The Sad Story of Vietnam

TRAN VAN DINH, former Vietnamese Ambassador to the United States and presently a correspondent for the Saigon post, spoke to approximately 200 students Thursday.

Campus United Fund Drive Sets Yearly Goal at $7500

The United Fund Drive began on campus this week and will run through October 14. Mr. Wayne Martin, Statewide Services, is in charge of organizing this year's drive. Mr. Robert Jeffers will serve as assistant to Mr. Martin.

A system of appointing building captains will be initiated to solicit funds from staff and faculty members. Under this system, the dean of each college will suggest to the president a staff or faculty member who will be responsible for contacting other members in his building. Building captains will be picked this week.

This year's United Fund goal for the campus has been set at $7,500, $2,500 higher than last year's goal. A system of payroll deductions is available as well as lump-sum payments which may be made at any time. Contributions may be made to building captain or to Mr. Martin, Clark Administration; or to Mr. Jeffers, Morrill Hall.

Eight-story Nye Hall to Solve University Housing Shortage

By JOHN TROTT
Staff Writer

If anyone ever wonders whether the housing plight on campus is being solved—it is.

Nye Hall, with a completion target date of May, 1966, will be the newest addition to campus housing. It is named after Nye county.

The University Engineer, Mr. James Rogers, and his staff began the preliminaries on Nye Hall in 1959. They made up and compiled questionnaires from University dormitories all over America. After careful thought and planning, Seldon and Stewart Architects, came up with a plan.

It is an eight story "high rise" with 560 rooms. There will be 280 double rooms with approximately 70 people on each floor. Each floor will have a lounge in the middle of the building except the main floor, whose lounge will be in a separate building adjoining the main one. The main lounge will also have a fireplace.

Two elevators and stairways will carry traffic upstairs and down. The rooms themselves will have acoustical ceilings and there is a possibility of carpeting. Wall sockets will be higher than the desks for handling ease.

There will be two large rest-rooms on each floor. These can be divided again into two smaller restrooms.

The basement will contain ten student storage rooms, two general storage rooms, a recreational storage room, mechanical and electrical rooms, and rooms for linen and trash.

The building is oriented so that the sun will not hit the rooms directly, but this will not affect students who wish to tan on the sundeck on top of the building.

The new dorm will be located on the south third of the parking lot on Virginia Street, across from Lincoln Hall and White Pine Hall.

The landscaping will include different types of pines, junipers, and will have mulberries, maples, bamboo, and plums.

The cost of the project is approximately $2,400,000.

And all this will be for men only.

Brushfire Begins Search for Copy

Brushfire, the University of Nevada literary magazine, is now accepting manuscripts for the 1964-65 issue. The magazine is open to contributions from students in all colleges of the university.

Manuscripts, which may be poems, short stories, short plays, or essays, should be submitted with the author's name written on a card attached to the manuscript, rather than on the work itself.

Material may be left either in the English Department office or in the Sagebrush office.

The Minority Report

By Mike Sloan

Every so often I find myself wishing that the mail didn't have to get through. Not that I have anything against the Post Office Department, but I receive such a flood of letters, advertisements and newspapers that it would take three secretaries to open them all.

What's more, the volume is not nearly as bad as is the content of the mail. Last week I received three phanplets accusing Barry Goldwater of being a supporter of the Klu Klux Klan, an irresponsible madman, and a fool. Now while I don't doubt the above charges, I can't help wonder who has the time and money to send out mass mailings spreading the good word.

I also received two form letters from Gus Hall, a leader of the Communist Party, telling me his views on national politics. It may come as a surprise to some of you, but Gus doesn't like Barry or LBJ. He thinks they are both John Birchers.

The American Nazi Party, not to be outdone by the Communists, has sent me informative material proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that two-thirds of all Americans are red, and most of the other third are pink.

I live in constant fear that other political organizations will also run across my name somewhere and add me to their mailing list. This very morning the Young Americans for Freedom wrote to offer me membership in their news service free of charge.

Add to this the mail I receive from the one thousand and one government agencies that have nothing better to do than write to me, and you can see my problem.

The only possible solution I have thought of is to share my mail with those in the student body less fortunate. So if you go to your mail box some day and don't find a letter from your family or your draft board, come on down to my office and I will give you four or five letters.

