Anti-Communist Leader Will Speak Thursday

Australia's anti-communist physician, Dr. Fred Schwarz, will speak to Nevada students and the general public Thursday night in the New Gym. His topic will be "The Communist Blueprint for the Conquest of the United States."

Although students and faculty members will be admitted free, they must pick up tickets in the student union office by today, or pay the one dollar admission charged the general public.

Time of Dr. Schwarz's lecture will be 8 p. m.

Sponsored by the student union, his talk will be the first in a spring lecture series entitled "On Conformity and Dissent." Other speakers in the series will be S. I. Hayakawa, Melvin Belli and Alfred Kazin.

President of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade, Dr. Schwarz has closed his medical practice in Sydney to campaign full-time against communism. Besides lecturing and debating, he conducts "Anti-Communist Seminars" to train "educators, preachers, military personnel and citizens generally in the true nature of the Communist enemy."

Born in Brisbane, Australia in 1913, he did his undergraduate work at the University of Queensland, graduating in 1933 with a major in mathematics and physics. Following his graduation, he taught for a while, then entered medical school.

He was graduated from the University of Queensland medical school in 1944, and established a general practice in Sydney. He also served as part-time psychologist in a New South Wales hospital.

His first clash with communism came in 1940 at the University of Queensland, when he debated Max Julius, a leading Australian communist. Following that encounter, he embarked on a study of basic communist texts.

DR. SCHWARZ

One of his recent American debates was with Otis Archer Hood, chairman of the Communist Party of Massachusetts. They argued at Harvard.

Leaving Australia in 1950, he toured the United States and Europe lecturing against communism. Other important dates in his career include 1953, when he helped form the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, and 1955, when he closed his practice to spend more time fighting communism.

Registrar's Tally Shows Increase

A preliminary tally (as of Feb. 7) of students at the University of Nevada shows that 2744 matriculated students have already completed registration for the 1963 spring semester.

Last year at the same time only 2,540 students had registered. Total enrollment for the Reno campus is now 3,174 students, compared with a total of 3,035 last spring.

Nevada Southern University in Las Vegas at this time shows 697 full time students compared to 572 registered in spring of 1962. Total student registration is 1,163.

Complete registration statistics will not be available until next week. The final date for registration for both full and part time students is Friday Feb. 8.

English Club Hears Works of Cummings

Works of E. E. Cummings and other contemporary poets were read Monday afternoon at the semester's first meeting of the English Club.

David Mathews, a philosophy major, recited selections from Cummings.

The English club, an informal organization for students interested in the various fields of English, sponsors weekly poetry readings each Monday at 4 p. m. in the lounge of the Fine Arts building.

Readings last about an hour and no discussion follows. Anyone may attend.

Wolf Pack Third; 20 Points Behind Chico, Sierra JC

By DOUG BRUCKNER
Sagebrush Sports Editor

SKY TAVERN, Nev. — A well-balanced Chico State team held off Sierra College and Skimeister winner Thor Mjoen to capture the 1963 Winter Carnival championship last weekend.

The Wildcats won their first Carnival crown by a narrow two-tenths of a point, triumphing 363.8 to 363.6 over their close rivals from Auburn, Calif.

Paul Duncan cinched the Chico victory with a second-place in the jumping, held here Sunday afternoon.

Nevada finished third with 343 points.

Snow conditions all three days ranged from poor to terrible. Saturday, the downhill was run over a Slide Mountain course covered with a fast, tricky ice crust. Similar snow conditions were present here for the slalom.

Sunday's jumping was run off with light snow drifting down through fog so thick the jump was nearly lost to view several times to spectators at the bottom.

Even though snow conditions were poor, game competitors from nine western schools turned out some outstanding performances.

The highlight of the meet was Mjoen, Sierra's sizzling Scandinavian who brought home a double win in the slalom and downhill, and capped his performance with a fourth-place finish in the jumping.

