

Vickie Smith Named Military Ball Queen

A 19-year-old sophomore was crowned Queen of the 34th annual Military Ball Saturday night at Mathisen's hall.

She was Vickie Smith of Elko, representing White Pine hall. Miss Smith, a 5-foot-8-inch red-haired, blue-eyed, art major, was crowned by Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, University president.

Miss Smith was also awarded the honorary rank of cadet colonel.

In another Military Ball ceremony, Andy MacKenzie, 21, of Yerington, was named cadet colonel and commander of the ROTC brigade. MacKenzie, a political science pre-law major, is president of Alpha Tau Omega, and a former junior class president.

A Distinguished Military Student, he is a member of Blue Key, Coffin and Keys, UNCOC, and the Sundowners.

Miss Smith received the traditional saber, a dozen long-stemmed roses, and the queen's crown after Bob Lee read the order making her honorary colonel.

Her attendants, who were made honorary captains, included Suzanne Glenn, Manzanita hall; Peggy Hayman, Gamma Phi Beta; Rosemary Lituania, off-campus independents; Judy Schmidt, Delta Delta Delta; Sally Shank, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Andree Walker, Pi Beta Phi.

Her hobbies include horseback riding and outdoor sports, while she is interested in fashion design and modeling.

MacKenzie will command the ROTC brigade for the remainder of the 1962-63 school year.

Other intermission events included the presentation of a "Fabulous Award" to Col. Robert L. Gundlach, professor of military science. The award consisted of a deer skin, covered with a map of the world, and notations that described the colonel's career. The award was presented for UNCOC by Ralph Madsen.

The Town Pipers presented 15 minutes of intermission entertainment, courtesy of the Holiday hotel.

Following the announcement of the queen, senior cadets and their dates followed the queen and her attendants through the saber arch to a waltz. The waltzing, however, was interrupted when hundreds of balloons, some containing the 150 prizes from local merchants, were dropped on the crowd.

Dance music was provided by Paul Jones and his ten-piece band for the capacity crowd that jammed the hall.

The hall was decorated with large, white, floor-to-ceiling pillars, orange- and white parachutes, a large American flag, military insignia, and shrubs from a local nursery.

Guests were met at the door by the drum-and-bugle corps, and by the Sierra Guardsmen, the University drill team. The Guardsmen parked cars for guests, and later performed during intermission.

Guests included Dr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong; Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Young, executive vice president of the University; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Jack LaGrange, state adjutant-general; and Col. and Mrs. Howard Haberman, commander, U. S. Army military district, Nevada.

Wayne Kollodge, UNCOC president, and Richard Benson, military ball chairman, co-ordinated the activities of various committees, including: decorations, Bob Henderson; flowers and corsages, Steve Heyer; publicity, Doug Buchanan; Harvey LoSasso, admissions; and Andy MacKenzie, entertainment.

Union Supports Synanon Concert

An organization aimed at the rehabilitation of former narcotic addicts — Synanon — will present a jazz concert on campus Dec. 4 under the auspices of the student union.

The student union board approved a proposal from a Mr. Haimer, representing the group, at its regular meeting last week. The organization will send a jazz band to put on a concert and a discussion.

The board, after approving the appearance, OKed a proposal by Clark Santini to charge fifty cents per person, and split the proceeds between the United Fund and Synanon.

