The Minority Report

By Mike Sloan

"When things go right, God gets the praise. When things go wrong, it's the fault of the editor."

The person who wrote those two lines must have been a genius or an editor, because he hit the nail on the head.

Editors are a down trodden group, harassed by publishers, business managers, and staff members. If the news is not exciting, the readers clamor so loudly an editor is tempted to manufacture something of interest just to save himself from the howling pack.

School administrators like to eat editors for breakfast, and members of the faculty get their kicks from attacking the grammar and style of the paper.

In fact, the lot of newspaper editors is so miserable that many of us wonder why we take this position. But when ever this doubt creeps into my mind, I remember that the Lord said "the meek shall inherit the earth."

And besides, I need the money.

As a true blue fan of the Wolf Pack, I watched with horror the opening football game of the season.

I call it a game for lack of a better word that is printable. To say the least, Nevada did not have its finest hour Saturday afternoon.

Now I'm not really criticizing the team or the coach, rather my venom is directed to those scoundrels of scoundrels, the men who make the schedule. I'm surprised they didn't condemn Nevada to open the season against the Green Bay Packers.

Long Beach, however was a good second choice.

The thinking of these nameless assassins is perfectly clear; give Nevada a team that is impossible to beat in the first game of the season, and you kill the spirit of the team and the student body at the same time.

However, the men of Nevada will rise above the treachery of the schedule-makers.

"Our name may trail, but not in slime."

Young Nevadans

A meeting of all "Young Nevadans for Laxalt" will be held in the Student Union Lounge September 22, at 7:30 p.m. All interested students, regardless of party affiliations, are urged to attend.

Football Coach Hung In Effigy

A large crowd of several hundred students hanged and burned Nevada's head football coach Dick Trachok in effigy early Monday morning in apparent protest to the outcome of Saturday's game. Nevada lost to Long Beach State 53-6.

Attached to the effigy were signs reading "Let's win for a change," and "Trachok go back to Reno High."

The demonstration took place between Ross Hall and the Education Building.

Fall Rush Ends With the Pledging Of 120 New Sorority Members

By SUSAN ANDERSON
Managing Editor

A long and busy sorority rush week was climaxed last Saturday with the pledging of 120 University of Nevada women, most of them freshmen. Bids to the four Greek letter sororities were issued and accepted at noon in the Student Union, with informal pledging ceremonies following in the Houses.

Student Union, with informal pledging ceremonies following at the Houses.

The largest number of pledges went to Tri Delta and Pi Beta Phi, each of whom pledged 33 girls. Kappa Alpha Theta pledged 30 rushees and Gamma Phi Beta, 26. The new pledges are:

South Asian Lecturer Speaks

Tran Van Dinh, former Vietnamese ambassador to the United States and presently on leave from his position as Washington Bureau chief of the Saigon Post, will present a lecture-discussion entitled "Crisis in South Viet Nam" Thursday, September 24, 1964, at 8:00 p.m. in the Jot Travis Union.

An acknowledged expert on American-Vietnamese relations, Mr. Dinh has worked extensively in both political and military circles in Viet Nam as an authority on Southeast Asia.

Dinh fought in the guerilla resistance against Japanese forces in then French Indo-China, joining the liberation forces against French colonial rule after World War II.

EDITORIAL

SAGEBRUSH POLICY

THE SAGEBRUSH is a publication of the Associated Students of the University of Nevada, and as such its function is to serve the members of the student body and to promote the interests of the University.

AS A CAMPUS newspaper, the SAGEBRUSH will try to cover any and all events of interest to the students. Moreover, the coverage will be as objective and complete as possible.

THE SAGEBRUSH will give particular coverage to programs and lectures at student expense, in an effort to insure each student will receive a fair return for the money he has invested to become a member of the ASUN, and the Student Union.

HOWEVER, the most important function of the SAGEBRUSH will be that of a watch-dog. Close scrutiny of student government and the University administration will be maintained in order to keep the members of the student body aware of any threat to their welfare.

THE SAGEBRUSH is published to be of service to the student body, and that is the key to our policy.

