

Nation Mourns Kennedy Death

UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA

SAGEBRUSH

VOLUME XXXIX, No. 22 RENO, NEVADA 5 November 26, 1963

COFFEE AND CLASSES took a back seat to the Student Union lounge television Friday as students and faculty watched and listened for further reports in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Stunned sorrow and disgust is pictured on the face of the University campus.

U of N Stunned By Unbelievable News

The University of Nevada, experiencing one of the most outrageous and shocking incidents of the century, typified the rest of the nation Friday as it learned of the brutal assassination of its President, John F. Kennedy.

The news that the President had been shot came shortly after 10 o'clock classes had been dismissed.

Students and faculty sat transfixed before television and radio sets not believing their ears or eyes. The hopes of all were maintained for about 35 minutes until the dreaded words came, "The President is dead."

Tears filled eyes of men as well as women. The reaction was that of shock, disbelief, and remorse.

University President Charles J. Armstrong dismissed all afternoon classes, later Monday classes, and asked that social events be cancelled. Some students lowered the American flag to half staff, to show, as one put it "a visible sign" of what had happened. Most just stared blankly into space saying, "I cannot believe it."

In the snack bar, the usual center of student joviality on Friday, students sat with vacant expressions, listening to news reports from the building's loud speakers. Few people talked. Few had really grasped what had happened. The dining commons was nearly empty. The Journalism building, with its teletype and televisions, was jammed with disbelieving students.

One coed said, "You didn't want to go home, you didn't want to stay on campus. You didn't know what to do."

"You often wonder when your parents tell you about the depression, the death of Roosevelt, and Pearl Harbor, what a crisis is like. I don't think I realized what it was like to feel the shock of a nation. But after seeing the faces of people in the Student Union, I have some feeling of the grief," said Larry Struve shortly after the news was made known.

By 2 p. m. the campus was almost deserted. Only a few gathered outside to discuss the tragic and unbelievable news.

Several women in the campus dormitories gathered to offer prayers for the dead President. Senior ROTC cadets held a solemn ceremony during class before the announcement of President Kennedy's death.

Clark Santini said he was "shocked beyond belief." "Words" he said could not describe the feeling. "It is just a feeling in the pit of your stomach." This feeling prevailed over the campus and the nation for, as Mary Rossolo put it, "The symbolic leader of the free world."

Shirley Smith, exemplifying the disbelief of the horrid crime, said, "When it finally registered what had happened, I was angered. I hope the fanatical elements are satisfied. I hope the country's conscience is moved by this." One professor said the incident was generated by hate groups existing in the country. He expressed the same hope that Miss Smith did . . . that people would come to grips with these fanatical hate groups and denounce them.

Ted Marston, also expressing disbelief, said the tragedy was so unbelievable that it was more like reading a history book than experiencing a real situation.

Student Bob Hale Killed

The grief-stricken Nevada campus was plunged into even deeper sorrow yesterday at news of the death of senior student and SAE Robert Hale as the result of an auto wreck west of Reno Sunday.

Hale's fiancée, Sally Small, a 19-year-old junior, who was an occupant in the car is in satisfactory condition at Washoe Medical Center.

The accident occurred on Highway 40, one-half mile east of the

BOB HALE

California-Nevada state line at 12:52 Sunday afternoon. Sheriff's department officials said that Hale attempted to pass a bus and collided head-on with a car driven by Marvin P. Klassen, 24, of Sacramento, California.

Hale and Miss Small were admitted to Washoe Medical Center at 2:15 p.m. Hale suffered chest injuries, a fractured arm and leg, and internal injuries. Miss Small received lacerations of the face and a fractured mandible. Both were listed in serious condition when they were admitted in emergency.

Hale died at 10 a.m. Monday.

Klassen and another occupant of his automobile were admitted for examination then released.

Hale, whose father, Preston Q. Hale, is a prominent Reno realtor, was majoring in real estate at the University. He was vice-president of the business fraternity Delta Sigma Pi. He was also active in student government as a senator and had been chosen to head this year's Mackay Day committee. Hale was also a member of Blue Key and an honor student.

Prexy Quiz Is Cancelled For Tonight

A "Meet the President" panel discussion with President Charles J. Armstrong, scheduled for tonight has been cancelled.

Jim Acheson, ASUN president, said due to the death of President John F. Kennedy, it would be better to schedule the discussion for some other time.

Dr. Armstrong was to have answered questions of University and student concern submitted by four panelists and then questions from the audience would have been permitted.

To have participated on the panel were Acheson, Larry Struve, ASUN first vice-president; Dave Cooper, ASUN senator and Student Union Board member; and Pat Rogero, Sagebrush editor.

Also expected to be on hand for the discussion were Dr. Kenneth E. Young, University executive vice-president and Dr. Sam M. Basta, dean of student affairs.

Jr. Ice Cream Sold Next Monday Night

The Junior Class Committee, which had originally planned to sell ice cream to campus living groups last night, have scheduled the sale for next Monday, December 1.

