Resolution Fights Coach's Removal

By MIKE SLOAN
Political Editor

The ASUN senate voted to ask Dr. Art Broten to reconsider his recommendation to replace University of Nevada ski coach Chelton Leonard.

The move was taken Wednesday night when the senate adopted a resolution introduced by the four senators-at-large commending Leonard for his past performances both as ski coach and as Winter Carnival director and suggesting that Broten re-examine Leonard's replacement.

Broten had recommended that George Twardokens, full time physical education staff member, replace Leonard next year. The proposed change is based on the University policy of shifting to full time staff members in teaching and coaching positions.

Leonard became ski coach at the University in 1953. In 1958 he was named Coach of the Year by the West Coast Sports Writers Association. He served as executive director of the National Ski Association in Denver from 1960 to 1962 and returned to the University in 1963.

SENATORS RESOLVE

The senate resolution, which was adopted by a vote of 17 to 6, stated in part "that the Senate of the Associated Students of the University of Nevada commends Chelton Leonard for his past work on behalf of the University."

It continued, "the senate recommends to the chairman of the department of health, physical education and recreation that he reconsider his recommendation to replace Mr. Leonard as ski coach at the University."

Dr. Broten appeared at the senate meeting to explain the move and to answer the questions of the senators.

He had no comment on the suggestion that several members of the ski team had indicated that they would not ski next year if Leonard was replaced.

TEAM REACTIONS

In response to a question as to whether or not he had considered the reaction of the members of the ski team, Broten said, "No, I'll confess that I've talked to only one member of the team."

Broten blamed the move on the policy of having only full time staff coaches. "It is an absolute impossibility" he said "to bring Leonard into the department as a fulltime staff member."

'Godot' Ends Play Season

The last campus play of the semester will be staged tonight and tomorrow night in the Fine Arts Theatre. "Waiting for Godot", by Samuel Beckett has been running since Wednesday night.

Produced by the drama department, the play is about a man's search to reach his fellow man, and the characters' attempt to prove that they exist.

The stage is occupied by two ex-music hall tramps who wait day after day for a person named Godot, who never arrives. The tramps, Vladimir and Estragon, represent humanity in the sense that everyone is waiting or looking for something or someone.

Playing the tramps are Mike Keenan as Estragon and Allan Crawford as Vladimir. Other cast members are Maurice Beesley, Pozzo; Jim Heron, Godot's messenger boy; and Michael Thompson, Lucky. Robert Ware is directing sets and lighting.

The anti-literary approach to the theatre after World War II is typified in the play. The sparse staccato dialogue and illogical sequences come from Beckett's obsession with the impossibility of human communication.

The play starts at 8 each evening and seats may be reserved at the box office in the Fine Arts building. General admission is $1.25 and students are admitted free.

1964 Brushfire Available Today

1964 Brushfire, the campus literary magazine, will make its debut on campus today. Sagers and Spurs will pass out the new issue at noon in front of the Student Union.

The 32-page booklet boasts a new format measuring 9 x 12 inches, with the advertising placed in a special tear-out section in the middle. The "burning brush" cover unfolds more pictures than before and a lot of poetry.

Editor for this year's magazine was Pat Brassfield. Judy Garwood handled the assistant editor's duties.

"We are hoping that this year's Brushfire will reach a larger audience . . . the material should be of interest to most of the student body," said Miss Garwood.

With this issue out, the Brushfire is looking for staff members, especially a business manager, to work on next year's edition. All material collected for this year will be thrown out at the end of next week if it is not claimed, said Miss Garwood.

Solons Elect New Justices At Last Meet

In its last meeting of the year, the ASUN elected three new Student Judicial Council justices and again delayed approval of the proposed new constitution.