THE COACH'S DILEMMA

Nevada's loss Saturday to Long Beach State left many students considerably upset with the head football coach, Dick Trachok. Trachok, however, is hardly to blame for the one-sidedness of the season's opening game. The fault lies solely with those who plan the schedule.

Nevada was overmatched from the beginning. Long Beach State has a student body three or four times as large as Nevada, and a football team that reflects the size.

Coach Trachok may or may not prove to be an outstanding coach this year, but he can not be blamed for Saturday's disgrace.

Student Union To Present Outstanding Lecture Series

The Lecture program for the Fall semester 1964 will be one of the finest programs in recent years, according to Steve Gomes, Travis Union Board lectures chairman. A "Man and Woman in Courtship and Marriage" series will feature local speakers professionally related to their topic.

The speakers will be: Dr. James A. Peterson, speaking on "The Revolution in the American Family;" Dr. James Nickels, "Psychological Considerations in Marriage;" Dr. Silas Ross, "Biology of Marriage;" Mrs. Catherine Loughlin, "Economics of Marriage;" Rev. Wayne Williamson, "The Spiritual in Marriage;" and Mr. Sid Weatherhead, "Problems Created by the Revolution in the American Family."

Other lectures slated throughout the semester include:

September 24, Tran Van Dinh, "Crisis in South Vietnam"

October 6, Mr. Pierre Emmanuelli, "France and the Atlantic Community—Different Trends of French Public Opinion"

October 14, Dr. William Siri, "Ice, Time, and Mt. Everest"

November 19, Dr. Norman Thomas, topic not set.

Later in the year these lectures will be featured:

March 16, Mr. Hans Conried, "An Evening with Hans Conried"

April 9, Mrs. Betty Friedan, "Beyond the Feminine Mystique—A New Image of Women"

Mrs. Helen Gurley Brown will also lecture, and a debate between Attorney Melvin Belli and Attorney Mark Lane entitled "Oswald is Guilty" will be held.

Sundae Social Set for Sunday

"Sunny Sundae" will be the theme of a Juniper Hall ice cream social to be held Sunday, September 27, in the lounge of the hall.

The social is intended to be a mixer for the women of the hall, according to hall President Susan Prior. The women will make the ice cream themselves.

Between 4 and 6 p.m. the different floors will have skit competition and have the ice cream all to themselves. After 6 p.m. the social will be open to the women and their dates and will run until all the ice cream is gone.

Entertainment will be provided by the folk singers from the Lemon Tree.

The ice cream, along with nuts, cherries, and toppings, will be on the veranda of the hall. The lounge will be decorated. The main ornament will be a large ice cream cone hanging from the ceiling.

My Achin' ASP

By Hampton Young

My poor asp developed a severe ache after Saturday's miscarriage in Mackay Stadium. If the Wolf Pack don't shape up we can consider them the New York State Mets of the Western Conference, and I'll have a dead asp on my hands. And asps don't come cheap.

Valid excuses to get drunk just don't come around very often. Last weekend's game provided a ready excuse for those who dabble in the sudsy art, and the callege hangouts had a profitable day. Shakey's is still in, if you don't mind splinters; the Little Wal is still popular; the Driftwood is definitely in, if you like to unwind — or wind — or whatever they do on the dance floor; and Swede's has lousy pizza.

The "Neanderthals," local surfing — you find surf in the middle of this desert, and I'll drink it — group from the caves at Pyramid Lake, wowed the kiddies at the "Hello on the Hill" dance last weekend. According to one witness, "They musta forgot their deodorant, 'cause boy, did they stink."

The party at the Outer Limits didn't turn out as large as expected, but those that were there drank what those that mighta been there couldn't drink, which in essence made up for it. The gathering at the Parker, Parker, Alm, and Brinkerhoff residence was quiet — everyone was tired. These beginning of the semester socials are rough.

'Nother sign in women's dorm, only on third floor of Juniper Hall: "Things and information all coed's should know," — a diet-watch-your-calories-type book is pinned to the sign — the phone numbers of all the frat houses are listed — and the names of all the Sundowners are rostered carefully. Howcum they ain't got the Sagebrush staff listed . . . ?

