

Half Goal Reached On Petition

By MIKE SLOAN
Political Editor

The petition to revise the constitution of the Student Union Board has been signed by nearly half of the 25 per cent of the student body necessary to put the revision on the ballot.

The revision plan exploded into a major controversy on campus almost overnight. Members of the present Student Union Board bitterly denounced the proposed change.

Bud Olsen, board finance director, stated that "though the present constitution is in some ways inadequate, this new one is ridiculous; two years' experience on the board tells me it cannot work."

Other board members resented what they described as "the cloak and dagger methods used by ASUN leaders behind the change."

Commenting on the proposal, Sam Basta, dean of student affairs, suggested that representatives of the Union Board and the ASUN supporters of the new constitution sit down together to iron out their differences in a reasonable manner.

Chuck Burr, the un-official leader of the committee circulating the petition, said that "even of the petition does not receive the necessary 25 per cent, we will have accomplished our purpose by making the members of the Union Board take a look at their own set-up."

Clark Santini, president of the Board, offered a new face to the controversy. "On December 11, 1963, Ted Marston was appointed chairman of a committee to study, and then propose revisions of the Board's basis of representation, and to suggest means of making the Union program more responsive to student interest. Both studies were to have been completed by the end of this month," and they will be," Santini said.

He continued, "From March 1 on, the Board will bring its case before the student body in every way it can, and will not use some any-mous front group to do it for them."

Summing up for the entire board, Santini said, "I strongly urge each and every student on this campus, who really cares a tinker's dam about this union, to invite or seek out any student Board member and consider his views before making a decision."

Strong support for the petition has been shown by various living groups including the Theta Chis, the Pi Phis, and the dorms. It is also expected to receive major support from the ATOs and from the Sigma Nu fraternity.

"The issue of revising the Union constitution will undoubtedly be used by some candidates in the election next month," according to a Board member, "we can only hope that reason will not give way to emotion in the campaign."

ASUN leaders Jim Achesow, president and Larry Struve, second vice-president declined to comment on the petition and the entire controversy.

13 Submit Names For Office

Only thirteen students had filed to run in the March 11 ASUN primary election as of Wednesday night. However a last minute rush is expected prior to the March 4 filing deadline.

In a surprise move, John White, running without the support of any organization, filed for the office of ASUN president. ATO Keith Lee is the only other announced candidate for the office and is the early favorite.

DABNEY UNOPPOSED

Jinks Dabney, Lambda Chi, filed for the ASUN first vice president office as expected, and is so far unopposed.

Three women are running for the office of ASUN second vice president, they are: Judy Morrison of Kappa Alpha Theta, Sharon Domenici, and Aileen Miller, both independents.

Charles Murphy of Lambda Chi and Sigma Nu Bill Chaffin have both filed for the Junior Men's senator-at-large post, while Kathy Wick, independent, has filed for Women's senator-at-large.

SEVEN FOR SENATE

Only three of the seven college senate seats had been filed for as of Wednesday. Independent Daryl Drake and Pi Phi Karyn Branch have both filed for Arts and Science senator, and Theta Chi Arnold Hansmann is running for senator from the college of Business Administration. The only other announced candidate for college senator is Lambda Chi Gary Nelson seeking the Education seat.

Two ATO candidates are so far running unopposed for class presidents. They are Chuck Burr, who filed for Senior class president, and Bob Basta seeking the Sophomore class presidency.

Amendments Go On Ballot Next Thursday

University coeds have a chance to vote Thursday on their approval or disapproval of the new revisions in the AWS constitution.

The changes in the constitution are for qualifications for the AWS vice-president and for the election of AWS president and vice-president.

If the constitution is approved by Nevada coeds the vice-president of AWS will be required to have a 2.5 overall grade point average, shall be of upperclass standing, cannot be president of a campus living group or a member of Panhellenic council, cannot be the secretary or an editor of a campus publication while holding the office of vice president.

Revisions concerning elections include that the president of AWS shall be elected by a simple majority and that the vice-president will also be elected by a simple majority. At present, the vice president is the loser in the race for Associated Women Student's president.

Total Matched Funds Near $80 Thousand In Book Drive

The matching book fund drive total has reached $77,838.98. The total, including donations and matching funds from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation, will be used to buy books for the Getchell Library.

The Fleischmann Foundation has donated $50,000 under an agreement to match solicited funds on a two to one basis.

Charles Russell, director of University development and assistant to the president, listed among the larger contributors the O. B. Bates Endowment Fund with $10,000; Bell Telephone of Nevada, $3,500; Reno Newspapers Inc. and the Anaconda Co., each with $1000. The First National Bank of Nevada, Kennecott Copper Corp., and Sierra Pacific Power Co. have each given $500.

Other contributions from civic clubs, individuals and companies total $18,376.99. Among those are donations from Alumni, Friends of the Library, a private group of citizens interested in bettering the University library.

$500 from the John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund, both student drives.

Also included in this figure is nearly $800 from the Robert Hale Memorial Fund, and more than

Cooper Elected New TUB Prexy

Dave Cooper was elected Student Union Board president late last night, defeating Bud Olsen by an eight to four vote. Prior to the election, Cooper promised the members of the Board that he would resign immediately as editor of the University of Nevada Forum if elected.

The Board election was delayed 15 minutes because of lack of a quorum.

Sundowners Host Shooting Match Today

Sundowner, famous black hatted men of the campus, play hosts today at a "shooting match" at Idlewild park. The "match" which will begin at 2 this afternoon is open to anyone who is willing to pay the $1 admission fee.

