Regents Frown on Budget Cuts

Members of the Board of Regents had a few words of criticism for the Senate Finance committee as they met in Las Vegas Saturday. The Regents Oked a $7.5 million working budget for 1963-64, but indicated that they were not happy with the sum.

"We have to live with it," said Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, University president, but he noted that the budget as allocated by the legislature was "not enough to fulfill the University's total mission."

The University's total mission, incidentally, is threefold, embodying education, research and service.

Most of the president's criticism was aimed at members of the upper house Finance committee.

"Nobody could communicate with the Senate Finance committee. They just wouldn't talk to us," he said. On the other hand, he praised the Assembly Ways and Means committee as being "very sympathetic."

Gov. Grant Sawyer, who has been attacked by Nevada Southern student (effigy - hangings, demonstrations) for his part in chopping the original budget request, came in for additional criticism at the Saturday meeting. Dr. Louis Lombardi, Reno regent, said the Governor failed to provide "leadership."

"There was no real leadership from the governor to the legislature," said Lombardi. "They should approach state financing on the basis of 'this is what we need to run state government the way it should be; not, how are we going to get the money,'" he said.

A Carson City regent, Harold Jacobson, told board members that he had heard legislative criticism that the University was not firm enough in its budget demands.

Another suggestion, that private monies be sought to fill the fiscal gap left by the legislature, was rebuffed by Armstrong.

"Private money should never be thought of as a substitute for what the legislature should provide," said Armstrong.

Disarmament Topic Of Union Lecture

Dr. Byron Johnson, special assistant to the director of the Agency for International Development, will speak on campus Sunday May 5, at 8 p. m. in the dining commons.

His topic will be "After Disarmament, What?" It is part of the Student Union lectures series.

Johnson has been on the AID staff since 1961. He served in the 86th Congress, in the lower house, from Colorado. He is the author of several articles on economic and public affairs.

TV Brain Clash May 19 in N.Y.

Five University of Nevada students — four men and a girl — will be heading for New York and an appearance on nation-wide television in two weeks. They were named as finalists to the U of N's "College Bowl" team Monday night.

Dr. Harold Kirkpatrick, team coach, announced the names of David Cooper, Dale Donathan, Judy Garwood, Lynn Gerow and Steve Miller on a Monday night television appearance.

Only four will appear on the General Electric-sponsored "College Bowl" May 19. The other will make the trip as an alternate.

The five finalists were gleaned from an original entry list of 23 — of whom only 18 actually competed for team positions. Interested students were obtained from an earlier list of 48 students submitted by faculty members and department heads.

Recent screening narrowed the list to eight semi-finalists, who competed in Bowl-style appearance. senior history major from Reno. A Lambda Chi Alpha member, he was named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." He plans to be a college history teacher.

Lynn Gerow is a pre-med major with his home in Reno. Lynn is a 21-year-old senior who plans to attend McGill Medical School in Montreal, Canada next year. He is a Sigma Nu.

Steve Miller is a 22-year-old sophomore from Winnemucca. He spent three years in the Army, working for the public information department. Miller spent two years in Germany. He hopes to be an editorial cartoonist, but has no major at this time.

Judy Garwood is a 21-year-old sophomore from Reno. Her major is speech and drama and she hopes to be an actress following graduation. Miss Garwood spent her first year at Smith College, in New York, then worked for two years. She also attended the Neighborhood Play House in New York City for a year.

"What we are trying to achieve is a balanced team," said Basta.

"We want each team member to have intensive knowledge in one of the fields that the College Bowl will use. But they also must have general knowledge in at least three other fields," he said.

Dr. Harold Kirkpatrick

ance on campus and on KOLO-TV — the television channel which will carry the program to Nevada viewers.

Other semi-finalists were Bruce Beardsley, Tom Beatty and Lance Sparks.

"It was extremely difficult to choose four, so we selected five after a week of intensive drilling," said Dr. Sam Basta, chairman of the selection committee. Other members of the committee were Kirkpatrick, Dr. Robert McQueen, Dr. Donald Tibbits, and Mike Mackedon.

Contestants were asked questions submitted by members of the faculty during the elimination period.

David Cooper is a 24-year-old sophomore from Las Vegas. He served for several years in the Army's 101st Airborne division, before coming to the University. A history and political science major, he hopes to teach or enter graduate school following graduation. Cooper is married.

Dale Donathan, is a 21-year-old

ASUN Officials Attend Meeting In Sun Valley

Three ASUN officers will leave for Sun Valley, Ida., Wednesday for a four-day conference of the Pacific Student Body President's association.

