Eight Coeds Vie For Royalty Title

An enthusiastic group of eight Nevada co-eds are entering the final week of campaigning before one of them will be chosen the 1963 Homecoming Queen.

Each of the candidates is looking forward to the big celebration with anxiety. And the reasons are as varied as the contestants.

Karyn Branch, Pi Beta Phi, is 5' -6", and has blue eyes and brown hair. Her home is now in Bellevue, Washington, though several years ago she lived in Reno where her father was city manager.

She is house manager for her sorority, a member of the Wolves Frolic skit, W.R.A., Ski Club, AWS Council and recently initiated into Little Sisters of Minerva. Karyn's participation in activities stirs interest for her in Homecoming's varied programs.

Judy Faulkenstein, representing Juniper Hall, is 5' -7". She has brown hair and green eyes. Judy plans to teach after graduation. Though from Las Vegas, she likes "the excitement and activities of the Reno campus. Everything concerning the big weekend" interests her.

Barbara Garaventa is Manzanita hall's representative. A Nevada resident all of her life, she attended Pershing County High in Lovelock. Green eyed and brown hair, Barbara is 5-4. She loves to water ski and play volleyball. "The excitement and Wolves Frolic appeal to me but most of all the thought of the Johnny Mathis Show. I'm really happy the students of Nevada have gone to the trouble and expense to get someone of Mathis' stature for Homecoming."

Suzanne Martin, representing Kappa Alpha Theta, is a 19-year old sophomore majoring in elementary education. The sophisticated brunette is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs "about 125". The ex-Manogue Junior Prom Queen likes to ski.

Mary McCabe of Delta Delta Delta, lives in Reno and attended Manogue High School. She is 5'-8" with brown eyes and brown hair.

She is a member of Pan Hellenic council, song team and Wolves Frolic, while holding down a rush chairman's job for her sorority.

Mary's pet project during Homecoming is working on her Home's Wolves Frolic team. "It's fun for everyone to put on and watch."

Sue Rhoades Gamma Phi Beta, is from Reno though her father's work with the service has taken her to the Philippines, New Mexico, Virginia and Kansas.

She has light brown hair, blue eyes and is 5-5 tall. On campus she is AWS lectures chairman, a member of Student Judicial Council and skit member for her Frolic team.

Sue's fascination with Homecoming centers around Frolic, though she enjoys the game and the parade. "Frolic is a lot of work but it's worth it."

Carol Tobey, Artemisia hall candidate has green eyes and blond hair. Though from Sacramento she loves to ski, having been a member of the University's Powder Puff team last year. She is studying interior design and is vice president of Artemisia.

"The school spirit always seems to pick up when Homecoming begins. Students are working on skits and floats and they enjoy this part of the year because of this one weekend. I really like everything about it. It's great."

pendent, is 5-2 with dark brown hair and hazel eyes. She is a cheerleader here at the University and is studying elementary education. She attended All State Teacher's College in Indiana before coming to Nevada. She also acts as secretary to the Student Union. "I like the school spirit and Wolves Frolic, and I'm very happy Johnny Mathis will be here to entertain," she said.

Parade, Game Show Promised By Carrico

The band will march. Latest word from Dr. John Carrico, director of University bands, is that the marching band will be performing for Homecoming — the parade and a pre game show.

The band will not perform during half-time activities because, said Carrico, there is not enough time for the band to do a routine. The half-time activities will last about 25 minutes and the time is already taken up by the Chico State marching band and queen coronation ceremonies. The Nevada group will play the Nevada Fight Song, the Alma Mater, and a few other selections. They will also form an 'N' on the field.

During half-time, the Nevada band will join with the Chico band to play the Star Spangled Banner. Carrico's action, to get the band marching again, came on the heels of much controversy and adverse publicity. The band budget was cut by the ASUN finance control board by $550 Carrico had hoped to take the group to two professional football games where they would appear on nation-wide television.

After the budget cut, Carrico announced that the band would no longer march. At the beginning of the semester, student leaders met with Carrico and Dean Sam Basta to discuss a possible solution but nothing was solved.

Students voicing opinions had hoped for a marching band and were disappointed that it would not appear for Homecoming celebrations.

Carrico's action centered around the opinion that a marching band could not operate within the framework of a $1050 budget, that band members need more of an incentive than just marching at Nevada games, and that a stable, predictable budget should be set so the band knows with what it has to operate.

Carrico, under contract with the University as director of bands, does not specifically have to produce a marching band. He has said that it is his wish to do so.

Band President Harry Massoth has also said that the band wants to march. Speaking on behalf of the band, he said that it is good for the spirit of the University to have a marching band as well as favorable publicity for them to appear on nation-wide television. Massoth explained that it takes any long hours of intensive practice to produce a good show. He expressed the hope that some compromise between the finance control board and Carrico could be met.

The finance control board, also desiring a marching band, cut the budget because it felt that ASUN

Frosh To Whitewash 'N' On Peavine Saturday

Freshman students will once again uphold the tradition of painting Nevada's "N" Saturday.

Herded by the sophomore class, enthusiastic frosh armed with brushes and lime will paint the "N" on Peavine Mountain.

Students needing transportation should meet at the New Gym at 9 a. m.

John Gasque, sophomore class president, urges "all lower classmen to support this activity. It will also give the frosh and sophomores a chance to get acquainted."

money should not be spent for functions not specifically for the students.

But the band will march for Homecoming. What happens to the marching unit will then depend on a settlement between the board and Carrico.

Frosh AWS Voting Tied

Two victories and a tie were the result of Wednesday's general election, with a third election in view.

Dennis George, Alpha Tau Omega, was elected to lead the freshman class with 148 votes. The other president hopeful, Joe Beloso, Sigma Nu, trailed with 137 votes.

