The Minority Report

By Mike Sloan

The life of an editor is not all roses. Every so often the element of time causes havoc among even the most tranquil of newsmen.

Take, for example, the situation that faced the Sagebrush staff in trying to report what happened at yesterday's Publications Board meeting. The meeting, which was held at 5 p.m., one hour after the paper was on the press, was one of the most controversial of the year.

The issue was the Brushfire. As this is written, Thursday afternoon, I can only guess what will happen later tonight at the meeting. The following story contains my guess. If I'm wrong, I can leave town. If I'm right, I can still leave town.

The Brushfire controversy came to a head yesterday when the ASUN Publications Board

New Carillon Bells Receive Support

The carillon bells high atop Morrill Hall have met with general student and public favor since they were installed last week.

Many calls have been received by Dr. Sam Basta, Dean of student affairs, from various faculty members and residents in the university area complimenting the University on its latest addition. Almost without exception, continued Dean Basta, there has been little unfavorable comment about the carillons.

The only major criticism of the bells has come from several professors who said the carillons have interrupted exams because the bells were not synchronized to ring exactly at ten minutes to the hour. This problem is being taken care of, Dean Basta said.

The timetable for playing the carillons was upgraded this week to allow the students to hear more of the bells before leaving for the Christmas vacation. This week, the carillons were played at 7:45, 9:47, 11:47, 2:47, 5:00 and 5:47.

Beginning January 4, and continuing through January 9, college songs will be played on the bells. On January 11, the bells will play every hour on the hour beginning with Westminster Bell carillon selections.

A representative of the Schulermerick Company, manufacturer of the carillons, has accepted an invitation to speak to the university student body. He will answer questions about the carillons and their financing. No date has been set for him to come to the university.

The equipment in operation in Morrill Hall is valued at $7,000.

Financing of the carillons is to be, in part, through student contributions, and donations. No definite financial program has been established, but various student leaders have been working with Dean Basta to devise a program which would be acceptable to the students and the manufacturer.

Nevada Professor Tours And Teaches

Dr. Alex Volborth, professor of geology at the Mackay School of Mines, is in Calcutta, India, this week attending the International Geological Congress.

Dr. Volborth has been on a lecture tour since October 6. He is expected back by February 1. After stops in England and his native Finland, he lectured at the Ain Shama University in Cairo, Egypt. While in Egypt he also did some research in the Aswan Dam area. He was there for the duration of November.

Faculty Directory Contains Unusual Variety of Names

If you think AM is in the morning, that CHP stands for California Patrol, and that PP is a brand name shortening of Pickle and Pimento, then you probably have not used the faculty telephone directory.

Those abbreviations stand for buildings and are just three of a long list. Although the list explains to the directory user what the abbreviations mean, it does not bother to tell you where they might be.

If the directory user tramps around campus looking for AM he is out of luck. AM, Agricultural Mechanics, isn't even on the campus, as such. It is over on Valley Road.

On the first page of this western brown 8½ by 11 inch fount of university information is information on what to do about emergencies from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8

EDITORIAL NO SANTA CLAUS?

(In September 1897, a little girl named Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the editor of the New York Sun, asking: "Is there a Santa Claus?" In reply Francis P. Church wrote an editorial article that pleased so many readers, the Sun printed it every year at Christmas.)

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except that they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight! The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove. Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the super-natural beauty and glory beyond? Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

No One Asked Me But...

By Sig Rogich

VACATION TIME, vacation time, vacation time . . . Some holiday treats. Get your girl a water buffalo head to hang over her bed. When she gets up in the morning, she'll think of you. And the present will be so unique, all her friends will be envious.

It's in this year to open your presents as soon as they come. No more waiting for Christmas day. And this will do away with peaking.

A VACATION gives everyone time to think. It's the time to be a winner . . . not a Loser. The latter won't get any presents.

DINNER will roll around and the loser will be at the diner grabbing a hotdog. People will be singing carols, and the Loser will be playing the jukebox at his favorite bar. Hot rum and cider will be a favorite, and he'll have a beer. Yes, the life of the Loser is indeed a bad one. Not that he minds . . .

