Student Fee Hike Proposed By Board

By HAMPTON YOUNG
Political Editor

The Jot Travis Student Union Board is financially in trouble with $12,000 deficit. Neil Humphrey, University vice president of finance, told the board they must be out of the red by the end of the fiscal year, this coming June 30.

According to Karen Gibbs, acting student union board president, "the board is desperately aware of the problem."

She said no one person is at fault. "The blame lies with the entire board."

Steps are being taken to alleviate the debt. According to Keith Stephens, union board vice president and financial director, the board will definitely be out of debt by the end of the fiscal year. They are $12,000 in arrears but will receive over $15,000 from second semester student fees, of which approximately $8,000 will go toward maintenance of the Jot Travis Student Union building.

STILL HOPE

Stephens said this will leave them about $7,000 in debt. Most of this deficit can be wiped out by the $5,000 which they will receive from the snack bar for rental fees and the five dollar fees from summer students.

The rest can be absorbed through the revenue the board receives from renting the small guest rooms in the union building and from charging a fee for using the conference rooms.

University policy will not allow the union board to collect a conference fee, except in cases where the conference held in the union building itself charges a registration fee.

TIGHT AND LEAN

"It will be tight, and it will take a bit of jockeying around," Stephens said. Things will be pretty lean for the board next year.

The board is not entirely to blame. Lack of sufficient publicity and student apathy toward the last few programs financed by the board can also be attributed to the deficit.

The San Francisco Symphony, held last year, "Beyond the Fringe," and the Stan Getz show all lost an enormous amount of money, according to Steve Gomes, publicity chairman of the board. Gomes was appointed publicity chairman last semester after the ill-fated special events programs lost money.

COSTS TRIPLE

Gomes said the cost of overall maintenance for the student union building has almost tripled since the building was erected in 1958. As of last year, an additional $2,100 goes into the "sinking" fund, to which the Dining Commons, the bookstore, and the Health Service also contribute. This "sinking" fund sets money aside for future expansion.

Since 1955 students have been paying a five dollar fee to the Student Union along with their registration fees. Stephens said the union is going to try to increase this fee to $7.50. This can be done by bringing the resolution to a vote in the next general election. It must be passed by two thirds of the student body.

Most of the money collected from this fee goes to the maintenance of the building.

Six Fraternities Add 65 Pledges To Active List

The Interfraternity Council will be strengthened this month when the six fraternities on campus initiate a total of 65 men, stated Jim Baker, IFC President.

"The days of the paddle and chain gang are gone," he said. "Fraternities have abandoned the dangerous harassment that has often, in the past, even proved fatal."

The initiations, which were referred to as "Hell Weeks," are now known as "Help Weeks." Each fraternity takes special efforts to see that its initiates are well fed and in good health.

The program is under direction of the Interfraternity Council. Dean of Men James Hathhorn and IFC President Jim Baker visit each fraternity during the time their "help" week is in progress.

Baker stated Alpha Tau Omega plans to initiate 12, Lambda Chi Alpha 12, Phi Sigma Kappa 5, Sigma Alpha Epsilon 12, Sigma Nu 20, and Theta Chi 4.

Living Groups Plan Carny Decorations

Decorations for the dorms and sororities will center around this year's Winter Carnival theme, "Silver Wonderland."

Each decoration entered must be finished and assembled by 5 p.m., Thursday night in time for open house and the judging. The trophies will be presented at the Sno-Ball Friday night.

Traditionally, the fraternities and sororities will combine efforts to produce a prize winning display. The ATO's and the Pi Phi's; the Theta's, the Phi Sig's and the SAE's, the Tri Delt's and the Sigma Nu's, and the Gamma Phi's and the Lambda Chi's will pool their talents.

Open house will be held at all the dorms and the sororities Thursday night beginning at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served and all visiting skiers and students will be invited inside for socializing and dancing.

Hilton Talks In Union

Dr. Ronald Hilton, former editor-in-chief of the "Hispanic-American Report," will speak on the "Atmosphere of Revolution in South America," tonight at 8 p.m., in the Travis Lounge.

Hilton will also discuss some of the problems he faced while working with the Institute of Brazilian studies at Stanford University.

The lecture will include open discussions with the public.