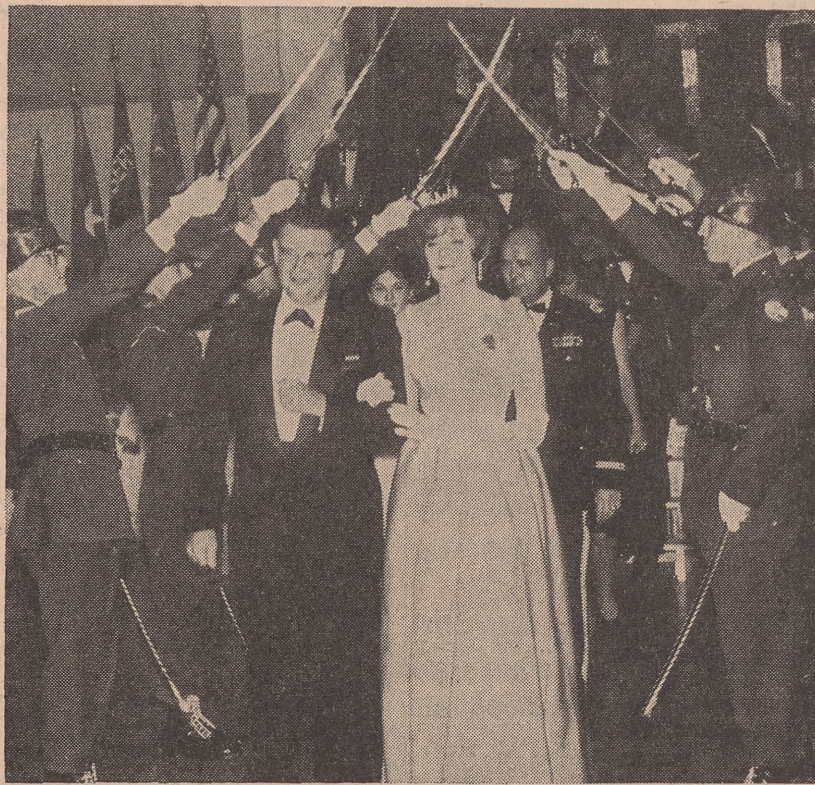

In other action, the board:

—Tabled a move to inquire among students for their opinions on evening operation of the snack bar.

—Turned down a request of $300 for the military dept. for support of the drum and bugle corps.

—Heard a letter from the "Highwaymen" singing group, informing them that the group will not perform at the University. An explanation is being sought.

Library Survey Results Released

The results of last spring's student library survey were released last week by Ron Watson, chairman of the ASUN library committee.

A total of 1110 students answered the survey's five questions, with the most response coming on one concerning extended library hours.

Seventy-nine per cent wanted the library open Sunday-through-Thursday until 11 p. m.; 49 per cent until 11:30 p. m., and 37 per cent until midnight. Ninety-two per cent said they would use the library during the extended hours.

Other answers included:

—79 per cent for smoking in certain areas of the library; 25 per cent against smoking.

—89 per cent did not mind the book-checking station; 11 per cent did mind.

—65 per cent said tours should be available, and 58 per cent said they would take a tour.

OKs Upperclass Budget

Minor items that came before the last meeting of the finance control board included:

—Approval of a $40 budget for the Men's Upperclass committee.

—A report from Tom Seeltger, ASUN first-vice president, on the printing of a booklet that describes the use of student funds, the purposes of Finance Control board, and bookstore operations.

—Presentation of a retirement plan for full-time ASUN employees by Seeltger.

Solons Discuss Men's Upperclass, Senate Agenda

The senate steering committee met Sunday night to discuss items which will appear on senate's agenda in the future.

Up for discussion was the recently reorganized Men's Upperclass committee. Ideas as to the purpose of the committee were brought up. The committee will issue a statement of purpose sometime this semester.

The steering committee also voted to ask for an investigation of the possibility of a constitutional amendment to change senate quorum requirements. ASUN President Mike Mackedon brought up the issue because of "lack of attendance and ineffectiveness."

Student library conduct was also discussed. It was pointed out that a lack of etiquette and courtesy on the part of students exists in the library and the adoption of a code was suggested to encourage library manners.

Present were committee members Ken Clayton, Keith Lee, Jaci Chiatovich, and Larry Struve. Also present were Mike Mackedon, Dick Armuth, and Bill Mortensen.

University's Sign Returns To Post

The University's redwood sign is due to re-take its position at the Ninth and Virginia corner soon with the renewed backing of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The sign, donated to the University last Mackay Day by the Nevada's fraternities at a cost of $350, was knocked and sawed-off of its wooden legs over the Homecoming weekend Oct. 27-28.

It was found a week later in a Reno alley, and was taken to a University repair shop.

The sign was the University's only on-campus identification.

The IFC voted to support restoration costs after a proposal by council president Harry Walters at its last meeting.

No one is taking chances on sign bandits with saws this time, however. This time the legs will be made of iron, and will be set in concrete.

