Engineering Execs Slate Reno Meeting

Approximately fifty executives representing private and public users of engineering and scientific personnel are expected to attend a conference in Reno Thursday and Friday, Sept. 28 and 29, sponsored by the University of Nevada College of Engineering and the Nevada Society of Professional Engineers. The main purpose of the conference will be threefold:

1. to review up-to-date information on recent trends in technical manpower fields,
2. to permit an interchange of ideas on subjects of technical manpower utilization among individuals representing government agencies, industry, and educational institutions, and
3. to stimulate self-analysis and follow-through on future use of manpower.

The Nevada conference is first in a series being held under the auspices of the executive office of the President of the United States, Office of Emergency Planning, in an attempt to more effectively use the engineering and scientific manpower available in this country today. Twenty-six similar conferences held since January, 1959 have resulted in the subsequent use by many of the large business firms of systems and ideas discussed.

The program of the conference, which will be held in the Hotel Mapes, will include speeches, a luncheon, and panel discussions on Thursday, to be followed by more discussions and a luncheon on Friday.

Karl Werwath, president of the Milwaukee School of Engineering, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, will address the Thursday luncheon on "The Role of Technicians as Aides to Engineers and Scientists."

Guest speaker at the dinner Thursday will be George P. Sutton, managerial engineer for Rocketdyne, a subsidiary of North American Aviation.

Panelists will include representatives from General Electric, International Business Machines, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, Deere and Company, Bell Telephone Company of Nevada, and many others.

Previous conferences have resulted in better methods of planning for future personnel needs, and have also brought about the wider use of computers to aid engineers.

A University-published brochure describing the conference states that the main object of the conference is to induce "the more effective use of engineers and scientists considered essential if we are to meet the challenges induced by rapidly changing conditions in a restless world."

Club Recruiting Set Next Week

Tomorrow is the final deadline for clubs wishing to participate in the activities parade, scheduled to be held Wednesday, Oct. 4 in the upstairs student union.

According to ASUN second vice-president Marlene Ferrari, only those clubs and organizations who have reserved a space in the lounge through her office will be able to recruit new members during the annual parade next week.

Main purpose of the activities parade is to acquaint freshmen and other new students with clubs, organizations and other activities open for membership. Different organizations participating in the parade this year will set up booths to advertise the respective activities.

Miss Ferrari is urging students, especially new students, to sign up only for those organizations in which they have the time to actively participate. She said that in past years students have signed for organizations and then failed to support them.

Psych Club Sets Speech

"Psychology as a Profession" will be discussed by Dr. Willard F. Day, assistant professor of psychology, when he addresses members of Psi Chi tomorrow night at 8 p. m. in the education auditorium.

In addition to Dr. Day's talk, members of the national honorary society in psychology will elect three new officers at their first meeting of the school year.

The business meeting starts at 7:15.

All Psi Chi meetings this year will be held on Wednesday evenings and will feature such programs as talks by local professional people, panel discussions, and films.

Meeting dates for Psi Chi during the fall semester, in addition to tomorrow night, are Oct. 18, Nov. 8, Dec. 13, and Jan. 3.

ID Cards Now Ready

Students who had their ID photo pictures taken on Sept. 11, the "pre-advisement" day, should pick up their cards today in the student union.

The cards will be available all day in the student union lounge. Students who were photographed on any other days will be notified when their cards arrive at the University.

The Office of Student Affairs is urging students to be prompt in picking up their cards, which must be accompanied by an ID photo receipt. This year, the ID cards will also serve as student body cards, saving the ASUN over $150.

Bonfire Rally, Dance, Precede Home Game

Dress warmly and come prepared to yell!

That's the word for all students who plan to attend the bonfire rally Friday in Mackay stadium.

Planned as a pre-game spirit builder, the rally will start at 7:30 p. m. in the stadium. In addition to an introduction of the Wolfpack and cheerleading, students will be entertained by the Balladeres.

The rally, being held the night before Nevada's first home game with Portland state, will be followed by a free dance in the dining commons.

Hello Dance Bit Crowded

Over 200 Nevada students turned out for this year's revised "Hello on the Hill" dance in the student union Saturday night.

It was the first year the dance had been held without a "Miss Hi" and "Mr. Hello."

Don Porter's band played for an evening of dancing that started at 9 and lasted until midnight. The dance floor was one picture of congestion as some couples found themselves fighting for breathing room at times.