Sorority, fraternity, and dormitory meetings were cancelled last night because of the death of President John F. Kennedy.

The sale is to raise money for the class treasury. The committee is headed by Mario Peraldo, junior class president.

Thanksgiving Holiday Is Four-Day Vacation

Thursday begins a four-day holiday for the campus. Classes are out November 28 through December 1. Thursday and Friday as well as the regular weekend days Saturday and Sunday are the holidays.

Classes will begin again Monday at 8 a. m. Sunday night hours will be in effect for all women residing in campus living groups. Wednesday night, the night the holiday begins, Saturday night hours will be in force.

Phi Kappa Phi Selects 31 Seniors, 9 Grads

Thirty-one seniors and nine graduate students were elected to membership in the Nevada Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society last Wednesday.

Initiation ceremonies have been set for Monday, December 9, at 7:30 p. m. The traditional Phi Kappa Phi dinner will be held in June.

Every student at the University, graduate or undergraduate, is eligible for membership, and upon election is recognized as having attained a superior quality of scholarship. The current electees listed by college are:

Arts and Science—Bruce Beardley, Fianna Beeghly, Jill Black, John Bromley, Loelia Farrington, James Fawcett, Diane Freeman, Marilyn Holze, Larry Hutchings, Patricia Jack, Ron Jevning, Richard Newton, Icyl Santos, Mark Sorenson, Larry Struve, and Joan Westfield.

EULOGY

The following are the remarks of United States Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren delivered before the coffin of President Kennedy in the Rotunda of the Capitol.

There are few events in our national life that unite Americans and so touch the heart of all of us as the passing of a President of the United States.

There is nothing that adds shock to our sadness as the assassination of our leader, chosen as he is to embody the ideals of our people, the faith we have in our institutions and our belief in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

Such misfortunes have befallen the Nation on other occasions, but never more shocking than two days ago.

We are saddened; we are stunned; we are perplexed.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, a great and good President — a friend of all men of good will — a believer in the dignity and equality of all human beings; a fighter for justice; an apostle of peace has been snatched from our midst by the bullet of an assassin.

What moved some misguided wretch to do this horrible deed may never be known to us, but we do know that such acts are commonly stimulated by forces of hatred and malice, such as today, are eating their way into the blood stream of American life.

What a price we pay for this fanaticism!

It has been said that the only thing we learn from history is that we do not learn. But surely we can learn if we have the will to do so. Surely there is a lesson to be learned from this tragic event.

If we really love this country; if we truly love justice and mercy; if we fervently want to make this Nation better for those who are to follow us, we can at least abjure the hatred that consumes people, the false accusations that divide us and the bitterness that begets violence.

Is it too much to hope that martyrdom of our beloved President might even soften the hearts of those who would themselves recoil from assassination, but who do not shrink from spreading the venom which kindles thoughts of it in others?

Our Nation is bereaved. The whole world is poorer because of his loss. But we can all be better Americans because John Fitzgerald Kennedy has passed our way; because he has been our chosen leader at a time in history when his character, his vision, and his quiet courage have enabled him to chart for us a safe course through the shoals of treacherous seas that encompass the world.

And now that he is relieved of almost superhuman burdens we imposed on him, may he rest in peace.

Editorial From Nevada State Journal

Controversy seems to be keeping things in a rather lively state on the University of Nevada campus these days.

A short time ago a publication called Helix was printed downtown for a campus group of the same name. The word printed is loosely used, since Helix, purported to be a philosophical type of tract, had surely never seen the inside of a printing shop, judging from its format.

At any rate Helix was barred temporarily from the campus because its student originators did not choose to divulge what off-campus person or persons were backing it, financially.

This was deemed cause by the university newspaper, the Sagebrush, to scream in unwarranted anguish that "mother university" was a sort of overbearing old curmudgeon bent in stifling original thought, of which there was very little in Helix anyway.

The newest ruckus on the Hill has to do with freedom of the press, too. It seems that the business manager of the Sagebrush, a young lady, doubling as a reporter for the newspaper and the new university radio station, was ejected from a meeting of the student affairs board last week. The board is composed of both students and faculty members.

The ruckus over Helix was a tempest in a teapot. The argument over the student affairs board action in requesting a reporter to leave its meeting is not.

The board asked the student reporter to leave, it was stated, because the Sagebrush had inaccurately reported the Helix incident and because of "consistent inaccuracy" of Sagebrush reporting of the news.

It should be understood that the university community must operate under different rules than a community composed of members of the general public. This difference must be recognized as regards the student press of a university, as well as other campus functions.

But the differences should be kept at the barest possible minimum.

It would seem logical that a board called a "student affairs board" must deal with the affairs of students. If it does, then its members should be not only willing but anxious that the students be kept informed about what it is doing about their affairs.

The board chairman, a military officer, noting the presence of the press, said the meeting should be closed—and then asked for opinions from the rest of the board. Only one member, a philosophy professor, said the reporter should be allowed to remain in the meeting.

