

Five Nevada Men Plan 50-Mile Hike Tonight

By DUNCAN KNOWLES

The 50-mile frenzy stretched from its origin in the White House to the University of Nevada campus today, as the secrecy veil was removed from the plans of Sigma Alpha Epsilon for a select group of their members to trek the distance this weekend.

As the full force of President Kennedy's Council on Physical Fitness' report gripped the nation, Nevada Alpha of SAE hand picked several men to prove (or disprove) the bodily condition of typical Nevada students.

The plans resulted from a recently discovered edict of ex-President Teddy "Fit as a Bull Moose" Roosevelt that required Marine officers to prove their mettle by covering the 50-mile distance in less than 20 hours. Over the last half mile the officers were told to double time and to finally sprint to the finish line.

The proposed members of the expedition are Art "Skip" Broten, son of the physical education department head; Rex Wilson, SAE sports manager; Larry Kees, who "knows the road"; Dick Short, organizer, "I'm Going Along for the Ride"; and Duncan Knowles, journalism major who will edit the story "for movie rights."

The hike will originate near Fallon and ploy Highway 50 to Fernley to Reno. As SAE will conduct its formal initiation this afternoon, the members hope to begin after the initiation banquet this evening, weather permitting. Tomorrow morning several Reno policemen will cover the same ground in an effort to show up the Sparks Police department.

Special equipment designated for this evening's walk include fraternity sweatshirts, canteens, first-aid kits, flashlights, food and, it is suspected, "boda bags" to curb the winter chill.

inject culture into the 50-mile movement, and thus prove that brains are brawny.

They failed.

Each of the students wore a suit, white shirt, tie, vest and derby. As they left the Stanford campus they chanted poetry and carried reference books, later abandoned, including Goethe's "Faust, Part I" and Alfred North Whitehead's "Dialogues".

Less than a mile from their starting point the ywere quickly passed by "vulgar" sweatshirt-clad rivals who beat them to San Francisco by three hours.

This doesn't bother the Nevada students who plan to make the trip within the proposed time but are more interested in arriving as a group.

Their determination, they point out is even greater than Nennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, who backed out of a planned eastern stroll describing himself as, "plucky, but not stupid!"

Schwarz Outlines Commie Plan

Moral Breakdown Important Factor

Dr. Fred Schwarz, president of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade, outlined a two-fold Communist plan for the subversion of America to a packed audience in the student union dining commons last night.

The Communists aim to encircle the United States, then close the trap when American fortitude has decayed to the point that life is not worth risking in the fight for freedom, he said.

Pointing to what he called a five-pronged encirclement of the United States, Dr. Schwarz called attention to Red encroachment in numbers, military strength, economics, education and psychology.

His talk, sponsored by the student union, was followed by a question-answer session with the audience.

Schwarz told the audience every individual should strive to learn the truth about Communism, and help spread the knowledge to people in every "nook and cranny" in the world.

Interspersing wit, emotion and dead seriousness into his speech, Schwarz said, "Communism is the greatest monopoly existing in the world today."

They see their conquest of the United States as "historic destiny," implemented through co-existence; not revolutionary means but revolutionary methods. This process of dialectical materialism is basic philosophy in Communist doctrine, he said.

"They believe Communism was ordained to rule the earth," Schwarz said.

As Communists see it, Schwarz continued, people don't have to like them. "Communism gets to power through deception and stays in power through force. If the people reach a point where life is the only thing that matters and concessions are made—concessions are undesirable but death unthinkable, then Communist foothold is secure."

If concessions continue, the balance of power tips in their favor, and the inevitability of our defeat, he pointed out.

Schwarz called on the American people to wage a "campaign of truth and knowledge about Communism. First acquainting themselves with the problem; then spreading the truths to the rest of the world, he said.

The ideological conflict is more important than the economic conflict, Schwarz continued.

"We must show every person the most vicious monopoly ever built in the world," he stated. He added that Communism, the ultimate in tyranny, must be exposed everywhere.

Ending on a pointed note, Schwarz said, "We must rebuild American confidence in freedom and give meaning to it."

Students, Profs Ponder "Congress"

By PAT ROGERO

Sagebrush Managing Editor

A campaign promise of ASUN President Mike Mackedon became a reality Wednesday when six faculty members and about 20 students met to discuss a Student-Faculty Congress.

Formulated as a sub-committee of another campaign offspring, the senate steering committee, the Congress would be designed to bridge the gap between students and faculty. A forum would allow students to bring up problems facing them both academically and socially. Other functions would be evaluation of the University, the faculty, student life and government, and any "intellectual lag" existing on campus.

Both camps agreed that such a congress would create a genuine interest in the college community and its problems.

Professor Wilhelm Houwink pointed out that academic life should not end outside the classroom. Students are difficult to stimulate, he said, and pointed to what he calls a lack of interest and a general dissatisfaction with student life.

The most pressing problem now facing the Congress is organization. Emphasizing that the Congress should not be limited to specifics, Mackedon said it should be open to any student and any subject pertaining to student life.

Suggestions of faculty dinners at the living groups and faculty teas were made.

Independents Only

A "reverse rush" will be in effect at Saturday's "Memory Dance," sponsored by the Independent Council.

Only independents and their guests will be admitted to the dance, but "if there are any fraternity men thinking about turning in their pins, they're welcome," said Doug Bruckner, council president.