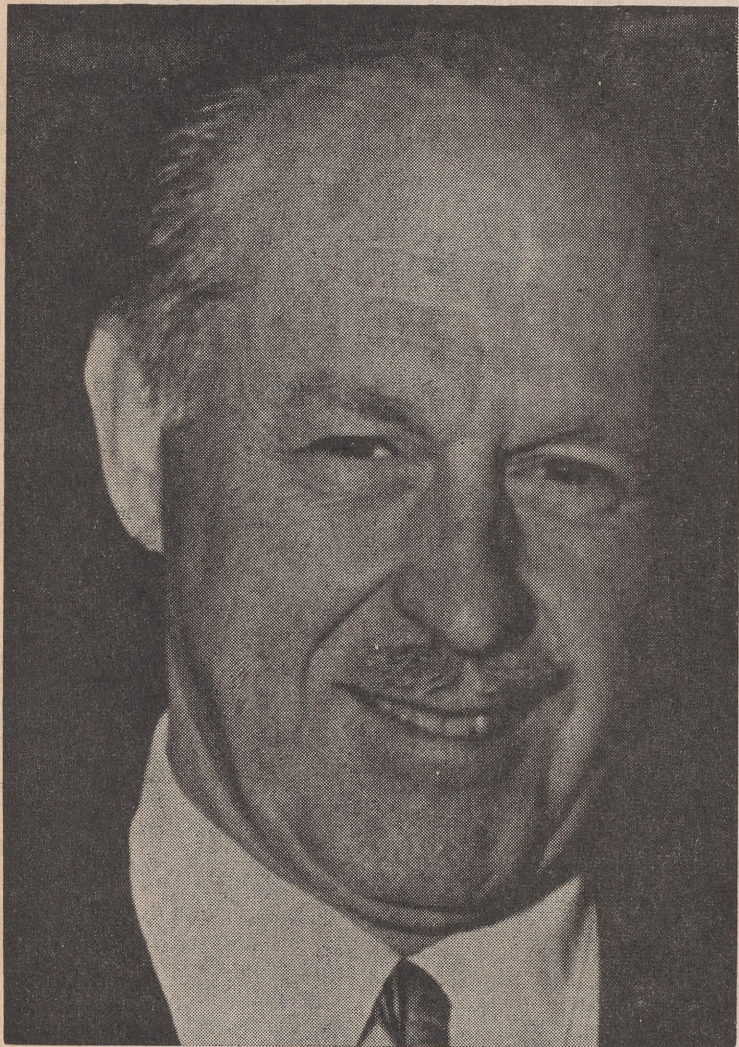

The three new justices are Annette Domina, junior; Joe Mayer, also a junior, and sophomore Keith Stephens. They will officially take office next semester.

The much discussed and little seen constitution was presented to the senate after it had spent several weeks in the hands of the steering committee. The senators discovered that many important sections had been deleted without being added to the new by-laws and tabled the whole constitution until next year.

The new by-laws will be studied and revised at the ASUN Leadership conference May 26 and 27.

The senate also deleted a section from the present by-laws requiring senators-at-large and living group senators to post an attendance bond of $5.

Other senate business included the final reports of the year from Jinks Dabney, ASUN first vice president, and Judy Morrison, ASUN second vice president.

Washington Writer Speaks On Campus

Widely known newsman Drew Pearson tells what it's like to be "Behind the Scenes With Johnson and Khrushchev" tonight at 8 in the Education Auditorium.

Pearson, author of the nationally syndicated column "Washington Merry-Go-Round," is also known for several books, and radio, film and television work.

An avid crusader, he has been called "a scourge" to the Democratic Party under Presidents Roosevelt and Tuman, and to the Republicans under Presidents Coolidge, Hoover and Eisenhower.

PUBLICLY CASTIGATED

He is said to have attained the distinction of being "almost the only reporter the White House publicly castigated in violent language" by or under those presidents.

Pearson's best-known single "expose" was a "running battle" with Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, which culminated in a Senate hearing into charges against McCarthy and finally a vote of censure by the Senate, which ended in McCarthy's loss of power and prestige.

The controversial columnist went to Moscow in 1961 to talk with Khrushchev and spent two days at his summer home on the Black Sea, discussing U. S. - Soviet problems.

He wrote a series of columns about this interview that received front-page play in newspapers in the rest of the world as well as the United States.

ALSO AN AUTHOR

Pearson is the co-author of several books, including "Washington Merry-Go-Round," "More Merry-Go-Round," and "Nine Old Men."

In 1958, with Jack Anderson, he wrote "U. S. A. - Second Class Power?" It tells the story of why and how the United States was then losing the race with Russia in developing guided missiles and space satellites.

"Time" Magazine has written of him: "His is the kind of journalistic vigilance that keeps small men honest, and forces bigger men to work in an atmosphere of caution that frequently cramps their style."

Senate Speaks Up For Leonard

The ASUN senate is not in the habit of telling the administration who to fire and who to hire. In fact it's a rare day indeed when the senate really gets fired up over anything.

In recent years the student body has never once officially protested the decisions of the administration regarding the faculty.

In the case of "Shelly" Leonard the story is different. For to the student body and its representatives in the ASUN senate, "Shelly" is different. Not only has he done an outstanding job in coaching the ski team but he has also built the annual Winter Carnival into the largest ski meet on the West Coast.

More importantly, "Shelly" has won the confidence and admiration of the student body. He has proven his dedication to the University and has given a great deal of time and effort to helping improve it.

The senate Wednesday night did the only thing it could do. It stood up for a friend of Nevada; it let the administration know that it didn't like the idea of replacing a man who had served well for eleven years because someone has decided he couldn't meet the requirements for the post.

