Student Leaders and Administrators Discuss 'Forum' and Social Events On Tahoe Shore

Sororities Pledge 77 Co-eds In Rush

Pi Beta Phi topped the three other Nevada sororities after a week of rush by getting 24 girls to pledge that house. Kappa Alpha Theta received a total of 23, followed by Delta Delta Delta and Gamma Phi Beta with 22 and 8 respectively.

A total of 77 co-eds "ribbon pledged" Saturday following preference parties Friday night. The week ended a hectic time for active sorority members.

It was reported by Pan-Hellenic that the number of pledges was the smallest since the "quota system" was initiated seven years ago. About 120 pledged to the four sororities last fall.

Many freshmen were ineligible to join sororities because they did not meet University academic requirements. Stiffened entrance requirements were put into effect this fall for new students and freshmen.

It is expected that more women will be able to join sororities at the semester ending. At that time women with a 2.2 grade average will be eligible.

Those pledging are:

'Hello' Dance Set For Saturday Nite

"Hello-on-the-Hill" dance, the welcome back to campus and welcome frosh dance, will be held Saturday, September 21. The University dining commons will provide the dance floor and Tom Lee and band will provide the music.

All students are urged to attend the first all-school dance of the year. In the past it has been well attended and has proved to be one of the most popular of the year. It begins at 9 p. m. and lasts til midnight.

Diane Showalter is chairman of the "Hello-on-the-Hill" dance and she is assisted by Liz MacGregor.

Cal Poly Cops Rodeo

Ribbon roping champ Bige Duncan Jr. was the only University of Nevada winner in the major events of the Intercollegiate Rodeo held in conjunction with the Washoe County Fair in Reno Sunday.

Favorite Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo won the event behind all-around cowboy Jack Dawson and all-around cowgirl Sharon Packer.

Terry Rice of Wellington and Yerington High School was picked as Miss Rodeo Nevada.

Kilpatrick to Speak

Kicking off the Student Union sponsored series, "America Looks at Civil Rights," will be James J. Kilpatrick, noted American newspaperman and journalist.

Kilpatrick will speak in the University dining commons at 8 p. m. Tuesday, September 17.

His topic will be "The Case For the South," in the existing civil rights problem. He is editor of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader and is a critic of the Northern press in its coverage of the Negro problem in the South. He has been with the News-Leader since 1942, starting as a state capitol reporter and working his way up through the ranks as chief of capitol staff, 1943-48, associate editor, 1949, chief editorial writer 1949-51, an editor since 1951.

He is 43 years old and a graduate of the University of Missouri with a B.A. in journalism in 1941.

Kilpatrick was awarded the Medal of Honor for distinguished service in journalism from the University of Missouri in 1953, received the Sigma Delta Chi annual award for editorial writing in 1954, and is a member of the National Editorial Writers.

BMOC's Dine On Steaks, Hear Armstrong, Miller

Around 50 students and University administrators gathered at the Nevada 4H camp Saturday and Sunday to discuss ASUN problems and activities.

But the opinion journal, the University of Nevada Forum, stole the show. Healthy discussion was held and the pros and cons of the journal were aired by the student leaders. The idea for the journal was started by a group of students last spring.

Its purpose would be to provide a medium for students and faculty

Dr. William C. Miller, professor of speech and advisor to Finance Control Board.

Sunday, Dean of Women Elaine Mobley explained her new role as activities co-ordinator, Larry Struve, ASUN 1st vice-president spoke about finances, and Alumni President Milton Sharp spoke on alumni relations.

The alumni association sponsored a steak dinner and the leaders "cooked their own". Many of those attending spent the night at the to express opinions in print. It is hoped, if the journal is given the go ahead by the publications board, that it would provide stimulating thought and reactions within the University community.

Financing seemed to be the major concern along with the editorial board and the content of the journal.

The campus leaders also discussed the social side of campus life as it discussed Homecoming, Winter Carnival, and Mackay Day.

Groups also met to discuss the Student Judicial Council, foreign camp and slept on army cots and sleeping bags.

Jim Acheson, ASUN president, thought "some good came out of the Conference." Good points, whether negative or positive, came out about the University of Nevada Forum. At least it got people thinking about it, he added.

Several of the things discussed about the Student Judicial Council were beneficial, Acheson felt.

Many of the leaders were unable to attend the Conference and there was some talk about moving the Conference to the spring sem-students, the Student-Faculty Forum, ASUN-Student Union relations, and the University's role in the 1964 Centennial.

