

Pollard Officially At-large Senator

Bill Pollard was sworn in by Wayne Ferguson as junior men's senator-at-large in ceremonies Thursday. Ferguson officially gave his office to Pollard in the student body president's office in the TUB.

Pollard, a senior math major from Virginia City, was voted to replace Ferguson, who is unable to serve, at a senate meeting two weeks ago.

The new student body senator-at-large was a former senator and steering committee member. He is also one of the "Pep Pack".

Pollard's position of election board chairman will be handled by Doug Neddenriep tomorrow for the freshman AWS elections. Neddenriep, who has been assisting Pollard this year, is a likely candidate for the now-vacant office, said Jim Acheson, student body president.

30 Freshmen Paint The 'N'

A "wet affair" was held for some thirty freshmen and two supervising sophomores as the group trekked to the block N on Peavine Mountain for the traditional whitewashing job.

With 22 sacks of agricultural lime and sufficient water from a water truck, the thirty freshmen gave the 'N' a new coat of white paint.

After the painting, the group went to Peavine lake where they dined on sandwiches and coke while a few involuntarily bathed in the lake.

Getchell, Poloni Vie Again Wed.

A tie-breaking election will be held tomorrow for the AWS freshman representative. Pat Getchell and Toni Poloni received 68 votes each, thus putting the two freshmen women at a deadlock vote. The election tomorrow is hoped to break the tie.

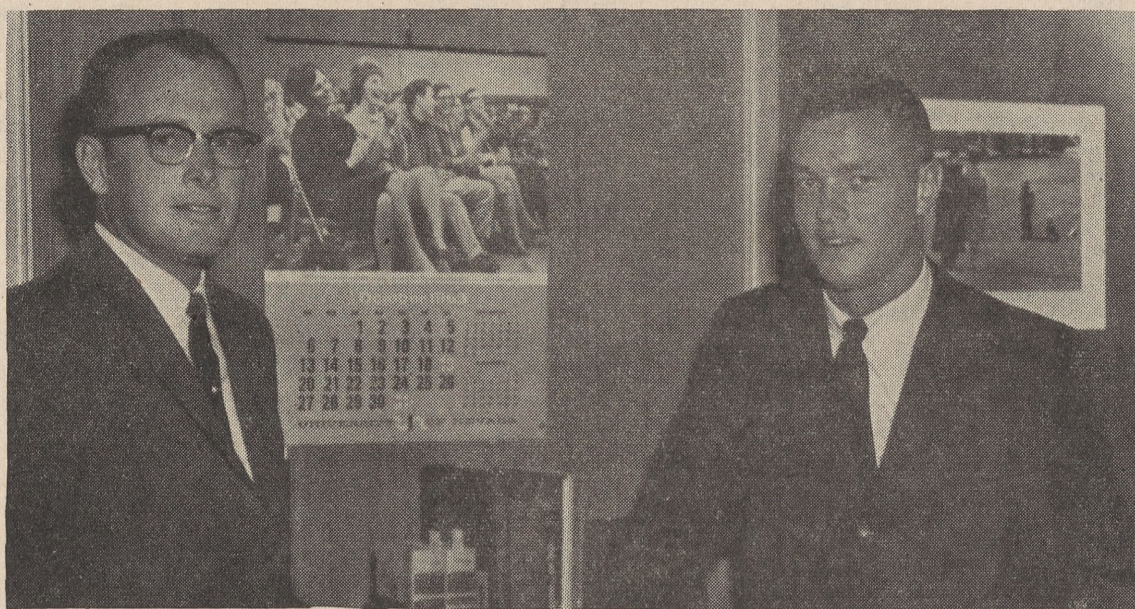

Miss Getchell, a member of Juniper hall received 34 of 120 votes cast in the primary election, while Miss Poloni of Tri-Delta received 33. The two women won out over two other candidates for the office to go into last week's general elections only to come out with a tie vote.

The polls will again be opened between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. and all Freshmen women are eligible to vote.

Art Lecture Set Wed.

"Fresco", the art of painting on wet plaster, will be the subject of a lecture tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in room 139 of the Fine Arts building.

The lecture, by Charles Ross of the art department, will cover the history and technique of fresco painting. It is one of the oldest and most permanent of all art forms. Properly applied, it becomes a part of the building. Fresco murals on Egyptian tombs are as bright today as when they were first applied.