CAMPUS SPURS members will be playing "cupid" at the University this week as they deliver "Spurograms," a new type of valentine, to school sweethearts. Getting ready for their light-hearted errands are pictured (left to right) Sherry Locke, Anne Marie Lesperance, and Marvis Cooper.

Spurs Will Carry Valentines For Secret Campus Admirers

"I LOVE YOU STOP WILL YOU BE MY VALENTINE? STOP."

Anonymous love notes and valentines may be secretly sent from the admirer to the admired on campus through "Spurograms."

The messages, which will be sold and delivered by members of Spurs, sophomore women's honorary organization, may be purchased Thursday and Friday,

February 11 and 12, in the student union.

The charge for each "Spurogram" is 25 cents for delivery to a fraternity, sorority, or dormitory, and 30 cents for delivery to the Reno area. There is no specified limit to the length of the message.

Proceeds from the messages will be used for the annual Spurs scholarship.

Council Plans Skate Party

The University Independent Council is sponsoring an all-school ice-skating party Wednesday night in connection with Winter Carnival activities.

The ice-skating party at Squaw Valley is set up as an addition to the carnival schedule to fill the void left by the Sno-Sho cancellation, according to Independent Council president, Art Bonell.

Ice-skating tickets are now on sale upstairs in the student union. The $3.25 fee covers the cost of transportation to Squaw Valley, skate rent and admission to the ice rink.

Buses will pick up students at 6:30 p.m. in front of the student union Wednesday night.

Only 200 Tickets Will Be Sold For Sno-Ball

Only 400 persons will be able to attend the 1965 Winter Carnival Sno-Ball because of limited facilities at the Hidden Valley Country Club. The dance is scheduled for Friday from 9 p.m., to 1 a.m.

The Carnival Committee disclosed that only 200 tickets will be sold to the annual dance. Each ticket will cost $3.00.

The Paragons, a rock and roll group, will provide the music at the Sno-Ball.

One of the features of the Sno-Ball will be the crowning of the Winter Carnival Queen. Awards will also be presented for Winter Carnival decorations.

TONY OXBORROW

Board Prexy Elected By Narrow Vote

Tony Oxborrow, former student Union Board publicity and public relations chairman, is the new board president for 1965-66. He was elected by a vote of 4-3 Thursday night.

Of the ten voting members, eight were present, including acting president Karen Gibbs.

Miss Gibbs expressed hope that the new president would continue to carry on the fine tradition of past presidents.

Oxborrow, a 20 year old pre-dental major lives in Reno, and graduated from Reno High School in 1962. He is a junior at the University.

His policy plans for the new term include a greater use of the Union Board. "I don't think the Board has been utilized to its fullest capacity as a deliberative body. Because the board effects its programs with student funds, then the board itself, comprised of students, should sit in judgment as to where these funds are spent."

The new president-elect indicated the great importance of the financial status of the board. "Never before in the union history has the vice-president-financial director position been so important, and through teamwork with the office of president, a much more refined financial structure will be created to aid the union in its program."

Oxborrow was appointed by Karen Gibbs to fill out the acting term of president, until he officially takes office, March 1.

Miss Gibbs stated she was unable to continue her position because of student teaching obligations.

In other election results, Keith Stephens, who ran against Oxborrow, was voted by the board's acclamation to keep his position as vice-president.

A Question Of Integrity

The recent cheating scandal at the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs was apparently shocking enough to the nation as a whole to rate extensive coverage by the national press.

To college students, other than the most naive, cheating is anything but shocking. Here at the University of Nevada many students say they expect it. A frightening number of students also accept it as neither unethical nor dishonest.

Webster's dictionary defines cheating as the practice of fraud or trickery; to violate rules dishonestly. Cheating practices however are considered a fact of collegiate life.

The cribbing includes anything from a quick glance at another's paper, to the use of so-called "cheat sheets", to asking others for answers during tests.

Ironically, at Colorado Springs a number of innocent cadets had to suffer with those guilty of cheating. Here at Nevada and many other universities the guilty are riding through college on the coat-tails of the innocent.

During last semester's final examinations one senior reports that a half dozen students used text books during an exam. A sophomore says he was asked for answers by two friends while his professor left the room. An alarming number of students complain of concealed notes on the roving eyes of those seated near them.

Ideally, students come to college to learn and seek truth. In reality, far too many students regard a university and the resultant diploma as the guarantees for instant success. Knowledge comes from study and hard work. Grades can reflect effort but often don't reflect real knowledge. The cheater might deprive another student of a better grade. He can never deprive him of what he has learned.

