

Draft Deferment More Difficult For College Males

By DAVID FREEMAN

Notices Sent

With the increased draft calls, Selection Service boards across the country are reviewing the college student more closely than in recent years.

To qualify for a year by year deferment a student must be in good standing and enrolled in a regular full-time course that will lead to graduation in a normal four-year period, said Lt. Colonel A. A. Millard, director of the Selective Service System for Nevada.

"A student who is in trouble academically or who is a disciplinary problem at the University has made himself more vulnerable to be taken out of school by the draft," he said. The student is expected to maintain the best grade point average he can and keep his local board informed of any changes in his status. Above all, if he has any questions concerning the draft he should contact his local board and not rely on hearsay, said Colonel Millard.

Students who do not qualify for a deferment or who will graduate in June will probably get their notice to report for testing. If qualified to serve, they will probably be inducted some time at the end of the school year. Their local board has the authority to review the men at this time to grant or deny a deferment.

About 90 per cent of the men drafted at this time from Nevada will be sent to Fort Ord, California, for basic training. The other branches of the Armed Forces may have calls also, and it is expected that the Navy will announce its needs for June in April or March.

A student must have an acceptance to a graduate school to apply to his draft board for a deferment. Even with an acceptance the field of graduate work must be seen as essential to the health, safety, and interest of the nation by the board to grant the deferment.

If a student wishes to gain a deferment by getting employment in a vital industry he must first consult his local board. The board is not required to grant a deferment because of any type of employment.

Colonel Millard added that the Selective Service is not designed to put all young men into the Armed Forces. The responsibility of Selective Service boards is to utilize the manpower resources of the country to the best interest of the United States. This means that if a man has skills that will enable him to serve his country better in a civilian position than the Selective Service System he will not be required to place this man in the military.

Each of the services has officer procurement programs available on the University campus, said Colonel Millard. He added that this is an important source of officers for the Armed Forces and that some students may benefit by looking into these.

Coach Starts Seventh Year As Helm Of Cage Squad

Coach Jack Spencer began his seventh year at the helm of the University of Nevada basketball team this week. Spencer has a six-year record of 73 wins and 70 losses at Nevada.

Spencer coached at Iowa-Western College before coming here in 1959. He was also assistant basketball coach at the University of St. Louis Hawks before turning to coaching.

He interrupted his coaching career for two years to become a deputy sheriff.

He and Mrs. Spencer reside in Manzanita Hall where she is the house mother.

Organizing Meet For Calendar Set

A meeting of the calendar committee will be held Wednesday December 8 at 4 p.m. in the East West room of the Jot Travis Student Union.

The meeting will be open to any organization wishing to schedule events for the spring semester. Social chairmen from the campus living groups are urged to attend.

Those unable to attend the meet may contact Michon Maupin ASUN first vice president in charge of clubs and activities in the Student Union.

Over 1,400 Expected To Donate Blood; Drive May Exceed Other Seven Western Universities

The University of Nevada's faculty and administration have joined the student body in registering for the University of Nevada's Blood Drive for Servicemen in Viet Nam.

The 950 members of the faculty and administration have received letters and registration sheets for the drive, and are responding in large numbers. "The letters were sent to the faculty and administration this week," said Mike Smithwick, assistant chairman of the blood drive committee, "and the response has been very favorable. By the time we receive all of the letters, I expect to have well over 1,400 people for the total registration."

The Blood Drive committee will be visiting the living groups on campus throughout the next week to explain the details of the drive, and to answer any questions. All clubs and organizations will also be contacted.

"With the vast student interest already expressed," said Smithwick, "we could donate more blood than U.C.L.A., Stanford, Washington State University, or any of the other seven universities which have held blood drives." A spokesman for the American Red Cross said that each university has been averaging 200 pints. Approximately 8,000 pints of blood have been donated across the country through student blood drives.

The University of Nevada Blood Drive will begin Tuesday, Dec. 14 and continue through Friday, Dec. 17. The blood drawing will be done by the Southwest Blood Bank nurses during the entire four-day drive. The Student Union card lounge will be used to facilitate the drive.

Students wishing to participate in the drive will be required to register, and may obtain registration sheets at the A.S.U.N. offices. All students under the age of 21 will be required to have their parents or guardian sign a permission sheet, which also may be obtained in the A.S.U.N. offices.

The American Red Cross will be present during the blood drive to operate the refreshment table for all donors.