BILL THORNTON (left) chairman of alumni activities for Homecoming and Mike Griffin, student chairman, discuss final plans for the 1963 Homecoming celebration. The four days of festivities begin tomorrow night with the Johnny Mathis show in the New Gym and wind up Saturday night with traditional dances.

Johnny Mathis Show Kickoff Homecoming

By PAT CECCARELLI

The first activity for Homecoming 1963 will be the assembly tomorrow evening featuring Johnny Mathis with comedian Allan Drake and Si Zentner and his orchestra.

Johnny Mathis, now a wealthy and world known popular singer, came from a modest home of seven children.

He was born in San Francisco in 1935. After graduating from George Washington High School he enrolled at San Francisco State College where he made an outstanding record in athletics. His main interests included track—hurdles and high jump—and basketball.

He was selected all-city basketball player when he played for George Washington High.

Mathis' first recording debut was in New York City at the Blue Angel and the Village Vanguard. His single records, "Wonderful, Wonderful" and "It's Not For Me to Say", soon followed. After his debut he began appearing at such nightclubs as the Chez Paree in Chicago, The Copacabana in New York, the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, and the Sands and the Sahara in Las Vegas.

During the summer of 1961, Mathis made his European debut. He appeared on the Italian Riviera and in England.

Today the twenty-eight year old singer has fifteen best-selling albums, each surpassing the one half million mark. He has won several Gold Record Awards. His single record sales have passed the six million mark with several totaling more than 1,000,000 copies and one which topped the 2,000,000 mark.

Comedian Allan Drake, who began his career as a prize fighter, will be appearing with the Johnny Mathis Show tomorrow night.

Although Drake was interested in business, he somehow at the age of 18 began prize fighting. After he realized that this was not the life for him, he ran away from home and went to Miami Beach. There Drake won the honor of being the youngest cab driver in town.

Drake believes cab drivers have more fun and laughs than any group of workers in the world. Every type of character imaginable rode in his cab and each of them has a different story to tell.

Jackie Miles and Lenny Kent, two of his passengers, became his close friends and they helped end his career as a cab driver. These men encouraged him to seek a career as a comedian and even gave him the material with which to work up an act.

Drake soon left Florida and returned to Boston where Lenny Kent got him a job as social director at the Arcaria Lake hotel.

Drake then joined a group known as the "Heat Waves," marking his entry into the ranks of night club performers. The group spent some of its time entertaining for the USO and went abroad for seven months.

He remained with the "Heat Waves" for two years, until he decided that he could best show his ability as a single.

Si Zentner, a noted trombonist, and his orchestra will also appear at the Homecoming fete.

Zentner has had band experience with such greats as Les Brown, Harry James, and the late Jimmy Dorsey.

The music of Zentner's new orchestra has been recorded on Liberty records. One of his best-selling albums was "Big Band Plays The Big Hits."

Award Film Shown Tonight

"All the King's Men," Robert Penn Warren's Pulitzer Prize winning novel, comes to the screen of the University Theatre tonight for two performances at 7 and 9 p. m. This cinema classic received the Academy Award for best picture of the year. Broderick Crawford earned Best Actor Academy Award for his portrayal of Willy Stark, Mercedes McCambridge won Best Supporting Actress for her characterization.

It is the story of the rise and fall of a Southern demagog. There are many parallels between Willy Stark and the late governor of Louisiana, Huey Long. The film is, nonetheless, a study of people and politics.

Students will be admitted free. Faculty and staff are charged 50 cents. General admission is 75 cents.

Today Is Final Filing Date For Organizations

Today is the last day for organizations to file with the ASUN office or succumb to the penalty of losing official ASUN recognition.

Officers may pick up club forms from Marsha Deming, ASUN 2nd vice-president, today in the ASUN office. Those clubs who do not fill out these forms will lose privileges of Artemisia pictures and use of University facilities, as well as other privileges.

PI PHI'S AND SIGMA NU'S twist and stuff chicken wire in preparation for Reno's biggest parade, the University of Nevada Homecoming. Parading will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday morning.

Four-Day Events Begin Tomorrow

Four days of Homecoming activities will be kicked-off tomorrow night at 8 p. m. with the Johnny Mathis Show in the New Gym. The show will feature Johnny Mathis, Allan Drake, and Si Zentner.

