Nevada Budget Passed Sunday By Legislature

Both houses of the Nevada Legislature passed the Appropriations bill Sunday which contains the University of Nevada budget for the next two years.

The Senate and Assembly both went along with Governor Sawyer's recommendation that the University receive $19 million.

University President Dr. Charles Armstrong says the budget will make things tight at Nevada.

"WE'LL MANAGE"

"The University won't be able to get a lot of the equipment and personnel we need very badly," says Dr. Armstrong. "However, we'll manage," Armstrong adds.

Armstrong stresses that the University will try to maintain its high standards by making out an intelligent operating budget. He says Nevada will continue its transition to a higher salary schedule for employees.

Originally the University had asked for $21.8 million for the budget.

DRASTIC CUTS

The Senate finance committee recommended even more drastic cuts in the budget. However, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee got together with the Senate committee and decided to restore some of the budget slashes.

The biggest thing cut out of the budget is an appropriation for a physical science building on the University campus.

Several people were unhappy with cuts—including regent Dr. Louis Lombardi. He believes that the physical science program at Nevada will be set back four or six years.

SHORTCHANGING

Lombardi says the legislature is shortchanging our natural resources—the men and women of the state.

The University regent agrees with Armstrong that Nevada will be unable to purchase needed equipment and hire needed employees.

Lombardi says the regents will start formulating a budget for the next biennium within a year. "We'll need more money then because of increased enrollment," says Lombardi.

FUNCTION WELL

State Assemblyman James Bailey believes the University came out all right on the budget. "The University should be able to function well with the budget," says Bailey.

ASUN president Keith Lee says he would have liked to have seen the University get more money. However, he is also fairly happy with the budget.

The proposed budget isn't final yet. Governor Sawyer can still veto the appropriations bill. If he signs the bill or ignores it, the bill will become law.

Nevada Coed Michele Sala Prom Queen Honors Surprise

"Happily so," bubbled pretty Michele Sala when asked whether she was glad about being crowned Junior Prom queen Saturday night at Hidden Valley Country Club.

The 21-year-old Pi Phi said that the dance was excellent and she "sure was (surprised)" when her name was announced.

Michele is a junior elementary education major who has lived in Reno all her life. She graduated from Reno High in 1962.

The vivacious lass is interested in people, food, and life in general; and her hobbies include sewing, water and snow skiing, and sports.

SDX Members Plan Fresno Journey For Convention

Male journalism students and faculty members of the campus undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi will travel to Fresno on April 23 and 24 for the annual Region II Conference.

Approximately ten delegates will be chosen to attend the conference. Professor A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the journalism department, will preside over the luncheon. The delegates will also take part in talks and discussions concerning "Journalism as a Profession."

Other states which will send delegates to the conference are California, Hawaii, and Arizona.

ing, water and snow skiing, and sports.

"I'm a happy-type person," she said and in part "happy-go-lucky Basqo" to prove it. She has never felt deprived and has had a "great" life.

Active in student affairs, she will be ASUN secretary next year.

Adamant in her likes, she has definite, but few, dislikes. She dislikes fires, snakes (vipers, not Sigma Nus) and dark alleys. Outdoors, she went flying in an airplane over the weekend and said, "I loved it."

Friedan Lecture Presented Friday

Betty Friedan, author of the controversial best-seller, "The Feminine Mystique," will appear in the Travis Lounge this Friday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Friedan, whose book explores the current "image" of American womanhood, will lecture on the topic of "Beyond the Feminine Mystique." The lecture is being sponsored by the Travis Union Board.

The author defines the provocative title or her book as "a body of myths and accepted truths—that all the American woman has to do to fulfill herself is to catch a man and devote her life to caring for him, their children, and their home."

Coffin & Keys To Go Before Senate

By SIG ROGICH
Assistant Editor

Charges will be formally submitted by the debate squad against Coffin and Keys, men's secret society, in a meeting of Senate tomorrow night.

Judy Morrison will submit the charges as ASUN 2nd vice-president in charge of clubs and activities.

