Artman Charges Political Motives In Blood Drive

The University of Nevada sponsored blood drive was criticized Wednesday as being a "political and patriotic cause, in that it supports President Johnson's policies."

Greg Artman, junior Philosophy major at the University said the drive was not humanitarian. "The way the program has been billed, it is strictly political and non-humanitarian."

Mike Ingersoll, ASUN president, said the drive was humanitarian because the blood will be needed in the future.

Artman earlier stated the U.S. Defense Department said the blood wasn't needed.

Ingersoll, however, explained the need for the blood will come about in the near future, although it may not be needed now.

Artman said he had no plans for picketing the drive unless "they, Smithwick or Ingersoll do something outrageous."

He said there are much better ways of getting one's point across such as, "talking it over, and writing letters to the editor."

"Regardless of what Mr. Artman says," stated Ingersoll, "support to American troops can be given without involving oneself in political implications."

Artman also said he had no objection to anyone who wanted to give blood to the innocent North Vietnam people that were being killed.

Ingersoll said, "I wouldn't mind giving blood to a civilian either north or south as long as we could differentiate between civilian and guerilla . . . and moreover it is impossible to be too broad in scope and therefore we have limited it to American troops."

Mike Smithwick, blood drive assistant chairman said "the Red Cross took on the special blood drive on campuses at the request of the Defense Department."

He said the shortage wasn't drastic now but would be in the future if the blood banks weren't replenished.

Smithwick added Artman was in error when he said the defense department didn't need the blood.

He said a letter from the American National Red Cross gave information showing the Defense Department's request for blood.

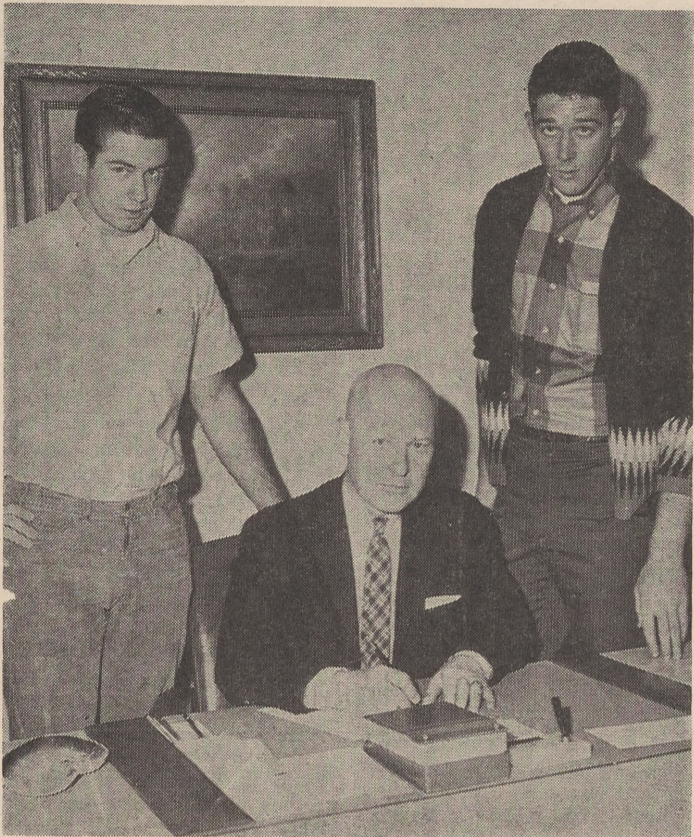

Artman said he will explain his feeling in further detail at a later date in the form of a letter to the editor.

Mobile units will be on the Reno campus December 14-17 to take any blood donations.

Rohrer To Speak At Friday Forum

Pastor David C. Rohrer of the Our Savior Lutheran Church in Sparks will be the featured speaker at today's "Friday Forum" at noon.

Presented every Friday at noon,

DR. N. EDD MILLER, chancellor of the University of Nevada, is shown endorsing the University of Nevada Blood Drive as A.S.U.N. president Mike Ingersoll and Blood Drive assistant chairman Mike Smithwick look on.

Chancellor Miller Endorses University Of Nev. Blood Drive

Dr. N. Edd Miller, chancellor of the University of Nevada, endorsed the University of Nevada blood drive Wednesday afternoon in his office on the University of Nevada campus.