In the end, "Shelly" may or may not be replaced, but at least the ASUN has shown the administration the feeling of the student body, and has done its best to help an old friend.

PSPA Conference "Disappointing"

ASUN President Keith Lee and Jinks Dabney, ASUN first vice president, returned from the Pacific Students-Presidents Association meeting in Scottsdale, Arizona, Saturday and described the conference as "disappointing."

"The meeting was a waste of time, primarily because the whole program was concerned with a study of group dynamics, rather than with the real problems of student government," said Dabney.

The conference, which began last Wednesday, was attended by approximately 150 student leaders from major western campuses, and is an annual affair.

- Dead Week

After several weeks inactivity, the Yellow Kid has decided to once again write his own column. My decision can be attributed to the fine work of the guest columnists who filled in for me. They turned out such nauseating copy that I felt obligated to return. I now whole-heartedly believe that the women's place is in the home and not in the newspaper, or for that matter student government.

The new Student Union constitution should receive the support of two-thirds of the students voting today. The changes in it make the Board more democratic and still maintain the merits of the old constitution.

Paul Weir, ATO, does not plan to run for ASUN president next year, as previously reported in this column. That makes sense when you figure that he's a junior now. Oh well, at least my guest columnist spelled his name right.

The power elite, minus a few, met over the week-end at a party at Dave Cooper's. The minutes of the meeting have been destroyed however, so no one knows for sure what happened.

Clark Santini's appearance at the Mackay day luncheon was usual in one respect. Clark, who is noted for his long orations, spoke so fast that few people could understand him. No harm done.

Santini has been nominated by the Sagebrush staff to represent the University at the Indianapolis 500 next year. The kid is really a wild driver.

Mackay day week-end is always conducive to political discussions, and I'm sure that many far reaching decisions and plans were made. The Yellow Kid, however, was unable to keep up with them all, due to the weather, etc.

Jinks Dabney, ASUN first vice president, is seriously studying the idea of purchasing a printing press for the student body. Savings in printing costs for the Sagebrush and other campus publications under such a plan would be tremendous.

Letters To The Editor

Commends Leonard

Editor, the Sagebrush:

The possible loss of Chelton Leonard as ski coach and Winter Carnival director would prove a severe blow to the University. He has continually turned out top ski teams and has very ably directed the biggest ski tournament on the West coast.

The passing by senate of the resolution asking the department of physical education to reconsider its action is a prime example of student concern.

Student feeling in this area is quite evident and well defined. I feel that such concern deserves serious attention and consideration.

KEITH LEE
ASUN President

Dabney On "Shelly"

Editor, the Sagebrush:

Since 1953, when Chelton Leonard became University of Nevada ski coach, there has been a marked improvement in the Nevada ski program.

As 1964 Winter Carnival chairman, I had the opportunity of being able to work with Mr. Leonard. Throughout the entire celebration I was never concerned about the possibility of a "mess-up" in the competition on the hill.

I have worked with him; I know he is an extremely capable ski coach; and I sincerely hope that the chairman of the department of health, physical education and recreation will reconsider his decision to replace him. VIRGENIUS (JINKS DABNEY)
ASUN First Vice President

Chairman Protests

Editor, the Sagebrush:

In view of the recent announcement that Chelton Leonard is to be replaced as the University of Nevada ski coach, I, as one of the many students to be affected by this change, would like the administration to examine the situation more closely.

Chelton has long been respected by the members of the ski team for his fine coaching and vast knowledge of the sport. During his career in skiing he has been one of the co-ordinators of the 1960 Winter Olympics and served as head gate keeper for that entire event. He has also held a position with the National Ski Association in Denver. He has been continually associated with the ski competition around the nation and is known to many ski coaches and racers for his fine abilities as a coach and race co-ordinator.

As far as his running of the Winter Carnival goes, there is really no comparison on the West Coast. Our carnival, with his generous help, has become the finest in the West. His experience with the Olympic committee and connections in the skiing world certainly have made their mark on the quality of our carnival.

I would like to see the persons responsible for his removal get the opinions of the people who will be most affected by his replacement. In these people I include the members of the ski team and the members of past and the forthcoming Winter Carnival Committee.

Sincerely,
ROGER CORNWALL
1965 Winter Carnival Chairman

Acheson Too

Editor, the Sagebrush,

I believe the Athletic Department of the University of Nevada should seriously reconsider its recommendation that Chelton Leonard Varsity Ski Coach, be replaced. Last year as 1963 Winter Carnival Chairman I had the opportunity of working very closely with Mr. Leonard on the ski meet side of Winter Carnival. It is mainly through his efforts that the Nevada Winter Carnival has become one of the most outstanding ski meets on the West Coast. In order to sponsor a ski meet the caliber of Nevada's Carnival, the connection Mr. Leonard has with skiers in this area and his years of experience in skiing are not merely helpful, but practically a prerequisite. I think the quality of Nevada's Winter Carnival will suffer seriously if Coach Leonard is removed from his position.