Susan Moss, the only candidate for AWS off-campus representative, was given a confidence vote of 116 to assure her of the office.

The 136 votes cast for AWS freshman class representative were split evenly between Pat Getchell and Toni Poloni.

Miss Getchell, candidate from Juniper Hall, and Miss Poloni, from Delta Delta Delta, each received 68 votes.

Freshman women will again be asked to register their choices at the polls next Wednesday for what the election board hopes to be, the final vote.

BAND CONTROVERSY MUST BE SOLVED

The band controversy has gone far enough! It is time for a meeting of the minds — represented by fair administrators, open-minded student leaders, and a diplomatic representative for the band.

It is evident that students want a marching band, the band wants a marching band, and interested onlookers want a marching band.

Dr. Carrico's decision to have the band march for Homecoming is most commendable but he clearly is not the one to bargain in the situation. He is right when he says that the band is something of which the University can be proud and he has shaped it almost entirely himself. He has now given the ASUN finance control board something with which to work. He has made a compromise. Now it is their turn.

The board members would do well to re-evaluate their action in light of student opinion and the band's position. Rewards are small for marching in a band. In the long run it is the student body which benefits from the publicity at professional football games or on a nation-wide television broadcast. It puts the U of N on the map. It may even be influential in attracting quality students. Thus, it is the University as a whole which benefits, not any one isolated segment.

Personalities must be eliminated. Carrico, if he has the best interest of the University and the band at heart, will step out of the picture and let someone else deal with the board.

Student leaders must lead in a sorry situation. There is a responsibility here that must be met. They must now answer to those voters who placed faith in their abilities to make the right decision in a situation such as this.

The time is ripe and the pressure is on. Petty politics must be laid aside, leaders must rise above personal bias and emotion, and the real issue must be met. Student money spent for non-student activities is not the issue. The band is comprised of students. They are advertising our University, and they have marched at student functions in the past.

Band members deserve a fling on nation-wide television at a pro game as much as ASUN officers Jim Acheson and Larry Struve deserved to attend a student body presidents' convention in Sun Valley, Idaho at student expense, with benefits weighing more heavily on the side of the band.

Song Program Sunday

A varied program of songs in seven languages will be presented Sunday afternoon by the music department.

The songs, in Italian, German, Russian, Spanish, Yiddish, French and English, include several folk and three Elizabethan lute songs. The program will start at 3 p. m. in the Fine Arts theater.

Jerald Reynolds, the soloist, is a new member of the music faculty. He teaches voice and assists Dr. Wm. Keith Macy, chairman, with the chorus.

He attended Pepperdine College and the University of Oregon, and in 1962 won the San Francisco Opera debut audition from Oregon. He has sung professionally with the North West Opera company and in Los Angeles.

Carrico's Action Was A 'Gracious Gesture'

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Over the past few weeks much has been written, spoken, and even shouted about the U. of N. band. People speaking out on both sides of the controversy have at times been guilty of over-generalizations and twisted thinking. As a result of the dispute, some measure of poor publicity has come to the University.

At this time Dr. Carrico has reconsidered the status of the U. of N. band; the band will march in the Homecoming parade and will participate in some activities during the Homecoming game. I believe this has been a gracious gesture on Dr. Carrico's part and as such should be appreciated by the student body.

I hope that Dr. Carrico's action signals the beginning of clearer thinking on the part of all those involved, regardless of their stand on the issue. After Homecoming, I see no reason why the parties to the band controversy cannot come together as reasonable people and work out a sensible solution for next year's University of Nevada band.

Mathis Will Make Movie

Johnny Mathis, who will appear here on campus Wednesday night will begin work on his first starring motion picture role during 1963, portraying St. Martin De Porres, a 17th century mulatto Peruvian priest.

The "Matador of God" is the name of the picture. Co-produced by Noga Productions, Inc. in which Mathis is partner, it will be filmed in Mexico and Peru.

Mathis has appeared in other films for brief parts in such movies as "Lizzie" and "A Certain Smile", and also sang the title songs for "Wild is the Wind" and "The Best of Everything".

Gamma Phi, Pi Phi Pledge Dances Tonight

Two sororities will honor their new pledges tonight with special dances held in the Reno area.

The women of Gamma Phi Beta and their escorts will dance in the Trocadero room of the Hotel El Cortez with the theme "The Days of Wine and Roses." Tom Lee and his band will play from 9 to 12.

Rosemont Lodge is the setting for the Pi Beta Phi Pledge Dance, also from 9 to 12. The Classics will play for dancing.

Filing Ends Tues.

Tuesday, October 15 is the last day for University organizations to submit club forms to Marsha Deming, ASUN second vice-president.

Clubs not filling out these forms will lose official ASUN recognition. With the loss of recognition, University facilities, and other privileges will be revoked.

THE PODIUM

STALE—SAFE

by DAVE COOPER
 Guest Columnist

The antiquated system of stringent administrative and faculty control prevailing at this University should, by its very nature, be abandoned forever. The attitude that what the college student needs is to be "mature" and "well-rounded" upon completing his college education dominates the thinking and reasoning of those in control who blindly follow this dogma.

As this is put into practice, the end result is a group of students who lack the desire and imagination to become leaders in the society, but tend to become content with fitting into the pattern of organized society without causing any ripple on the smooth waters of placidity. And transposing this to the larger sense, we could then look forward to a stagnant society incapable of moving in any direction — let alone forward.