Dr. Miller said, "I believe our university's blood drive is a fine representation of the feelings of the majority of our institution's students and faculty."

Miller also commended the A.S.U.N. and the student leaders who have organized and carried through the Blood Drive.

A large percentage of the university's faculty and administration have already registered for the drive raising the total to well over 1000 participants.

"We have a near record registration for the blood drive at this time," said Mike Smithwick, assistant blood drive chairman, "however, I hope all the students will follow through with their endorsement."

The blood drive committee has visited campus fraternities and living groups throughout the week and will hold a rally Monday evening in the dining commons to explain the blood drive and stimulate interest.

Lieutenant Governor Paul Laxalt will speak at the rally and all students will be invited to attend. The rally will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the dining commons.

Laxalt will speak in support of the drive. Details regarding the actual donation of blood will be given by various members of the blood drive committee.

Williams Captures 'Athlete of Month'

Nevada griddler, Fred Williams, has been chosen as November's "Athlete of the Month" by the Sierra-Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association.

Last week the six-foot, 180-pound Williams was selected for the first defensive unit of the All-Far Western Conference football squad by FWC league coaches.

A smooth, fast defensive half-back, Williams' interceptions and excellent defensive play throughout the season captured the honors for him. The two key interceptions by Williams in the Nevada-Humboldt State game at Humboldt were a large factor in Nevada's victory.

The defeat of Humboldt State helped to cinch the Silver and Blue's second-place finish in the conference.

A 22-year-old senior from Sutter Creek, California, Williams grabbed third place punting honors in the conference this season. He averaged 41.3 yards a kick.

Publications Board Dismisses Charges Filed Against Editor

By MARY SOLARO
Staff Writer

Charges against Sagebrush editor Sig Rogich were dropped at a closed hearing held Tuesday afternoon in the Travis Lounge. The charges were presented by Lance Sparks, Bill Staggs, Bruce Blatt, and Greg Artman. Two faculty members, Dr. R. Armstrong and Professor H. Stark, were also present.

Union Fee Raise Necessary For Added Expenses

"I think the union fee raise is a necessity," stated Mike Ingersoll, ASUN president. In addition, he said that added yearly expenses and withdrawal of financial support by the university and State have been the two factors necessitating the raise.

"Without it, the entertainment aspect of the Student Union program will gradually be eliminated."

"I urge all students to support the proposed raise," Ingersoll said.

TGIF "parties" sponsored by the Student Union are another service that would suffer if the proposal is defeated. The service is given to the students every Friday morning. Cost to the union for the one-half hour of free coffee is $25.

"Most students," said Tony Oxborrow, Union Board President, "are not aware of the tremendous cost of the special events sponsored by the student union." A recent effort to obtain Sonny and Cher for Winter Carnival entertainment was defeated due to their prohibitive fee of $10,000 plus 60% of the gate revenue for a 2-hour program.

So far this year, the Union Board has presented approximately $4,000 worth of entertainment. Because of special percentage contracts, this has cost the Union $400.

Percentage contracts, and saving, if the expected number of students do not turn out, creates a minimum of expense. "These contracts have fortunately allowed us another special events program featuring Glen Yarborough for Mackay Day entertainment," stated Oxborrow.

"However," continued Oxborrow, "if the student body does not vote favorably on the fee raise, even these programs contracted on a percentage basis will not be possible due to the several hundred dollars necessary for publicity, setting up the gym, labor salaries and equipment rental."

Information on the proposed $2.50 fee raise is available in room 104 of the Student Union building. The election will be held Wednesday, December 15.

Journalism Class Hears Sawyer

"Twenty million tourists visited Nevada last year. They pay a large amount of Nevada's taxes, in both gambling and sales," said Governor Grant Sawyer at a meeting of a senior journalism class last Friday.

Governor Sawyer spoke to the class on the future of Nevada. He gave background information on Nevada's economy and predicted

The student group said Rogich was incompetent and used lack of good taste, poor grammar, irresponsibility, and distortion in his writing.

Sparks presented examples of the Sagebrush as evidence to support the charges before a crowd of about 50 people. The faculty members claimed that the editorials were fallacious in their arguments and examples of poor grammar.

English teaching assistant W. Lutz stated he used portions of the editorials in his classes to show poor grammatical structure.

