The Minority Report

By Mike Sloan

Having resigned as Sagebrush editor, and having only one more issue to put out before my resignation becomes effective, I find it increasingly difficult to decide what to write in my column and for the editorial page.

There are so many problems and issues that I could and should have dealt with during the past semester that I feel somewhat remiss for not taking the time to put my views on paper.

For this reason and because I will greatly miss the University of Nevada, its students, faculty and administration I must admit that I resign with a heavy heart.

Being editor has been one of the happiest experiences of my life, I have established friendships that will, I hope, continue for many years. To my friends then I would like to dedicate these last two columns.

First and foremost I want to thank my staff who have served above and beyond the call of duty and deserve the credit for what ever good can be said about this semester's paper. I owe equal thanks to the faculty of the journalism department who have always been ready to offer advice and suggestions.

During the semester I have come to depend on the advice and counseling of Dean Sam Basta, and I will miss his warm friendship which has meant so very much to me this past year. Dean Sam's secretary Pat will also hold a special place in my mind each time I think about the U of N and my friends.

Bill Adams and Bob Kersey have both been close and good friends who I will miss.

As I write this, I am amazed that the number of people I call friends can not be limited to a quick count on my fingers. At times during the semester I would have sworn that the Sagebrush editor was the most friendless person on campus.

To all of the members of the student government I would like to say thank you for your support and advice; to Keith Lee in particular I must say a special thanks. Keith is a friend I can always depend on and one that I will greatly miss.

To my room mate, Bruce Pozzi, I likewise owe a hardy thank you.

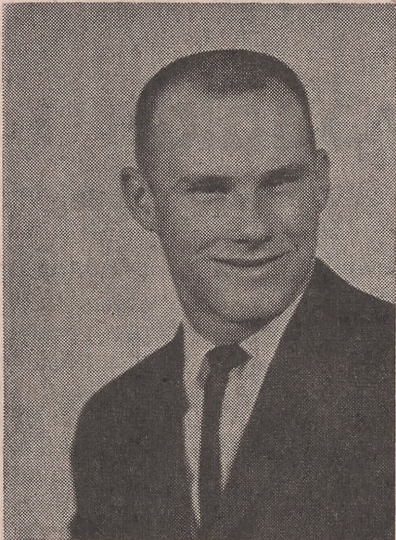

Indeed to all of you, those who have criticized and damned me an those of you who have had a nice word or two I give my thanks for a very enlightening semester.

'Brushfire' Carries Cause

By MICHELE FUETSCH
Staff Writer

The Brushfire staff reportedly carried its cause to the students yesterday when it began circulating a petition to hold a special election concerning the charges of censorship of the literary magazine.

If the petition can gather sufficient signatures Senate will be forced to hold a special election to determine if students want a reconsideration of the policy voted for the Brushfire.

Judy Garwood, editor of the magazine under fire, stated, "I go on record as opposed to this election. I am still in favor of the Brushfire going independent."

But, however, she conceded that the move to petition was the decision of the staff and she would abide by it.

Miss Garwood revealed that she had received a number of offers including one from a group of students at Nevada Southern to help finance her efforts to publish independent of ASUN funds. The offer of help from Nevada Southern came in the form of a letter from the first vice president at the Las Vegas campus, Thomas W. Hribar.

Contacted in Las Vegas, Hribar, stated that, "a number of Nevada Southern students including the editor of the campus newspaper, Jack Obell, are sympathetic to Miss Garwood's stand against censorship and would like to become more informed about the controversy."

Hribar emphasized that this was not an official move on the part of the student government leaders but merely a reflection of interest on the part of some students who were opposed to the Senate's decision to enforce the new policy for the Brushfire. "It doesn't make any difference if the controversy is waged on the Nevada campus or the California campus or any other campus, it's the principal of censorship that we are opposed to," Hribar said.

Keith Lee, ASUN president upon hearing of the offer of help from the southern campus said, "they (the southern Nevada students) don't know the circumstances. They should find out the facts before they offer any support."