Mjoen's final point total was 373.2, good for the Skimeister trophy, symbol of superior individual performance.

Sherman Reams of Chico was second in the skimeister running with Nevadans Bud Sorenson and Lane Monroe finishing 3-4. Sorenson trailed Mjoen by 20 points, and Monroe was 34 behind the winner.

Sorenson finished fourth in cross-country, sixth in the downhill, and fourteenth in jumping to emerge as one of Nevada's two standout slatmen.

Monroe found the slalom and cross country his best events, tying for second in the downhill, and finishing ninth in the cross country.

The University of Oregon, co-favorite with Chico at the beginning of the meet finished a disappointing sixth, accumulating only 189.1 points.

Attendance was sparse at all events, due probably to the promise of poor snow conditions which were well fulfilled.

Tri-Delts, LXA, Phi Sigs Take Decorations

"Pair-a-Dice 'n Snow" turned up winners for Delta Delta Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Phi Sigma Kappa at the 1963 Snow Ball. The trio was awarded the trophy for the best Winter Carnival decorations by Snow Princess Margo Ford.

Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Nu received trophies for dance attendance.

The Snow Ball was Saturday night at Mathisen's hall, following the Skier's Banquet held at the dining room. Competing ski teams presented skits. Chico State College won the competition with a series of tableaux, a tribute to the University of Nevada Winter Carnival and its history.

Harry James Will Perform At Band Festival

Harry James, world-renowned trumpeter, will appear with his band at the University of Nevada's second annual Stage Band Festival, Saturday, Feb. 23, in the University gym.

With 24 bands from four Western states attending, the festival will be an all-day affair.

James and his Orchestra, and the University stage band, directed by Eugene Isaef, will play at the evening performance, at 7:30 p. m.

Foster Edwards' band will conclude the daylight activities, following high school bands from Oregon, Idaho, California, and Nevada. In addition to the University of Nevada, Monterey Peninsula College, and Fresno State College will be represented.

Appearing as guest soloist will be Carl Fontana, noted Las Vegas jazz trombonist.

Of stage bands in general, the "Music Journal" has said: "Most stage band musicians are among the better concert musicians. Their abilities are always a cut above average. Their increased interest in music brought them to the stage band in the first place."

Tickets, one dollar for students, two dollars for others, may be purchased at the band office in the Fine Arts building, or at the box office.

Suspect Refuses To Talk About Dorm Incident

A part-time boxer currently held for $4,000 bail by Reno police in connection with last Thursday's White Pine hall intrusion, has refused to make any explanations of his alleged actions.

Lawrence Joseph Sanchez, 907 Valley Road, booked on a charge of attempted rape, told investigators "I'll talk to you through my attorney." He is also charged with four misdemeanors, which will be dropped if the district attorney's office issues a complaint for attempted rape.

He was captured Thursday morning by Jack Spencer, Nevada basketball coach and dormitory resident, after a co-ed's screams awakened him. Dave Herrmann, University student and student union night watchman, helped prevent his escape.

The girl who screamed told police she woke up to see a man standing over her bed. He threatened to shoot her and her roommate, she said, if she resisted him.

The suspect made an earlier appearance at the dormitory recreation room Wednesday evening, reported other coeds.

An Anti-Communist Speaks

A widely-known anti-communist, Dr. Fred Schwarz, speaks on campus Thursday night. His appearance should not only satisfy Nevada's conservatives, but should also draw a sizeable liberal element.

The conservatives, some of whom have complained long and loud about the absence of conservative speakers on the student union lecture schedule, will hear someone espousing their point of view.

And the liberals, who profess to form their opinions logically after listening to both sides of the issue, must turn out or risk a show of hypocrisy.

Dr. Schwarz will undoubtedly say some important things, as most anti-communist speakers do. But some of them, however, make unfortunate slips, which are seized on by their opponents—and the public never hears their good points, only their bad ones.

