Stoker, Sallie Atcheson and Bob Armstrong, Ann Davidson and Larry Cheney, Del Loomis and Denny Hogan.

Things were quite busy last week between two men's and women's living groups. Neighbors were also bothered by a lot of loud noises. If anyone is wondering about this, ask some ex-pledges.

Lambda Chi's went Polynesian last Friday night as Renee Robertson, who was with Bob Henderson, was elected queen of their Polynesian Dance. Dancing to the beat of the island music were Pat Fitzgerald and Jeff Blake, Barbara Brannen and Devoe Wallace, Valerie Estes and Bob Echeverria, Ann Hall and Bob Ritchie, Sue Youngs and Morgan Jellett, and Jean Best and Vern Rosse.

Everyone got out his best beach-combers or sarong last weekend and got in the island-swing as ATO held its annual spring costume dance, The Coconuts. Drinking from coconuts and dancing to the bongo beat were Judy Johnson and Larry Draper, Becky Rose and Gary Machabee, Nancy Rapp and Paul Bible, Barbara Pope and Terry Markwell, Susan Lutzow and Dave Harris, Brenda Clevenger and Dwight Wyant, Barbara Coles and Bill Beynon, Lorraine Odell and Jim Whitaker, Karma Anderson and Jim Smith, Pam Rosasco and Gary Bullis, Dorothy Howell and Paul Huffey, Marilyn Cobbles and John Lauritzen, Alex Anastasatos and Boyce Burge, Janet Lagomarsino and Dave Small.

SAE's found an excuse for a dance last Saturday night as they held their annual Founder's Day Dance at the Riverside Hotel. Seen "honoring the founders" were Donna Albright and Whit Hackstaff, Sue Rauch and Pete Palzie, Robin Reese and Bob Hawkins (Reno), Gayle Beaman and Dave Bartholomew, Sue Neff and Ed Allison, Linda Smith and Bob Hawkins (Vacaville), Joyce Hollenbeck and Stan Smith, Norma Moller and Jerry Jones, Gail Weber and Jerry Harding, Tricia Hug and Jim Allison, Dilys Doyle and Bob Frenkel, Joanie Ruark and Bob McDonald, Dorthiann Cook and Tom McCann, Katie Diedrichsen and Steve Hyer, Kathy Bailey and Roger Brown, Janice Armstrong and Doug Smith.

Sigma Nu's are gaining on the Taus in the Tri-Delt house as Penny Swackhamer announced her pinning Monday night to Cliff Devine, Snake. Monday night Gamma Phi's celebrated the pinning of Julie Fountain, new pledge, to Dick Schnepfer, Sigma Nu, and the engagement of Jean Raker to Ed Montaberry.

SOCIALIZING: Tonight, Gamma Phi Beta and Lambda Delta Sigma dances; tomorrow night, Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon dances.

A driver hit a rooster along a country road. Anxious to do the right thing, he located the farmer who owned it, and said: "I just ran over your rooster and I'm willing to replace him."

"Fine," the farmer replied. "Let's hear you crow."

Lambda Chi Alpha Celebrates "Coming Off" Social Probation With Party at House

Lambda Chi Alpha celebrated coming off probation with a "gambling" party last week. The social was held at the fraternity house, where the men entertained the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The social began at 7:30 p.m. and ended at 10:30 p.m. Roulette tables and slot machines, donated by a Reno casino, were the decorations. Lambda Chi was placed on disciplinary action last semester because of "dirty" rusing. They came off probation in February of this year.

Chaperons were Professor and Mrs. Everett Harris, Professor and Mrs. Eugene Menke, and Professor James Carlson.

KOOL ANSWER

Senate Appointment Compromise Plan Approved at Wednesday Meet

A compromise plan for the appointment of senators was approved by Senate Wednesday evening. The new plan calls for the retention of living-group senators and the apportionment of college and school senators on a numbers basis.

The compromise was reached in the face of what seemed destined to be a drawn out debate over the "Dyer Plan," which called for the dropping of the living-group Senate seats, and the plan presented by Senate's constitution committee. That plan had called for the doing away with the college and school seats in Senate.