During two years of skiing for Nevada's Ski Team, I have found Mr. Leonard to be an inspiring coach. Through the years Nevada has had some outstanding teams under his leadership. He has been working in the past few months to bring some top high school skiers to Nevada next year.

Coach Leonard's removal would be a serious loss to the University of Nevada.

TUB Constitution Faces Voters

Voting on the proposed new Student Union Constitution will end today at noon. The election, which is being held in the main lobby of the Union building, started Wednesday.

First day voting was extremely light, according to Board President Dave Cooper. Cooper explained that the election dates had been changed from May 5 to 6, to May 6 through 8, due to a misunderstanding between the Board and ASUN election Board chairman Doug Neddenriep.

The new constitution would change the composition of the Board's membership by reducing the number of Directors from 18 to 12 and making one-half of the Board elected by the student body.

If approved by two-thirds of the students voting in the election, the new constitution will go into effect February 1, 1965.

ber. He simply does not meet the requirements."

Bhoten praised Leonard's performance as coach at the University and explained that he was "in the process of contacting other people in the physical education field to find Leonard a position at the college level."

Earlier in the day Dr. Ralph Irwin, Dean of the College of Arts & Science, who received Broten's recommendation, commented, "It should be kept in mind that it is the responsibility of each department to reach its own decision in light of particular educational needs. Frankly, I think the decision should be left with the athletic department."

LEONARD KNEW

He explained that the replacement was not a firing because Leonard had known about the plan since last summer.

Irwin also pointed out that there had "never been a plan for Leonard to become a full-time member of the staff. I had assumed that he was working on some other plans for future employment," Irwin said.

Leonard will complete work on his masters degree this summer. Student leaders raised the point to both Broten and Irwin, suggesting that Leonard could be made a permanent member of the staff having received it.

Both officials explained that the degree would not fill all of the requirements for such a position.

CARNIVAL CONCERN

The members of the senate were particularly concerned over how the move would affect the operation of Winter Carnival. Charles Murphy, junior men's senator-at-large reflected the opinion of the senate when he stated, "Mr. Leonard has made the Carnival into a tremendous event, the biggest ski meet on the West coast, I think the students have a right to be concerned about his dismissal."

Copies of the senate resolution were sent to Broten, Dr. Charles Armstrong, University president, the Board of Regents of the University and to the members of the Board of Intercollegiate Athletics at the University.

Five Women Are Honored

Five seniors from the Sarah Hamilton Fleischmann School of Home Economics were honored recently by the Nevada Home Economics Association.

Lynn Darrah, Ann Parkhurst, Joyce Burr, Sharon Tueller and Kay Kirn were presented for membership in the NHEA at the group's annual spring luncheon at the Riverside Hotel.

Dr. Marilyn J. Horn, associate director of the home economics school, presided over the installation ceremony.

Mrs. E. Roxie Howlett, account director and western manager of the home and fashion division of World-Wide Public Relation Service in San Francisco, was the guest speaker. She gave a talk on the varied career opportunities in home economics.

After the luncheon, a tour of the new home management laboratory on the University campus was conducted.

Blue Key to Bring Noted Lecturers to U of N Campus

A plan to do something to emphasize the status of the University of Nevada as an institution of higher learning is being undertaken by Blue Key, upper classmen's service organization.

Blue Key's plan to raise Nevada's reputation as a fine University is to bring noted lecturers to campus. Lecturers of the caliber of Hans Morgenthau, noted political scientist, scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer and historian Issiah Berlin would be the type of persons Blue Key would endorse.

The idle man does not know what it is to enjoy rest. Hard work, moreover, not only tends to give us rest for the body, but, what is even more important, peace to the mind. — Sir John Lubbock

DELIVER SIX LECTURES

The speaker would be required to deliver a series of six coherent lectures on a subject of current national or international importance. The lecture series would then be published in book form by the University press and be distributed all over the world.

The plan would call for the allocation of $3,000 of student money. Students would then contact wealthy persons in the Reno area who would propose the establishment of a distinguished lecture series, in his name for another $3,000. The publicity for the event and the frontispiece of the resultant book would bear the name of that person as founder of the series.

Offers to appropriate the scholar could then be made in the amount of $1,500 for expenses and a $4,500 appropriation in honorarium.