A letter from Frank Wilkinson, executive director - field representative of the National Committee To Abolish The House Un-American Activities Committee was read by Artman. It had been sent to Rogich as a result of the Sagebrush editorial November 19, on student demonstrations on American campuses.

In his letter, Wilkinson said he was unfairly criticized and was urged to file a libel suit against Rogich.

Publications Board chairman Bill Chaffin had to repeatedly remind the audience that the meeting was only a hearing, not a trial.

Journalism Professor A. L. Higginbotham was asked to comment as the hearing drew to a close. He stated that he considered a student newspaper part of the student body of any campus and was therefore expected to contain all the mistakes and errors characteristic of college students. Higginbotham felt that the methods used to present the charges against Rogich were also examples of those charges.

The publications board then adjourned to a closed meeting where the charges were reviewed. Charges were found insufficient to warrant a trial.

Publication's Board members presented a formal decision as follows:

Publications Board Decision

The ASUN Board of Publications in response to criticism brought by members of the ASUN against Sig Rogich held a hearing on Dec. 7, 1965, and then met in executive session for personal matters.

The complaints brought to the Board charged the editor of the Sagebrush with incompetence, editorial irresponsibilities, lack of good taste, poor grammar, and distortion of the facts.

what it would be like in the future. Also, he discussed other results of Nevada's growth, such as its increasing gambling, its crime rate, and the population expansion to the Reno-Carson City area.

The talk was aimed at giving members of the class a better understanding of Nevada's problems. The class is an editorial writing class which frequently has guest speakers.

Blood Drive Is Definitely Patriotic, But 'Political' Charge Is Rdiculous

The issue over humanitarian versus political interests concerning the ASUN Blood Drive is getting a just a little bit ridiculous. How any one person could consider the donation of blood to U. S. troops a political movement is something to ponder.

One campus individual seems to consider the Blood Drive a "patriotic and political" move, which is "non-humanitarian."

Donating blood to a friend, a neighbor, an uncle or a brother who is serving in Viet Nam can certainly be considered a "patriotic" gesture. Is love or devotion to one's country now to be regarded a crime? It is to some.

Is the giving of blood to be used for a countryman who is lying on a battlefield with precious blood coursing out of a gaping wound to be deemed non-humanitarian? It is to some.

The question must be asked. How can anyone logically think that the donation of blood is a political move?

Are the troops who receive the blood politically inspired to vote for a United States president in 1968? Are the South Vietnamese people politically moved to love America when they don't even receive the blood? Are the Viet Cong politically inspired to support Lincoln Rockwell in the next U. S. election? Ridiculous, isn't it?

The ASUN Blood Drive on the Nevada campus is not a political move to change the political course of the Vietnamese War or to incite a new political coup in Viet Nam.

The Blood Drive is a humanitarian, patriotic gesture to provide blood to your fellow citizens should they need it. The blood will be given to troops who are fighting not because they are either supporting or not supporting the War. They are victims of circumstance.

The blood is not being given because Nevadans are either supporting or not supporting the War. They are donating to their fellow man because of need.

One person in our campus community seems to consider his intellect and grasp of the situation far superior to that of the remainder of the University. As he said himself, "I don't think there's more than one or two people who see my point. The way it (the drive) is set up it is political." Could be he's not making sense.

Let's face it, there's a war going on, and our brethren and constituents will be needing blood. The Sagebrush and its staff would like to see the entire University file through the Card Lounge of the Student Union building this coming week. The Sagebrush is sure some wounded soldier would like to see it too.

Quorum Plus One

By JON JON

Studying for a Chaucer exam in the middle of the quad last week, we felt someone other than irate seniors and senile freshmen watching us. We looked up just in time to see John Mackay flash a disapproving glance at us before resuming his unending contemplation of Morrill Hall's peaked roof. John Mackay has stood there too long to be bothered by a violation of Article VIII, Section II, Part C of the ASUN By-Laws, and it is doubtful that he would think the Wife of Bath's Tale terribly ribald. What had we done, said, thought, or forgotten? Homework? Vitamins? Senate? John Mackay?

The homework's done, the vitamins dissolved, and the Senate's trying. John Mackay is forgotten. No, not forgotten, but like the Morrill Hall he watches over, remembered only by those egos which seem to relish in his ridicule. Yearly coats of pigment corrode his once-proud metal, as amplification has replaced the natural vibration in the tower before him.