Many of the apparent problems were ironed out in private caucus sessions during the past two weeks, according to Dan Sobrio ASUN president.

The arrangement of Senate—if the new constitution is approved by the student body—will be as follows: one senator from each of living groups on campus (one for each fraternity and sorority and each of the dormitories), the four senators-at-large, one from the Student Union board, the AWS president, and at least one senator from each of the colleges and schools.

Larger colleges, such as arts and sciences, would be given additional senators on the basis of one for each two-hundred students. Under the new plan the first senator from each of the colleges and schools would be an unaffiliated student. Additional positions would be open to students who are either affiliated or independent.

The "Dyer Plan" never reached a vote, but the constitution committee's proposals were turned down in a divided vote early in the meeting.

Election of the college and school senators will be under the auspices of the ASUN it was decided. All senators will have to have at least a 2.2 grade-point average.

Pendleton Marines To Give Concert

A free concert by the Camp Pendleton First Marine Division band will be given next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the university's gymnasium.

The service band is in town to march Thursday in Reno's St. Patrick's Day parade.

Performing during the intermissions will be the university's trampoline exhibition team. The group features both precision and comedy acts.

Members of the team are students David Harris, Sydney Toleno, Donn Blake and Del Loomis.

Completing the evening's show will be a musical night club act which will be named next week.

The concert is being co-sponsored by the university's assemblies and lectures committee and a local Reno club.

Home Economics Majors Increase

The number of students majoring in home economics has increased 66 per cent since the fall of 1958, while class enrollment has increased 77 per cent. About 15 per cent of total enrollment are men.

It is now possible for students to earn a bachelor of science degree in home economics concentrating in the area of child development and family life and at the same time to meet certification requirements for elementary school teaching.

Members of the home economics sub committee act in an advisory capacity to the president of the University of Nevada in making recommendations as to policies, activities and other aspects of the program. The citizens of the state have an opportunity through this group to make suggestions and ask questions. Ten citizen members comprise the advisory sub committee for home economics.

Temporary facilities for the home management residence were explained to the advisory committee, and after the business meeting, all were taken for a tour of the converted arrangement of the home economics building.

Margaret Eddleman has been elected Delta Delta Delta's new president and will be installed Monday evening.

Other positions filled included: vice-president and pledge trainer, Patsy Lewis; recording secretary, Patsy Plumm; corresponding secretary, Patsy Jo Vieta; house manager, Charlotte Sheldon; rush chairman, Tricia Hug; treasurer, Deanna Yrueta; scholarship chairman, Frances Foley; fraternity education, Randy Leary, and activities, Jan Clements.

Models Are Wanted By Art Classes

Models of all sizes, shapes, and sexes are wanted by the art department to pose for its painting, drawing and sculptor classes.

The posing will be done in swim shorts, sun suits or leotards. Pay for the job will be $1.25 hourly.

It was noted that models need not possess Hollywood or bathing beauty figures to qualify. One art senior, Ronald J. Moroni, commented that people with near-perfect proportions are always easier to draw. A model with a less-than-perfect body offers more of a creative challenge to the artist.

The classes needing models are at various hours of the week, from 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and 1-4 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

Anyone interested should contact the department or phone extension 281.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am having a difficult time in chemistry. We are studying the chemical properties of acids, and I have become utterly confused. Can you help me understand acids?

J. Bunsen Burner

Dear Bunsen: Take two parts of hydrochloric acid and three parts nitric acid. Pour into saucer. Stir mixture with finger. Note how much shorter the finger becomes. That is due to the chemical action of the acid.

Dear Dr. Frood: I was amazed at the recent survey which proved that the poorest students were students with cars. Would you comment, please?

Dean

Dear Dean: I was amazed, too. In my day only the rich students had cars.

Dear Dr. Frood: On the level, do you smoke Luckies?

Doubting Tom

Dear Tom: On the level, I do smoke Luckies. I also smoke Luckies on inclines. And once enjoyed one while scaling the vertical face of Mt. Everest.

Dear Dr. Frood: Exactly what is the difference between adult westerns and what I suppose you would call juvenile westerns?