Dr. Sam Basta, dean of Student Affairs, said that if the problem could not be settled in Senate then it should go before the Student Affairs Board which is composed of faculty members.

Dabney Adds New Fuel To Squabble

By MICHELE FUETSCH

Controversy over the legitimate place of secret societies on campus was heightened this week when Jinks Dabney, first vice-president of the ASUN and past-president of Coffin and Keys, questioned the effect of faculty and administration membership in such societies.

Dabney, who reportedly resigned as president of Coffin and Keys because of a contrary position on the debate allotment, has charged that the honorary organization wields powerful and coercive influence over the students.

Dabney has released the names of some faculty and administration Coffin and Keys members to the investigating committee.

UNFOUNDED

Robert Kersey, director of auxiliary enterprises, admitted he is a member of Coffin and Keys, but added that he felt any charges against the organization were "unfounded."

"These charges can't be backed up. I belong to the organization because I feel it is beneficial by virtue of its goals and ideals."

Kersey refused to comment on the issue of a secret oath to the organization. "There is no oath that I can reveal," he said.

Dr. Art Broten, allegedly a member of Coffin and Keys, stated, "I have no business making any statements about the issue until I have more information." Broten is chairman of health, physical education and recreation at Nevada.

IRREGULAR ATTENDANCE

Head football coach, Dick Trachok, admitted to membership in Coffin and Keys, but stated, "It has been 16 years since I attended a meeting."

Trachok said he did not see anything wrong with the organization.

Blue Key Selects 22 New Members

Blue Key, men's upper class honor society, selected 22 new members last night, including four honorary members.

RIGHT TO JOIN

In regard to faculty members being a part of the organization charged by members of the debate team, Basta said, "A faculty member has the right and freedom to belong to any organization he feels he ought to join, whether it be Lions, Elks, Shriners, etc."

He added, however, that this is not his judgment, but merely his opinion.

Jinx Dabney, ASUN 1st vice-president and former President of Coffin and Keys said this was wrong because the group was influencing student policy and student affairs, and faculty members should not be a part of it.

WHY JOIN?

When questioned as to why he joined the organization, Dabney said, "They told me it was for the good of the University, and that many important people are members of the group. I like to deal with important people; it's good experience."

He added that he later found out the organization was "undemocratic, and unwholesome", and he would, "do anything to get rid of it."

Dabney also said he had nothing new to report about the organization.

MORE CHARGES

It was earlier reported that Dabney would come out with more charges against the group.

He added the debate squad was through with the matter in that they have already submitted their complaints formally to Dean Basta.

Controversy arose earlier in the week when the Nevada debaters, host to the Great Western Debate Tournament, withdrew from the three day affair.

REENTRY

The team later reentered the tournament at the request of University President Charles Armstrong, who urged the reentry so as not to bring embarrassment upon the University of Nevada.

The final step concerning the controversy will be a full report on the subject to President Armstrong, who called for an investigation, not of Coffin and Keys, itself, but into the charges and issues involved.

ranch of vice-president, Herb Nichols, after the formal tapping which was staged during the various Monday night fraternity meetings.

This week the new members will hold an initiation project, staging some event of service to the University of Nevada.

The initiation ceremony will be held this Sunday at the First Methodist Church, followed by a banquet at the Santa Fe Hotel.

Debaters Embarrass University With Tournament Publicity Bid

A debate team member said, "Our purposes have been fulfilled." If their purpose was to embarrass the University, they did well.

Ignoring the channels of student government, the debaters chose to make the issue a publicity bid for their tournament.

They wrote up a list of charges and seemingly irrelevant reasons for dropping out of their own show and methodically distributed the release to members of the state news media, including the international set-up of Associated Press.

Debaters, who have been basing their arguments upon the image of the University, did much to tear down that image last week.

When they asked for a dollar allotment per student per semester, debaters said it would be for the good of the University image, since debate had brought so much prestige to campus.

Then, in "best interest" to the University, they withdrew from their own tournament because they contend there is a dangerous secret society on campus which worked against their allotment.