Buetens Lute Trio Performs Monday

The Buetens Lute Trio, directed by Stanley Buetens, will perform in the Jot Travis Student Union Building at 8 p.m. on Monday.

Buetens is considered by critics to be a leading interpreter of the lute, a string instrument of the 16th century.

The other members of the trio are Grace Feldman, who plays the viola da Gamba, an instrument which came before the violin, and is like a cello, but is held between the knees without a peg; and Ralph Zeitlin, with the recorders, krummhorn, a reed wind instrument with a curved tube, and cornetto, a 16th century straight or bent wooden or ivory horn.

Pieces from the "Glogauer Liederbuch", dances from the Elizabethan theatre and Baroque Trios and sonatas by Vivaldi, Telemann, and Haydn will be on the program.

This will be the third presentation of the Performing-Artists series sponsored by the Public Occasions Board, the ASUN and the Jot Travis Union.

General admission is $2.25; faculty and staff of the University, $1.25; students, $1.

Vacation Starts Dec. 22

Christmas vacation will begin December 22 and continue through January 4 states Michon Maupin ASUN first vice president.

Banquets And Blood Drive Debated By Senate

Discussion was rampant in Senate as senators debated over banquets, the Blood Drive, the Vietnam Drive, and the Student Union Board fee raise Wednesday night.

Banquets for the Finance Control Board and the Publications Board were definitely ruled out in the form of a resolution as Senate decided members of the two boards were already paid for their duties. Last year Senate ruled no banquets at the end of last semester.

Banquets were approved for Homecoming, Winter Carnival, Mackay Day and similar committees. Senate felt members of these committees worked hard for the students with no compensation. It was felt these committees deserved banquets.

Further, Senate decided to limit the cost of the committee banquets to $5 per plate in another resolution. All three resolutions were submitted by Senator Tony Behm.

A banquet for all outgoing ASUN officers was also approved by Senate.

Senate also approved a proclamation introduced by John Osse, president of Newman Club, that backed the December 17th Vietnam Civic Fund Drive. The drive will supply funds to provide food, clothing and medical supplies to South Vietnamese villagers.

Students will forfeit a meal at the dining commons. The money from this meal will go to CARE and supplies will be distributed to villagers by the Marine Corps. Fraternity and sorority members will also donate money.

ASUN President Mike Ingersoll discussed the Blood Drive for U.S.

troops in Vietnam. Blood will be donated by students on December 14-17 in the Student Union Card Lounge. The Southwest Reno Blood Bank will provide equipment and nurses.

The ASUN will be expected to provide a canteen service—orange juice, tea, etc. — for the blood donors.

Student Union Board President Tony Oxborrow acquainted Senate with the need for a Union Board fee raise. "As maintenance expenses, program funds go down," according to Oxborrow. Unless the Board gets a fee raise, the entertainment program, movies, lectures, big entertainers, will soon be eliminated due to a shortage of funds.

Senate endorsed the backing of the proposed fee raise.

Blase Senate Accomplishes Nothing; Students Still Bear Banquet Costs

Senate, in a usual display of blase, ambiguous efficiency, passed a series of profound resolutions which, in effect, accomplished absolutely nothing Wednesday night.

Last year, Senate passed a resolution banning banquets supported by ASUN student funds. This meant Finance Control Board, Publications Board, Homecoming, Winter Carnival and Mackay Day committees would no longer enjoy student-financed parties as in the past.

The cost of some of these affairs had been highly exorbitant, and it was felt student money should not be spent so highly on just a few students.

But in two brilliant moves, one this semester and one last semester, Senate reversed this resolution. Last semester Senate knowingly okayed a Publications Board banquet. Cleverly concealed in the budget of this semester's Homecoming budget was a banquet fund when Senate approved the overall Homecoming financial report.

Some members of Senate moved to rectify this blatant reversal of policy. The Senate Steering Committee studied the matter and some proposals emerged which were introduced to Senate Wednesday night.

Senate moved to prohibit the Finance Control and Publications Board from having further banquets. Fine — this repeated what was already law. Board members receive a salary for their work, and don't expecially need any further benefits on the students' behalf.

But it was felt, justly, that members of Homecoming, Winter Carnival and Mackay Day committees receive no compensation for the hard work they perform which does benefit students in general. Senate chose to grant the committees a banquet each with a stipulation of a $5.00 a plate maximum for committee members.