During the polling a non-member of the board, on hand to make a report, offered the group a bit of mis-information. The student body president asked about the Nevada Open Meeting Law, which provides that all meetings of public bodies be opened to the public. The comment by the non-member was that the law had been changed. The law, of course, has never been changed by so much as a comma. A minor point in itself—but it illustrates how easy it is to commit those "inaccuracies" which the board so deplores.

Those who deplore who are so timid as to be fearful of being misquoted by the university newspaper should find activities to pursue on the campus that will excuse them from the spotlight. Actually, they are probably more apprehensive about being quoted than misquoted.

Opinion Poll

Students Show Indecision On Helix, Club's Ruling

by ART ZETKA

Students on campus are not sure how they feel towards the ruling which Helix has brought into the open. There was not a majority in favor of or against Helix. One hundred and thirty-five students were interviewed by phone by Art Zetka and Brian Richards in a random sample poll.

The question asked was, "Do you feel that Helix should be allowed to circulate on campus without revealing the names of its backers?" The replies were:

	YES PCT	NO PCT	UND PCT
COMBINED	36	36	28
MEN	35	37	28
WOMEN	38	34	28

Many students feel such an organization as Helix is good for the campus but it should not try to "buck the rules." "These rules are made for the students benefits, not to impose a handicap on the students," was an opinion expressed by some students.

Other statements made on the negative side of this question were: "This is a state operated University and it must have control, to at least a minor degree, over the students," and, "Students have a right to know who is backing organizations at their University."

Statements made for the affirmative were generally on the grounds that such a ruling takes away freedom of speech. Some said backers of organizations should be able to donate without having their name spread around campus. People also stated that Helix is one of the few organizations where people can express themselves and such an organization should not be banned.

Other personal opinions on this subject of Helix were as follows:

Freshman Bernard Lund, "It doesn't make a bit of difference who supports a campus organization just as long as it gets the money in an honest way and there are no strings attached."

Senior William Scheiss, "Let Helix print two or three issues before asking for the name of this backer. This way the man will know what is going to be printed, then he can decide whether or not he wants to reveal his name and continue his support or withdraw both his name and money."

Senior Alfonso Villaneuva, "Students just don't have enough time and, or funds to investigate all the men who are backing our organizations."

Many students felt the undisclosed man's name should be revealed but just to University officials. His name doesn't have to be made known to all the students of the University.

There doesn't seem to be a decisive answer to this question according to 28 per cent of the students interviewed. They felt both sides have good arguments: and a true and just decision on Helix and the ruling would be difficult to decide.

Physics Dept. Reconstructing Machine

The physics department is currently reconstructing a recently purchased "helium-hydrogen cryostat". The machine, purchased from the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia, will be used with the department's field-ion and field-electron microscopes.

The field-ion and field-electron microscopes are used to study the metal surfaces. With the newly acquired cryostat, the physics department will be able to conduct experimental work at extremely low temperatures.

The machine will reduce helium in temperature to four degrees absolute. This is equal to a minus 269 degrees centigrade.

"A new machine of this type would cost approximately $30,000", said Research Associate Dr. Philip C. Bettler. The University, however, with a grant from the Fleischmann Foundation, bought the machine for $2,500 plus an additional $2,000 to get the machine in operating order.

Birch Leader Speaks

Dr. John DeTar, local John Birch society leader, will speak to campus Young Republicans tonight.

The young political group will hear DeTar at 7 p. m. in the faculty dining room in the Dining Commons.

IN MEMORIAM

THE DEATH of President Kennedy last Friday has robbed the world of a great leader, patriot, and fellow American. At such a trying time, words fail to express the deep sorrow which all of us feel toward the passing of the President.

PERHAPS WE can partially sum up our feelings by recalling the following words uttered so long ago. Without a doubt, these words can be applied to the late John F. Kennedy.

"PRAISE ye the Lord. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in his commandments.

His seed shall be mightily upon earth; the generation of the upright shall be blessed.

Wealth and riches shall be in his house: and his righteousness endureth for ever.

Unto the upright there ariseth light in the darkness: he is gracious, and full of compassion, and righteous.

A good man sheweth favour, and lendeth: he will guide his affairs with discretion.

Surely he shall not be moved for ever: the righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance.

He shall not be afraid of evil tidings: his heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord.

His heart is established, he shall not be afraid, until he see his desire upon his enemies.

He hath dispersed, he hath given to the poor; his righteousness endureth for ever; his horn shall be exalted with honour.

The wicked shall see it, and be grieved; he shall gnash with his teeth, and melt away; the desire of the wicked shall perish."

Greta Garbo Stars In 'Camille' Tonite In FA Theater

Greta Garbo stars tonight in "Camille" in the Fine Arts Theater at 7 and 9 p. m. This role along with "Anna Karenina" and "Anna Christie" are the characters for which the mysterious Greta is most noted.

The tale, by Alexandre Dumas, is a love story of a courtesan of Parisian society, which ends in the tragic consumptive death of this woman in the arms of her lover. It was also used as the basis for Verdi's "La Traviata". "Camille," the Lady of the Camillas, is traditionally one of the most difficult parts to play on the stage, and thus quite a challenge for even as great an actress as Garbo.