The cadets at Colorado Springs supposedly live by a formal honor code. Shouldn't we too live by a personal honor code that finds cheating repugnant? Must we force our professors to act as policemen and baby sitters because a few students can't be trusted? Do we tolerate dishonesty because a substantial number of our fellow students act dishonestly?

Unfortunately, it is becoming trite to say the cheater will never prosper. Many cheaters will eventually become successful, if only in a superficial way. Cheating is not a guarantee of failure any more than knowledge is a guarantee of success.

Yet, knowledge, truth and honesty are accompanied by a sense of personal worth and integrity. The cheater robs himself of integrity and the satisfaction of knowing he is worthwhile.

Is it worth it?

Travis Union Board Needs Organizational Overhaul

The Jot Travis Student Union Board is in trouble. They are about $12,000 in the hole and stand to lose another $1,000 or more in March.

The board will ask the student body to bail them out in the general election this spring. Union board officials have proposed a 50 per cent raise in the portion of student registration fees that goes to the TUB's operation. The fee is now five dollars, and they will ask for an additional $2.50 from each student.

The union board should not get the increased student fee until they show the student body that their funds will not be mismanaged. And it will take a lean semester or two to do the job.

The board lost the money on their special events programming. Lack of publicity, lack of budgeting, and a misunderstanding of student interest put the TUB into the red. They gambled on big-name entertainment and lost.

The new union board officers should pull their heads out of the clouds, take their feet off the desks and start concentrating on two important and much abused areas—publicity and finances.

It would be a good idea to feel out student interest before entertainment is contracted. Then there should be extensive publicity campaigns through the local press to build audience enthusiasm. Not many persons would buy a ticket to an unfamiliar program.

The board also needs tighter and better budgeting so program expenditures can be more realistically planned. The money should be in the treasury before the contract is signed. Gate receipts cannot and should not be depended upon as guarantees of payment.

The union board should learn a lesson from their costly mistakes and re-vamp the organization to put the board back into the black.

Campus Political Playground

POLITICS, that seemingly fascinating game of shrewdness and wit, akin to moving men on a chessboard, has been a virtual "stalemate" on campus this semester, as in past semesters. Students derive little, if any, benefit from student government.

GRANTED, senate is a nice little playground for those students who plan on going on to serious type politics, or for those who enjoy participating in extra-curricular activities. Many even believe senate can get something done. But you can't move the Rock of Gibraltar without some caps to detonate the dynamite.

SENATE has got a few sticks of dynamite in the form of eight committees. But somebody forgot the caps because the Academic Standards, Dormitories and Dining Commons, Health Service, Library, Senate Functions, Steering Committee, World University Service, and the Student Parking Committees have done little that has been brought to anybody's attention.

KEITH LEE'S treasured cabinet, around which he erected his platform in last year's campaign, has my vote as the biggest farce of the year. The fellowship has had two fine lunches this year, on the students, and has accomplished that which is usually accomplished during government functions — nothing.

THAT WORD "nothing" is heard frequently, almost exclusively, in reference to student government. One wonders if its antonym will ever be heard.

OF COURSE, many senate members take time out from their studies to participate and do some good, honest, hard work. Now and then some money is appropriated here and there, and an occasional Brushfire controversy or two will pop up. Frequently senate can even boast of a quorum and some hefty debates and discussions will ensue. But as an end to what means?

NOTHING.

THE PUBLICATIONS board gets the most-adamant-group-of-the-year award for really sticking by its ultimatum to the Brushfire policy board, to either accept or reject publication board money. The Brushfire policy board, composed mainly of English professors and students, doesn't grasp the message, which was written in the King's English. The deadline for the acceptance or rejection of the ultimatum is now long past, but now the publications board isn't so sure . . .

"SWAVE" LITTLE Tony Oxborrow has been elected as the new Student Union Board president. He officially takes office this March, but he'll be more or less running the show till then, as Karen Gibbs has already turned the office over to him. They'll be working together . . .

Enrollment Gains Forecast By Nevada Official

The University of Nevada is expected to continue its phenomenal growth during the next year. An enrollment increase of 46 per cent has been forecast for 1966.

Under a new system of counting students, 6,348 students are expected to enroll in the fall of 1966.