Saturday night students listened to an address by University President Charles J. Armstrong and ester. Acheson said there is too much going on at the beginning of school—sorority rush, registration—"everyone seems to have other things to do," he said. "We might benefit by having the older officers on hand," he added.

Film Classic Tonite

Alec Guinness stars in Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations" with Jean Simmons and John Mills tonight in the Fine Arts theater. David Lean, who directed "The Bridge on the River Kawi," and "Lawrence of Arabia," also directed this film.

There will be two performances one at 7 and the other at 9 p. m. Students are admitted free of charge. Admission is 75 cents.

Scholarships Go to Four

Home economics and agriculture scholarships for sophomore students were awarded to Helen Schumann, and Michael J. Gottschalk by Sears Roebuck.

Incoming freshman receiving the scholarships were Carl Aufdermaur, Lovelock, and John Mathews, Panaca, both agriculture students.

Scholarships were in the amount of 300 dollars.

EDITORIAL

At the Leadership Conference, there was a great deal of discussion about the proposed opinion journal, The University of Nevada Forum.

Good points were brought out in favor of the journal that make it sound worthwhile. It is true that the character of the University is changing and that a new breed of students of higher intellectual caliber are entering the University.

Yet there are many questions to ask. The optimism of the student leaders is strange. Do they honestly think that even 50 students will write their opinions openly, in print when Publications Board can hardly find willing and capable people to run the Sagebrush and the Artemisia? Both publications are inadequately staffed. And some receive salaries!

But we must look to the future. A journal of opinion would indeed benefit its editors, contributors, and readers. A publication primarily designed to provoke thought is greatly needed on this campus.

But as Senator-at-Large Keith Lee put it: "Let's take care of the Brushfire first." Let us also make our other publications excel before we begin another. So many things are started by the ASUN government in a slipshod way and remain that way. Mediocrity in everything should not be a goal.

The Forum is a good thing. Publications Board might do well to give it a whirl. But first the existing situation should be analyzed carefully, weighing all things. The leaders need to get down to "terra firma" and take their heads out of the clouds. There are too many ifs, too much assumption that people are willing to commit themselves through the printed word.

But the ASUN will probably approve the Forum, a journal of opinion which is practically doomed to failure from the start.

We need an opinion journal, but we are not ready for it. Let us examine our present inadequacies before we venture further.

Nevada To Contribute To Centennial

"The Saga of Billy Rainbow," a two-act, full-scale musical production, will be part of the University of Nevada's contribution to the Nevada Centennial celebration of 1964.

The musical is being composed by Dr. Ronald R. Williams, associate professor of music, to a text by Mr. Christian Hamilton of New York City, formerly a writer for ABC-TV and a long-standing collaborator. Dr. Williams is a composer of rising national reputation.

Billy Rainbow, although a fictional creation, is the epitome of the rascalion and scallywag heroes of western lore. His adventures while pursuing a lake of silver throughout the Nevada territory make up the plot-line of the libretto.

Also involved in the musical action are other characters cast as western types and stereotypes. Even Mark Twain makes an appearance in the production.

The premiere of the musical is planned for October 21, 22 and 23, on the University campus in connection with Homecoming activities.

An October 30 showing in Carson City, in connection with Nevada Day on October 31, is also planned. This would be followed with a state tour for a week during November.

The production is being sponsored by the University and the Centennial Commission, with several departments cooperating in its production. The work will be staged by Dr. William C. Miller, professor of speech and drama.

Dr. Williams returned to the University this summer after completing his doctoral study at Indiana University as Nevada's first Danforth Foundation Scholar. His compositions have been performed in Italy, Switzerland, and India, as well as the United States. His one-act chamber operas have been produced at Indiana University, on television, and by several opera workshops in the midwest.

Groundwork Set By Regents For University Press

As the University continues to grow and expand its scope with the Desert Research Institute, Atmospherum-Planetarium building program, and stiffened academic standards, the Board of Regents has also established the University of Nevada Press.

The University Press, an important factor in prestige for the University, will put Nevada's publication imprint on books now being published or soon to be published.

It was created in 1960 and has been quietly laying the groundwork for a publishing program of importance for the state it serves. Its basic purpose is the publication of books and monographs of a scholarly and creative nature having to do mostly with Nevada and the West.

Its serious aim is to stimulate the writing and research of University faculty and others, so contributing to knowledge and literature of the region.

In particular, the University Press will stimulate the recording of Nevada's much neglected history.

As the scope of the Press grows, future publication will deal with histories in such fields as transportation, ranching and farming, education, newspapers, politics, banking, medicine, and law.