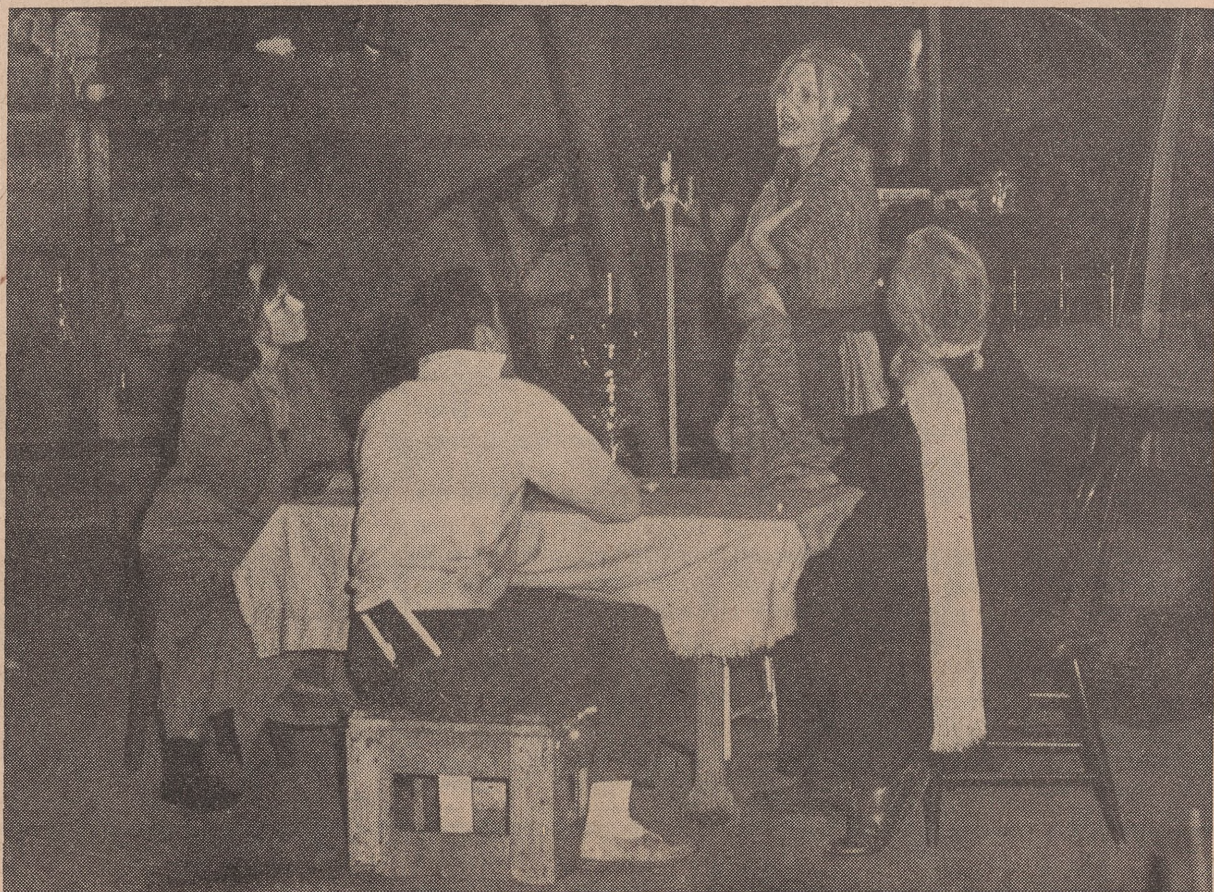

Symphonic Choir Presents 'Elijah'

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was presented Sunday at 4 p. m. in the gymnasium by the Symphonic Choir and Orchestra of the University of Nevada.

"Elijah", long considered Mendelssohn's masterpiece, was sung by the hundred voice choir and various soloists, with the accompaniment of Nevada's fifty-piece orchestra.

The role of Elijah was sung by William Carr, local baritone. Other soloists included Mary Clarke, soprano; Shelby Squire, contralto; and George Lundgren and Joe Battaglia, tenors.

Sagebrush Editorials . . .

Thanks go to John Sanford, editor of the Reno Evening Gazette, for saying last Thursday what neither this newspaper nor most Nevada students have had the guts to say.

That is—that the idea of moving Mackay stadium is nonsense.

He's right, too.

The proposed stadium move ties in brilliantly with other University planning gems, such as putting a monstrous, modernistic library in the center of old-style, Greek-column architecture, and of virtually eliminating the need for Manzanita lake as a campus beauty spot by building the campus right up to the edge—and over it.