Some Ins and Outs for the holidays . . .

This year it's really in to not wrap any presents. In fact just set them out of the carton they come in. This saves all that trouble of throwing away paper, etc.

It's in to sleep through Christmas morning when the rest of the family opens their presents. And it's very in to get up and sneak out . . .

SANTA CLAUS is out, but his helpers are definitely in. It's even more in to tell the young kids that there is no Santa Claus, and when they least suspect, tell them the little helpers that make all the toys, get drunk every year . . .

NEW YEARS parties are still in. But it's new in if no one has a date, and when the clock strikes twelve, everyone shakes hands and goes home . . .

GUARANTEED TO HAPPEN OVER THE HOLIDAYS . . .

Some lucky guy will go back with his girl, and after he spends a fortune for a present he'll break up again . . .

AT LEAST one drunk will swear that he has no time for such foolishness, but ask him what he got for Christmas, and you'll see a small tear trickle down his cheek . . .

Scrooge will be on TV for the nth time since Dickens wrote the novel . . .

Everyone will talk about the great football games that are going to be on TV, but when New Years day rolls around, they'll sleep through them all . . .

THE GUY at your favorite bar will get so many presents, that you hate his guts by the time you leave . . .

The papers will come up with at least one story concerning a miracle . . .

Some guy at the party will get in a fight with his old buddy, when he kisses his girl too long at the sound of twelve . . .

Vegas will be unbelievably wild this year. Teachers will assign enough homework to keep the student busy for 13 days of the vacation . . .

At least one of your friends will drop by on Christmas day with a new car . . .

She'll buy you some records and a sweater . . .

MICHIGAN will romp over Oregon State.

You'll meet at least three of your friends back from school who will say, "Where?" when you tell them you attend the University of Nevada . . .

Ho, ho, ho, said the fat old man . . . . .

You know he's really a wino. Just look at his red nose.

From The Tail Of The Hurd

From Phil Hurd

MAYBE I'M JUST A SENTIMENTAL, young fool; but I think those Carillon bells are working wonders. Take a look around you today at noon when they are chiming. You'll see the same old people complete with Theta Chi, red socks and ATO, black tennis shoes; the same old stereotype-sorority hairdos) Okay, maybe there's a few kooky look-in' GDIs sauntering around also). But when those bells are ringing, the ordinarily stone-faced women might just have a trace of a smile on their chill reddened cheeks; the BMOCs with the shades and opened ski-jackets aren't wagging their heads back and forth and snapping their fingers . . . Good Lord, I didn't think it was possible.

Oh hell yeah, you might see a few little chicks standing with shoes two feet apart, gawking with shallow, bloated eyes up into the face of their favorite thirteen-year-old Sal Mineo. But hell, we gotta keep them around to hold the class average down to a reasonable level . . .

ODDS AND ENDS:

The Wolfetts really look sharp, are precision, do put Col. Gundlach's craws to shame, and are worth the money we spend to have them perform.

The Wolf Pack has no greater fans than those who referee their home games.

The good, basement-of-the-Library, Librarian did not nearly drown in Whalen

Pond — it was Walden Pond.

Vel, the bartender at the Wal, mixes the wildest Tom and Jerry in Reno. That's probably the reason for my "D" notice.

Earl, Lum, Nichlanovich and Coates were sure humiliated by "—Santini, Gomes et al", despite the former's feeble attempts at letter writing.

I will not accept the Nobel Peace Prize just because I write the greatest column since the dawn of civilization.

QUOTE of the SEASON: From the Animal Lover's column of the San Francisco Chronicle comes these words of wisdom. "Broken Christmas tree ornaments can be very irritating if consumed." So be careful not to consume any broken Christmas tree ornaments because they can be very irritating. See how I wrenched the meaning out of the quote and made its message clear to all?

IF WE ARE ALL REAL CAREFUL to stay away from our cars while we are drunk this vacation, we can all come back alive on Jan. 4 and prepare to flunk our finals alive and together and alive.

