WUS Holds Carny Tonight

By BARBARA BARNICA

Dancing, games, and refreshments will be featured at the World University Service (WUS) Carnival and Ugly Man Dance, tonight.

The carnival will be held in the snack bar and will last from 7 p.m., to 10:30 p.m. The dance, which will be held in the dining commons, will be from 9:30 p.m. to 12 midnight.

The booths at the carnival will offer such activities as sponge throwing, colored kisses, China breaking, shot-gun weddings, and a dumper machine. There will also be refreshment booths.

The Cix, formerly known as the Breakers, will play for the Ugly Man Dance. The Ugly Man, who has been elected by the University of Nevada women students, will be named at the dance tonight.

Those vying for the title of Ugly Man are:

Joseph Raymond "J.R." Curry representing the Sundowners. The 21-year-old zoology major likes all sports and has been on the University of Nevada boxing team and ski team. As to why he feels that he should win the title of Ugly Man, he said that, "The Sundowners are ugly and I resent them."

Phi Sigma Kappa is represented in the Ugly Man contest by John Custer. The 20-year-old sophomore foreign language major is scholarship chairman for his fraternity and likes to participate in intramural sports. He feels that he should be chosen Ugly Man because, "We want to win."

Steve Gibson, representing Lambda Chi Alpha, is a 19-year-old junior accounting major. He enjoys participating in intramural sports. He feels that he should be chosen Ugly Man because, "I am by far the ugliest man in this house."

Alpha Tau Omega is represented by Bill "Iguana" House. The 20-year-old junior nuclear engineering major is from Yuba City, California. He is active in intramural sports, and has been rush chairman, scholarship chairman, pledge trainer, and a member of Sagers. He feels that he should be chosen Ugly Man because "My face will require the least expense in make-up."

Arne Nossom, representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is from Norway. The 22-year-old civil engineering major is on the ski team and is active in intramural sports. He feels that he should be chosen Ugly Man because, "They couldn't find anyone better."

Bob Payton is representing Theta Chi. The 19-year-old freshman business marketing major is interested in all kinds of sports. He is active in intramural sports, a member of Newman Club, and pledge class president. "When I walk down the street, the girls walk on the other side," is his reason for feeling that he should be chosen Ugly Man.

Gary Silverman, representing Sigma Nu, is a 19-year-old sophomore history major. He transferred here from Nevada Southern. He played freshman football, is a member of Sagers and is assistant treasurer of his fraternity house. When asked why he thought that he should be chosen Ugly Man, he said, "I think that I am the most deserving. I am obviously the best equipped for the honor."

Admission to the carnival and dance is one dollar. The tickets for the booths are ten cents.

Governor Sawyer Vetoes Riot Bill

Governor Grant Sawyer, using his veto power last Thursday, April 15, turned down the anti-riot bill, calling the measure, one that "extends into the realm of probable unconstitutionality."

Sawyer also said, "The provisions of this bill are a dangerous step away from the concepts of civil liberties which are so vitally important to our constitutional heritage."

He said the riot bill SB-45 went far beyond his proposal to strengthen law enforcement agencies with respect to crowd control.

Sawyer met earlier in the week with University of Nevada students who urged he veto the measure.

The Sagebrush, in earlier editorials also urged the Governor's non-support of the bill.

Nevada students claimed the bill was unconstitutional, depriving them of the freedoms of assembly and advocacy.

Sawyer said, "If we are taking away their rights to state positions as a group, we are taking away their rights of stating a personal, private position."

Riot bill SB-45, as stated, would have amended provisions for punishment of riot, rout, unlawful assembly, rescuing prisoners, and interference with law enforcing agencies.

The bill allows law enforcement officials to stop possible riots.

Publications Board Elects Rogich Sagebrush Editor

Sig Rogich, 20-year-old junior journalism major, has been elected next year's Sagebrush editor at a Publication's Board meeting before Easter, the last meeting of this year's board.

John Utt, his competitor for the editorship, withdrew from the race just before the board voted. Utt, a 21-year-old journalism major, said he withdrew because he felt the editorship would put too much of a burden on his studies.

Marc Ratner was chosen for the Sagebrush business manager.

In other action the board re-elected Joyce Freeman and Elfrena Sewell as editor and business manager of next year's Artemisia. Judy Crowell was defeated for the Artemisia editorship.

BRUSHFIRE EDITOR

Maurice Beesley and Jack Cooney captured the Brushfire editor and manager's positions. Beesley defeated Lance Sparks for editor of the literary magazine.