This new system, used by the University Office of Institutional Research, breaks down the enrollment into Full Time Equivalents.

The number of students expected to attend the University are translated into the number of students carrying 16 hours—the normal word load.

"ACCURATE METHOD"

Dr. Ernest G. Palola, Director of Institutional Research, says this method is a "more accurate way of expressing total university enrollment." He also says this method is widely used by other universities.

Dr. Palola claims the Research Office has been studying enrollments in Nevada for 10 years and has observed enrollments from the first grade through college.

BOTH CAMPUSES

Nevada is predicted to have 5,406 Full-Time Equivalent students on campus this semester. During the fall semester Nevada had 4,348 FTE students. This includes both the campus in Reno and the Nevada Southern campus.

The Reno campus is forecast to have 3,639 FTE's in 1965 and the Las Vegas campus 1,769.

The present Nevada enrollment has increased over 400 per cent in 10 years. In 1955, 1400 students were enrolled at the University. Forty years ago, in 1925, campus enrollment was only 800.

AWS Seeks New Representative

There is a vacancy for an off-campus representative to AWS, according to Jean Pagni, AWS President. Any interested woman may contact Miss Pagni in her office in the Jot Travis Student Union and plan to attend the next AWS meeting, February 18th. All candidates must live off-campus and have a 2.0 over-all grade point average.

The next AWS meetng will make plans for sending delegates to the AWS National Convention in Salt Lake City, Utah, March 21 to 25 and elect the new off-campus representative.

MARY MARGARET HEITMANN

Nevada Coed Triumphs In Local Opera Tryout

The Metropolitan Opera Regional Semi-finals is the next stop for Mary Margaret Heitmann, a sophomore student at the University of Nevada.

The 19-year-old Las Vegas coed defeated four other contestants to triumph in a tryout for the Metropolitan Opera.

Miss Heitmann sang selections from "Madame Butterfly" and "La Boheme" to take first place.

PLEASED, PROUD

The singer's reaction to her victory? She is pleased and proud to have been selected as Nevada's representative to the opera semi-finals.

"I don't expect to win," says Miss Heitmann, "but I think the experience of competing against professional opera stars and other top singers will be invaluable."

Miss Heitmann is a student of Jerald Reynolds, university music instructor. She is majoring in music and minoring in drama.

PANEL PICKED

A panel of four judges selected the Nevada coed as the winner of the contest. The panel consisted of: Dr. Ronald Williams, associate professor of music at the University of Nevada; Martin

Dickstein, Reno pianist; Robert Lilliquist, formerly active in public vocal music; and Peter Etzkorn, who has had extensive voice and choir training.

The semifinals for the opera company are scheduled for February 18 in Los Angeles. The finals will be held on February 19 in the same city. The first place winner in the semi-finals will receive a $300 special award.

Annual WRA Dessert Held Tonight In Dining Commons

Campus coeds are invited to attend the W.R.A. Dessert tonight at 7:30 in the Dining Commons.

Individual awards, team awards and the trophy for living group points will be presented. The trophy was won last year by Kappa Alpha Theta. It is a traveling trophy unless it is won three years consecutively by one group. Then it is given to that living group to keep.

New officers will also be announced at the dessert. Women running for office are: president, Elfrena Sewell and Joyce Hoffman; vice president, Ginny Gilbert and Kristen Cooper; secretary, Diane Steinheimer and Sharon Smith; and treasurer, Darlene Reafs and Carla Rost.

Outgoing officers are president Joanne Freeman, vice president Elfrena Sewell, secretary Ellen Brock and treasurer Joyce Hoffman.

Chairman for the dessert is Sharalee Springmeyer. Kathy Helsdon will be mistress of ceremonies.

W.R.A. is open to all women students and offers a wide range of sports activities. Some of the activities offered this semester are bowling, tennis, table tennis, folk and square dancing, skiing, gymnastics, track and field, softball and basketball.

Coeds Added To Marching Team For New Semester

Nevada's coed precision marching team, the Wolfettes, has added new members to their ranks. The marching group was formed this school year to provide half-time entertainment at basketball and football games.

The team, which originally started with 21 members, lost 6 of its senior members through graduation. But, with 12 new girls joining the team, the ranks will be enlarged to 27.

The new members are Donna Collins, Cheryl Frechette, Karen Roberts, Sharon Dinan, Barbara Powell, Katherine Powell, Carolyn Etheredge, Patsy Murry, Judy Rhodes, Judy Black, Martha Hasperis, and Michelle Matheny.