Among books scheduled for publication this year and the Centennial year of 1961 are: a narrative account of early day Nevada journalist and acquaintance of Mark Twain, Alfred Doten. The book is being written by Walter Van Tilburg Clark, noted author of The Track of the Cat, The Ox-Bow Incident, and The City of Trembling Leaves. It will embrace Doten's experiences through the era of the California Gold Rush and the Nevada Silver Rush. It will be based on a collection of personal diaries covering 55 years of Doten's life. Clark holds the title of writer in residence at the University.

The first definite treatment of Nevada's unusual and colorful place names will be written by Helen Carlson.

The autobiography of a Paiute woman, as told to Lalla Scott, will be written by her. It will recount tribal memories dating back to the coming of the first white man to Nevada.

An account of latter-day mining boom camps in Nevada, with emphasis on the Tonopah-Goldfield era, will be authored by Dr. Russell Elliot, chairman of history at Nevada.

An abbreviated history of Nevada, designed especially for elementary and secondary schools of the state, will be illustrated with photographs and drawings. Author is Dr. James Hulse, also of history.

Jean McElrath will write a collection of historical vignettes of early-day Nevada personalities and incidents.

In addition to these and other book length publications, the University Press will continue to publish under its imprint a series of monographs written by faculty members in the departments of history and political science.

The University Press is administered by Robert Laxalt, director of publications and is assisted by an advisory editorial board composed of faculty members.

The beginnings of the publications program by the University Press has been made possible through donations by the Jesse Whited Foundation, the Nevada Silver Centennial Committee, and anonymous private donors.

CAMPUS LEADERS

JIM BERNARDI and Charles Murphy relax at the 12th annual leadership conference Saturday afternoon. Around 50 students attended the two-day confab at Lake Tahoe.

On Campus with Max Shulman
 (By the Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek.")

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH, DEAR FRIENDS

Today I begin my tenth year of writing this column in your campus newspaper. Ten years is a long time; it is, in fact, what some scholarly people like to call a decade—from the Latin word deccum, meaning the floor of a ship. It is, to my mind, remarkable that the Romans had such a word as deccum when you consider that ships did not exist until 1620 when John Alden invented the Mayflower. Alden, a prodigiously ingenious man, also invented the ear lobe and Pocahontas.

Ships were a very popular mode of travel—especially over water—until 1912 when the Swede, Ivar Krueger, invented the iceberg. Krueger also invented the match, which is a good thing, because without the match, how would you light your Marlboro Cigarettes? I cannot overstate the importance of lighting your Marlboro Cigarettes, for Marlboro Cigarettes, unlighted, provide, at best, only limited smoking pleasure.

You might even call it the limp or spongy sell

I mention Marlboros because this column is an advertisement, brought to you through the school year by the makers of Marlboros. Marlboros come in soft pack or Flip-Top box. The makers of Marlboros come in dark suits with thin lapels—except on weekends when they come in yoke-neck jerseys and white duck trousers. White ducks come in flocks. They are primarily fresh water dwellers, although they have been successfully raised in salt water too. Another salt water denizen I'm sure you will find enjoyable is plankton—a mess of tiny organisms like diatoms and algae and like that which float sluggishly near the surface of the sea. It is ironic that these creatures, microscopic in size, should supply the principal source of food for the earth's largest animal, the whale. Whales, I must say, are not at all pleased with this arrangement; because it takes the average whale, eating steadily, 48 hours to gather a day's meal. This leaves them almost no time for water sports or reading Melville. It is a lucky thing for all of us that whales are unaware they are mammals, not fish, and could, if they tried, live just as well on land as in water. I mean, you add ten or twelve million whales to our Sunday traffic and you would have congestion that makes the mind boggle.

But I digress. Today, I was saying, I begin my tenth year of writing this column for Marlboro Cigarettes in your campus newspaper. I will, in each column, say a few kind words about Marlboros—just as you will, once you try that fine tobacco flavor, that pristine white filter, that supple soft pack, that infrangible Flip-Top box. These references to Marlboro will be brief and unobtrusive, for I do not believe in the hard sell. What I favor is the soft sell—you might even call it the limp or spongy sell. I hasten to state that the makers of Marlboro in ten full years have not once complained about my desultory sales approach. Neither have they paid me.

But that is of small consequence. Aside from fleeting mentions of Marlboro, this column has another, and more urgent, mission: to cast the hot white light of free inquiry upon the vexing questions that trouble college America—questions like "Should the Student Council have the power to levy tariffs?" and "Are roommates sanitary?" and "Should housemothers be compelled to retire upon reaching the age of 26?"

