

Forum Suggests Action On Race Issue

Racial discrimination affecting University of Nevada students held the spotlight at Wednesday afternoon's session of the student-faculty "forum"—a group of some 50 students and faculty members who met in Ross hall to mull over the problem.

Although moderator Larry Struve opened the meeting saying that discussion would not center on Sagebrush editorial policy or the Feb. 18 "Little Wal" incident, the talk eventually covered both realms.

A written statement by Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, University president, pointed out that the University could not take an official stand, but did encourage discussion.

Moving from the idea of discrimination as a clash of moral value to discrimination and its solution, the group finally heard the presentation of a petition by Joe Launie, a graduate student in economics. Launie was one of the six "freedom drinkers" who attempted to reveal the discriminatory practices in the operation of the Little Waldorf bar, a traditional college hangout.

The petition would "encourage" Lance Morton, proprietor of the Little Waldorf, to change his policies. Some also thought it would be a good idea to alert the state legislature to the problem.

Suggestions ran the gamut from wearing "anti-Wal" buttons to boycotting the "Wal." The most concrete suggestion however, was to present the ASUN senate with the idea of an all-school secret-ballot vote. If the outcome were favorable, the group would encourage the drafting of a petition.

Bobby Heron, negro student and the man refused service at the Little Waldorf, said the group went to the bar to establish the fact that the "Little Wal" was discriminating against Negroes.

"I did so because of my own feelings," Heron said. "I was not a dupe or victim of circumstances."

He said that he felt an injustice was being done to all students by denying one of his right of dignity.

Clark Santini, a member of the group which accompanied Heron to the establishment, said something must definitely be done.

"Today it is Bobby's color, perhaps tomorrow my religion, your political belief," he said.

Extended to 1964 U of N Research At AEC Test Site

The contract under which the University of Nevada has been conducting geological and hydrological investigations at the Atomic Energy Commission's Project Shoal site in the Sand Spring mountain range near Fallon, Nevada, has been extended for one year, at an estimated cost of $103,666.

Project Shoal is a proposed underground nuclear detonation of approximately 10 kilotons at a depth from the surface of approximately 1,200 feet in the granite of the mountain range.

It is part of the nation's seismic research program, known as Vela Uniform, which is concerned with improving means for detecting and identifying underground nuclear detonations.

Because this involves interpreting the signals recorded from nuclear detonations, as opposed to those recorded from natural earthquakes, the active earthquake region in the Sand Springs range was selected for Project Shoal.

Other Vela Uniform nuclear detonation experiments are planned in a Mississippi salt dome. No nuclear detonations have yet been approved for the program.

The University of Nevada has been working with AEC's Nevada Operations Office on Project Shoal since November, 1961.

The initial contract for geological, geophysical, hydrological, and related investigations provided for estimated expenditures of $188,511, with field work performed by the University's Mackay School of Mines and Desert Research Institute.