The dance is scheduled for 9:30 p.m. in the dining commons after the Nevada-Alameda basketball game.

out that the organization of the congress should not get lost in institutions such as sororities and fraternities. "An intellectual attitude should come naturally. Students and faculty should mix freely whenever possible," Acheson said.

Mackedon suggested the Congress should prescribe a function of informality, free exchange of ideas, and criticism.

Students and faculty will meet again next week, said Larry Struve, who conducted what he called a "hearing." He said the discussion, although not bringing out concrete ideas, did bring out some basic problems existing on the campus.

'Dipper' Named Athlete of Month

Bill (The Dipper) Robinson, Nevada basketball star who was sidelined by scholastic ills at the semester break, has been named the Athlete of the Month for January by the Sierra Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association.

Robinson, a sophomore, was the team's leading scorer and rebounder during the first semester. He boasted a 25-point scoring average before he was declared ineligible for failing to maintain the scholastic average required by the NCAA.

Other nominees for the honor were basketball teammate Joe deArrieta, a play-making guard, and Nevada's head football coach, Dick Trachok, who won the Reno YM-CA squash tournament in January.

Corporation Reps Interview Seniors

Proctor and Gamble, North American Aviation, and U. S. General Accounting Office representatives will be on campus today and Monday to interview prospective employees in Nevada's senior and graduate classes.

North American's employment men will meet math, physics, metallurgy, chemistry and engineering majors all day today.

The Accounting Office team will visit Reno Monday and interview accounting majors and minors.

Proctor and Gamble will look for future employees among chemistry, metallurgy and engineering majors Monday.

All interviewees should report at their scheduled time in room 104 Clark Administration.

Artemisia Picture Deadline Extended

The yearbook deadline for senior and off-campus independent pictures has been extended one week. Pictures will be taken at Gene Christensen's studio, 40 West First Street, through next Friday, Feb. 22, announced JoAnne Nelson, Artemisia editor.

Santini Named Union President

Clark Santini, 21-year-old pre-law major from Reno, was elected president of the Jot Travis Student Union board for 1963-64 Tuesday night. He succeeds Bill Lohse.

Santini, who won the post in competition with Dave Cooper and Jim Sinasek, is a junior, a member of Alpha Tau Omega, and served as student union lectures chairman during the past year.

He has also been a member of ASUN senate for two years.

Bub Olsen, a sophomore, was chosen finance director in other balloting. He had no opposition. Members of the student union board will be chosen later this semester.

Honors Dr. Church

The late Dr. James E. Church, originator of the snow survey system used today and namesake of the Church Fine Arts building, will be honored with a Sunday program at the Nevada Art Gallery.

Newsweek Writer Eldon Griffiths Lectures Tonight

Two events of general interest compete for student attention tonight.

Griffiths, a former correspondent for Life and a foreign news writer for Time, joined Newsweek in December, 1955 as chief European correspondent, with headquarters in London.

In addition to his London duties, Griffiths has covered other international assignments for his magazine in many parts of Europe. He also served on combat assignments in Cyprus and Lebanon and was the only U. S. correspondent to fly in with the first wave of British paratroopers who landed in Jordan in 1958.

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp

Teddy Roosevelt is undoubtedly swinging his "big stick" with glee today, as Americans join wildly in the 50/20 craze (50 miles in 20 hours) that he started nearly 60 years ago.

As usual, the nation's college men have caught the bug, and collegians are taking to the highways in droves to prove their fitness. Stanford University even had two groups earlier this week. One group wore "vulgar" sweatshirts; the other was "intellectual" and wore suits. The vulgars won.

Now, five men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are determined to uphold the honor of the University of Nevada, and will embark tonight on a 50-mile walk from the vicinity of Fallon to Reno.

Good luck to these men, because they might need it. A 50-mile hike is bad enough, without being preceded by an initiation banquet (hic!). It's good to see them making the march, even though they might well hate themselves in the morning.

It Wasn't Built in a Day

A former student at the University's southern regional division, now at the Reno campus, has taken issue with a Sagebrush editorial of February 1. His comments appear in the letters-to-the-editor section.

It would appear that some Nevada Southern students are miffed by the idea that their school might not grow at a rate adequate for the fastest-growing city in Nevada.

Besides wanting more state offices in Las Vegas, more control in the Assembly, and even more representation in the state senate, it appears that some Las Vegans want a large University in a short time.

They will have to wait a while. The present University in Reno has taken nearly 90 years to evolve to its present stature, and the southern division will also take some time. As the saying pointed out, it took more than a day to build Rome.

Criticizes Sagebrush Budget Editorial

Editor, the Sagebrush:

The accompanying sheets are copies of a petition sent by the students of the Southern Regional Division of the University of Nevada to their duly elected representatives in the State legislature. The copy of the statement accompanying the petition and the petition itself explain most of the circumstances but perhaps a little more information would be desirable. This action came about as the result of the ideas of Stephen J. Rimel and William H. Daley, both elected Senators of the Confederated Students of Nevada Southern, the equivalent of ASUN in Reno. Over five hundred signatures were secured on the petition. The two local newspapers gave full coverage of the incident, coverage that the local television and radio stations also carried. Indeed, some citizens, not students at the University, upon hearing of the petition, made it a point to go out to the University and sign that petition.