That was March 24. And debate team members say they have been gathering information on Coffin and Keys since the first of March. But they chose not to disclose any material until March 31, the eve of their tournament.

Debate sympathizers Bill Isaef and Mike Lally, publicity chairman for the Nevada great western debate tournament, said that information was not released during the election or prior to Senate voting because the time was not right. They wanted to wait until it was more "expedient" for their purposes.

If they were so concerned with the effects of a secret society on student government, why didn't Isaef bring the issue to light prior to Senate-voting on his debate allotment request?

Or why didn't Lally say anything during his campaign for student body president? He knew his opponent was a member of Coffin and Keys. Lally also professed assurance of more votes in his favor if the charges were brought out into the open.

They may call themselves political martyrs, but these sympathizers have hurt the debate cause by their combined statements and actions, as "spokesmen" for the debate team.

And debaters further defeated their rally for democratic student government and University image by choosing tournament-withdrawal as a means of exposing the secret society and by taking the issue off campus.

If debaters have any specific charges against a University group, they should try to resolve the issue within the University walls, not in front of representatives from 33 other colleges or through extra-local publicity.

Nevada Takes Second In Rodeo

Competing for the first time in a new collegiate sport, the University of Nevada took two second places at intercollegiate rodeo at Chico State a week ago.

Nevada's D. C. Haas mastered a high bucking bull for second place in the bull riding, and DeMar Dahl placed second in the saddle bronc competition.

The rodeo team plans more meets in the future and hopes to be organized on a larger scale next year. Nevada's rodeo squad are members of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association which has about 80 member universities.

During the school year, collegiate rodeo teams compete for point awards in six regions of the United States. Schools coming out ahead in points receive regional trophies, and national trophies.

Cal Lutheran Will Hold Symphonette

California Lutheran College Choir and Symphonette will give the Reno performance of its Spring tour in the Fine Arts Auditorium April 12 at 8 p.m.

Music dating back five centuries and contemporary sacred compositions will be presented by the fifty voices which form the California Lutheran College Choir and the symphonette of twenty musicians representing the school symphony orchestra.

Conducting will be Professors Betty Shirely Bowen and Walter J. Birkedahl.

Dr. C. Robert Zimmerman, Chairman of the Division of Creative Arts at the California Lutheran College is the director of the Concert Choir. His twenty years of professional experience have been gained primarily in the Pacific Northwest where he founded and directed the Portland Symphonic Choir. He also has sung professionally with the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Admission to the concert will be 75 cents for children and students and $1.50 for general.

YWCA Holds Campus Meet

"The Educated Woman: Where Does She Belong?" is the topic for discussion at a YWCA-sponsored event tomorrow. It is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the faculty dining room.

The discussion will be led by Dr. Patricia Tripple, professor of home economics education, and Dr. Harold Kirkpatrick, assistant professor of history and political science and assistant dean of the college of arts and science.

"All students, both male and female, are invited to attend, says "Y" president Mari Kae Ennis, "because we are interested in having all points of view expressed."

Nevada Graduate Selected Fleischmann Committee Head

Eyer Boies, an Elko County rancher, has been elected chairman of the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture Advisory Committee. In addition to the business session of the Advisory Committee held March 25, new developments and programs initiated at the College were reviewed.

Boies graduated from the University of Nevada in 1951. He was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Blue Key, Coffin and Keys and the Aggie Club.

Representatives of the Schools of Agriculture and Home Economics also explained enrollment figures which indicate a growth of 8.5 per cent in agriculture and a 32 per cent increase in home economics.

Dr. Ray Ely, associate director, Agricultural Experiment Station, outlined plans for the new Central Nevada Field Laboratory and new areas that have been opened for development in the last year.

Jazz Clinic Topic Of Recent Article

The University of Nevada's annual Summer Jazz Clinic is the subject of Charles Dromiack's article "Jazz on Campus" in the current issue of the Nevada Parks and Highways magazine. Dromiack is an editorial assistant of the University News Service.

Over 150 students attended last year's sixth annual clinic at the Reno campus. Most of the students are in high school.