John White Files For ASUN Chief

The ASUN presidency race promises to get hotter before the March 18 election now that John White, a pre-legal political science major has filed for the office. Until Wednesday ATO Keith Lee had been the only announced candidate. Le has not yet filed.

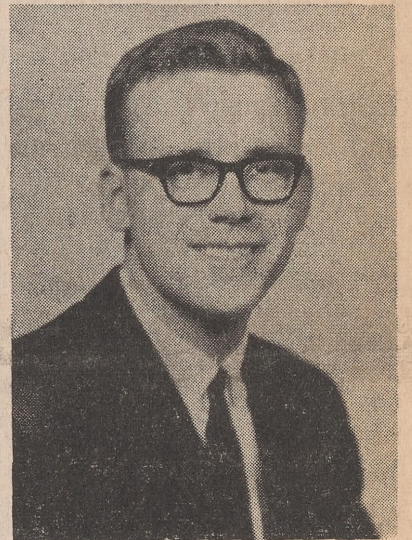

White entered the race without the sponsorship of an organization because of "feelings concerning the impartiality required for effective student government."

"I wish to run, not as a Greek or Independent, but as a concerned individual. I have witnessed student government in action for three years now and feel that somewhere in the mass confusion, the ordinary student has been set aside," White explained.

He said the election this year is important because if students do not maintain interest in student government, the administration will assume many of its present functions.

Prominent issues in White's campaign will be ASUN maintaining control of the bookstore, attempting to solve student complaints concerning dining commons food, and improving coordination between the student body and student government.

TO OPPOSE LEE

White maintains an over-all grade average of 3.0; has worked full time in addition to being a full time student. He has resigned from his job to campaign for the top ASUN post.

Chiatovich, Heath Named Outstanding

Jaci Chiatovich of Gamma Phi eta and Don Heath of Sigma Nu were named Outstanding Greeks of the year at the annual Greek banquet sponsored by the members of Theta Chi fraternity Tuesday night.

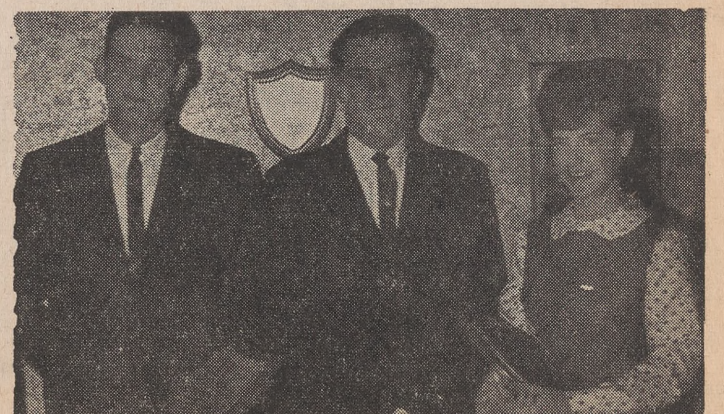

The two honored greeks were voted on by the sororities and fraternities on campus.

Miss Chiatovich was president of Gamma Phi Beta, senator from the college of education, elected to Who's Who and served on both the sophomore and junior class committees. She was a member of the 1962 Homecoming committee, Pages, Young Republicans, Newman Club, SNEA, and Panhellenic council.

Heath is out-going IFC president, Sigma Nu house manager, Sagers president, and a member of Blue Key, UNCOG, and Coffin & Keys. He was also elected to Who's Who.

Engraved plaques were presented to the pair by Theta Chi president Philo Romine.

Student 'Leaders' Lack Courage If They Don't Fight For Constitution

One of the best things that could be done by ASUN officers this year is to get a new, democratic constitution for the Student Union Board. A few student leaders are trying to do just this. A petition has been circulated to get an amended constitution on the spring ballot.

It seems odd though, that some of those people who have instigated the petition are suddenly dropping the ball and letting others pick it up.

These "leaders" have chosen to remain anonymous in order to keep "personalities" out of the issue. They know very well that the campus is aware of who the brains are behind the move for a new Union constitution.

Some have stated they got the petition started and now they are "washing their hands" of the whole affair. No support will be given by these psuedo-leaders for the adoption of a constitution if it makes it to the election.

And psuedo-leaders they are. They are afraid of getting their fingers burnt in what should be the hottest and most important issue of the year. They are using the "personality" bit as a facade.

If they really believe a new constitution is necessary, they are shirking their responsibility if they don't carry the issue through an election.

It should be a matter of principle for these people and not a matter of making other people angry or because "it will look bad for the ASUN."

They want to get something adopted without supporting it. In other words, they want to play with the fireworks and come up smelling like a lovely bouquet of roses.

It takes courage to fight for convictions. It might mean alienating a good portion of the campus against them. But if these people have any sense of principle and responsibility, they will see this mess they created through to the end.

They should stand up and be counted but then, courage is not an easy virtue to have.

SENATOR BARRY GOLDWATER'S speech at the University of Nevada was extremely enjoyable, for at no point did it burden the listener with the complexities of current foreign and domestic problems. In the Senator's penetrating analysis most of our problems will be solved by ridding Washington of all liberals and returning to the fundamentals of conservatism at home, and the rest by proposing a "courageous" foreign policy abroad.

The Senator told us that he is absolutely opposed to liberalism, which he contends has destroyed many of the liberties that we formerly possessed. Liberalism, after all, stands for such wickedness as social security, which has destroyed freedom of the age d to be destitute; rural electrification and farm price supports, which, as one senator has pointed out, have destroyed the freedom of the farmer to live in poverty—by candlelight; and Federal aid to education—the most diabolical plot of all—which threatens to destroy our freedom to be ignorant. The Senator is opposed to all of these infringements on the "liberty" of the American people, presumably because they violate the principles of conservatism.