Mary White and Jean Chiappero were re-elected as editor and business manager of the Forum. They ran without opposition.

The meeting was laced with controversy in the form of a letter introduced by Sharon Dinan. The letter charged Sagebrush staff writer John Utt with irresponsibility concerning a story he wrote of Miss Dinan's riot bill petition to Governor Sawyer.

Miss Dinan wanted the board to take her charges into consideration when voting. She contended that Utt had not shown her the story before it was printed in the Sagebrush.

Library To Remain Open Until 11 P.M.

The main library has resumed normal hours and is now open in the evenings until 11 p.m.

During spring vacation, the main library remained open during week days and evening hours were suspended until the resumption of classes.

Previous information stated that the library would remain on the vacation schedule until Thursday April 29. However the normal schedule was resumed last Wednesday.

mented on her letter, and it was decided she had no right to see the story previous to publication. It was decided that if she wanted any action she should write a letter to the editor.

Judy Garwood, Brushfire editor, complained to the board of editorial abuse in the Sagebrush and the Forum. The board unanimously voted to have acting chairman Chuck Murphy write an apology to be printed in the Sagebrush and the Forum.

Dr. John Morrison, associate professor of English, was nominated for Publications Board advisor. Voting for the position will be held at the first meeting of the new board with both old and new boards voting. Morrison is the present advisor.

Professor Named To State Post

A University of Nevada Political Science Professor is taking a two-year leave of absence to become Deputy Director of the State Department of Administration.

Associate Professor James Roberts will assume his new duties on June 15. He plans to work part-time on the job for the first month and will then work on a full-time basis.

Roberts describes his new job as helping to increase government efficiency and fiscal management. During his second year, Roberts will work on the development of the budget.

The political science professor will teach during the first summer session which ends in July. After that, his teaching will be limited to a special evening course for persons in government service.

Roberts, who has been teaching at Nevada since 1956, spent two years with the U.S. Government in Pakistan, teaching political science courses.

At Nevada, Roberts teaches beginning political science courses, and a course in public administration. He also teaches a course in American government problems.

After his two-year stay with the state government, Roberts plans to continue instructions at Nevada.

Watch Out -- Daylight Savings Time Is Here

By HAMPTON YOUNG

Ordinarily blue Monday is hard enough to take for the average college scholar, but this Monday take care. Spend a leisure weekend. Grab no less than 16 hours sleep a night. Take it light and easy on the studying.

Daylight Savings Time is upon us, and Sunday the alarm clock must be set ahead a full hour. The over-all campus effect could be phenomenal.

Consider the ordinary University professor — tall, dark, handsome and fiendishly cheerful on a normal Monday morn. Behold the same man on the start of a Daylight Savings Time morning — hunched over, wizened and determined to be diabolically bouyant no matter who he has to snarl at.

Picture the normal student on the first day of the week — hungover, dazed, cowed and huddled into the farthest corner of his chair, hair barely brushed over. At the dawn of a Savings Time day the same student, stupefied, furtive eyes glazed, wanders aimlessly into class hopelessly searching his mind for the location of that lost hour in which he could have completed all his homework.

Under the circumstances everyday class discussion is completely and irreverantly lost at the onset of an ill-fated sunrise such as this.

And what of the deans? They are hardy souls, one and all. Constantly guarding the student, firm and adamant in their decisions, they normally keep the students under surveillance with a keen and sharp eye.

Losing an hour's sleep could foreseeably tip the scale of protectfulness from the stalker to the stalked. Everywhere a dean would go he would feel a hundred eyes on him.

The usually robust, industrious and healthy member of a Buildings and Grounds crew could transform overnight after losing an hour's slumber. Stunned and unable to work, he would be at a loss as to which shovel or broom to lean on.

The Dewey Decimal System at the library could conceivably become chaotic after a librarian with eyes shut and arm extended, replaces the morning's returned books staggering down a row. The library would be quiet.

The TUB would sell out of coffee, but noiselessly with no more than a whimper or two from an occasional freshman girl. It would be happily impossible to find the coin slot of the juke box through slitted and swollen eyes.

But the inertness of Sam Campus and Patricia Coed could wither with the approach of sunset; and as twinkling shafts of star and moonlight revitalized their wilted consciousness, stable normality would once again return to the campus world.