A great deal of mystery and speculation have followed Garbo into retirement. Her famous line: "I want to be alone," has added much to the legend and myth that is Garbo.

Robert Taylor and Lionel Barrymore star with her in this film classic which is directed by George Cukar.

Admission is free to ASUN students; 75 cents for general public.

J. A. Thompson Speaks To Phi Alpha Thetas

J. A. Thompson will speak to Phi Alpha Theta Tuesday, December 3 at 7:30 p. m. in room 101, Scrugham Engineering-Mines. His topic will be "Trans-Atlantic Attitudes Britain views America."

Canadian-born Thompson, currently instructor of British history at the University of Nevada, spent last year in research in the famous British Museum in London. He has spent the past three summers in the British Isles, and has studied at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Bruce Beardsley, president of the history fraternity, said the meeting is open to all interested students and faculty.

Ag Prof Gets Editorial Appointment

Dr. Verle R. Bohman, head, Animal Science Division, Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture, has been appointed to the editorial board of the Journal of Animal Science and to the Fellow Award Committee of the American Society of Animal Science.

The four-year appointment to the editorial board becomes effective Jan. 1, 1964. The board reviews technical research reports submitted for acceptability for publication in the Journal.

The Journal is the official publication of the American Society of Animal Science. The appointment to the board was announced by the president of the Society.

As a member of the Fellow Award Committee, Bohman will help select the 1964 recipients of the award. There are six members on the committee. Bohman's appointment was announced by the committee chairman.

Bohman says "persons who have rendered very distinguished service in the field of animal industry or to the American Society of Animal Science over 25 years" are eligible to be considered for the award.

Quintetto Boccherini To Perform Here

The third presentation of the 1963-64 Artist-Lecture Series will be the Quintetto Boccherini, Thursday, December 5.

Sponsored by the Public Occasions committee, the string ensemble will appear in the State building, downtown Reno, free to students.

The Quintetto Boccherini, one of Italy's great string ensembles, consists of two violins, a viola, and two celli. Featured in the program are the beautiful quintets of Luigi Boccherini.

The Italian group has performed Bach's "Art of the Fugue" in its entirety at the Bach Festival in Germany. This is the fourth American tour for the Quintetto Boccherini.

Other presentations, sponsored by the series, have been Eudice Shapiro and West Coast Opera Company's "Madame Butterfly."

Skiers Meet Tonite

Election of officers and discussion of activities for the coming year will be the topics at the Ski club meeting tonight at 7:30 p. m. in room 215 Mackay Science.

All interested persons are urged to attend. Lou Jurs is president of the skiers.

Yearbook Contest Deadline Nears

Less than a month is left for Nevada high schools to submit entries in the University of Nevada's Journalism department newspaper and yearbook contest.

Deadline for entries is Dec. 1, 1963.

Judging will be held from Dec. 1-12, and the winners will be announced on Dec. 18.

The contest recognizes outstanding journalistic achievement with "highest honors" and "high honors" ratings. In addition it gives the student journalists and their instructors a chance to have their work appraised by outside and impartial critics.

Through the results of the contest, all high school publications staffs and advisors in Nevada can see how their work compares with that of other schools in the state.

The newspaper judging is divided into three areas. The "large school" division includes schools over 1,000 enrollment, the "small school" classification takes in schools with under 1,000 pupils, while the third group includes schools that publish mimeographed papers.

Yearbook competition also separates schools into three areas. "Large schools" are those with over 500 students, "medium schools" are between 200 and 500 enrollment, and "small schools" are those with less than 200 pupils.

All schools entered in the contest will receive certificates. For more information, write to the journalism department at the University of Nevada.

New Physical Education Fraternity Has First Meeting

Phi Epsilon Kappa, a national physical education fraternity, held its first official meeting on campus last Wednesday.

The new chapter set up its constitution, discussed the selection of members and officers, and discussed the fraternity's objectives. The fraternity's goal is to improve physical education in any way possible.

Membership in the fraternity is limited to "dedicated" physical education majors. The physical department chooses the members from graduates, undergraduates, and faculty.

Members of the fraternity are: Faculty: George A. Broten, Robert Laughter, Glenn Lawlor, Lee Newell, and George Twardokens.

Graduate students: Dave Bartholomew, John Borda, Bill Daniel, Pat Mills, and John Prida.

Undergraduates: Bob Dolan, Ed Hillygus, Jack Melton, Bob Schebler, Jim Rowe, Stuart Schraeder, Don Streiff, and Gary Sullivan. The next meeting will be held December 11, at 8:30 p. m. in Room 108, Clark Administration Building.

ROTC Cadets Hear About Reserve Corps

Two officers from the Reno Army Reserve will explain the reserve program to University advanced course ROTC cadets Tuesday at 11 a. m. in Hartman hall.

Briefing the cadets will be Capt. Frank E. Darling and Lt. John G. Whistler of the 959th Engineer Co. They will be assisted by Staff Sgt. Stanley I. Evans, an active Army advisor to the reserve program.