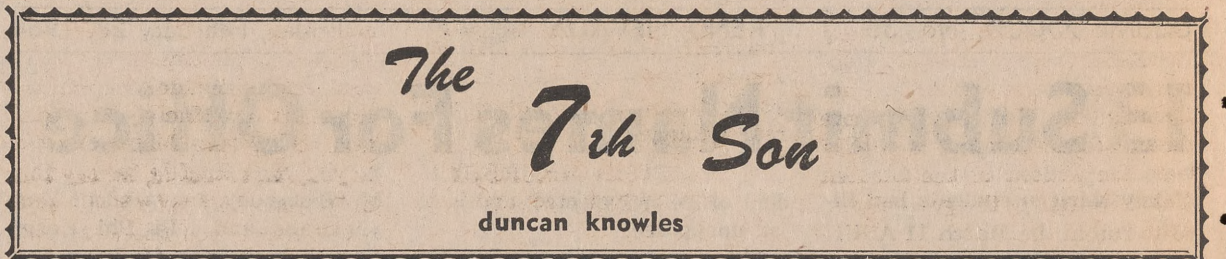

As interesting as Senator Goldwater's opinion on liberalism are his views on foreign policy, and especially on "co-existence." Co-existence, as we all know, means to exist together at the same time. The Senator vigorously opposes this, as he calls the people to arms with the battle cry of "Why Not Victory." The problem of course is exactly how the Communis can be persuaded to terminate their existence. It is at this point that we are left in suspense as to how such a feat is going to be accomplished.

Perhaps these remarks by Senator J.

William Fulbright will help us understand more fully Mr. Goldwater's stand on the issue of co-existence: "He is absolutely clear in his conviction that co-existence is craven, cowardly, and un-American." It is, in fact, a Communist idea, based on Khrushchev's apparent confidence that if the two sides engage in peaceful competition for the allegiance of mankind, his side will win. For an American to favor co-existence, he would have to believe that democracy is far stronger than communism . . . that a free society can create a far better life for the individual than a totalitarian society . . . Of this heresy no one can accuse the junior Senator from Arizona. He has stated unequivocally that he favors 'boldness and courage and determination over craven co-existence.'

Given the present nuclear capabilities of both the United States and the Soviet Union, it would seem that the only alternative to co-existence is a "bold" and "courageous" policy of coannihilation. We are not yet certain that this is Sen. Goldwater's approach, since he has merely contented himself with attacking our present foreign policy rather than making any proposals of his own. However, his recent pronouncement that we should send the Marines into Cuba to turn on the water would seem to indicate that the preceding analysis is essentially correct.

Perhaps the spokesman for Nevadans for Rockefeller was correct when she stated that she was happy that Mr. Goldwater had come to Nevada, because the more people heard his views, the greater Rockefeller's support would be. Judging by student reaction to Mr. Goldwater's appearance, her appraisal was accurate, for it is hardly conceivable that he will be able to maintain his support by trying to convince rational people to accept the views he espouses.

A demoralized team is a demoralizing thing to behold. Napoleon said it, and it can be said again. To win victory, morale is to material as three is to one.

There are teams in this league that suffer such a problem. Nevada's basketball squad is not one of them. Earlier in the year Coach Spencer's cagers were on the edge of an unpromising season that depended heavily on one man, the Dipper.

This morning they share the Far Western Conference championship and at the risk of being terribly trite, they've done it on heart, guts and pure teamwork. Tonight should be a forgettable experience for Cal State . . .

BOUQUETS AND FLOWERY TOASTS; In Chico last week, school spirit ran high among Nevada visitors and overflowed a couple of times. In order to beat back the Nevadans, the Chico student body mustered its best representation. Unfortunately, Chico State is overfemaled, and fems just don't make that good scrappers . . . or was it just the fact the Chicoites couldn't muster anyone else . . . ?

Sometimes up, sometimes down, the U of N's elan and enthusiasm gathered itself together a few days early under Dick Pinion's urging, and helped send a telegram to the squad before the game. It was signed by over 300 students which you'll have to admit definitely classifies Nevada as back "up" . . .

Why don't I get a note like that before I sit down to write this column . . . I need the support as much as anybody . . .

BEAU GESTE—When you finally get a winner it seems they run in streaks.

Just after loosing to Sierra College by a single point in our own Winter Carnival Ski competition, members of our team were itching for another crack at the Sierra squad. Before they left for the 30 team Bend, Oregon, meet they claimed, "we'll wipe 'em out." I'll take 'em at their word in the future. Will you . . . ?

IN ONE EAR: Co-eds here seem to get their due in a number of ways: Broken legs from the ski hill are common but check this out . . . have you seen that creaking, wobbling, hunched over figure in the TUB playing cards each morn? Grandma Moses? No-o-o-o-o-o-o, just Judy Norcott after re-entry to the ground floor from the upper limits via a high speed bannister rail . . .