Anyhow, it will be refreshing to hear a man come out against the communist conspiracy for a change—in a direct manner. We could use a little more anti-communism, especially some non-emotional anti-communism. That kind might stand a chance of getting through to the liberals.

Commendation

The 1963 Winter Carnival committee deserves a pat on the back for a job well done, and we'll give them one—along with ASUN president Mike Mackedon, whose comments are printed elsewhere on this page.

Jim Acheson and his committee not only pulled off a smooth job on the campus side of the Carnival, but the Sierra skiing events were well co-ordinated in the face of difficult conditions, i.e., an absence of snow.

Acheson, incidentally, had to budget his time between the Carnival and the ski team, and did well in both areas. He finished fifth in the jumping.

It was a fine job.

Top Officers Visit ROTC Department

Several distinguished military officers visited the Military Department during the semester break.

They were Colonel Howard W. Smalley, deputy commander of the XV U. S. Army Corps, and Lt. Col. Jack G. Parsons, Chief, Training Division, G-3, XV Corps. The men held an "orientation inspection," and inspected the facilities of the department.

Letters to the Editor

ASUN Prexy Thanks Carnival Committee

Editor, the Sagebrush:

On behalf of the ASUN, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Jim Acheson and the entire Winter Carnival committee for a job well done. The Winter Carnival celebration definitely reflected the time and talent expended by those involved, and was indeed a credit to the University of Nevada.

Sincerely,
MIKE MACKEDON
ASUN president

Commons Banned To Card Players

By TIM ANDERSON

Student Union officials are tired of asking students not to play cards in the dining commons. Now they're telling them.

The offenders have been continually reminded that the dining commons is for eating, not card playing. The latest student union move has been the setting up of posters saying that no card playing is allowed in the dining commons.

Ever since the snack bar was closed for remodeling, the card playing gang set up headquarters in the dining commons, and many times there are not enough tables for those who go there for a primary purpose—eating.

A few tables are set up in the southeast section of the snack bar for those who want to play cards, a spokesman said, and the tables there are specifically for the card players' use, he added.

The student union spokesman also said that those who eat in the dining commons are expected to clean up their own mess, pointing out that the dining commons and the snack bar have different rules.

Students accustomed to eat in the snack bar left their trays, dishes, cups, and eating utensils on the table, but this rule doesn't hold true in the dining commons, he said.

Telephone Rep Here This Week

A representative of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company will be interviewing graduating seniors Wednesday and Thursday on campus.

Majors in business administration, civil engineering, electrical engineering, liberal arts, mathematics, industrial engineering, physics, chemistry, and engineering science have been given top priority on his list.

Possible jobs include administration, supervision, customer contacts, sales, accounting, data processing, design, building and structural engineering.

Interviews will be held both days in room 104, Clark administration building.

R. A. Will Elect Officers

The president, vice-president and secretary of the Realist Alliance will be elected for the coming year Wednesday night at a 7 p. m. meeting in the agriculture conference room.

Following the election, a discussion will center on the purpose of the Alliance and upcoming events. Reports from officials and committee heads will be given.

Independents OK New Constitution

After nearly two months of criticism and revision, the Independent Council unanimously ratified its Constitution Feb. 5.

The document was first submitted to the group in early December, 1962, when preliminary corrections were made on key points.

At an open meeting, Dec. 12, attended by an estimated 60-80 "GDI's," the representatives argued over virtually every article in the first draft. The constitutional marathon dragged on for over three hours before the document was finally tabled.

At the Feb. 5 meeting, conducted privately, in the White Pine hall recreation room, the Council ratified the Constitution, which now carries a set of newly drafted by-laws, without discussion.

The next day faculty advisor Roberta Barnes and President Doug Bruckner approved the Constitution and submitted it to the office of ASUN second vice-president, Mimi Patrick.

The second vice-president submitted it to the Student Senate that same evening, and the group approved it.

Only two barriers remain on the road to official recognition for the Independent group. The GDI constitution must be approved by the student relations board and the student affairs subcommittee.