Salmon orange and charcoal gray are the latest frat fashion colors to paint your house with. Who in the world is the Frank Lloyd Wright of the Theta Chi House? And where's the racin' stripe?

Do They Belong There or is Somebody Just Lazy Dept . . . Those two red-as-a-fire-engine bricks are still resting on top of the deformed fountain in front of the library.

Hanging the coach in effigy after just the first game is a childish immature stunt. But what are we goin' to college for if not to shuck our immaturity through a few last childish immature stunts? Heh, heh . . .

Sign in our manager of the business's office: "Our extreme efficiency is exceeded only by our luxurious working conditions." This is true.

Words From The John

By John Slansky

Run in circles, stand in line, tear your hair, swear, see your advisor, con the dean, go to the wrong class, and then it was Friday. Thank God! Registration is over and I's four hundred and fifty pages behind in reading after only one day of class.

I said, "Sow did that happen?" One of my profs said, "Read the first test and write a definitive analysis of it, turn that in Monday and then . . ." Thirteen people passed out.

A recent survey shows that David William Hettich, Ph.D., is the most hated man on campus. One of those interviewd said, "You want to know what I think, just look at what that _____ did to my schedule. I have bonehead English at 3 a.m. Sunday." Another said "&!!% (1/2) ?!!&●!" David William Hettich is Director of Freshman English.

The men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are well sung. Ask any freshman or transfer woman. Sunday, any and all freshmen and transfer women were fed, sung to, lied to, sung to, drummed to, lied to, sung to, and sung to and sung to.

Alas, America is still not free of totalitarianism. Saturday night Denver and I were taking our dates home late, there was no traffic or parking places so we double parked for about thirty seconds and ran them up to the door. We hurried back to the car but it was too late We were caught, the S. S. was upon us.

Yes, it was the campus cop. "Mercy," said we. "Ha, ha, you fools," said he. "Heaven help us," said we. "Your papers," said he. On the spot we were tried and convicted of double parking and sentenced to pay. Alas, Barylon.

L. Wayne Gertmenian . . . a paid political announcement.

I promised a lot of people that I would not mention their names in my column. Among them were: MICHILE MAUPIN, BILL ADAMS, LYLE RIVIERA, NANCY KELLER, DENVER DICKERSON AND KENT FOLGATE.

BACK TO RENO HIGH—The sign below the dummy representing Nevada's football coach Dick Trachok reads: "Trachok, Go Back to Reno High." It was used late Sunday night in a student effigy-burning as a result of the University's first seasonal football loss.

First Fall Recital Set Wednesday In Arts Theatre

"Music for Two Pianos," the first of the fall season's recitals, sponsored by the University of Nevada will be presented in the University of Nevada Fine Arts Theater on Wednesday, September 23. The featured pianists that evening will be Joe and Sandra Shafer. The recital is free to the public.

The program will include the Concerto for Two Claviers in C Minor, J. S. Bach;

—Le Bal Martiniquais, Milhaud;

—Andante and Variations, Op. 46, Schumann;

—Tears from Fantasy, Op. 5, Rachmaninoff; and —Finale from the "New Dance" by Riegger.

Mr. Shafer received both his Bachelor and Master's of Music degrees from the University of Oregon. At the present time, he is a Graduate Assistant in piano at the University of Nevada, pursuing a Master of Arts degree. Mrs. Shafer is also a graduate of the University of Oregon, having received her Bachelor of Arts degree in piano.

Sagebrush Loses Fight For Continued Freedom

For the first time in its 71-year history, the Sagebrush policy is being regulated by the Publications Board. The Board made the move during the spring semester of the 1963-64 school year.

The policy sets forth the general guide lines for the publication of the campus paper and lists the rights and responsibilities of the editor.

The Publications Board is directly in charge of the publishing of all ASUN publications. It is composed of elective ASUN representatives and the editors and business managers of the Sagebrush and Artemisia. It also has a voting faculty adviser.

STUDENTS PROTEST

The Sagebrush came into existence as a protest by the students against the prohibition of a campus paper. In September of 1893, a University literary group approached the Board of Regents and asked to publish a student paper. The Regents at first consented, but then reversed their decision.