Lee went on to say that this controversy was not a problem for the Las Vegas campus. He added that no principal of censorship was involved but the entire question was, "one of publishers exercising legitimate control."

Commenting on the petition to call an election to determine student feeling concerning the policy of the Brushfire, Lee said, "such an election would only prove that Nevada students are not walking around with IBM cards around their necks looking for causes to support, as Miss Garwood is doing: I think the proposal will be defeated."

The move to force an election will be headed by Lance Sparks, a member of the editorial staff and a contributor to last year's Brushfire. Sparks termed the policy under which the Brushfire is to operate as a result of the Publications' Board's recommendations as "unclear, inconcise and impossible for any editor to work under."

fessor and long associated with the Brushfire staff, had some misgivings about the cry of censorship from the members of the Brushfire staff. Herman said, "The Publications Board, by supporting the Brushfire financially is in a position to say in effect, "if we don't like what you do we can stop it."

He continued by saying, "The Publications Board feels a responsibility for the magazine. Once the magazine appears they are saddled with it."

He then emphasized, "The Brushfire doesn't even trust its own faculty advisors."

The campaign to win student support will be waged with leaflets distributed on campus, as well as, direct appeals to the living groups and organizations to fall behind the members of the Brushfire staff in their attempt to curb what they consider "crippling censorship."

Library Gives New Hours

During finals the library will be open extra hours for the convenience of students. This has been arranged by the library administration in consultation with the student library committee under the chairmanship of Michon Maupin.

The reserve desk and circulation desk as well as most of the facilities of the library will be in operation during these hours. Reference and Xerox service will, however, not be in full operation. The Xerox machine will be in operation only up to 10 p.m.

These special hours during finals and especially the fourteen hours on Sunday set a precedent for the library.

The schedule beginning the Friday before finals is:

Friday, Jan. 15 8 a.m.-11 p.m.

Saturday, Jan. 16 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sunday, Jan. 17 9 a.m.-11 p.m.

Monday thru Friday, Jan. 18-22 8 a.m.-11 p.m.

Saturday, Jan. 23 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sunday, Jan. 24 Closed

Peter, Paul & Mary Cancel Reno Show

Peter, Paul and Mary, scheduled to appear at the University of Nevada February 10 in connection with Winter Carnival activities, have canceled their concert. The cancellation was announced last Thursday by Bill Adams, special events director for the Student Union board, which was to sponsor the appearance of the popular folk singing trio.

New Chancellor Starts July 1

Dr. N. Edd Miller, newly named chancellor of the Reno campus of the University of Nevada, will assume his duties by July 1.

Appointment of Dr. Miller, who is now assistant to the academic vice president at the University of Michigan, was announced by President Charles J. Armstrong.

His appointment rounds out the top level reorganization plan approved by the board of regents last year for both Reno and Las Vegas campuses. Under the plan, the post of dean of Nevada Southern University in Las Vegas was to be replaced by a chancellorship.

Dr. Donald C. Moyer, president of Eastern New Mexico University, was named Las Vegas chancellor in December. The post of executive vice president of the Reno campus will be replaced by the chancellorship being filled by Dr. Miller.

Delta Sigma Phi

Delta Sigma Pi, business fraternity, held their elections for spring semester officers last Friday. The new president of the organization is Marshall Mast.

Other new officers are: Bob McGowan, chancellor; Larry Worcester, first vice-president; Bill Cahoon, second vice-president; Bob Meriweather, secretary; and Dave Anderson, treasurer.

New president Mast outlined some new activities to be undertaken by the fraternity next semester. Also during the meeting the results of the fraternity's raffle, "Keg Contest", were announced. First prize went to Arlene Kerran; second prize, to George Rinaldi; and third prize, to an unidentified faculty member.

EDITORIAL

When will it stop?

In one of the most recent moves in the Brushfire controversy, which really isn't a controversy, the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the national professional journalistic society, was asked by Keith Lee to investigate the charge of censorship.

Sigma Delta Chi specifically points out to that "mislead" handful there is no question of censorship.

Miss Garwood is simply throwing up a huge smoke screen with hopes the martyr will not be burned.

