Administration Is Scapegoat-- Young

By MIKE SLOAN
Political Editor

The fraternities at the University of Nevada are similar to a blind man who will not accept a seeing eye dog for fear of losing his right to stumble and fall, according to Kenneth Young, executive vice-president of the University.

Dr. Young made the comparison in regard to the recent controversy over a 1962 Board of Regents ruling requiring fraternities to have housemothers or other adult supervision in all houses by the 1964-65 school year. The Board of Regents modified their 1962 stand at their January 29 meeting. The new ruling requires fraternities to have either an adult supervisor living in or to provide a committee of three fraternity alumni to coordinate and consult with the administration.

Dr. Young also noted that the ASUN senate was a little late in passing the resolution denouncing the administration for the housemother rule. He pointed out that the Board of Regents had taken action modifying the original ruling before the senate even considered the problem.

Student leaders should receive an equal share of the blame for the misunderstandings between the administration and the student body Dr. Young said. He noted that cooperation was a two way street and said that student government leaders should try to work with the administration rather than against it.

Dr. Young concluded that the administration was just a convenient scapegoat for student leaders when ever they needed one.

Goldwater Hits Campus Thursday

About 20 students and faculty members will exchange questions with Barry Goldwater, Thursday in his suite at the Riverside hotel.

The controversial senator from Arizona and Republican Presidential hopeful will arrive in Reno Thursday morning at 9:06 at Reno Municipal Airport. Clark Santini, student union President, urges all students who can, to go to the airport to greet Goldwater. Goldwater will speak for approximately 15 minutes at the airport.

Selected students and faculty members will meet with Goldwater at 11:15 at the Riverside for a 30 minute question and answer session. Santini said "it had been hoped that Goldwater could meet with about 100 students and faculty members on campus some time Thursday, but when we found his schedule would not allow any extra free time we arranged for the 30 minute session in his suite."

Goldwater's busy day begins at 9 and continues packed-full until his scheduled 8 o'clock address in the Gym here on campus.

Following his landing at the airport, the senator who has been termed by some as "fanatical", will receive the key to the City at the Riverside from Reno mayor Hugo Quilici. Until 11:15 he will caucus with Republicans at the Riverside. At noon he will address the Reno Press Club at a luncheon. Local dignitaries including University President, Charles J. Armstrong will attend.

The general public also have their chance to meet the man who could be our next President from 3:30 to 5:30 at the Riverside.

Prior to his speech at 8 Goldwater will have a private dinner at 6 with a select group of Nevada Republicans.

Queen Announcement Friday

The eight freshmen women running for Winter Carnival Princess like to ski. Whether or not they have mastered the sport, any one of the eight would be a welcomed bit of decoration on the slopes.

Nevada men must pick the fairest today from 9 to 5 p. m. in the TUB. The winner will be crowned during intermission of the Sno-Sho Friday night and crowned by Carnival chairman Jinks Dabney.

The snow princess hopefuls are:

Carolyn Cottrell, from Bridgeville, California, is representing Delta Delta Delta. The gamine-like psychology major is 18 and wants to be a teacher. She likes golfing, skiing, lavender, and clothes. She dislikes "nothing in particular."

Jackie Damerel, 18, from Pasadena, likes the beach, food, football and basketball games, parties, summer and clothes. The blonde, blue-eyed candidate from Juniper Hall is majoring in English and belongs to the ski club. She doesn't like 8 o'clock classes and her ambition is "to graduate."

Jane Fant, a nursing major from Reno running for Artemisia Hall, wants to become a nurse and then get married and travel overseas. She is sports-minded, likes student - unionism, sometimes studying and "of course boys." The fresh, bright-looking 18-year-old doesn't like morning classes during the winter or afternoon classes during spring.

MaryLynne Fry, 17, from Reno, is Pi Beta Phi's choice for Carnival Princess. She is another blue-eyed blonde mainly interested in sports and is a physical education major. She lists her likes as parties, coffee houses, tours, San Francisco's Broadway, surfers and the "Beatles." She doesn't care much for "purple cows," physics, "twigs," exams, bourbon, or two-faced people.

Gretchen Geyer, 18, is representing the off-campus independents and is a "Rail City" resident. The ski-tanned brunette biology major likes a lot of things including basketball games, Winter Carnival, Fridays, "dark-haired, brown-eyed boys", and honest, sincere people. She "hates" slow people who are never on time.