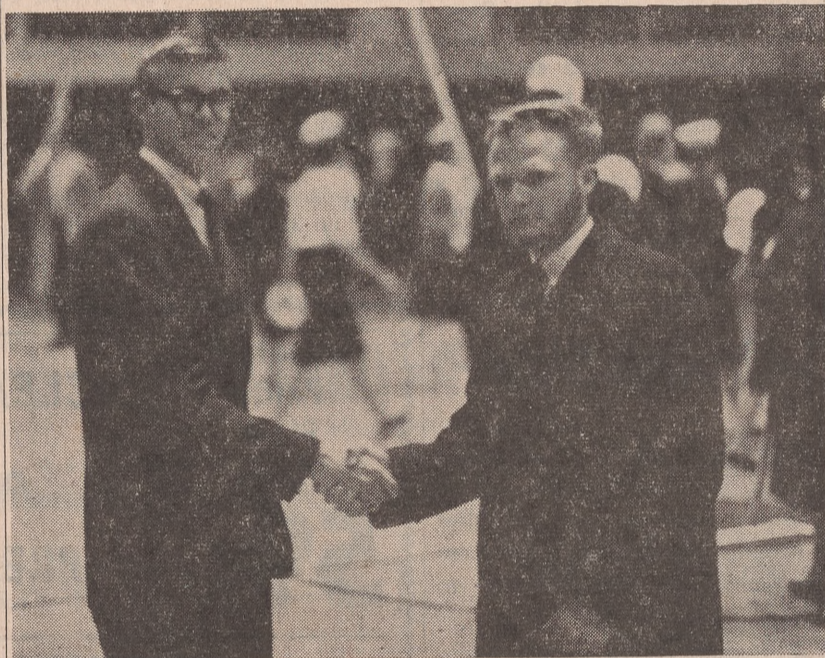

The Nevada Bureau of Mines, a division of the Mackay School of Mines, directed the project with Dr. E. S. Jerome, Assoc. Director, project supervisor, and Dr. George B. Maxey, Desert Research Institute, as supervisor of hydrological activities.

Dr. Jerome and Dr. Maxey will continue these assignments with selected University staff and graduate students participating.

Activities will include pre- and post-detonation mapping; recording underground temperatures; collection and examination of rock samples; a study of mining applications of underground detonations; observation of water levels, quality and level fluctuations near

Hypochondriacs Get Relief; Asian Flu Epidemic Unlikely

Hypochondriacs, if you think the Asian flu bug is going to get you, you can relax.

For healthy people the flu is not a major threat but rather a nuisance causing loss of work and absence from classes, commented Dr. Robert Locke, University physician.

The dreaded foreign bug, which has been making its way West from the East coast, has not been a major problem on campus. The University infirmary has had few true flu cases, although students having mild aches and pains may have a minor case of the flu, Dr. Locke said.

Although he doesn't expect a

Hollis "Hello" Dance Slated for Tonight

Phi Sigma Kappa's Say Hello dance will be held tonight instead of Sunday as originally announced. The dance, to which all students are invited, will be held in the dining commons from 7-9 p.m.

Refreshments will be served, and music will be furnished by the "Playboys."

The dance is planned to afford students the opportunity to meet Joe Hollis, candidate for ASUN president.

major epidemic to hit the campus, Dr. Locke said that if it should occur the infirmary will be able to handle it.

Students were urged to get flu shots last December but few students took advantage of them, mentioned Dr. Locke.

They would have lessened the chance of a wide-scale epidemic. Once the student has been exposed to the flu it is too late for immunization, Dr. Locke said.

Watson Proposes 'Quiet Area'

A "quiet area" has been proposed for the Getchell library by Ron Watson, chairman of the ASUN library committee. The area, probably on the library's ground floor, would be an area where talking would be prohibited.

It would be posted, patrolled, partially closed off, and might have carpeting in the aisles, said Watson.

Student opinions on the matter should be placed in the library suggestion box at the main desk, said Watson.

Candidates Outline Political Platforms

Presenting platforms aimed at the improvement of the University of Nevada and the ASUN, candidates for major offices appeared before students Tuesday night at the annual election assembly in the new gym.

Nearly all of the top candidates had something to say about the Getchell library, and the need for student support in the matter, including aspirants for the No. one office, ASUN president.

They included:

Jim Acheson, Lambda Chi Alpha, Winter Carnival chairman and member of the ski team. Pointing to a lagging rate of growth in the number of volumes in the library, Acheson called for increased student support. The library, he said, should have 500,000 books, but has only 176,000. It should add 65,000 volumes yearly; instead adds only one-fourth that number.

"I will do all . . . in my power to see that such proposals for expansion and increased facilities are carried through," he said.

Other Acheson points included: an up-to-date file on student ideas and policies; the honor code, enforced by the student court; coordination between the ASUN and the student union; continuance of the senate steering committee, and increased contact with Nevada high school students—to prevent the top ones from going out-of-state for their educations.