Regardless of the far reaching consequences of a system which leads to the degradation of the individual character, the powers that be, cling to that hitherto unchallenged argument that it's SAFER. And taking this a step further, this institution has developed marvelous, systemized order in which the competent or individualistic student must conform to the middle of the road—properly fitting the pattern envisioned for him by the machined automatons who, in a loud chorus resonating with the sounds of their pre-planned IBM score, shout DON'T ROCK THE BOAT!

The proof is available for all to see who are willing to raise their heads above the normal stature of their collectivized minds. Look around. See how many teachers would be able to properly instruct a group of students without keeping their left hand firmly on the University regulations, and their eyes glued to a textbook thereby proving their reading ability, as well as demonstrating to all how closely each is able to follow the "code".

The purpose of teaching in the true sense of the word thus takes a secondary position to that of making sure the requirements are met in a particular course, so that the system maintains superiority rather than the knowledge a student gains from the course. And who is it that really suffers from this stale, highly systemized arrangement? Well, if you've ever looked back on some of your college career and wondered if your time was well spent, then you have the answer.

But the students are surely not the only ones who are cheated by this nonsensical adherence to a stale system. Not by any means. If you question this, just count on your fingers some day the number of well qualified teachers who leave our campus each year for the simple reason that they would rather teach than become a slave to an antiquated system of education which inhibits individual excellence and caters to an idea that all college students are the same — because they're college students.

Far be it for me to say that the college community can be completely free-wheeling and without some necessary controls placed upon it. However, when system develops to the point that it overshadows the purpose of education, that is, the pursuit of knowledge, then I seriously question its supposed perfection. Any system, good or bad, should exist to aid when called upon, rather than to inhibit because of its very presence.

One must look closely at the persons without the University community who are so enchanted with the perfection of the system that they soon become dominated by it, rather than their own minds. For these it no longer matters what one thinks, but how these thoughts can be molded to fit the system. It's true they probably entertained individual thoughts regarding education at the college level at one time, but have somehow found it easier to submit than to resist. In the final transition these very same converts soon find it is considerably easier to grade by system (required attendance, required examinations and collective course outlines)—rather than attempt to strike imagination into the minds of the students through their own individual efforts. They soon forget that there was ever any other way of teaching!

It must be remembered that nothing has ever been created by a group. The individual creates—the group modifies.

If our purpose at college is to gain knowledge so that we may better develop our mental capabilities on an individual basis, as I maintain it is, then I say—to the systematists of the University community—rise above your slavery to a system that inhibits individual excellence, and attempt to provide the necessary essentials for the development of all our minds. The heights of learning will thus become immeasurable.

Solons Resurrect Forum, Propose New Constitution

A new ASUN constitution may be in the offing, the University of Nevada Forum goes back to publication board, and students will help raise money for a book drive for the library. Senate in a relative brief meeting discussed and moved on these proposals Wednesday night.

Back to publications board for a decision is the proposed campus opinion journal, the University of Nevada Forum. The forum has been through two heated publications board meetings, a sub-committee, the senate, the steering committee, and now back from where it came.

Senate accepted a proposal by the senate steering committee to send the proposed journal back to Policy for the Forum would have to be set-up by the publications board subject to the approval of senate. The Forum, according to Larry Hutchings, steering committee chairman, should first appear some time in November.

Another sub-committee would probably have to be set-up by publications board to formulate a definite working policy.

In other action by senate, Helix, a philosophical club and Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary music society were approved for official ASUN recognition.

Arts and Science senator Steve Miller recommended that senate study the possibility of a new ASUN constitution. The proposal was turned over to steering committee.

Senators were also informed of a Fleischmann Foundation grant of $200,000 to the University for library books. The grant must be met with $100,000 by the University. ASUN President Jim Acheson said although most of the money would be raised by the Friends of the Library, it would be a good gesture on part of the students to aid in the effort.

SENATE IN BRIEF

- Senate Wednesday night: sent Forum back to publications board.
- directed steering committee to study a new ASUN constitution.
- learned of a $100,000 drive for library books.
- approved two new organizations, Helix and Kappa Kappa Psi.

publications board for reconsideration after it was defeated by a vote of five to two.

The senate standing committee recommended that publications give the journal a trial period after which a definite decision could be made. The report said the journal could be published at a reasonable cost, could be inserted into the Sagebrush, and should come out twice a month.

Studies Astronomy By New Approach

Although not designed as a stairway to the stars, the building's modern, low-sweeping roof attracted a four-wheel-drive vehicle, which made a tour of the new structure for a "superior" view.

The gay gazers have not been apprehended, but it is suspected that the party received their due punishment the following morning.

The University's building and grounds crew took immediate action in prevention of future flings atop the building.

There are now large bumper blocks on the Atmospherium-Planetarium roof.

PEMS Meeting

PEMS, a national organization for women physical education majors and minors, held its first meeting last week.

Six guests at the luncheon meeting were men who teach physical education in foreign lands.

This year's officers were introduced at the meeting. They are Barbara Edgington, president; Jill Walker, vice president; Ruby Yurata, secretary; and Gloria Casci, treasurer.

One of PEMS activities is selling programs at the football games. The money from the project is used for scholarships sponsored by PEMS.

Honors Students Get Special Room

The Noble Getchell Library has established a room to be used exclusively by students who are registered in honors courses or who are pursuing an honors degree, said David Hettich, chairman of the University Honors Study Board.

Room 116, which is used by several of the honors courses for their class meetings, has been furnished by the library with study tables and lounge chairs for the use of students who are in any way involved in the Honors Program. The honors board has also established a collection of books for the honors students; although many of these books are basic reference works books which are used in honors courses, there are others that form a browsing collection.

The honors board hopes that honors students will use this room for study purposes and consider it a place where they can meet for classes and private discussions.