The Nevada clinic is one of four national sessions presented by the National Stage Bands Camps, Inc. It is a non-profit group directed by eKn Morris of South Bend Indiana.

The article pointed out that last year's session was composed of classes, performances by the Woody Herman Band, concerts by students, and teaching sessions with some of the country's top musicians.

Helping the students were Woody Herman and his band, jazz critic Art Van Damme, Buddy Baker, Neal Hefti, and Russ Garcia.

Loan And Graphic Service Available

Loan services, graphic services, and broadcast media services are available to students and faculty members through the Audio Visual Communications department, announced Dr. Donald G. Potter, Director of Audio Visual Communication.

The instructional services of the department are free, but there is a minimum charge for materials used, such as in signs and posters.

There are over 700 films in the film library, which covers a broad range of departments on campus. It is also possible to borrow films from school in Colorado, Utah, Idaho, and Wyoming.

The home economics, education, nursing and physical education departments make more use of the films than the other departments on the campus, stated Dr. Potter.

Signs, graphs, charts, and posters can be produced by the audio visual services department for a minimum fee. Complete black and white photo service, color copying of slides, and limited motion picture production is also available.

Journalism Graduate Appointed Editor

Wayne Bradford, former University of Nevada journalism graduate and now a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy working for the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs, is the new editor of the Defense Industry Bulletin.

The publication is printed in Washington D. C. by the Department of Defense of the United States Government.

Bradford has been in public relations for the Navy for the last ten years. During this time he has made motion pictures, written and produced television programs, edited newspapers, and worked with all the mass communications media.

Bill Adams, University housing director, likewise refused to comment on the oath and only said he had forgotten any oath to Coffin and Keys.

Others named by Dabney as belonging to the organization are, English professor Dr. John Morrison, Prof. John Gottardi, faculty advisor to the group, Jake Lawlor, athletic director, Benny Echeverria, student counselor, and Ken Robbins, editorial assistant in the University News Service.

Operation Mud Progresses Into Second Stage

Operation Mud, a project by the men of Blue Key to clean up Manzanita Lake, is now in the second and third stages of planning.

Phase one of the operation was completed about three weeks ago when the necessary equipment was donated by Isbell Construction Company.

At this time an island was constructed out of the debris at the north end of the lake, with a plan to add some plant life to the island this week.

Part two of Operation Mud is the construction of a walkway around the lake. The project will be under the supervision of Brian Whalen, University engineer, and John Sala, head of Buildings and Grounds, and will begin in about three weeks.

Phase three will be the construction of a bridge across the lake. Two types of construction are being considered for the bridge itself.

Plan one would be a straight span bridge made out of a cement span approximately 100 feet in length, to be designed by the University Civil Engineering Department. If used, plan one would be completed by the end of the semester.

Plan two, a design by the civil engineering class, calls for a wood span and wood dome bridge. If this plan is decided upon, the project will be completed early next fall.

Debate Coach Mosier Happy With Team's Performance

By TOM DYE
Managing Editor

"Our debaters did a fine job in the tournament" says debate coach Kenneth Mosier about Nevada's performance in the three-day Great Western Forensic Tournament which began Thursday and concluded Saturday.

Nevada hosted the tournament which was won by a powerful Oregon debating squad.

Nevada and BYU were the only tourney teams to remain undefeated going into the sixth round of the tournament. However, Nevada was not allowed to place in the tourney because of a code limiting host teams from advancing into the finals.

THIRD PLACE

Forensic stars Max Steinheimer and Ken Muller compiled a 5-2 record for Nevada and tied for third place.

First place went to Gordy Simmerman and Steve Jamison of champion Oregon who defeated another Oregon duo in the finals.

Oregon has one of the top debating squads in the West. They came in first in the District finals and will compete in the national debate championships.

Mosier was pleased with the efforts of Muller and Steinheimer. He says that Steinheimer received the highest speaker ratings in the competition.

BEST SPEAKER

Speakers are rated from one to four according to their performances. Steinheimer received all ones—which is the best a speaker can get.