Channel Selector

Dear Channel: It's the horses. The hero on juvenile westerns rides a pure white horse or a palomino. In adult westerns, the hero's horse is brown, sincere, mature-looking.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am going out for the college play and have become interested in the "Method" school of acting. Could you tell me how this differs from ordinary acting?

Thespis

Dear Thesp: It is all a matter of how you throw yourself into your part. For instance, when playing "Peter Pan" the ordinary actor flies through the air on guide wires. When the "Method" actor plays the role, wires are unnecessary.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am friendly, outgoing, tolerant, athletic, well to do and a good conversationalist. Why does everybody hate me?

Hurt

Dear Hurt: I don't know why—we just do.

No one knows exactly when or where chess was invented, although it is believed that it was originated in India or China sometime B.C. Personally, I think the game was dreamed up by some wise old Chinese opium grower who wanted everyone to think he was a wise old Chinese opium grower. They probably thought instead that he must be a fool or he'd spend his time doing something useful.

About a thousand years later, some wise old Moslem noticed that all of the other Moslems were spending too much time at their chessboards, and not enough time on their prayer rugs. It was felt at the time that a good Moslem should limit his amusements to his horse, his bow and his wife (ranked in order of importance). Doubts were cast on the legality of chess, but those who felt that chess was a game of war, rather than an idle amusement, found a powerful argument in the fact that the caliphs and other assorted big wheels played the game. Chess was quickly declared legal.

Chess came to Europe during the Crusades when the Christians occasionally took time out from killing Moslems to learn the game. During the Middle Ages its popularity may have been enhanced by the fact that a knight could visit a lady in her bedchamber to play chess. (Don't let this bother you; those knights were supposed to have been disgustingly virtuous.)

During the Renaissance, changes were made in the rules of chess, making it a much faster game. The queen became the most powerful, rather than the weakest, piece. This made pawn promotion ("queening a pawn") much more important, and the rule which stated that a player could have more than one queen on the board at a time was objected to on moral grounds—this would make the king a polygamist.

Chess now has a vast literature and the chessplayer of today is able to go into ecstasies over the games of the great American played of the 1850s, Paul Morphy, who died in his bathtub. He can amuse himself by studying the intricacies of the Fried Liver Attack, or of the Noah's Ark Trap, or Philidor's Defense, (which Philidor never played. He had more sense—He let his opponents lose with it.) or the Three-and-one-half Pawns Attack against the King's Indian Defense.

International Chess Master George Koltanowski will give a simultaneous exhibition in the Student Union today at 3 p.m. The exhibition, in which Koltanowski will play 30 chess games simultaneously, will be followed by a lecture and an exhibition of blindfold chess. Anyone who wishes to oppose Koltanowski in one of the 30 games may do so, but it is requested that the players bring their own sets, if possible.

Chapman Second In Reno Matches

By defeating a former state champion and winning a "draw" with the present state champion, University of Nevada senior Wayne Chapman placed second in the Reno City Chess Championships which ended this week.

In 12 games over a period of three months, Chapman won eight, drew three and lost one. Ironically he placed only sixth in the University's tournament last year.

Next on his agenda will be to enter the state tournament to be held here in Reno sometime in April.

The first place trophy winner was Laverl Kimpton, a Reno casino employee.

Honor Engineers Tomorrow Night

Sixty students and faculty members will honor 13 graduating mechanical engineering senior tomorrow night at the Santa Fe restaurant.

George Boucher, president of the campus chapter of American Society of Mechanical Engineers, says that Dr. Everett W. Harris will entertain the group with photographic slides taken through a microscope. Dr. Harris is a professor of mechanical engineering here.

Those scheduled to graduate are Richard A. Bonci, George Boucher, Roger Brown, Harry W. Bucon, Joseph E. Corrigan, Robert Frenkel, James N. Gardner, Charles C. Gerbich, David F. Johanson, Daniel S. Mead, Jack A. Myers, John Nakada, and Fred L. Shaft.

Dr. Harris explained that some of the slides will be color pictures of chemical crystals under polarized light. Another is of one-cell water plants called diatoms. Dr. Harris began studying such subjects about 25 years ago just out of "plain curiosity."