"If it hadn't been for Bob Kersey, the dance wouldn't have been a success," said Joan Ruark, dance chairman.

Kersey, director of the student union, played a large part in bringing the dance off.

Members of the decoration committee were Bobby Spears, Dennis Rosch, Mike Paradis, Pat White, Jean Sadler, and Roberta Brooks.

It was an all-school dance sponsored by the University, said Miss Ruark. The next such sponsored event will be Winter Carnival.

Prof. In Finland Studies At Helsinki

Dr. Robert M. Gorrell, professor of English and one of five professors taking leave of absence under the new sabbatical leave program, is studying this year at the University of Helsinki, Helsinki, Finland.

Study of the Finnish language is one of Dr. Gorrell's objectives, so that he may learn more about the Finno-Ugric language group, which is part of the Asiatic languages.

Dr. Gorrell is also teaching advanced English composition, 16th century English poetry, and Shakespearean literature. About 1800 students study English at the University of Helsinki.

In his letters to Dr. Charlton G. Laird, chairman of the department of English on campus, Dr. Gorrell indicated his surprise at the large number of textbooks printed in English and the number of students throughout Finland who are interested in English.

At the invitation of the United States education services, Dr. Gorrell has toured most of Finland.

Dr. Gorrell will be back at the University of Nevada next fall. Included among his other travels are the southern Pacific area of the world, and he has taught at the University of Sydney in Sydney, Australia.

Dr. Gorrell is the only professor taking a full-year leave of absence. The other four professors will be gone from campus during spring semester only.

Bahai Group Is Planning Activities

The Bahai group on the University of Nevada campus is planning a number of activities to acquaint students with its aims and objectives.

Under the advisorship of Dr. Joseph H. Robertson, this organization welcomes students of any race, creed, or religion, and strives to better relations between religions of the world. The group is sponsored by the National Spiritual Assembly of Bahai's of America and also the local Spiritual Assembly.

According to group representative Faye Wilson, they will attempt to acquaint any interested persons with their program through a series of lectures, discussions, public meetings, social activities, and informative gatherings. At present, firesides for college students are held every Thursday at 7:30 p. m., at 1945 Fourth Street, Apt. 24, in Sparks.

Future plans for the Bahai's include extensive observation of United Nations Day, a lecture by Dr. Dwight Allen of Stanford University, and contribution of several books about the Bahai faith to the University library.

Frolic Dance Tryouts Today In New Gym

Students interested in dancing in Wolves Frolic, Homecoming skit competition, are urged to attend dance tryouts which will be held today, Sept. 26, between 4 and 5 p. m., and from 7 to 8:30 p. m. in the dance studio of the new gym.

Directing tryouts will be Miss Erdie Ferdun, choreographer and director of dancing in the Wolves Frolic. Miss Ferdun is also an instructor in the physical education department.

THE NEWEST ADDITION to the student union's evening concerts is Charles "Bud" Olson, a piano player who is on the job from 7-10 p.m. Wednesday nights. A veteran of eight years on the keyboard, Olson is from San Jose and a Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge.

Bigtime---A Move Up?

THE NEVADA WOLF PACK TOOK a 25-0 beating at the hands of Redlands Saturday night. It was the first game of the season, and whether it is the first in a series or the final loss of the year depends on the future.

WHETHER OR NOT THE UNIVERSITY has good or bad athletic seasons from now on depends on the scheduling, and on the policy on players. From a glance at current schedules, it would appear that Nevada is looking to outstep the bounds of a small school.

BUT LIKE IT OR NOT, the University of Nevada is a small school. Enrollment is increasing, but not fast enough to warrant a move toward bigtime athletics.

THERE ARE A NUMBER of things a small school can do in the way of schedules. It can join a small-sized league, such as the Far Western Conference, or it can begin moving up by scheduling larger schools.

THIS YEAR, THE FOOTBALL WOLF Pack plays Portland and Colorado State, in addition to Redlands. It would appear from this that things are looking onward and upward. But big-time athletics is a mighty big chunk for a small school to swallow. Nevada tried it once before and dropped it in the early 50's.

WHEN A UNIVERSITY GROWS to many thousands, then football becomes a business, and the players become separate from the student body—whom they are supposed to be a by-product of. This would be inevitable on a large campus.