CIVIL DEFENSE CONFERENCE HERE

A civil defense conference concerning maximum survival in case of national disaster or nuclear attack will be held at the University of Nevada on Monday, October 14.

The announcement was made by Col. Robert B. Hay, Washoe County Civil Defense Director.

Col. Hay said that the University's statewide services in cooperation with the office of civil defense is conducting the conference to acquaint local elected officials and community leaders with Washoe County civil defense needs.

The conference will include a review of the national fallout shelter program and its significance to Washoe County. Other topics to be discussed relative to the shelter program include radiological monitoring, public information, training and education, communications, and federal financial assistance programs.

In conjunction with the conference, plans will be discussed for local enrollment in the new university extension courses to train in structures in shelter management and radiological monitoring. The classes will start in November of this year.

Float Building Deadline Near

With less than one week until Homecoming, float activity and tension is rising. Deadline is Saturday morning, October 19th.

Over-all Homecoming float chairman, Jinks Dabney, says that float building is going rather slow and the rush will be on next week to finish the floats.

Under the theme "From Lincoln to the Space Age", chairmen and float themes are: Alpha Tau Omega, "Impress Them Nevada", Leroy Rupert, chairman; Delta Delta Delta, "Don't Gillette Us Down", Judy Grossenback; Gamma Phi Beta, "Turn The Other Chico", Liz Mac Gregor; Independents, "Still On Target", John Duty; Kappa Alpha Theta, "Aim To Claim The Game," Joyce Freeman and Phyllis Goytino; Lambda Chi Alpha, "Count Down The Wildcats", Dennis Golden.

Phi Sigma Kappa, "Mining to Missiles", Pat McDaniel; Pi Beta Phi, "Hook 'Em Up", Karry Devincenzi and Sandy Hay; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, "Orbit The Wildcats", Rick Heaney; Sigma Nu, "En'core Wolf Pack", John Mirezak and Al Ferrari; and Theta Chi, "The New Frontier", Marsh Mast.

Each group is allowed to spend not more than $150 on their float. Building is limited to 15 feet by 40 feet, one reason being that the Reno Arch is 17 feet high.

Float winners will be announced the same night at the Homecoming Dance at Mathisen's.

Sundowner Tryouts This Afternoon

Sundowners are staging their state wide tryouts again Friday afternoon at 2 in Idlewild Park. If some men wishing to try out cannot make this time they are to sign up at the Sundowner table in the Jot Travis Union building.

"Sundowner membership is very exclusive," said senior member Tom Case. "We hope to recruit many more good fellows into our group."

Tom Thomsen wanted challenging work

He found it at Western Electric

T. R. Thomsen, B.S.M.E., University of Nebraska, '58, came to Western Electric for several reasons. Important to him was the fact that our young engineers play vital roles right from the start, working on exciting engineering projects in communications including: electronic switching, thin film circuitry, microwave systems and optical masers.

Western Electric's wide variety of challenging assignments appealed to Tom, as did the idea of advanced study through full-time graduate engineering training, numerous management courses and a company-paid Tuition Refund Plan.

Tom knows, too, that we'll need thousands of experienced engineers for supervisory positions within the next few years. And he's getting the solid experience necessary to qualify. Right now, Tom is developing new and improved inspection and process control techniques to reduce manufacturing costs of telephone switching equipment. Tom is sure that Western Electric is the right place for him. What about you?

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for—we want to talk to you! Opportunities for fast-moving careers exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and also for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more detailed information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. Or write: Western Electric Company, Room 6405, 222 Broadway, New York 38, N. Y. And be sure to arrange for a personal interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Campus Radio Station KUNR Is Now In Full Operation

The University of Nevada's new FM radio station, KUNR began broadcasting Monday October 7 at 3:45 p. m. Regular broadcasting hours will be 3:45 to 11 p. m. Monday through Friday.

FM receiver owners within a 13 mile radius of the university will be able to pick up the station at 88.1 on their dial.

KUNR headquarters are in the Church Fine Arts building at the north end of the campus. The station's main studio is in the building, and the transmitter is located on the roof of the three-story structure.

Miss Mary Robins, a graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in speech, is the station manager. Miss Robins has had professional experience in radio work, and spent three years working in civic theatre. She has been at the University for 10 months, preparing the new radio facility for broadcasting.

In the initial weeks of operation, the KUNR program schedule will be filled with tastefully selected music ranging from folk to classical. Songs will be introduced by five student announcers.

At least once each day, the journalism department's radio and television writing class will present a five-minute campus news summary. The eight student group will work in pairs and alternate each day.

Radio and television professor LaRue Gilleland says the newscasts will be "educational in nature." The stress will be on acquainting the people of Reno with the cultural side of University life.

A studio located in the basement of the journalism building and linked to the main studio by remote lines, will be used in this supplemental broadcasting.

Future plans for the new station include broadcasts of campus musical events, and addresses by visiting speakers. Tapes of these presentations may be made available after broadcast as a community public service.

The new station will be operated by the University audio-visual department.

WRA Sponsors Folk, Square Dancing Club

A folk and square dance club is being sponsored by WRA. The club meets the first and third Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be held October 17.

All students and faculty members are invited to join the group. Women are in special demand since at the last meeting men outnumbered women 2 to 1.

Courageous Turtle Braves Manzanita Lake

Every day when the mellow October sun sifts polka-dots of light through the trees that border Manzanita's stagnant waters a turtle digs his toenails into the half-rotted bark of a floating limb and stretches his head in the afternoon warmth.

He shows a lot of courage. Little boys from St. Thomas school wade in for closer looks and throw rocks. They've even thrown darts. A red one struck about two inches under Turtle's shell, but he just blinked.