Perhaps we have forgotten — forgotten that John Mackay is not a statue and Morrill Hall not a crumbling monument. They are the heart and mind from which this university grew and we must remember them for what they were and did, not for what they are. They are monuments of a past glory and a future promise, and to disrespect them would be to disrespect ourselves. As members of the university community, we must rise above and beyond their decay, and honor their memory with our ability to appreciate what they are not as well as what they were.

Letter To The Editor

Ingersoll Supports

Editor Sagebrush
 Fellow Students:

On December 15, 1965 the Jot Travis Student Union Board of Directors will conduct a university wide election for the purpose of raising the present Union fee of $5 paid by each ASUN student to $7.50. Such a raise though somewhat substantial, is very much a necessity, should the student union and the student body desire to improve and expand or even maintain their various services.

The list of services is a long and impressive one. They provide the university with entertainment (Peter, Paul and Mary is one example). They sponsor Sunday night movies in the Fine Arts Building; they provide lectures throughout the year such as Drew Pearson and other services the mention of which is limited by space.

The reason the $5 fee has been adequate in the past, but becomes inadequate for the present and future is this: Now the student union must pay all union maintenance and operational cost that once were provided by the university; furthermore, the union, must assume the financial burden created by the depletion of funds donated by the Travis Estate and the state of Nevada some seven years ago. Unlike last years, the $5 fee must now cover everything having to do with the student Union, including program and maintenance (heat, light and power) expenses.

In summary then, and possibly in repetition, two facts confront a voter in his consideration of the $2.50 fee raise: (1) without the new fee, the program will gradually diminish until all union income lends itself solely to operational and maintenance cost, solely to merely keeping the building itself open. (2) An improvement, addition to, or even the maintaining of current programs cannot be realized without the fee raise.

For these reasons, I personally support and sincerely urge wide student support of the student Union and its proposed fee raise this December 15.

Mike Ingersoll
 ASUN President.

Artman Criticized

Dear Sir:

Beginning Tuesday the 14th of December, the ASUN supported blood drive for American service men in Viet Nam will begin. The blood drive has been approved by ASUN leaders and a vote of support has been passed by the senate.

Furthermore, over 900 students and faculty have signed their names to registration slips showing their support to the blood drive. And more are expected to sign up for the drive before Tuesday, December the 14th.

With this kind of support, the University of Nevada has a very good chance of having one of the highest percentages of student participation in comparison to similar blood drives being held throughout the nation.

Why then, am I writing this letter?

It has come to my attention, as well as to others who are interested in prestige of the University of Nevada and its student body, that a few individuals, especially Mr. Greg Artman, are unwilling to abide by the overwhelming student support and are protesting the blood drive.

Mr. Artman believes that the blood drive is politically motivated, and has as its goal the support of our country's policy in Viet Nam. He is unable to differentiate the goal of this drive between political and humanitarian motives.

But Artman has failed to realize the real purpose of this drive as has been stated time and again by those who have spent much of their time and effort coordinating and planning the blood drive.

It is also clear that the purpose of the University of Nevada Blood Drive is patriotic and humanitarian. Its goals are not political but rather an attempt to aid our fellow Americans who are in Viet Nam as members of our armed forces.

The blood that we are able to donate will someday possibly save the lives of many of these servicemen.

Is he unwilling to support such a cause?

Is he willing to hinder a drive which has as its only goal the saving of lives?

Does he realize that many of his college classmates, such as Dick Pinion, Sam Martinini, Bob Perish, and myself included as well as many others who have chosen to serve in our nation's armed forces, may someday be in Viet Nam?

I honestly believe Mr. Artman does not realize what harmful effect his protest will have, otherwise he would not be advocating this position.

I hope Mr. Artman, as well as others who believe as he does, will have the good sense to give blood with the rest of us, and leave the protesting to a cause more deserving of your efforts!

Sincerely,
 (A fellow student)
 Dave Russell

Error Cleared

The Sagebrush was in error when stating in the November 23 issue of the paper that Lance Sparks was quoted as saying he disapproved of Rogich's grammar because he began sentences with the word "and".

The Sagebrush staff received the information from the Nevada State Journal which said, "Sparks and other students bringing charges against Rogich . . . one of the charges was that Rogich began sentences with the word "and".

Sparks, however, did not make the quote to the paper.