The Wolfettes will begin practicing Wednesday night at the Reno Armory for their appearances at basketball games in Reno on the 12th and 20th of this month. The Wolfettes may also travel to San Francisco on the 27th of this month to entertain at the Nevada - San Francisco State basketball game.

On April 9th the Wolfettes will finish the year's activities by competing at Tampa, Arizona, in the women's drill team competition for the eight western states.

Campus Y.R.'s Hear Lawyer

University Young Republicans will hear Reno attorney Les Gray at their first meeting of the spring semester this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the faculty dining commons.

Gray has been active in Nevada's Republican affairs for many years. In 1946 he served in the Nevada Assembly and was chairman of the Washoe County delegation. He was Nevada's delegate to the National Republican Convention in 1948 and was the successful campaign manager for ex-congressman Cliff Young.

Thursday's meeting will be the annual Republican Lincoln Day event. The organization will also vote on amendments to its constitution.

Nursing Caps Given Sunday

Second year nursing students were capped Sunday "as the first symbolic step toward the attainment of professionalism in nursing."

The University's Orvis School of Nursing presented caps to 17 students during the school's seventh annual Nursing Convocation.

Junior and senior students gave the second-year caps to: Joanna Arrowsmith, Katharine Gardiner, Patricia Gomes Biddinger, Louise Fletcher, Janis Henderson, Dorothy Jones, Dolores Kovak, Ronnie L. Loverin, Sandra MacPherson, Robin Millholland, Trudy Ross, Twyla Smith, Laura St. Clair, Jacqueline Ziegler, Shirley Williams, and Mavis Smith.

One second-year student did not receive the traditional nursing cap. Keith Mattson only received congratulations. Male nurses do not include the symbolic caps as part of their uniform.

Men Will Model In Fashion Show

This year's Winter Carnival Fashion Show will feature a new group of models. In addition to queen contestants, ski and date wear will also be modeled by male students.

The fashion show is to be held this Thursday in the Travis Lounge at 7 p.m. Apparel will be featured from the Wonder, Campus Clothes, Hatton's Traditional Shop, Coddling and Wetzel and Mount Rose Sporting Goods.

Male students modeling with the queen contestants are Bill Gang, Don Miller, Steve Katzman, Jinx Dabney, Ron Gomes, Gill Folk, Gary Atahanaia, and Paul Weir.

Rick Mattson and Laurie Sterne will act as commentators. The show is free and refreshments will be served.

Home Ec Majors In Lab Classes Taught By Pros

Ten Sarah Hamilton Fleischmann Home Economics majors are taking a laboratory course which requires them to be off-campus under professional direction in their chosen field for eight weeks. The apprentices are juniors and seniors who will receive eight credits for their training.

Five students are completing work experience by student teaching in Nevada junior high and high schools. They are: Carol Diacomis, graduate special, and Rosanna Shetler, a junior, who are at Fred W. Traner Junior High School; Eddie McCay, senior, who is at Reno High school; Nanette Rodier, junior, will go to Lovelock High; and Joyce Crook, junior, who is at Yerington High School.

Mary Solaro, junior, will leave Reno for her work experience program in business. She will study under Marjorie Lumm, director, Home Advisory Service of The Wine Institute in San Francisco, and Annabel Post, Home Economics Editor of Sunset Magazine in Menlo Park, California.

Two of the ten students will be studying in local department stores. Senior Laurie Sterne will work at Gray Reid's and junior Carolyn Cademartori will be with Sears Roebuck & Company.

Seniors Jean Cory and Louise Handlin will be assigned to Washoe Medical Center and St. Mark's Hospital to study under dieticians.

Independent Activities Discussed Tonight

Campus independents will hold their first meeting of the semester tonight at 6 in the student union to discuss council activities for the year.

Heading the agenda will be plans for an independent-sponsored dance February 19 in the Dining Commons, said Art Bonell, Independent Council president.

All independents are invited to attend tonight's meeting in the Hardy room of the student union.

Awarded Film Shown Tonight In F.A. Theatre

"Pather Panchali," a film that took over three years to make, and received more awards than any single production, will be presented Tuesday at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Church Fine Arts Building.