Perhaps, reasoning together, we can find the answers. Perhaps not. But if we fail, let it never be said that it was for want of trying.

I thank you.

© 1963 Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro are happy to bring you another year of Max Shulman's unpredictable and uncensored column—and also happy to bring you fine filtered Marlboros, available in pack or box, wherever cigarettes are sold in all 50 states.

THE PODIUM

By JIM ACHESON

Editor's note: ASUN President Jim Acheson is the first of many who will write in the Sagebrush guest column. He is probably the busiest man on campus and aside from his extra curricular activities he maintains a high grade average. He has placed on the honor roll three times. He also plans to participate on the ski team this year. His column is good advice for new students as well as those who have been around for a while.

This being the second rather than the fifteenth or twentieth issue of the Sagebrush, I shall write about that term one often hears at the beginning of years, wars, and other endeavors—freedom. In these first few days of school most of us give some brief thought to "using our time wisely," "work before play", and other such commendable platitudes. Yet by semester's end most of us will be trapped under several term papers and other work that should have been finished weeks ago. Most of us will study pretty much in the same way we have always studied—sporadically.

I believe our usual failure to be satisfied with a semester, stems from our failure to understand, at semester's beginning, just how much freedom university life entails. High school meant constant supervision, constant homework, a daily routine with very little choice of possible pursuits. For most of us life after school will also present a daily routine of prescribed tasks with little freedom of choice, at least between nine and five. It can easily be said that our college years are the period of the greatest freedom in our lives. Each day demands a decision on how to spend our time, whether to sleep or attend class, to see a movie or study. Such freedom is much lauded. It is said to make men of boys, women of girls. It is supposed to help make our college years some of the best of our lives.

Yet there seems to be a paradox. The only time that any of us are really in a position to talk about freedom in a meaningful way is during those first few weeks of school when we are still within several pages of the lectures. By mid-semester we are snowed—an average of four or five chapters behind in every course. At this point our freedom seems to become meaningless. A decision to see a movie is now made on the basis that missing another two chapters will not really be much when added to the eight we have already skipped. On the other hand we feel reluctant about indulging in any sort of pleasure at all when we consider the twenty or thirty hours of work necessary to put us back on firm ground. We have lost our freedom to order our lives. We are mortgaged to our books until semester's end.

Unfortunately for us hares, success in college comes not to those whose sprints of scholarship are financed by black coffee and No Doz, but to those turtles who plod along at the rate of three or four hours of booking a night and who will go down to Shakey's with you any given Tuesday or Wednesday without the smallest tinge of guilt. Well, such are the thoughts one has at the beginning of semesters. I suppose you have been plagued by such thoughts. It's depressing that they never seem to result in any change of action, but such seems to be the nature of the game?

Film, Play Schedule Announced

The department of speech and drama has announced the film and play series for the coming semester. Both plays and films will be free to all students.

The first film, to be presented Tuesday September 17 at 7 and 9 p. m. in the Fine Arts Theatre, is "Great Expectations" with Alec Guinness, John Mills and Jean Simmons. This Charles Dickens classic was directed by David Lean, famous for "Bridge on the River Kwai" and "Lawrence of Arabia."

The second film, September 24 is from Japan. "Gate of Hell" in color, is a tale of passion in medieval Japan. On October 1 the zany French fantasy "Bizarre, Bizarre" will be shown. This will be followed by the acclaimed ballet presentation of The Hans Christian Anderson fairy tale, "The Red Shoes." This colorful masterpiece will be shown on October 8.

"All the King's Men," the film for October 15, is an exciting drama of politics and demogogy, based on the life of Huey Long.

The film which introduced Marlene Dietrich to the United States plays on October 22, this is the complete uncut version of "The Blue Angel." A double bill will open on November 12 with W. C. Fields in "The Bank Dick" and an English film "The Bespoke Overcoat"—the story of a Jewish tailor and a ghost. From Russia comes the film for November 19. It is "Boris Godunov," a color classic of the great epic opera.

Greta Garbo in her famous role as "Camille" plays in the theatre on November 26. The final film of the semester is "Outcast of the Island" on December 3. The director, Carol Reed, is most famous for his originality and ingenuity, as witnessed in "The Third Man" and this film.

Two of the outstanding films for next semester are Shakespeare's "Henry V" with Lawrence Olivier and "La Strada" with Anthony Quinn.

The drama season will begin November 6, 7, 8, and 9 at 8 p. m. with Chekhov's tragi-comedy "Uncle Vanya." A children's play will follow on December 14 and 15. The second semester will include productions of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," and "Waiting for Godot."