University Zip Code Explained

What's in a number, particularly 89507? Hundreds of students daily pass the post office at the university station. Those who notice may see the gold lettering on the window. UNITED STATES POST OFFICE UNIVERSITY STATION RENO, NEVADA 89507

To some students the numbers may be just another proof that society and its members are losing individuality.

Assistant Postmaster Maurice E. Lewis Jr. says that the Zip Code number deals not with individuals but with the geographic locations in which they live.

Mr. Lewis explained the numerical importance of each digit. The first number in the code represents one of the 9 geographic areas in the United States. The second number is the state within the area. The third number identifies a sectional center post office within the named state. The last two digits identify a specific post office, station, neighborhood area, post office box section or individual institution.

Zip Code mail may now be processed by electronic data processing equipment.

School Of Nursing Tree Party Today

The Orvis School of Nursing's faculty and students will have a "decorating party" today. The activity is scheduled in Stewart Hall from noon to 2 p.m.

Original decorations made by the participants will be a traditional part of the event. Each student and faculty member is being asked to bring ornaments for the tree and lounge.

Miss Claudia Treharne, senior nursing student, donated the Christmas tree to the nursing department.

Chancellor Speaks On Research Role

Chancellor N. Edd Miller spoke on the Role of Research at the University to the Political Science Conference Dec. 4, at the Jot Travis Student Union.

The Conference was to exchange ideas for research and to discuss the research that was being done in Nevada, said Dr. Elmore R. Rusco, assistant professor of political science.

State and local leaders attended the conference as well as political and social scientists from both campuses of the University of Nevada.

There will be another conference held at the Reno campus next year.

Wera To Present Organ Recital Sun.

Anne Wera, instructor in the University of Nevada music department, will give an organ recital on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 3:30 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Cathedral, 310 West 2nd St.

Miss Wera will play "Couplet du Kyrie," by Couperin; "Vom Himmel Da Komm Ich Her," by Pachelbel, "Passacaglia in D minor," by Buxtehude; "In Dulci Jubilo," and the "Prelude and Fugue in C Minor," by Bach; "Rondo from the Concerto for Flute Stop," by Rinck; "Ein Lammlein Geht Und Tragt Die Schuld," by Pepping; "Regina Coeli," by Wera; and "Toccata From the 5th Symphony," by Widor.

She will close the recital with the Norman Lockwood concerto for organ and brass ensemble, accompanied by the University Brass Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Roscoe Booth, instructor in the music department. Admission is free.

'Low Income Families' Topic Of Home Economics Confab

"Working with low income families" was the topic emphasized at this week's home economics conference on campus. The session was held in conjunction with the annual conference of the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture.

Mrs. Catherine Loughlin, associate professor of home economics, spoke on the incidence of poverty in Nevada. She pointed out that Nevada has a large percentage of families whose incomes are under the average national income.

In addition, Professor Loughlin noted that families with low incomes in Nevada are actually more depressed than the 1960 census figures show. This is because Nevada's per capita income raises living standards within the state to a much higher level than the national averages show.

One out of every four families in Nevada lives on a low income, Professor Loughlin estimates.

Further information on the low income problem was given the group by Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes, assistant administrator for programs, Nevada Division of Welfare.

In preparation for the conference, the participants had prepared themselves for the exchange of ideas on their perception of poverty in Nevada. The extension home economists and the resident staff of the home economics department visited the home of a low income family in their area prior to the conference. Social workers accompanied them on the visits.

SNCC Head Tells Of Group's Aims

What is the function of "Friends of SNCC," the newly recognized campus organization? SNCC President Pat Gaffey explains that his organization is "the northern affiliate of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee in the South."

"Friends of SNCC" supplies funds and assistance for civil rights movements in the South, he said. These include the Mississippi project last summer when college students conducted freedom schools and voter registration drives, Gaffey said.

Prior to the organization's recognition on campus, it worked through the NAACP in Reno. Gaffey said, "Indians and Negroes in the Reno area live in poor conditions. There are problems in civil rights in Reno."

"Friends of SNCC" will "only act in an auxiliary capacity to the national organization in the field of civil rights," Gaffey said.

He said he knew of no opposition to his organization on campus. If there is any, it would come from individuals rather than from any group, he said.

Auction Brings Largest Sum Ever Earned By Art Students

Cries of "15 dollars! 17 dollars! 20 dollars!" flew through the air at last Saturday's art auction, as the crowd of about 300 persons bid on art works that had been donated by art students and faculty.