The question, or what she terms "issue" is really quite simple. The ASUN Publications Board is the publisher of the Brushfire magazine. As publisher they have the sole right to determine what is good and what isn't good material to go into the magazine.

The board isn't attempting to be a literary critic, or censor. And they certainly aren't trying to kill literary endeavor. They simply are doing their job as publisher, putting the Brushfire under an existing policy that the Sagebrush, the Forum and the Artemesia must already follow.

This is the right of the publisher. It is no different with any other magazine or newspaper in the country.

It should also be noted to those "censorship crying" few, that the petition started yesterday on campus is unconstitutional. A initiative-referendum petition can only be started by the ASUN president. Nowhere in the student constitution does it provide for referendum.

With the foolishness of the matter, that is already blown out of proportion by the misused term of censorship, and the fact that there can be no referendum, we suggest the Brushfire and the ASUN part ways and dissolve the partnership. Or let Miss Garwood resign.

Then it will stop.

Settling Problems Solved

When a building is built on clay type soil, will it sink and if so how much? This is the problem studied and solved in a paper recently written by Patrick Dominico, research associate in hydrology at the Desert Research Institute, and Professor Glen Clark, assistant professor of electrical engineering.

The paper was published in the Journal of Soil Mechanics and Foundations Division of the Proceedings of the American Society of Civil Engineers. It presents a method for determining the settling depth of buildings when the amount of time and the nature of the soil under the building is known. The problem is solved using a system of electrical components that may be called an analogous computer.

The measurement of the physical properties of the soil, water and building and the resultant settling can be determined by measuring parallel electrical properties.

This is the first time electrical analogs have been applied to this problem.

No One Asked Me But...

Las Vegas showered its guests with free booze and good times during the Christmas vacation. While enjoying my fill some New Year's resolutions were overheard. Of course the most popular was heard by the sick drunk who swore not to drink next New Year's.

Belle Barth, currently appearing at the Thunderbird Lounge in Las Vegas, made a resolution to see a dentist and get rid of some of the rottenness in her mouth.

Nevada Southern's ex-Dean Carlson resolved to award the University of Nevada with a nice thank you note for taking his job.

Howard Cannon made Clark County clerk, Helen Scott Reed, his favorite cutie, after she loyally found 200 votes in the recent election.

The University of Nevada athletic department announced that it would no longer turn down any bids to the Cotton, Sugar, Orange or Rose bowls.

Silas Stepp, Nevada Southern center, invited Nevada's Bill Nicholson to spend the weekend with him, after the two got along so well in the recent basketball encounter.

Dean Sam realized the fact that some people like rock and roll, so he ordered the current top ten to be played on the school chimes.

The campus cops will now give an annual award to the student who gets the most tickets for the year.

The Brushfire will attempt to add a little spice to its writing this year announced editor Judy Garwood.

The dining commons announced that Lobster and Filet Mignon will only be served twice a week this year, and no matter how much students gripe, Pheasant under glass will stay on the menu.

The book store is going to start a new policy in giving coupons with every book. Ten coupons entitles the bearer to a ride in the owner's Rolls Royce. Or the individual may stop at the book store's counseling department, where the owner will give a lesson in becoming a millionaire by doubling book prices.

The Frank Lloyd Wright foundation announced the 1964 award for best architecture will go to Lincoln Hall. Sagebrush editor Sloan was overheard saying, "Wonderful, just wonderful, I wonder if they'll put it in the toilet bowl or above the door."

The Big Losers Award for 1964... This guy really picked some dillies. He foresaw the future. Wrong in every instance. He's in debt to his neck; his car needs a new transmission.

Taft would beat Young in the senatorial battle in Ohio...

A column, "No One Asked Me But..." would win acclaim as the best literary presentation in a decade...

I guess you all know who the Loser for the year is... Adios... loyal??? fans! Adios... Tom Jones Society. It was a pity that the editor of this fine sheet didn't know how to write his name... so the proper credit could be given to the fine verse presented...