Nevada is one of the fastest growing states in the union, if not the fastest. Estimates originally assumed that by 1972 there would be some 1700 students at Nevada Southern. In the light of new data, that estimate has been revealed to be woefully understated. (Current estimates call for a student body of 1700 students in 1965.) U of N at Reno will of course have some of these same growth problems, compounded by the problems and costs of repairing and maintaining some of the present buildings on campus now in a sad state of disrepair.

To clarify the situation existing in Clark County perhaps some other points are in order. It is presently estimated that, in order to keep up with the rapidly growing population, Clark County needs one new elementary school every 30 days, one new junior high school every three months and one new senior high school every six months. Thus potential students for a University will exist in superfluity.

It is significant that the editorial staff of the Sagebrush confined its remarks concerning the proposed budget cut to a few platitudes concerning the niceties of "a state government trying to live within its means without raising taxes." Well and good. But Gentlemen, isn't it quite possible that this very moment in history is not the time to slash budgets? Now is the time of the highest growth rates this state has ever experienced. Were the Legislature to double the proposed budget it surely would not be enough to put our University in a position where it would not have overcrowding problems in the immediate future. How, then, can we really afford to cut budgets now? Look around you, see what is needed. If you have occasion, go to the Nevada Southern in Las Vegas and look around there. More and more citizens of that area are fully aware of the problems which the Reno campus faces. In short, the entire University of Nevada is in for one terrific burst of expansion if it is to serve the needs of the citizens of the State of Nevada adequately. How can we then be complacent about a budget cut which affects us so directly?

THOMAS D. BEATTY
Thank you,

Proposed Dorms Will House 600

The new dormitories planned for the ex-cemetery land across Virginia street from White Pine hall are expected to house 600 students.

Two four-story dorms will be built, each housing 300 students, with one hall for women and the other for men.

In the event of a future housing shortage, the dormitories are so designed that four additional floors can be added.

"There is ample room for expansion, and if the need develops, a third building may be constructed on the land", said James Rogers, University engineer, last week.

Up to 1800 students could be housed in the area, he said.

Names for the proposed dorms have not been selected. Rogers pointed out a ruling that states that all men's dorms are named for Nevada counties, while women's dorms must bear the names of plants native to the state.

WRA Activities In Full Swing

Thursday marked the start of the Womens' Recreation Association's bowling tournament, with participants representing the four sororities and the two dormitories. White Pine hall and Manzanita hall. The tournament will last through April 4.

Basketball competition begins Feb. 19 and ends April 9.

All woman students are eligible to participate in either contest.

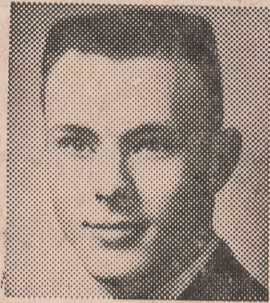

Women with basketball experience may join a basketball club, which meets every Wednesday at four p. m. in the new gym. Details of the club will be given at the first meeting on Feb. 27.

Discussion Sunday On Schwarz Lecture

A discussion of "The Implications of Dr. Schwarz" will follow Sunday night's meeting of the Campus Christian Association. The group meets at 7 p. m. at the Campus Christian Center across Virginia street from Juniper hall.

During the discussion, students will air their opinions on the Thursday night's campus address by Dr. Fred Schwarz, president of the Christian Anti - Communist Crusade.

Southerners Attack Budget Cut; Want NSU Growth Stimulated

By JON BENSON

A student petition from the southern regional division of the University of Nevada, and criticism of a Sagebrush editorial by a Nevada Southern transfer student, are the latest results of student dissatisfaction with a proposed cut in the University budget.

After Gov. Grant Sawyer recommended a $1.8 million dollar legislative cut in the University's 1963-65 budget, two NSU student senators circulated a petition on the Las Vegas campus.

The local newspapers picked up the item, and some townspeople insisted on signing the document. It has been sent to Vernon Bunker, chairman of the Clark county assembly delegation.

"The growth of Nevada Southern must not be stopped, or, for that matter, be forced to proceed at a sower pace," said the petition.

Pointing out that many Clark county legislators were elected on platforms that supported the growth of Nevada Southern, it remarked that "any deviation from these platforms would be in direct conflict with campaign promises that have been made in previous elections."

"The growth of Nevada Southern towards a four-year degree granting institution not only reflects the growth of a school, but also the maturing of a state," the petition concluded.

Criticism of a Sagebrush editorial of 1 February appears on page 2 of this issue in the "Letter to the Editor" section.

When the University's southern division was first established, estimates placed 1972 enrollment at 1700, but revised predictions have that figure scheduled for 1965.

Miller-Donathan Debate Set

Nevada's conservative - liberal feud will climax Tuesday when spokesmen for the two groups meet before students in a public debate.

Dale Donathan, president of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, and Steve Miller, organizer and librarian of the Realist Alliance, will argue the value of the United Nations. The Alliance has consistently opposed the UN since it began on campus last September.

The official debate topic will be "Resolved: Support of the United Nations is in the American National Interest," announced Clark Santini, student union lectures chairman.

Santini said he is using the argument as the springboard to a "soap-box" series planned for this spring. The series would include student participation after the main arguments.

The debate will take the form

Growth Creates Teacher Demand

A greater demand for teachers exists in Nevada this year than ever before, said a member of the College of Education faculty Tuesday.