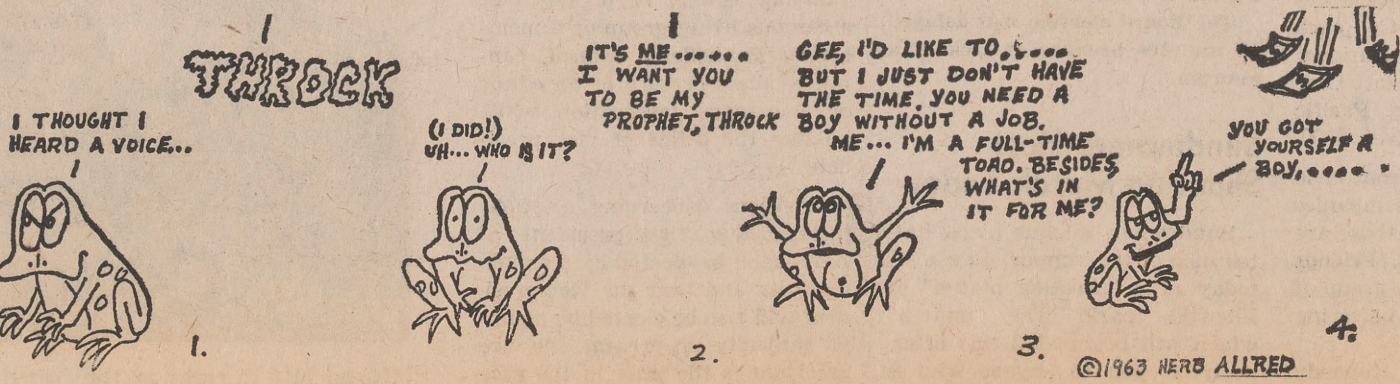

AND OUT THE OTHER: The Thetas are back in their old habit of drowsing in-seems a little cold for that sort of thing . . . But then I don't get near their house anymore. How about you? I'm sorta banned there. The Thetas are afraid I might find out that they botched up a trophy raid on the Sigma Nu house the other eve. But I know nothing—well, almost nothing . . .

WHAT'S black and white on the outside and fuzzy on the inside?

Struve—Generalities

Editor, The Sagebrush,

I see Mr. Larry Struve has been working late and putting his fertile brain to good use. This is a reference of course to that masterpiece of political insight which appeared in the last issue of the Forum.

Besides quoting such clap-trap as "it is almost certain that in the next war, civilized society as we know it will be exterminated", he would tell us with extraordinary audacity that the solution to our present "dilemma" is to accept "change".

After uttering these daring proposals, he makes a favorable comment about our late president, which would seem to imply that President Johnson is not going about defeating communism as well as Mr. Kennedy.

Yes, Mr. Struve, Toynbee certainly had the key to bettering America's position. But then one would not expect you to have any original ideas. Still, lack of originality is all too common and I would forgive you that . . . if you could write clear concise English.

Generalities go well with politics, not however, with poor politicians. Do let Mr. Skorpen read your next proposal to bring Heaven to earth, as I'm sure he could add a few vagaries of his own.

YR Supports Petition

Editor, the Sagebrush:

The University of Nevada Young Republicans support the petition which is currently being circulated on the University campus to revise the present student Constitution. We feel that more direct student control is needed over the actions of the Student Union Board, by the general student body.

We urge all students to consider carefully the petition that is now in circulation, and urge all interested students to sign and give active support to the proposals contained therein.

U of N YOUNG REPUBLICANS
VERN MANKE, PRESIDENT
LAURENCE SEMENZA, SECRETREAS.

Thanks Blue Key

Editor, the Sagebrush:

The technical success of Senator Goldwater's lecture and the Brothers Four concert involved the efficient performances of the usual student and staff group, who, to avoid repetition wearing out the meaning, will be thanked in person.

But one group in particular did an outstanding job, and deserves singular congratulations for it. The men of Blue Key undertook the complete ushering job for Goldwater, and oversaw the capable ushering done by Sagers for the Brothers Four.

Mike Griffin coordinated the planning and work for the two events — to him and the service group the Union Board would like to say thanks!

Commend Goldwater

Editor, the Sagebrush:

At the risk of being referred to as one of those dread birchers, fanatical nuts, lunatics, war mongers, or what have you; I would like to commend Senator Goldwater for his stand on Communism.

For even though the Senator did not graduate from a university, he seems quite capable of glancing at a map and realizing that we are not winning the war. The Senator raises the question, "why not victory?" I wonder?

Perhaps Senator Goldwater became alarmed with Communism because of Cuba, or the Congo, or Cyprus, or East Berlin, or Czechoslovakia, or Hungary, or Laos, or Vietnam, or Bulgaria, or Romania, or Cambodia, or Panama, or Indonesia; or then again, perhaps the Senator is alarmed because of all these countries and several other factors not mentioned. In any event he is willing to see Communism as what it is and take the steps necessary to defeat it.

May I recommend, to you Mr. Editor, and to some of your readers, that you invest in some of Senator Goldwater's books. They are being offered for sale in the University Book Store; and who knows, maybe they will enlighten you as to how this "fanatical nut" really thinks.

Condemn Hueftle

Editor, the Sagebrush:

There is nothing more repulsive than a half informed person. Their ability to distort the facts is greater than that of a well educated person. We are quite surprised that the Editor of our paper would permit the Sagebrush to be used in such a way by this type of reporter.

First of all, The Sundowners do not have to prove themselves to anyone, especially to someone who is completely ignorant of the organization PAST or PRESENT. There is not a Sundowner now, nor anyone who has ever been a Sundowner, that will profess to be a "tough guy" or claim to be a thorn in the side of the administration. This fact can be proved by people such as Dean Basta, Dean of Students, Dr. Elliot of the History Department, Dr. Gottardi of the Language Department, or Jake Lawlor of the Athletic Department, as they were some of the original members.

You may ask Dave Nyquist, past president, now studying for his Ph.D. or Bill Daniels, a past president, who is now doing graduate work, these are some of the more recent members.