Thursday and Friday nights at 8 p. m. the traditional Wolves Frolic will feature living group skits as well as variety black-outs. A special feature at Frolic this year will be a number by the Sun-downers.

The 1963 Homecoming queen will be crowned during intermission at Frolic Thursday night. Thursday night is student night while Friday has been set aside for the alumni.

Reunions for the classes of 1938, '43, '48, '53, and '58 will be held in the Mapes hotel beginning at 9 p. m. An all-alumni cocktail party will follow at 10 p. m. at the Mapes.

Saturday is a full day beginning at 9 a. m. with the men's cross-country race at 9 p. m. and winding-up with alumni and student dances from 9 to 12 midnight. The cross-country race, beginning at Sparks Junior high, up Oddie Blvd, will end at Mackay Stadium. The alumni dance will be held at the Elks club while the students dance at Mathisen's hall.

Other events Saturday include the Homecoming parade beginning at 10 a. m. It will begin at Pine and Virginia Sts. and end in Mackey Stadium. Sorority alumnae luncheons will follow the parade at 12 noon in the respective sorority houses.

The traditional Homecoming football game, this year between Nevada and the Chico State Wildcats will begin in the Stadium at 2 p. m. The Chico marching band will present a show during half-time. Ceremonies featuring the 1963 Homecoming queen will be held in front of the stands. Nevada Governor Grant Sawyer will be on hand to re-crown the queen. The Nevada marching band will present a drill prior to the game.

Floats will be on display during the game on the sidelines. At the all-student dance, the Homecoming queen will present trophies to the living groups with the best float entries and Wolves Frolic skits.

More Queen Voting Today In Union

Nevada men voted yesterday and today for one of the eight women vying for Homecoming queen. Last night ballot boxes were taken to the fraternities and men's living groups. Today a booth is in the Student Union building for those who did not vote last night.

Candidates for Homecoming queen are: Karyn Branch, Pi Beta Phi; Judy Falkenbranch, Juniper hall; Barbara Garaventa, Manzanita hall; Suzanne Martin, Kappa Alpha Theta; Mary McCabe, Delta Delta Delta; Sue Rhoades, Gamma Phi Beta; Carole Tobey, Artemisia hall; Julie Zeigler, off-campus.

Women were escorted to men's living groups last week for lunch and dinner by Blue Key members.

ANOTHER TRADITION IS LOST

Only thirty freshmen students turned out to whitewash the "N" on Peavine Mountain. This project has been a long-standing tradition at the University of Nevada with freshmen, for many years, being required to attend the fall function.

But this year, thirty out of approximately 1,000 freshmen students ended up doing the job.

Each year another tradition is lost at Nevada, and each year students could care less. But traditional functions such as this one are as much a part of college as academic and social life.

Some colleges put freshmen through a week's initiation, others require them to know something about their University. How many students, even seniors know the Alma Mater, the Fight Song, or even the University colors?

The dinks are gone, freshmen ribbons are gone, and so is the freshman bible. Painting the "N" can be a good, clean fun function but it is being lost.

Perhaps a solution is to make it an all-school function or to reinstate the Frosh-Soph day idea, thereby adding a little competitive spirit to the traditional "N" painting.

* * * *

WHO MADE THE RULING?

Who came up with the brilliant idea of camping women living in the dormitories for not attending dorm meetings? Living in the dorms, for women under 21 is involuntary, therefore, belonging to the dormitory associations should be a matter of personal discretion.

Catholics are not forced to join the Newman Club, nor Protestants to join the Campus Christian Association and, women should have the choice of not attending dorm meetings if they choose.

Women, says the ASUN handbook, are campused for infractions of AWS hours or violations of other University regulations concerning hours. The handbook says nothing about penalties for not attending dorm meetings.

The ruling is wrong and the AWS council had better look into it. And if the council made it, it's time they changed it.

PUBLICATIONS TO DISCUSS FORUM

Publications board will meet Wednesday to possibly decide the fate of the University of Nevada Forum, proposed campus opinion journal.

Defeated by the board last month, the ASUN senate, after study by the steering committee, has asked the board to reconsider its action.

If the board decides the Forum is worthwhile it will probably send it back to a subcommittee to set up a policy for operation.