The Reno Army Reserve is particularly interested in future ROTC graduates who plan on returning to Reno after their tour of duty.

Class Misses Falling Ceiling

Part of the plaster ceiling in room 102 of the Journalism building fell to the floor early Thursday morning, just before a class was to meet in the room.

Apparently the roof of the building leaks, allowing rain water to soak into the plaster ceiling until it is heavy enough to break away from the lath supporting it.

Prof. LaRue Gilleland, assistant professor of journalism, discovered the damage a few minutes before his eight o'clock class. He said dust had not yet settled when he opened the door.

Last spring, in room 101 of the Journalism building, a larger piece of plaster fell in the same manner.

Then Sagebrush columnist John Firpo had just left his desk when the plaster crashed down over it.

All classes that usually meet in room 102 of the Journalism building will meet in the News Room directly across the hall, until the ceiling is repaired, it was announced by Professor A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the Journalism department.

John A. Sala, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said the lath and plaster will be replaced.

Infirmary To Move During Christmas

The University of Nevada Infirmery, says Mrs. Mary Johnson, R. N., administrator, will be moved to the Travis Student Union building during Christmas vacation. Although the infirmery services will not be available during the moving period, they will be resumed when students return to classes.

In the new location the infirmery will have two four-bed wards and two semi-private wards that can be used for single rooms or for isolation. The new location will also provide two treatment and diathermy rooms, a doctor's office, a reception room, a nurses station and a kitchen.

The staff of the infirmery consists of Dr. Robert Locke, who is in charge; Mrs. Johnson, administrator and supervisor since 1952; three registered nurses, one practical nurse, and one nurse's aide.

Infirmery services are available 24 hours a day.

Funds for the infirmery come from the $8 per semester health fee required of all undergraduate matriculated students. The fee entitles the student to medication, doctor's consultation, and two weeks hospitalization in the infirmery per semester.

Western Coaches Meet At Nevada

The annual winter meeting of the Far Western Intercollegiate Athletic Conference will be held December 5, 6, and 7 on the University of Nevada campus.

Within the conference separate meetings will be held by athletic directors, official delegates, football coaches, baseball coaches, cross country coaches, swimming coaches, and faculty representatives.

Under the items of business will be general policy matters, sports scheduling, eligibility matters, choosing all - conference football players, election of officers, and choosing the site of the spring conference championships.

The Conference includes the University of Nevada, Sacramento State College, San Francisco State College, Chico State College, Humboldt State College, Alameda State College, Sonoma State College, and the University of California at Davis.

WRA To Vote On Officers For Year

WRA will hold an open meeting today at 4 p. m. in the New Gym to nominate officers for next semester.

Nominations made then will be added to the slate drawn up by the WRA executive board.

On the slate are: Joanne Freeman and Jean Smith, president; Elfrena Sewell and Ruth Friedhoff, vice-president; Ellen Mowrer and Sandy Hay, secretary; and Sue Deming and Joyce Hoffman, treasurer.

Only women who have earned WRA points this semester in volleyball, bowling, badminton, swimming, or hockey are allowed to participate in the nominations.

Elections will be held December 10, from 3 to 5 p. m.

Basketball Season Starts This Week

Spencer Pleased With Wolf Pack's Progress

The depth-laden Nevada basketball squad will begin the season this Saturday against the USF Dons in San Francisco.

Coach Jack Spencer is happy with his team's progress thus far this season. He says that his team is farther along than last year's team was at this time.

Nevada will have four veterans back to form the nucleus of the team. Nevada will miss the services of graduate stars Stew Johnson and Joe deArrieta. Johnson averaged 14 points a game as a forward and deArrieta was outstanding on defense, and was valuable as a playmaker.

The Wolf Pack will again be led by Bill (the Dipper) Robinson. Robinson scored 401 points and averaged 26 points a game last year and in his freshman year he averaged 17.8 points a game for the Pack.

One of Robinson's most outstanding games was against USF when he led Nevada to 76-74 victory by scoring 26 points. He also did an excellent job of defending San Francisco's star player, Ollie Johnson.

Robinson is deadly both from close in and from the outside in his jump shots. The 22-year old junior from Kansas City is very difficult to stop because he has excellent moves.

Six-foot guard Bob Donlan is another veteran Nevada will be depending on this season. The 20 year old senior helped take up the slack after Robinson and Heward left the team last year. He averaged 11.5 points per game and was given honorable mention on the FWC all star team.

Donlan excels on a left handed jumpshot. He also scored many points last year with his driving layups.

Rugged Harlan Heward also helped Nevada's cause last year. Heward is a big 6 foot 3 inch 190 pound former football player. Unfortunately, he had a spleen operation earlier this year and was not able to play football.

Heward's play is characterized by his aggressive rebounding. He is a dependable shooter whose game blows hot occasionally. When this happens he is deadly at about 15 feet with his jump shot.

Two year veteran Bob Schebler is another of the Pack's returning lettermen. Schebler played first string in 5 or 6 of Nevada's games last year. The 6 foot 3 inch junior doesn't shoot much but has outstanding hook shot. He is also good at rebounding.