Joe Hollis, Phi Sigma Kappa, active class committeeman and future Marine second lieutenant, called it "senseless" to run on a "platform of lofty ideals and abstractions."

"Such a platform would hold no promise of betterment or progress in student government," he said. He called for emphasis on "subjects which could affect the status of all students, not merely those in student government."

Calling the library a "ludicrous picture, a beautiful building sheltering a very few volumes," he called for direct student support of the library, rather than indirect support such as pressure on the state legislature.

Hollis would establish a committee "to determine methods of raising funds and donating books." The committee would operate along the lines used by Blue Key in its "Operation Mud."

Hollis also called for increased cooperation between the Board of Regents, the administration and the students; and for measures that would arouse interest in student government.

"Merely stating that the students are apathetic is not a solution," said Hollis.

Candidates for first vice president took different approaches to the problem.

Andy Gotelli, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, cited his experience in business as a prerequisite to the office. He called his business background an "essential requirement" to the first vice president.

Candidates Cut In Primary Race

A total of 481 students turned out to cast ballots in the ASUN spring primaries Wednesday. The election narrowed field in the races for senior class president, AWS president, and senators from the college of business administration.

Tom Burns, Alpha Tau Omega, will be pitted against Jon Key, Sigma Nu, in the general election race for senior class president.

Eliminated from the race was Bob Hale, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Burns polled 66 votes, Key 48, and Hale 46.

Mary Rossolo, Gamma Phi Beta, will vie with Dot Gallagher, an Independent, for AWS president. Miss Rossolo received 109 votes, Miss Gallagher 148, and Joanie Westfield, Kappa Alpha Theta, 102.

George Vandervort, Sigma Phi Epsilon, was eliminated in the business administration race.

Surviving the race and set for the general election are Karen Carlson, Gamma Phi Beta, 55; Gary Boyd, Independent, 42; Jerry Guffey, ATO, 48, and John Petrie, Sigma Nu, 42. Vandervort received 33 votes.

Greeks Schedule Spring Dances

Variety will be the keynote of social activities this weekend.

Pi Beta Phi will host a ski dance Friday night at the Rosemont Lodge.

The dance is scheduled from 8 to 11 p.m., and then the group will adjourn to the Pi Phi house for coffee.

Lambda Chi Alpha returns to "49er" days at a costume dance Saturday night at the VFW hall. Gold Rush costumes will prevail and prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Pledges, actives, and alumni of Sigma Alpha Epsilon will present their annual Founders' Day dance Friday night at Hidden Valley country club.

A Moonlight Ski Party at Sky Tavern will be hosted by Phi Sigma Kappa Saturday night. The T-Bar hill will be lighted for skiing.

What's the Difference?

A man drives his car down the highway. He is licensed by the government to drive on the highway, and he pays taxes to help support the highway. Another man stops him and asks for a ride, offering to pay. The driver refuses to give the man a ride.

And no one would say he has to. But on the other hand—

A man drives his bar down the road of economic life. He is licensed by the government, and he pays taxes that, in part, support the economy. Another man stops him and asks for a drink, offering to pay. The bartender refuses to give the man a drink.

But some would say he has to.

Here We Go Again

If a boy is fighting another boy and he gets nowhere, he has three alternatives. He can quit, he can keep fighting, or he can go get help. Sometimes he goes looking for help—preferably a large gang if he can find one.

The persons (some students and faculty) who want the Little Waldorf to change its policies have the same alternatives. They seem to be leaning toward the latter, as they seemed to at the start when they sought the editorial support of the Sagebrush and didn't get it.

This became evident at Wednesday's session of the student-faculty "forum," when one of the men involved in the Feb. 18 incident at the Little Waldorf bar read a petition encouraging the owner to change his policies. It was later indicated that ASUN support would be sought for the petition.

With this move, the oiginators of the movement indicated that their cause would be better off if it had more influential backing than they could give it. The backing of the ASUN would certainly be influential.

But the ASUN, representing many students with varied feelings on the matter, has no place in the petition business, especially where student funds are involved.