Robin Millholland, candidate from Manzanita Hall, is an 18-year-old nursing major from Walnut Creek, California. She likes water skiing, cooking, and socializing in school, pianists, and staying in the TUB. She doesn't like finals on Monday and "common's food."

Barry Goldwater Comes 100 Years Too Late in U.S.

It is indeed noteworthy that Senator Barry Goldwater has seen fit to honor the University of Nevada campus with his presence during Nevada's Centennial Celebration. Unfortunately, Goldwater and his policies are one hundred years too late for America.

The senator is a master in the art of making the most complex of problems sound easy. He has an ability to generalize that is unsurpassed by his political contemporaries, and is equally gifted in the art of ambiguity. He is, above all, a great politician.

Senator Goldwater most certainly represents the American right wing in its strongest effort to capture the Presidency in recent history. It cannot be denied that the senator has a great following across the nation, a following that reaches from college campuses to housewives. Because of this he is a man who must be listened to when he speaks. We can only hope that all of those who listen will do so with an open mind.

There has been much talk in the past several years of a conservative wave sweeping the campuses of America and the nation as a whole. Supposedly, Senator Goldwater has played the major role in this movement and is its leader.

If this talk is indeed true, it is sad commentary on today's college students. For Senator Goldwater stands squarely opposed to the idealism and policies of our late President John Kennedy. In his lifetime Kennedy sought to awaken all young Americans to their responsibilities as citizens and to kindle in their hearts the flame of American idealism. Can we forget all this in such a short time?

Nevada Mining Professors Publish Study Results

Two Distinguished Professors at the Mackay School of Mines have recently had published new studies in the field of earth sciences.

They are Dr. Otto H. Haas, of geology and paleontology, and Dr. Walter H. Voskuil, professor of mineral economics.

Dr. Haas' article published in the January issue of the Journal of Paleontology, is the fourth part of a study on "Recent Literature on Mesozoic Ammonites".

Upon publication by the American Museum of Natural History of another study of ammonite species Dr. Haas will have had 75 works published by that institution. He is now a Curator Emeritus of the American Museum, where he served many years before coming to the University of Nevada in 1960.

Dr. Voskuil is the co-author of an economic study of the oil industry in Illinois. The study was published as circular 358 by the Illinois Geological Survey and entitled "Some Economic Aspects of the Illinois Oil Industry".

The study is the result of Dr.

Voskuil's research with Dr. Hubert E. Risser, chief of the economic division of the Illinois Geological Survey. Dr. Voskuil formerly held the position before he came to the University of Nevada in 1960.

THE PODIUM

Thoughts On Mr. Goldwater

SENATOR GOLDWATER'S quest for the Republican nomination for the Presidency of the United States demands a serious and critical analysis of his views, ideas, and prescriptions for action by American citizens. For the past ten years Senator Goldwater has made his views and ideas known through speeches, television appearances, in campaigns, and even in books. A short sketch of his views for action clearly illustrates why he is considered the most interesting — if not the most terrifying — political figure in American politics today.

UNLIKE most politicians who perceive and understand that American domestic and international problems are rife with complex situations, intricate and delicate relationships, and products of historical experiences, Senator Goldwater is not afflicted by this sense of reality. Rather, Senator Goldwater is one of those unique, rare breed of politicians who has easy, simple solutions to even the most difficult and extraordinary complex problems.

AMERICAN DOMESTIC problems such as civil rights, education, urbanization, economic growth, farm surpluses, and automation can be solved easily. These problems, according to Goldwater, do not require new laws nor do they require Federal Government involvement. Instead, the cure for these problems is a general reduction in Federal expenditures and a reduction in Federal programs; a heavier reliance upon state and local government for caring for these problems since they can solve them better; and a revival of constitutional government.

CURRENT FEDERAL GOVERNMENT involvement and participation in these problems interfere with the so-called "natural laws" which operate in the American system. To insure more freedom for all Americans, the Federal government should be reduced in size, scope, and programs of action.

IN SUPPORT of these views Senator Goldwater has consistently opposed Federal spending programs in the United States; has opposed Federal aid to education; has opposed the graduated income tax; has opposed all types of Federal medicare and welfare programs; has opposed nearly all Federal public works except those benefitting Arizona; has opposed Federal government subsidies and farm price support programs.