Professor Thomas T. Tucker, chairman of the department of school administration, expects Nevada to hire about 1000 teachers for the coming school year, and says Clark county alone will need 600.

At present, beginning salaries for teachers range from $5000 up for a BA degree and no experience, said Tucker.

He interviewed about 100 prospective June graduates recently for the Teacher Placement Bureau, which keeps a file on each graduate.

Tucker is the executive secretary-treasurer of the state school board association, and has been teaching at Nevada for eight years. He has been director of the Teacher Placement Bureau for five years.

Thursday, he met with Nevada's county superintendents in Carson City to discuss proposed legislation for the state's public schools.

Dr. Gorrell Named to DRI Post

Professor Robert M. Gorrell, chairman of the English department, has been appointed associate director for humanities in the Desert Research Institute.

He will be responsible for stimulating research and scholarship in art, foreign language, English, history, music, philosophy, speech and drama.

Professor Gorrell has published many articles on Elizabethan drama, rhetoric and language. He has also been the co-author of several books on the English language.

"Professor Gorrell is extremely well qualified to help University research in the Humanities. We are very pleased to have his assistance in this effort," commented

Professor Wendell A. Mordy, director of the Institute.

Professor Gorrell has been a Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Sydney, in Australia and at the University of Helsinki, Finland.

Before joining the staff at the University of Nevada in 1945, the professor taught at Deep Spring College, Calif., and Indiana University. He received his Ph. D. from Cornell University.

of two 20-minute arguments (affirmative-negative) and two 10-minute rebuttals (in the same order), said Santini.

Miller will argue the negative; Donathan will take the affirmative. Questions from the audience will follow the arguments, "on the card basis," Santini announced.

Tentative time of the debate is 3 p. m., but is subject to change.

Hollis to Make Student Survey

A Milwaukee college movement seeking income tax exemptions for the nation's college and university students has caught the interest of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity's national office.

The fraternity, embarking on a nation-wide study of the proposed exemption program through its chapters, has appointed Joe Hollis as its University of Nevada correspondent.

Hollis, a ASUN senator, has been directed to write tot Wisconsin senator Proxmire, the Milwaukee Institute of Technology's student government for full information on the subject.

His second step will be a student poll on campus. The results will be reported to the national Phi Sig office.

'Take Five'

By JOHN FIRPO

Hot Buttered Rum, Fifty-mile hikes, and real skiing (or the next best thing to it) are in; Bill "The Dipper" Robinson, Harlan Heward, and possibly, frats without house mothers, are out.

Yesterday was Valentines Day, but you couldn't tell it by the low number of fatalities occurring the past week. Maybe there's no one left!

Gamma Phi Liz MacGregor is now sporting the Sigma Nu pin of Herb Nichols while his sister, Theta Jean Nichols will wed former Aggie president Bud Hage on St. Patrick's Day. Recently married and spending their honeymoon in Hawaii were Peggy Burgess and Sigma Nu Bruce Pendleton.

We might get a new column in the Sagebrush soon if the tide of mail keeps coming in. It'll probably be called "The Santini-Miller Letters to the Editor". Usually advertisting determines how much news Editor Doug puts into the paper, but soon he'll probably be consulting Mr. Santini too.

Too bad we don't have a coloring book for the University. We could paint ski coach Chelton Leonard red in the face. Shelly didn't even mention tiny Sierra College when asked to comment on the favorities of the Winter Carnival. The experts forgot to figure that Norwegians can ski. Although it was a loss for Nevada, most of the members of the winning teams had skiers from Reno, North Lake Tahoe and Truckee. Increase the out-of-state tuition grants and Nevada may win the Carnival next year.

The Sno-Ball was a great success. Couples seen there included Theta Karen Fabri and George Griffith, Pi Phi Pam Plath and Lambda Chi Ken Clayton, Theta Michele Maupin and Tau Wayne Kollege, Pi Phi Penny White and SAE Dennis Farnesi, Gamma Phi Susan Rhodes and Sigma Nu Dave Mandell, Pi Phi Katy Corbin and Sigma Nu Lynn Gerow, Theta Cheryl Griffin and Sigma Nu John Davies, Pi Phi Joann Denny and Snake Art Kess, Theta Anne Louise Cantlon and Tau prexy Tim Griffin.

Bobby Kennedy, office girls, the Marines, and Boy Scous aren't going to outdo the SAE's when it comes to hiking. Art Broten, Dick Short, Larry Kees and Keith Roman plan to try the fifty-mile hike bit tomorrow morning for their merit badges. Not that journalists are soft or anything, but Pierre Sallinger (the man who writes Cuber, Cuba) decided to reconsider his attempt at the fete.

Speaking of journalists, usually a journalism grad makes good, but one journalism student started early last week. She was cited for her actions by downtown officials. Only she didn't get an award, it was more of a citation to appear on charges of 10-54 and 10-55.

Theta Donal Ruth Murphy and Sagebrush staffer Pat Rogero saw a 97-year-old fortune teller recently about love problems.

There's a new fad going round the compuses of the nation. It's called the Laundronaut. The object is to see how many revolutions a guy can last in a wash drier.