Seasons tickets for those other than students and information may be obtained by calling FA 3-2081 ext. 484.

READ WINS SCHOLARSHIP

David Read, a junior at the University, has been selected to receive the $500 Ralston Purina Scholarship Award for 1963-64, according to J. D. Sykes, Vice President of the Ralston Purina Company.

It is awarded each year to an outstanding junior in the 1 and 2 grant colleges in each of the 50 states, and in three Canadian agricultural colleges and one in Puerto Rico.

Armstrong Stresses Excellence for U

"Excellence" is the goal University President Charles J. Armstrong told student leaders to seek to attain. He was speaking at the 12th annual Leadership Conference at Lake Tahoe.

Armstrong spoke to around 50 student leaders Saturday night, September 14. "Skill alone is not enough. You need judgment and intelligence," he emphasized. "Without these skill is nothing."

He told the group that the University of Nevada is rapidly acquiring the marks of larger Universities. He referred to the new academic standards and the wage salary for the faculty. He said Nevada had the highest minimum wage salary of any University in the country.

"You as leaders," he said, "should have a great deal to do with our growth in strength." He asked why the University had not attained excellence and answered his question by saying that all of us are not concerned with excellence. "Judgment comes from understanding human relations. What we are doing at the University . . . is educating the whole man," Armstrong said.

He gave eight questions to the leaders and said if each could answer them all then he was truly educated.

In essence they were:
—The realization that studying is a 24-hour, lifetime job.

—Being able to understand and obey the rules and respecting the rights of others.

—Considering the feelings of others and being sensitive to their feelings.

—Being able to get along with others. "The art of human relations is the principal ingredient of success," he said.

—Placing character and conduct above skill and success.

—Learning to take an interest in good causes.

Behind the Sport Scene

With DOUG BRUCKNER
Sagebrush Sports Staff

THE FIRST WEEK

Clyde Robards lumbers out of the scrimmage huddle and crouches menacingly over the ball. The sun shines glaringly off his helmet. Perspiration saturates his practice jersey.

It's the first week of football practice and the temperature is 90 degrees in the shade. For 50 men, Clark Field is a certain kind of hell, full of blood, sweat and vomit. Five pounds sweat off in as many hours. Out-sized stomachs vanish in two days.

The first week is made strenuous and uncomfortable for a purpose. Most of Nevada's players are not in shape for this sport that requires such peak physical condition. With the first game scheduled three weeks after equipment is issued, the conditioning process must be quick even if it is painful.

So important is the conditioning phase of the pre-season drills that scrimmage doesn't start until the end of the week. Exercises are stressed to prevent muscle pulls and achieve endurance.

Among the calisthenics is the tortuous "neck bridge" with the gridders supporting their entire weight on their feet and necks.

Once in this position they wiggle their heads from side to side, while leaving the feet stationary. These contortions are humorous to watch, but tortuous to execute. But the "neck bridge" is an essential exercise, building muscles for the head first "butt block" and the backfield's up-the-middle charges.

The first week is generally more difficult for beefy linemen than for the more slender backs.

Players in the line are always big men and are prone to overweight. When a man reports packing excess baggage that's not in his suitcase, the coaches make a mental note to bear down. With slowness a constant problem in the line, each man must be at his flab-less best to perform well. The staff watches closely to see that the necessary weight melts off. In the searing heat of the first week there is seldom a problem.

Another conditioning hurdle is the altitude. Gridders coming from thick sea-level atmospheres in California and the east, find themselves easily winded. End Dennis Tope from Pasadena claims, "no matter how hard you work out at home, you're always out of shape when you get up here."

The success of the team in its season opener is dependent on the outcome of the first week's concentrative conditioning program.

Coach Dick Trachok's charges look like they are in shape. Next Saturday afternoon in Pocatello, Idaho we will find out for sure.

Intersquad Readies Pack

Two Wolf Pack football squads squared off Saturday morning in the Pack's final game-type scrimmage before meeting Idaho State next Saturday in Pocatello.

The squad was divided into two teams, the Blues and the Whites. The Blue group, comprised predominately of men designated as starters, pushed the Whites all over the field.

The Blues were led by senior fullback Jock Echave who carried the ball over the goal line three times in addition to making several other long runs. The Blues also made a fine defensive showing, holding the Whites' offense led by quarterback Jerry Polaha, Tony Manguzzo and Freddie Williams at a standstill.