SENATOR GOLDWATER has enthusiastically supported amendments to the United States Constitution which would drastically reshape the American political system beyond the Founding Fathers wildest dreams; has actively supported the Southern states' position on the race question on the basis of this being a states rights problem; has publicly sided with Governor Barnett's defiance of Federal authority in obeying the law of the land. Furthermore, Senator Goldwater has publicly stated that decisions of the Supreme Court are not the "law of the land" and, who openly preach and advocate disrespect for law and order in the United States.

EVEN THOUGH Senator Goldwater identifies the Federal government as the repository of all political evil, this position has not prevented his home state or his own action from refusing the lucrative grants-in-aid have spurred Arizona's economy through federal highway programs and vital water resources. For example, in fiscal year 1961 Arizonians paid 353 million in federal tax payments but received back 1 billion dollars in federal projects. In 1963 Arizona received 40 million dollars in federal highway projects; and the current Central Arizona project carries the federal price tag of 1.1 billion dollars. Even though Senator Goldwater preaches the gospel of limited federal government participation in the economy of the nation, these preachings do not extend to Federal government involvement and participation in the economy of Arizona.

IN THE FIELD of foreign affairs and international relations, Senator Goldwater's easy and authoritative solutions have long been known. Goldwater is committed to the view that the United States must pursue a policy of "total victory" and "interventionism". According to Goldwater, then, the United States: (1) should not negotiate with Russia because it is useless and dangerous; (2) should sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries; (3) should liberate all Communist satellite countries; should give U. S. military commanders in NATO atomic war heads for their missiles; (5) should sever most foreign aid and all foreign aid to Communist countries regardless of their type or variation of Communism; (6) should possibly withdraw from the United Nations; (7) should liberate the Cubans by force if necessary; (8) should, if necessary, engage in immediate and outright war to complete this total victory.

WHILE GOLDWATER has espoused these views of total victory and interventionism, his actions in Congress to put them into effect have been less than clear. While he has supported interventionism in the Middle and Far East, his noblest efforts in Congress have been to curtail the President's authority to deal with foreign nations. Senator Goldwater actively supported the Bricker constitutional amendment which, if effected, would have prevented the Chief Executive from dealing with foreign nations in treaties and executive agreements. Also, Senator Goldwater has voted against trade bill amendments to cut down the President's authority to cut tariffs even though he is an advocate of free trade.

Senator Goldwater has persistently sought to discredit the civil authorities who are constitutionally charged with the direction of the military. Moreover, Senator Goldwater has been one of the strongest friends of the military and has strenuously pressed for more military expenditures. This has been done while he has been an ardent foe of the major source of revenue for the Federal government, the graduated income tax. Goldwater has, therefore, offered little in the way of constructive proposals for winning total victory other than the adoption of a fortress, isolationist United States.

THE PRESIDENCY of the United States is one of the most gruelling of elective political offices in the world, and requires a man of outstanding diplomatic and political skill. The office requires a man who understands the nature of America's domestic and international problems; the office requires a man who must make serious decisions and judgments of far reaching magnitude. Few of the important decisions made by the President of the United States, in conjunction with other governmental institutions, can be made on the basis of rash, emotional, and dogmatic solutions. These decisions and judgments must be made on the basis of understanding, insight, political intelligence, and a forthright appraisal of America's role and participation in the world community.

FOR A CANDIDATE who publicly cannot distinguish between a political scientist and a physicist, for a candidate who cannot perceive differences in Communism, Marxism, and even Democracies, Senator Goldwater's candidacy does present problems for the thinking American public. Dogmatic, authoritative answers may appeal to those who cannot stand the ambiguities and uncertainties of crisis politics but have rarely been part of the American political tradition and experiences.

CCA Hears Young Advanced ROTC Students Study Guerrilla Warfare

The Canterbury Club, the University student group of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, united with the Campus Christian Association Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

The meeting began the first of a series of six discussions and worship services.

Sunday's speaker and discussion leader was Dr. Kenneth L. Young, University executive vice-president. His topic was, "How Does The University Equip Us For The World In Which We Live?" The six weeks series is entitled, "For Life In The World."

"The union of CCA and The Canterbury Club is a new effort toward intercommunication of a combined Protestant program," noted the Rev. Donald Thompson, "that will for the first time include almost all Protestant groups active on campus."

The Lounge of the University of Nevada Rifle Range was the place of birth for a small but highly motivated group last Tuesday night. This group, called the University of Nevada Guerrillas is composed of seven junior students who are also in the Advanced Army ROTC Program.

The members are Robert Parrish, Bob Echeverria, Art Broten Jr., Larry Bennet, and Rex Wilson, all of Reno, Larry Prater of Las Vegas, and Phil Loofbourn of West Point, Georgia.