Made and released in India in 1956 under the direction of Satyagit Ray, the film is the first of a trilogy dealing with the life of a young Indian boy named Apu. In the process, the film gives an interesting view of a Brahman family in India.

Mr. Ray based his movie on the Indian novel, and received great acclaim with his use of real people and not movie actors.

Called a "beautiful document of human suffering", the remaining two parts will be presented in succeeding years by the Jot Travis Student Union and the speech and drama department.

Among its honors, the film has received the Cannes Film Festival Award and the San Francisco Film Festival Award for best film of that year.

Debaters Place In Tournament

Four Nevada debate teams nearly made it to the elimination round in the annual University of Southern California and Loyola Debate Tournament during semester break.

Debate Coach Kenneth Mosier says that the Nevada forensic stars would have made the elimination round if they had won another debate.

The debate squad of Frank Bass and Max Steinheimer placed high in the competition. Three other teams also fared well for Nevada. These teams include: Kenneth Muller and Barbara Hines, Bob Erickson and Jim Emerson, and Larry Semenza and Demar Dahl.

Nevada faced some tough competition in the tournament. Some of the outstanding schools attending were the United States Military Academy at West Point, Stanford University, the University of Arizona, the University of Oregon, the University of Pacific, the University of Kansas, the University of Santa Clara and the University of California at Los Angeles, as well as host, University of Southern California.

The next debate tournament is scheduled for next weekend against the University of Pacific at Stockton, California.

Sierra College Downs Pack In Ski Meet

Sierra College of Rocklin, California, last weekend won the Northern California Intercollegiate Invitational Ski Meet, edging the University of Nevada Wolf Pack.

Leading the Wolf Pack in the three-day meet was junior exchange student Arne Nossom who Sunday won the 40 meter ski jump. Lane Monroe came in fourth, Greg Austin, seventh, and Scott Seher placed eighth for Nevada. The jumping took place in the Papoose ski area at Squaw Valley.

In the downhill competition at the Sugar Bowl Friday, John Hancock took fifth place and Chris Mazzola came in sixth to lead the Wolf Pack in that department.

Saturday's contest at the Sugar Bowl saw Scott Seher, Arne Nossom and Greg Austin finishing second, third and fourth to win the team title in the cross-country. Nevada's Cris Mazzola finished second in the slalom, posting a time of 88.2 seconds.

Graduation was only the beginning of Jim Brown's education

Because he joined Western Electric

Jim Brown, Northwestern University, '62, came with Western Electric because he had heard about the Company's concern for the continued development of its engineers after college graduation.

Jim has his degree in industrial engineering and is continuing to learn and grow in professional stature through Western Electric's Graduate Engineering Training Program. The objectives and educational philosophy of this Program are in the best of academic traditions, designed for both experienced and new engineers.

Like other Western Electric engineers, Jim started out in this Program with a six-week course to help in the transition from the classroom to industry. Since then, Jim Brown has continued to take courses that will help him keep up with the newest engineering techniques in communications.

This training, together with formal college engineering studies, has given Jim the ability to develop his talents to the fullest extent. His present responsibilities include the solution of engineering problems in the manufacture of moly-permalloy core rings, a component used to improve the quality of voice transmission.

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for — we want to talk to you! Opportunities exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. And be sure to arrange for an interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Pack Wallops Hornets For 5th FWC Victory

By JOHN UTT
Sports Editor

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack moved one step closer to its ninth over-all and second straight Far Western Conference basketball crown Saturday night in walloping the Sacramento State Hornets 101-71.

All five starters hit in double figures in the Wolf Pack's finest offensive showing of the season. Forward Napoleon Montgomery led the scoring with 24, followed by center Bill Nicholson with 20, Mike Olivas with 19, Larry Moore with 18, and Frank Bruno put in 12.

League leading scorer Lynn Livie of Sacramento demonstrated ably to approximately 3,000 Wolf Pack fans his outstanding basketball ability by dumping 42 of his team's 71 points into the nets. Going into Saturday's game, Livie was first in the league in scoring with a 27.7 average and ninth in field goal percentage with a 457 mark. His unofficial scoring average per game is now 30.6.

Sacramento State stayed close to the Wolf Pack for the opening 10 minutes of action on the shooting of Livie and Forward Jim Thomas and the rebounding of the other Hornet forward, Al Smith. Nevada took over for good with seven minutes to go in the first half and blasted its way to a 53-33 halftime lead behind the rebounding of Moore, Montgomery and Nicholson, and balanced team scoring.