Pardon My Snake

By Hampton Young

Dead week, aptly named because if you don't study this week you're gonna be dead next week, is upon us. This week is set aside specifically for students to concentrate wholly upon their studies for finals. Theoretically that is... most students end up cramming for last minute tests that diabolical professors spring upon them, or finishing up term papers that should have been completed over christmas vacation.

And next week is "FINALS," the scourge of college life. Strewn before many are six complete days of reckoning with only a very few hours sleep.

Sophomores and juniors, seniors and unclassifieds, salted heavily with freshmen will traipse day by day from final to final in their never-ending quest for enlightenment. Here in this university is located the key to the wisdom of the ages which feeds the discoveries of the future. These students that will be striving inch by inch through finals are, through each final exam unlocking one of the many gates to the infinite and varied paths of knowledge. I just wanna know one thing - ain't there an easier way?

And the Brushfire controversy rages on...

Miss Judy Garwood, famed editress of the controversial "Brushfire" magazine printed last school year, is definitely for going independent and printing the magazine without the benefit of ASUN funds this year. She contends that senate has in effect, enacted censorship upon the magazine when they placed two members of the publications board on the "Brushfire's" editorial staff.

But the slinky editress is also quite peeved at editor Sloan and the "Sagebrush." During a "Brushfire" staff meeting Sunday evening she commented with tongue in cheek, "I have a very bad name on campus—I'm unloved."

"... And the truth shall make you free, free, free, and fired..." These profound words, written on a wall in the hole they call the Sagebrush office, are accredited to O. D. A. O'Donnell, a former Sagebrush editor. O'Donnell had the adage, "... and the truth shall make you free..." as the theme for his editorials. Unfortunately the boy wrote one editorial that may or may not have been truthful, but it was definitely libelous. He was fired...

Letters to The Editor

Dear Mr. Sloan:

Your views on freedom of expression are deeply offensive to me, since they contradict the highest ideals of Western civilization for the last several centuries, not to mention the Constitution of the United States.

You have also permitted the publication during the last semester of articles which were vulgar or, at least by intent, obscene. This too offends me.

For these reasons, I call for the suppression of the Sagebrush.

Elmer R. Rusco
Political Science Department

(Editor's Note:) I am somewhat puzzled as to how Mr. Rusco has ascertained any knowledge of my "views on freedom of speech" since to my best recollection I have never seen, let alone talked to him. I also cannot recall having ever written an editorial or column on the subject.

As for the charges that the Sagebrush has contained obscene material, I can only say that the Rusco is the first person to make such a charge, and since he offers no specifics I cannot present a defense.

Mr. Rusco's call for the suppression of the Sagebrush is somewhat impolite, considering he does not pay one cent towards the operation of the paper and is reading it at the expense of the students. If you don't like it, Mr. Rusco, don't read it.

Editor,

Why do the people working for the Health Service receive one and one-half hours for lunch?

Walking to my 10 a.m. class Friday I slipped on one of the numerous ice-covered walkways, sustaining a number of lacerations. At the end of class I handed in my blood-stained test and went to the Health Service. I was greeted by a sign that informed me the staff of the Health Service eats lunch between the hours of 11 and 12:30.

I would like to commend the Building and Grounds Dept. on their remarkable job of snow removal, remarkably poor that is. I am sure the snow will melt with the coming of spring.

Keith Lockard.

Around The Campus...

Job Demonstrations

Proper employment interview techniques were demonstrated Friday in the Travis Lounge in the second session of two demonstrations designed to prepare students to meet the professional interviewer. The first session was held last Wednesday.

In the two previous years this was held, the demonstrations were presented and conducted by the College of Business Administration and the Office of Student Affairs. Because students and faculty members of other colleges showed a desire for broader participation, the program has been extended to the entire university, with faculty members of various departments and colleges participating.

Representing the Office of Student Affairs are Bill L. Adams, Director of Union Programs; Dr. Sam M. Basta, Dean of Students; James R. Hathhorn, Dean of Men; Professor Elaine Mobley, Dean of Women; William E. Rasmussen, Director of Placement; and Professor Robert G. Whittemore, Director of Counseling.