The document will be submitted to the student relations board Feb. 13, and the affairs committee at its next meeting.

GDI's Schedule 'Memories' As Saturday Dance Theme

Musical memories of the past four years will be revived by the Independent Council Feb. 16 in the dining commons.

The leadership group of the unaffiliated members of the student body is sponsoring a "Memory Dance" as its first activity. The dance will spotlight hit songs gathered from old top tune listings.

The event will follow the Alameda State - Nevada basketball game, scheduled for 8:15 in the New Gym. The music will start at 9:30 p.m. with reminiscence lasting until midnight.

Dance committee chairman Vickie Bullis said records of all the latest dance crazes will be played. Discs such as "Do You Love Me?" by the Contours, "Twistin With Linda" by the Easley Brothers, and "What'd I Say" by Ray Charles, will be used for the ever-popular twist.

"Stomping," "South Bay" and "Cinnamon Cider" fans will be satisfied with, "Walk Don't Run" by the Ventures, "Teen Beat," by Sandy Nelson, and "Rebel Rouser" by Duanne Eddy.

For students who like slower styles, "The Enchanted Sea" by Martin Denny, "Tears On My Pillow," by the Imperials, and "The Way You Look Tonight" by the Lettermen will be played.

Study Underway On 'Hot' Foods

The amount of radiation in the food eaten by Reno residents will be determined by two agencies, with the co-operation of the University of Nevada's home economics department.

Foods equal to a week's diet, will be cooked by the home economics department, and examination of the food will be conducted by the Consumer's Union and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), in Washington.

The Home Economics department will prepare three meals a day, plus snacks, as a typical diet for a healthy 11-15-year-old boy.

During the week the food will be divided into bite-size particles, and, mixed in a large metal drum of formaldehyde. The chemicals will keep the food from spoiling.

The drum will then be shipped to the Consumer's Union, where experiments will measure the degree of radiation.

The diet used in the study will contain at least four glasses of milk and three glasses of water daily.

The experiment will be conducted four times a year; the first test began Monday. Other tests will be held in April, June, and September.

This is the first time this type of experiment has been conducted at the University. Although the radiation in milk has been tested previously.

Announcement of the experiment was made by Mrs. Joseph Chancerelle, instructor of food and nutrition.

IFC Dinner Honors New, Old Officers

Newly-elected Inter-Fraternity Council officers were officially installed last Wednesday evening at the Theta Chi house.

They included Don Heath, Sigma Nu, president; Rusty Nash, Sigma Nu, vice-president; and Allen Craigmiles, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, secretary-treasurer.

A dinner was held in honor of the newly and retiring officers at the Theta Chi house. Heath succeeds Harry Walters as president of the council.

Artemisia Photos Taken for GDI's

Off-campus Independents get their turn to pose for the Artemisia photographer during a 10-day period which began Wednesday and ends Feb. 15.

Appointments for individual pictures may be made by non-affiliated students at the Christensen studio on West First street. The number is FA 3-5504.

A charge of $1.25 is made for the single sitting, and the student may select one of four proofs for the annual.

Sigma Xi Slates Double-Header

The Sigma Xi club has a double-header scheduled for its meeting tonight in room 200, Mackay School of Mines, at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Jack Knoll, asst. prof. of biology, will speak on "Active Transport Across Animal Membranes." Dr. Knoll, who received his Ph. D. from the University of Michigan, joined the Nevada faculty in 1962.

Following Knoll's talk, Harold F. Bonham, asst. mining geologist, Nevada bureau of mines, will speak on the "Geology of Northern Washoe County." Bonham, a native of southern California, has an MS from the University of Nevada.

Wolf Pack Line Coach Floyd Edsall coached at Lovelock, Elko and Sparks high schools.

A Presidential order in 1889 allowed the sale of dead timber from Indian reservations.