The steering committee recommended that:

- the Forum be inserted into the Sagebrush;
- that it be entirely independent from the Sagebrush;
- that the Sagebrush editor become an ex-officio, non-voting member of the editorial board;
- that Forum be published semi-monthly.

Band Should March Not Be Appeased

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Hurray! Hurray! the band will march! How gracious. My though how inflation has gone up. Has the band unionized? Last year, it seems, we got much more for our money. This year we pay $1050.00 dollars for a one day performance! Or at least Carrico has only considered for one performance. What will it be next year?

From Jim Acheson's letter of last Friday "After Homecoming, I see no reason why parties to the band controversy cannot come together as reasonable people and work out a sensible solution for NEXT YEAR'S U or N band." Next Year! I hope that we, the students of this grand and glorious "march when I want to" band student body receive a refund next semester on our money allotted for the "marching" band.

I think it only reasonable to conclude that pressure was put on by people whom we see little of. Wouldn't it have been nice for the alums to come to Homecoming to see Chico's own marching band while our band sits idly by enjoying the half time activities.

The Sagebrush editor is of the mind that we should now go half way and meet Carico. I say NO. If he can't do it I'm sure there are students who would die for the chance to lead the band.

THE TIME HAS COME! Unite students! Write yours and mine senators and show this Comico just who's boss. March on Church Fine Arts building and chop off the music section and lower it to rubble. Then we can annex another library swimming pool.

This is only a comical solution but I did want to point up the fact that the students are getting cheated.

By the way, I really enjoyed Bob Alward's column, I think he hit the nail right on the head.

Senate Should Look At Podium First

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Sagebrush is to be complimented for introducing to its pages a guest column, "The Podium." Senate does wisely to give some second thoughts to a plan for a campus journal of opinion, Forum. Senate might also do well to take a look at "The Podium." If the chaotic gibberish of Mr. Cooper's column of Friday last, not to mention his guest predecessors, is a fair indication of what will be set up in type, printed on paper, and distributed to high school graduates, perhaps ASUN funds might better be spent to send a marching band through Georgia.

Frolic Rehearsal Tomorrow

Dress rehearsals for the 1963 Wolves' Frolic presentation will be held tomorrow evening in the State building, downtown Reno.

By then, the finishing touches should be put on all the skits and specialty acts in preparation for their first night, Thursday.

Frolic director Jim Bernardi has been directing rehearsals for the past few weeks in his position as the first student director of the Wolves' Frolic.

Thursday, student night, the 1963 Homecoming Queen will be crowned and last year's queen, Judy Black, will be introduced.

Friday night is alumni night when the queen and her court will be introduced. It is also the final performance of Wolves Frolic for another two years.

Tickets for the three-hour production which begins at 8 each evening will run from $1, $1.50, and $2.40. They will be on sale all week at the bookstore, downstairs student union.

Race Draws More Than 80

Approximately 80 to 85 men have signed up for the cross-country race next weekend, said Charles Burr, student coordinator.

The early morning Homecoming activity, scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday, will start at Sparks Jr. High School and finish in Mackay Stadium.

Runners in the 4½ mile race must have their physicals approved by Lee Newell, director of intramural athletics, who is helping to direct the race.

Alpha Tau Omega's Larry Stiff won the race last year arriving in Mackay Stadium 28:20 minutes after he left the Sparks school. He will run again this year.

The race-winner will receive a trophy and ride in the Homecoming parade at 10 a. m. the same morning.

Pack Runners Finish Fourth

Nevada's cross country team placed fourth in the small college division in the Sacramento State Invitational cross country race. The Wolf Pack was led by distance star Bud Forman who placed 29th in the combined standings.

San Jose State won the big college division and had the individual winner, Jeff Fishback. Chico State was the small college division champion.

Nevada's Forman might have placed higher in the 3½ mile race if he and some other runners had not taken a wrong turn and gone 200 yards out of their way. Forman estimates that he may have lost about 30 seconds in this way. Forman's time for the race was 20:25, about 2 minutes behind the winning time.

Freshman Mike Sorenson of the Wolf Pack placed 66th in the grueling race. Dan Cline and Ralph Mock of the Pack placed 77 and 78 respectively. Of the five runners who ran for the Wolf Pack only Forman has had previous cross country experience.