The College of Business Administration is participating through Professor Richard T. Adams, Finance Department; Professor Robert K. Coe, Department of Management; Professor James S. Grant, Department of Management; Professor Robert W. Lambright, Marketing Department; Professor Ben L. Smith, Accounting Department; and Professor Richard E. Wilson, Economics Department.

The various other colleges will be represented by Professor James C. Davis, School Administration, College of Education; Dr. Harold L. Kirkpatrick, Assistant Dean, College of Arts and Science; Dr. Charles H. Seufferle, Assistant Dean, College of Agriculture; and Dr. George E. Sutton, Department of Mechanical Engineering, College of Engineering.

The demonstrations show examples of good, fair, and poor job applicant techniques in three rehearsed interviews and several unrehearsed sessions with members of the audience participating. The question-and-answer periods are set at a desk in the center of the room with the audience surrounding it, so full advantage of the interview is available.

He said the applicant should know about the company, what he wants to do, what he wants to say about his personal qualifications, and whether he will have the capacity to grow with the company. The applicant should be prepared with answers, even if he has to write them down.

Grant continued by pointing out that the applicant should be polite, serious-minded, quick, and be able to give straight-forward answers. Grant summed up by stating, "You don't apply for a job necessarily, you may be applying for a career."

University Singers

The University Singers will leave Reno on January 27 to begin a five-day trip to Las Vegas for several performances, the highlight of which will be performing for the National Automobile Dealers Association convention of Sunday, January 31.

The group will also give assembly performances for Western, Las Vegas, Bishop Gorman, and Basic high schools.

The performances will include highlights from concerts which the University Singers and the Chamber Singers have given this semester. Excerpts from Handel's "Messiah," "Bonanobis Pachen" by Baughn Williams, "Lonesome Train" by Robinson, and "Christmas Oratorio" by Saint Saens will be presented with additional numbers which are being prepared to round out the concert.

Twenty-nine women and sixteen men will make the trip. The women are Yoko Abe, Linda Boyd, Sylvia Brotherson, Susan Clark, Kay Clauser, Carols Challengier, Barbara Cofer, Mary

DeBise Adds High Hopes For Nevada

Wolf Pack fans will see a new face this year at the forward and center positions. Joe DeBise will be seeing a lot of action, and at 6'2" can outjump men three inches taller than he.

DeBise has filled in creditably this year for Bill Nicholson, who has not been at top form due to an injured ankle. DeBise scored 20 points against Utah State. With him at center and Moore and Montgomery at forwards Nevada will have one of the smallest front lines in the conference.

He is 21 years old and comes from Tulare, California. At Tulare Union High he was all-conference in 1961.

DeBise attended the College of the Sequoia's in 1962 and 1963. In 1963 he was all-conference and led the team in scoring and rebounding.

An accounting major with a C average, DeBise hopes to get into some phase of accounting around the Bay area upon his graduation.

Intramurals Volleyball

Sigma Nu No. 1 retained the Intramural Volleyball championship when it crushed the previously undefeated ATO No. 1 team 15-2 and 15-5. Sigma Nu was winner of the Spikers League, while ATO was the winner of the Set-Up League.

The pre-Christmas game was the second in two nights for the Sigma Nus, who had defeated the strong Independents No. 1 team the night before, 15-10, 10-15, and 15-7. The Independents were the undefeated winners of the Slammers League.

Sigma Nu faced these same two teams in last year's championships.