BUT AT A SCHOOL the size of Nevada, big-time athletics are out-of-place. While they might boost attendance, they would result in loss of student ties with their representatives on the playing field.

THE RECENT ATHLETIC SCANDALS hitting American universities demonstrate that the field is a touchy one. Play with fire and you get your fingers burned.

A MOVE TOWARD EXPANDING NEVADA'S athletic schedules should be carefully considered in the face of student body size, area population, financial support, and possible repercussions. Nevada should think of this before it gets too big for its britches.—DB

SAE, ATO Take Softball Contests

The first round of the double elimination competition in intramural softball was completed last Friday, Sept. 22.

On Thursday, Sept. 21, the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Theta Chi 11-10, when a double by Bill Nelson of SAE in the fourth inning drove in three runs to break a near tie.

On the other corner of the field at Idlewild park, Alpha Tau Omega's nine defeated a team from Artemisia hall, 10-0.

Completing the double elimination competition on Friday were visitors Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Sigma Nu's beat Lambda Chi Alpha's team by a score of 11 to 4, and the Sig Ep's lost to Phi Sigma Kappa, 15-19.

Ronan Shifts To New Post

Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Ronan, former professor of military science and tactics at the University of Nevada, left Reno Friday for his new assignment at Fort Carson, Colorado.

Colonel Ronan was originally scheduled for overseas duty in Formosa but because of the recent extended tour of duty for present military officers overseas, he will remain in the United States.

Reflecting on the four years that he spent here at the University of Nevada, the Colonel said that he "thoroughly enjoyed it."

Replacing Colonel Ronan as the new professor of military science and tactics at the University is Lieutenant Colonel Robert Gundlach.

Boxes a Must To Get Mail

The campus post office was recently moved from the basement of Morrill hall to the downstairs of the student union building. Entrance is at the south end of the building, outside at the edge of of Manzanita lake.

Many students have been receiving mail at the window by general delivery, but this service is only available for the first ten days that a student is on campus. After this time a box must be rented or a street address given. To obtain a box, stop at the window and fill out an application.

There are approximately seventy boxes left. Two more sections have been ordered, a total of 235 boxes, and should be here in the near future. The box rent is $1.20 per quarter for the small boxes. The next quarter begins Oct. 1.

The post office window is open on week days from 9 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. and Saturdays from 9 to 11:45 a. m. Mail arrives on weekdays at 7:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. and on Saturdays at 7:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. It is dispatched on weekdays at 7:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 4:45 p. m. and on Saturdays at 7:30 a. m. and 12 noon.

Dr. Melz Recovering From Recent Illness

Dr. Christian W. F. Melz, professor of foreign languages, has not been instructing on campus this school year due to a tumor operation. He is now convalescing in his home. Dr. Melz is recovering rapidly and is expected to return to his teaching duties in German and Spanish soon.

StereoStuff

By Pat Bourne

This year Concert in Stereo has a dual objective: to present your favorite artists and compositions and to give you an opportunity to hear new concepts in music. We hope that this column will serve to increase your pleasure and understanding of each week's concert.

For those of you who are new to this campus, Concert in Stereo is presented each Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon, from 3 to 4:30 in the dining commons. Today and tomorrow we are featuring the suite from Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake Ballet and his Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor.

SWAN LAKE BALLET

For centuries the music of Tchaikovsky has been universally loved. Tchaikovsky was delighted when the Directorate of the Imperial Theatre invited him to compose the musical setting of a ballet.

The first performance of the "Swan Lake Ballet" took place on March 4, 1877 at the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow. This first performance was a complete failure, probably because the choreography and instrumentation were uninspired. The sheer genius of Tchaikovsky's composition was soon acclaimed though and the plaintive theme of "Swan Lake" has remained one of the most popular of Tchaikovsky's works.

CONCERTO NO. 1, B-FLAT MINOR

If a popularity poll were taken for the piano concertos of the world, Tchaikovsky's Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor would undoubtedly place at the top. If the pride of craftsmanship hadn't driven Tchaikovsky to print the concerto, we might have been deprived of one of the world's greatest masterpieces.

In 1874, right after he had written the concerto, Tchaikovsky submitted it to Nicholas Gregorovich Rubinstein, composer, world-famous pianist, and director of the Moscow Conservatory, for criticism. Rubinstein rudely condemned the piece as a worthless blunder, and with disdain told Tchaikovsky that if he would make radical changes under Rubinstein's supervision, he would do the honor of performing it at one of his concerts. "I won't change a single note," replied the enraged and offended Tchaikovsky, "and will print it exactly as it is now." So he did.