Nevada will meet the Chico State Wildcats in cross country competition next week.

Pack Humbled, 34-13 By Whittier Poets

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack was handed its third loss in four games by Whittier College last Saturday afternoon in the southern California sun, 34-13.

By scoring in every quarter, the Poets gained revenge from last year's defeat at the hands of the Nevadans in Reno.

Whittier quarterback Rick Alvarado was too much for the Pack to handle, as he passed for three touchdowns in the winners' superb aerial attack.

About 3,000 spectators were on hand for the non-conference encounter in 80-degree weather at the California High School field in Whittier.

Nevada outgained its opponents once again this season in total net yardage—this time 421 yards to 377—but once again came out on the short end of the score.

A Nevada fumble led to the first score of the game. About midway through the first period, halfback Chuck Widel juggled a pitchout into the end zone and Whittier tackle Mike Murphy fell on it for a touchdown. The conversion kick was no good.

The Silver and Blue took the lead back early in the second quarter, set up by Jock Echave's 17-yard pass interception. Fullback Tony Wheeler eventually scored from ten yards out and Tony Trevino kicked the conversion point for a 7-6 Nevada lead. An 18-yard dash down the sidelines by quarterback Allan Crawford was one of the key plays in this drive.

With about a minute left in the half, Whittier back Nick Halisky scored from nine yards out on an end sweep, capping a 56-yard drive in 10 plays. Alvarado hit Doug Agatep for the two-point conversion and the Poets led, 14-7.

Whittier halfback Chuck Lewman intercepted a Crawford pass seconds later and returned it to his own 47 yard line. Two plays later Rick Kunishima gathered in a 45-yard TD pass from Alvarado. The conversion failed and with eight seconds left in the half, Whittier led, 20-7.

Halfway through the third period, Nevada defensive end Tony Manguso recovered a Whittier fumble at his own one-yard line, denying the Poets another score.

But the southern Californians were not to be denied. Kunishima picked off a Crawford pass at the Pack's 28 and five plays later the Poets scored on a three yard pass play from Alvarado to fullback Larry Jaro. Once again, Whittier's conversion try failed and it was 26-7 with about 3:44 left in the period.

The Wolf Pack moved from its own 32 to the Whittier 15 before another interception ruined their chances of scoring. This time it was Bob Corlett who intercepted. He ran the ball all the way back to the Nevada 37.

Seven plays later Kunishima rambled 15 yards for another Poet TD. Alvarado passed to Darrell Dudley for a two point conversion and Whittier took a commanding 34-7 lead with 12:35 left in the game.

The Pack scored the final touchdown of the long afternoon, going 71 yards in eight plays. Key plays in the drive were a 17-yard run by Fred Williams, a nine yard pass from Crawford to Rick Miles and an eight yard burst by Echave, which placed the ball on the Whittier 20.

The touchdown was scored on a 20-yard pass play from Crawford to halfback Al McDaniels. This made the score 34-13.

Clyde Robards did an excellent job blocking for the Pack all afternoon. Manguso was a standout on defense.