The originators may obtain a sizeable amount of assistance to push their "Little Wal" stunt into the form of a movement, but the editorial columns of this newspaper will not be included.

If the men involved can't carry on their own fight once they have started it, they should forget it.

Rogero, Hueftle 'Brush Nominees; Annual Post Open

Next year's edition of the Artemisia, the University of Nevada yearbook, may be without an editor if a candidate for the post cannot be found.

JoAnne Nelson, 1963 editor of the Artemisia, was the only student publication official unable to nominate a person to fill her shoes next year. Her top assistants, she said, are graduating, while the underclassmen on the staff don't want the job.

Any interested students, male or female, should get in touch with Miss Nelson in the yearbook office in the journalism building basement.

Other nominations included: —Pat Rogero for 1963-64 editor of the Sagebrush. Miss Rogero, a junior majoring in journalism, has served on the newspaper staff for two years. She was political editor last year, and is managing editor this year. She was also Winter Carnival publicity chairman.

—Carole Hueftle for 1963-64 business manager of the Sagebrush. Miss Hueftle, also a junior journalism major, has served as feature and campus news editor of the newspaper.

—John Scott for 1964 business manager of the Artemisia. Scott, a Sigma Nu, would succeed Herb Nichols, present business manager. He is a sophomore.

3 Groups Sked Lenten Activities

Lenten services and activities are being sponsored for the Lenten season by three campus religious clubs.

A refresher course in faith, sponsored by the Canterbury club, Episcopalian student organization, is held every Monday at 7 a.m. at St. Stephen's Episcopal church. In addition, the club will hold Bible study classes every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. and a Sunday service at 7 p.m.

The Campus Christian association will hold a series of worship and discussion groups with a special Lenten emphasis. Regular Sunday meetings at 7:00 p.m. will continue at the center, just across the street from Juniper hall.

Recitation of the Rosary every Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. at St. Albert's church is being conducted by the Newman club. The Catholic students will also attend Mass together every Friday morning at 7:00 at St. Albert's.

Being a Queen Has Its Problems

If you think being a beauty queen is all spotlights and bouquets, talk to Delta Delta Delta president Ellen Roseman.

Two weeks ago, Miss Roseman competed for the title of Miss Snowflake, the queen of the Heavenly Valley Winter Carnival. A Heavenly Valley representative gave her the wrong directions, and she arrived at the contest area eleven minutes late.

Late or not, she won the contest.

Now lack of snow at Heavenly Valley may hamper scheduled ski competition.

Officials are uncertain whether the Carnival will be put on at all. The harried Miss Snowflake may have to settle for a royal role only in Saturday evening's "Snowflake Ball."

Letters to the Editor

Prof Disagrees, Runs Out of Words

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Tuesday's editorial expressed some estimable sentiments regarding the reprehensibility of attempts to stifle controversy and of attacks on character. Unhappily, these sentiments appear to have been misdirected.

Just who was it that attempted to suppress the issue of discrimination in university life, and who was it that imposed restrictions on the length and substance of letters to the editor?

And who was it that characterized the student participants in the discrimination incident as being "publicity-seekers" and "hell-raisers"? The editorial staff of the Sagebrush might do well to govern themselves by the same standards of behavior that

Why Doesn't Chef Eat His Own Food?

Editor, the Sagebrush:

After eating in the dining commons for a semester-and-a-half, I have learned that Mr. King does not always eat the same fare that he and his staff prepare for the students who patronize the facilities. Especially so when spaghetti is served.

This is a dreadful lack of confidence on Mr. King's part when, as a food preparation specialist, he does not enjoy the food that he orders prepared.

I think Mr. King should eat whatever he has prepared, especially spaghetti.

Hard To Fit Feelings Into 100 Words

Editor, the Sagebrush:

I have made several attempts to adequately express my reaction, in 100 words or less, to your latest editorial. I cannot. I disagree with you and I think with good reason. Don't accuse me of stifling controversy because I'm a faculty member or because I disagree. Please recognize that other people may feel differently and have a right to be heard. Judge what is said, not who is saying it.