That's the interesting thing. He always faces the shore and seems to be watching the parade of people who hesitate and say:

"Oh, look. A turtle." To which girls invariably reply, "Isn't he darling?" (or cute or adorable). This is a stock phrase which requires no thought and elicits none.

The boys from St. Thomas say that about twenty turtles live in the middle of the lake. But with the young boy's ability to exaggerate, this probably means five or six.

Comments as to how the turtles came to Manzanita Lake run something like this:

"Oh someone must have planted them, you know, like they do fish."

"I'll bet they're the ones that those kids get at the circus and they've just grown to full-size."

"A turtle, huh? I wouldn't be surprised to see an alligator crawl out of that muck. They had them on sale at Gray Reid's a while back you know, alligators, that is."

"Ugh, I wonder how he can stand that dirty water?"

One woman with a French accent commented that she read in a book that turtles eat baby ducklings. If Dean Mobley and Miss Barnes hear about that there'll be a premium offered for turtle shells come next spring.

Other comments: "I wonder what species he is," thought the biology major.

"That would make a good feature story," mumbled the journalism major.

"I wonder if baby turtles can be made to think that a football is their mother," pondered the psychology major.

"If I were not here to see that turtle, would he really exist? queried the philosophy major.

"Look at the turtle," says the fifth-grade St. Thomas student.

"What ho! Doth mine eyes deceive me? A hard-shelled tortoise would they have me see," orates the Shakespearean English major.

"I wonder if that kind of turtle makes turtle soup," asked the Home Ec. major.

At which point in the tale the turtle cocked his head as if to say, "Tough bananas, Julius. If you think I'm going to stay around and become an hor d'oeuvre you've flipped your gord."

And he slipped quietly into the water.

Western Marketing Group To Meet

The Western Marketing Research Technical committee will hold a meeting on October 15, 16, 17, in the Fleischmann room in the Home Economics building.

Mrs. Julian Chancerelle, instructor in foods and nutrition in the home economics division, is the representative for the State of Nevada.

Representatives from Oregon, Idaho, New Mexico, Colorado, and the USDA from Washington, D. C. will participate.

The purpose of the meeting concerns research in quality control of foods and vegetables.

The meeting will be under the direction of Dr. R. N. Alexander, of Oregon State University, Corvallis, Oregon.

Sigma Nu's Honor Pledges At Dance

Sigma Nu fraternity will honor 34 new pledges this Saturday night with a dance at the Rosemont Lodge.

This year a San Francisco jazz group, headed by Mickey Laverine, will provide the music from 9 to 12 p. m.

In past years it has been a tradition for the pledges to take several of the actives "on a ride" so they will be unable to attend the dance.

University's 'Pep Pack' To Revive Campus Spirit

The rally committee, cheerleaders, and song leaders have combined to make a "Pep Pack" for the University. The purpose of the group is to promote school spirit at various athletic contests, to keep the rooters at football games, and generally revive a defunct spirit for the campus.

So far this year, the "Pep Pack" has sponsored the Bonfire rally, led cheers at the Trek-nic at the beginning of the year, and sent a telegram to the Wolf Pack football team when they played Idaho State in Pocatello. In addition, the "Pep Pack" sponsored a noontime rally in front of the Student Union building.

A spokesman for the group said it wasn't too successful since there were at the most 30 pepole at the rally. With the help of the Sagers, the "Pep Pack" got things rolling for the snake parade through sorority row and up the Greek complex through the fraternities.

Art Kess, cheerleader said, "We are really trying to get the students fired up." School spirit hasn't been what it should be according to the spirit promoters. Before the last two home games, the pep pack decorated the goal posts and at the first game put up a banner for the team to run through.

Another project sponsored by the Pack is the "Hell-of-a-Yell" contest. The winner of the contest—the person writing the most original yell—will win a dinner for two at Tahoe Harrah's.

Kess said the University band and the Sagers deserve a great deal of credit for their support at rallies and games.

The group is tentatively planning another rally sometime before Homecoming, but are not sure if they will be ready in time for Homecoming. If they do have a rally the "Pep Pack" expressed the hope that it would be better attended than the last one in front of the Student Union building.

Another plan that the "Pep Pack" is investigating is the possibility of moving the Nevada rooting section to the West side of Mackay stadium. They felt that it was build for Nevada rooters and should be again used for that purpose.

The Pep Pack includes: Rally committee: Don Dallas, chairman; Leroy Goodman, Bill Pollard, Moose Armuth, Patty Arnold, Laurie Stern, and Cheryl Grifhead; Art Kess, Bill McGee, Julie Zeigler, and Donna Martin.

Songleaders are: Marcia Oaks, head; Mary Kay Gezelin, Sue Whitaker, Lyn Armbruser, and Kathy Helsdon.

The three groups combined make up the Pep Pack.

Famous Alumni Visit On Campus

Two of the University of Nevada's prominent alumni visited the campus last week.

Harold Coffin of the class of 1926 is a syndicated newspaper columnist. He writes a column of humorous commentaries on the day's news for the San Francisco Chronicle, the Honolulu Star-Advertiser, and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Since his graduation in journalism, he has served with the San Francisco Chronicle, the Honolulu Starr-Bulletin, the Hawaii Tourist Bureau, the Advertising Department of the U. S. Steel Corporation, and the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

His wife, the former Jane O'Sullivan was graduated from the University of Nevada in 1924.

She is a poet of national recognition and her verses appear in national magazines and newspapers with national circulation.

Mrs. Coffin wrote the words of the University triumph hymn which is the University alma mater.

Advantages Of Peace Corps Viewed By Dr. Skorpen

"Is the Peace Corps Worth-while?" was the theme of a talk given by Dr. Erling Skorpen, professor of philisophy. His purpose was to inform University of Nevada students of the advantages offered to participants in as well as recipients of the Peace Corps program.