Nevada Coeds Are Shooting Too

PEGGY HAYMEN, sophomore coed and member of Gamma Phi Beta, gets marksmanship instruction from SFC Robert Maxey, rifle team coach. Peggy is one of eleven girls who make up the newly-organized girls' rifle team. The shooting squad will complete with two branches of the University of California this spring.

By SUE RUSSELL

A newly organized women's rifle team is seeking recognition from the Women's Recreation Association (WRA) and the women's physical education department.

The team, organized at the beginning of the semester, is sponsored by the military department.

Recognition by both groups will mean physical education credit for the girls, and credit in WRA.

Denying that shooting is not a feminine sport, Sgt. Robert H. Maxey, coach, said: "Look at the girls on the team. We have some of the prettiest and most capable girls on campus."

The team will shoot in two matches this year, one at the University of California at Berkeley and one at the University of California at Davis.

The Army is providing all the instruction, equipment and ammunition needed for practice and the meets. The girls are supplied with a shooting jacket and a rifle.

Peggy Haymen, a member of the team, pointed out that any girl is eligible to become a member. "She need not have had any previous experience with a rifle. I, myself, had never shot before I attended the first meeting."

The meetings are held Wednesday evenings at the rifle range, in the basement of the old gym. All girls are welcome to attend the practices and join the team.

Officers of the team are: Lorey

Hodge, president; Suzanne Russell, first vice-president; Peggy Haymen, second vice-president; Kathleen Rose, Secretary.

Other members are Donna Kraft, Margaret Russell, Beverly Ott, Marley Lott, Kris Delaplaine, Nancy Watson, and Nancy Woodleaf.

New Line-Up Pays Off With 57-41 Victory; Sacramento State Tests Nevadans Tonight

PACK TAKES 4-1 CONFERENCE RECORD TO CALIFORNIA

By BRUCE POZZI
Sagebrush Sports Staff

Playing for the first time without the services of stars—Bill Robinson and Harlan Heward—the University of Nevada Wolf Pack won its seventh straight game Friday night trouncing the California Aggies, 57-41.

Nevada's victory assured the Spencersmen of a clean hold on second place in the Far Western Conference race with a 4-1 record thus far.

The Pack also scored its seventh win in the last eight starts for an over-all season record of 9-8.

In Friday night's performance the Aggies jumped into an early, 10-4 lead, but the dead-eye shooting of Stew Johnson put the Silver and Blue out in front to stay. Johnson sank Nevada's first ten points.

Then it was the outside shooting of Bob Donlan with four buckets in a row that all but broke the Aggies' back. Nevada led at halftime, 32-20.

With a comfortable lead already built, the Nevada cagers had little trouble in staving off a final rally by the "farmers".

Tonight the Wolf Pack takes on a Sacramento State Hornet squad that is currently supporting an eight-game losing streak. The last loss was at the hands of the Cal Aggies last Saturday 46-44.

The Hornets, who are led by All-American Ron Rohrer, won the FWC last year and went all the way to the NCAA finals, only to lose in the championship game by one point to Mt. Saint Mary's, 58-57.

Nevada split evenly with Sacramento last year winning the first game, 59-50, and losing the second one, 87-60.

Along with Rohrer, the Hornets are led by seniors Bill Baker, 6-2, Tom Pugliese, 5-10, and John Dille, 6-3. Rohrer and Baker are currently the team scoring leaders with 194 and 233 points respectively.

Shooting Season Begins Friday

A potential All-American rifleman is included in the lists of this spring's University of Nevada rifle team, says SFC Robert Maxey, Nevada coach.