'Take Five'

By JOHN FIRPO

The rash of warm weather brought quite a few visitors to the murky (black) waters of Manzanita Lake. Starting early Saturday morning at 7 a.m. (burr!!!), Theta active Suzi Royer was helped to an early morning shower by Pledges from her house. The whole thing was the most exciting part of a Theta pledge sneak.

The non-active group rented a bus and kidnapped both actives living in the house and in Reno. No one was spared, not even the fraternities on University Terrace who had to wake up at 7:30 to a feeble-sounding imitation of their frat drinking songs by a flock of robe-clad coeds with bobby-pins, curlers, jumbo curlers, and rabbit-furred slippers.

The whole procession remained one of a parade by the women's league for oustment of bordellos from the country.

There were additional swimmers that day. Theta Chi brethren saw an opportunity to catch up on a few winter pinnings who were spared a dip because of the winter ice. Actives John Bromley, Dave Roberts, and Harvey Lambert became victims of the old-time tradition.

The fatalities continue to mount for the second semester. Lambda Chi Jim Elliot gave his pin to Pi Phi Betty Webb. Student Unioner Bill Lohse and Pi Phi Mimi Patrick announced their engagement. Theta Karen Fabri announced her engagement to Las Vegas Dick Peterson. Also engaged were Theta Cindy Wilson (sister of SAE prexy Cal) and former Nevada athlete John Borda—now teaching and coaching at Carson High.

Taus had a coconut dance at the VFW hall last Saturday evening. Seen among the outriggers and grass skirts were Tim Griffin and Barbara Garavanta; Mike Mackedon and Sue Ellen Small; Kirk Kinne and Phyllis Goytino; Tom Seelinger and Kay Park; Bruce Park and Sue (shorty) Whitaker.

While everyone was getting dunked, socializing, and dancing, Theta Cheryl Griffin was trying to turn off a clothes washer the hard way. It appears that brave Cheryl attempted to stop the machine while it was on spin-dry. Results: One badly cracked arm and one shook up coed.

Herb Nichols and fraternity brothers serenaded his pinnee, Liz MacGregor but she thought it was some kind of political gimmick and didn't respond so well.

Cartoonist Steve Miller (Beau Gene) has switched roles. He's now sketching billboards for a prospective campus political future.

ON THE ENTERTAINMENT SIDE . . . Tony (I left my Heart in S. F.) Bennett is now at the Sparks Nugget Circus Room with former attraction Frankie Laine inked for a return showing in September. Gisele McKenzie is 7 floors up in Harolds Club while Bobby Darin prepares to follow Kay Starr on stage at Lake Tahoe. Something new has been added. A local company has come out with an automatic black-jack dealer. Only setback to its future success is that it eliminates the feminine dealer—three fourths of the fun of the game.

Lamba Chi extends an invitation for everyone to take in their beer bust this afternoon at 255 University Terrace.

Harlan Heward is unexpectedly back from a short vacation south of the border. Says his finances ran out and all he has to show is a deep tan. Toddy Watkins has found a text not yet placed in the Library—"Sex and the Single Girl" is the spicy title.

Indians, cowboys, saloon gals, trappers, drifters, gun-runners, bandits, deacons, gold miners, and the lot will be seen at the Lamba Chi "49er stomp" this Saturday in the VFW hall. Also holding dances with different themes are the SAE's and Phi Sigs.

There's a new and unusual society in America today. It's called the SINA (Society for Indecency to Naked Animals) and its been picketing the White House to get Jackie Kennedy to put pants on her horse and on Caroline's Macaroni and Tex. If the style is adopted, cats dogs, monkeys, cows, and horses will be wearing the pants in the family.

CAMPAIGN NOISE . . . THEN THAT LET-DOWN FEELING

WHOOPING IT UP for their candidates at the Tuesday election assembly are the coeds of Kappa Alpha Theta surrounded by equally-noisy Gamma Phi's and SAE's. When it was all over, all Theta Sally Shank (left) could do was sit and look tired.—Sagebrush/Artemisia photos.