The group is sponsored by the Military/Department with S/Sgt James Scarbrough acting as the Principal Instructor. Scarbrough said that the course is composed of one 2 hour lecture a week and one 36 hour field problem a month.

The course is not designed to make the student "an Expert Guerrilla Fighter" but to familiarize the student with special guerrilla operations, patrolling, and better prepares him for the six week ROTC Summer Camp held at Ft. Lewis, Washington, each summer.

NURSING SCHOLARS

Three students in Orvis School of Nursing were recently awarded scholarships, according to Dean Marjorie J. Elmore.

Patricia Gomez, a freshman student, received the $75 Eugene Benjamin Scholarship in nursing, on the basis of need and high academic achievement. Two juniors, Jolene Kernan and Louise Payne, were awarded, for the second consecutive semester $250 scholarships from the Women's Medical Auxiliary from Sunrise Hospital in Las Vegas.

Brothers Four Highlight 'Sho'

A highlight of this year's activity-packed Winter Carnival is the Friday night appearance of the "Brothers Four." They will star in the Sno-Sho at 8 p.m. in the New Gym.

The Brothers Four began their singing career as fraternity brothers at the University of Washington in 1958. Born on a college campus, the group still identifies itself with the college crowd and plays mainly for the university set.

The "Brothers" have been in orbit around college campuses of this country and Canada for the last few years. They are being tapped for more and more network T.V. work and their records, beginning with "Greenfields", have achieved tremendous popularity.

The four folksingers are: Mike Kirkland, the blond tenor of the Brothers Four, who is taking flying lessons and hopes to solo by this summer; Dick Foley can play five musical instruments — in volume of decibels they are the organ, piano, banjo, ukelele and tenor guitar; John Paine, "the quiet one", is a skilled amateur photographer and does a lot of the publicity and promotional camera work for the boys; Bob Flick, the bass violinist of The Brothers Four, has this piece of advice for aspiring young musicians: "Unless you're beefy in the bicep department take up the pic."

Tickets are on sale now in the bookstore for the Friday night performance. Students can get in for 50 cents while general admission is $2. Seats on the main floor cost $3 and $4. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Comment On Diet A Misunderstanding

"The issue over the diet of the foreign students living on the University campus is based on misunderstanding," stated Mr. Neil Humphrey, University business manager.

The misunderstanding resulted from the misquoting in a downtown paper, and subsequently, the Sagebrush, of Ray Germain, member of the Board of Regents. He was quoted as saying that he sympathized with the foreign students, since he had trouble eating in the dining commons himself. Mr. Germain, contacted by phone at his Milbrae, California home, told Mike Sloan Sagebrush political editor that he had definitely been misquoted. His only statement concerning the food issue was that he could understand the problem of the foreign students, because he too had trouble in adjusting to the unfamiliar food of a foreign country on his recent trip to the Far East.

The question over the food provided in the dining commons arose when a delegation from an exchange student group on campus contacted Mr. Ben Echeverria, University foreign student advisor. The students did not request special service in the commons, but simply wanted permission to eat their meals off campus even though they live in the dorms. The question was presented to the Board of Regents for a ruling.

$25 ASSESSMENT

The Regents voted to allow students to eat meals off campus if they would pay a $25 assessment. Humphrey explained that the assessment was necessary to maintain the financial balance between the dining commons and the dorms.

The University does not make a profit from the student housing operation, Humphrey explained, and therefore must make some profit from the dining commons operation. If students do not eat in the dining commons, then the university can not meet its financial obligations for the building program.

SIGMA TAU GIVES $50 TO BOOK DRIVE

Sigma Tau, engineering honorary at the University, has presented a check for $50 as a contribution toward the Matching Book Fund drive. The presentation was made to Charles Russell, director of development by Calvin Thompson, president of the Nevada Sigma Tau chapter. The drive is part of an effort to match a Fleischmann Foundation grant of $100,000. For every $5,000 raised by the University will be matched with $10,000 from the Foundation.

The Reno lawyers wife's organizations is holding a benefit fashion show and luncheon February 14 for the drive. Proceeds from the event will be given for the project.

House Judging Set For Wed.

A spring-like Sunday spurred campus groups to begin on their Winter Carnival house decoration building. Students were seen twisting napkins on the back lawn of one fraternity and pounding stakes into the front yard of a sorority in the prematurely warm weather.