My best wishes to all of you for a Merrie Christmas, yes cats, chicks; boys, girls; men, women; professors; Rick Matsons; and fraternity and sorority members alike. PEACE ON EARTH AND GOOD WILL TO ALL CREATURES even if you are a greek. (Heh heh; maybe I shouldn't have said that.)

Santa's Christmas List

SANTA CLAUS and his helpers may need some gift suggestions for some people on campus. The Sagebrush offers these few hints to get Santa off on the right track.

FOR THE average student any of the following would be appropriate: money, good grades, an attractive member of the opposite sex and money.

For the average faculty member, we suggest new glasses, a private parking space, fewer students, and a peaceful, relaxing vacation.

NOT ALL PEOPLE are average however, and Santa may have some specific problems. For Sam Basta he might bring ear plugs and a new swan; for Dean Mobley, a 10,000 pound bag of duck food, and Dean Hathorne really needs some new socks.

THE DORM residents could use a year's supply of digestion pills or better food in the dining commons; Lincoln Hall residents deserve autographed pictures of Editor Sloan.

ASUN President Keith Lee is searching for a girl, and Jinks Dabney secretly craves a date with a certain campus literary figure. Sig Rogich would like to have a recent issue of the Sagebrush announcing his pinning, quietly forgotten and Lyle Rivera needs a book called the "Democratic Leader in Society."

AMOS FROCK, infamous sports writer for the Sagebrush, would look swell in a Sundowner's hat. Campus Playboy Duncan Edwards doesn't need anything, he's got it all.

ART KESS and his fellow members of Blue Key deserve anything they want for their Operation Mud . . . The senate desperately needs something to do.

If we have forgotten anyone Santa, please remember there is one gift any intelligent person wants, a life-time subscription to the Sagebrush.

Nevada Team Enters National Discussion Contest

The team of Mike Sloan, Bruce Pozzi, David Sheets, David Reese, and Renate Gratt is representing the University of Nevada this year in the fourteenth annual National Contest in Public Discussion, according to Larry Hines, speech instructor and the team coach.

In this discussion contest the Nevada team will not have to travel to any other campus to participate, nor will any other team have to journey here. Each team is required to tape record its discussion and send the tape to the University of Texas. There the tapes will be judged by three competent judges, and a certain number of tapes will advance to a semi-formal round.

The three winners of the semi-final round will advance to the final round, which will be held in Chicago at the Central States Speech Association convention in April, 1965. There nine recognized speech leaders will choose the winner. All semifinalists will receive certificates of merit, and the finalists will receive engraved microphones.

This year's topic is, "What should be done to solve the problem of poverty in the United States?"

Each team must analyze the situation, decide if there really is such a problem, evaluate the many solutions and choose the best. Each team is encouraged to research the problem, discuss the problem and rehearse together before the recording is made. The recording may not be over twenty - five minutes in length.

The Nevada team is composed of students in speech 315, "Conference and Discussion Techniques."

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

In recent communications concerning the student uprisings at Berkeley, a crucial aspect has been overlooked. Commentators have not recognized the passionate quest for freedom of thought that appears to underly the disorders. Whether or not we agree with the particular actions spurred on by this passion, we cannot deal fairly or truthfully with the actions without reckoning with the underlying motive. After all, deep concern for freedom of thought and expression is the foundation of liberty.

If it is felt that other passions also played a part at Berkeley, let us deal with them as distorting influences rather than as the whole matter. Surely youth when excited about a cause, run the danger of being boisterous, inept, confused, and misdirected, but we suppress the passion for liberty only at our peril.

As for extremism, let it be asked if there was violence or deliberate incitement to violence, or character assassination, or deliberate secrecy in membership, motives, and sources of money, or if the right to support particular views was upheld against the right to support the opposite.

Finally, I should like to ask: To what causes are Nevada students devoted? What are they passionate about?

Sincerely,
William T. Scott
Professor of Physics

It's probably because you're still her little boy.

Sentimental mom.