Leonard Pennario, who plays the piano solo of the concerto, began his career as a pianist in his early childhood, and today he is distinguished as one of the world's most brilliant young pianists. With Enrich Leinsdorf conducting the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, Pennario, in his sensitive piano solo, brings out the fluid beauty of Tchaikovsky's composition.

Claim Jumpers Out; New Books In Mine Library

Six major mining companies of the United States have combined to present the Mackay School of Mines with an important addition to its 11,000-volume mineral library, according to an announcement made last week by Dr. Vernon E. Scheid, Dean of the Mackay School.

The gift is the newly published five-volume treatise on "The American Law of Mining," first modern study of mining laws and procedures published in nearly fifty years.

Donors of the gift include American Smelting and Refining Co., Anaconda Co., Bear Creek Mining Co., Homestake Mining Co., Union Carbide Nuclear Co., and Utah Construction and Mining Co. A spokesman for one of the companies described the gift as "a token of appreciation to the Mackay School of Mines for its services to the mineral industry."

Importance of the volumes to the Mackay School will be in their availability to the legal and mining professions and to individuals, businesses, and government agencies requiring information on modern mining law. They will serve also as an instrument of the Mackay mineral education program which this year for the first time introduced a course on mining law as part of its regular curriculum.

Elections, Initiations Fill Greek Schedule

Neophytes from the eight social fraternities on Nevada's campus have commenced their pledge year with the election of new pledge class officers. Concurrently, several fraternities have been busy initiating last year's second-semester pledges.

Alpha Tau Omega recently chose Mario Peraldo, a freshman pledge, to lead their class.

Work Slow In New Office

For the information of any students who lost personal possessions in the recent hassle of registration, the lost and found department on campus is located in room 114 of the Jot Travis student union under the temporary supervision of AWS.

Last year the lost and found department was under the supervision of the YWCA, but because the YWCA has moved to the USO building at 1021 North Virginia street, the supervision of lost and found had to be changed.

Gals Go Greek, Initiations Held

Gamma Phi Beta held initiation ceremonies for three new active members Sunday afternoon, Sept. 24.

Initiated were Carol Lee Strang, JoAnn Prandi, and Carolyn Hall.

The other three national sororities on campus will be initiating their second-semester pledges within the next three weeks.

Chi Sigma, with two pledges, John Gibson, and John Fierce, had their pledge ceremonies last Monday night at their house.

Last night the Lambda Chi Alpha chapter elected a president and other officers from their pledge members. Lambda Chi's formal initiation for the second semester neophytes is scheduled for sometime in the next two weeks.

Warren Coates will serve as president of the Phi Sigma Kappa's pledges, and Ronald Handlin was elected secretary-treasurer of the class.

Five neophytes were chosen as officers from Sigma Alpha Epsilon's 35 member pledge class. Elected as president was Doug Ball; vice president, Steve Wall; secretary, Denver Dickerson; treasurer, Bill Converse; and warden, Dick Gavin.

Formally initiated into SAE last night at the Masonic Lodge were Joe Alvarez, Dick Dixon, Roy Driver, Don Hackstaff, Pat Hart, Jim Maine, and Stewart Maxwell.

This year's Little Sisters of Minerva initiated last night, girls who aid the fraternity with functions and represent it throughout the year, are Janice Crumley, Katie Diedrichsen, Sandra Hall, Pat Hoystead, Susan Neff, Elaine Piscotti, Joann Pritchard, Bev Seher, and Toddy Watkins.

Sigma Nu's pledges have voted Bruce Menke president, Tom Duke, vice president; Fred Myers, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Holloway, sergeant at arms. Fourteen new members were added to the fraternity in a formal initiation of second semester pledges last week. They are Steve Cox, John Davies, Ken Doyle, Mike Henderson, Ralph Herman, Dick Juanilla, Paul Nelson, Bruce Pendleton, John Peterson, Jim Soudin, Bill Schilling, and Pat Williams.

President of Theta Chi's new pledges is Bob Bozeman. Four members, initiated Friday night at the house, are John Bromley, Fred Mitchell, Dave Morgan, and Troy Williams.