Paintings, drawings, and pottery drew considerable prices at the height of the bidding. Esteban Valle got the highest price paid for a single painting, with a large oil of yellow flowers, which brought $51.

Walt McNamara, a member of the art department staff, sold $311 worth of paintings and pottery bowls.

Total sales amounted to $2,134.—the largest sum that the art department students have earned to date. Half of the money earned on each work will go to the artist; the other half will go to the artist's fund, which will be used for scholarships, field trips, and for bringing prominent speakers to the University of Nevada campus.

Don Collins, student who directed the auction, said that he considered the purchases very reasonable. He added that the art department hopes to hold another auction next year.

Coffee was served, compliments

Woodwind Quintet To Perform

Sacramento State College faculty members will present a Woodwind Quintet concert tonight at 8 o'clock in the Jot Travis Union.

The program will consist of woodwind literature from several eras. Some of the composers represented will be Danzi, Piston, and Malcolm Arnold.

Members of the quintet are professors of music in the Music Department of Sacramento State College, and also are performers in the Sacramento Philharmonic Orchestra.

A critic for the Sacramento Bee remarked on a recent performance of the quintet, "All of the performances were quite evidently the product of musicians who not only are talented and thoughtful, but had also taken the trouble to rehearse."

Admission to the concert is $1 per student. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Dedication Slated By Manzanita Hall

One hundred nine coeds, residents of Manzanita Hall, will soon begin decorating for the holiday season. Roommates will decorate their doors to enter in competition on Open House, December 19, and the women will join together to give the dormitory a "holiday atmosphere".

The center of attraction will be a large Christmas tree and various holiday decorations on the piano.

Decorations will be used during the Christmas Party for foster children December 15, and at the Open House December 19.

Pi Beta Phi To Host Tree Decorating Party

Pi Beta Phi sorority women are inviting their dates to a tree-decorating party at the house this Sunday night. The party starts at 7:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served.

Sen. Silverman Speaks

Dec. 6, 1965
1075 Ralston Ave.
Reno, Nev.

Hampton Young
Assistant Editor
Sagebrush Publication
University of Nevada
Dear Sir:

As the ASUN senator from Sigma Nu I read your article on the blase senate with great interest. I found that your editorial was based not on fact but in misinformed opinion, and displays not even a rudimentary knowledge of why and how the Senate legislates.

Attendance at the previous meeting would have permitted you to learn that the banquet controversy was presented then. The Senators were charged to return to their constituency and living groups to find out how the represented felt on the subject. I have talked to many Senators who did just this.

When the vote did come about on Dec. 1, we all voted on the measure as student body representatives—which is what we are. Surely this is not an esoteric group dipping into the treasury at will, but responsible students interested enough to be in Senate and diligent enough to find out just what the students think in regards to specific issues.

It seems to me, Mr. Young, use of the word lavish is purposely misleading. President Moschetti is not leading the Tweed ring in plunder as you would have us believe. If you will note—85% of the Senators receive no remuneration for year-long responsibilities. Most assuredly, they deserve a banquet as much as a Winter Carnival committeeman.

If perhaps we wasted a few minutes "maintaining the status quo" I think Senate has the right to use its time as it sees fit. I can think of nothing better than dialogue on the issues that you have so misnomered. Examination of accepted policy has never been truly unproductive. (A lesson the Sagebrush could well learn.)

The students are bearing the cost for one dinner is true. Cheap at the price for the benefits they reap and the money they save by Senate scrutiny and action.

I am disappointed in you Mr. Young—your shallow thought and shoddy journalism do not serve either the Sagebrush, the Student Body, or yourself in good stead.

Sincerely,
Gary R. Silverman
Senator
Sigma Nu Fraternity

Editors Note: Really, Mr. Silverman, your own evaluation, as a responsible senator, is really quite irresponsible. Had you paid attention at the previous Senate meeting you would have noticed that the concept of an all-ASUN banquet did not come up.

When the all-ASUN measure did come up on Dec. 1, the question arose in my mind how, as representatives of the student body, you could have voted on an issue which was impossible for you to ask your constituents about?

The fact is, Mr. Silverman, that the idea of an all-ASUN party came up at the meeting on Dec. 1. You voted on an issue which your constituents knew absolutely nothing about.