Brushfire Editor, Judith Garwood, Asks For Publications Board Apology

Members of the ASUN Publications Board:

In view of the following considerations

1. That the October 2, 1964 issue of the Sagebrush was in fact libelous, portraying me in such a manner as to hold me up to public scorn and ridicule, and making unfair and groundless implications as to the nature of my character;
2. That the Sagebrush from that time on followed an editorial policy which was consistently derogatory and abusive in regard to my character and reputation;
3. That this policy was then picked up by the Forum;
4. That when I requested that a Publications Board meeting be held before the deadline for the April issue of Forum so that I could raise the question of an apology, this request was ignored;
5. That my reputation on this campus has been seriously damaged by the unfavorable image which these two ASUN publications have presented to me;

I am now requesting an official apology from the ASUN Publications Board. I wish to make it clear that I have no complaint against either the present editor of the Sagebrush or the present editor of the Forum, nor am I asking for action to be taken against anyone, since I feel that there is no one person who should be singled out. I do feel, however, that the Publications Board, as the responsible body, should grant me an apology for the attacks which have been made on me in its publications, and that this apology should be printed in both the Sagebrush and the Forum.

Publications Board Issues Apology For Personal Attacks On Garwood

The ASUN Board of Publications, in view of editorial views expressed in ASUN publications, has voted to issue a sincere apology for personal attacks made upon Miss Garwood during the recent "Brushfire controversy."

This decision is the unanimous decision of the ASUN Board of Publications and does not affect the decisions reached by the Board, but is a repudiation of "continued editorial abuse."

This does not constitute a reflection upon responsible editorials written concerning the recent "furor."

This statement is to be printed in both the Sagebrush and the Forum.

Nine Business Schools Here

The University of Nevada will host its first Annual Invitational Intercollegiate Business Simulation Weekend today and tomorrow on the Reno campus.

The event will feature business games, in which teams from nine visiting universities will make quarterly decisions every half hour pertaining to production, advertising, cost, product prices, etc., of a modern business.

The special weekend brings to a climax quarterly decisions which have been made for the last eight weeks. The decisions were fed to IBM computers, which printed the results.

The business teams will be divided into three worlds, with three companies in each.

Dr. John Luke, IBM director, will present an IBM trophy to the winning team. Three additional semi-final teams will be awarded trips to the IBM plant at San Jose.

Schools participating in the event are: Utah State, Arizona State, Arizona State College, University of Oregon, Sacramento State, University of Pacific, Stanislaus College, Nevada Southern, and the University of Nevada.

Members of the Nevada team include Kent Folgate, Rusty Nash, Herb Stathes, and Alan Craigmiles.

THE CONDEMNED Theta Chi fraternity house which may be torn down this summer.

TC's Ask For New House

The Theta Chi's are paving the way toward a new house. According to Tony Behm, Theta Chi president, the present house at University Terrace and Ralston Street has been condemned by the Fire Department.

Behm says the house will be officially condemned by the Reno City Council at the end of this semester. On May 30 the Theta Chi's can "show cause" for not condemning the building at a City Council meeting.

But Behm says they want the building condemned. With the building condemned, they can rent another house and begin to tear the old one down.

Behm says the house has been in about the same condition for the last 10 years, only the foundation has deteriorated. After a fire broke out and gutted one room of the structure at the end of the last school year, the Theta Chi's began proceedings for obtaining a new house.

The Nevada Theta Chi's want to borrow $50,000 from the Theta Chi National Board of Trustees. Their case comes before the board on May 22. Behm says they should get the money.

They are also attempting to procure about $10,000 from their alumni and they already have a good part of the funds. An additional $60,000 will come from a bank loan.

According to Behm, "Now is the time to tear the house down and come out cheaper." They can get a lower bid if the building can be torn down over a long period of time.

Behm has looked at several places for the Theta Chi temporary home, but hasn't decided which to rent.

The house has been condemned for the past eight years on a conditional condemnation, according to Philo Romine, past-president of the Theta Chi's.

Nevada Profs' Text Used Nationally

"Social Psychology," a textbook recently written by Dr. Paul E. Secord, chairman of the University of Nevada's department of psychology, and Dr. Carl W. Backman, chairman of sociology and anthropology, is being used in University classes across the nation.

The book is a contemporary view of social psychology, reflecting experimental research in the field and bringing together the views of both psychologists and sociologists. New research areas discussed in the book include: the interaction process and emerging small group structure; social psychological analysis of ongoing social systems; social and personal perception and socialization processes.

Study questions are scattered through the text to help student understanding, rather than being placed at the end of chapters or at the end of the text.

The book is being used in psychology and sociology classes at Stanford University, University of Southern California, Northwestern University, Purdue University, Boston University, University of Minnesota, University of North Carolina, Pennsylvania State University, University of Texas, and the University of Hawaii.