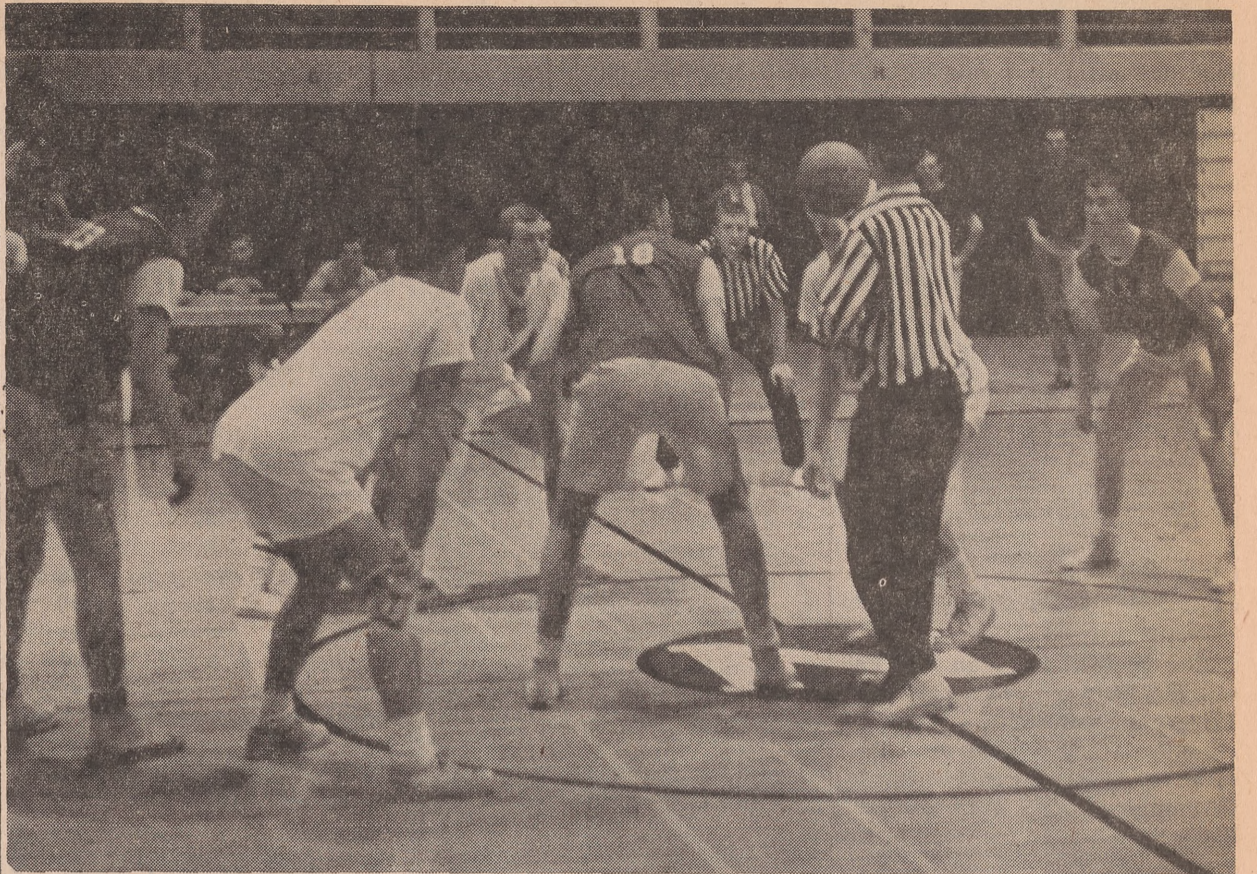

Here and there . . . Life magazine has come out with a special newsstand only edition for news-starved New Yorkers. It even contains a full-page spread on what's happened in the funnies since the strike began. Word from down South is that women are now eligible to play any sport in the Southwest Conference.

Other athletic conferences are expected to follow the example — just imagine Judy Schmidt blocking for Ray-Del Turco next fall. Lambda Chi pledge Dick Andrews, a member of the Wolf Pack ski team, went off the downhill run Saturday and is in the hospital in a body cast.

Nightclub beat . . . Frankie Laine has a really, really great show at the Nugget Casino. He sings everything from "Jezebel" to "Rawhide" and even "What Kind of Fool Am I" in a way not yet matched. usually, lounge acts don't have too many folk-singing groups in this area. When they do they aren't worth the price of admission. But there's an exception down at Harrah's now in the Traveler's Three. Judy Garland is now at Harrah's South Shore with Lawrence Welk and Danny Thomas signed for future engagements. New Yorker co-owner Del Webb has started building a new luxury hotel-casino at Stateline.

The best on the lighter side this week comes from the local internal revenue department. It seems that some student tried to claim his University parking tickets as an exemption. Take Five!

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL—ANOTHER STEP TOWARD THE KINNEAR

Defense Loans Available to Students

By MIMI SKILLICORN

If you worry about finances, you may be glad to know that somebody "up there" cares.

The National Defense Education Loan program, along with banks across the country, are now lending money to college students who need help with their college expenses.

Nearly $80,000 was loaned to students at the University of Nevada in the fall of 1962 and spring of 1963 under the National Defense student loan program. The program, part of the National Defense Education Act of 1958, enables needy students majoring in education, engineering, math, science, and foreign languages to study at universities of their choosing.

The program is meant to encourage more students to enter these five areas of specialization, alleviating manpower shortages in those areas.

The act contains a forgiveness clause, providing that students who teach in public schools after graduation will be "forgiven" 10 per cent of the total borrowed for each year they teach, up to a maximum of five years. Thus, 50 per cent of the loan could be cancelled.