The Nevada debate coach also lauded the debating prowess of his freshman number two team consisting of Frank Bass and Jim Emerson. The duo won three out of its first four debates, losing only to Utah.

"They were up against some of the toughest debate teams in the tournament," says Mosier. "They got a lot of experience and they did a remarkable job."

Thirty-three colleges and Universities took part in the debate competition. Following Oregon in the competition were three other Universities: the University of Arizona, Brigham Young, and the University of New Mexico.

OBSTACLES

Mosier emphasized that the Nevada teams had psychological obstacles to overcome in the tourney—but still managed to do well.

Nevada pulled out of the tourney on Wednesday because of a protest against a secret campus organization, Coffin and Keys.

However, the debaters reentered the tournament the next day.

Individual first places in the forensic tournament were taken by California student Jack Perellen in the After Dinner Speaking, Helen Buzolin of the University of San Francisco in the Ora-

Director of the play is Dr. William Miller, professor of speech and drama. Don Hackstaff is assistant director.

Corps Praises Nevada Turnout

The Peace Corps team that visited the Nevada campus early in March has tabulated the results of their testing program and found that 33 U. of N. students applied for the Corps.

Peace Corps recruiting officer Claudette Sarsfield says that ten less students took the tests in 1965 than in 1964.

However, she was pleased with the response to the Corp's visit and believes that much interest was shown in Peace Corps Service.

Miss Sarsfield says the Corps will be back next year to administer tests and talk to prospective applicants.

University Debater Ken Muller Threatens Sagebrush Suit

By HAMPTON YOUNG
Political Editor

Ken Muller, University debater, is considering suing the ASUN, according to Jinks Dabney, ASUN first vice president.

Muller is unhappy over an article printed in the Sagebrush which he feels infers that he may have had something to do with the printing of some leaflets spread on campus. The leaflets condemned Coffin and Keys, an honorary organization for campus leaders, for being secret.

According to Dr. Sam Basta, dean of student affairs, the leaflets were a violation of University policy. Although no disciplinary action would be taken against those who distributed them, Dean Basta said anyone who would do this lacks convictions.

DENIED PUBLISHING

Basta said that Muller came to him and adamantly denied publishing the leaflets. He denied nothing to the Sagebrush.

According to Dabney, Muller cites the indictments, or courses of actions. Muller maintains there was incorrect reporting, and he requests a front page retraction in the Sagebrush.

Muller is asking for Linda Chambers', Sagebrush editor, resignation, and wants to discuss a possible law suit at the Publications Board meeting. The meeting was held yesterday but results of the discussion were too late for publication.

When asked about the charges he was to bring before the publications board, Muller said he had been advised not to make any statement at the time.

When asked why he had never said anything to the Sagebrush about his charges, he said that he had tried to contact Miss Chambers, but she had made herself unavailable.

Editor Chambers said she had been personally seeking Muller out to ask him of his charges. "And I am not the only member of the Sagebrush staff that can be told of the charges," she said. "I have not made myself unavailable," she said.

University Coed Displays Works At Cal-Neva Club

A show of oil paintings by Susan Moss Gallaway, art student at the University of Nevada, will be on display at the Cal Neva's Copper Ledge restaurant through the month of April.

Both representational and abstract work is included in this first public show by the artist. All but a few of the paintings are for sale for reasonable offers.

The artist, who is in her junior year, is presently art chairman for the University's Student Union Board and art columnist for the Sagebrush and Nevada State Journal.

Among the eight paintings in the show are "Witch", a realistic partrait, a still life called "Instrumentation" in which she tries to capture the brilliance of metal against a blue background, and other realistic and abstract works.

Mrs. Gallaway also plans to exhibit her works in Virginia City at the St. Mary's Gallery and at the Gold Hill Gallery in Gold Hill after her Cal Neva showing.

CONGRATULATIONS and kisses were in order for newly commissioned Lieutenant Thomas M. Burns recently. Gladys Brown of the military department is congratulating.

Burns Commissioned In Army

Burns is a graduate of the College of Education, majoring in physical education. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Sundowners, and served on the Mackay Day and Homecoming committees.