This was also a fine move. Student funds are being spent, but justifiably and with a financial limit.

However, Senate then passed a resolution approving a banquet for all outgoing ASUN officers. This will include all seantors, all members of the Judicial Finance Control and Publications boards, and all the executive ASUN officers — some 100 individuals.

A classic move by a classic Senate, this will provide a lavish banquet for even more people than previously. Senate endured several wasted minutes debate in essentially maintaining the status quo. Students are still bearing the costs of a party for the same few people.

Quorum Plus One

By MARILYN JONES

Notes from the void:

Since the world began we have had wars. We are now involved in a war and we might as well do the best we can to accept it. We believe in freedom and democracy and we are willing to fight for our beliefs—to sacrifice for them.

The above are miscellaneous remarks from those who advocate our stand in Vietnam. Do you believe it? Where does the idealist fit in the reality?

We are a civilized race according to sociology text books. Some tribes in this world are uncivilized because they eat each other. They have to—they get hungry.

What's our excuse?

A few years ago, there was a group of people called "Aztecs." When times were bad they would sacrifice a life so that the times would change. When times were good, they would sacrifice a life so that the times would continue to be prosperous.

We look back now and wonder how they could find any logic in such a ritual. In a few years, historians will look back at our rituals and wonder what motivated us to sacrifice—for continuing prosperity?

These historians will find the answer and they will also find that the people who protested the war knew all along.

"A picketer is a person who carries a sign and protests." This definition will suffice for those who are so indoctrinated as to the rights and wrongs of governments that they are incapable of understanding.

First of all, take a good look at what they are protesting. They are protesting anti-love and inhumanity. I understand that the most difficult part of really understanding what they are saying is accepting the fact that they are speaking to YOU:

"But you, who philosophize disgrace and criticize fear," "would it embarrass you very much if I were to tell you . . . that I love you?"

Yes, I think it would, and I don't think you have enough love in your heart to even believe it. I think you will only be happy when we "shut the eyes of the dead not to embarrass anyone."

Our government is the only good government. We learn this in elementary school. From the time we are old enough to read, we discover that the few errors we had in our government when it was growing were soon corrected until we now have the perfect government. But it's still growing and this doesn't fit in.

By the time we reach high school, our minds have been molded in the right direction. Please note that I used the word "molded" and not "indoctrinated." "Indoctrination" often refers to "propaganda" and this device is only used by Communists. We also learn this in elementary school.

In high school, we are prepared for more detailed facts about our government and its functions. This is necessary for the individual to be able to apply his knowledge in the correct way.

There is a growing number of young people who are going off on the wrong path. Perhaps the governments decision to re-write history books will bring these people back to the right path. But even re-written history books will have a setback from the beginning — these young people are thinking for themselves.

The times may be changing, but somebody hasn't told our government yet. If we continue to let the government play with our minds, we are taking the easy way out.

It's easy to stumble, especially when you have some place to fall.

There are two basic patterns of thought which are the foundations on which an individual builds his goals—scientific and philosophic. Those who base their goals on the scientific thought are fortunate. The Power Quest is there and it is real. They have no inner conflict because they can accept what is.

To place such faith in humanitarian goals and in a love for life itself seems absurd in the world we live in, but I refuse to accept the concept of the "futility" of life. There is, of course, an obvious inner conflict: an understanding of what is and a concept of what should be. Where does idealism fit in? It doesn't. But just as the conflict is inner, so is my solution:

I will continue to live in my rose-colored world of idealism and exist in the harsh world of reality. I will peacefully look on as the mad desire for sacrifice will probably result in my own sacrifice, but I still won't leave my own little world.

I think the rules of this horrible game are unfair, so I won't play. It is perhaps ironic that in this game the participants outnumber the audience. The audience must watch the game, although they do not choose sides. To do so would be inconceivable—how could they cheer for a victory when they don't believe in the game itself?

Is it possible to completely divorce oneself from the real? Can one separate the concepts of life and of existence and still believe that life is not absurd or futile? In short, can one find meaning in an abstract life of idealism which is contained within an omnipresent concrete life of realism? I can—do I live in a void?

"I'll let you be in my dreams if I can be in yours."

★ Letters To The Editor ★

Dear Sir:

Perhaps relevant to the current controversy over the poor grammar (beginning sentences with "and") used in your editorials is the following passage. It comes from an obscure and infrequently read work published some years ago.