With the nation crying for lack of physically fit citizens, students are taken care of with a fine physical education program—and they'll need it. If the trend toward compression of the campus continues, students will need the new athletic complex for routine exercise.

A few years back, the University of Nevada enjoyed the reputation of owning a beautiful campus—and justified it. That reputation appears in danger, as concrete and brick transform "the hill" into "the slab."

And the trend continues, even though abundant land is available for expansion north of campus.

The planners must figure that moving the stadium is progress—because the move is a change; progress involves change, and thusly, change is progress.

This is known in philosophy as the fallacy of composition—and indicates that, while the planners might know their planning, they don't know their philosophy.

GDI Constitution Up for Vote Soon

The Independent Council will attempt to ratify its constitution at an open meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 7 p. m. in the dining commons.

The Council, which already has one advisor, hopes to have two more by Nov. 28, according to president Doug Bruckner. Miss Roberta J. Barnes, assistant dean of women, is the Council's advisor at this time.

The meeting, which will include a discussion period in addition to scheduled business, is open to all independents, Bruckner said. A fund-raising project will be one of the discussion topics.

If its constitution is ratified, the council hopes to become a chartered ASUN group.

New WRA Games Underway Today

The Women's Recreation Association starts a new form of competition today with mixed doubles for badminton and tennis getting underway. Darrell Shone, a freshman, is co-ordinating the activities.

Shone was named manager of the badminton-tennis program at the last WRA board meeting.

Other WRA activities of the moment include:

—A nominating committee that was named at the last meeting. The group will submit nominations Dec. 11, with elections scheduled the following week.

—A basketball demonstration game scheduled for Dec. 1. Other plans include a sports day and a clinic in the new gym.

Library Head Thanks ASUN For Fund Offer

Mr. Mike Mackedon, President Associated Students of the University of Nevada Dear Mr. Mackedon:

Both Mr. Seeliger and Mr. Watson have told me of the action of the Finance Control Board approving Mr. Watson's request for funds to keep the Library open an hour later than its present schedule Sunday through Thursday.

First, please accept our thanks for this very concrete expression of interest in the Library and its services.

Second, it is a please to be able to tell you that President Armstrong has been much impressed by the ASUN's action in appropriating funds for extending library service and that he has authorized the expenditure of University funds to be spent for an extension of hours so the burden will not have to be borne by the ASUN.

Because the Library has been the recipient of several supplemental appropriations this year I had been reluctant to ask President Armstrong for this money. However, now that the need has been brought to his attention he has indicated that he believes this to be a university responsibility and he is providing the necessary money out of his general contingency fund.

The Library began Sunday night, Nov. 19, staying open for study until eleven p. m.

If its use during the additional hours is sufficient during the remainder of this year, we will do our utmost to maintain them in the future.

Please convey my thanks and that of the Library staff to the Finance Control Board for its action.

Sincerely yours,
DAVID W. HERON

Hall Talk Was Leftist Says Local Bircher

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Mr. Clark Santini's recent letter in Sagebrush stated that a local member of the John Birch society felt that the presentation of Mr. Irving Hall in the Spring of 1962 was the most fair presentation which she had heard. This letter is addressed to you lest other students at the University of Nevada develop the misunderstanding that the John Birch Society membership favored the presentation of Mr. Hall.

One of the characteristics of debaters who adhere to the communist line is that they do not address themselves to the subject, but use the speaker's platform as a sounding platform for the expression of other communist objectives. This, of course, may also be a characteristic of undisciplined debaters.

Referring, then, to Mr. Hall's address, it should be noted that he expressed the following points of view, all of these points of view being consistent with communist objectives:

No. 1. Hall praised J. Edgar Hoover while at the same time discrediting the FBI.

No. 2. He made reference to the writings of Alexander Meiklejohn, former President of Amherst University. This man has espoused extreme left wing causes for a period in excess of 36 years.

No. 3. He discredited Senator Eastland and the entire state of Mississippi, but failed to provide a rational argument.

No. 4. He declined to answer

Letters to the Editor

whether he will or will not take the 5th Amendment if asked about communist affiliation by a duly constituted Congressional or State investigating committee, and discredited the House Committee on Un-American Activities at the same time.

No. 5. He used the familiar left wing tactic of discrediting the police who were present at the communist-led riots in San Francisco in May, 1960, and accused the police of provoking the riots.