UNIVERSITY BENEFITS

Blue Key feels that the effects and benefits to the University of Nevada from such a project would be enormous. The book from the ensuing lectures would be reviewed in every major journal almost at once after publication. The sales potential as a classroom textbook would be quite good.

The name of the University of Nevada as a school creating an intellectual landmark would also spread as a result of such a newsworthy event, according to the men.

Blue Key plans to form a committee of enthusiastic and reliable leaders to look further into this plan.

Las Vegas Campus Larger Than Reno

By HAMPTON YOUNG
Staff Writer

Our neighboring campus to the south has surpassed the mother campus in total acreage. Nevada Southern now has eight more acres of sagebrush than the Reno campus for 182.1 acres as compared to Reno's 174.7 acres.

Eight more acres will soon be added to the Las Vegas campus to push them 16 acres ahead of Reno.

Dr. Charles Armstrong, president of the University, said Nevada Southern surpassed the Reno campus in size because the Nevada Legislature would not appropriate more money to expand the Reno campus.

ENROLLMENT INCREASE

He added that if the present population trend continues, the enrollment in Las Vegas will also surpass Reno. Dr. Kenneth Young, executive vice president, said that could be realized within 15 years.

State Assemblyman Harry Swanson, R-Washoe, said that this state is not big enough for two universities. Monetary efforts should be concentrated at one campus or the other. This would create a much better university.

On the other hand State Senator Roger Bissett, R-Washoe, felt that both campuses can serve the educational needs of the state better. Because of the population expansion, the southern campus requires greater expansion of educational facilities.

SERVE POPULATION

He went on to say the Reno campus was originally moved here from Elko to serve the population of the state. Las Vegas is now the population center and the University has to serve it.

More land is planned for the southern half of the University. According to Dr. Armstrong 200 acres for the Las Vegas campus is an "absolute minimum."

He went on to say that expansion is also a problem on the Reno campus. But the legislature has not authorized money for additional land. Enough money was given to buy the cemetery and church land across from the New Gym.

Although Nevada Southern has 182 acres of land, only six buildings are now there.

Educators Gather Weekend Of Frolic Concludes. Social Season For This Year

A group of educators and school executives will have some searching questions for themselves when the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges hold its spring meeting on the University of Nevada campus next week.

The board members will inquire into the association's position as the policy setting body of America's institutions of higher education, and along what lines accreditation is moving. In a panel discussion on Monday educators and regents will explore this question.

After lunch at the Holiday Hotel more questions will confront another panel which probes into the necessity of regents, among other things. Also in the afternoon, a tour of the campus is followed by a cocktail party, again at the Holiday Hotel. In the evening, Governor Grant Sawyer will speak to the visitors.

In the afternoon, faculty-regents relationships will be scrutinized. That same evening members will fly to Las Vegas to have a look at the University's Southern campus the next day.

Campus social events will come to a close this weekend as living groups travel, dance and picnic before Dead Week begins next Monday.

The men of Alpha Tau Omega and their dates will travel to Strawberry Lodge Saturday for their spring formal. Highlight of the dance will be the crowning of an "ATO Sweetheart". Paul Jones' "Eager Beaver" group will play for dancing. The Taus will picnic at Edgewood Beach the next day.

Lambda Chi Alphas will only go as far as Hidden Valley for their annual spring dance, Saturday from 7 p.m. to midnight. They will have dinner and dance to the music of Harry Massoth and his band. The men and their dates will go to Lahontan Lake Sunday for a beach party. Roger Cornwall is social chairman.

Topaz Lodge will host the Phi Sigma Kappa overnight Saturday and Sunday. Tom Lee and his band will play for the men and their dates following dinner at the Lodge. There will be a beach party at Topaz Lake the next day.

Sigma Nu's "White Rose" spring formal will be held at the Olympic Village in Squaw Valley Saturday. The "White Rose" of Sigma Nu will be crowned during the dance. The Jim Burgett band will play for dancing from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. The Sigma Nus will go to Lake Tahoe the day after their overnight.

The men of Theta Chi have chosen the Lancer as the site of their spring formal, from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday. It will be a dinner-dance, but the band has not yet been named.

Lincoln Hall residents and dates will have a picnic at Bowers' Mansion Saturday at 4 p.m. Steaks and all the fixings will be served to the living group.

FWC Track Meet Tonight At Davis

...Of Sports

And Things...

By DOUG BRUCKNER
Guest Columnist

The news last week that Chico State had upset Sacramento State in a dual track meet shocked me considerably. The Sacramento bunch are undefeated on the season in dual action.

I continue to say ARE undefeated, because the next day it was learned that track officials had counted wrong (no small feat) and that the Hornets were the actual winners.