The Wolf Pack will open its season Saturday afternoon against Idaho State in Pocatello next Saturday at 2 p.m. The Nevada team plays its first home game in Mackay Stadium September 28, when it faces the Willamette Bearcats.

'Brush To Select Top Sportsmen

The Sagebrush sports staff will continue a policy that it started at the end of last year when it awarded a certificate to the "Wolf Pack Athlete of the Year".

This year, the staff will pick the most valuable player for each sport that the University enters in intercollegiate competition. These sports will be football, cross country, basketball, boxing, skiing, baseball, and track.

At the end of the second semester, the "Wolf Pack Athletes of the Year" will be chosen from the most valuable player of each sport.

Last year's recipient of the award was football star Dick Pinion.

DISTANCE MEN OPEN SEASON OCT. 2

by TOM DYE

Sagebrush Sports Staff

The Wolf Pack cross-country team began tuning up for its first meet of the season with opening work-outs held last week. The distance men will travel to Sacramento October 2, for the Sacramento State Invitational meet and their first competition of the season.

George Twardokens, who joined the physical education staff last year, is starting his first season as coach of the team. For the past few years, Floyd Edsall who filled Dick Dankworth's shoes as an assistant coach on the football team this season was the mentor.

Letterman Bud Forman is Nevada's only returning veteran on the inexperienced distance squad, but it is hoped that several junior college transfers and high school distance runners will take up the slack.

Perennially strong San Francisco State should repeat as FWC champions despite the loss of distance ace Craig Spillman. Sacramento State will also be a top contender for the top spot because of their great depth. The dark horse of the season could be Chico State, which is led by Pete Darnell.

Nevada is scheduled to compete in eight meets this year including the FWC Championship Meet at Humboldt State November 23 and the NCAA meet which will wind up the season at Fresno the following week.

Sagebrush Staff Predicts Humboldt Will Sweep Far Western Football Conference

A Humboldt State team loaded with 28 returning lettermen is the favorite of the Sagebrush sports staff in the running for the 1963 Far Western Conference title.

Lumberjack Coach Phil Sarboe has all the big guns back from his 7-2 1962 season save Drew Roberts, three-time Little All-American end.

Sarboe expects the running game to equal that of last season, but he still has apprehension about replacing Roberts in the passing attack. Mike Bright, who gained 122 yards on receptions in '62 before injuries sidelined him, may be the answer.

Three returning halfbacks, Frank Maltagliati, Wendell Sayes, and Frank Buda will supply the ground gaining strength.

Maltagliati zipped 579 yards on his way to the HSC rushing title in 1962. He added five touchdowns to his ground gaining achievements.

Hayes was the team's leading scorer last year with 63 points and added 465 yards on the ground.

Returnee Bill Kramer will handle the fullback chores while Dan Sousa and Monty Feekes will quarterback the Fly-T Humboldt offense.

Big Bill Hook, 220 pounds, will lead what may be the Conference's toughest defensive line. Sarboe believes Hook to be "potentially the finest linebacker in the conference."

With a solid defense and a potentially explosive offense Humboldt appears to be the obvious pre-season choice for the FWC crown.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE

Two major problems should keep San Francisco State from recapturing the Far Western Conference crown they captured last year.

Coach Vic Rowen must replace starting quarterback Dick Valois (two times All-FWC) and rebuild his defensive line.

The Valois vacancy will probably be filled by Larry Baker, a junior letterman. The new defensive team will be molded around 220-pound tackle Tad Freeman.

Two All-Conference men return at the guard and halfback positions. Tom Manney will head up a potent backfield, and All-FWC guard Bob Griffin will be back to open the holes.

SACRAMENTO STATE

"Speed" is the key word for the 1963 Sacramento State team, and it might carry the Hornets into the championship contention.

Experienced quarterback Pat Morton will be around to turn the speed merchants loose.

CAL AGGIES

Dick Carriere, returning 1962 Little-All Coast quarterback is the only bright spot on the Davis scene this season.

Although 20 letter winners are returning, the Aggies' dismal 1962 Far Western Conference does little to endorse them as a threatening group.

However with an all-experienced starting line up and the talents of Carriere, the Davis crew may easily become a Conference dark horse.

CHICO STATE

Graduation claimed many experienced men from a 1962 Chico State team that tied for last in the Conference with a 2-3 record.

An improvement in the Wildcats' fortune will be determined by the performance of newcomers and sophomores.

Coach George Maderos expects new halfback Jess Castillo to anchor his backfield with George Calkins a good bet to start at quarterback.

The line will be light, but experienced with the heaviest starter (Roger Anderson at only 205 pounds).