In protest, 20 students, including male representatives of the senior, junior and sophomore classes, met to form the Independent Association. The association's objective was the publishing of a student paper.

The Nevada State Journal was secretly awarded a contract to print the paper, and on October 19, 1893 the first issue of the Student (later changed to Sagebrush) appeared.

The Regents eventually gave in to the students and allowed the paper to be published in the open.

Nevada Grad On National TV

William Helming, a graduate student in agriculture economics, represented the University of Nevada on the nationally televised "AGRICULTURE U.S.A." last week.

Helming competed with students from the University of California at Davis, and the University of Arizona. He was awarded a trophy and a twenty-five dollar savings bond for taking first place in the quiz.

Helming was president of Alfa Zeta agriculture fraternity while he was attending school, and was also the recipient of the Danforth Summer Award which took him on an all expense paid agriculture tour of the eastern USA.

Work Continues On Larger, New Mackay Stadium

Work on the University's new athletic complex is now in its fourth month of progress and is scheduled to be completed by next fall in time for the football season.

The complex when completed will include a 7500 seat stadium, a field house and tennis courts.

Location of the new facility is on a 20-acre site northwest of the U.S. Bureau of Mines on the northern edge of the campus between the Atmospherium-Planetarium and married students' housing.

Estimated cost of the project is $673,000.

After completion of the first phase, work will begin on the balance of the project. When it's complete the facility will include an athletic arena to replace Mackay Stadium, complete with an all-weather track, dressing rooms and extensive parking area. The field house will take much of the load off the heavily used "new" gym completed in the 1940's.

While the new stadium is being built University of Nevada athletic teams will continue to use Mackay Stadium. When the last game at Mackay is played, work will begin on a new social science building which will go up on the site of the present playing field.

Friday Final Day To Change Class

Deadline to add classes and change sections is Friday, September 25.

"Each semester we have students coming in after the deadline to add classes and who want to change sections," said Dean Irwin, dean of the College of Arts and Science. To avoid complications, students are urged to observe this deadline.

New Nevada Record Set For Summer Enrollment

Enrollment figures for the 1964 session of the University's summer school set a new record.

Figures released by Dr. Kelly, summer school dean, showed more than 1200 regular students attending classes during the first session, compared to last year's figure of 930.

The number of persons attending special conferences on campus also rose during the past summer. 344 attended the coaching clinic, while 50 teachers participated in the special summer math institute, and 50 persons attended the small schools workshop.

One of the highlights of the summer school was a course in horse shoeing. The five day course, presented by the State-wide Services, dealt with such subjects as proper use of the forge, and how to avoid being kicked.

Activities Parade Set For Tuesday

New Nevada students will have an opportunity to survey the slate of campus organizations on Tuesday, Sept. 29, at the A.S.U.N. Activities Parade in the Student Union.

Previously scheduled for Sept. 22, the Activities Parade had to be postponed for one week, according to Judy Morrison, A.S.U.N. Second vice-president.

The event will last from noon through 5 p.m. in the Travis Lounge. Any campus organization is eligible to enter a display, and should contact Miss Morrison as soon as possible.

Rifle Range Remodeled, Campus Fixtures Removed

The U of N Rifle Range underwent minor remodeling during the summer months prompted by the removal of the old gymnasium which was located over the target area. Changes included remodeling the office and lounge and adding new backstops to the targets.

The University Rifle team, which last year was the Western States Sectional Champions, has a present enrollment of approximately 70 students, but this number will be cut to 15 final team members.

This years shooters will be led by six returning Block N marksmen: Larry Bennett, Carl Koizumi, Don Drake, Dave Biggs, Bob Felton and Gary Campbell.

Sgt. Maxey, director of the rifle range, stated that the team would take three trips this year, to Bozeman, Montana; Logan, Utah and Corvallis, Oregon, with a possible fourth trip to El Paso, Texas.

A woman's rifle team may also be formed but at present there are no members signed up for the 15 member team. The team would travel to Berkeley, Davis and Stanford for intercollegiate meets. Sgt. Maxey has asked that all interested women see him at the rifle range located just west of Getchell Library.