Best-Dresser Pat Plenn Seeks Glamour Mag Title

By DUNCAN KNOWLES

As "Glamour" magazine searches the country's campuses for the ten best-dressed coeds in the United States, Nevada's entrant, Pat Plenn, will become a formal applicant.

Selected as the University's best-dressed coed of the year at the Interfraternity Council-Associated Women Students Fashion Show, Pat succeeds Audrey Chambers, last year's Glamour contestant.

One coed from each campus will enter the contest. The finalists will fly to New York City for two weeks.

The basis for judging include good figure, posture, grooming, a clear understanding of the entrant's fashion type, shining, well-kept hair, an adept hand at make-up, a workable wardrobe plan, suitable campus look, individuality in the use of colors and accessories, imagination in managing a clothes budget, and an appropriate look for off-campus occasions.

The fashion show representative Andy McKenzie, said Pat was selected as "she consistently displays a consciousness for fashion trends in her apparel. She combines her outfits with an interchange of accessories that gives the appearance of an extensive wardrobe."

Pat is a sociology major from Los Altos, Calif. Scholastically she maintains a 3.5 grade point average.

She was freshman representative to the AWS council, AWS lecture chairman, and a member of Spurs and the University Election Board. She is newsletter editor and program chairman for her sorority, Pi Beta Phi. Pat also teaches Sunday School.

Nevada Debuts Saturday; Meets Philadelphia Rookies

The University of Nevada baseball team will make its debut Saturday at 2 p.m. against the Philadelphia Rookies at Moana ball park.

Coach Bill Ireland calls the 1963 Wolf Pack "very promising."

"The team has looked very impressive in practice and is further along than a Wolf Pack team has ever been at this stage of the season," he said.

The Wolf Pack has been practicing since Feb. 1, and has missed only one practice because of the fair winter weather.

"With five weeks of practice behind them," says Ireland, "the boys are anxious and ready to go."

..Slated as starting pitcher for the Wolf Pack is Dennis Scott, a sophomore transfer from Monterey Peninsula J. C., where he was a 1962 All-Conference pitcher and outfielder.

"He has looked very promising in early season workouts," Ireland stated.

Don Banta and Don Collar are also slated to see pitching action against the Rookies. Both pitchers have impressive records.

Ireland explained that he will not play anyone for nine innings this early in the season, Banta, a letterman from last year's Wolf Pack, appeared in 11 games, had five decisions, three wins and two losses.

He also had the team's best earned run average of 2.50. Collar is a freshman from San Ramon high school, where he was "most valuable player" in 1962. He plays with the Phillie Rookies during the summer.

Very little is known about the Rookies. Last week they beat Santa Clara, the number one team in the nation last year. The Rookies have been playing winter ball in the bay area.

The Rookies will start pitcher Tobey Leigh, an outstanding player from Yerington high school. He signed a bonus contract with the Phillies in September. Sharing the mound duties for the Rookies will be Jim Nelson who pitched for the Fallon Legion team at the American Legion State Tournament last year.

Tennis Team Set For FWC Contest

Coach Bob Laughter is heading Nevada's tennis team for the sixth consecutive season. Three lettermen are back with Laughter from last year's team, which had a 1-5 win-loss record in Far Western Conference competition.

Kaye Won, a two-year letterman senior, plays in the team's No. 1 position. Laughter rates him a "steady" player.

Glen Laughton, one-year letterman, is "much improved," according to the coach, and will play in the No. 2 spot.

Ken Belden, the third returning letterman, is a senior and will play in the No. 3 position.

Other members of the team include Ed Vacchina, Bill Johnson, George Peek, and Lee Haines. They are listed in order of their playing position.

FWC tennis contests include five singles and two doubles games.

Seven matches determine the contest.