No. 6. He referred to a book en- (Continued on Page 3)

Report Shows Union in Black

Thanks to its unencumbered cash balance, the Jot Travis student union came out ahead in the 1961-62 fiscal year, even though expenditures outdid receipts in the union operation.

The union spent $2,491.45 over its income during the 1962 spring semester, but part of that deficit was absorbed by a profit made during the previous fall semester. The remainder was absorbed in the cash balance, reported Doug Ketron, a director of the student union board.

The union's total income jumped from slightly over $29,000 to $34,800; but expenditures rose from a profit-shaded $25,700 to a red-ink $35,900 during the year.

The snack bar's income rose from $72,800 to $75,200 during the year, while expenditures increased only a slight 0.4 per cent, from $71,500 to $71,800.

Student union expenditures broke down this way:

Salaries, $3,326; travel, $2,550; supplies, $455; student help, $11,181; equipment, $865; repairs, $449; programs, $8,652; miscellaneous, $946; and utilities, $7,483. Total—$35,911.84.

Absorbed in the cash balance, this left a surplus of $29,975.07, Ketron reported. The travel expense was unusually high, he said, because of the Trek-Nik buses, for which the union was later reimbursed.

titled: "THE UN-AMERICANS" by Frank Donner, an identified Marxist-Leninist. This book was written as part of the communist attack on the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The above is an incomplete listing, but should suffice to show how many of the audience, including most of the John Birch Society local members, recognized that Mr. Hall most definitely did not provide a "fair" presentation about the riots in San Francisco.

'Dwellers' Result Of Much Effort

Some little known facts about the cast, characters, and crew of last week's campus play, "The Cave Dwellers," included:

The costume for Gorky, the bear, was an actual bearskin valued at $500 which cost $75 to rent. It was so heavy, that while other actors shivered, Gorky's undersoul, Jim Bernardi, wore a red and white striped headband to keep perspiration out of his eyes.

Set and lighting effects were the work of technical director Bob Ware, who also played two parts in the production.

Director Robert Strane and the cast worked weekends and until 3 a.m. Tuesday. Judy Garwood, who portrays the Queen and spends much of the play in bed, held up production momentarily when she missed her cue because she had fallen asleep.

These are the cast and crew.

Room 624 of the Riverside Hotel was the center of the post-Military Ball activity Saturday night. Trouble was the management didn't know that the suite was to be used for a cocktail party. It seems the party goers found it embarrassing when they found the three beds in the room turned down.

It has come to the attention of this roving columnist that the Dean of Women and the AWS judiciary council should take a closer look at the activities of two female ducks on Manzanita Lake. It seems that since these females reside on campus and eat the University algae that they should at least be subject to hours rules.

The female white waterfowl are presumably freshman since they weren't here last year. They're presumably out-of-staters since they don't pay the tuition fees. They certainly are not in by eleven o'clock on weeknights. And to add gas to the bonfire, their conduct with the opposite sex is not becoming that of a Nevada duck. Yet, day after day, the white ducks carry on in front of the Dean's office, the campus cops, and the university engineer.

Snakes "Regress" At Annual Event

The Sigma Nu boys went back to the days of their high school glories Nov. 10 when they staged their second annual "Regression Day."

The day was full of wholesome activities, including a morning of hubcap removing and pin-stripping of cars, followed by a big drag race at dry lake north of Stead AFB.

Winners were Bob Hamilton, top eliminator; Jack Wright, middle eliminator; Doug Fletcher, little eliminator; and Ted Stoeber, Volkswagon.

After the drags, the fellows "cooled the main" in true high school style, then journeyed to Idlewild Park for a car show and refreshments.

Car show winners were: Jim Sawdon, "Coolest Paint Job," and "Biggest Rake"; Charles Bogue, "Toughest Interior;" Gary Robb, "Loudest Pines;" Bob Capurro, "Most Chrome on Engine;" and Dave Gardiner, "Best Name."

Ski Team Works On Conditioning Before Opener

Nevada's ski team faces a grueling workout schedule before the ski season begins. The Wolf Pack has only four returning lettermen but 17 other men are trying out for the team.

Returning Wolf Pack skiers are Mike Brunetto, Lance Gotchey, Bob Kean, and Dave Small.