The second half saw the Wolf Pack doing no wrong and the Hornets doing no right. Moore and Montgomery continued to dominate both backboards consistently over the smaller Hornets and the balanced scoring attack displayed by Nevada in the first half continued. The Wolf Pack stretched its lead to 30 points early in the second half and held on to it until the final buzzer.

Only Livie kept the Hornets going in the second half, scoring 17 points.

Even though his team was completely demolished by the league leading Wolf Pack

Ev Shelton despaired of Nevada's chances to take the FWC crown. When asked after the game who he thought would win the title, Shelton replied,

"San Francisco State. They only have to leave their gym twice the rest of the season for games. Nevada has too many away games to play."

Nevada has three home games and four more on the road, ending the season on Feb. 27 in San Francisco in a game with the Gators of San Francisco State.

Next weekend the Wolf Pack takes on cellar-dwelling Humboldt State 1-5 in FWC standings and second place Chico State 5-2, who defeated Humboldt last Saturday 64-63.

San Francisco State is currently on a Midwestern trip which will end tomorrow night against Southern Illinois University. The Gators are 4-2 in FWC competition and occupy third place in the league.

Nevada currently leads the Far Western Conference with a 5-1 mark.

"AW, YOU'RE such a silly! What'd you have to go and do that for!" Hornet guard Wayne Sheppare (31) seems a little self-conscious about letting Frank Bruno get by him for an easy lay-up.

Newell Seeks To Improve Intramurals

By MIKE PARMAN

"Quality and quantity are the two most important aspects of the intramural sports program," said Lee Newell, director of intramural sports at the University. Newell spends 25 hours weekly working on the program. He also teaches several physical education courses and is coach of Nevada's undefeated wrestling team.

Newell has attempted to broaden the program here, but has run into difficulty. He has been hampered by lack of space and time.

"We are so hampered by lack of facilities that our program cannot stand any vast expansion. At present we need a swimming pool, tennis courts, squash courts, playing fields, ball diamonds, sports rooms and handball courts. We also need basketball courts."

STUDENT PARTICIPATION

Nevada students can now participate in 18 sports in intramurals. This program compares favorably with those of many bigger universities. Newell feels that an intramural program is not really successful until 60 to 70 per cent of the student body is involved in some type of recreational activity. Newell estimates that 35 per cent of the students now participate.

Newell was also Director of Intramurals at Washington State for three years. He taught several physical education courses and coached the wrestling team. However, Newell had three assistants at Washington State. He has none here.

"Officiating is one of our most important jobs. Before officiating can be effective, we must have 100 per cent cooperation from the participants. We are making progress in this area."

SCORING SYSTEM

The problem of scoring points for intramural participation has been a constant one for Newell. The organization with the largest number of points at the end of the year receives the Bradshaw

NEVADA FORWARD LARRY MOORE (42) puts in a tip over Sacramento State Dick Palmer in Saturday night action. Moore led the Wolf Pack scorers with 24. Moving in for a rebound on the right is Bill Nicholson, No. 50.

Boxers Drop First Dual Meet

The score was again 6½ to 2½, but this time the Wolf Pack boxing team was on the wrong end of the glove as it was defeated by a powerful University of California at Berkeley boxing squad Saturday night at Berkley.

Two weekends ago Nevada beat the Stanford boxing team by that same score.

The Wolf Pack ring men were able to grab only one win and three draws.

Heavyweight Dale Landon was the one Wolf Pack victor, pounding out a decision over powerful Walt Cunningham of California. Landon, recovering all last week from the flu, outpointed Cunningham in every round.

147 pound Bill Georgeson, also fighting the flu bug last week, fought to a draw with Cal's Don Warden.

The bout in the 132 pound category featuring Chuck Breese of Nevada and veteran Paul Bell of the Golden Bears also ended in a draw, as did the contest in the (Continued on page 6)

Fighters Dropped

The University of Nevada boxing team suffered a severe blow over semester break when it lost three first rate men due to ineligibility for low grades and dropouts.

The Wolf Pack ring squad lost last year's California Collegiate Boxing Conference 126 pound champion, Larry Williams, who dropped out of school to join the Navy, Bob Diullo, 139 pounds, and Mike Smithwick, 178 pounds, due to low grades.