Undergraduates must have a minimum of 2.1 over-all average, and graduate students must have a 3.1.

Students in areas other than those provided for by NDSL may borrow on a long-term basis from banks in their home states. The United Student Aid Fund serves as an intermediary between the students hometown bank and the student's college with the bank making the loan at cost or below, and the college underwrites the loan by depositing funds in the reserve.

The First National Bank of Nevada, Wells Fargo Bank and Bank of America in California operate under the program. But the banks will not make a promit on these loans even though they are obliged to charge four-to-eight per cent interest, said William E. Rasmussen, directotd of financial aids.

To be eligible, a college student must have completed his freshman year satisfactorily and be working toward a degree, and be a resident of the state in which he is applying.

Interested students can pick up forms and additional information in room 104, Clark administration building.

Secretary Udall Speaks to Staff

Four University of Nevada staff scientists heard Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall speak last month at National Cattleman's Association meeting in Las Vegas.

They were William Behrens, animal husbandry; William Neely, production economist; Henry Kilpatrick, range and pasture economist; and Dr. Ray Ely, assoc. director of the agricultural experiment station.

Udall urged formation of a "Youth Conservation Corps" for teenage boys. Pointing to the "pitiful condition" of western ranges, he said that not only would the range benefit the boys, but that the boys would benefit the range.

In the course of his researches he travelled to Berlin on the "last bus" before that city was blockaded by the Russians in 1948, and he stayed in Berlin during the first weeks of the airlift.

Elected to a Sir John Dill Fellowship, offered by Yale and Princeton universities, Griffith chose Yale and worked on a doctoral thesis in modern history, receiving an M. A. in 1948, and publishing portions of his work in the Yale Review.

At the beginning of the Hungarian revolt in late October 1956, Griffiths reached Budapest just before the Soviet tanks moved in. He was there throughout the heavy fighting, but escaped with five other newsmen only to be captured near the Austrian border. The Russians held him for four days before releasing him.

The lecture title used by Griffiths allows him flexibility, permitting him to speak about the important issues of the day. He discusses immediate news based on a master list of story areas that he believes to be important. His approach to the topic is that of a newsmen.

Admission to the lecture is by season ticket, or, for students, AS-UN card. Single admission at the door will be $3.00.

Frosh Cagers Are Unbeaten

Nevada's unheralded freshman basketball squad is undefeated so far in the season with an 11-0 record. That includes a narrow win over Sacramento, 50-49.

Carl Bossieux scored the winning tally, which turned out to be his only point of the evening.

Most Frosh games are scheduled against local high school and city league games. In view of the record, the most impressive wins have been over Murdock's twice, and Sparks and Reno high schools.

Murdock's is 10-0 in city league competition.

Former University of Nevada basketball players Dan Vidovich, Lyle Damon, and George Nelson are on the squad.

Sparks and Reno are tied for the high school top-spot, but neither came within 20 points of the U of N Frosh.

The Frosh have depended heavily on their tight defense and back-board control, said John Prida, assistant coach. Bill Owens, Larry Moore, and Napoleon Montgomery are all averaging over twelve rebounds per game.

The whole squad sees a good deal of action, indicating a strong bench.

The Freshman team is coached by Bernie Fumagalli and Prida.

CALPURNIA, HERE I COME

Now, as the college year approaches its mid-point, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to flunk everything.

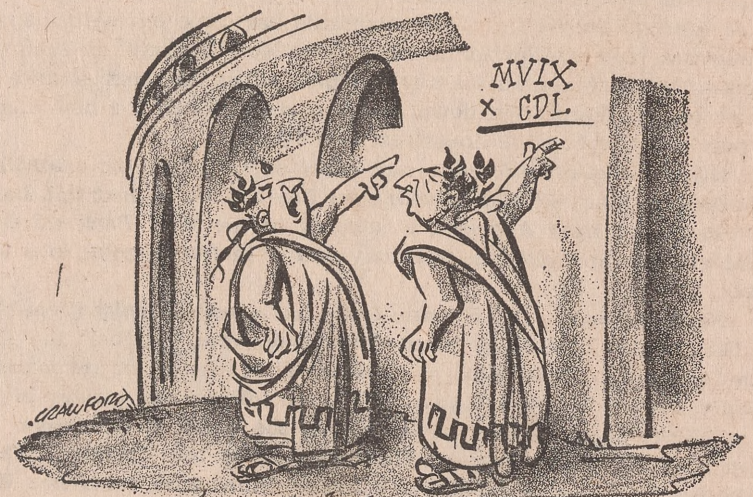

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself; I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between people and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, smoked with great pleasure and enthusiasm in all fifty states of the Union. I bring up Marlboro Cigarettes because this column is sponsored by the makers of Marlboro, and they are inclined to brood if I omit to mention their product.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, 123.6% of American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this shocking statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

- I. House of Plantagenet.
- II. House of Lancaster.
- III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

They got to arguing...

(It may, incidentally, be of some historical interest to point out that Americans are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The Romans didn't know them themselves. I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real cuties like LXI or MMC, they just flang away their styluses and went downtown to have a bath and take in a circus and maybe stab Caesar a few times.)

(You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well sir, the fact is that the Emperor Vespasian tried like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman the Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold piastres, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Charlton Heston.)