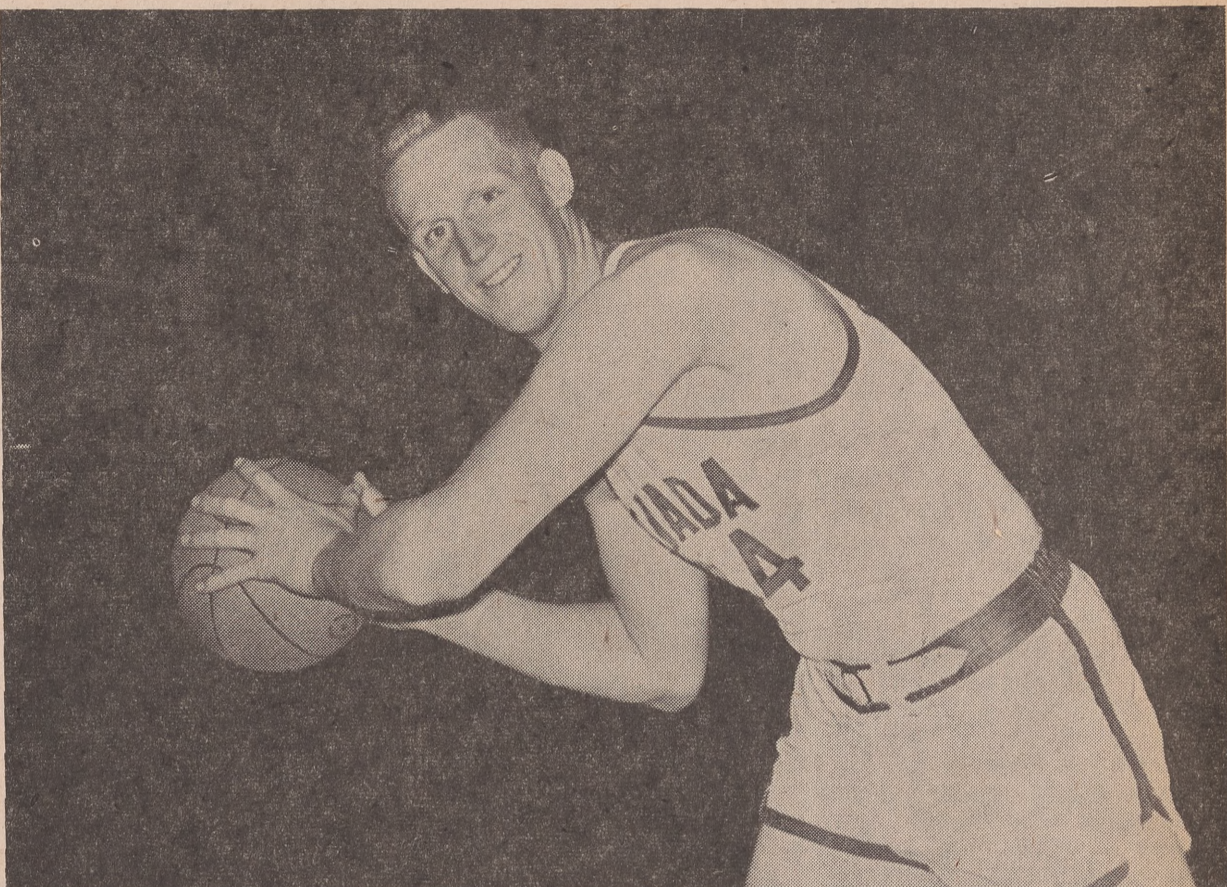

He is Paul Gerth, who is firing a scoring average of 398 in four positions at present, and holds an inter-collegiate scoring average of 296 for three positions.

Should he make the team, said Maxey, he will be the first Nevadan on the squad since 1957, when Terry Katzer was named.

Gerth and other members of the squad have been prepping for a tough season in local Sagebrush league matches, shooting against master competitors — some with 30-40 years experience.

The payoff will come during the intercollegiate season, which begins Friday at Berkeley where the University of California Invitational is scheduled.

Highlighting the team's schedule is the University of Nevada Invitational, scheduled for March 29-30. Nine schools have accepted bids to the event, including Montana State College, Montana State University, San Jose State College, Stanford, California (Berkeley), UCLA, University of San Francisco, Utah State University and Texas Western College.