Only two other major universities in the United States offer such a program.

New University Absentee Policy Declares No Official Excuses

The University of Nevada's absentee policy for the Fall semester has been released by Dr. Sam Basta, dean of students and is presently in effect.

The absentee policy is as follows:

"There are no official absences from any University class. In the event that a student misses a class because of an official University function or event, or because of serious personal consideration, the office of the Dean of Student Affairs may, at its discretion, send the explanation to the instructor involved or to the faculty in general. The instructor shall make the final determination on whether the missed work can be done at a time other than during the regularly scheduled class period."

"A student who is absent from class because of emergencies necessitating prolonged absence, should contact the Dean of Men or Women as an initial requirement for special consideration by the instructor (s) concerned."

"When a student participates in a University-sponsored activity the Dean of Students, upon request of the sponsoring department or division, will submit to the faculty a list of the participants for consideration by the instructor(s) concerned for making up work missed."

Frosh Lecture Series Slated

"Your Success at the University" a new orientation program for freshmen who are plagued by problems that have no apparent answers, will begin shortly and will continue throughout the first semester with a series of lectures and discussions scheduled to meet the needs of students.

The program, which is divided into four parts, will begin on Sept. 24 at four p.m. till five p.m. with its first discussion entitled "Academic Success".

Freshmen will be divided into groups according to majors to discuss better study habits, what it means to change a major, and how the grading system is organized.

Freshman Agriculture majors will meet in room 305 of the Fleischmann Agriculture Building, Home Economics Majors will go to room 103 of Sarah H. Fleischmann Building.

Business majors will go to room 106 of Ross Hall, Nursing majors will go to room 106 of Sarah H. Fleischmann Building, while the engineers will go to room 101 of the Scroggum Engineering and Mines Building.

Those in the Mackay School of Mines will go to room 200 of the Mines Building, freshmen in the college of Education will go to the Education Auditorium in Thompson Education, while the Arts and Science majors will be split into two groups. Students whose initials go from A-L will go to the Travis Lounge, while those with initials from M-Z will go to room 215 of the Mackay Science Building.

The remaining three programs are scheduled as follows:

October 7 . . . "Personal and Social Relationships"

December and January . . . "Career Planning"

February 11, 1965 . . . "Commitments of Life"

We live in an age to which self-restraint is hateful. Our emphasis is placed on achievement. Restraint without achievement is nothing, but achievement without restraint is worse.

English A Set As Night Course

English A, a review of pre-college English, will be conducted this year by the evening division of University Extension.

This class is required of all students who are unable to demonstrate the proficiency in expression normally expected of high school graduates.

All entering students are required to take a placement test in English, with the exception of those students transferring to the University with six or more acceptable semester credits in composition and rhetoric.

Previous to this semester, the fee for English A was included in the consolidated fee paid by students entering the University. Beginning with the fall semester, 1964-65, all students taking English A must pay an additional fee of $45.00.

Wolf Pack Trampled ... 53-6!

WOLF PACK end Larry Felesina traps a Crawford pass to start the only scoring series for Nevada in Saturday's game at Mackay Stadium.

By LARRY FARR
Assistant Sports Editor

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack dropped their first game of the 1964 football season Saturday as they lost, 53-6, to the 49'ers of Long Beach State before an estimated crowd of 3,500.

The first score of the game came with only 2:39 gone in the first period as Ray Woolsey, Long Beach halfback, took a Dan Acuna punt on the 49'ers 45 yard line and returned it 55 yards to the end zone. The conversion place kick by Gordon Nail was good and Long Beach led 7-0.

The Wolf Pack moved into Long Beach territory on its next series of five downs, but a desperation pass by hard-rushed quarterback Allan Crawford was intercepted on the 49'er 31 by Shelly Novack.

Eleven plays later Long Beach quarterback, Jerry Otterson, hit halfback Willie Martin at the corner of the end zone with an eight-yard pass and the 49'ers were on their way, 13-0 with 4:50 remaining in the first quarter.

The 49'ers rolled up their third TD on a 21 yard run by halfback Ernie McBride to give the visitors a 19-0 lead with only 10 seconds gone in the second quarter.