Their efforts will be judged Wednesday night from 6-7 and will be announced during intermission at the Sno-Ball Saturday evening.

The decorations will adorn the women's living groups as they greet visitors and students into their open houses Wednesday night from 8-11.

Teaming up for the "Centennial In The Snow" construction are: Gamma Phi Beta and Alpha Tau Omega; Delta Delta Delta, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Nu; Pi Beta Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Theta Chi; Manzanita Hall and Lincoln Hall; and White Pine Hall and Juniper Hall.

The groups must stay within the Centennial theme and $50 in building. Decorations must be two-dimensional and not more than 10 by 12 feet in size. Chuck Burr is decorations chairman.

Skiers Signups Begin Thursday

New faces will be seen on campus Thursday and Friday as the visiting teams for the 24th Annual Winter Carnival register in the Student Union.

The skiers will receive i.d.'s, tickets, and housing assignments both days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Men will stay in Artemisia Hall and women will stay in Manzanita. They will be responsible for their own meals, but the dining commons will be available to them, said Ted Zaehring committee housing chairman.

Hank Williams, in charge of registration, will be aided by the Spurs and Sagers service groups. Bob Kersey and Bill Adams will also help in the registration and housing.

Administration-Student Hypocrisy Equal

Editor, the Sagebrush:

With resolution our spokesmen, the ASUN Senate, proclaim our sense of arrival to the level of mature adulthood. With one blow, our desire to clear away all the myths and misconceptions long held by the Regents and administrators, is given unequivocal expression. One broken myth, for example, is that we can be deceived. We are not deceived that women's hours do anything to regulate or effect women's moral conduct.

We are not deceived that housemothers will correct the social laxity in our fraternities. We are not deceived that our use or abuse of alcohol is effected by a ban on on-campus drinking. Indeed, we are aware that the official reaction to foreign student's plea for rice in their diet has less to do with the expressed financial problems involved than it has to do with the unexpressed feeling that there is something that is just "un-American" about foreigners anyway.

I could go on, but the point is that the level of hypocrisy attainable by the administration is matched only by the level attained by students riding that same vice. Any student who is not willing to match his desire for separation of student and administrative responsibility with a real and active desire for the

Shakespeare Plays To Note Birthday

A series of eight plays, shows and lectures have been arranged for the next eight weeks to commemorate the 400th birthday of William Shakespeare.

Throughout the country, schools and civic groups are arranging programs of this sort, said Dr. David Hettich, of the English department. Many professional figures from the world of stage, theater, and movies will be touring the country giving readings and lectures, he noted.

"Most of our program draws on local talent," Hettich said. Reno High School will give a production of "Twelfth Night" and the University drama department will present "The Merchant of Venice".

Members of the departments of English, history, speech and drama will give talks on Shakespeare and his contemporaries, his times, and his theater. Dr. William C. Miller will speak about Shakespeare in the mining camps.

Hettich said schedules of the festival events will be posted throughout the campus and in the Sagebrush.

BRUSHFIRE NEEDS MATERIAL

Brushfire, the campus literary magazine, needs more material.

Pat Brasfield, editor of the publication, said any student who wishes to submit material may do so before February 29 on the English department office, Humanities building. Prose, poetry, essays and plays are all being considered.

LETTERS

kind of self-discipline and control that would render administrative control totally superfluous, is proving that he can be deceived, not by the administration, but by himself.

To this writer, it seems that now is the time to seriously initiate a serious self-analysis for the purpose of determining if the administration's objections to what we are doing are justified. If so (as seems likely), then by ourselves we can work to make right the wrongs we might find. On the other hand, now is the time for the administration to re-appraise its whole approach to the problem to see if perhaps attempts to coerce are often less successful than attempts to set courageous examples to be conscientiously followed.

When all of the members of the University community get to work together on this and related problems, I feel this campus can begin to distinguish itself as an institution of higher learning. When that day comes, oh how sweet it will be!

Pianist Heifetz Here Tonight

Widely-acclaimed pianist, Joseph Heifetz, will perform at 8 in the Fine Arts theater this evening. Her performance is sponsored by the music department and the Nevada Repertoire club.

For her concert appearance, Miss Heifetz will play works of Beethoven, Brahms, Bach, Copland, and Prokofieff. In addition she will present "Five Inventions," which are of her own composition.

She began her musical career at six. She attended the Music Academy of the West, Paris Conservatory of Music, Mills College, and Aspen Music Institute.