Jim Acheson, ASUN president, Larry Struve, first vice-president, and Mike Mackedon, former ASUN president, will spend four days discussing problems of student government on college campuses.

The PSBA conference is held annually to bring student body officers on the West Coast together to discuss their problems and offer suggestions.

Struve said he hoped to make a comparative survey concerning text book costs. He said that since so many students complain of the fees charged for books, he would try to determine the average charge at other universities.

SNOW-BEDECKED but never daunted, John Mackay's statue has lost last week's unseasonal snowpack and looks ahead to the festivities with a statue-like minimum of vigor. First of the Mackay Day events will be the annual assembly at 7 p.m. in the new gym Thursday, featuring Bud and Travis and highlighted with the crowning of the queen. ### Our Fiscal Worries Are Over

The average student would do well to heed the due dates on any books borrowed from the University of Nevada library system these days. If he doesn't, he may well find himself in debt up to his ears.

It appears that inflation has finally hit the staid old library, and the hall of learning has gone the way of U. S. Steel. Witness some of today's rates, progressing from 50 cents for 4-7 days overdue (per book) to the exorbitant fee of three dollars (per book) for over 21 days.

In view of the current situation, today's truth-seeking University students would do well to raise their tired brows from their learning-filled volumes and check the date that their book is due. Otherwise—its onto the 20-year pay plan.

Ridiculous as they may seem, the new library fine system could solve some of the problems pressing the University today. With the money the library brings in, who needs any legislative appropraton? As a matter of fact, who needs taxes. The state legislature would do well to abolish taxes and finance the whole works with book fines from the Getchell library.

Nevada Profs Air Research Papers At Earth Science Societies Meeting

Six professors and associates from the Mackay School of Mines, presented papers based on original scientific research at a recent conference of earth science societies held at the University of California at Berkeley.

The occasion was the 59th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America, Cordilleran Section, held jointly with the Seismological Society of America, and the Paleontological Society, Pacific Coast section.

It was announced at the conference that the University of Nevada has been selected as site of the 60th annual meeting to be held in 1966.

Representing the Mackay School of Mines before the large gathering of scientists were: David B. Slemmons, prof. of geology, James I. Gimlett, prof. of geophysics, and Austin E. Jones, assoc. research seismologist, who presented separate papers on a joint seismological research project relating to the cataloguing of Nevada earthquakes.

Harold F. Bonham, Jr., geologist, who spoke on the geology of northern Washoe County from a study made with Vincent P. Gianella, professor emeritus, for the Nevada Bureau of Mines, University of Nevada; Malcolm J. Hibbard, prof. of geology, who described certain genetically important aspects of gabbrois rocks in the Okanogan Range of Washington; and Alexis Volborth, mineralogist, who gave two papers on research in X-ray spectrographic determinations of oxides in igneous rocks of Nevada, and neutron activation analysis for oxygen in rock standards.

Also attending the meeting from the Mackay School of Mines were prof. emeritus Vincent P. Gianella; Otto H. Haas, distinguished visiting prof. of geology and paleontology; and a number of Mackay students.

Letters to the Editor

Will Dean's Ducks Find Happiness?

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Re: The Waterfowl
We would like to congratulate the Sagebrush staff for devoting so much valuable space to the heretofore neglected waterfowl of Manzanita Lake. Columnist John Firpo seems to attribute women's extended hours during the Mackay Day celebration to the birds. Also notable was Dean Mobley's humanitarian efforts with the baby chick starter mash on behalf of the five drowning baby chicks, undoubtedly the product of the "carryings-on" of the aforementioned waterfowl. We are also wondering if the poor chicks were drowning because of Blue Key's apparent abandonment of "Project Mud."

Needless to say our feathered friends on Manzanita (as well as the ASUN students) must be confused by the rise and fall of the Manzanita tide. We anxiously await the next episode in the serial. Will Dean Mobley's ducklings find happiness in their new found home? Will Bill Smith be able to protect the ducks from the trauma of seeing university students? Will the Dean of Women be able to put a stop to the shocking "carryings-on" in Manzanita? We are sure the Sagebrush will reveal the answers to these questions in the next exciting episode of "Our Fine Feathered Friends."

Jill Black Named Sagens President

The annual spring initiation banquet for Sagens organization, held this year at Monaco's, was highlighted by the election of new officers for the 1963-64 term.