The 1963 schedules include:
April 5—Humboldt at Chico.
April 6—Cal Aggies at Davis.
April 19—Sacramento State
April 27—Chico State.
May 3—At Alameda.
May 4—At San Francisco.
May 10, 11—FWC Championships at Chico.

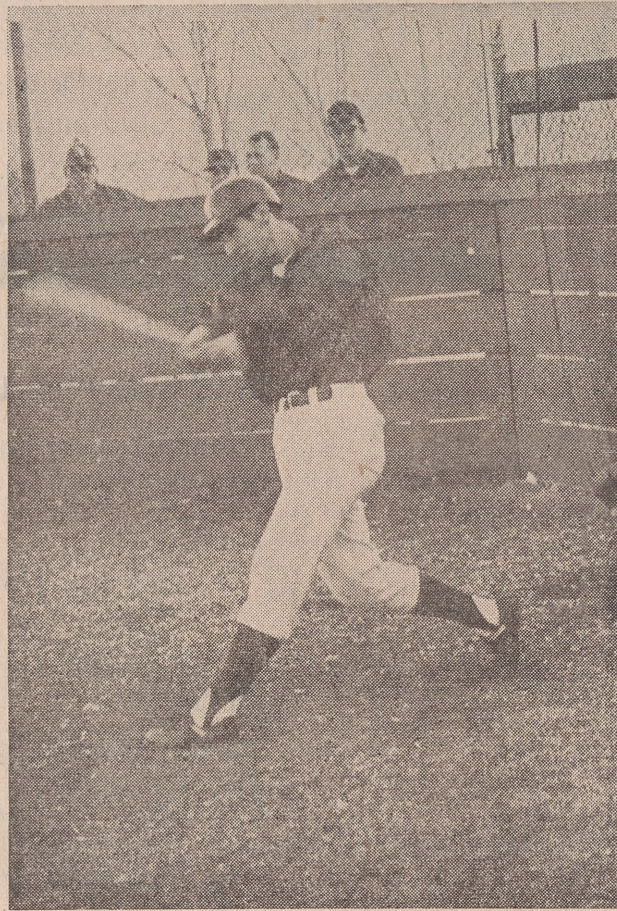

Home games and practice sessions are held at the Washoe County Golf course.

Tennis Sign-Ups

Sign-ups for singles and mixed doubles in the Womens' Recreation Association tennis tournament will be held on Tuesday, at 4 p.m. in the new gym.

Those unable to attend should contact Darrell Shone, tennis manager, at White Pine hall.

Cindermen Heading For Davis Relays

The Men Seeking Nevada's Fourth Straight Title

By TOM DYE

Sagebrush Sports Editor

The University of Nevada track team competes Saturday in the Davis Relays. It will be the season's first competition for the team. Other FWC conference teams will be competing, along with the University of Pacific.

Six relays, six field events and two open races are scheduled. No official score will be kept.

The meet will begin at 1 p.m. with the field events, the discus, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, javelin and high jump. The relays will begin at 2 p.m. with the sprint medley relay which consists of two 220's, one 440 and an 880.

Nevada will enter two teams in the distance medley relay, which is a 440, an 880, a 1320 and a mile.

The 440-yard relay, the 880-yard relay, the mile relay, and the two-mile relay will also be run in the meet.

The 220-yard intermediate hurdles and the 220 high hurdles are the two open races to be run.

Nevada did well in last year's meet, but may be pressed by improved Far Western conference teams such as San Francisco State and Sacramento State. Alameda State is an unknown quantity because this is the school's first year of track competition.

Sacramento State has been bolstered by junior college transfers and could prove tough in the sprint medley and distance medley.

San Francisco State has some good-distance and middle-distance runners including Craig Spilman, last year's FWC two-mile champion.

Four of Nevada's school record holders will compete in the meet: Ron Lee, holder of the mile record; Doug Ketron, who holds the two mile record; Rich William, who holds the pole vault record; and Dick Strunk, holder of the 220 and 100 records.