A 46-yard pass from Otterson to end Pat Brosnan set up another Long Beach score in the middle of the second quarter. Les Shy scored from the two yard line with 9:50 left to play in the period but the conversion missed and Long Beach was in front, 25-0.

Three minutes later Otterson hit end Don Skinner with a "slant-in" pass which gave the 49'ers their 5th TD of the game. After a Nail conversion Long Beach led, 32-0 at the end of the first half.

Long Beach opened the second half of play with a series of downs which game them their 6th TD of the game as Martin smashed into the end zone from three yards out to make the score, 39-0, after Nail's conversion kick was good.

The next series of downs saw the Wolf Pack take a 49'er kick-off and march 73-yards for the only Nevada score of the game.

Two consecutive passes from Crawford to end Larry Felesina covering a total of 31 yards, got the drive off the ground. Crawford later switched to a ground game when the ball moved closer to the Long Beach goal. Crawford then took the ball over himself on a keeper play from the two-yard line.

A pass play for the two point conversion was unsuccessful and Long Beach led, 39-6, with 3:50 left to play in the third quarter.

Before the end of the third period Long Beach was able to score again as Otterson hit Novack with an 18-yard pass which gave the 49'ers a 46-6 lead as Nail made the extra point.

NEVADA halfback Art Bayer fights for yardage as Long Beach players move in to stop him just before the end of the first half in the season opener for the Wolf Pack.

Although many of you aren't aware of it the cause of auto racing has been boosted by a small (?) company that has been first from the very start: FORD. Now, I can just hear you all saying, "Ford! Why I wouldn't own one of those traps if it were given to me." But that's a rather out-dated idea.

Let's take a look at what Ford has done under the direction of Joe Iccoca (I think that's the way it's spelled, but then I wouldn't swear that that is even his name, but anyway, you know who I'm talking about.)

First, Ford came out with the 406 that continually ate up all competitors in the circuit races and then developed the 427 fastback Galaxies that couldn't be touched for a solid year until MoPar finally produced a four-speed that would hold up and slowly started eating up the Fords, which weighed about a thousand pounds more.

Now, the 289 cu. in. engine used in the Fairlane, Falcon, Comet, Mustang and an occasional Galaxie I feel is the greatest boon to racing in one package. Probably the most widely known Ford engine is the one used in Lotus's at the 1963 Indy 500. Although they did not win, both cars entered, finished, a feat in itself, and placed second and seventh.

The next most popular and widest use of this engine in racing is in the Cobra sports car. This car won first place at Sebring and at Le Mans in the GT class, an honor that Ferrari has had for more than a decade. At the drags the Cobras continually shut off 'Vettes and a Cobra now holds the NHRA A/Sports record.

In stock use, a team of 289 equipped Comets (they're Ford products, too) entered the South African Safari, which is supposed to be the toughest rally in the world. Twenty-one cars finished out of ninety-some-odd starters (I think) and two of these finishing cars were Comets. And this was only their first try at the rally.

Just recently, a brand new use for this engine that is really putting Ford on the list of road racers to be reckoned with, the Ford Prototype GT that is ALL Ford, built completely by the Ford Factory. In this, it's first year, it had many bugs to be found and worked out but it still managed to set a new course record at Le Mans.

In way out dragging it's been Ford against MoPar for the past year. Ford has its super-light 427 Fairlane against the comparable 426 Ramcharger. MoPar has just enough advantage to win through its Torque-Flite.

Campus YWCA Outline Plans For First Semester Activities

Informal noon discussions, evening seminars, and a week-end outing have been planned for this semester by members of the University YWCA. The goal of this year's "Y" program, according to Yvette Hash, president, is to acquaint students with each other and with participating faculty members, while together they learn of stimulating extra-curricular programs which are available at the University of Nevada, and to explore ideas which are of current concern on the campus.

"What Do You Know About —?" is the question to be asked about a variety of programs and activities open to students in a succession of half - hour open meetings which will be held at 12 noon in the Tahoe room of the Jot Travis Union, beginning Wednesday, September 23. Attendants are asked to bring sack lunches.