Batmen Start Spring Training; 6 Lettermen Back

Bill Ireland, Nevada baseball coach, faces a tough rebuilding job this spring. Not one starter from his 1962 team will see action in 1963.

Only six lettermen, Barry McKinnon, Skip Smales, Don Banta, Ron Banta, Wayne Aboles, and Joel Glover, have returned to the squad. Don Banta, a pitcher, posted a 2.51 earned run average, the best effort for the Wolf Pack last season.

Missing from last season's squad, which won 16, lost 14, and tied one, are All-FWC players Bob Reid, Marv Van Curen, Hank Ebbert, and Max Culp.

Other first string players lost are Scott Neilson, Nevada's second leading batter with a .382 batting average; Jack Renwick; Dave Irish; Pete Levitt, a Frosh last season who set a national collegiate nine-inning strikeout record of 23 against Nevada Southern; Frank Guisti; Tony Klenakis; and Gordon Lemmich.

A variety of reasons for players not returning were cited by Ireland. They are graduation, scholastic difficulties, transfers, and heavy senior-year schedules.

Although Ireland now has thirty men working out, the squad will eventually be narrowed to twenty. There is "a wide open race at every position," Ireland said.

The first game is scheduled for

Prof. Mitchell to Head Summer Tour of Europe

Students will again be able to tour Europe this summer with professor Douglas Mitchell of the foreign language department directing the second Hilton tour offered at the University of Nevada.

Mitchell, assist. prof of languages, will guide students from Nevada and other colleges through the major countries of Western Europe on a 72-day tour.

Having lived for an extended time in various parts of Europe and studies in Oslo and Vienna, Professor Mitchell is familiar not only with cultures and languages of Western Europe, but also with the people and the lands.

The tour is patterned after last year's tour, which was accompanied by William Houwink, asst. prof. of economics at Nevada.

Students will visit eleven countries. In order, they are: Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, France, Belgium, and Great Britain.

Students will be accompanied in each country by "couriers", graduate students from English and Dutch schools, who will act as guides and interpreters.

Participants will be granted at least one free day in each of the large cities. They will stay in tourist-class hotels and unoccupied student dormitories.

The S. S. Groote Beer, a student Dutch ship, will sail with the students from New York on June 26. Motor-coaches and railways will be used for transportation in Europe.

After earning his AB degree at Baylor University, Professor Mitchell continued his studies at the University of Oslo, Norway, the University of Vienna, and the University of Texas. He has taught at Midwestern University and Rice University in Texas, and is now teaching German and French here.

An orientation program will be offered on board the S. S. Groote Beer for students knowing little about Europe. They will learn of customs, peoples, and some language.

The tour will be restricted to

ROTC Instructors Switch Positions

Changes have taken place in the Military Department during the semester break. Among them were re-assignments and notices of transfers for several members of the cadre.

Major Edward M. Lawlor has been assigned to take over the senior cadet program, and Captain William D. Wilson, who formerly taught the "M. S. IV" program, has been assigned to take over Lawlor's old job as supply officer.

"It seems like a game of musical chairs," said Lawlor.

Sgt. William M. Weaver was transferred to the Presidio of San Francisco, and is now with the XV Army Corp.

Captain Raymond Miller, who has been at the University since 1960 as sophomore military instructor, and Major Lawlor, who has also been at Nevada for three years, will both be re-assigned to overseas duty when the spring term is completed.