Young Democrats

Senator Howard W. Cannon will meet with members of the University Young Democrats Thursday at 12 noon in the Travis Lounge of the Student Union Board.

The meeting, which is slated to last for half an hour, is open to the public.

Let's End The Draft

The peacetime military draft has long been a subject of much discussion and controversy in our nation. The pitch of controversy has recently been increased by suggestions from both major Presidential candidates that the draft be discontinued.

The military draft affects the lives of almost all male students, and indirectly affects the female students as well. Indeed it is a subject that merits the consideration of all Americans.

President Johnson recently announced plans for a comprehensive study of the draft system including the possibility of meeting our military requirements on an entirely voluntary basis in the next decade.

Now legislation has been introduced in the Senate which would end the draft in 1967. Senator Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, speaking in favor of the bill, reported that the present system is unjust and inequitable because 42 percent of the eligible age group do not serve. This fact also makes a mockery of the concept of "universal" service, according to the Senator.

It has also been suggested that the draft system is more expensive and produces a lower caliber of soldier than the voluntary program would.

As young citizens of this nation, we have the right and responsibility to enter into the discussions of this bill and to make our view clear.

More importantly, we should make sure that the question of the elimination of the draft does not go the way of most campaign promises after an election, but rather gets a full and open hearing.

This issue is of particular interest to students, let's make sure that we make our stand known.

Pakistan Story Told By Returning Pol. Sc. Professor

"Most fascinating, Wonderful," were the words used by Dr. James Roberts to describe his recent stay in Pakistan.

Dr. Roberts, a political science instructor at the University of Nevada, has been on leave for the past two years in order to take part in a program sponsored by the University of Southern California in conjunction with the American Agency for International Development.

The purpose of the program was to aid underdeveloped nations.

Dr. Roberts was assigned to a position on the faculty at the University of Punjab in Lahore, Pakistan to aid in setting up and developing a new graduate program in public administration. Dr. Roberts explained that he and his team were invited by the government of Pakistan.

In addition to teaching at the University he also lectured at the National Institutes of Public Administration and at Civil Service and finance academies.

Tryouts Set For First Play

The first play of the season presented by the University Theatre has been scheduled for December 9, 10, 11, and 12.

Tryouts for "The Lady's Not For Burning," will be held October 5-9 in the Church Fine Arts Building. The exact time and place for tryouts will be announced later.

"The Lady's Not For Burning," by Christopher Fry, is a poetic comedy which takes place in 14th century England. The heroine of the play has been unjustly threatened to be hanged for practicing witchcraft, while the hero of the play has openly confessed to a murder and wishes to be hanged.

According to Mr. Robert Ericson, director of the University Theatre, "The Lady's Not For Burning," always "immediately generates enthusiasm among the cast." Those interested in trying out for this first play of the season may contact Mr. Ericson at Ext. 484.

My Achin' ASP

By Hampton Young

Might As Well Stir Things Up Dept:

One hundred and thirteen students protested in petition and letter to the editor form against my comments on the "Neanderthals" in a previous column. Fine, I welcome criticism — Lord knows I need it — on the many occasions when I am wrong.

But when the time comes for idealistic youth to "raise arms" and defend their mistreated ideals, their zeal is definitely wasted when they consume serious study time on upholding the virtue of some guitar-twang-ing, foot-stomping, symphonic abortionists. Sure, the noise is fun to dance to, but this makes it music?

You junior and senior "kiddies" squeal like stuck hogs when the heroes that satisfy your basic savage needs for the "beat" and the ritualistic contortions of the dance floor are accosted. Yet which one of you were upset when Trachok was so obviously wronged after the Long Beach game? I didn't hear any of you defending him.

The "Neanderthals" and you "kiddies" deserve each other.

In the Meantime Dept: the assemblage at the "Outer Limits" over the weekend commenced slowly, until resuscitation arrived in the form of a damsel-laden station wagon. As the night wore on a sardine couldn't have been any happier. Things were really looking up . . .

The Lambda Chi-ATO beer bust was the scene of some tired people. One gal reported to me, "Everyone was tired, and I've never been so tired on only one and a half beers. Whatever was wrong with that beer?" Maybe she can't drink . . .