Jill Black was elected president of the honorary upperclass women's service organization. Other officers elected were Sherry Millward, vice-president; Pat Howard, secretary-treasurer; and Kay Sorenson, AWS representative.

Miss Black announced a special meeting of all Sagens will be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. in room 115, Getchell library.

The service organization will finish out the 1962-63 term by ushering at Mackay Day, baccalaureate, and graduation ceremonies.

Geology Prof Speaks To CCUN Meeting

Dr. Joseph Lintz, professor of geology, will discuss "Student Life in Indonesia", Thursday at 7 p. m. in the Fine Arts building.

The lecture, presented by the CCUN, will also cover the subtopic of "Indonesia and New Guinea." Lintz taught geology at the Bandung Institute of Technology in Indonesia, from 1959-1962.

GDIs Out ;Indes In, Says OAS Prexy

Editor, the Sagebrush:

The editorial of April 26 not only made an incorrect statement about the Independent Council's activities but will probably reawaken the hostility of the Student Affairs committee.

The Independent Council never ordered any "GDI" sweatshirts. The ASUN bookstore is the culprit here.

As a matter of fact the initials "GDI" have never appeared in Independent Council minutes, and appear no where in the OAS constitution.

What the Sagebrush editor prints we can merely protest against. We cannot change it. We have made a formal request for the initials "GDI" to be kept out of use by the Sagerush, but apparently it will not be heeded.

As far as the Independent Council is concerned, we will continue to refer to ourselves and the students we represent as "Independents". We have no control over what a business establishment like the bookstore does, or what a paper like the Sagebrush prints.

Our complaint is not as violent against the use of "GDI" as it is against the use of a very necessary official recognition of the campus' largest group of students, as stakes in a private war between the editor of the Sagebrush and the Student Relations committee.

BUD AND TRAVIS . . . MACKAY DAY ENTERTAINERS

Folk-Singers to Entertain at Assembly

Student News Service

Bud and Travis, popular folk-singing duo, will entertain at the Mackay Day assembly Thursday night beginning at 7 in the new gym.

Dubbed by American deejays as "Most Promising", "Most Played", and "Favorite" in the 12th-annual Disc Jockey Poll in Billboard magazine, the two guitar players not only sing but have a between-the-songs humor all their own.

Besides starring in many nightclub acts and college variety shows throughout the country, the young singers have made several hit records. They include: "On a Cloudy Summer Afternoon" and "The Alamo". Their album "Bud and Travis In Concert" has proved to be quite popular as shown by record sales.

Travis, a prolific writer, has written many of the numbers prevalent on folk music "hit" charts, and Bud is an acknowledged leader among the top professional folk guitarists.

Bud, a long-time sports fan, who once toyed with the idea of a boxing career, is an ardent fisherman and tennis player.

Travis spends his spare time composing music, writing poetry, plays and musical comedies, camping, and assisting fledgling members of the folk music fraternal.

They have recently appeared on the new television show, "Hoot-enany".

Speaker Says . . .

Aggies Running 'Major Race'

Approximately 59 persons attended the installation banquet of the Nevada chapter of Alpha Zeta, held Saturday evening in the dining commons.

Highlights of the evening were a speech by Dr. Louis L. Madsen, high chancellor of the national fraternity, and the presentation of scholastic achievement awards by Dr. Charles H. Seufferle, asst. dean of the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Madsen, in speaking of "Alpha Zeta and Agricultural Leadership" called the establishment of the 55th chapter at Nevada a "significant event" in the history of an organization started by two agriculture students at Ohio state.

Madsen, a member of the A-Z high council for 13 years, has helped establish nine chapters, including the "very active chapter" in Puerto Rico.

Remarking on the excellence of agriculture research, Dr. Madsen pointed out that most Americans "take for granted" the high quality and abundance of food and fabric, which is produced by six per cent of the population of America.

Two major races are being run in the world today, said Madsen — that of communism and the free world, and the race of production against human reproduction.

Areas of critical food shortage in the world include India, the Middle East, Red China and Latin America.

And "food," said Madsen, "means agriculture."

Madsen called agriculture the "most important part in our entire foreign policy". He said that the "role of agriculture as a force for world peace is paramount today" and that we will have lasting peace "only if the problem of hunger and disease are attacked directly."

In closing, Dr. Madsen quoted Secretary of Agriculture Freeman in a recent conclave when he said

"The age of abundance is at hand, and the age of abundance can usher in an age of peace."