Beyond the top three, the Conference will have little strength this year. The balance that made upsets a weekly occurrence in 1962 is gone. Humboldt is entirely capable of an undefeated league mark.

SAGEBRUSH FWC FORECAST

- | | |
|------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. Humboldt State | 4. Sacramento State |
| 2. San Francisco State | 5. Cal Aggies |
| 3. NEVADA | 6. Chico State |

Supplying the SSC swiftness are three starting backs that run the 100 yard dash under 10.2. Halfbacks Marv Grim, Jerry Hatcher, and fullback Bob Lazark will be hard to handle if Sacramento can find some capable blockers.

'Helix' Is New Campus Group To Replace Dead Realist Alliance

"Helix" will be the name of the new campus discussion group for advocates of a free society. According to Steve Miller, speaking for Helix organizers, the first meeting will be Thursday at 7 p. m. in room 108, Clark Administration building.

"The new organization will be associated with the Intercollegiate Society of Individualists," Miller stated. ISI is listed by the U. S. Treasury Department as a non-profit, non-partisan, tax-exempt, educational organization dedicated to developing among college students and professors an understanding of the philosophy of a free society.

Miller said that ISI was founded in 1953 and has — at last count — about 75 associated clubs on college campuses. Its primary work is the distribution of literature encompassing economics, sociology, history, moral philosophy, education, and political science. Films, tapes and speakers are also offered sometimes.

Miller said that Helix would never engage in political action such as passing out handbills, picketing, etc, but rather would concentrate on study and discussion. In addition, a journal of analysis titled "Helix" will be edited, published and placed on campus by members. Its articles will deal with philosophical, social and political questions, and will be signed by their authors.

Miller said interested students are invited to the Thursday meeting. "The two main requirements for membership," he said, "are a minimum grade point average of 2.5 and a sincerely responsible attitude."

Questioned about the group's name, Miller stated that "Helix" is the Greek word for spiral and, in pictorial symbolism, represents the dynamic stage of growth for an idea or movement."

Shakespearean Course Be Offered By Statewide

A two credit course dealing with reading and study of Shakespearean plays will be offered by Statewide Services starting on September 16.

The class, which meets on Mondays from 7 to 9 p. m., will include discussion of Shakespearean theatre, acting companies, and play structures. About 10 plays will be read by the class.

The instructor will be Dr. David W. Hettich, assistant professor of English.

Registration for the course, offered through the college of arts and science, will be held in Stewart Hall. For more information, call FA 3-2081, extension 221-222.

Wolf Pack Foes To Play

In one of the few colleges football games played in the nation last Saturday, South Dakota defeated Montana State 9 to 6 in a low scoring contest. The South Dakotans were picked to defeat the "Bobcats" 20 to 15 in last week's Harmon Forecast, which will be appearing in the Sagebrush every week beginning this Friday.

Montana State, the team Nevada will play in Reno October 5, was the Wolf Pack's only 1963 opponent that was in action over the week-end. This coming Saturday here is a full slate of games in which Nevada opponents play with the exception of the Cal Aggies and Willamette.

This Saturday's schedule of the Wolf Pack's opponents looks like this:

- Nevada vs. Idaho State
 - Montana State vs. Tulsa
 - Whittier vs. Flagstaff State
 - Chico State vs. Pacific College
 - Humboldt State vs. Whitworth College
 - Sacramento State vs. Cal Poly (Pomona)
 - San Francisco State vs. Cal Poly (San Luis Obispo)
- Teams in bold face are Nevada's 1963 opponents.

Choir Sign-up

Students interested in joining the University of Nevada recorder choir should contact Dr. Felton Hickman in room 154 Fine Arts.

Hickman said those interested should have some knowledge of music and musical instruments, preferably the flute.

The recorder choir, exemplifies the type of music which is popular on college campuses throughout the country. Last year the University's choir appeared at such events as the Madrigal dinner.

The music department will furnish the instrumentst for the choir and Hickman would like people to sign up for the choir by the end of this week.

LAPSUS LINGUAE

By BOB ALWARD

LAPSUS LINGUAE is about people and campus life in general. It is furthermore a column which expresses only opinion and calls the shots as they appear to the author, if not somewhat satirically.