Dr. Skorpen illustrated the different areas of interests needed in the corps, from engineering to secretarial skills.

He also pointed out the advantages of the program to those who participate. The experience gained in specific fields, he said, was proven to be invaluable to those who are accepted into the service.

The Peace Corps has shown throughout its short life, he said, to be of genuine worth in promoting the image of the United States in backward areas. Dr. Skorpen explained that in many of these areas, after the introduction of the Peace Corps, the poor picture of the capitalistic American has been dispelled.

The speech, delivered in the Church Fine Arts building on Oct. 10, was sponsored by the CCUN to inform Nevada students about the Peace Corps, and its purpose.

Peace Corps placement tests will be given October 19, at 8:30 a. m. in the US Post Office building, Reno.

Silver Blades Beat University Fencers

The University of Nevada Fencing team lost to the Silver Blade Fencing Club early this week, by the score of 11-5.

Wolves Frolic Will Have A New Look

Wolves' Frolic tickets went on sale this week in the bookstore, enabling students to reserve good seats for next week's performances.

Frolic Director Jim Bernardi, says that "Wolves Frolic will take on a new look this year. "It will also be shorter.

Bernardi and his committee plan to use over 300 Christmas tree light bulbs plus yards and yards of pink, red, and orange fluorescent material for the Frolic setting. There will be no painted backdrops.

The number of specialty acts have been cut down and "black-outs", one or two-line skits, will serve as covers for scene changes.

Specialty acts scheduled for the no-theme Frolic this year will be done by Bobby Heron, Delia Grindell, Bob Rusk and Frank Egenhoff, Don Hackstaff, and the Sun-downers.

A 14-piece University of Nevada Stageband, directed by student Harry Massoth, will provide musical accompaniment for the different skits.

YWCA Book Drive Termed Success

A drive sponsored by the University of Nevada YWCA will end successfully Oct. 8 when 400 books will be presented to the Natchez elementary school on the Nixon Indian reservation.

Eighteen YWCA members, assisted by four board members and two faculty wives, collected more than 1,000 books during the project. The majority of the books collected were unsuited for grade school use and were turned over to the Stewart Indian Agency for adult education purposes.

The participants from the university included: Lynn Roberts, who served as chairman, Ruth Friedhoff, Lynn Allen, Dorothy Jones, Adeline Rossi, Judy Hunt, Sharon Barrett, and Janet Du Bois.

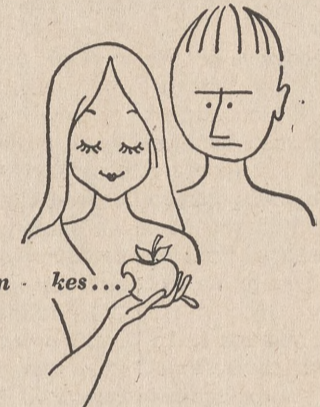

The advisory board was made up of Mrs. Paul Smith, who was the co-ordinator, Mrs. David Heron, Mrs. A. L. Talcott and Mrs. William T. Scott. Mrs. Robert Armstrong and Mrs. Robert Harvey were also included.

Wolf Pack Seeks Second Victory In Whittier

...Of Sports

And Things...

By TIM ANDERSON
Associate Sports Editor

A familiar face on the university campus is missing this fall. Jack Tighe, who was director of intramural athletics here last year, was killed in an automobile accident last summer. Ironically, he was travelling to see his ill mother, when the tragedy occurred.

At the time of his death, Tighe was secretary of the Nevada State Athletic Commission. He was also a former chairman of the commission.

A former great boxer at Penn State during his college days, Tighe introduced many original innovations in the intramural program last year, in addition to his excellent instruction in physical education. He was a P. E. instructor at the U. of Illinois before coming here.

Tighe's replacement is Lee Newell, who was intramural athletic director at Washington St. University.

A good bet is that the Wolf Pack will beat Chico St. on Homecoming. The Wildcats have a 1-2 record for their first three games. They beat Pacific U. and were beaten by Lewis and Clark in close games, before being soundly beaten last week by Santa Clara, 48-28. Tomorrow they go against the Cal Aggies.

Although Nevada has the same record as Chico for the first three games, and is an underdog to Whittier tomorrow, the Pack has played against considerably tougher competition.

Idaho St. and Montana St., who own victories over the Silver and Blue this year, are among the top small college teams in the west. The Whittier Poets have won or shared the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference title for the last six years and are favored again this season.

Tomorrow's clash in Whittier will be a grudge game as far as the Poets are concerned, since their only loss last year came at the hands of our boys. Coach John Godfrey, in his fourth year at Whittier, has a record of 26-4-1 going into tomorrow's game.

Newsy Nuggets: The ski team has begun training for the upcoming season. Once again this year, Chelton Leonard will be at the helm . . . the basketball squad is set to officially start practicing next Tuesday. Most of the boys got a jump on training . . . the Student Union certainly was a popular place last week. It seemed like the whole school was over there watching the Series . . . Seen early this week: Yankee fans hopefully watching TV, muttering under their breath that they couldn't believe something or other . . . cross-country season starts tomorrow with the Sacramento St. Invitational in the California capital. This will undoubtedly be the toughest competition of the year for the distance runners . . . The Sacramento St. Hornets won an unusual game last week from Long Beach St. The score was 4-0. Ever try to figure out what the odds are for a team to register two safeties in one game?

Nevada Injuries May Spell Doom

Numerous injuries may keep Nevada from winning its second game of the season against the mighty Whittier Poets. Nevada's one-two running punch, Chuck Widel and Dan Acuna are both hampered with injuries. Three year letterman fullback Jock Echave is also hurt.