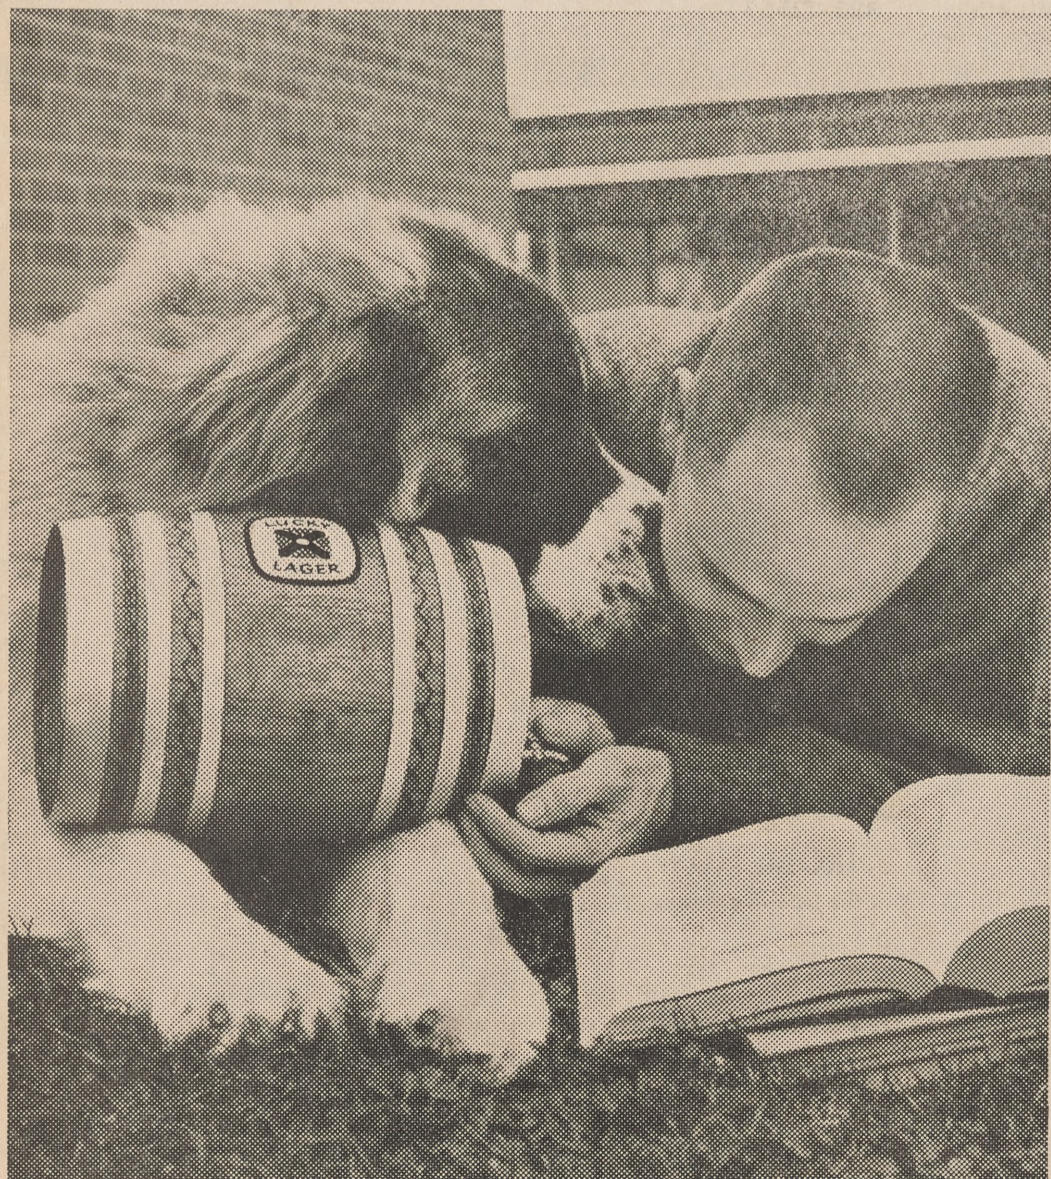

Even though Nevada dominated in total net yardage, the Poets were on top in first downs, 18-12. Crawford hit 7 of 17 aerials for 79 yards, with Miles catching three for 29 yards. Widel led the ground gainers with 129 yards on eight carries.

TRADITIONS ARE MADE TO BE BROKEN

Homecoming 1963 is just around the corner again and with it comes all of the props which are to be found at any staged presentation. Raccoon coats, those awful chrysanthemum pom-poms and worse, the big-mouthed alum complete with a new supply of dirty jokes and a fifteen cent cigar hanging from the corner of his mouth. Good old back-slapping, gin-guzzling Joe has once again invaded the campus. Listen closely, for you might be able to re-live some of those "good old days" with these ancients.

However, all is not as peaceful as it could be during this all important time of year. The common gripe heard among the ancients is how much the keeping of traditions at the University has declined since the era when chariot races were common events in Mackay Stadium. One important thing should be remembered by all of us who are currently on campus, traditions are made to be broken. Let's show these alums how we love to flaunt these insignificant and stupid rites in the face of anyone who dares to uphold them. Just look at a number of those silly traditions which were created and designed to be broken.

The senior bench in front of the Journalism building is for seniors only, but what does it matter if freshmen sit on the bench, after all, traditions are made to be broken. Ever thought of camping on the quad? Why not? The lawn is watered and pampered just for those who delight in taking a casual stroll across its luxuriant beauty. They tell me that spending a week-end on the quad is really an experience to remember, but don't forget the Coleman stove.