Ski coach Shelton Leonard, back after three years absence, said the training is grueling but necessary to get the squad in top physical condition before ski season begins.

The Wolf Pack has a full schedule this season. Top items on the agenda are the 1963 Winter Carnival and the NCAA nationals.

Leonard expects the roughest competition from Chico State, Sierra College, and the Universities of Colorado, Denver, and Washington.

Aggressors Lose Again In Second ROTC War

Harry Culbert's "Aggressors" came out on the short end of things again last Friday as they were soundly defeated in a two-part campus war by Les Armstrong's "good guys."

Dressed in genuine aggressor-style uniforms, Culbert's men died first in the face of overwhelming fire-power before over 300 students in front of the student union.

Then, the battle was repeated for television, with the same results.

It was the return engagement of a two-day battle, with the first session being fought Wednesday. Culbert, however, was unsuccessful three times in a row.

The battles were fought to publicize the 34th annual Military Ball.

Sigma Nu Leads Cage Standings

Standings in the double-elimination, intramural basketball tournament show Sigma Nu leading with two victories, followed by Alpha Tau Omega, Lincoln hall, and Lambda Chi Alpha with one victory each.

In Thursday night action, Lambda Chi overwhelmed Phi Sigma Kappa, 29-21. Lambda Chi Barry Miller was high with nine points.

Alpha Tau Omega scored an impressive 31-26 victory over Artemisia hall, even though Denny Kidwell of Artemisia scored 11, followed by ATO Kirk Kinne with 10.

Sigma Nu fought off a fighting Newman club team for a 39-33 victory. Charles Bogue with 14 and Jan Packwood with 12 were high men for Newman club, while Sigma Nu Fred Valine scored 12.

Last Wednesday, the Mavericks forfeited to Sigma Nu after scoring an easy victory. Non-matriculated student played on the Maverick team in violation of intramural play rules.

No games are scheduled this week. Action resumes Nov. 28 when the independents play Lincoln hall. Sigma Phi Epsilon will see its first action in the second game against Lambda Chi.

Nevada Upsets Strong Idaho State 14-7

By BOB MEADE
Sagebrush Sports Staff

A hard-hitting Nevada football team ended Mackay Stadium football history on a memorable note, surprising a powerful Idaho State team 14-7 in an old-fashioned thriller Saturday.

A 70-yard pass play from Jack Renwick to Fred Williams, powerful running by Jock Echave, Tony Manguso, Cal Campbell, and Ray Del Turco, and a run-stiffling defense netted Nevada the big victory. The powerful Idaho State Bengals gave the Nevada fans some anxious moments with two brilliant goal stands, and some fine running by fullback Bill Jencks.

The first period featured fine defensive play by both clubs, with the Wolf Pack mounting the only threat of the quarter. After an interception by Tony Wheeler late in the period, the Pack drove from their own 40 to the Idaho 35, mainly on the strength of Jock Echave's running.

The Bengals halted the drive at that point. Early in the second period, following an Idaho punt, Renwick, behind excellent pass protection uncorked his long toss to track star Fred Williams. Williams grabbed it at the Bengal 40, and outraced the Idaho defenders to the end zone.

Renwick's first attempt at the conversion went wide, leaving the score Nevada 6, Idaho St. 0.

Following the kickoff the Wolf Pack regained possession on a punt, and promptly marched 57 yards to their second TD.

Tony Manguso roared 31 yards on a trap play to the Bengal 22 to highlight the drive, which ended with Cal Campbell thrusting the ball into the end zone after circling right end. A Renwick pass misfired on the conversion attempt and the Wolf Pack staved off a last-minute Idaho threat to hold a 12-0 lead at the half.

The second half saw two Nevada drives stopped at the one-yard stripe by the massive Idaho line. The first of these drives was set up on a brilliant run by Cal Campbell who raced 54 yards to the Bengal 31 before Nick Yorges nailed him from behind.

The Idaho team made the scoreboard in the final period on some hard running by Bill Jencks who crashed over from the 1 to cap a 55-yard march. Andy Minda converted and Nevada held a slim 12-7 margin.

The Wolf Pack closed out the scoring in the last minute when, after a Bernie Cotton interception gave Nevada a scoring chance at the Bengal 4, the Idaho defense again held.