(So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CDL times MVIX. Well sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and—wham!—before you could say pecca fortiter, in rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!)

Well sir, that's the way the empire crumbles, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Marlboro Cigarettes. The makers would be so pleased! And is it not fitting that we should please these honest tobaccoists—these fine men, fond of square dancing, water sports, protein, and tattoos—these tireless perfectionists who spend all of their days trying to please us—searching everywhere for the best of all possible tobaccos, aging them with patience, blending them with tender, loving care? Marlbors are available in soft pack and flip top box. You will find XX cigarettes in each package.

State Edges Pack In Twin-Overtime

Sacramento State, winless in eight straight games, turned spoiler Tuesday night and stifled Nevada's bid for the Far Western Conference championship, 75-73 in double overtime.

The Wolf Pack carried a 4-1 conference record into the contest, but still trailed San Francisco State's league leading 6-0 mark. Since the Gators have defeated every team in the league, the Pack posed the only real threat to a Frisco title. Now Nevada must win all the rest of its games, including a rematch with San Francisco tonight and the Gators must drop two for the Silver and Blue to gain even a tie.

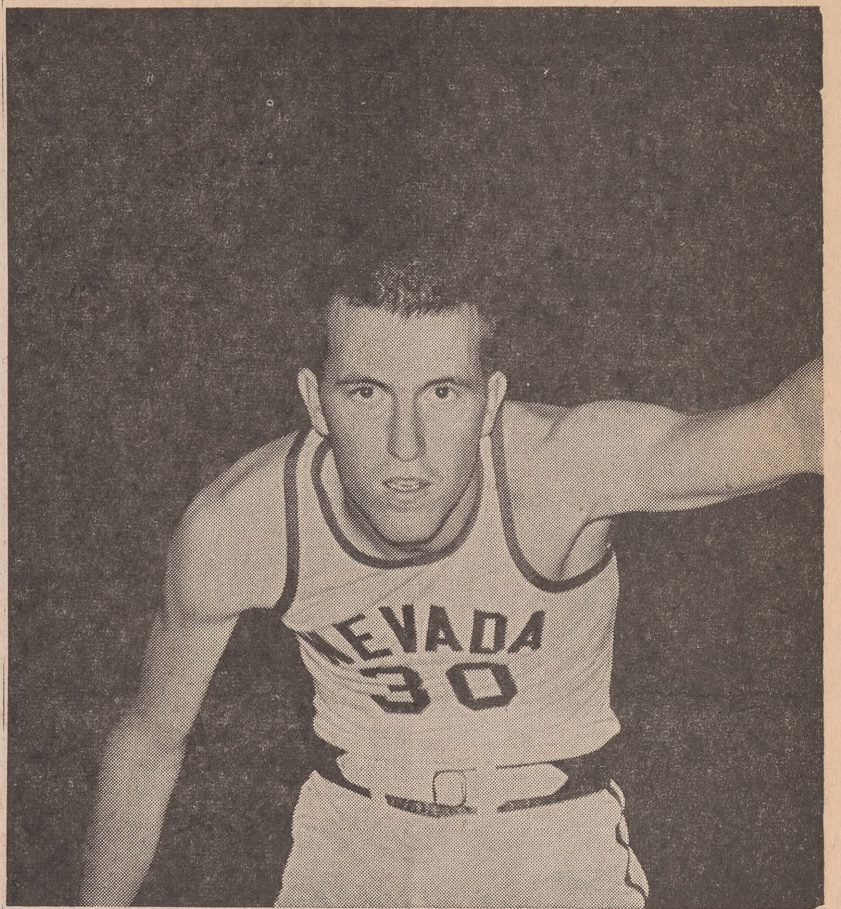

Alameda State comes to town Saturday evening, also posing a big threat to the Pack. Even with the services of now absent Bill Robinson and Harlan Heward, Nevada managed to defeat the Pioneers by only one point.

The loss to Sacramento was heart-breaking for fans who had seen Nevada notch seven straight wins over rugged competition.

The Pack trailed most of the way as Sacramento shooters were unusually accurate. John Dille popped in 31 for the winners, and two other Hornets jumped into double figures as well.

Stewart Johnson totaled 26 points, serving notice that he will be the offensive replacement Coach Jack Spencer sought after Robinson's departure. Bob Schebler backed him up with some important goals, one sending the game into its first overtime.

Johnson New Offense Leader

Senior Stu Johnson is playing in his fourth season for the Wolf Pack quintet.

He is 21-years-old, stands 6-4 and weighs 175 pounds. He plays forward in the Nevada forecourt. Johnson is currently the leading scorer on the Nevada cage team. His scoring has picked up steadily during the last few games.

Johnson is from Hawthorne and was an outstanding athlete at Mineral County High School. He was twice named to the Nevada all-state basketball team. He also gained two berths on the all-conference baseball team.

During his career at Nevada, Johnson has earned three letters in basketball. He also is a member of Block "N" and the Sagers.

Johnson is a physical education major. He plans to work for United Airlines after graduation. He is married and has a two year old daughter.

Pack Meets Chico, Sierra Sunday

Nevada's ski team will get a chance to avenge its Winter Carnival defeat to Chico State this weekend at Sierra College's Invitational meet. Chico and Sierra took first and second places in the Carnival.