He was a captain in the ROTC brigade and was active in the University of Nevada Cadet Officer's Club.

Former Senior Class President Thomas M. Burns was commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Army recently in the office of Colonel Robert L. Gundlach, professor of military science. He received his commission in the artillery, but plans to attend law school prior to reporting for active duty.

Cal Prexy Speaks Here

The average student view of the recent problems at the University of California will be presented in Reno this week by Berkeley campus student body president Charles Powell.

Powell will speak to the Reno Press Club this Friday noon at the Riverside Hotel.

The ASUC president has also agreed to meet informally with ASUN officers and other interested students while he is here. Plans are yet to be arranged.

Powell, a 20-year-old junior, plans to refute Mario Savio's position. He said Savio grabbed the limelight although he does not represent the typical Cal student.

Chemistry Profs Visit Detroit

Four chemistry professors from Nevada are in Detroit this week attending the spring meeting of the American Chemistry Society, national professional society of chemists.

The meeting is scheduled to be held through April 9th. Attending from the Reno campus are Dr. R. C. Fuson, Dr. D. J. MacDonald, Dr. R. D. Burkhart and Dr. J. B. Rogan.

Nevada Track Team Smashes Cal State In Dual Competition

The University of Nevada track team swept 16 of 18 first places last Saturday in Mackay Stadium, and humiliated the Cal State Pioneers from Hayward, 114-31.

The Wolf Pack won everything but the 440 and 120 yard high hurdles in blasting the Pioneers.

Cloudy skies and wind were the order of the day as the athletes from Nevada and Hayward state broke 16 meet records.

The Wolf Pack 440 relay team ran the event in 42.2 seconds and Nevada's high jumper Otis Burrell jumped 6' 9" in establishing new school and stadium records.

Burrell participated in both record performances as he joined Dick McCoy, Phil Henrikson and Houston Williamson in the relay effort which broke the old stadium mark of 42.5 seconds and meet record of 43.4.

Burrell twice attempted to clear 6' 11", but quit after his second miss with his new stadium record. Burrell's 6' 9" leap bettered his previous record of 6' 8 1/2" and eclipsed Larry Moore's meet mark of 6' 2".

Williamson, in addition to his participation in the relay record, won three first places. He won the 100-yard dash in 10.7, the broad jump in a leap of 22' 6" and the triple jump with a mark of 44' 8 1/2".

The Wolf Pack's Don McCarthy was also a double winner. He won the mile in 4:19.3 and took the three mile event in 15:18.4.

ATO's Boost Lead In Trophy Race

Alpha Tau Omega is leading in both trophy races. In the Bradshaw trophy race, which includes only fraternity living groups, ATO faces main opposition from only one other fraternity, Sigma Nu. Sigma Nu led both races until the end of the basketball and skiing programs. ATO now has a 28 point lead, 539-511.

In the Kinnear trophy race for all university living groups, ATO again leads Sigma Nu in a close race, 694-657. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is third in both races.

Pioneers Down Pack Tennismen In Reno Meet

California State salvaged one win here in Reno last weekend, as its tennis team belted the Wolf Pack squad 8-1.

Dave Chism won the lone match for Nevada, defeating Dan Wilson, 6-1, 6-2 in singles competition.

Nevada's tennis squad will join the track team next Saturday in Sacramento for a dual match with the Hornet netters.

Nevada's Bill Fine forced Des Fenelon to three sets before being defeated by the Pioneer, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. The Wolf Pack's Al Pierce and Gurt Taylor also went three sets in the doubles competition before losing to Don Smith and Rich Silbert of Cal State, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Other results: Silbert (H) def. Pierce, (N) 6-2, 7-5; Bob Riley (H) def. Taylor (N), 8-6, 8-6; Mike Sohriakoff (H) def. Jack Raycraft (N), 6-3, 6-1; Smith (H) def. John Young (N), 6-2, 6-2; Riley-Sohriakoff (H) def. Raycraft-Jim Roulias (N), 6-3, 6-1; Fenelon-Wilson (H) def. Young Chism (N) 6-1, 6-2.