When she was 14, the Boston Music Company published her "Chopstick Boogie". Her later, more serious compositions for vocal and chamber groups have been performed in many states.

Piano Workshop To Begin Here

A piano workshop highlighting education methods in elementary piano development for very young students will be held in the Travis Lounge of the Student Union next Friday morning.

The workshop is to be conducted by June Weybright, a composer, music educator, pianist and lecturer, who has been engaged in music education for 40 years.

Miss Weybright will demonstrate her "New Piano Course" and supplementary books including the "Belwin Theory Work Sheets," "Piano Music in the Home," and others.

The demonstrations will begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday and will last until 12 noon. A luncheon will follow the workshop which is free to the public.

College Tax Aid Bill Gets U.S. Congressional Defeat

A U. S. Senate proposal of Abraham Ribicoff's of Connecticut, to give parents of college students special tax relief was defeated by Congress last Tuesday.

If the proposed amendment had been passed, graduated tax credits would be allowed on the first $1,500 of tuition, fees, books, and supplies for each student in college. The taxpayer's final bill would be each dollar of credit. The maximum deduction for the proposed bill would be $325.

In proposing the bill, Ribicoff said its primary purpose would be to "ease the heavy financial burden of college cost and thus to help reach the goal of enabling every deserving young man and woman in this country to obtain a college education."

After the defeat of the bill Ribicoff stated that "a lot of arm twisting" to line up votes against his proposal had been done. He said that he was not bitter about the outcome, and that he would be back next year to press the issue.

The Senate defeated a second education amendment on a tie vote of 47 to 47. This amendment, sponsored by Senator Winston Prouty of Vermont, would have provided up to $1,500 a year in tax deductions for students working their way through college.

Prouty's proposal allowed up to $1,200 annual deductions for undergraduate students, and up to $1,500 for graduate students. The deductions would have been given to wage-earning students, not to their parents.

Pack Takes FWC Lead; Hornets Tonight

Silver And Blue Face Sacramento

The cellar dwelling Sacramento State Hornets are in Reno tonight in hopes of upsetting Nevada's highly rated Wolf Pack, who are now riding on top of the Far Western Conference with a 5-1 record. Game time in the New Gym is 8 p. m.

If the Nevadans play anywhere near the brand of ball they played in the first two home league games, then the visitors chances of winning will be pretty slim. Sacramento has a 1-4 league record and a 4-14 slate overall.

Top men for the visitors include 6-5 pivot man Gale Butler and guard Wayne Sheppard. The

Four Teams Lose Top Record

Intramural basketball picked up pace Wednesday and Thursday evening as four teams fell from the ranks of the unbeaten.

Lincoln Hall toppled Lambda Chi Alpha No. 2, 32-21 Thursday. Sigma Alpha Epsilon handed Kappa Kappa Psi its first loss Thursday by the score of 27-25.

Both previous undefeated Independents No. 1 and No. 2 failed to show up Thursday night and thus forfeited.

Eighteen teams are entered in this year's intramural basketball competition. This represents the largest turnout in the school's history for intramural basketball.

The 18 teams are split into three leagues.

In the American League three teams sport undefeated records. Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the Independents No. 3 both have records of 2-0. Alpha Tau Omega has a 1-0 record.

The Independents No. 4 head the heap in the National League with a 2-0 record. Alpha Tau Omega No. 2 is 1-0.

On top in the International League is the Independents No. 5 with a 2-0 record. Lambda Chi Alpha No. 1 is close behind with a 1-0 record.

The eventual winners in each league will play off for the championship later in this semester.

CAGERS WON IN '61

The last time Nevada won the Far Western Conference basketball title was during the 1960-61 season when they compiled a 9-1 record.

other starters for Coach Ev Shelton's crew will probably be Don Nelson, Bob Albers, and Neil McCarthy.

This has been a rebuilding year for the Hornets, as they lost three of their big starters from last year. Playing eligibility ran out last year on Ron Rohrer, John Dillie, and Bill Baker.

The two met once before this season, in Sacramento. In that game, the Pack won a squeaker from the Green and Gold, 67-65, as last minute free throws by Mike Olivas insured victory.

The local heroes boast three men with scoring averages in double figures, and one more with an average of 9.9 a game.

Bob Donlan leads the Silver and Blue in scoring with 14.1 per game. Nap Montgomery is at 11.7 and Mike Olivas is hitting an even 10 points per contest. Bill Nicholson is scoring at a 9.9 clip, and just to prove that Nevada's scoring is balanced, the other starter, Harlan Heward, is scoring eight markers a game.