Coach Spencer says that he may start sophomore forwards Napoleon Montgomery, and Larry Moore. Both players were stars for Nevada's Freshman team last year. Moore averaged 14.6 points per game for the frosh, and Montgomery averaged 10.3 points per game.

Two junior college transfers, Mike Olivas and Larry Nicholson may also start for the Pack. Nicholson is a highly rated 6 foot 5 inch forward who may see a lot of action this year. Olivas is a 5 foot 11 inch guard who played last year at Fullerton J. C.

Cal State To Compete In Conference Again

Once again this season California State College at Hayward (formerly Alameda St.) will participate in basketball in the Far Western Conference. The Pioneers don't compete in football.

The other six teams in the conference are the same as for football—Nevada, Humboldt St., San Francisco St., Sacramento St., Chico St., and the Cal Aggies.

Before the FWC season starts, the Sagebrush sports staff will preview all seven conference teams and make its pre-season choices. Weekly basketball predictions will also appear in forthcoming issues.

Pack Opens With USF: One Of Best On Coast

In opening up the 1963-64 basketball season Saturday night against the University of San Francisco Dons, the University of Nevada Wolf Pack may face its roughest opener ever.

Nevada's second and third games of the season may prove to be toughies also. On Monday night, Dec. 2, the opponent is the University of Idaho. The game will be played in Moscow, Idaho. Tuesday night, a week from today, the Pack will clash with Montana State University at Missoula. These will both be Idaho's and Montana State's openers.

The Pack's first game will be held in the Bay city at the USF gym, which seats about 6,000. It will be the Dons first game of the season.

Nevada dealt San Francisco a stunning 76-74 defeat in Reno last season. Last year's losers may very well be out to avenge that loss.

The Pete Peletta coached Dons are led by 6-8 junior center Ollie Johnson of Washington, D. C. Johnson, whose 56.7 field goal percentage last season was one of the best in the country, is labeled by most experts as a can't miss future All-American.

Two other San Francisco players are in the star class—Dave Lee (6-8) and Ed Thomas (6-4). Thomas averaged 11.1 points per game last year and Lee had 10.2. Johnson led the team with 17.3. Johnson can rebound too—he averaged 14.3 a game last year.

Jim Brovelli (6-1) and Huey Thomas (6-0) round out San Francisco's starting five. Three outstanding players have graduated from the Dons highly successful freshman squad, which had a 22-1 record last winter. They are Erwin Mueller (6-9), Joe Ellis (6-6), and Russ Gumina (6-2).

The defending West Coast Athletic Conference champions were 10-2 in their league and 18-9 overall last year. They are picked by virtually everyone to be the best in the War West this season and among the top twenty in the nation.

Perhaps they are summed up best by Sport magazine — "The West Coast has only a scattering of good teams, but if anyone wants to boost the area basketball, he can leave his heart in San Francisco."

The Idaho Vandals will present a different situation for the Wolves. First year coach Jim Goddard employs an "inside-outside" offense, where each player is slotted as a center-forward or a guard-forward.

Anything close to Idaho's 20-6 record last season diminished when 6-6 senior Gus Johnson passed up a final year of eligibility to play pro basketball. The Vandals lone returning starter is Tom Whitfield (6-5).

Four other Idaho lettermen will complete the team. They include Tom Moreland (6-7) and Chuck Kozak (6-4), who will team with Whitfield in the center-forward aggregation. The other two are Terry Henson (6-2) and Bill Mattis (6-1) who will play at the guard-forward positions.

The Grizzlies from Montana St. finished with a 6-18 record last season, but many of their games were against nationally ranked teams.

Tim Aldrich, a 6-1 senior, is the team's leader. Two other starters return from last year—forwards Keith Law (6-4) and Harold Fullerton (6-3½). Rocky Greenfield (6-7½), will start at center and either Hal Peterson or Jim Pramenko, both 6-0, will team with Aldrich in the back court.

Coach Ron Nord uses a run-and-press "revolving" type offense, which features plenty of substitutions and position switching.

NEVADA'S STAR CENTER, Bill Robinson (34), leaps high to shoot against the USF Dons in a game last year at the Nevada gym. Ollie Johnson (32), San Francisco's candidate for All-American honors, tries in vain to block the shot. Former Pack guard, Joe d'Arrieta (30), who graduated last year, is in the background. The Wolf Pack startled the highly rated Dons, defeating them 76-74.

Hornet Harriers Horn In On Title

Sacramento St. won the Far Western Conference cross country title last Saturday at Arcata, California, by scoring only 22 points.

Sacramento was led by Mike Brodie, who edged Nevada's star runner Skip Houk. Brodie won the 3.7 mile race with a time of 24 minutes and 11 seconds. Houk was only 14 seconds behind with a time of 24:25. Bob Ferlatte of Humboldt State was third with a time of 24:28.

Chico State was runner up to the Champion Hornets, followed by the Cal Aggies, Nevada, Humboldt, San Francisco St. and California St. (Hayward).