Advanced ROTC Cadets Set For Fourth Annual Mock War

Junior and senior members of the University of Nevada's advanced ROTC cadet program will stage their fourth annual mock war today and tomorrow in the Pyramid Lake region.

The war is part of a pre-summer training program for Juniors preparing for the annual summer camp.

During the war, the Juniors will be taught tactical marches, assault formations, patrolling, and care and cleaning of equipment.

AGGRESSORS

Seniors will act as advisers to the Juniors and will also play the part of the aggressor force in the war. The aggressors will harrass the Juniors in pitched battles and be involved in an all out battle or attack tomorrow morning.

Colonel Robert L. Gundlach, chairman of the ROTC department, and Major John A. Halvorson, Professor of Military Science, will supervise the war.

The Junior cadets will rotate leadership positions. They will alternate as squad leaders, assistant squad leaders, platoon sergeants, and platoon leader.

The cadets will leave the campus at noon today. On arriving at the Pyramid Lake region they will join into battle units. Upon advancing into the foothills they will come under attack by both the Senior aggressors and the Nevada Air National Guard.

No live ammunition will be used, but blank ammunition will be used in the machine guns, rifles and M80 firecrackers employed by both sides.

Tactical problems, including both combat and reconnaissance types will continue through the night.

After breakfast the juniors will stage an all out attack on the aggressor force situated in a fortified position two miles from camp. The war will end at approximately noon Saturday.

High School 'Seventh Seal' Tournney Set Shown Tues.

The annual high school forensic tournament got underway yesterday on the Nevada campus.

Twenty schools are participating in the three-day debate event. All but three of these high schools are in Nevada. The California schools taking part include Lassen, Loyalton and Tahoe Truckee high schools.

Yesterday the tournament started with the one act plays. On tap today is the forensic portion of the tournament, which starts at 10 a.m.

The high school students will compete in extemporaneous speaking, informative speaking, oratory, interpretative reading, and debate.

Five preliminary rounds are scheduled for the debate portion of the tournney. The other events will have three preliminary rounds. Finals in all rounds will be held in the Fine Arts Building.

The schools are divided into A and B divisions according to enrollment. Trophies will be awarded in each division for overall performance, and in each individual event.

Nevada Debate Coach Kenneth Mosier is this year's tournney director. He says he is pleased with the number of entries in the tournament and that this is probably the biggest high school debate tournney ever held on the campus.

Ingmar Bergman's movie, "The Seventh Seal," will be shown Tuesday night as the fifth and film classic for the Spring semester.

The classic production deals with a crusader who returns to Sweden to find the country ravaged by the plague. The man then plays a human chess game. And the outcome involves human suffering and eventual death for the crusader.

The film, produced in 1957, was awarded the Cannes Film Festival Award as the best film of the year based on folk legend.

Bergman, born in Sweden, is well known for his film productions as well as being director of the Stockholm Theatre in Sweden.

"The Seventh Seal" will be shown in the Church Fine Arts Building at 7 and 9 p.m., and is free to students and faculty.

Not that it's on his mind right now. And it needn't be. Those Lee-Prest Leesures can't help but stay crisp and neat. No matter what you put them through. They have a new permanent press. So the crease stays in. The wrinkles stay out. Permanently. And that's without ironing. No touch-ups, either. They're made from Lee's special blend of 50% polyester and 50% combed cotton. ## Nevada Trackmen Ready For Dual Meet Here Saturday

By TOM DYE
Managing Editor

The University of Nevada track team will watch the skies this weekend and hope for clear weather. If the elements don't conspire against the trackmen they will take on Humboldt State and Sonoma State in a triangular meet at Mackay Stadium tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Three track meets have been rained out this season — one meet against Sacramento State was called off twice because of rain.

Track mentor Dick Dankworth considers this meet important because only two weeks remain before the Far Western Conference championship meet.

WORK HARD

"We'll really have to work hard these next two weeks to build up momentum for the FWC finals," says Dankworth. "The weather has kept the team members from improving their distances and timing," Dankworth adds.

Dankworth believes that Humboldt will provide the Silver and Blue with some tough competition in several individual events. Broadjumper and triple jumper Tom Farmer, plus discus thrower Bill Hook give the Lumberjacks a pair of topflight performers who should score points Saturday.

Sonoma State will bring about 18 men to the meet. This is their first year of track competition in the FWC.

VICTORIOUS

Thus far this season, Nevada has taken victories over the University of Pacific and Southern Oregon in a tri-meet and has beaten San Francisco State and Alameda State in dual action.