Nursement's Bat Salvages Doubleheader Split Saturday

Four hits in eight times at bat, resulting in two home runs and six runs batted in, by Nevada's Earl Nursement, led the Wolf Pack as it split a Far Western Conference baseball double-header with the Chico State Wildcats in Chico Saturday afternoon.

The Wildcats came from behind to take the first game, in spite of Nursement's grand slam home run, and the Wolf Pack came back to blast 15 hits in the second game to take it from Chico, 11-7.

NEW MARK

The split gave the Wolf Pack a 2-2 conference mark. Nevada is currently in a two game inter-sectional series with the Cougars of Washington State. The Washington squad played the first game of the series yesterday and will finish it this afternoon at Moana Stadium beginning at 2 p.m.

The Cougars are currently rated in the upper ranks of national collegiate competition this season. They compete in a league with Oregon State University, the University of Oregon, the University of Washington and the University of Idaho.

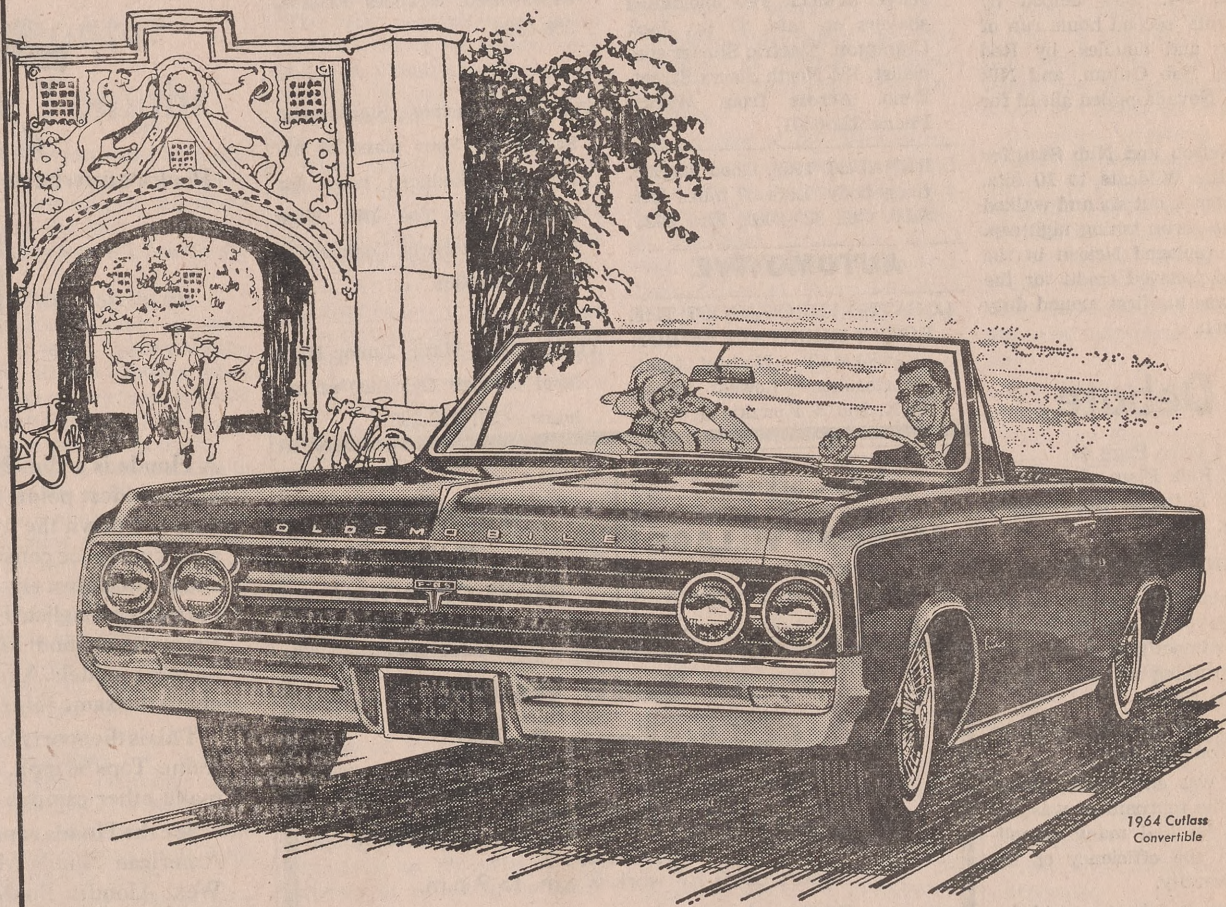

Chico was behind the Wolf Pack, 6-1, going into the bottom of the sixth inning, when the Wildcats pushed across eight runs. It took the Wildcats a long time to retire starter Carl Bossieux, who was followed by hurlers Jim Whisman and Dennis Scott. The three Nevada pitchers allowed a total of only seven hits throughout the contest.

GRAND SLAM

Nursement, a sophomore transfer from Chaffey Junior College in California, had put the Silver and Blue out in front in the third inning with his first home run of the day, a grand slam rip worth four runs. Bob Gillum immediately followed Nursement with a bases empty homer. But, the Wildcats rally in the sixth proved too much for Nevada.

In taking the loss, Bossieux struck out six Wildcat batsmen and gave up four bases on balls.

Belting extra-base hits for Nevada, besides Nursement and Gillum, was first-baseman Barry McKinnon, with a triple.

HIT ATTACK

In the second game, Owen Toy and Nik Walters blasted six hits between them, three apiece, to lead the 15 hit attack which resulted in Nevada's 11-7 victory.

Nevada was leading 4-2 in the third inning when the Wildcats broke loose to score three runs and lead 5-4. But, helped by Nursements' second home run of the day and doubles by Rod Mathisen, Bob Gillum, and Nik Walters, Nevada pulled ahead for good.