Dr. Seufferle then presented the outstanding student achievement award to A-Z President Bill Helming, and special letters of commendation were presented Bob Pederson, and Cook Laird.

Also present at the banquet were A-Z members from Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo and Fresno.

Home Ec Majors Keep House On Campus in Special Course

By MIMI SKILLICORN

Four University coeds, who lead a double life as both students and housekeepers, share an ultra-modern apartment with no charge other than their food bill.

As part of a class "Home Management Residence" the women are required to live in an apartment-like section of the home ec building.

The living area consists of a spacious living room, complete with a modern semi-circular couch, leather covered chairs, and a fireplace. In addition to a small, but modern kitchen, equipped with built-in oven, dishwasher, and freezer, the so-called "model apartment" has a dining room, a study room, and bath. Although bedroom space is available, the women make use of their own sleeping quarters in dorms, sorority houses or apartments.

The women—Joanne Pritchard, Joyce Burr, Becky Rose, and Jackie Burr—spend most of the day in their part-time home. As part of the course, they must prepare planned meals three times a day. They must also keep within a thirty-dollar-per-week food budget.

A division of chores which includes a cook, cooks helper, manager and housekeeper is maintained to help keep the apartment in top shape.

Grades are based on how well the apartment is kept, cooking and variety in meal planning within the budget, originality and entertainment projects which include open houses, surveys, interviews, demonstrations, and papers on areas in home economics.

Future student homemakers will have more independence in their on-campus living quarters. A separate building is planned next year to provide a residence for home ec students.

Pack Hitter Mike Silva Has Say on Baseball

By PENNY LEVIN

One of the Wolf Pack's top hitters is a 5' 9", 170 - pound sophomore named Mike Silva.

Silva hails from Oakland, Calif., where he played baseball at Fremont High School for three years. His batting average there was .357.

One of the most thrilling experiences for Silva happened there when he made the all-city team in his senior year.

Silva, a jazz enthusiast, lists Dave Brubeck, Peter Nero, and Andre Previn as some of his favorites.

What is the most important thing for a player to remember when up at bat? Silva says, "He should be relaxed and keep his eye on the ball. Wrist action, follow-through and timing are other important elements."

As for winning the Far-Western conference championship the left handed hitter stated, "Our team has a real good chance of winning the conference. Our defense will be one of the finer points of the league. We've also got impressive pitching."

"I prefer leading off in hitting. I feel more confident and relaxed," stated Silva.

The brown-haired, brown-eyed physical education major claims, "Hitting is all psychological." Has the weather effected Silva's hitting? "The weather here hampers your opportunity to keep in shape. It is harder to hit well in cold weather. One is looser in warm weather."

Silva's father played pro-ball for the San Francisco Seals and the Oakland Oaks. What kind of influence did his Dad have on him? "I was practically born with a bat

Golfers Win One; Top Humboldt State

The Wolf Pack golfers won their first match of the season Saturday when the out-clubbed Humboldt State 11-4 in a Conference match at Hidden Valley country club.

In two other matches, the Pack lost to Sacramento State, 11½-3½ and the Cal Aggies, 13-2.

Mike Knight carded the best score for the Silver and Blue at 82. Joe deArrieta shot an 84, Mike Henderson, 87, Paul Freitag, 92, and Ralph Yopp, 94.

The Pack's record for the season now is 1-6.

COED JUMPER

THE NEWEST member of the University Sky Divers club is 18-year-old Maria Garn, a freshman from Boulder City. The first Nevada coed to join the jumping club, Miss Garn lives in White Pine hall and majors in art. A male jumper, Bill Wilkerson, made his first jump last week, in addition to Miss Garn.

Tau's Defeat SAE's; Lead Intramural Race

Alpha Tau Omega continued its torrid pace in the intramural baseball race last week when it defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 3-2.

The victory gave the Taus undisputed possession of first place in the race for the baseball championship.

In other games, Sigma Nu beat Artemisia via a forfeit, because Artemisia could not find a full team.

Lambda Chi Alpha took a decision from Phi Sigma Kappa on a protest after the Phi Sigs, with Wolf Pack hurler Don Collar, defeated them. Collar was ruled ineligible because he is a member of a varsity team.

In the only other game played last week, the Independents squeaked by the Sigma Nus 2-1.

There are only four teams left in the double elimination race.

They are ATO, the Independents, Lambda Chi, and SAE.

Yesterday, SAE played the winner of the Independent-Lambda Chi game, but the results were not available at the time of publication.