Head football coach Dick Trachok says that Acuna will probably start and Widel may start. However, Trachok is very doubtful about Echave and Tony Wheeler may start in his place.

Trachok is happy about the progress of the Wolf Pack gridgers. "The players have been coming along real well and they have been working hard," Trachok says. "Whittier is real tough on their home field but we should play well against them."

Triple threat man Allan Crawford leads the Wolf Pack offensive. Crawford has completed 24 out of 42 passes for 249 yards and has 97 yards running in 18 carries. This gives Crawford a total of 346 total yards for 3 games.

Halfback Acuna has a spectacular 7 yards per carry average. Acuna has carried 26 times for 186 yards. Widel is the leading scorer with 18 points.

Distance Runners Face Stiff Test

Nevada's cross country team will face what promises to be their stiffest competition of the year when they compete in the 13th Annual Sacramento State Invitational Meet. The meet will take place Saturday morning at the Sacramento golf course.

Nevada will be led by cross country and track star Bud Foran. Foran was Nevada's top cross country runner last year and was an outstanding half miler for the Wolf Pack cinder squad.

Foran will face tough competition from big cross country powers such as California, San Jose State and Stanford. San Jose State won NCAA championships in cross country last year.

Ralph Mack from Bishop, California will also be one of Nevada's top hopes in the meet. Track man Dan Cline will also enter for the Wolf Pack along with two outstanding Nevada high school quarter miler Dave Afleck from White Pine High School, and Bob Sinnot from Carson City. Also competing will be freshman Mike Sorenson from Fallon.

Although most of the Nevada team is inexperienced, Coach George Twardoken believes that this tough competition will be good for his distance runners.

Rough Poets Set For Clash

The Wolf Pack takes to the road this week in quest of their second victory as they travel to Whittier College to meet the "Poets" in a non-conference clash.

Ranked as the top small college team in southern California, Whittier looms as a foe of no easy picking for the "Pack".

So far this season, the "Poets" have a 1-1-1 record with a 6-6 tie with Flagstaff State, a win over the Cal Aggies 17-14 and a loss to Santa Barbara 7-9.

The Poets depend mostly on their aerial attack run from the "wing-T" formation. In this offense, there is no fullback. Two backs are lined up behind the quarterback with a wingback outside the end. It was this formation that was instrumental in bringing them the SCIAAC Football Championship last year.

In the first meeting between these two teams, last season, the "Pack" handed them a 21-6 setback which was Whittier's only loss in 9 games.

Even though the "Poets" sustained crucial losses from their '62 championship squad they are still picked to win the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title.

To do the throwing will be quarterback Doug Bennett (185), a junior who completed 44 of 91 passes last year. With him in the veteran backfield are Ronnie Hales (185), who clicked off a six yard per carry average last season, and Rick Alvarado (175) both at halfbacks. Chuck Lewman (19) will be in wingback position.

On the line it will be Bob Evans (205), center; Dave Kelsoe (215) and Dave Brizic (190), at guards. Stepping into the tackle spots are Dan Schupp, a 230 pound transfer student from UCLA, where he played first string on last years freshman team, and returning letterman Barnard Bisho (195).

Doug Agatep (195) and Dave Pena (200) will line up at ends.

Clinics to train volleyball referees will begin on Friday, October 11 at 4 p. m. All those interested should see Dr. Janet Felshin, WRA advisor.

Mathis Used To Make Music Through High Jumping Feats

Johnny Mathis, who will appear here during Homecoming celebrations, will be returning to the campus where he once set the Mackay stadium track record. Eight years ago, Mathis set the high jump record of 6 feet 5 1/2 inches while he competed against Nevada and represented San Francisco State College. He had also set a Far Western Conference record of 6 feet 8 inches while he was in college.

Mathis has been quoted as saying his background as an athlete helped him in show business. He was already accustomed to "performing" before audiences before making his professional singing debut.

"At first," said Mathis, "All those people watching me high jump made me nervous, but after a few years of competition I got used to it. So, I did not have to overcome stage fright when I started singing."

Today, as a performer, Mathis still adheres to a strict physical discipline as great physical energy is expended in his performances.

"When I sing, I use every muscle from the top of my head to the bottom of my feet," Mathis has said.

If time permits, he does daily exercises, plays tennis, and basketball. He weighs about the same now as he did when he was in college in 1955.

POOR DADDY CAN'T UNBUTTON HIS VEST 'CAUSE MOMMY'S DAGGER'S IN HIS CHEST

The title has no real significance but I liked its sound. It's interesting to watch a social season move along. Friends are made and groups develop leading to a solidified number of the same people attending many events or "get-togethers" again and again. Yet individuals make up the whole, someone said. Ayn Rand, perhaps? . . . Anyway . . . A large number of party-goers may never be heard from, only seen. But those who stand out are the ones who constantly are whispered about after a function, and some even during. Maybe the whispers aren't noble but the persons discussed are constant . . . and there's virtue in there somewhere. They're the ones who make these items and I need 'em, if no one else does . . .

MAN'S BEST FRIEND (?): After a heavy T. G. I. S. (that last letter stand's for Saturday, you know. It's a very flexible saying) last weekend, Danny Acuna, Mike Dimmit and Harlan Heward began to remove the deltas from the Tri Delt door. But a quick call to the police brought one cop car, two cop cops plus one cop dog. What kind of dog, you ask? "Mean as hell," recalls Dimmit.

Acuna surrendered, Heward blended into the scenery, but Dimmit had "watched too much Route 66." Ripping off his coat and wrapping it around his arm doggedly, (ouch!) he said, "Come on, Rover!" Well, to make a short story long, Rover came on. Dimmit's final cries as they carried him away . . . "I give up! . . . I give up!"