"We will be hurt as far as experience is concerned, but I think we'll recover before the (CCBA) tournament," said boxing coach Jimmy Olivas.

Replacing Williamson for the remainder of the season will be either Carl Keller or Chuck Breese in the 126 pound division. Dave Widmer will fill in for Diullo at 139 pounds and Bob Hall will take over Smithwick's position in the 178 pound class.

trophy. In the past it has been found that no one system has pleased everyone. The policy now in use gives the most points to the organization with the largest number of participants each year. Newell has based the program on the wants of the students. "We feel an obligation to provide the best opportunity for participation." If a large number of students show interest in a sport, Newell tries to incorporate it into the program. Flag football will become a part of the program next year. Newell says "the interests of the largest number of students and faculty does and must dominate our thinking."

Women Hoopsters Win First Match

The University of Nevada's women's basketball club won their first game of the season, blasting Fallon High School's girl's team 25-13. The game was played in Nevada's gym Saturday night.

Carla Rost scored nine points for the WRA-sponsored University team. Kathy Leonard was another offensive star with six points.

The Basketball Club won't be in action again until February 27 when they travel to Sacramento State to take on a women's team.

SURPLUS SPENT

Clark Santini, president of the board last year, held office when the board had a $25,000 surplus. A substantial part of this surplus went into furnishing the Jot Travis building including its main lounge and many little rooms.

The rest of this money went for large programs with top-name entertainment. Dave Cooper, president of the board from last March, to last November, took office with no surplus in the treasury. Cooper presented programs of the same caliber as Santini's, but he and the board didn't foresee that the programs would lose money.

Each of the programs were contracted quite a long time in advance, and the damage was done before anybody realized the shows would be so devastating, said Miss Gibbs.

PROGRAM CONFLICT

The Hans Conreid lecture, which will be held March 16, was contracted before Cooper left office. A fee of $1,500 is to be paid Conreid, but the speech already stands to lose money or at best come out even. It has been scheduled on the same night that the Public Occasions board is going to present a program in the gym entitled "In White America."

The board would cancel the lecture, but if they do, the contract requires them to pay Conreid a $1,000 cancellation fee. The board hopes to come out better by producing the lecture in spite of the conflict.

CCA Sponsors Religious Club

The Covenant Community, a religious group sponsored by the Campus Christian Association, will hold its first meeting of the semester Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. at the CCA headquarters at 1029 North Virginia Street.

The Community, which is now open to new members, is set up to study "what it really means to be a Christian."

This semester the group will study readings from the early church fathers and also modern writers.

The worship in the Covenant Community is experimental and designed to give new meaning to religious experience. During the fall semester, the works of various theologians such as Paul Tillich and Dietrich Bonhoeffer were analyzed.

The community members will share ideas in a weekly dialogue that includes an evening meal.

Sophie Sheppard Places In Meet

Sophomore Sophie Sheppard led the Nevada women's ski team in competition last weekend by winning the Powder Puff Derby at the Sugar Bowl, part of the Northern California Intercollegiate Invitational ski meet.

Sophie was the only Nevada woman to place in the Saturday event.

Sunday the WRA ski team participated in a Class C Women's Giant Slalom at Alpine Meadows. Sophie again paced the Wolf Pack Squad by finishing fourth. Cynthia Geyer of Nevada placed fifth. Both Sophie and Cynthia fell on their second runs through the gates.

178 pound class between Nevada's Mike Parman and Cal's Dave Newhouse.

Referee Frankie Carter halted three matches in the first round. Winning by TKO's were Cal's Tom Gioseffi, conference 156 pound champion, 139 pound Pete Cowan, and veteran Paul Rain. Absorbing the losses for the Wolf Pack were Gordon Browning, Dave Widmar, and Tony Schueler, respectively.

In bouts that could have gone either way, Golden Bear Terry Holberton decided Nevada freshman Riley Beckett, 165 pounds in Beckett's first varsity bout, and veteran Jerry Knapp, 179 pounds, of Cal squeaked by Nevada's Bob Hall.

Coach Olivas attributed the loss of his three boxers, illness and the upsetting of his training schedule over semester break as possible answers to Nevada's showing.

Nevada now stands 1-1 in California Collegiate Boxing Conference competition. The loss was the first dual meet defeat in two seasons.

Campus Aggies To Paint Fence Posts