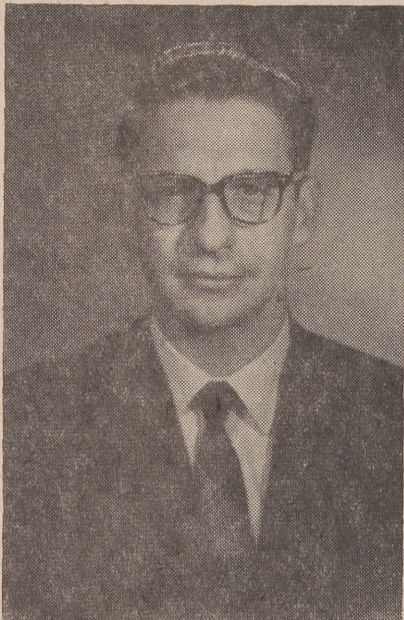

Major Noel Craun, junior instructor, will have his tour of duty at the university extended for a fourth year, starting with the fall term.

Colonel Robert L. Gundlach, professor of Military Science, will be entering his third and final year of instruction at the University starting with the fall, 1963, term.

thirty students, graduates, or teachers between the ages of 18 and 30.

Meetings with prospective European travelers are being planned by Professor Mitchell and the Durkee Travel Agency. Arrangements must be made by May 1.

HEADS TOUR

ACCOMPANYING Nevada students on their 1963 summer tour of Europe will be Douglas Mitchell, asst. prof. of languages. Mitihell has studied at universities in Oslo, Norway, and Vienna, Austria.

Nevadan Served In Antarctica

By JUDY BLACK

"When the temperatures got up to 0, with no wind, you could work in your shirt sleeves."

Cold weather is no stranger to Ray Moore, senior student at Nevada, who lived for 12 months in the Antarctic.

As a Sea Bee, Moore was one of 180 men selected from the 11,000 volunteers to accompany Admiral Byrd on his last expedition to the Antarctic.

The 1955 project, known as "Operation Deep Freeze," was an initial step in establishing bases on that continent for the purpose of weather studies.

Working as an electrician, Moore helped construct the two bases known as Little America, an underground city, and McMerdo, an exposed base of pre-fab plywood and aluminum structures.

Living in tents while these huts were being constructed was "no problem" said Moore. "You conditioned yourself to the weather."

A snow-melting device was built which gave one gallon of water for 5 gallons of snow, and this water was used for all purposes.

"The supplies were real good" says Moore, "although the pemican wasn't a howling success, it provided energy and necessary vitamins."

Moore's first trip to "the biggest ice-cube I've ever seen", was made on a yard-oiler, equipped to carry gas. A non-sea going vessel, it was towed for 22,000 miles, the longest tow in history. When the vessel froze in the ice, it was left as a fueling station. It still remains in that condition.

Christmas of 1956 was a white one, as was the following one, when neither his ship, the "Wyndot", nor their accompanying ice - breaker could move. They often encountered ice up to 15-feet thick.

Moore, a native of Winnemucca, remembers Admiral Byrd walking down the ranks at the Davisville, Rhode Island training center, asking, "Why do you want to go to the Antarctic?"

"Curiosity," says Moore, was his reason for volunteering.

Selection, Moore believes, was made on the basis of time-in-service and island duty in the South Pacific.

Morale was very good, and Moore attributes a great deal of this to a Catholic priest at McMerdo Base known simply as "Father John."

Three ironies present themselves in Moore's account. (1) there was another man from Reno on the continent whom he never met; (2) Walt Disney's "Operation Deep Freeze" in which Moore appears, he has never seen; (3) and although he has been 300 miles off the East coast of the United States; to the coast of China; and from the Arctic to Antarctica, "I've never been to Europe."

An eventful life?
"It's not over yet, I hope" says Moore.

Holstine Returns From Washington

Dr. Garold D. Holstine, dean of the College of Education, recently returned from Washington D. C. where he attended an executive board meeting of Directors of the National Council for Children and Youth.

Dr. Holstine is the chairman of the Governor's Committee for Children and Youth. He has contributed to the development of plans and reports used by the department of health, education, and welfare, and Congressional committees on problems of children and youth.

The National Council for Children and Youth was established in 1960, following the President's White House Conference on Children and Youth.

The Council discussed problems pertaining to school drop - outs, youth labor laws, and youth employment.