What in the world's going on here? The Frandsen Humanities building is neatly and predominantly labeled "AGRICULTURE" directly above the huge columns at the front entrance. Now the Sagebrush prints a few typos now and then, but uh . . .

I Don't Blame 'em Dept: I hear tell some of the campus males miss Barbara Heller as a good ice-breaker at parties.

Another woe-begone tale of the bookstore saga: A young male-about-campus endured the bookstore line for a lengthy spell, until he witnessed the sweet-young-thing ahead of him receive an over-charge of about twenty dollars on an item. The cashier insipidly realized her mistake, and it was corrected. Our male-about-campus sidled up to the cashier with his item, a pen, and sneered, "If you charge me over forty dollars for it I won't pay for it." When you gotta fill space you'll do anything . . .

Sticker on rear of a station wagon: "Please Uncle Sam, I'd rather do it myself." This sticker stuck between two, 'scuse my words, Goldwater-Miller stickers.

The Coward's Corner . . .

GRIPES AND GROANS are usually found among the college set but generally go either unnoticed or unheard. It is the intention of this fledgling columnist to voice any and all campus gripes whenever the need arises; thus beginning the new year with the Coward's Corner—author unknown—cause just.

IT SEEMS THAT EVERY year the R.O.-T.C. Department and "dear Colonel G" bear the brunt of many vocal blows. No exception this year: "Gun-shot" has out-lawed beards in the Cadet Corps, even during Admission Day. Unprecedented as this act is, the Colonel seems undaunted in pursuing his own "militarist way," regardless of the consensus of student opinion.

ONE THING THAT gripes me to no end is the way our "poor mis-guided Freshmen" are treated. It costs them $45.00 to take a three credit English A course for which they get no credit if they pass and go down six grade points if they fail. Cruel, cruel world!

SOMETHING OF INTEREST (and profit) to any student minded group on campus would be a used book store. Students could turn their used books into the store to be sold at their price (minus commission) and thereby getting more for their books when sold and adding up to a saving for those buying books. No capital investment required. This plan has been successfully instituted by the Marketing Club at Cal Poly (Pomona) to the dismay of the "Student Book Store." After all a college education is expensive enough! Here we could save some loot.

WARNING TO FRESHMEN: Don't skip rocks on Manzanita Lake. This is the sacred abode of "M's Flock," better known as Dean Mobley's ducks (pardon me, and two swans). Although they add color to the campus, they are the most pampered quackers in the state. If "dear M" only let her girls have so much freedom! Waterfowl season opens October 10 at sunrise! (This space co-sponsored by "Quackers Limited")

The "Coward's Corner" cordially invites guest gripes or comments from anyone with the energy (and courage) to venture into the labyrinths of the Sagebrush office and gripe to the author, if you can find him. Perhaps next time we can produce more concrete gripes about the world around us. After all, what is a student newspaper for?

Journalism Prof

Leads P. R. Group

Theodore E. Conover, assistant professor of journalism, will preside during an afternoon program of the joint conference of the Public Relations Society of America and the Public Relations Society of Canada on November 9, 1964.

Professor Conover will speak on "Can the Results of Public Relation Programs be Measured?"

A panel of three men, William A. Durbin, senior vice president, Hill and Knowlton, Inc.; Kerry King, vice president, Texaco Inc.; and John H. Paige, vice president, Wisconsin Telephone Company, will comment for approximately ten minutes each on the presentation. The audience will then be invited to participate in the discussion.

Civil Rights Group

"What Do You Know About SNCC?" is the subject for discussion at the YWCA noon meeting, Wednesday, Sept. 30, in the Tahoe room of the Student Union.

Garland Struther, local SNCC president, and the Rev. Donald Thompson of the Campus Christian Association, will be discussion leaders. The meeting is open to anyone interested.

Student Union Gives Funds

The Jot Travis Student Union Board recently donated $100 to the Bonzer Book collection in the University library. This collection of books was partially supported last year by the board with a total donation of approximately $600.

The Bonzer Books are recently published literary works, non-fiction and fiction, which are of unusual interest to the public. Mr. Kenneth Carpenter, assistant director of libraries, stated the collection is designed to "satisfy the curiosity of faculty and students regarding the books talked about, and to stimulate them by displaying current books and ideas."