On first down for the Bengals Bill Shaw, attempting to pass, was rushed by the Pack line and intentionally grounded the ball in the end zone resulting in an automatic safety and giving Nevada a stunning 14-7 upset victory.

An eight-girl Women's Rifle team is preparing for match competition at weekly practices held each Monday night in the rifle range at 7 p. m.

Under the direction of Sgt. Robert Maxey, the coed sharpshooters will travel to competition with the University of California at Berkeley and at Davis later in the year. They are also training a Girl Scout troop.

Maxey said experience is not necessary, and that equipment is provided. New members are taught by experienced shooters, he said.

San Francisco strider Craig Spillman led the rest of the FWC runners to the rope. His Golden Gator teammates backed him up by scoring only 48 points in a contest where the low scoring team was the winner.

The point scores on this, the final meet of the season for the Nevada harriers were: San Francisco State, 48, Sacramento State, 55, Chico State, 61, Nevada, 79, Humboldt State, 112, and no scores were available for Alameda State and the Cal Aggies who finished sixth and seventh.

AWS Rules Remain Firm

The AWS judiciary council answered queries about the firmness of its rules and regulations last Wednesday when it imposed three "campuses" on coeds for violations.

The penalties included a one-week campus for signing in a day late following an overnight; a six-day campus for a coed who forgot to sign out on an overnight; and a weekend-night campus for failure to sign out on an overnight.

The actions followed criticism by members of the council that women students, particularly freshmen, are not taking AWS hours seriously, and demonstrated that a booming social life can be brought to a quick simmer by a moment of forgetfulness.

The council meets weekly to consider cases involving anywhere from two-to-ten women who have violated AWS regulations. The cases can include:

- Women who have come in more than 30 minutes late.
- Women who have not signed in or out properly for overnight.
- Women who have been late more than four times.
- Women who wish to waive a campus.

Other recent AWS penalties include:

- Two nights additional campus for a coed who broke her campus.
- A three-week campus for being 45 minutes late on a night students worked on Homecoming floats.
- A five-week campus for being one hour, 58 minutes late on the same night.
- Two campuses to two women who were 35 minutes late the same night.

A campus starts at 8 p. m. and Officers Sought

An Air Force officer selection team visited the campus last week to explain the Officer Training program to seniors and graduate students.

The aviation cadet program and officer training programs in the nurse and medical specialist corps was also discussed by the team.

Debate Squad In Holiday Tourney

The University's debate teams will travel to San Fernando State college over Thanksgiving vacation to participate in the Southern California Forensic association tournament.

Approximately 400 teams are expected to attend, with six students from Nevada scheduled to enter competition. They are Ken Muller, Gene Lane, Larry Hutchings, Barbara Hardin, Art Broten and Larry Struve.

Dr. Robert S. Griffin, chairman of the speech and drama department, is the debate coach.

Eight other tournaments are scheduled for the coming year. They are with the University of Redlands, College of San Mateo, University of Arizona, Linfield College, University of Washington, Montana State university, and Dartmouth college.

The national debate topic is: "Resolved: That the Non-Communist Nations of the World Should Establish An Economic Community."

The Commissioner of the General Land Office issued a circular in 1855 that contained the general directions and instructions for timberland protection.

Plans For Male Choir Take Form

Plans for the formation of a mens' choir on campus are rolling, with Dr. Keith Macy, chairman of the music dept., formerly announcing that the idea is underway.

Macy made the announcement last week.

The choir will be directed by Ed Houghton, now an asst. choir director. Houghton is a graduate of Rutgers, and the director of a Rutgers' choir that toured southern California two years ago.

That choir produced a song album that is now being played on the College Bowl quiz show.

"Singing is hard work, and in this organization, I want to see men who are willing to work for quality," said Houghton.

Interested men may stop at Houghton's Fine Arts building headquarters (room 101) today between 11 a. m.-noon, or at the same time next week, on every day but Wednesday.

Houghton said the choir can number anywhere between 12 and 60 men.

Fellowship Available For Research Project

A $1,000 fellowship award for personnel research in the fields of college recruitment and placement was announced by W. E. Rasmussen, campus placement director.

The Vera Christie Graduate Fellowship, has been established to encourage research in the philosophy, standards, practices, and objectives of recruitment and placement.

Any one interested in applying for the fellowship may obtain full details from Mr. Rasmussen in the Clark Administration building.