The Sundowners are not on this campus, nor did we become recognized, for the benefit of the Student Body. We became recognized for various reasons, none of which you, Miss Hueftle, know anything about. As for drinking, you may draw your own opinion but we, as well as anyone else, have the right to compete for grades.

We are not here to throw parties for people like you, Miss Hueftle, who probably hasn't the ability to mix socially. We have our gatherings in private and invite people who we want to attend.

Our socials in Idlewild Park will resume in the Spring and we welcome all students over 21 to attend these socials, including you Miss Hueftle. Our dances are held on campus for the convenience of those students who live on campus, as they have the right to attend our functions as anyone else. So be careful what you say Miss Hueftle as you may be mocking the whole Student Body.

As for the party of which you made reference to, the one in Sun Valley last year, even we, as Sundowners are not too proud of that. I doubt if any student would even want to attend such a function again except maybe Miss Hueftle. In fact, a number of Sundowners were almost thrown out of school for that episode.

In closing we "the Sundowners" would like to invite That Tough Old Sundowner who gave you, your misguided information to attend our Mackay Day Election on Peavine Mountain. Also to you, Miss Hueftle, we say this: Keep your half informed mouth shut, before you make a complete fool of yourself, that is, if you haven't already.

Next Trip Skiers May Need Siphon

by HAMPTON YOUNG
Staff Writer

To the Nevada ski team, the long trek back from Oregon almost proved to be a second "Donner Party" trip. With the two University carry-alls laden with trophies, skis, poles, boots, and weary skiers, the team found itself stranded in the Nevada wilds with one vehicle out of gas.

The troopers had gassed up once in Klamath Falls, Oregon. After successfully negotiating miles of asphalt, deftly dodging wandering deer, Coach Shelly Leonard ordered another necessary pit stop in Susanville, California.

Alas, the fates were not our stalwart heroes, for among them they had only two credit cards. Neither of which were honored by any service station in Susanville.

Shelly put a "bucks-worth" in each limousine, hoping to make Reno. Confidently they proceeded to Hallelujah, Nevada where one vehicle sputtered to a stop. The team futilely searched among the sagebrush, rabbits, and one store for a gasoline pump.

Three brave men, Jim Acheson, Gary McCoy, and Arne Nossom, guarded the skis, while the rest of the group went back to the stateline for gas. "It was a cold, dismal affair," commented Acheson.

At Stateline Lane Monroe telephoned his father to rescue the distraught team. At the ridiculous hour of 4 a. m. the victorious skiers meandered into sleeping Reno.

It has been suggested that the University requisition a couple of five-gallon gas cans and a siphon hose to the ski team.

Just Like Senate

Publications Board Forgets About 'Roberts Rules'

In a true to form marathon meeting, the Publications Board met Tuesday to hear reports and pass on motions. The Board, as the senate last week, paid little attention to parliamentary procedure.

ASUN President Jim Acheson conducted the meeting because Chairman Larry Struve was ill. He stepped down once to participate in discussion although he had done so from the chair.

HEATED ARGUMENT

The disregard for parliamentary procedure resulted in a somewhat heated argument between Fianna Beeghley, ASUN secretary and Pat Rogero, Sagebrush editor. Miss Rogero requested that a section in the ASUN by-laws which allots $75 for the Artemisia and Sagebrush for maintenance of staff standards be explained. Miss Rogero asked if it meant a split in the allocation or $75 for each publication.

Miss Beeghley said the staff standards clause would need executive committee interpretation. Acheson, chairman of executive committee, said it would not. Miss Beeghley argued that when the request came before Finance Control Board for consideration, interpretation would be requested. Miss Rogero noted that no one had bothered about helping with staff standards yet this year and it was odd that they would start now.

MOTIONS PASSED

Motions passed were: election of Dr. Erling Skorpen, philosophy, as "Forum" advisor; a directive to the "Brushfire" editor and business manager to attend and give reports at Publications Board meetings; a directive to the chairman to send agendas with announcement of Publications meetings; and $150 Sagebrush-Artemisia request.

The Board also appointed a committee to draft a policy for the Sagebrush. Bill Pollard, Larry Struve, Carole Hueftle, and Miss Rogero were appointed to the committee.

Nobody Knows Charged Student

Nobody knows Richard Sutton Shultz. The 22-year-old student is a registered student at the University and is now being held in the Washoe County jail on charges of possession and sale of narcotics and barbiturates.

According to the student director, he was living in Lincoln Hall at the beginning of last semester. But Lincoln Hall has no record of Shultz ever being there and nobody there remembers him.

Richard Harper, 23, a downtown stock clerk, is reported to have been Shultz's roommate at a 2080 Market Street address. He is also being held on the narcotics charge.

Both were booked February 18 by Reno policemen who found about one-fourth pound of marijuana and over 1,000 phenobarbital tablets hidden in their home. Equipment used in the administration of narcotic drugs was also found.

The Junior ROTC (MS III) students received their tetanus, typhoid, and small pox vaccinations last Wednesday, Feb. 19. Instead of the oral polio vaccine, the cadets got theirs

Leap Year Day Tomorrow; Bachelors Run From Maidens

By LINDA CHAMBERS
Assistant Editor

This is Leap Year. Tomorrow is Leap Day. This is a year when maidens' unclaimed hearts flutter hopefully as bachelors run for the nearest "Men Only" sign.

Some will celebrate their first birthday since 1960 and all of us will get an extra day's worth of our February rent and mortgage checks.

The original purpose of the extra day in February was to keep the calendar in jive with the seasons. The earth goes around the sun in an inexact 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. If each year had the same number of days we would eventually have blizzards in August.