The books are shelved alphabetically on the main floor by author, and remain on the shelves for only six months, unless they are still in popular demand.

A few of approximately 40 books appearing on the stand are "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" by Edward Albee, "The Unicorn" by Iris Murdoch, and "Robert Frost in Russia" by Reeve.

TWO NIKE AJAX missiles, a 75mm pack howitzer and two rifle stacks were installed this summer on the University of Nevada campus. The missiles are on permanent display in front of Hartman Hall.

Letters to the Editor Union Board Spotlights Conclave, Constitution

TUB Participates In L. A. Conclave New Constitution Effects Directors

A number of us "kiddies" have come out of our own caves to ride your "asp" for your thoughtless comments concerning the Neanderthals. From your brief resume of the event reported, we assume that you were not even in attendance, or you wouldn't have been so quick to tar and feather the group.

You might be interested to know that many of the "kiddies" present were juniors and seniors. Also, if the group was so bad, how does one account for the large turn-out and the cries for "more" at the end of the dance? It is well-known that the Student Union's speaker system doesn't come on like the Hollywood Bowl, but one shouldn't hold that against the entertainers.

You and your informer with the sensitive nose can knock the Neanderthals, but we feel they have a good, danceable sound, and have already been accepted by those who like to have a good time at a dance. In summary, we find them far and above the past collection of losing combos that belt out their sick storm of fox-trots, cha-chas, and polkas.

Re: WORDS FROM THE JOHN for September 22, 1964

Dear Mr. Slansky:

There have been times in the past when I was called "That --- with the thick glasses." I have always denied that my glasses were thick. The nomenclature applied to me is not new, just brief. I do not object to it at all!

However, I do object to the term "Bonehead" English. The Department of English offers a course called English A, and a description of this course is available in the University Catalog. The term "bonehead" implies that the students involved in English A are stupid (of. The Dictionary of American Slang). This I deny.

During the three years that I have been Director of Freshman English and in close contact with English A students, I have found many of them to be among the most energetic and conscientious students on campus. They recognize a deficiency in their college preparation and are most willing to do the work necessary to remove this deficiency.

Sincerely,
DAVID Wm. HETTICH
Director of Freshman English

Two University of Nevada men will have key roles in the Association of College Unions regional conference next week in Los Angeles.

Clark Santini, last year's Student Union Board president will give the opening address at the three-day conference and Bob Kersey, union director, will act as ACU Regional Representative.

The Oct. 1-3 convention will be held at the U.C.L.A. Student Center, with over 300 delegates representing 125 western schools attending.

Ten Nevada representatives will attend and conduct panel sessions on "Effective Space Utilization" and "On Campus Publicity."

Student Union staff members and students throughout the Region IV area will participate in sessions involving programming, student union construction, commercial recreation, student union relations with the campus and community, and student union career opportunities.

Santini, who was asked last year to give the opening speech, will present "An Introduction to College Union Programs" to all delegates.

YWCA 'Outreach' Retreat Slated

"Weekend: Outreach" will be the theme of the YWCA Retreat, Oct. 9 through Oct. 11.

What does it mean to be a human being? Are you satisfied with an "OK" world? Can you have identity without involvement? These, and other questions will be explored in depth during an open-end weekend at the Washoe Pines Ranch on the Old Carson Road in Washoe Valley.

The trip is open to all students. There will be a fee of $5.50 for room and food. Transportation will be provided on request. Reservations and further information are available at the YWCA desk at the Activities room in the Student Union between 11 and 1:30 p.m. before Oct. 5, 1964.

A new constitution for the Jot Travis Memorial Student Union will go into effect this semester.

The most drastic change from the old to the new constitution is found in Article IV concerning the Union Board of Directors. The former document provided for 19 board members, 18 of whom were selected by the board of the previous year. The 19th member was the ASUN second vice-president.