Student Nurse Workshop Slated

The Nevada State Student Nurse association is sponsoring a workshop March 11-12 on the campus. Representatives from 13 western states including Alaska and Hawaii are expected to attend.

Student delegates will be housed in Artemisia hall. The activities will be held on the University of Nevada campus, with lectures to be given in the Education auditorium.

The theme of study will be "Humanitarian Service in a Troubled World."

President Charles Armstrong will be guest speaker at the luncheon on March 11.

Open House for University Slated for April 2; All Departments Open

Open house will be held by the University of Nevada on April 2. The event is an outgrowth of Engineers Day, which was combined with Mackay day last year, but will be part of open house this year. All of the various colleges and departments that wish to participate will be included.

In conjunction with the open house will be a high school presidents' conference. The object of the event is to show high school students what the University has to offer them in different fields.

The open house will provide an opportunity for interested citizens to see the new buildings, existing facilities, the general progress made by the University, and just what is going on in general.

University of Nevada Open House is under the sponsorship of the ASUN. A committee has been set up to coordinate the activities of the various colleges. The schedule of events should be announced next week.

The open house committee includes, Steve Heyer, co-chairman; George Boucher, engineering; Chuck Dyer, business; John Locke, mines; Sandra Brown, nursing; Bob Moncrief, music; Carol Warner, home economics; Bob Berry, philosophy; Maurica Osborne, English; Danny Winter, publicity; Clarence Slater, agriculture; Calvin Wilson, chairman of the high school presidents' conference; Alice Urrutia, president of the Nevada Pages; Lynn Peterson, Blue Key.

Gamma Phi to Initiate Pledges

Twelve Gamma Phi Beta pledges will be formally initiated tomorrow afternoon at the chapter house.

New initiates include Jan Allsweet, Marilyn Cobbley, Diana Con-ton, Diana Frugoli, Suzanne Henderson, Mary Lafond, Janet Lagomarsino, Aliceann Monaghan, Carol Pennock, Linda Pierce and Linda Smith.

On Sunday's agenda each new active will attend church with her "Big Sister." Luncheon at Eugene's will follow.

The initiation climaxes a week during which the women wore ribbons in their hair, did not speak to fellow pledges in the house, addressed actives formally and composed songs about Gamma Phi.

The 1960 Nevada football schedule has been released by grid coach Dick Trachok. The schedule has been increased to nine games, and three new teams have been added to the Wolf Pack competition. Next year's schedule is larger and tougher than the one Nevada played this year, but next year's team will be stronger as the sport of football on this campus continues its surge upward.

The Wolf Pack will play four home games and five contests away. Nevada starts its season in the usual opener against Pepperdine at home Sept. 24, then plays Chico State (away), Cal Poly (home), Cal Aggies (away), San Francisco State (away), Portland State (away) Sacramento State in the Homecoming game November 5, Humboldt State (home), and winds up the season November 19 at Colorado State.

Congratulations to Nevada basketball ace Val York being voted to the first squad on the coaches' Far Western Conference all-league team. York, a junior forward from Fallon, led the Wolf Pack varsity in scoring this season with 276 points.

No Nevada players were named to the second team, but center Chuck Walker, guard Morgan Jellett and forward Bob Lyon were chosen on the honorable mention selections.

Track coaches Dink Dankworth and Flyod Edsall were pleased at some of the performances turned in at the inter-squad meet last week. Fleet sophomore Dick Strunk won both the 100-yard dash (9.9) and the 220-yard dash (23), but was pushed by promising frosh Joe Winchell, from Susanville, who ran a close second in both sprints.

Veteran Rod Cook took first place in both the shot put and discus. Freshman Don Hunt beat letterman Bob Challender in the high hurdles. Letterwinner Joe Eberle ran a 4:45.7 mile and veteran Dave Sharpe won the two mile. Doug Ketron, freshman from San Anselmo, Calif., finished second in both the distance runs.

Junior college transfer Dave Longacre went 13 feet for a first in the pole vault, and another JC transfer, Bruce Ward, ran to a first place in the 440 with a 53.9 clocking. Frosh Tom Case was first in the 880-yard run with a 2:14.2.