Bud Forman came in 15th for the Nevada squad with a time of 26:59. Steve Parker placed 27th for the Pack with a time of 28:12 over the hilly course, followed by Ralph Moch who placed 30th with a time of 28:40, Mike Sorenson who was 35th and 30:01 and Dan Cline who was 38th and 30:51.

This was the second year in a row that Nevada has placed fourth in the FWC championship meet.

Points in the meet were determined by the place each runner took. One point is awarded for first place, two points for second, three for third, etc. The first five runners count for each team and the team that scores the fewest points wins.

Medals were also given to the top ten finishers in the FWC meet.

Chuck Widel Makes All-Coast Team Named By United Press International

Nevada's star halfback Chuck Widel was named to the second team United Press International Little All-Coast college football squad. In addition to Widel, four other FWC players were mentioned in the selections.

The 170 lb. scatback from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, gained 666 yards rushing in 100 carries for a 6.7 yard average. He also caught 7 passes for 106 yards.

Widel was outstanding in many games for the Pack this season. Against four teams, Montana St. Chico St., Willamette and Whittier, he gained over 100 yards. One of his greatest efforts was in a losing cause to nationally ranked Whittier. In this game he carried the ball 9 times and gained 134 yards for a fantastic 15 yard average. Widel also scored 5 touchdowns during the season and led Nevada in scoring.

Recently, Widel withdrew from school to clear up some personal business in Pennsylvania. However, he says he will be back for the second semester.

The Cal Aggies star quarterback, Dick Carriere, was also named to the second team. Carriere finished third in the FWC in total offense. Ted Freeman, S. F. State tackle, also made the second team.

Two FWC players made the Little All Coast third team: end Gary Chiotti of S. F. State and tackle Dale Weishahn of the Cal Aggies.

Other FWC players who received honorable mention were: George Calkins of Chico St.; Bill Hook, Humboldt St.; Ted Locicero, S. F. St.; Mike Carson, S. F. St.; Ron Locicero, Sacramento St.; Bob Griffen, S. F. St.; Bill Fuller, Sacramento St.; and Don Rodrigo, S. F. St.

Women Athletes Play In Stockton Tourney

Independent and Theta volleyball teams, which placed first and second, respectively, in the WRA volleyball tournament, will compete against other colleges December 7.

The "Extramural League Volleyball Sports Day" will be held at University of the Pacific in Stockton.

The Nevada teams will play against teams from Chico State, Humboldt State, Sacramento State and University of the Pacific.

The Independent team is composed of: Laura Carmella, captain, Carol Snaderson, Barbara Havens, Donna Gracik, Gloria Casci, Rosemary Lituanina, Carol Galaski, and Joann Galaski.

Members of the Theta team are: Sue Deming, captain, Elfrena Sewell, Cheryl Griffin, Sue Martin, Mary Ann Halley, Phyliss Goytino and Joyce Freeman.

King of Torts To Be On Campus

by STEVE GOMES

Melvin Belli, famed San Francisco attorney, who will lecture here December 4, at 8 p. m. in the dining commons, was born in 1907 at Sonora, California. His father, Caesar Belli, born in Eureka, Nevada, was a widely-known banker in California's Mother Lode region.

Melvin Belli was the first student ever to sue the principal of the Stockton High School for a diploma. "I was class valedictorian," he recalls, "but on the evening before graduation I was suddenly taken drunk. The next day I was unable to make the speech. In fact I was unable to find the school." When the principal was told why the valedictorian had not appeared, he withheld Belli's diploma.

He got his diploma after confronting his principal with all the legal sanctions in his power. After this incident Belli decided that if this was law, he wanted to be a lawyer.

He graduated from the University of California Law School in 1933. After receiving his law degree, he began "hanging around" the San Quentin jail, offering his services free to various felons who were well known. Within a few years of this kind of work, his name became known at first in California and then progressively throughout the rest of the United States.

Today he is recognized as the "king of the torts," which are civil actions arising out of civil wrongs and breeches of contract. He commands an impressive fee of 33 and one-third per cent of any money awarded in the suits he wins.

Belli's unique personality, individual trial technique, and good sense of humor are uppermost in the mind of his public. Although he pronounces his name "bell-eye", he will answer with a cheerful grin to "belly".

He tells his life story with a flourish emphasizing the ludicrous events in the past. One of the funny landmarks in his life was the investment in "Twisto", a new toothbrush with its own self-contained toothpaste. Belli spent large amount in the promotion of this device but it had one flaw: sometimes its mechanism would jam and it would continue to fire like an automatic machine gun. He used to carry supplies of Twistos in his inside breast pocket for demonstration purposes and occasionally found himself with an armpit full of toothpaste.

He is an unusual man in many ways. Belli once argued with his publisher, Bobbs-Merrill, over what should replace his portrait in the front of his book, Modern Trials (in three volumes). Belli wanted an X-ray of his spine, but Bobbs-Merrill would not relinquish, and his X-ray wasn't accepted as a substitute.