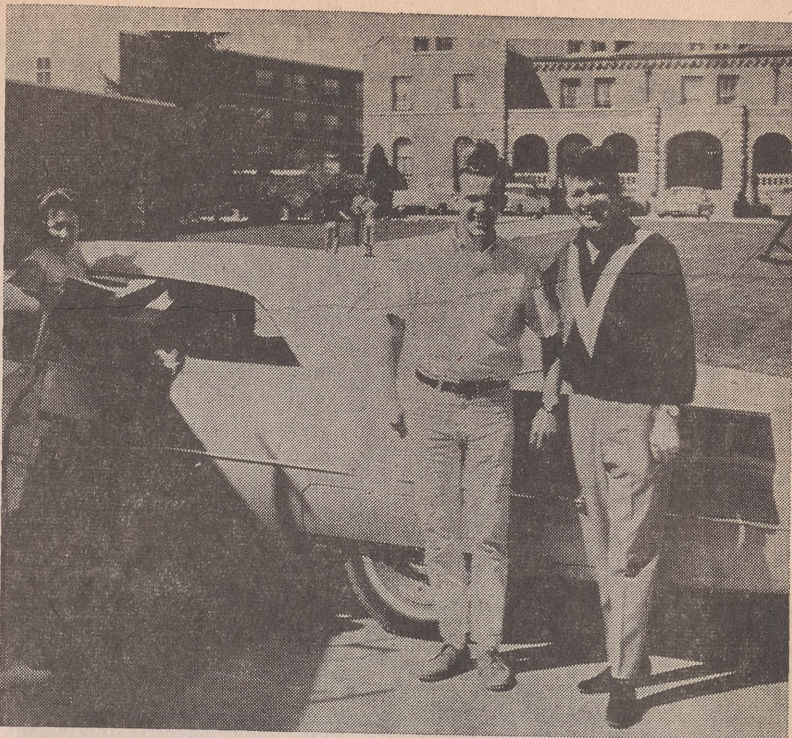

In the new constitution, the board consists of 15 voting members. Article IV reads:

"The board of directors shall consist of (1) the president of the board; (2) the vice-president of the board; (3) the ASUN second vice-president; (4) six members elected by the student body; (5) six members selected by the board; and (6) the director of the student union (non-voting).

Board members, except the ASUN second vice-president, serve a term of one year.

The six members chosen by the students are to be elected at the annual ASUN spring election. Other board members will be picked prior to October 15 each fall semester.

Another change in the new constitution was a requisition of one year previous service on the board for the president and vice-president. (Their selection is made by the board from among its members.)

DAVE COOPER, left, welcomes Harold's Club singing star Dusty Draper to the campus. Draper appeared at Friday's TGIF party, sponsored by the Student Union Board.

Annual Agriculture Picnic Slated Saturday at U of N Research Farm

The College of Agriculture is sponsoring its annual "aggie picnic" Saturday October 3, at the University of Nevada research farm.

The annual event, which is as old as the college itself, is taking a new trend this year, for there will be volleyball games, and a grudge softball game between the agriculture faculty and upper classmen.

Dr. Charles Armstrong, president of the University, and Keith Lee, president of the A.S.U.N., are receiving complimentary tickets to the picnic, as are all freshmen agriculture students.

The affair is slated to last from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. with transportation provided for those without automobiles. Busses will leave from the Max C. Fleischmann Agriculture building at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Education Seniors Active in Local Schools

By EDWARD PEARCE
Staff Writer

Many Education seniors will receive on the job training at local schools this year. This was announced last week by the departments of Elementary and Secondary Education.

Dr. Stinson E. Worley, associate professor of elementary education, said that twenty students would participate in the program at ten elementary schools.

The program began last Thursday with an informal meeting between the student teachers and the faculty of the schools where they will be working.

Last week the student teachers observed the classes they will teach. They will begin their actual training after four weeks of classes at the University.

Fourteen students will teach all day and function as members of the faculty, Dr. Worley said. This is done to give the students a better understanding of the problems they will encounter during their career. Dr. Worley noted that the full day program is much more realistic than the half day schedule used exclusively until a year ago. The remaining students will teach on a half day basis. He said sixty students are expected in the program by the end of the spring semester.

Forty-one secondary education seniors are now taking part in a similar program. Dr. Henry Knapp, chairman of the department of secondary education, said they have been placed in five junior high schools and three high schools in Washoe County as well as one in Fallon. These students teach on a half day schedule.