And while they were there, the days for her deliverance were fulfilled. And she brought forth her first-born son and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And in the same country there were shepherds living in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them. And they were grievously afraid. And the angel said unto them, Do not fear, For behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For to you is born today, in the city of David, a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you. You will find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Sincerely,
 Kenneth J. Carpenter

Alpha Zeta Honor Two Aggie Majors

Two university students have been honored by the honorary agriculture fraternity, Alpha Zeta. The name of Robert Murphy, senior agriculture student, and Ronald Shane, sophomore agriculture student, were added to Alpha Zeta's plaques honoring the outstanding upperclassman and outstanding freshman in agriculture.

The outstanding upperclassman was chosen by members of the College of Agriculture Scholarship Committee. Faculty members serving on the committee chose Robert Murphy upon receiving recommendations submitted by Alpha Zeta. Scholarship and activities were considered.

Ronald Shane was chosen as the outstanding freshman because of his 1964-65 grade point average. He earned a 3.50 during his freshman year.

Housing Conference To Host University Representatives

Representatives from six Western land-grant universities will be visiting on campus December 2 and 3 for a housing conference.

The visitors are members of the Western Regional Research project committee on housing. They will carry out their work at the Sarah Fleischmann School of Home Economics, where Miss Alice C. Gaston, associate professor of home management, will act as hostess.

Professor Gaston, who is secretary of the committee, reports that the committee "will be working on a project related to housing for the two-person household, especially houses for elderly persons." The committee will be working to develop the details of carrying out the project.

The committee was set up under the United States Department of Agriculture's cooperative projects. The committee was formed because of the large number of retired people moving to the Southwest. The moves are often because of the favorable climate.

Professor Gaston notes that the retired people often find housing too expensive for their reduced incomes. Present housing also has more rooms than elderly people often need. Also, too much housing and yard care is required.

The results of the two-day meeting will be published in a bulletin compiled by the representatives.

Foreign Language Confab Scheduled

Dr. Christian Melz, professor of foreign language, will be the luncheon speaker for the Northern Regional Foreign Language Conference. The conference will be held in the Scrugham Engineering Building Main Foyer tomorrow, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The main purpose of the conference is to disseminate information that will be of practical use in the foreign language curriculum and in the professional preparation of foreign language teachers.

The resource consultant and speaker will be Dr. Richard Barutia, who is with the Department of Foreign Languages at the University of California at Irvine. Dr. Barutia has been coordinator of numerous N.D.E.A. foreign language institutes and is the associate editor of "Hispania," a national publication of Spanish and Portuguese.

FORUM HELD TODAY

Father McFadden of the Newman Club will be the featured speaker at this week's "Friday Forum" today at noon.

Held at the LDS Institute at 95 West Eleventh St., the weekly "Forums" are held to stimulate students intellectually and religiously.

There is no admission charge. Students may bring lunches.

Sales Receives Research Grant

John Sales, graduate student in geology at the Mackay School of Mines, University of Nevada, has received a grant-in-aid of $1,500 from the Mobil Oil Co. to pursue studies leading to a doctoral degree from the Mackay School of Mines.

A native of Syracuse, New York, and a graduate of Syracuse University, Sales began postgraduate studies at the Mackay School of Mines in 1959. In 1962 he was awarded a National Defense Education Act graduate fellowship, based on his scholastic record and the recommendation of the faculty of the Mackay School of Mines. The Mobil grant is a special award from the oil company, and is not connected with any specific scholarship program.

Sales received the grant as a result of a paper he wrote this past summer while engaged in consulting work in oil geology in the eastern part of the State. The paper, entitled "Wrench-fault Hypotheses for Origin of the Basin and Range Province," presents a different interpretation of the geologic development of the region.

Chancellor Tours Navy Ships

Chancellor N. Edd Miller and Professor J. Craig Sheppard departed the Naval Air Station Alameda, California today on their way to the Naval Air Station Pensacola, Florida.

Upon their arrival at Alameda they were met by LCDR Robert L. Kersey, Reserve Air Intelligence Officer from the University of Nevada, who escorted them on visits to the attack carriers USS Ranger and USS Midway just returned from an extended tour of duty off the coast of Viet Nam.