Nevada's freshmen will play the Sacramento St. underclassmen in a preliminary to the varsity contest tonight. Game time is 6 p.m.

Cubs Clout Chico, Sonoma

Taking a cue from the varsity, the Nevada Freshmen racked up two impressive victories over the weekend against the Chico Frosh and Sonoma State. The wins gave the yearlings a record of 9-1.

Friday night, the Frosh defeated the Chico Cubs by a score of 76-60. The Silver and Blue's threesome of George Winters, George Shoenberger and Tommie Smith totaled 61 points. Winters was high man with 24 points.

The young Nevadans led by ten points, 38-28, as the buzzer sounded ending the half. However Chico flashed back to come within four points of the home team.

The Wolf Cubs finally got their scoring machine in motion and took a 16 point lead which they maintained most of the way.

The Frosh had an even easier time the following night against Sonoma State, winning 70-53. The yearlings led 34-15 at half-time and Coach Chuck Walker let his reserves play much of the second half.

Jacks, Wildcats Fall To Wolves

By TOM DYE

Associated Sports Editor

The Nevada basketball team used two second half scoring spurges to win a pair of key encounters and vault into first place in the Far Western Conference. The Wolf Pack defeated Chico State 76-58 Friday night and Humboldt State fell 85-62 the following night. Both games were played in Reno.

Nevada started off fast and built up early leads of 7-2 and 11-4 Friday night against the Wildcats. Flashy guard Bob Donlan and 6-5 Bill Nicholson were the Pack's big guns in the early going. Nicholson hit most of his points on an over-the-head backhand shot that was almost impossible to stop. The home team seemed to play better as a team than they have done all season.

The visitors surged back on the shooting of All-Conference center Wes Walsvick and finally pulled ahead of Nevada 36-34 late in the first half. Walsvick hit 14 of his 16 points in the initial half. Wolf Pack reserve Bob Schebler scored a last second basket to tie the score at 36-36 at the half.

The Pack caught fire in the early going of the first half and Nevada began to pull away. Donlan scored on a jump shot to give the home team a 40-36 lead with 18 minutes left to play.

Nicholson and forward Harlan Heward effectively controlled the backboards as the Wolves began to pile up a bigger lead.

Mike Olivas, Nevada's 5-11 guard swished several arching jumpers and Nap Montgomery poured in several baskets and the Pack built up a 69-48 advantage.

The Pack used a ball control type offense in the latter stages of the contest to stay out of range of their FWC opponent.

Nicholson led the Nevada scoring cause, dumping in 21 points. Olivas was second with 17 and Donlan followed with 16.

Nevada connected on 32 out of 72 field goal attempts for a 44 per cent average. The Wolves took the same number of shots and had identical field goal accuracy figures during both halves.

The Silver and Blue upped its FWC record to 5-1 the following night with a 23 point victory over Humboldt State. The Pack now has an overall record of 8-11.

Four Nevadans hit 17 or more points to give the Pack a half game lead in conference action.

Again the halftime score was 36-36 as the Lumberjacks took advantage of the Wolves' cold shooting.

The team from Arcata jumped out to a quick 11-4 lead with guards Chuck York and Ron Good doing most of the damage. Good was particularly deadly with his springing one-handed jump shot.

Nevada could not seem to find the basket in the early going and shot a miserable 31 per cent in the first half.

Humboldt used a tight zone defense to great advantage during the first part of the game and this hampered the Pack's scoring efforts.

The home team finally found the range in the second half and repeated Saturday night's performance as they hit basket after basket. Nicholson, Donlan, and Montgomery were the offensive leaders with their rebounding and accurate shooting.

Humboldt made a surprising comeback and tied the Nevadans at 50-50 with 13 minutes to play. However the Wolf Pack rammed home 20 points to the visitors' three and took a 70-53 lead. Coach Jack Spencer's team maintained the advantage the rest of the way. The Wolves' reserves saw action in both Friday and Saturday nights encounters.

Nevada ended up with a shooting percentage of 39 per cent compared to the Lumberjacks 31 per cent. Individually Nicholson and Montgomery tied for scoring honors with 19 points. Donlan hit 18 on his long lefthanded jumpshot and Heward scored 17.

Bear Boxers Oppose Pack Wednesday

The University of Nevada boxers will engage in their second match of the season tomorrow night against the University of California in the New Gym. The card will start at 8 p.m.