Still can't accept the facts of life. Sit down and tell her a few. About the REMINGTON® LEKTRONIC II Shaver.

Tell her it's cordless. That it runs on rechargeable energy cells.* So you can shave on the spot. Any spot. That a "man" needs this kind of freedom.

Tell her about the big shaver head. With 756 slots. How once a whisker goes through, it's going, going, gone.

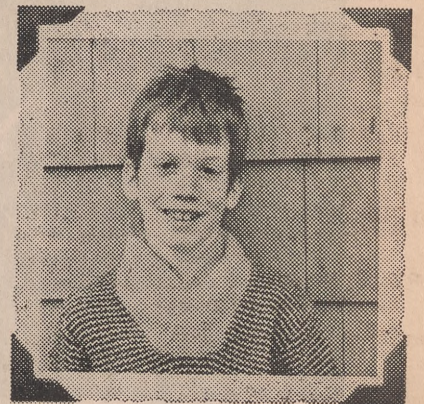

Tell her about the 4 Roller Combs. How they gently let you get to the whiskers, but not the skin. How they even take care of any peach fuzz leftover from bygone days.

Tell her about 348 cutting edges. That start keen, stay keen because they're honed from surgical high-carbon steel.

Tell her the REMINGTON LEKTRONIC II motor is the most powerful in electric shaving. That it never slows down on straightaways or tricky curves.

Tell her how the head case flicks off—and there's a straight cutting edge for clean, even sideburns. Neat.

Nursing Student Patricia L. Dinan as she received her commission of U.S. Army 2nd Lieutenant from Col. Gundlach.

Nev. Nursing Student Receives Commission As 2nd Lieutenant

The Orvis School of Nursing now has its first U.S. Army officer nursing student.

Miss Patricia L. Dinan, a senior in the school of nursing, was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant Tuesday in a ceremony in the office of Colonel Robert L. Gundlach, professor of military science. Miss Dinan is the first University of Nevada nursing student to receive the rank of Second Lieutenant through the "Army Student Nursing Program", a program initiated by the Army to train nurses for military duty.

Miss Dinan enrolled into the program in her sophomore year and has been receiving the pay of a Private First Class while attending school. In her final six months of school Miss Dinan will receive the pay of a Second Lieutenant and will continue receiving it until her three years of military duty are fulfilled or until she gets promoted to a higher rank.

Upon graduation Miss Dinan will report to Ft. Sam Houston in Texas for her officer orientation course and then will be sent to her assignment.

Fort Wainright, Alaska, is Miss Dinan's selection for assignment, and she will practice pediatric nursing there for the duration of her duty.

voted to give itself the final determination of what material will be printed in the magazine.

This action was bitterly opposed by the Brushfire Policy Board and the editor of the Brushfire, Judy Garwood. Both the Policy Board and Miss Garwood had argued that the editor of the magazine should have the sole responsibility for selecting articles to be published.

The Publications Board however made clear that any magazine printed at the expense of the students must be subject to the policy of the Board.

ASUN President Keith Lee commented that "the charges of censorship raised by the Policy Board are unfounded. No publisher should be forced to give his editor complete, absolute freedom." Lee explained that the Sagebrush is subject to review of the Board as are all other ASUN publications. "The Board's job is to make sure that student money spent for publications is used wisely, and that no ASUN publication contain material that is detrimental to the welfare of the students or of the University, he said.

Some odds and ends of tongue in cheek information include one spoon but not a Knife or a Fork to go with it.

There is a Bishop, Deacon, even a Church, but no Pope. There are Adams but no Eves and Carpenters but no Hammers although there are some Woods and Brix.

There is a Post but no Pillar and a Pool but no Puddle, a Roebuck but no Sears, a Ridge but no Runner, and a Ball but neither Dance nor Bearing.

The fish and the fowl are present with Salmon and Bird, as are places like Ely and things like Hedges and Bridges.

Although there are a few

Smiths they are vastly outnumbered by the names that begin with Mc.