As guests of the Secretary of the Navy on this Orientation Flight, Chancellor Miller and Professor Sheppard will become acquainted with the Navy's Flight Training program and will spend one day aboard the training carrier USS Kearsarge to observe carrier qualification trials of student pilots and five power demonstrations.

'Sugar Plumb Magic' Is Xmas Dance Theme

Xmas Star Show At Atmospherium

"Star of Bethlem," the new show at the Fleischmann Atmospherium-Planetarium, opened yesterday for a month-long showing.

The program presents a scientific explanation for the nature of the Christmas star, based on the triple conjunction of Jupiter, Saturn and Mars during the time of Christ's birth. An explanation of the importance given to the conjunction by the Persians of the time is presented by O. R. Norton, curator of the planetarium. According to Mr. Norton, the conjunction was a great astronomical event in Zoroastrianism, a Persian religion based on study of the stars.

The program, which runs through December 31, will have showings daily at 3:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. In addition, there will be matinee showings on Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m.

New Exhibits At Art Gallery

Opening two new exhibits at the Nevada Art Gallery Sunday will be a color-slide lecture, "The Many Faces of the Serpent: Quetzalcoatl to Chac" to be presented by Dr. Harold L. Kirkpatrick.

Prize winning paintings from the California State Fair's permanent collection will be shown in the main gallery while the north gallery will host an exhibit of graphics by Robert Browning Reed.

Dr. Kirkpatrick spent several weeks traveling in Mexico this summer photographing ruins of ancient buildings, many in remote areas. He will trace the development of the serpent-motif in architecture and some other art forms from the Toltec and Aztec regions near Mexico City to the Mayan cities of Yucatan, Campeche, Tabasco, and Chiapas in Southeastern Mexico.

Assistant Professor of History and Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Nevada since 1960, Dr. Kirkpatrick did his undergraduate study at Pomona College, California, Charles University, Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Mexico City College, receiving his masters and doctors degrees at the University of California at Berkeley. He combines a skill in photography with his study of the history of early civilizations to make the ancient cities of Mexico come alive for his audience.

The paintings from the California State Fair's permanent collection have been selected by Professor William V. Howard of the University of Nevada Art Department and will cover a wide variety of styles by representative artists of the west. Woodcuts, etchings and lithographs make up the exhibit of graphics by Robert Browning Reed, a teacher of printmaking at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

He has exhibited his work nationally and overseas. His prints reveal his concern for the condition of man. Some are a subtle commentary on the self-imposed situations that plague mankind. This exhibit is circulated on national tour by Old Bergen Art

Guild of Bayonne, New Jersey.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program, exhibits and tea. The gallery is open daily from 1 till 4 p.m. except Friday. There is no charge.

The program will be as follows: Sunday, Dec. 5—Nevada Art Gallery, 643 Ralston Street

Nevada Alumnus Boosts Grant For Journalism Department

The annual Scripps Grant in Journalism has been raised from $1,000 to $5,000 for use by the A. L. Higginbotham Department of Journalism.

The announcement was made during the second annual Scripps Lecture held recently on campus.

The increase of $4,000 in the annual grant was made by Nevada journalism alumnus E. W. Scripps II, vice president of Scripps-Howard newspapers.

As part of the foundation's awards program, three University students received cash awards in competitive news coverage of the Scripps Lecture.

Lee Harlan received $25 for the best news story; Sally Bankofier, $15 for the best editorial; and Ed

Pearce, $15 for the best radio news story.

The lecture series is also one of the functions sponsored by the Scripps Grant as part of the donor's desire that the money go "to enrich the University program of education in journalism."

The grant will provide funds for promotion of scholarship and otherwise benefit the department of journalism, according to Prof. A. L. Higginbotham, department chairman.

Funds will be used for scholarships, awards, research, publications, lectures, and as a supplement to the regular expenses of the department.

The initial Scripps Grant was established in 1963.

Air Force Program Now Open To Seniors

The United States Air Force Officer program is now open to college seniors within 21 days of graduation.

The program, available for males and females can be discussed by contacting Sgt. Cliff Aycock at 224 W. 1st street, Reno, Nevada, or by calling 323-3069.

Art Sale Slated For Saturday

Oil paintings, sculpture, water colors, drawings, wood-cut prints, and ceramics will be auctioned off at a student-faculty art auction being held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 3, in the Church Fine Arts Building.