Elementary education students in the teaching program are: Judy LeBlanc, Susan Broderdorf, Sharon Torno, Theresa Ley, Karen Holland, Cecelia Folsom, Catherine Landers, Jo Ann Holms, Judith Bowman, Bonnie Sanders, Mary Leathers, Joyce Horlacher, Judith Schmidt, Karen Peckardt, Kathleen Lanquelin, Sharon Scinta, Sharon McHenry, Barbara Bromley, Clifford Cluse, and Becky Helm.

Those in the secondary education program are: Judy Baratte, Margaret Barrett, Sue Barry, Beth Bennett, Leonard Boroviak, Marguerite Bullock, Thomas Burns, Gloria Casci, Terrance Cason, Don Chalif, Donald Dallas, Mary J. Dore, David Duke, Marcel Durant, Frank Egenhoff, Jr., Frances Etcheverria, Virginia Frost, Gerald Gribble, Susan Hall, Barbara Hardin, Barbara Heath, Nick Jackson, Everett A. Kiester, Dorothy Kunsch, Richard Lund, Arma W. Mack, Edward W. Martinez, Edwin Mitchell, Sherry Munholland, William Ossolinski, Sharon Richards, Robert Shebler, Stuart A. Schroeder, Linda Lee Shoemaker, Jean Smith, David Stanley, Ralph Thomas, Kenneth Triger, Thomas Wellman, Julie West, and Lawrence Youngberg.

Senior Education students with 2.3 scholastic averages who wish to take part in the spring semester program must apply before November 1. Applications are available in the Dean's office in the College of Education.

"SEE THE FUZZY HEADS" is the apparent exclamation of students attending the Greek-presents dance Saturday night. The fuzziness may have been due to the glasses used.

Sorority House Building Underway; Gamma's Foresee Spring Opening

Construction began Tuesday, September 22 on the new home of the University of Nevada sorority, Gamma Phi Beta. The location is on University Terrace near the Theta Chi house.

Sorority President Sue Rhoades advised that the new building would be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the spring semester.

The sorority is attempting to sell the property at 710 North Sierra Street that has been its home since 1921. This structure was built in 1888 and eventually became the home of former Nevada Governor Frank Bell. It was one of the most impressive buildings in Washoe County at the time of its construction and was the scene of some of the more important social events of that period.

In the summer of 1939 the old house was completely remodeled and several new facilities added. It was redecorated once again in 1955.

The new building will provide housing for 28 women in the form of two and three person bedrooms. It will have complete lounge and dining facilities with a dining room that will seat 36 to 60 persons.

Also included are a modern library, lodging for the house mother, laundry accommodations, a marble fireplace in the living room, and a large basement that will provide room for such activities as dances and float building. The living quarters will be on the second floor together with a coffee counter and quiet study areas.

Greek Tragedies Shown Tonight -- U of N Theatre

"Night Journey" and "Antigone" will be the two movies featured tonight in the University Theatre.

Sophocles' tragedy, "Oedipus Rex," tells of the day when the hero-king of Thebes and Jocasta, his queen, learn from a blind prophet, that they are son and mother. When the tragic day ends, Jocasta has hanged herself and Oedipus has put out his eyes and has fled the kingdom. "Night Journey" takes place at the moment of Jocasta's death.

"Antigone," featuring Irene Papas and Manos Katrakis, received the best actor award at the San Francisco Film Festival in 1963. Irene Papas, as Antigone, daughter of Oedipus, defies the kingly authority of her uncle when it outrages her feelings and her sense of justice and obligation.

Performances of "Night Journey" and "Antigone" begin at 7 and 9 p.m. There is no charge for students with ASUN identification cards.

Mines School Gets Map, Drill Donation

Geological and geophysical maps and drill cores of the Copper Kettle prospect in Churchill County were recently donated to the Mackay School of Mines, University of Nevada, for teaching purposes by Edward J. Bottomley, Mining Engineer, of Lovelock, Nevada.

The three diamond-drill cores are products of a drilling program completed in 1962. The geophysical maps indicate anomalies found as the result of geological, geochemical, and geophysical surveys. Used together, the cores and maps are valuable as aids in teaching mineral exploration techniques, and also provide a case-history of a little known area.