Julius Caesar, who didn't fancy snow in summer, established the regular 12-month, 365-day year with an extra day in February every four years. It has been this way since 46 B. C.

Every Leap Year is also an election year. If feminine dominance and aggressiveness of the extra-day-laden year still hold from Queen Margaret's time, Senator Margaret Chase Smith may have a chance at the U. S. presidency.

Wine Is Topic Of Tuesday Talk

"Wine, its Uses and Abuses" will be related to the University community next Tuesday night in a speech by a leading authority on wine in the United States.

Maynard Amerine, professor of enology (study of wine making) at the University of California at Davis, will speak in the Travis Lounge at 8, sponsored by the Student Union Board.

"Professor Amerine is largely responsible for the growth and quality of California wine," said Bob Kersey, director of student services.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES

SALUTE: JOE FRASE

Joe Frase (B.S.E.E., 1959) has been responsible for providing transmission recommendations for all telephone carrier and toll terminating equipment installations in the San Diego division of Pacific Telephone. Quite a big job for a young engineer.

Joe finds his work stimulating because of the personal rewards of seeing many of his ideas put into use. The latitude of responsibility gives him ample opportunities to express himself and prove his capabilities.

Obviously Joe's talents have been recognized. He has completed a number of other special assignments, and while on one job he even attended a four-month course in communications at the University of California.

He was recently promoted to Senior Engineer in charge of the Direct Distance Dialing improvement program.

Joe Frase, like many other young engineers, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.

Center Approved For West Probe

by SUSAN ANDERSON

A probe into the development of Nevada and the West will soon be conducted on the Reno campus of the University.

President Charles J. Armstrong recently announced the approval of the University Board of Regents for the creation of a Center for Western North American studies. The Center will work to discover, gather and study materials concerning the social, economic, and historical development of Nevada, the Great Basin Region and the west.

The probe will be conducted by University students studying anthropology, history, linguistics, sociology, economics, folklore, political science and western literature.

The project is being financed in part by an $18,000 grant from the Board of Regents and $6,000 from the Desert Research Institute's committees for research planning.

In conjunction with the Center's activities, the Noble Getchell library is working to develop facilities for the proper care of rare documents, journals, diaries, maps, old records and other material to be gathered. An extensive microfilm collection of otherwise unavailable materials is also being developed.

President Armstrong said "Up to this time no center for North American Studies has been developed in any of the universities of the intermountain states. Organization of such a program on the University of Nevada campus will significantly develop our special aptitudes and unique resources in this important research area."

Peace Corps Team On Campus To Scout For Members

A Peace Corps team from Washington, D. C. is scheduled to visit the University of Nevada from March 2 through 7.

The purpose of the visit is to interpret a record number of opportunities for service in the Peace Corps, as well as to supply general information to students and faculty, a Peace Corps official said.

Plans are made to set up a Peace Corps Information Center at the Student Union Lounge on campus. The Center will be manned daily by Peace Corps staff members from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Any organization, class or club wanting to have a Peace Corps representative speak and answer questions, may make arrangements by calling Mr. William Rasmussen, FA3-2081, Ext. 284, as early as possible.

While this special information effort is primarily for college upper-classmen and graduate students, it is also aimed to provide general information to all interested persons in the community. The Peace Corps plans to train approximately 5,000 Volunteers this summer to serve in Africa, Asia, and Latin America.

The new Peace Corps film "A Mission of Discovery" will be shown several times during the team's visit.

Mr. James E. Gibson, Assistant Director of Recruiting for the Peace Corps, will address the student body at an assembly to be held today at 1 p.m. in Travis Lounge, Jot Travis Union. He will speak on opportunities in the Peace Corps.

With resources totaling more than $4,500,000,000 and more than 300 banking locations in Southern California, Security National Bank is the seventh largest in the country and the second in number of branches.

Women's Army Corps Recruiter To Be On Campus March 2

Nevada Looks To Title This Weekend

MIKE OLIVAS

Wolf Pack Hosts Cal State, SF State In Reno Matches

The University of Nevada basketball team can sew up the Far Western Conference title with one victory in this weekend's contests. The Wolves have a 9-1 mark compared to second place Chico's 8-3 record.

The Wolf Pack takes on two of the roughest squads in the league in California State and San Francisco State. Both teams are tied for third in the FWC with 5-5 records.

The Pioneers from Hayward invade Reno tonight. Cal State has a trio of fine performers in Alvin McDaniels, Roy Sipp, and Bob Rodgers. McDaniels is the brother of Nevada football and track star Alfred McDaniels.

Cal State nearly beat the Silver and Blue in their previous contest. Nevada won by one point, 64-63. Sipp and McDaniels gave the Wolves a tough time, scoring 16 and 14 points respectively.

The Hayward team will also depend on Bob Wonder and Pat Wennihan for their scoring punch.

HOT GATORS IN RENO

Saturday night the Pack will host the rejuvenated San Francisco St. Golden Gators. The Gators have won five out of their last seven FWC games.

S. F. State is the only conference team to defeat the Wolf Pack this season. The Gators turned the trick two months ago in the Bay Area by downing the Pack 64-61.

The Golden Gators lost two FWC games by one point when they were minus their ace scorer, Brad Duggan. Duggan averaged 17 a game in league play last season and this year he is hitting 14 a game. The 6-5 Duggan is also a rugged rebounder.

The Bay Area squad also has another high scorer in Gary Chiotti, who was also a star football player for the Gators. In one league game this season he poured in 32 points.

Mike Ryan (6-7) and Mahlon Harmon (6-5) give State a potent rebounding duo.