Works by faculty members J. Craig Sheppard, professor of art; Edward W. Yates, chairman of the art department; William V. Howard, assistant professor of art; Donald A. Kerr, assistant professor of art; and James C. McCormick, assistant professor of art, will be included in the 200 pieces to be auctioned.

Walter McNamara, a graduate of the University and member of the art department staff, will have some paintings and drawings in the auction. He has sold paintings in New York.

Most of the art students of the department have contributed to the auction.

Landscapes in oils and in water colors, nudes in oils and in water colors, abstract oils and drawings, still life drawings, abstract sculptured forms, and sculptured male and female torsos will be among the selections offered.

A preview showing of all the works to be auctioned is being held in the Church Fine Arts Building today. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

A student host is on hand to answer any questions about the paintings and to take advance bids.

There will be open bidding, with a 50-cent increase required on each bid. Only two oils have minimum prices, which are $100 and $75.

The auctioneers will be Dr. Willard F. Day, associate professor of the psychology department, and Ron Maroni, a University of Nevada graduate who now teaches junior high school.

Most of the faculty members who are submitting paintings to the auction ordinarily sell their paintings for $200 or more.

Art works to be offered at the auction have been exhibited at Gray Reid's, and at various restaurants in Reno. They are to form the backdrop for the Gray Reid's fashion show that is being held at the Golden.

Money taken in at the auction will be divided equally between the artist who contributed the work, and the artists fund.

This fund will be used to bring prominent speakers to the University of Nevada, for awards which are given to the best students at the end of the year, and to finance art field trips.

The art auction is being held primarily to promote interest in the University art department among both students and residents of Reno, and to provide a purpose for the students' work.

Two Nevada Profs Receive National Meet Appointments

Two of Nevada's representatives to the National Association of State and Land Grant Colleges were appointed to committees of the organization. Mr. Ray Ely, associate director of the agriculture experiment station, and Dr. Charles Seufferle, assistant dean of the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture, both received appointments.

Mr. Ely was appointed to the National Regional Research Committee. As one of the nine men serving on the committee, he will approve all research projects appealing for funds.

The directors group is made up of two men from each of the four regions set up by the association. In addition, a home economics representative works with the committee.

Dr. Seufferle will be serving for his second year on the Resident Instruction Committee on Organization and Policies (RIC-OP).

RICOP is concerned with one of the three phases into which the agricultural section of the Association is divided. The other groups are concerned with extension service organization, policies and experiment station work.

Graduation was only the beginning of Jim Brown's education

Because he joined Western Electric

Jim Brown, Northwestern University, '62, came with Western Electric because he had heard about the Company's concern for the continued development of its engineers after college graduation.

Jim has his degree in industrial engineering and is continuing to learn and grow in professional stature through Western Electric's Graduate Engineering Training Program. The objectives and educational philosophy of this Program are in the best of academic traditions, designed for both experienced and new engineers.

Like other Western Electric engineers, Jim started out in this Program with a six-week course to help in the transition from the classroom to industry. Since then, Jim Brown has continued to take courses that will help him keep up with the newest engineering techniques in communications.

This training, together with formal college engineering studies, has given Jim the ability to develop his talents to the fullest extent. His present responsibilities include the solution of engineering problems in the manufacture of moly-permalloy core rings, a component used to improve the quality of voice transmission.

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for — we want to talk to you! Opportunities exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. And be sure to arrange for an interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

To answer the rumors that are reported to be circulating around the campus, the university will stay in the Far Western Conference until the Board of Regents and administration decide differently. Last year at this time proposals were drawn up by the athletic department and presented to the Board of Regents dealing with this subject. Since that time the matter has been out of the hands of the athletic department and in the hands of the Board of Regents and administration.

There are many advantages that the university gains by belonging to the FWC. In the first place this is a small campus without a great deal of funds to be spent for athletics. Our belonging to the conference allows the university to participate in 12 different intercollegiate sports. The expense of moving out of the conference would greatly reduce this participation.

The big advantage of moving out of the conference would be the increased publicity for the school. However, supporters of such a move must realize that the decision, which at this time is really nonexistent, will ultimately be up to the Board of Regents and administration.

Cage action has already begun and it should be a successful season.

The team this year is the same as last except at the guard position where Bob Gilliam has replaced Mike Olivas, who graduated. It is a team lacking in a great deal of height, and will have to rely on hustle and excellent shooting to win. The team has the hustlers and the shooters to do just that.