Some of the professions represented are Cooks, Carpenters, and Potters, not to mention the Smiths.

The longest name goes to Higginbotham, chairman of the journalism department. The honors for the shortest name, three letters, is shared by many.

The faculty directory has no index and the first twenty pages are numbered. Listed in the unnumbered pages are Reno Campus offices, Board of Regents, Administrative officers and staff, and the staff emeriti.

On the numbered pages the listing runs from Adams to Zinn, pages 1 through 66.

Pages 66 through 77 are of vital interest, they are telephone numbers for Nevada Southern.

Home Ec

"Communications in Home Economics" was the subject of a workshop sponsored by the Sarah Hamilton Fleischmann School of Home Economics at its annual conference held early this month.

The guest speakers and consultants were Lou Richardson and Genevieve Callahan, authors of "How to Write for Homemakers." They discussed the preparation of news releases, and offered suggestions on making club news and pictures interesting, brief, and attractive. Part of the discussion also included radio and television releases and talks. Both of the authors have extensive backgrounds in communications and home economics.

The program was planned for the Nevada extension home agents and the resident staff in home economics.

"Combat"

Eighteen junior and senior ROTC students staged mock combat and reconnaissance patrols last weekend in the small nation of "Terra Verde" in Dog Valley.

Nine volunteers from MS4, the senior ROTC class, and nine volunteers from MS3, the junior ROTC class left school last Friday night at 8:30 to practice what they had been learning in military text books.

The two-fold problem of scouting the make-believe country of "Terra Verde", and destroying an enemy "missile site" was the objective of the juniors. The objective of the seniors was to harass their underclassmen and to protect the missile emplacement.

By day-break, some eight hours after beginning their mission, the tired and foot-weary juniors had finally blown-up the missile site—an old out-house—and made it back to their trucks with the seniors' rifle fire only minutes behind them.

Major Halverson, the observing instructor, said the maneuver was a success and that the only injuries were a few blistered feet.

Sigma Delta Chi

CHICAGO—Ralph Sewell, assistant managing editor of the Daily Oklahoman & Times, Oklahoma City, was elected national president of Sigma Delta Chi during the professional journalistic society's 55th anniversary convention at Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2-5.

Sewell, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, has been a newspaperman since 1925, spending most of his career with the Oklahoma City newspapers. He succeeds Theodore F. Koop, vice president of CBS, Washington.

Also elected were: honorary national president, Bernard Kilgore, president, The Wall Street Journal; vice president and president-elect, R. L. Spangler, publisher, the Redwood City (Calif.) Tribune; vice president for undergraduate affairs, Prof. Charles Barnum, Northwestern University; secretary, Robert M. White II, co-editor and co-publisher, the Mexico (Mo.) Ledger; treasurer, Staley T. McBrayer, board chairman, the Daily News-Texan, Arlington, Texas.

Barnum succeeds Prof. A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the University of Nevada department of journalism.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club has developed a nucleus of Spanish-speaking students who meet regularly to have informal discussions in Spanish.

These meetings give the students studying Spanish a chance to do a little out-of-classroom practice in conversational Spanish conversation. Dr. J. O. Purzinsky, associate professor in the foreign language department, feels that the group is especially beneficial to upper division students who, he says, are constantly voicing a need for more conversational practice.

The club intends to fill this need with weekly meetings in the Tub Lounge. There, every Thursday night at 7 p.m., students can enjoy Spanish conversation over their coffee.

Nursing Wassail

The Orvis School of Nursing held its second annual old-fashioned Wassail last Monday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in Stewart Hall.

The holiday greeting was presented by the Nursing faculty and students for the entire University faculty and the senior nursing students. The committee in charge included Chairman Pat Dinan and Karen Bradbury, Jolene Kernan, Jeanne Gurneau, Louise Payne, Kay Seeliger, Marlies Spreckner, Andree Jo Metzger, and Jill Walker.