Five Wolf Pack boxers and coach Jimmie Olivas participated in the 12th Naval District boxing tournament Thursday at Mare Island. Freshman Bob Lemos (119) pounds) and Skip Houk (139) fought in the freshmen division while Steve Parker (126), Joe Bliss (132) and Rueben Harney (178) battled in the varsity class.

Four other boxers were forced to stay here because of various illnesses and injuries. Heavyweight John Genasci and Gerry Hook were out with the flu bug, Lonnie Tolano was out with a virus infection and welterweight Mills Lane was suffering from a cut that required seven stitches. The cut occurred Monday in a sparring session.

Hats off to team manager and statistician George Kasunic. Kasunic has worked hard at this position for the past two seasons in both football and basketball. George, a senior majoring in physical education, was a lineman on Gordy McEachron's 1956 Wolf Pack football team, but a knee injury forced him to the sidelines. But George loved sports too much to stay completely out of the picture and he took on the invaluable job as manager and keeping the records for the Nevada varsity teams and worked behind the scenes without any glory.

Who was the number one college basketball team in the country this season? In its poll of the nation's coaches, UPI selected the Golden Bears from California, but the Associated Press says it was the Cincinnati Bearcats and all-American Oscar (Big "O") Robertson. The argument may be settled when the two teams meet in the finals of the NCAA national championship tournament.

Nevada Baseballers Prepare For Opener With Chico State

Baseball coach Jake Lawlor has been drilling a squad of about 30 players in three weeks of practice in preparation for the opening games of the season next week against Chico State.

The Wolf Pack will play a 21-game schedule against such teams as the College of Pacific, St. Mary's and Cal Poly as well as the regular Far Western Conference schedule.

Most of the games will be double-headers. The home games will be played on the University's Clark field instead of Threlkel's park as in the past.

Cold and windy weather have hampered the Nevada practice sessions, but Lawlor and assistant coach Johnny Borda hope the weather picture will change soon.

The Wolf Pack have 13 lettermen on the present roster plus a host of promising freshmen and transfers. Solid depth is at least two deep in every position and Nevada should field a strong team which will be a solid contender for the conference championship.

Included in the lettermen are catcher Bobby Peck and Jim Gardner; first baseman, Ray Shoemaker; second baseman Frank Fahrerkopf and Mickey Hart; shortstop Martin Summerbell, and third baseman Val York and Larry Lansford.

Outfielders Russ Browne, Jim Whataker and Mike Thompson and pitchers Tom Towle, Rusty D'Anna and Duane Johnson.

Among the newcomers to the Wolf Pack team are Fred Starich, catcher; Phil Bailey, Jim Krise and Jerry Shutz, pitchers; Bob Fisher and Skip Trout, first basemen; Gordy Lemich, second baseman; Wally Johnson and Jim Murphy, shortstops and Myron Carpenter, third baseman.

Ralph Petty, Dennis Rosch, Jerry Kirk, Alan Blaver and Jimmy Johnson, outfielders.

The first games for Nevada are a twin bill at Chico State Saturday, March 19.

P-O-O-L Trouble Here At TUB, Too

The trouble in River City, according to the Broadway hit musical, "The Music Man," started with P-O-O-L. According to Bill Adams, assistant student union services director, River City is not the only place with pool problems.

He noted that the recreation room in the basement of the TUB is still being abused by a few students. However, the damages are not as bad as earlier this year.

Last semester the room was declared off limits for several days as a punitive measure and necessary repairs.

Presently a deposit is required to check out pool cues in an effort to keep the damage down. Adams stated that the deposit procedure lets the office know who was using the equipment when any abuse occurs.

If students will keep the equipment in good condition, the money now being used for repairs could be used to buy new and more equipment.

Class Track Meet Saturday Morning

The strong Independents loom as heavy favorites to walk away with the annual intra-mural track meet Saturday morning at Mackay Stadium.

The meet is slated to get underway at 9 a.m.

Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega rate as the probable number two and three team finishers.