Nevada will be without the services of Otis Burrell, who is one of the finest high jumpers in

Forty School Teachers Study Here In Summer

Forty secondary school teachers of French will study this summer on the campus for eight weeks at the NDEA Summer Language Institute in cooperation with the United States Office of Education and the support of the National Defense Education Act of 1958. Dr. Charles V. Wells, Director of the Institute and associate professor and chairman of the foreign language department, said the Institute will run from June 21 to August 13.

The forty teachers of private and public schools including two from Nevada were selected from 350 applications to increase their proficiency in understanding, speaking, reading, and writing French. The institute will acquaint participants with linguistics, recent advances in teaching methods, and knowledge of the French culture and civilization.

The Institute's program will include lectures and discussions, writing, pronunciation clinics laboratory drills, applied linguistics, and observation of a demonstration class. The courses are scheduled for mornings and early afternoons. Films, special lectures, and social activities will make up the evening programs. Weekends will see trips to Lake Tahoe, Pyramid Lake, Squaw Valley, Virginia City, and other points of interest in the Sierra Nevada.

The participants will be housed in one of the residence halls and will eat in the Dining Commons at language tables set aside for the use of the Institute. French will be spoken at all times.

the world. the seven-foot jumper has been invited to the Drake relays — one of the biggest meets in the U.S.

Dankworth is happy with the progress of his discus throwers this season. Otis Robertson and Alex Darnes give the Wolf Pack two performers who can heave the platter over 160 feet. Darnes has an all time best of 173 feet.

IMPRESSIVE RUNNERS

Distance runners Jose Valle and Don McCarthy have also impressed Dankworth. Both men have mile times of 4:24 and probably would have better marks if it were not for the poor weather. Valle is also an excellent two miler.

Freshman Allan Landsdon has shown considerable promise and has cleared 13-6 this season. The former Nevada state high school champ has vaulted over 14 feet before.

Dankworth cites the need for improvement in several events, including the sprints and shot put. Howard Briles, a 50 feet plus thrower, is the number one man in the shot and Dick McCoy and Mike Prosser are the leading men in the sprints.

"In many of these events," says Dankworth, "our second and third men must come through."

The Wolf Pack coach still believes that powerful Sacramento State is the team to beat in the upcoming FWC meet.

English Dept. Sets Program For Summer

A special English institute designed to give teachers a better background in linguistics, rhetoric, and composition will be held at the University of Nevada this summer.

The literature phase of the program will be headed by Walter Van Tilberg Clahk, author of three novels on the American West. Mr. Clark is the University's author-in-residence.

Dr. Charlton Laird, professor of English at Nevada, will head the language phase of the summer program. Dr. Laird has written several books on language and language usage.

The composition phase of the program will be conducted by Dr. Ronald Freeman of the University of Southern California.

The sixth week institute is the first of its kind to be held on the Nevada campus. The program is being offered in cooperation with the University's English department, the National Defense Education Act Program and the U.S. Office of Education.

Director of the institute is Dr. Robert Gorrell, chairman of the English department at the University. The associate director is Dr. David W. Hettich, assistant professor of English. Other members of the English department will also take part in the program.

4-H Members Attend Confab

Five of Nevada's top 4-H members are scheduled to participate in the 35th National 4-H Conference April 25-30 in Washington, D.C.

Attending from the University of Nevada will be Bill Rawlins, a freshman in the Fleischmann College of Agriculture. Rawlins represented Nevada at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago and is currently state 4-H president. His trip to Washington is sponsored by the Nevada LP Gas Association.

"Selection of a member to participate in the national conference is the highest honor that the state can bestow upon a 4-H member," said Raymond C. Cox, state 4-H Club leader in the Co-operative Extension Service.

The conference program highlights include discussions with top government officials and nationally-recognized educational authorities, visits to the White House and the Capitol, and a visit to the senate chambers while the senate is in session.

Delta Sigma Pi Schedules Founder's Day Dance

Delta Sigma Pi Business Fraternity will hold its Founder's Day Dance tomorrow night at the Villa Roma at 9. The dance will be open to the campus.

Guest performer will be Jim Burgett of the Mapes Swim Show fame. Backing him will be the Ratz, a "surf" group from Modesto, California.

In May, Burgett will release a record on the ABC Paramount label. He will also audition for a 40-week contract with the TV show "Shindig". He is now making final plans for the June opening of a non-alcoholic "Teen-age Night Club" on So. Virginia Street.

The Ratz are a professional group which will come out with their first major recording this June. This band has performed in San Francisco at The Round Circle Theater, in Sacramento, and in Reno at the State Building.