CCA Caroling

Are you in the Christmas spirit? Do you want to release all those pent-up feelings of mirth and good cheer? The Campus Christian Association invites all students to go Christmas caroling next Tuesday evening, Dec. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Those interested will meet at the Campus Christian Association house, 1020 N. Virginia st., at 7:30 p.m. Caroling will last from that time to 9:30 p.m., and a Christmas party will follow.

Transportation will be provided by individual cars. Refreshments will also be provided. Students are asked to sign up for the fun on one of the posters around campus.

Placement

Dr. Robert L. Gulick, Jr., Dean of Admissions for the American Institute for Foreign Trade, will be on campus December 18th.

Eighteen alumni of the University of Nevada have completed their work at The American Institute for Foreign Trade—a graduate school of world business.

Since one in four of American businesses and industrial enterprises will actively be engaged in foreign trade in the next ten years, those considering working overseas are urged to acquaint themselves with the opportunities presented for an adequate preparation for that career at The American Institute for Foreign Trade.

The Institute's curriculum emphasizes three main fields—language most wanted by companies (Spanish, Portuguese, French), area studies, and world trade and banking. Language classes, taught by native teachers using the most advanced methods, are limited to eight students. The training is rigorous, with three to five hours a day on language study alone. The balance of a very full schedule is divided by men with a minimum experience of ten years as executives in foreign lands.

Dean Gulick is particularly well equipped to discuss career problems and possibilities. He has returned to America after spending more than a decade in Libya and North Africa. His career has included several years as Lecturer in the Institute of Economics, University of California, Berkeley, preceded by experience as an Economist with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, New York City, and as U. S. Customs Officer at San Francisco.

Appointments may be arranged through the Director of Graduate Placement.

Estes, Utah State Take Pack 101-80

All-American Forward Nets 40; Moore, DeBise Lead Nevada

By Gregg Zive
Sports Editor

Nationally-ranked Utah State defeated the University of Nevada Wolf Pack 101-80 behind the 40-point effort of Wayne Estes.

The game was played before a crowd of 5,011 in Logan, Utah.

The Pack led during the first eight minutes of the contest but the superior height and All-American Estes proved to be too much for Nevada.

Bill Nicholson did not start for Nevada but Joe DeBise filled in well with 20 points. Leading the Pack scoring was forward Larry Moore with 22 points. Also in double figures for Nevada were guards Frank Bruno with 15 and Mike Olivas with 13.

Moore, DeBise and Nap Montgomery held their own for a while under the boards but soon Steve Roth, 6'10", and Estes, 6'6", were hauling in the rebounds consistently for Utah State.

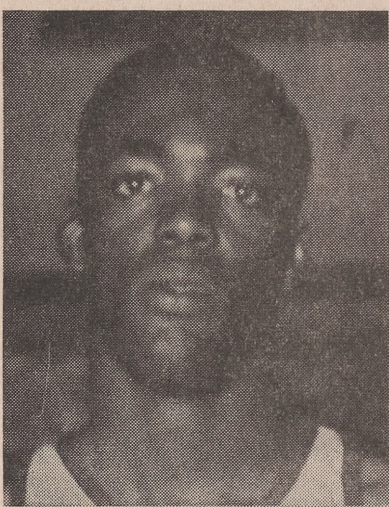

The Silver and Blue were ahead 17-16 with 12 minutes left in the first half. Then Utah State pulled ahead to stay and led 45-33 at the half.

Estes, who had been averaging 33.7 points per game, opened with hooks and inside jump shots in the second half. Utah State had three other players in double figures and had a total of 12 out of 13 players scoring.

The Wolf Pack played well as the Utes had been averaging over 97 points per game. Nevada also had balanced shooting, even with Montgomery hitting for only two field goals and Nicholson getting only three.

The Pack's next game is Monday night against Fresno State. It will be a home game against the same team that defeated Nevada in the first game of the year 99-59.

Nap Leads Team

NAPOLEON MONTGOMERY

One of the standout players on this year's Wolf Pack basketball team is junior Napoleon Montgomery.

Montgomery was a scoring and rebounding leader on last season's conference champs and this year he has led the team in both categories. He is 6'3" but Nevada spectators have seen him consistently outjump men three inches taller than he.