The Wolf Pack ringmen won their first California Collegiate Boxing Conference match of the year February 1 against Chico St. here, 5-3.

Skip Houk, Dave Stix, Joe Curry, Jim Evans, and Larry Williamson are expected to carry the Silver and Blue's chances against the men from Berkeley.

Houk won his first encounter of the season, nearly knocking his Chico opponent out of the ring. Curry was also victorious, kayoing a Wildcat boxer. Evans and Stix won their fights by decisions, while Williamson was awarded a victory by forfeit.

Other outstanding Wolf Pack fighters who may see action against the Golden Bears are John McSweeney and Chuck Breese.

Last season Nevada edged out the Bears 4½ to 3½ in a dual match. Evans and Stix won closely contested matches and Williamson earned a victory by a technical knockout. Houk was held to a draw by his Golden Bear opponent. The 147 pound Pack fighter has not been beaten in three years in regular season action.

Riflemen Now 20 For Season

The University rifle team is having an undefeated season against Washoe Project teams in the Sagebrush League.

Manager Carl Keizumi mentioned that the team takes especial pride in the fact that since the season's start three weeks ago it has defeated the Naval Reserve team three times, rated the best Navy rifle team in the United States.

The team has also won seven postal matches with teams from the East. In a postal match each team shoots at a standard target and the bullet-pierced targets are compared by mail.

According to Sergeant Robert Maxey, coach, the team will be doing a great deal of traveling this semester. They will be in El Paso, Texas, from March 6 through March 8 for an invitational match.

The team will compete with teams from other western states in the inter-collegiate sectionals in Berkeley, California, on March 21 and 22.

Danish Gym Team Here Next Month

A Danish gym team is tentatively scheduled to appear here March 24. Dr. Art Broten, chairman of health, physical education, and recreation, said that he has seen the group four times and "they are terrific."

The team is made up of 38 boys and girls and three directors. The Danes run through a program of rhythmical gymnastics, fundamental gymnastics, balance beams, Danish folk dancing, and apparatus and tumbling.

His youthful achievements include athletics, photography, and electronics. He left the University of Arizona in 1929. He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. In World War II he served as a fighter pilot. In 1949 he entered the political arena by being elected to the Phoenix City Council. Three years later "rode the Eisenhower tide" to a surprising victory in a Senatorial campaign against Majority Leader Ernest W. McFarland.

"The Conservative approach is nothing more or less than an attempt to apply wisdom and experience and the revealed truths of the past to the problems of today," he said in his book, "The Conscience of A Conservative."

Any obnoxious heckling or behavior unbecoming a student at the Barry Goldwater address will be met by severe disciplinary action, according to Clark Santini, President of the Student Union Board.

Santini, whose Board is sponsoring the Goldwater lecture, said that "if one comes to the speech he should behave. We ask that the reception be enthusiastic or quiet. If a student feels he can be neither he just shouldn't come."

Members of Blue Key, upper-class men's honorary organization will man posts throughout the lecture to escort unruly students out.

Henry V Appears In Theater Tonite

by JIM BERNARDI

William Shakespeare's "Henry V" starring Laurence Olivier will be presented tonight in the Fine Arts theatre.

The film was made during World War II by the British as a glorification of nationalism and a patriotic morale booster. It was filmed at a time when such expense was considered frivolous and extravagant. It has since become a classic of cinematic handling of a Shakespearean theme. Many critics believe this to be the finest production of a Shakespearean play to be recorded on film. Laurence Olivier, who plays the young king, also directed this epic of England's war with France in the Fifteenth Century.

The film is perhaps best remembered for its reconstruction of the Globe Playhouse and the simulated playing conditions of the Elizabethan period. The first act is played entirely against this authentic background. Then with the words of the chorus, the scenes fly from the dock at Southampton to Agincourt, from battle field to battle field, finally to the glory of the French court. Here again the action returns to the Globe even to the point of having boys play the womens roles for the ending. The battle scenes and authenticity of presentation have helped to make this the most popular of Olivier's film productions of Shakespearean plays. He has also starred in and directed "Hamlet" and "Richard III."

Robert Newton, who is best remembered for "Treasure Island" and "Around the World in Eighty Days." co-stars as Pistol in one of the most successful portrayals of a "low character" on stage or screen.

The film plays tonight only, at 7 and 9 p.m., in the University Theatre. Students with ID cards will be admitted free. This is the film offering of the Film Classic Series in celebration of the Quadra-centennial of Shakespeare's birth.