Mr. Bottomley has long been active in Nevada mining. He worked with both Noble Getchell and James Greenan in their various enterprises and exploration activities in the State. Mr. Bottomley continues his present position in Nevada's mineral industry as Superintendent of Raw Materials for the Nevada Cement Company in Fernley. He is currently supervising stripping operations at their mines.

Wolfpack Drops Game on Bearcats' Field

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack dropped its second game of the 1964 football season last Saturday night as they bowed to the Bearcats of Willamette University 27-6 on the Bearcats home field.

The powerful Willamette running game pounded out the yardage against the Nevada defense as the Bearcats backfield netted 241 yards rushing.

The first score of the game came half way through the first quarter as the Bearcats took the ball 61 yards in 11 plays on their series of downs as Walter Maze took the ball over from the one yard line to place the Bearcats in the lead 7-0 as Bob Shields' PAT was good.

A few minutes later in the first period of play the Bearcats' defense score for the Willamette team as defensive back Spike Moore intercepted an Allan Crawford pass and returned it 56 yards for the second Bearcat score of the game with 4:33 left in the game. Willamette led 14-0.

Willamette scored for the third time in the game just before the half as quarterback Jim Dombroski smashed over from one yard out on a quarterback keeper to put the Bearcats out in front 20-2 at the end of the half.

The Wolf Pack came back fast in the second half of play as they scored early in the third quarter as halfback Dan Acuna hit the middle three times for 13 yards and moments later quarterback Crawford carried the ball 17 yards for the touchdown on a boot leg.

Jim Trense's conversion kick failed and Willamette led, 20-6.

The final score of the game came in the final period of play as Bearcat halfback Bill Von Arnswaldt capped a 47 - yard drive with a two yard scoring smash through the middle to clinch the victory for the Bearcats 27-6.

Next week the Wolf Pack will meet Santa Barbara California on the Californians home field.

New Nevada Wrestling Team

The University of Nevada will offer a program of intercollegiate wrestling this year, for the first time. Head coach Lee Newell has scheduled nine matches for the season. Only two of those are home matches, but he is now trying to arrange two more home contests.

The first match will be at home on the 11th of December against Sonoma State. The schedule will end with the Far Western Conference meet, which will be held at Arcata, California on the Humboldt State campus the 27th of February.

Newell expects his toughest competition from the University of California at Davis, Chico State and San Francisco State University, which placed first, second and third respectively in last year's conference meet.

Newell anticipates a good turnout. Practice will start the last week in October.

New Mackay Stadium Adds Comfort Seating for Spectator

The new football stadium, to be ready for next season, will have as one of its best features something called berm type seating. Berm type seating is a solid concrete slab laid at an angle with rails on it. Upon these rails will be wooden seats. The two greatest advantages of this are 1) to clean them all one has to do is stand at the top with a hose and wash them off with one clean sweep; and 2) the angle of the concrete slab will be greater to give the spectators a better view.

all-weather track of a rubberized asphalt composition.

The location of the new stadium is between the married housing quarters and the new planetarium.

The total cost of the new stadium will be approximately $700,000. This price includes a 700 car parking lot located between the stadium and the campus, two big restrooms, a building with lockers for the teams, and underground sprinklers.

The base bid for the track around the field calls for one made of decomposed granite. There is an alternate bid for an

New Planetarium Featured In National Science Magazine

The Fleischmann Atmospherium-Planetarium is the featured article in the June-July issue of "The Reveiw of Popular Astronomy".

The magazine marks the 40th anniversary of the invention of the planetarium. This combined atmospherium - planetarium, made possible by the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation, is the first of its kind in the world.

The atmospherium - planetarium is the cover picture for the issue, and a detailed article on the building points out that it features all-sky motion pictures projected to cover the entire dome of the building. Audiences are able to see the entire view of the sky along with ground level scenery. Cloud formations, the night sky, rain storms, motions of lunar, solar and planetary bodies can all be projected on to the massive screen.

The article also noted that future photography is planned at the Arizona Meteor Crater. The viewers will have the illusion of actually being inside of the crater when the pictures are shown in the screen.

Freshman Filing Ends Tomorrow

Wednesday, Sept. 30, is the filing deadline for candidates for the offices of Freshman class president and Freshman AWS representative.

Freshmen interested in running must file with the office of the ASUN president. The fee is five dollars, which is returnable after the election.