Belli's Christmas cards are a collector's item. At one time he sent out Christmas cards with a picture of himself dressed up in doctor's paraphernalia with a whole display of surgical instruments spread before him.

Another instance of his idiosyncracies occurs when he wins a big award in court. Belli is swept away by enthusiasm and excitement and spends huge sums on long-distance phone calls to tell startled attorneys across the U. S. exactly how he did it.

At one time Belli took on the case of a Chinese man named Horace Fong who had been discriminated against in an exclusive housing district in San Francisco.

In the defense of Mr. Fong, Belli used an old 1854 California Statute, People vs. Hall, in which the judge used the crazy idea about Columbus having thought he was in India when he landed in America; and since India is pretty close to China, a Chinese is part Indian. This law was used in the the 1850's in connection with prohibiting Chinese witnesses from the stands on the pretext that they were Indians and Indians were heathens.

Belli informed the flabbergasted landlord that Fong was not a Chinese, but an Indian and that therefore, restrictions which might be enforced against Chinese were null in this case.

Moreover, Fong started acting his part. He was going to have daily bow-and-arrow practice on the front lawn and would most certainly start wearing his tribal costume, consisting of a couple of feathers and an athletic supporter, in the corridors. The landlady hastily withdrew his action against Fong.

Fallout Shelter Class Offered

A new course in fallout shelter management is being offered at the University of Nevada. The class is open to anyone who might be interested.

Jack Carver, Director of Civil Defense at the University, emphasized that the main purpose of the course is to instruct people who would be able to hold classes of their own for the benefit of other people in their area. Similar classes are being given in other population centers of the state, such as Carson City, Winnemucca, Ely, and Las Vegas, he said.

The class, which will meet for a total of 30 hours, will include information on building shelters for the home, as well as for the entire community. A list of the necessary equipment will be given along with actual demonstrations on how it should be used. Near the end of the course, the student instructors will spend a 24 hour experimental period in a shelter located in the Bureau of Mines building.

Mr. Carver pointed out that although we have five fallout shelters on campus, with a total capacity of about 700 people, there is not one person at the University assigned to them who can qualify as a manager. These shelters have been completely stocked by the federal government with ample supplies to last up to two weeks, provided they are properly distributed.

To Attend Conference

Five members of the Travis Student Union Board will represent Nevada at the Regional Conference of Student Union Boards. Clark Santini, president, Dave Cooper, Bud Olsen, Ted Marston, and Jon Benson will participate December 5, 6, and 7 in Berkeley.

THE AMERICAN FLAG and the state flag were lowered to half-staff Friday in mourning for President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, who was shot and killed late Friday morning.

CCUN Members To Take Tour Of State Capitol

A tour of the state capital is planned by the CCUN, (Collegiate Council of the United Nations) November 29, in Carson City.

"An opportunity to view the machinery of a state government would be of particular interest to foreign students," said Greg Jackson, CCUN publicity chairman.

Included in the capital tour will be visits to the capitol, printing office, library, motor vehicles bureau, museum, and a guided tour of the Governor's Mansion by Mrs. Grant Sawyer.

Many state officials will be on hand to meet the CCUN group. All students are invited to attend.

Reservations may be made by contacting Ben Echeverria, foreign student advisor, or calling FA 3-4389 before Friday.

Three Nevada Students To Compete At Confab

Three freshmen University students will compete for awards at the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress to be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Francine Pierce, David Matley, and Jarold Sorenson, all three state winners in 4-H projects, will leave Reno Nov. 29 to meet with nearly fifteen-hundred other 4-H students at the Congress, which will last through Dec. 5.

Extension staff members accompanying the Nevada students are Raymond C. Cox, state 4-H club leader; John Pursel, Washoe County Assistant Extension agent; Mable Edmundson, Douglas County Extension home agent; and Damaris Bradish, Clark County Assistant Extension home agent.

Death and Life

Gibran Kahlil Gibran speaking through the words of his magnificent work, "The Prophet," has given simple beauty to interpretations of life and its mysteries.

Almustafa, "the chosen and the beloved" in the Prophet spoke to the people of Orphalese before parting from their city for another journey. His last comments are quoted here. . .

On Death: "You would know the secret of death.

But how shall you find it unless you seek it in the heart of life?"

"For life and death or one, even as the river and the sea are one."

"For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and melt into the sun

And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?

Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.

And when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb.

And when the earth shall claim your limbs, then shall you truly dance."

In Almustafa's farewell comments to the people: "If these be vague words, then seek not to clear them.

Vague and nebulous is the beginning of all things, but not their end,

And I fain would have you remember me as a beginning."

Christmas Dances Are Planned Early In Month

Greek houses and the four dormitories have scheduled Christmas dances for the weekend following Thanksgiving vacation.

The women of Kappa Alpha Theta and Pi Beta Phi will hold their annual winter dances December 6, Friday evening from 9 to 12 midnight.

Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Theta Chi members will have their dance Saturday night, December 7.

Also scheduled for the Saturday night is the Four-Dorm Christmas Dance.