The only real damage was to the rear of Dimmit's pants, but they always say, justice triumphs in the end . . . (double ouch!)

STATEMENT OF POLICY: Somewhere up above is positively the last Tom Swifty I'll print, I say shortly, haltingly and pointedly period. At least until I get a fresh supply . . . so let's try something else . . . a different type of humor, perhaps? . . . perhaps . . .

Contrary to popular belief, centepedes can be trained to dive. However, no centepede has ever performed this athletic fete in public, as they have no hip bones and their swimming trunks keep falling down . . . stay with me, dear reader, if you can.

RISE AND FALL: Two days after the Tau Tim Griffin kidnap last week, an ATO active came rushing up to Tau Ron Banta. "Guess what, Ron, guess what?" "Did they find Griffin?" asked an anxious Banta. "Hell no! The Dodgers are ahead, 2-0!" . . . slow sizzle . . . fade out.

HOT LINE, PART III: Former Assistant Editor of the Sagebrush, Bruce Pozzi, who gave up journaling to enter the social ramble, ran into trouble with his first fling at Poz' Place. A guest stuck his phone in the oven and turned it on "bake".

Oh! Poz told his non-University guests his name was Larry Lunchmeat and still gets calls for him. Among other aliases floating at the party was Tom Tower's, conning as Kenney Kampus . . .

Overheard at Poz' Place: Girl speaking about a campus wolf, "He's about as deep as a three cent stamp."

VIEW FROM THE BLEACHERS: The toast of Sierra Street is the reconciliation of Bob Braunschweig, ATO, and Alex Battin, DDD, Betty Webb, PBP, and Jim Elliott, LXA. Make necessary change on scoreboard. In pencil. And keep an eraser handy . . .

LET'S TRY AGAIN: Contrary to popular opinion, the bull does not get mad when a red flag is waved in front of his face. Actually it is the cow that gets mad when a red flag is waved before her. The reason the bull gets mad is that he hates to be mistaten for a cow . . .

OUR HERO, PART III: Lane Monroe, famed far and near as a social leader turned his talents to a new field last week . . . and went down in flames. He led a chukker hunting safari of five friends to his secret hunting grounds east of town, where the "sky was black with birds." At the crack of dawn the five were sneaking over a hill and creeping down to a pond, which housed "the center of chukker civilization." But alas, no birds. "Follow me, you guys," sayth Lane.

Over hill, over dale, through canyons, across arid deserts and finally, in late afternoon, up a mountain. Lo and behold, up flew twenty birds. But by now, three of the hunters were dragging unloaded guns. Total bagged: three birds. "Say fellas, I know this great spot for hunting ducks. Next week we'll get up early and . . ." (Clickity-click. Sound of shells entering empty chambers of three shotguns) . . .

ITEM: Leonard Rappaport hasn't shaved in 52 years. Leonard Rappaport is a woman . . .

THE NEW FRONTIER: After the Sundowner dance a few people needed more excitement. Why not take a nice swim, they thought? That's all very fine but in the Getchell Library pool? Splashing to and fro were Gary Busch, Ellen Roseman, who has an affinity for water, Bob Hamilton and Judy Norcott. A lovely scene on a lovely evening . . .

THOUGHT: Why doesn't ASUN prexy Jim Acheson try for Sundowners? He has all the attributes . . . and he skis. But could he pass the entrance exam? Check back after the Gamma Phi dance tonight . . .

FUN TO COME: Next week a treasure hunt will begin on the U of N campus. Something will be hidden and clues will be given as to its whereabouts. The finder will win a lot of prizes associated with the upcoming Military Ball, but don't be afraid . . .

QUESTIONS: what is purple and buzzes? Answer: An electric plum.
I need a vacation . . . bye.

Flu Bug Is Biting Again

The "bug" is here — BEWARE. The University of Nevada Infirmary treated 688 students and teachers in September for the flu. The October count has already averaged nearly 50 a day.

A virus, it is characterized by a sore throat, stuffy nose and vomiting.

Infirmary Nurse Mary Johnson says "There is little that can be done in the prevention of the flu except lots of sleep and good food. Afflicted students should come to the Infirmary, as we can ease the symptoms somewhat."

. . . Intramurals

The four and one-half mile race will begin at Sparks Junior High School and finish at Mackay Stadium.

Intramural golf will begin November 3. At that time the first golf tournament is scheduled, with an alternate date set for November 10 in case of bad weather.

Those wishing to compete must see Mr. Lee Newell in the New Gym.

Co-educational volleyball will begin October 23. All those who wish to enter team, must have applications in Mr. Lee Newell' office in the New Gym no later than October 18.

All games will be played in the Old Gym, at 7:30 p. m. Teams will be made up of three men and three women. This is a mandatory rule.

Those interested may enter as many teams as they wish, since no points are given toward the Kinnear Trophy.

Dropping Classes

The final date for dropping classes without penalty is October 23. Students may drop a course at any time during the first six weeks of the semester without failing. Drops which occur after the first six weeks require instructors to indicate whether the student is passing or failing.

In order to drop a course, students must obtain a change of registration form from the Registrar's office. When the student has secured the proper signatures and has filed the completed form in the Registrar's office, the drop is official.

Dorm Honors Deceased

Manzanita Hall Association has donated the book "Design for Modern Living" by Gerd and Ursula Hatje to the University Library. The book is engraved "In Memory of Rebecca Sue Kogan, December, 1962".

Miss Kogan, who was a resident of Manzanita hall, was killed in an automobile accident last year during Christmas vacation.