Basketball

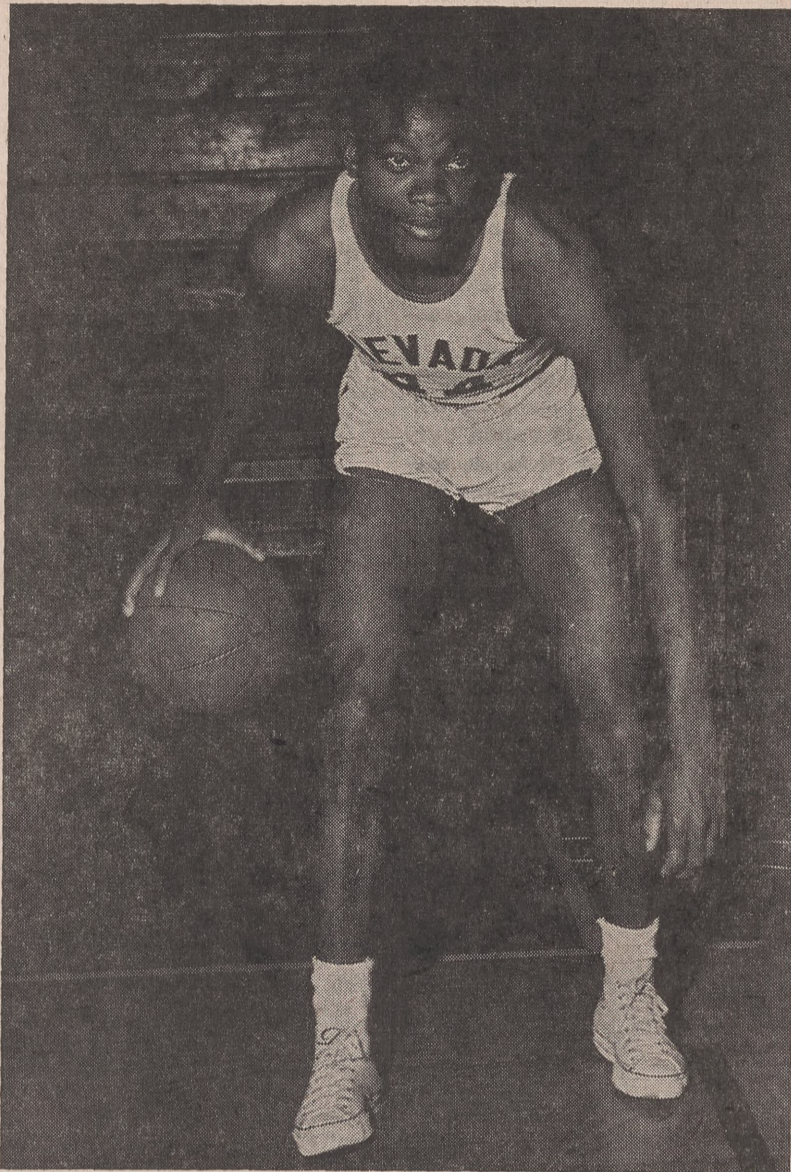

It wasn't a Merry Christmas for the ATO basketball team. White Pine Hall No. 1 pulled off the basketball upset of the year as it defeated the Tau's No. 1 team 38-33. This game highlighted the pre-Christmas vacation Intramural basketball season.

White Pine opened with an early lead, but the ATOs closed the gap to 15-15 at half time. The White Piners came alive in the fourth quarter and scored 15 points.

Lambda Chi No. 2 spurted in the last quarter to overrun Theta Chi 25-15. The game had been close all the way until the fourth period.

Bookstore 4 plus had to forfeit to SAE No. 2 officially because several of its team members lived in residence dorms, but the two teams played anyway. At the end of a fast-break game, the Bookstore five unofficially defeated the SAE team 31-28.

Former Winnemucca High stars Ron Peraldo and Pat Dolan led Independents No. 3 to a 31-27 victory over Lambda Chi No. 2. Peraldo and Dolan dropped in 12 points apiece. This was the first game of the Intramural season for the Independents.

Frank Davenport poured in 14 and Tom Hall hit for 10 as SAE No. 2 romped to its second win, dropping Theta Chi 43-12. The win gave the SAEs sole possession of the Push-Shot League lead, although Thursday night's results could put several other teams into a first place tie. Theta Chi could only muster three points in the second half.

Alpha Tau Omega No. 1 evened its win-loss record as it outscored Bookstore 4 plus 46-31. Kirk Kinne of the Taus led all scorers with 15. Bruce Nickerson had 14 and Danny Rechenmaker scored 10 for the winners.