At guards S. F. State has Dave Roberts and Bill Nocetti.

NICHOLSON LEADS PACK

Nevada's Bill Nicholson continues to lead his team in FWC scoring with a 16.0 average. The big center dumped in 37 markers in last weekend's games.

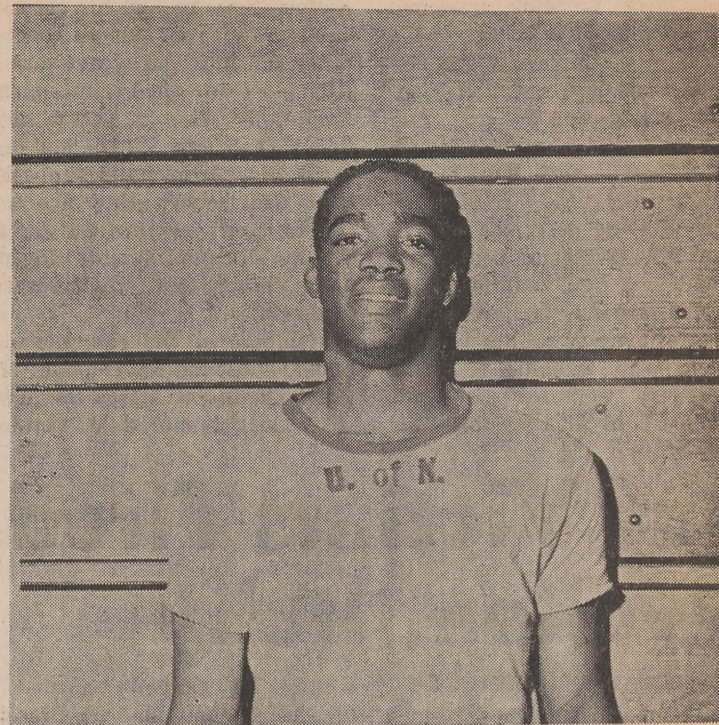

Guard Bob Donlan is not far behind Nicholson in scoring with a 14.9 average in league action. Harlan Heward, Mike Olivas, and Nap Montgomery are also hitting in double figures in FWC games.

The Pack has a team conference average of 76 per game while their opponents' average is only 60 a game.

Fresno State Will Host District Regionals

If Nevada wins the Far Western Conference championship they will travel to Fresno for the 1964 NCCA small college regionals. The tournament will be held March 6-7.

Four colleges will be entered in the district eight championships. Fresno State College, Seattle-Pacific, Cal Poly, (Pomona), and the winner of the FWC will vie for the title.

NAP MONTGOMERY

Jumping Forward Nap Montgomery is a top rebounder for the Wolf Pack five. He is only 6-2 but he can clear the boards better than many bigger men.

Last season Montgomery played Frosh ball and averaged 10.8 a game. This year for the varsity he is hitting better than 11 a game.

Nap scores many of his points on an unorthodox jump shot and seems to throw himself backwards before he lets go of the ball. He also has good moves in close and scores many points this way.

Trackmen, Baseballers Anticipate Busy Season

University of Nevada's spring sports athletes are working at a fast pace so they will be ready when their seasons begin.

Nevada trackmen are running time trials this week in an effort to sharpen up for their March 7 appearance in the Cal Aggie Relays at Davis.

For the first time in many a season, the cindermen are getting a break in the weather. Last season at this time snow covered the track.

Nine meets are on the 1964 schedule, not including the conference championships. Four dual meets are in Reno: Cal Aggies, March 14; Southern Oregon, March 26; Chico State, April 11; Sacramento State, April 25.

Time trials began yesterday and will continue through tomorrow. Although the squad isn't nearly as "loaded" as in recent years, the members have been able to practice effectively because of the favorable weather.

All signs point to a rebuilding year for the Floyd Edsall-coached Nevadans, who have won the league championship for the last four years.

The baseball team has also been working hard for the coming season, which opens March 7 in Reno against the Philadelphia Phillies rookies.

Twenty-nine contests are on tap for the Nevada nine, including a game with the Reno Silver Sox.

Baseball mentor Bill Ireland notes that this year's squad has more depth, particularly in pitching, than in recent years. However, Ireland will have to count on good performances from some of his highly-rated freshmen to insure this depth.

The frosh baseballers have three games scheduled for the coming season.

Indie Teams Lead In Intramurals

The Independent No. 3 and No. 4 squads maintained their leads in the intramural basketball leagues. The Indies No. 3 team are in first in the American League and the GDI No. 4 team is ahead in the National League.

A three way tie exists in the International League.

In last week's action Phi Sigma Kappa was edged by the Indies No. 4 squad, 41-39. Lambda Chi trounced Theta Chi, 23-10, in a low scoring contest and the Independents No. 3 team blasted the ATO's No. 1, 53-34, in a big upset.

Other intramural scores were: Independents No. 1—38, Sigma Nu No. 1—29; ATO No. 2—49, Lambda Chi No. 2—30; and Kappa Kappa Psi 34, Sigma Nu No. 2—23.

Six Wolf Pack Athletes Honored At Sports Dinner

Six Wolf Pack athletes were honored at the annual Sierra Nevada Sports Writers and Broadcasters banquet, at the Sparks Nugget Sunday.

The late Jack Tighe, a former intramural director at Nevada, was given special recognition at the dinner. Dr. Art Broten of the University of Nevada Physical Education Department accepted the award on behalf of Tighe.

Nevada athletes who were awarded "athlete of the month" certificates were: Bill Robinson, Fred Fralick, Bud Forman, Gary McCoy, Dave Stix, and Allan Crawford.