Most people tend to think of satirical writing as always being terse and cutting, however, this is not always the case. Most college students take themselves too seriously at times and tend to enact roles of grave seriousness in fulfilling their idea of what a college individual should be. Granted, this may not always be the case, but it does apply in many instances. Therefore, it does one good to be able to stand back from the situation which one is facing now and then, no matter how grave, and look at that situation in a different light, such a light can often be satirical in nature, or being too close to the forest to see the trees as it were. Thus, the reason for LAPSUS LINGUAE, by the way the meaning I will leave up to you to find out, is to inject a note of bafoonry in our often busy and hectic college career.

As one last explanation, although LAPSUS LINGUAE will undoubtedly touch on many so-called revered subjects from time to time, it is not intended to cause embarrassment to any student, faculty member, or organization at this or any other university. Oh yes, please do extend an hello now and then to the author when you pass him on campus, after all, he too is only human and may very well wind up as the object of a bit of satirical bafoonry as a result of his own handiwork! For anyone can often be caught in a situation as a result of the LAPSUS LINGUAE.

THE SUMMERSSET DEPART

It certainly is gratifying to see the campus populated again with one's peers. After spending the summer on campus with a majority of individuals who fall into that category known collectively as "over fifty," it appears that the somewhat younger generation is once again in full control of the campus activities.

However, I will miss those older dedicated souls who were tripping through the campus this summer, the women in their snug-fitting shorts and thongs, and the men sporting their aloha shirts and puffing away on their pipes as if their very life depended on the last aromatic breath that they drew from their Woodie. It is truly an experience to partake in class discussion with members of this "summer set," one feels as if he had penetrated the tightly knit circle of superior intellectual mankind.

One is better able to keep in touch with life especially if one of the "set" delights in, interrupting the professor with useful and earthshaking knowledge. After all, why should one so learned as a member of this group bother to be recognized by a mere professor during his lecture when it is so much more "avente garde" on the part of the inner group member to just express his opinion openly and at any time during the course of the lecture? But all of us are in college to benefit from our fellow man.

THAT BENEFICIAL TIME OF YEAR

This time of year is also reminiscent of that peculiar staged event which is held on most campuses throughout the country, better known as rush. You know what rush is, that is when everyone dons his finest apparel and stands in line to meet and greet the prospective hasher for the ensuing year.

It would put many of our nation's airline stewardesses to shame to see the smiles that can be painted on a member's face as he or she, as the case may be, greets the freshman who is caught up in the spirit (s) of college.

Doesn't it do the heart good to greet these new faces and to sit around for hours discussing the rushee's plans for the future while ever so subtly learning of his financial status in the course of discussing the Giant's chances for the pennant this year?

Rush is also beneficial in another way, after all, how many chances during the year do you really have the chance to gorge yourself with root beer and doughnuts. There is nothing more important this week of interrogation than a balanced diet and by all means it should be remembered that a healthy pledge is a happy pledge.

But alas, the glitter and forced smiles fade and everyone plunges headlong into the pursuit of intellectual betterment and the days of wine and roses soon turn into days of beer and frolic for Greek and Independent alike.

SOME 900 FRESHMAN STUDENTS gathered in Mackay Stadium on orientation day to listen to University of Nevada President Charles Armstrong; Dean of Student Affairs Dr. Sam Basta; ASUN President Jim Acheson and AWS President Mary Rossolo speak to them about their new lives at the University of Nevada.

Army Band Concert Acheson To Announce Best Dressed Coed

A 100-piece U. S. Army Field Band appeared in the New Gym last night at 8 p.m. It was being brought to the campus through the Travis Student Union, the ROTC department, and the Army Chief of Information.

The Washington, D. C., Band is directed by Major Robert L. Bierly. Popular songs, classic, and military numbers were played.

The band, which has been in existence since 1946, has played in inaugural parades of Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, and Kennedy. It has also played in 50 states, 15 European countries, and has given 35 concerts in the Orient.

HAPPY PARENTS ARE GENEROUS PARENTS

... so if you've miscalculated your expenses for this month (and who hasn't) and you're a little apprehensive about asking for money in your first letter home, here's the answer to your problem. SEND THEM A SUBSCRIPTION TO THE SAGEBRUSH.

HOW WILL THAT HELP, YOU ASK. It's simple logic (student style) that nothing makes parents happier than to know what you're doing, ideally speaking. And the best way to find out what's happening on the Nevada campus for you or your parents is to read the SAGEBRUSH.

But there's a sophisticated way to handle this. Don't just brashly ask for the money. Explain that everyone at Nevada reads the SAGEBRUSH, so of course, you felt that they would like a subscription, too. But when you started to write the check for only $4 for the whole year, you found that you must have spent much more on books than you suspected. So, while they are making out the check . . . , etc.

It's really very simple to make parents happy . . . and generous!