Coach Dick Dankworth's varsity tracksters will compete in the meet, but those that have lettered in track will not count in the scoring.

All events but the javelin will be held, and one relay will be run.

Each group is allowed to enter only three competitors per event, but there is no limit to the number of events an individual participant may enter.

Points will be given on a 5-3-2-1 basis for first, second, third and fourth place finishes in the respective events.

ATO is currently leading the overall race for the Kinnear Trophy in the intra-mural sports competition for the year with the Independents a close second.

The tentative Independent entries:

100-yard dash—Otis Harris, Ron Holferty and Butch Backus.

220-yard dash—Harris, Holferty and Sid Toleno.

440-yard run—Harris, Rod Black and Buddy Britton.

880-yard run—Britton, Don Hutcheson and Bob Cheever.

Mile run—Doug Ketron, Ron Pahor and Frank Hernandez.

Two-mile run—Ketron, Pahor and Hernandez.

Low hurdles—Don Hunt, Archie Curtis and Dan Dickson.

High hurdles—Hunt, Curtis and Dickson.

High jump—Bill Maraluch, Hunt and Curtis.

Broad jump—Backus, Pahor and Britton.

Shot put—Tom Cook, Bill Lickley and David Haines.

Discus—Cook, Haines and Wallace Sutherland.

Pole Vault—Bob Alfred.

Relays—Toleno, Backus, Harris and Holferty.

Wolf Pack Tennis Team Has Two Practice Matches With Sierra JC

The first of two practice matches for the University of Nevada tennis team against Sierra Junior College is set here for Thursday, March 17.

The second practice match is slated for March 26 at Auburn, Calif., also against Sierra JC.

Veterans are two-year letterman Evezich, one-year letter winners

Petroni and Gillis, and Bianchi who has one year of varsity experience but did not letter.

Brann, Mathewson, Glaser, Busey and Robinson are new members to the team.

The 1960 tennis team schedule: April 1-2, Cal Aggies, Chico State, and Humboldt State at Chico; April 8-9, Chico State, Sacramento State and San Francisco State at Sacramento.

April 22—Shasta Junior College at Reno; May 6—College of Pacific at Stockton, and May 13-14—the Far Western Conference championships at Chico.

Nevada Rifle Team Takes Second

Second place in the Sagebrush league was taken by the University of Nevada rifle team this week, with a score of 7,654 out of a possible 8,000.

Nevada's score was the highest score ever recorded in the league by a university team.

This was not enough, however, to beat the Nevada Air National Guard which presently ranks sixth in the United States.

The Sagebrush league is a meet in which nine teams compete for the championship of the state.

Three trophies were awarded to members of the Nevada team. John Hunter received a first place trophy in the expert class with a score of 1,931 out of 2,000.

Richard Dow received a second place in the sharpshooter class with 1,88½ out of 2,000.

Paul Gillespie received a second place in the unclassified with a score of 1,843.

The results of the league shooting were determined after five days of competition at the University's rifle range.

McGuire President

The new president of Panhellenic is Theresa McGuire, Pi Beta Phi junior from Bishop, Calif. Abbie Utter, Gamma Phi Beta will serve as secretary-treasurer. They advanced to their offices by rotation among the four member sororities.

Miss McGuire said that one of the primary functions of this semester's council will be to work with the IFC.

"Because each house would like to hold its individual pledge dance," she stated, "revision of Greek week is in order." Change in Greek week is the joint project of Panhellenic and IFC, with Kathy Oldham and Dave Quinn representing their respective councils.

Tri-Delt Initiates

Delta Delta Delta has 21 new actives after its formal initiation held last week.

The initiates are Brenda Clevenger, Denise Dangberg, Bev Davies, Carole L. ## Chess Exhibition Today

George Koltanowski, international chess master and blindfold champion, will perform a variety of chess skills at the Student Union building today.

His program will be in three parts, an exhibition, actual competition with students and a lecture.

To begin the afternoon of chess he will play thirty games at once against students or faculty challengers.

This will be followed with an exhibition of blindfold chess playing. He will play two games at the same time without looking at the boards.

To conclude his program he will give a lecture on chess and its techniques.