Strunk did not compete for the track team last year and is trying for a comeback. Three members of last year's record-setting mile relay team who will be running in the mile relay are Fred Williams, Fred Fralick, and Bob Rusk.

Nevada's next competition will be a four-way meet at Berkeley on March 23.

SAE's, Mavericks Lead Bowling

As the intramural bowling league passed its halfway mark Sunday Sigma Alpha Epsilon strengthened its first place position with a series sweep.

After a close 19-pin victory in the first game, SAE went on to beat Lincoln hall and set the evening high mark for team game and series.

Its team game score of 880 still falls short of the record 1000 pins set by the Mavericks last week but SAE's overall 2549 brought it within 109 pins of the Independent team.

The high individual series could not have been closer. Bob Linn, Mavericks, was the victor with 571 pins, with Sam Martini, SAE, 570, and Bob Cameron, Lambda Chi, 569, taking second and third. Cameron bowled the high game for the evening with a 215.

Next week's contests place the first four teams against each other. SAE rolls against fourth place Theta Chi while the second place Mavericks take on the Sigma Nus, who hold third spot.

Harvey LoSasso Gets DMS Rating

Harvey M. LoSasso, senior business student, was recently designated a distinguished Military Student by University president Charles J. Armstrong.

As a senior cadet with the DMS award, LoSasso is eligible to receive a regular army commission. He will be commissioned in June, and will begin his officer training soon after.

Nine other students received the DMS award earlier in the school year.

LoSasso is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Sigma Pi, Business Fraternity. He is engaged to Joyce Louise Sausser and plans a June wedding.

Coeds, Profs Attend Confab

Five Nevada coeds and two faculty members will travel to Pacific Grove, Calif., for a conference on athletics this weekend.

They will discuss "problems of programs" for women's athletic and recreation associations.

The women are Rosemarie Lithuania, WRA president; Cecelia Molteni, past president; Mary Ann Batchter, secretary; and Ruth Friedhoff, basketball manager. They will attend the Conference of Pacific Southwest Regional Athletic and Recreational Federation for College Women.

They will be accompanied by Dr. Jan Felshin and Miss Edrie Ferdun, instructors in women's physical education.

Nevada Coeds Compete In Tennis Tourney

The University of California at Santa Barbara was the setting for 1963's annual Intercollegiate Tennis Invitational last weekend.

Joan Westfield and Margaret Haight competed in the women's tennis tournament. Miss Westfield met Betty Jean Moffet, the third nationally-seeded player. Miss Moffet won.

Other schools in the competition were Pomona College, Stanford, Los Angeles State college, and the University of Santa Barbara.

Dr. Jan Felshin of the women's physical education department accompanied the girls.

... Political Platforms

 "The office requires a person with experience in administration and finance," said Gotelli.

Larry Struve, Lambda Chi Alpha, called the post a "vital and influential office . . . the heart of student government."

Pointing to the growth of the University of Nevada, Struve said that student government must "rise to the challenge or lose its influence."

"I have never been afraid to settle a problem," Struve said.

Judy Black, off-campus independent seeking the post of second vice president, described the of-office "in need of a new outlook." "I have seen a serious lack of organization," she said. Major celebrations, said Miss Black, have been characterized by indecision, lack of coordination, and a failure to uphold Nevada standards.

The post should not be regarded, she said, as "a status symbol to be abandoned after election."

Marsha Frankovich, Kappa Alpha Theta, called for a definition of the areas of responsibility of the office, a new policy to deal with unrecognized organizations, and a vote on senate for the second vice president.

She would cut financial statements from campus organizations to one a year (two are now required), streamline campus activities, and institute a "festival week" in cooperation with the student union.

Hitting back at Miss Black's argument that she, as an off-campus independent, could make unbiased decisions without prior loyalties, Miss Frankovich pointed out that she had been, at one time or another, affiliated with all three power groups. Those were the off-campus independents, on-campus independents, and the Greeks. Her decisions would be based on experience, she said.