ASUN Elections Set In October

Next Wednesday, Oct. 4, is the final filing date for students making nominations for freshman class president, AWS representatives, and senators from the College of Arts and Sciences and Mackay School of Mines.

To be eligible for any of these positions, a candidate must have a 2.2 overall grade point average.

Nominations may be filed in the ASUN office for the primary elections Oct. 11. General elections will be held a week later, Wed., Oct. 18.

Full-time freshmen students may file for the office of freshman class president and AWS freshman representative, providing they have an overall high school average of 2.2.

A new office on the ballot this year will be off-campus non-affiliated AWS representative. Nominations for this position may come from any class, and the elected representative will serve as a voice for those women who do not live in the dorms or the sorority houses.

Candidates seeking the office of senator from Mackay School of Mines must be non-affiliated. Either an affiliated or a non-affiliated student may file for Senate's representative from the College of Arts and Sciences.

Inside The Huddle

The University of Nevada football team will try to get back on the winning track this Saturday night when they meet the strong Portland State Vikings. This will be basically the same team that beat the Wolf Pack last season, 14-7.

Former Wolf Pack Coach Hugh Smithwick, who is now head mentor at the Portland school, will be here with plans to duplicate last year's win over Nevada. He has 19 returning lettermen, including his entire starting backfield, and again the Wolf Pack will be outweighed on the line. The Pack will be out to erase the memories of last year's loss to the Vikings, and also last Saturday's showing against Redlands.

Thumbnail Sketches of Your Wolf Pack:

—Defensive halfback John "Antelope" Prida is a 180-pound senior from Lovelock. John is majoring in physical education and will be wearing number 43.

—Quarterback and defensive halfback Jack Renwick is a 180-pound junior from St. Mary's, Penn. Jack attended Bakersfield J.C., and is majoring in nuclear engineering. He'll be wearing number 14.

—Guard Frank "Battler" Nenzel, a 190-pound senior from Elko, is majoring in physical education. A Marine veteran, Frank will be wearing 64.

—Halfback Calvin Campbell is a 169-pound junior from Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, by way of Bakersfield J. C. Cal is a Navy veteran majoring in elementary education. Look for number 21.

—End Rick Miles is a 185-pound sophomore from Walnut Creek, Calif., majoring in physical education. Rick will be wearing number 87.

Wolf Pack Smothered 25-0

The powerful University of Redlands Bulldogs uncorked their rushing and passing strength to good advantage Saturday night and blanked the Nevada Wolf Pack, 25-0. The game, held in southern California, was the season opener for Nevada.

Redlands, picked as the best grid team in the Southern California Conference, scored 10 points in the second quarter and wrapped it up with two touchdowns in the final period.

The Pack threatened late in the second period, when quarterback Bob Alfred nearly shook Gary Sullivan loose with a long aerial.

Nevada mounted a third period drive from the Bulldogs' 40 yard line, but after moving to Redlands' 28, was pushed back by two consecutive major penalties. Infractions for a personal foul and illegal use of the hands made it third and 40, and the Pack had to give up the ball.

A stout Redlands defense, led by sturdy, 265-pound tackle Harvey Hyde, held the swift Pack running backs, Calvin Campbell and Bobby Herron, to short gains throughout the evening.

Redlands fullback Leroy Morkre bulled over from six yards out to put his team on the score board in the second quarter. Chaney passed to Phil Passno for a two-pointer and an 8-0 advantage.

An early fourth quarter drive by Redlands resulted in another touchdown when Chaney passed 14 yards to Carl Kramer, and then hit Passno again with the conversion, running the score to 18-0, Redlands.

Nevada's Roger Severson intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter by 6-4 tackle Steve McDowter, but again the Wolf Pack couldn't take advantage of a major break. Later in the quarter, Redlands' Bill Sandstorm intercepted an Alfred aerial, setting up the final tally of the game. Tom Mann passed 18 yards to Don Robben and Fernand Martinez kicked the extra point to close out the scoring at 25-0.

Later in the period, Alfred's punt was blocked through the end ell, to run the score to 10-0. A third quarter pass by Pack quarterback Jim Cawiezell was picked off by Redlands' Dennis Casino, and the host club was on the move again as the quarter ended.

Next week, Nevada will return home for the first regular season game at Mackay Stadium, hosting Portland State. Redlands, with an unblemished 2-0 record, will meet Arizona State at Flagstaff.