Chico was determined the winner, 73-72, by the first count. Naturally after reading the story of this great upset, I didn't bother to count it up for myself. The next day a retraction was printed saying in effect that Sacramento had won by three points, 74-71.

The time had come for me to go back to the previous paper, (an evening paper from Sacramento) and count the summary for myself. Maybe if I was lucky, I could find that the Wildcats were the winners after all. Wishful thinking. My count came out 79-66 in favor of Sacramento.

Since I must assume that this was an unofficial summary that I had counted from, I'll have to take the officials latest word for it and concede victory to Sacramento, 74-71.

Moral: don't believe everything you read.

Not only did this fiasco prove that some people can't count, but it also proves that Sacramento can be beaten. They won't be beaten in a dual meet this season though because there's only one meet left for conference teams, the Far Western Conference Championships this weekend at Davis.

But the Wildcats came close enough to the Sacramentans to instill hope in other league squads. And for a moment there, Nevada and Cal Aggie supporters weren't giving the Hornets a chance to win the title.

More surprising is that fact that the close meet was held on the Sacramento oval. What would the outcome have been if the Hornets were in Chico that day?

This close score should give Nevada extra hope. The Wolf Pack, beaten by Sacramento, 77-68, and the Cal Aggies, 81-64, clobbered the Wildcats, 87-58. The Hornets also had a squeaker with the Aggies as they eked out a 73-72 win. However, the Aggies beat Chico handily.

All of these scores lead to one conclusion: the conference championship is up for grabs. The scoring won't be like it is for dual meets, and the other three teams might like to make it rough on the Capital City squad. The Wolf Pack, who have won four straight conference titles, certainly wouldn't like to lose the prestige that goes with the championship.

Sacramento Coach Harvey (Rollo) Roloff resembles the great Napoleon, although he is a trifle taller and not so great.

If the other FWC track teams gang up on Rollo's Green and Gold forces next Friday and Saturday at Davis, the "Little Corporal" will know he has met his Waterloo.

Nevada Seeks 5th Straight Title In League Meet

The Nevada track team will shoot for its fifth consecutive Far Western Conference championship this weekend in Davis. Trials will start Friday night and the finals commence Saturday.

For a change, the Wolf Pack thinclads will be underdogs in the FWC finale. Nevada has two dual meet losses, one to Sacramento State, and the other to the Cal Aggies. The Davis cindermen have only one FWC defeat—to the unbeaten Sacramento State Hornets.

EDSALL OPTIMISTIC

Nevada Coach Floyd Edsall is surprisingly optimistic about the conference encounter. He says that the meet is going to be closer than it has been in several years but Nevada could pull off an upset victory.

Edsall points out that both Sacramento State and the Aggies scored heavily against Nevada in the field events—especially in the weights. The Pack coach believes that several teams may split up the points in the weights while Nevada scores heavily in the running events.

The Nevada mentor goes on to say that the Wolves will have to pick up several key points in field events. The Wolf Pack is strong in the high jump and triple jump.

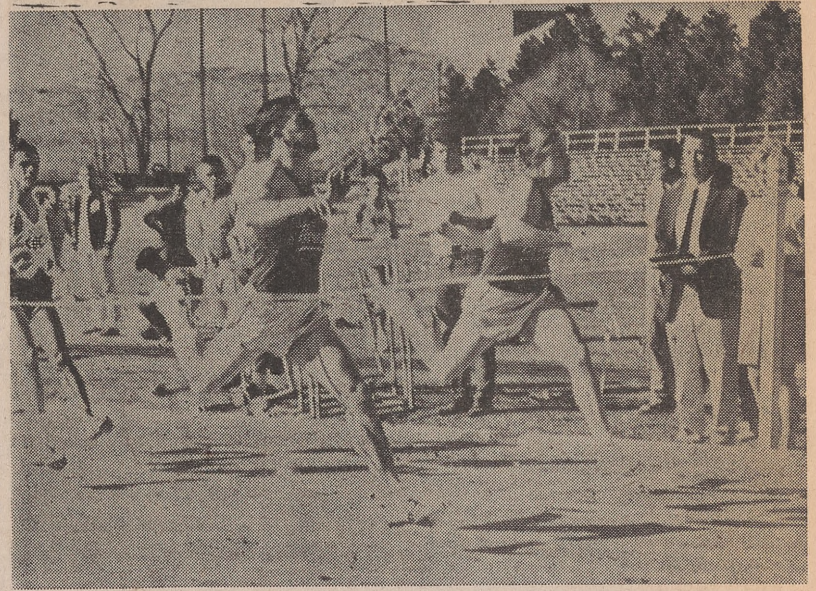

PACK RUNNERS RAMBLE

The running events from the 100 to the half mile appear to be Nevada's strong suit. Stocky Dick McCoy is a consistent double winner in the 100 and 220. The Nevada sprinter has a 9.8 century and a 21.4 furlong. Mike Iverson of the Cal Aggies has an identical 100 time and should be tough. Jon Key, Fred Williams and Stu Schraeder give the Nevadans added depth in the sprints.