Robinson was a star basketball player at Nevada before he became ineligible. Fralick and Forman were two of last year's standouts on the track team. Forman ran the 880 in 153.9 while Fralick did the 100 on 9.6.

McCoy starred in skiing at Mammoth Mountain, and is now competing for the Nevada squad. Stix is one of the Pack's top boxers. Last season he was conference champion. Crawford was the Wolf Pack's ace quarterback in football last season, completing 67 out of 128 passes.

Stanford track coach Payton Jordan was the main speaker at the banquet.

10 Teams Entered In Rifle Match

The 9th Annual Nevada Invitational Intercollegiate Small-bore Rifle Match will be held at the University of Nevada Rifle Range March 13 and 14.

Ten teams will be competing for the First Place Revolving Trophy, won last year by the University of California at Berkeley. The Revolving Trophy is a 155mm artillery shell casing first presented at the Nevada Invitational held in 1955.

The schools planning to attend are: University of California at Berkeley, Davis and Santa Barbara, Utah State University at Logan, Montana State College at Bozeman, Arizona State University, Tempe, University of Arizona, Tucson, San Jose State, and the University of San Francisco. The Arizona State team is rated nationally as the second intercollegiate team by the National Rifle Association.

There will be two special matches, a 40-shot prone match and a special match.

The officials for the match are: Bill Block, range officer, Jerry Casale, Ken Block, and Pete Olsen, statistical officers. The officials are all members of the Silver Sage Rifle Club in Reno.

M/Sgt. Robert H. Maxey, coach for the Nevada Squad, said although it has been nine years since Nevada has won the match, he feels this year's team has a good chance to win.

Mat Men Travel To San Francisco

Nevada's two-man wrestling team will travel to San Francisco State tomorrow for the Far Western Championships.

John Rodgers, 147 pounds, and Bob Frost, 137-pounder, will accompany Coach Lee Newell to the tourney.

The Pack matmen have only had one meet so far this season, and were forced to cancel another one when they couldn't muster enough wrestlers.

'VOLPONE' OPENS IN THEATER WEDNESDAY

"Volpone", Ben Johnson's satirical farce, is being presented by the University Theatre as a part of the University of Nevada's Shakespeare Quadri-Centennial celebration.

The play will be staged March 4, 5, 6, and 7 at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts theater.

The plot, as described by Director Robert Strane, centers on Volpone as a rich Venetian grandee who pretends to be dying in order to attract to his bedside persons who attempt to bribe heirs.

Wearying of his three-year-old performance, he and his parasite valet, Mosca, set out to concoct other schemes and weave audacious plots for their amusement. Bug Victims Tired, Swollen, Itchy

by MIMI SKILLICORN
Feature Editor

Measles—the most hated word on campus this week has left most of its victims feeling itchy, swollen or just plain tired.

Joyce Cobb, a resident assistant at Manzanita Hall, who just shed her red spot said her main complaint was her "aching eyes". Besides feeling miserable all over Miss Cobb said "my eyes hurt, I had a headache, sore throat and I itched all over". She added however that she had a nice stay in the infirmary and that the dining commons food tasted better because the nurses arranged it so nicely on a tray.

Pat Precissi, a freshman member of Pi Beta Phi hated the measles most because she "just couldn't stay in bed." She said, "The worst thing about the measles was that I couldn't do anything. I'm the type of person that hates to stay in bed." Miss Precissi also complained of cold like symptoms, a sore throat and hot and cold flashes. She added that having the measles embarrassed her because "It's such a juvenile disease. If I had had the flu or pneumonia it would't have been so humiliating."

Sagers Elect New Officers

Gary Roberts, a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, was elected president of Sagers, the underclassmen's service organization, at its Tuesday night meeting. He replaces Dave Gardiner, also of Sigma Nu.

Rich Starkweather, Lambda Chi Alpha, was elected vice-president; Jim Quirk, Alpha Tau Omega, secretary; Ron Galloway, Sigma Nu, treasurer, and Jack Raycraft, Alpha Tau Omega, sergeant -a-arms. They replaced Ted Zaehring, Charlie Steiner, Tony Oxborrow, and Ron Bath respectively.

The newly elected board of directors is Roy Pike, Joe Beloso, John Hancock, and Mike Jackson. They replace John Gasque, Hank Williams, Joel Tew, and Doug Lohse.

Jinx Dabney, Blue Key adviser to Sagers, announced to all second sophomore members the procedures followed by Blue Key during the selection of new members.

SAE De Cullom reported a sore throat and the ever present itchininess and said the isolation in the infirmary really bored him. He said, "I only spent a day and a half in the infirmary but I have freckles so I cheated a little to get out."

Another stricken SAE Allen Craigmire said "the measles didn't bother me too much but I hated staying in bed."

Bud Olson, student union vice-president, said he had the "whole works" that go with the measles but that he didn't feel too sick. His seizure lasted only one day and caused him to miss only one class.

Mud's Future Is Clearing; Draining Possible Soon

"Operation Mud's" future is clearing. After four years of planning and negotiating with a local contracting firm, the Blue Key men are looking for an alternative.

The service group has raised over $4,000 for the project from donations received during registrations since 1960. They bargained with the contractors to clean Manzanita Lake at cost, when they had time.

The only idle time the workers had was last spring when the two irrigation ditches that run into the lake were full and flowing. The pumping was to no avail.

They couldn't dam the ditches up because the farmers would be angered, and they couldn't drain the lake as long as the irrigation water was running through. What to do?

Blue Key had planned to have it done during the winter when the farmers didn't irrigate and