This will be the squad's second meet. The event was originally scheduled at Alpine Meadows and Squaw Valley, but due to the lack of snow the scene has been switched to Sky Tavern and Slide Mountain. Dates of the meet have also been moved from March 16, 17, and 18 because of adverse snow conditions.

The team line-up will be about the same, according to ski coach Chelton Leonard. Team members are: Jim Achceson, Greg Austin, Jim Barry, Mike Brunetto, Bob Kean, Lane Monroe, Dave Small, and Bud Sorensen.

Nevada Boxing Squad Opens Season in Chico Tonight

The 1963 University of Nevada Boxing team makes its debut tomorrow night at Chico, with Jimmy Olivas, boxing coach, saying, "this is the best all-around squad of boxers I have coached for years."

Skip Houk, undefeated last year until the post-season tournaments, looks improved for his second year of fighting in the 147-pound class. Olivas expects him to be undefeated this year.

Muscular little Larry Williamson in the 126 lbs. class has looked impressive in practice and Olivas feels Williamson will also be undefeated. Williamson fought last as a freshman, and will be in his first year of varsity competition.

Dave Stiv, in the 156-lbs. class, is in better shape than last season and is likely to be an even more formidable opponent than he was when he dropped a split decision in the tournament last year.

Nick Dryden, 132 - lbs. class, fought as a Fresh last season and is much improved.

Gene Montrose, 139-lbs. class, is a 24-year-old freshman, and an Army veteran. He has had no previous experience, but has looked "solid" in practice, said Olivas.

Chris Wilson, 165-lbs. class, is back with the squad after a one-year layoff. He has one year of varsity experience.

Mike Christopher, 178-lbs. class, "a football and track star" at the University of Nevada, is a senior, but this is his first year of varsity competition for Olivas.

Jim Evans, a heavyweight, is a frosh from Reno High School where he played football and baseball.

John Curry will fight either in the 165-lbs. class or as a light-heavyweight depending on where Olivas needs him.

The schedule for the Wolf Pack will be smaller than usual this season. Santa Clara has dropped from competition, and Stanford will compete only in the tournaments because of financial reasons.

The Pack's schedule following Saturday's Chico match will be: Feb. 26—the 12th Naval District Tournament at Vallejo.

Acheson Thanks Carnival Committee

EDITOR, THE SAGEBRUSH:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for all the work done on the 1963 Winter Carnival by the members of its committee and by all the people who helped to make the Carnival a success.

Though I have tried to thank all these people personally, I would particularly like to mention the excellent job done by Nevada's Ski Coach Chelton Leonard and the Student Tourney Director, Roger Cornwall. In spite of adverse snow conditions, their efforts on the hill resulted in successful ski events in every case. Without the help of the dump trucks and loaders from Mr. Goodell of the University Farm and Mr. Hank Isbell of Isbell Construction, it would have been impossible to have had the jumping hill in shape. As far as I know, this is the first Carnival in which equipment had to be used to make the jumping possible, so we are particularly appreciative of their co-operation.

I would like to thank Pat Rogero for her outstanding job of publicizing the Carnival. As everyone who went to the Sno-Ball Saturday could see, Judy Morrison did an excellent job of arranging that dance. I would also like to thank my co-ordinator, Donal Ruth Murphy for seeing to it numerous details were taken care of.

The co-operation of these people, the rest of the committee, and all the other people who worked together to make the Carnival a success has really been tremendous. The willingness of Nevada students to work for their University has indicated some real outstanding school spirit.

JIM ACHESON,
Winter Carnival Chairman

The Kremlin maintained a strange silence on the whole affair, despite the fact that the only internationally recognized walking record—30 miles in 4 hours, 7 minutes, eleven seconds — is held by a Russian.

Las Vegas newsman, Peter Anderson, hobbled back into his office 13 hours and 50 minutes after he had set out, only to discover he had hiked only 45 miles.

"What about the other five?" he was asked.

"The hell with it," he said, and sat down.

We'll be on the campus on the dates listed below, ready to give engineering and science seniors information on space-age careers in a dynamic industry.

If you are looking for a company offering assignments on programs of unique interest and career potential, you'll be interested in the advantages Boeing can offer you.

Boeing, for instance, is a major contractor on such advanced programs as the Saturn S-IC first-stage rocket booster, the X-20 Dyna-Soar manned space glider, the solid-fuel Minuteman ICBM, and the Bomarc defense missile system. Boeing is also the world's foremost designer and builder of multi-jet aircraft, including the eight-jet B-52H missile bomber, the KC-135 tanker-transport, the C-135 cargo-jet, and the famous Boeing 707, 720 and 727 jetliners. In addition, Boeing's Vertol Division is one of America's leading designers and builders of helicopters.

Research projects at Boeing are under way in such advanced fields as celestial mechanics, solid state physics, nuclear and plasma physics, flight sciences, space flight and propulsion.

Expanding Boeing programs offer exceptional opportunities to holders of B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in aeronautical, mechanical, civil, electrical-electronic and industrial engineering, and in engineering mechanics, engineering physics as well as in mathematics and physics. Assignments are available in Washington, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Louisiana, Alabama, California and Florida.

You'll work in a small group where individual ability and initiative get plenty of visibility. You'll enjoy many other advantages, including an opportunity to take graduate studies at company expense to help you get ahead faster.

Drop in to your Placement Office and arrange for an interview. We're looking forward to meeting you!