Nap is 21 years old and is from Chicago, Illinois. While attending Englewood High in Chicago he was all-city his junior and senior years. He also graduated 22 in a class of 150.

He is a physical education major and wants to coach upon graduation.

The high point of his athletic career came last year when the Wolf Pack won the Far Western crown.

Toilet Bowl Action

Phi Sigma Kappa held its first annual "Toilet Bowl Game" last Saturday. At a meeting, the actives challenged the pledge class to a game of flag football with a keg of beer being provided by the losing team.

The Pledges herein publicly express their gratitude for the keg which the actives were kind enough to provide.

The beer was enjoyed by all at the traditional "Christmas Party" during which "gifts" were exchanged.

The Phi Sigs annual "Toilet Bowl Game" will become a part of the house's traditional Christmas festivities.

Taus, Snakes, LCA All Win

Sigma Alpha Epsilon No. 3 fell before ATO No. 2 51-14 in this week's intramural basketball. Former Reno High School ace Mike Sala led the Tau attack with 12 points. Lou Rossi pitched in 11 for the ATOs.

Sigma Nu walked over Independents No. 2 43-23. Leading the Snake drive was another former high school star, Dennis Colligan, who played for Wooster last year. Teammate Jan Packwood dropped in 11 for the winning team.

Lambda Chi No. 1 started off a winning season by dumping White Pine Hall No. 2 38-21. The Lambda Chis were paced by Denny Kidwell's 12 points. Steve Dymtriv had 10 for the winners, while Gregg Zive scored 9.

Three games were played Wednesday night, with ATO No. 1 facing White Pine No. 1, Theta Chi playing Lambda Chi No. 2, and Bookstore 4 Plus meeting SAE No. 2. Last night, three more games were played, with Lincoln Hall facing Independents No. 1, Phi Sig playing ATO No. 3, and Independents No. 4 meeting SAE No. 1. None of these games was played in time for press.

Nevada Wallops Sonoma 33-6 In First Wrestling Match

The brand new University of Nevada wrestling team soundly trounced Sonoma State College 33-6 last Friday night before a crowd of 500 in the U. of N. gym.

This was the first match for the squad, which is beginning its first regular year of competition. The victory pleased coach Lee Newell who had been pessimistic about the meet. Nevada moved several wrestlers into heavier weight classifications so they would not have to forfeit points.

At 123 pounds Jim Valin of Nevada pinned Jim Stevens of Sonoma to give the Wolf Pack a 5-0 lead. Then, at 130 pounds, Dave Shapiro of Sonoma decided John Facque of Nevada 11-3. Facque is a 115-pound wrestler but filled in for injured Bill Ellis.

The second and final Sonoma State victory came in the 137-pound classification where Buddy Shair of Nevada was defeated by Erick Bjorkman 9-3. Shair has only been training for two weeks and was unable to keep going at full speed in the last round.

Richard Haines of Nevada pinned Sonoma's Mike Cash in 2:21 of the second round in the 147 division.

John Rogers, the squad's only returning wrestler from last year's tiny team, pinned Bill Taylor of Sonoma in two minutes of the second round.

The upset of the match came when Nevada's Jim Fitzgerald defeated Louie Winberg of Sonoma State 5-3 in the 167 class. Fitzgerald has only been out for the team a week and Newell said that it was only through determination and persistence that he was able to win.

At 177 pounds the Wolf Pack's Roy Kreizenbeck pinned Sonoma's Carl Carlson in 2:36 of the second period. Both Fitzgerald and Kreizenbeck are 157 pound wrestlers and are inexperienced but moved into heavier weight classes for this meet.

The fastest pin of the night came in the 191 class when Ron Boker of Nevada pinned Terry Langley in 1:47 of the first round.

Heavyweight Dave Haines pinned Sonoma's Paul Dennis in 2:34 of the third round to give the Silver and Blue a 33-6 victory.

Newell said, he will be disappointed if Nevada finishes less than third in the conference.