Jim Nelson and Nub Stauffer limited the Wildcats to 10 hits. Nelson struck out six and walked six in the seven inning nightcap. Stauffer replaced Nelson in the third and received credit for the win. It was his first mound duty this season.

Women Hoopsters Finish Basketball

The University of Nevada's women's basketball club has ended its most successful basketball season in many years. The club lost two games last weekend but its overall record showed many more victories than losses. They lost to American River Junior College by the score of 41 to 28 and also to Sacramento State College 29 to 27 after leading most of the game. In an earlier game this season they had beaten American River Junior College 42 to 35.

Basketball on this campus was started by girls and called the "sport of queens". The first intercollegiate competition in the sport at Nevada was on the feminine level in 1896. In 1899 the women beat Stanford 3-2 and lost 7-3 to California.

After the men took the sport over in 1913, the women faded into the background. Only intramural basketball remained for the women after 1920. However, in recent years women's intercollegiate basketball has crept back into prominence. This is the first year in recent times that the Nevada women have had a full schedule.

Tau's Win In Badminton

Intramural badminton got underway last week in the University of Nevada gymnasium.

The first competition saw two ATO teams rack up victories over the Sigma Nu's. ATO number one team downed Sigma Nu No. 3 and ATO No. 4 defeated Sigma Nu No. 2.

In other action, Lambda Chi Alpha No. 1 defeated Theta Chi No. 2, SAE No. 1 beat ATO No. 5, White Pine Hall dwned Lambda Chi N. 2, and Phi Sigma Kappa was defeated by White Pine Hall No. 2

Four teams comprise the intramural badminton league.

A Honda is a slim 24" at the widest point. This narrows down the hunt for a parking space considerably. You can slide into almost any shady spot. Like just outside of English Lit. Hondas fit into slim budgets too. Prices start about $215*. Gas goes farther, up to 200 mpg on some models. And cutting your wheels in half does just about the same thing for insurance costs. Or more.

This is the sporty Super 90 with its distinguished T-bone frame. Tops 60 mph. Just one of the 15 Honda models that make other campus transportation strictly for the birds.

See the Honda representative on your campus or write: American Honda Motor Co., Inc., Department C1, 100 West Alondra Boulevard, Gardena, California 90247.