Koltanowski is the author of six different chess columns that appear in a variety of publications. He also set a record for blindfold playing when he played 34 games ing and those plans are now complete. Now that the buildings funds have been granted the building will go to bid immediately.

Master Plans

Both campuses will have master plans drawn up from air photographs with the use of $60,000 approved by the legislature.

President Armstrong said that he was very pleased with the action by the legislature. "In view of the increase in the state's revenue, it was a fine and statesman-like act by the governor to deliver his message to the legislature approving increased expenditure," President Armstrong announced.

Five-hundred forty-six thousand dollars was requested for new faculty and staff positions. The president says that it appears that the new faculty positions will be possible but not the other positions. The regular staff pay is approved.

The governor did not approve matching funds for the Travis bequest of $300,000 for an addition to the Jot Travis Student Union, and evidently it will not be appropriated. The infirmary was to find a new home here.

The expansion program of the University has received a boost from the federal government also. Planning funds for the proposed social science building were approved by the Community Facilities Administration. The $12,600 funds will be forwarded to the state planning board which is administering the new building plan. The estimated cost of the building is $1,552,400. The money for planning was received under the program of advances for public works planning which provides interest free advances for planning essential public works and community facilities.

Several departments will be moved to the new building; history and political science, psychology, sociology, anthropology, and journalism.

at once without peeking at the boards.

The program will be held at 3 p.m. in the upstairs lounge of the Student Union building. All students interested in playing Koltanowski are asked to bring their own chess boards if possible, and to be there on time.

The exhibition is being presented jointly by the Student Union and the Chess club, and is free to all that wish to come.

Playboy Dance Scheduled

The first annual Playboy Dance, sponsored by the University of Nevada Student Union, will be held March 25, from 8:30 p.m. to midnight. The entire Student Union building will be used.

The dance is to have one unique feature. On the day of the dance the women students on campus will elect "the Playboy of 1960."

Male students who are neither married nor engaged may be nominated for this title by submitting their names to the Student Union office before March 15. The winner will receive a trophy and a year's subscription to Playboy magazine.

The theme of the dance—Playboy—will be carried out with decorations from Playboy magazine, and music by Dave Hansen's Playboys.

WUS Carnival Being Planned

The annual World University Service carnival will be held Friday, March 18, from 7:30 until midnight in the old gym. The University of Nevada's campus YWCA sponsors the event annually to raise money to help the poorer countries in the world.

Different organizations on campus will operate booths for the fund-raising project. Admission will be 25 cents.

Salli Atcheson, president of the campus YWCA, urged the faculty and staff to support WUS with a dollar donation. She said, "A dollar today will buy breakfast, or a light lunch, or a pair of 98-cent nylons plus two cents tax, or perhaps a movie for one with a bag of popcorn. It doesn't do much for us, but it can still do a tremendous job in the poorer countries of the world. It will more than support a student for a day in Germany. In India, it stretches even further."

The fellow who was going to compose a drinking song never got past the first two bars.

Are these gold bars worth two more years of study?*

As a college sophomore, you're nearing the mid-point. Halfway through college—halfway through Army ROTC. Now you face a major decision: Are the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant worth two additional years of study in advanced ROTC?

That question is yours to answer now—before you register for your junior year. As you explore the facts, carefully weigh the traditional responsibilities and rewards of serving as an Army officer . . .

1. Traditional responsibilities. To meet the command responsibilities of an Army officer, you apply the leadership principles absorbed during advanced ROTC training. And your executive potential grows as you gather leadership experience. That's why employers often prefer men who served as commissioned officers. These men already have proven their capacity to shoulder executive responsibility.

2. Traditional rewards. In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. Thus the traditional responsibilities and prestige of an Army officer are matched by material advantages. For example, if you plan to marry soon after graduation—an officer's salary can be a distinct advantage. A married 2nd Lieutenant earns a minimum of $355.68 per month—plus substantial fringe benefits.

Need more information? Check with the Professor of Military Science and Tactics at your college or university. He'll be glad to discuss your decision with you.

*Last year, 14,436 sophomores answered "yes" to this question—and entered advanced Army ROTC.