In the quarter-mile Nevada is also powerful. Williams has the fastest FWC time this season with a 49.1. Tim Anderson (50.5) and Bob Sinnott (50.8) are other Wolf Pack hopes in this event.

Defending 880 champion Bud Forman is another of Nevada's chances for a first place. The tall middle-distance star holds the conference record at 1:53.9. Three other Wolf Pack runners, Tex Mock, Al Maher and Tom Dye, also have broken two minutes in the half-mile. The Aggies' Tom Rogers has the best FWC time this season with a 1:53.9.

Nevada should pick up a few points in the distances with 9:39 two-miler Skip Houk and 4:29 miler Russ Sheltra. The three-mile will be run in the Conference meet instead of the two-mile.

Tennis And Golf Teams In Davis For Championships

Nevada's tennis team travels to Davis today for the Far Western Conference Championship after finishing the regular season with a 3-4 record. The championships will continue through tomorrow.

Last week at Arcata, Calif., the Wolf Pack netters dropped a 6-1 decision to host Humboldt State.

Ken Robinson defeated the Lumberjacks' Abbott Squire for Nevada's only win in the match.

Humboldt wins went to Dennis Oakes, who downed Gary Nappe, 13-11; Steve Clapp beat Glen Laughton, 10-8; Bill Davis topped Jack Raycraft, 10-2; and Mick Miller tripped John Young, 10-0.

In doubles play, Squire and Clapp defeated Robinson and Nappe, 10-4, and Oakes and Craig Thurston downed Laughton and Raycraft, 10-7.

Pack netters have had an up-and-down season, although at times they have been brilliant. Coach Bob Laughter will count heavily on aces Robinson, Nappe, and Raycraft.

The Wolf Pack golf team will wind up its action today in the FWC championships in that sport. The matches, which started yesterday at the Yolo Flyers Country Club near Davis, will conclude today.

Coach Jack Spencer's crew, who have won three out of their last four matches, seem to be ready for the conference meet if recent play is any indication.

Joe deArrieta, Mike Knight and Pete Wishney are pacing the linksters in their quest for the title.

Sacramento State, undefeated on the season, must be considered the favorite.

Pack Closes Slate With Humboldt, Sox

The Wolf Pack baseball team, out of the running for the conference title, closes out its regular season tomorrow with a doubleheader at Humboldt State.

The Wolves also have a game with the Reno Silver Sox scheduled for next Monday at Moana Stadium. This contest will start at 7 p.m.

Coach Bill Ireland's bunch will attempt to finish with a .500 record after tomorrow's game at Arcata. The team stands at 11-10 overall with a 4-5 league record.

Nevada batters will attempt to break out of a slump they got into last weekend against Sacramento State. Humboldt's diet of pitching may prove to be more desirable to the Nevadans.

All season the Pack's offensive attack has revolved around Don Jackson, Joel Glover, Rod Mathisen, Bruce Nickerson, and Mike Huyck. Once again they will be expected to carry the batting load.

Ireland has four starters to choose from—Jim Nelson, Dan Keller, Carl Bossieux, and Dennis Scott. All four hurlers, along with southpaw Fred Dallimore, can relieve.

Bad weather conditions have hampered baseball practice this week and forced cancellation of the game with the Silver Sox from last Monday to next Monday.

Students Don't Like Spring Snowstorms

By MIMI SKILLICORN
Feature Editor

"Snow, snow, go away and don't ever come back," seems to be the tune many University of Nevada students have been crooning all week. Although the snow, rain and general cloudy weather didn't put too much of a damper on the Mackay day activities, many students in a more sober state of mind, want no more of gray skies.

STUDENTS COMMENT

Chuck Murphy, junior men's senator at large, quoted General Sherman's famous remark, "War is hell. I think this aptly describes the weather we've been having," he said.

Sue Sanor, junior, from sunny Las Vegas said, "the snow keeps me inside studying, but I'm a warm weather girl and I can't wait to get out of this climate."

Gerry Small, wants no more of the snow simply "because it's Spring." Small added, "I've lived in Nevada all my life and I've never seen anything like this in May."

Steve Gessler, White Pine Hall resident, condemned the snow not only because it's "kind of wet" but also because he likes "to go to Tahoe and lay around on the Beach." He added, "Snow is fine in the Winter but not in the Spring."