Morrill hall does have two entrances, both for easy access to the beautiful building, correct? However, I remember something in the student handbook which mentions that the front entrance is to be used by upperclassmen only. Freshmen and sophomores please step to the rear of the building. Oh well, what does it matter, traditions are made to be broken. Traditions are particularly designed to be broken during Mackay Day. Why bother to dress up in western garb and be accused of being a conformist? Isn't it better to just wear school clothes and show off your individuality? Of course it is. This tradition is only as old as the University itself and since many consider this University as a fledgling, among universities I am sure that it is permissible to break such a time-honored tradition as this one.

RULES WE LIVE BY

What about the section in the handbook entitled "Rules We Live By" which states that "storage, possession and use of alcohol beverages is not allowed in University supervised houses, apartments, residence halls, on sorority and fraternity property, on the University campus or on other University property." Those rules are for "other people" not us. And of course we are members of an institution of higher learning who always know right from wrong so what harm does it do if you sneak a little booze into the stands during the games to help pep up the spirit of the festivities? Hey, how about taking a little "nip" before going to that class you dread. After all, you can stand anything especially that dull professor in econ. or that terrible psychology lecturer if you have a glow on. You would be surprised how time flies when you are looking at the world through rose colored wine bottles.

Even if you are caught tipping a few too many what can they do to one who knows right from wrong? About all that can come of it is something called suspension or expulsion from the University. Oh well, I am sure that daddy can get you back in so don't sweat the details too much. Oh yes, I will look forward to seeing you before the Student Judicial Council when your case comes up.

Break out all of your old high school sweaters, the ones with the big school letters on them. Let's advertise where we are from and be sure to wear them around Manzanita Lake. By wearing these old moth-eaten sweaters, you will be one of the few privileged ones who will be surveying the microbiology at the bottom of the lake. During those all too brief moments while you are fighting your way to the surface of the lake, you can say to yourself, "I showed them, for traditions are to be broken."

Do all of you women really want to make a hit with the house or dorm mother? Well, here is a tip designed to accomplish just that. Why bother to make your hours, show them who really is the boss. No sophisticated college woman will be told what hours she may keep and with whom she should keep them. Here's another silly little tradition, or is it a rule, which can easily be bent. Don't bother to sign in or out, that really shows your authority.

The AWS Council is a friendly little group who enjoys bringing all of those women before them for those little chats. It must tend to make one feel wanted and appreciated when the campus cutie is called before this council. I am sure that it must make mom feel much better about sending her little daughter off to college when she knows that such an organization as the AWS Council takes the time to really get to know her daughter.

All right fellow students, your course of action for the Homecoming activities has been carefully laid, now it is up to you. Show all of those alums that the keeping of traditions is REALLY dead. Oh well, who cares, for traditions are made to be broken, right?

Socratic Group To Discuss A. Huxley

A fledgling organization, the Socratic group, will meet for the first time this semester tonight at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting will feature a taped discussion with Aldous Huxley on the importance of being sensitive to non verbal experience. A discussion by the group on the same subject will follow.

Huxley authored the popular science-fiction novel "Brave New World."

The meeting will be held in the home of Philosophy Professor Erling Skorpen, 210 Maple St.

IEEE To See Movie

A film on lasers, a device that utilizes the stimulation of high-energy atoms by light for amplifying a beam of light, will be shown for the IEEE.

Newmanites Offer Religious Course

A religious instruction course for college students will be conducted by Father Duff, assistant rector of St. Albert's Catholic Church, Newman Club publicity chairman, according to Kent Maloman.

The class will meet every Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p. m. in St. Albert's school. The first meeting is next Thursday.

The religious course is open to all college students.

YR Invited To Party For Donald Lukens

All Young Republicans on campus are invited to attend a reception Wednesday evening at the Riverside hotel honoring Donald "Buzz" Lukens, national president of the Young Republican Federation, according to YR president, Vern Manke.

The event, sponsored by the Reno Young Republicans, will be held in the Riverview room of the hotel between 5:30 and 9:30 p.m. Mr. Lukens is scheduled to speak at 8 p.m. A no-host cocktail party will precede the talk.