The Globetrotters will play the Washington Generals. Tickets will be sold at the Gym.

Cal Sociology Head

The chairman of the sociology department at the University of California at Davis will visit this campus in February.

Dr. Bennett M. Berger will appear here "acquainting undergraduate sociology students and any other interested persons with an eminent sociologist," said Dr. Alex Simirenko, assistant professor of sociology.

Ailments of childhood are now well controlled — nowadays it's second childhood we have to worry about.

Moore, Bruno Pace Nevada; Charity Line Fatal To Aggies

The charity line proved the deciding factor, Friday night as the University of Nevada dropped the invading Cal Aggies, 66-62, before a near capacity crowd of 3,300 in the Pack gymnasium.

The win put the Wolfpack in a tie for the loop lead, in the first defense of the season for last year's Far Western Conference champions.

Nevada quickly went in front, 4-0, and the lead was never relinquished.

Larry Moore, team scoring leader, netted fifteen points in the first half. He finished the game with 21, despite playing with four fouls throughout the second half.

Frank Bruno's hot touch kept the Nevada five well ahead. The speedy guard finished with 17 points, 12 of these coming in the final 20 minutes.

The Aggies, 6'7" center netted nine points in the final eight minutes. The Aggie center finished the game with 20.

The late drive was also due to the hot shooting of Bob Slater. The small guard collected 16 points.

With 2 minutes remaining, Moore and Mike Olivas combined clutch charity tosses with Nap Montgomery's two outside jump shots, to wipe out the late visitors rally.

The Pack finished the night by making 18-19 free throws as compared to a 6-17 mark for Cal Davis.

U of N Offers New Class In Dancing

Dancers, you now have a chance to earn credit for exercising your talents. This coming semester a course in dance production will be offered.

Students taking the course will delve into the coreographing and presentation of the annual dance concert. The course was offered last year when the class produced a concert entitled "The Spirit of the Dance" which was performed in the Church Fine Arts auditorium.

The group also learned three "children's" dances: "Puff", which was performed to Peter, Paul and Mary's "Puff the Magic Dragon"; a dance to Barbara Streisand's "Big Bad Wolf" and one to "Little Boxes" which was made famous by Pete Seeger.

The class will be taught by Miss Edrie Verdun, assistant professor of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Class sessions are scheduled for the same time that the Modern Dance Club originally met; from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays in the new gym. By continuing with the dance production class the club members will not only participate in the dance concert, but will also be able to fulfill their Physical Education Activities requirements for the coming semester.

Nevada Athletes Receive Honors

University of Nevada basketball forwards Larry Moore and Napoleon Montgomery were chosen co-Athletes of the Month by the Sierra-Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters last week.

Moore and Montgomery led the Wolf Pack five in scoring and rebounds after Nevada's first eight games.

Moore, a 6'2" junior from Richmond, California, is averaging 16.5 points per game and has grabbed an average of 10.2 rebounds per game.

Montgomery is a 6'2" junior from Chicago, and has been hitting for a 15.6 average. He is the squad's leading rebounder with a 13.0 average.

This is the second time this year Nevada athletes have been chosen for the reporter's monthly honor. The previous winner was cross-country runner Skip Houk.

THE SAFE WAY to stay alert without harmful stimulants

NoDoz™ keeps you mentally alert with the same safe refresher found in coffee. Yet NoDoz is faster, handier, more reliable. Absolutely not habit-forming. Next time monotony makes you feel drowsy while studying, working or driving, do as millions do . . . perk up with safe, effective NoDoz Keep Alert Tablets.

Another fine product of Grove Laboratories.

Office work in Europe is interesting

SUMMER JOBS IN EUROPE

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg — You can earn $300 a month working in Europe next summer. The American Student Information Service is also giving travel grants of $390 to the first 5000 applicants. Paying jobs in Europe include office work, resort, sales, farm, factory, child care and shipboard work just to mention a few. Job and travel grant applications and complete details are available in a 36-page illustrated booklet which students may obtain by sending $2 (for the booklet and airmail postage) to Dept. J, ASIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. Interested students should write immediately.