Jackie Zeigler, freshman from Juniper hall, was one person who thought the snow was terrific. Miss Zeigler thought "it's crazy because it's Christmas in May." She added however, that she has been "waiting for the sun and summer."

NOT IN MAY!

Three Theta's acted with mixed emotions over the snow. Sheila Clare said, "I love it. I'm from California where it doesn't snow at all." Gretchen Kaiser joined with those who yearn for the sun. Miss Kaiser said defiantly, "This is just ridiculous for May." Marvis Cooper, another Theta said she "Really liked the snow but definitely not in May."

Tri Delt Judy Norcott has no complaints at all. She said, "It doesn't bother me, but it certainly is quite odd. I have that Spring feeling, but the snow didn't upset me."

Ski Team Praises Coach

By SIG ROGICH
Staff Writer

George Twardokens may replace Chelton Leonard next fall as ski coach in a proposed University change having fulltime staff members in teaching and coaching positions.

Dr. Broten chairman of the Physical Education Department stated that the University was gradually going to full-time staff members and the school was now in a position to make the skiing-teaching situation a full time job.

Members of the ski team showed an overall feeling of regret at the possibility of losing coach Leonard.

Lane Monroe, four-way performer, stated, "It's too bad that we may lost coach Leonard. He was really working good with the members of the team and I know that we will all hate to see him go. I'm sure, however, that if Mr. Twardokens does become the new ski coach we'll all do our best for him."

Bob Hamilton, four-way performer, added, "All the members of the ski team have a great amount of respect for coach Leonard both as a person and as a coach. We would hate to see him replaced. It's hard for a coach to build a team into a contender, and this is what coach Leonard has done for us and the University of Nevada. I think it would be a mistake for the University to bring someone new into the position, especially with the good team we're going to have next year. Coach Leonard is familiar with the team and could do much better than a newcomer who doesn't know our faults and strongpoints."

Dennis Agee, alpine performer, expressed his belief that the University would be making a big mistake by getting rid of coach Leonard. "He worked real hard to build the ski program to what it is today, and even if Mr. Twardoken is a good coach he'll be starting from the beginning.

Also, coach Leonard did a tremendous job on the Winter Carnival. "This was more a personal effort than anything else. He actually worked hard to make the Carnival one of the outstanding skiing events in the country."

Greg Austin, alpine specialist, said, "Coach Leonard has done a fine job this year and the members of the ski team would like to see him stay. If we do have a new coach, we'll have to support him and give him a good chance if we hope to have good ski teams in the future."

Jim Acheson, another nordic performer, stated, "If the University is making this replacement just to fulfill their policy, they should look at it more carefully. Skiing is a sport that is specialized, and it is difficult to find a qualified person to assume the responsibility as coach. Coach Leonard was very fine in his field, and it might hurt the team if he leaves. A good example of the type of work he does is the Winter Carnival. This event was a great success, due almost solely to the efforts of coach Leonard. He made it one of the outstanding skiing events in the country."

CCUN Holds Talent Show

Saturday night the dining commons will be transformed into an international stage as the Collegiate Council for the United Nations holds its annual International Talent Show and Dance.

The dance begins at 7:30 p.m. At 9 it will be interrupted for an hour by the variety show. American and foreign students will sing, dance, play instruments and read poetry.

Performing are Emil Natividad, Bobby Herron, Jagbir Auja, Bill Chen, Jill Black, Virgilio Palacios, Sheridan Chirwa, John Messavusu, Mari Kae Ennis, Kathy Warner, Yudh Vir Rajput and Ron Suarez.

Refreshments will be served. A 25c admission fee will be charged.

'Dead Week' Blues Begin

The Reno campus will assume the atmosphere of a sepulcher Monday as the semesterly "Dead Week" is launched. Students would be wise to study for semester exams during this brief social letup.

Stodious meditation should be a welcome relief for those who have been really hooking all semester, as well as for those Mackay Day celebrants who are still suffering.

No beer busts, dances, socials or anti-socials are scheduled for the deceased week. Scholars will be forced to drop social-climbing for more studious endeavors.

Although no bars will be closed during the seven days, non-ghoulish students inclined to patronize such places on their own should use extreme mental discipline and forego such activities.

She's lovely. She's engaged. She drinks Schlitz.

Small wonder. Girls who drink Schlitz have taste. They avoid the commonplace. They are discerning. (Since you are all these things, what are you waiting for?)

Next time, tell that brute in the Shetland jacket to make it Schlitz. Odds are he'll discover you all over again.

If he's the aggressive type he may lunge forward and mutter, "Golly, Helen, you're a peach." And this is the stuff dreams are made of.