Coach Jack Spencer has Larry Moore and Nap Montgomery back at forward. These two were leaders in the FWC rebounding and scoring departments last year and should be even tougher this year. Also back is Bill Nicholson at center. Bill is the tall man and being so is the key to a successful season. At guards will be Frank Bruno and Gilliam. Bruno is an outstanding shooter and playmaker.

Montgomery, Moore, Nicholson, and Bruno were the leading scorers on last year's Pack. Montgomery averaged 16.8 points per game and 13.5 rebounds. Moore had a 15.9 shooting average and grabbed 10 rebounds a game. Nicholson averaged 12.4 points and 9.3 rebounds. Bruno also scored in double figures with 11.7 average from the backcourt. Gilliam has an impressive shot and ought to fit in well. It should be a great season.

Nevada's biggest fan is Charlie "Ace" DiNardo, who is looking forward to the coming basketball season with the highest hopes. He is really happy now after the football season, which he thought was terrific.

Coach Lee Newell deserves a lot of credit for the outstanding job he has done in building and developing the wrestling team here. In two seasons he has built the sport so that now he has enough wrestlers out that he has to make a choice in allowing which ones to compete. Two years ago the University of Nevada only sent three men to conference matches. This year wrestlers will be entered in every weight class and the possibility of Nevada winning the FWC wrestling championship is strong.

Cagers Suffer Loss To Idaho

By GREG ZIVE
Sports Editor

The University of Nevada suffered a 100-84 defeat Wednesday night at the hands of the Idaho State Bengals to open the 1965-66 cage season.

Nevada was behind all the way and only the shooting and rebounding of Nap Montgomery and Larry Moore kept the Pack close in the first half. The Silver and Blue was down 27-19 when Moore and Montgomery led a Nevada comeback that tied the score at 31-31 with five minutes left in the first half.

Three quick, fast breaks fired the Bengals to a 50-43 lead at the half, however.

Moore fouled out with 16 minutes left and Montgomery and Bruns finished with four fouls each. Idaho State then pulled to a comfortable 15-point spread until center Bill Nicholson broke loose for key points and important rebounds and the Pack narrowed the gap to seven points with seven minutes left.

Then Nevada went cold from the free throw line and the comeback was thwarted.

Nevada had four men in double figures in the scoring column while the Bengals had two. Dave Wagon hit for 30 points for the Pocatello team and Len Frazier had 25 for the Bengals. Montgomery led Nevada with 24 points followed by guard Bob Gilliam with 14. It was Gilliam's first game for Nevada and besides hitting for 14 points he played a good floor game and grabbed 8 rebounds.

Moore had 12 points and Tom Andreason scored 10. Montgomery led the Wolf Pack in rebounds with nine.

The Wolf Pack plays again tonight. They will travel to Boise to meet the College of Idaho.

The Wolf Pack opens its home season next Thursday when it meets the Idaho State Bengals for the second time in the young season.

Season Opens For Wrestling

Tonight the University of Nevada wrestling squad will open its second season of competition in the Far Western Conference at San Jose State.

Nevada coach Lee Newell has named these wrestlers to compete —123 pounds, Leonard Batchelder; 130, Bill Teglia; 137, Ken Gledhill; 145, Charles Ballard; 152, John Rogers; 160, Earl Wilkins; 167, Roy Kreizenbeck; 191, Len Bernhardt; and heavyweight, Larry Stiff.

Rogers and Wilkins are second year men. Newell isn't taking a 177 pound man.

"We'll be all right from 137 to 167," he said this week. "We lack experience in light and heavy weights."

Newell expects more experience in the second semester. "Bob Seymore, a heavyweight from the football team who wrestled at Foothill College will be out," he said.

"We'll also have the heavyweight Dave Haines, who was with us last year, and 137 pound Duane Quick, another returnee who suffered a broken nose in practice.

"At tournament time in February, we should be at our peak."

Nevada Alum Pinion Visits Campus

Richard Pinion, Second Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps and 1965 alumnus of the University of Nevada, has been in the Student Union this week assisting in the officer-selection program.

Lieutenant Pinion is a graduate in agricultural economics. While at the university he was a Wolf Pack cheerleader and a member of Sundowners.

Pinion will assume active duty in Viet Nam in February.

He will be in the Student Union during the first part of next week to talk to anyone interested in the officer's program for the Marine Corps.