The banquet controversy at the previous Senate meeting was over Publications Board, Finance Control Board, Homecoming, Winter

Carnival and Mackay Day committee banquets.

As the ASUN Senator from Sigma Nu, I am disappointed in you Mr. Silverman. Your shallow thought and shoddy senatorialism do not serve either the Senate, the student body or yourself in good stead.

Debate Challenge

Mr. Sig Rogich, Editor

The Sagebrush—
University of Nevada
P. O. Box 8037 University Station
Reno, Nevada

Dear Mr. Rogich:

I have in hand your editorial of November 19th, entitled "Student Affairs Board Should Be Acquainted With SNCC Infiltration", and have been urged to file libel actions against you for the statements which you make against me. Those urging this course of action are apparently not familiar with the fact that you or whomever wrote this mean smear write frem behind the intended shield which HUAC accords those who wish to quote from its un-cross examined but never-the-less "privileged and libel proof" reports.

You are not fair minded, or otherwise you would have communicated with the several of us attacked in your editorial effort to discredit SNCC through the technique of "guilt by association." However, for the benefit of those receiving carbons of this letter, let me state categorically that the majority of the paid informers utilized by HUAC and its various counterparts, have lied in their testimony, and if we were given the opportunity to cross examine them under oath, we will offer to prove their perjury, and, while guaranteeing them their full due process, assist in rendering them the punishment which their frequent falsehoods deserve.

The basic point, however, in your protective reliance for your smears upon HUAC's "privileged" files and reports, is that you show respect for HUAC's un-Constitutional violations of First Amendment rights. Congress is proscribed from legislating in the areas of opinion and peaceful assembly, but this is the only area in which HUAC's Mandate permits it to operate; our legitimate concern for additional legislation to punish overt actions affecting internal security, falls within the proper province of the House Judiciary Committee.

I hereby challenge you to meet me or any other member of our National Committee to a full and free debate on the fundamental Constitutional questions which your editorial obfuscates and corrodes. Come on out in front of your readership captive audience and argue your points toe to toe in a factual, rational and fair confrontation. In addition to a little American constitutionalism, you might learn a little about the magnificent struggle which SNCC has contributed to the implementation of the Supreme Court's civil rights decisions.

Frank Wilkinson
Sincerely,

Lutz Writes

Dear Sir:

A group of students are currently forming an informal organization known as "The Radical Left - Wing Infiltrators Association." This new group is being formed to give a more organized and concerted direction to radical left-wing infiltration on the campus. Since the presence of even one radical left-wing infiltrator is enough to condemn any organization, no matter how worthwhile its objectives may be, we have decided to systematically infiltrate and thus destroy all the organizations on campus.

Our procedure will be to infiltrate an organization and then announce our presence. Upon finding that they have been infiltrated by radical left-wingers, the leaders of the organization will immediately announce in horror that they are disbanding their organization because the mere presence of radical left-wing infiltrators is enough to condemn all their members and all the work of their organization. We have drawn up a tentative list of organizations in the order in which we will infiltrate them.

First will be Student Senate, then the Young Republicans, the Sundowners, and all the fraternities and sororities. This will be only the beginning. Eventually we will eliminate all the organizations on campus. Then someone in the State Legislature will discover that the student body of the University is infiltrated by radical left-wingers and demand action. Reluctantly, the Governor will announce that although the idea of a State University is worthwhile and many fine people are associated with it, he doesn't think the State of Nevada should lend its name to an organization that has been infiltrated by radical left-wingers.

Wolf Pack Center Bill Nicholson

Bill Nicholson will open at center for the Wolf Pack this season. Nicholson is a senior from Great Bend, Kansas. Last year he averaged 12.4 points per game for Nevada with 9.3 rebounds a game. As a sophomore he was picked as an honorable mention winner for little All-America.

Frosh Ball Team Prospects Good

The University of Nevada freshmen basketball team opened their season last night when they played the Winnemucca town team. Results were not available at press time.

Some of the top northern Nevada high school basketball players of last year are on coach Bob Schebler's 16 man roster.

First team includes Hugh Gallagher, Virginia City; Terry Gilmartin, Gerlach; Kevin Weatherford, Sparks; Keith Baily, Fallon; and Ed Gladding, Virginia City.

Gilmartin was the state "B" conference scoring leader and had the highest scoring average in the entire state. Gallagher and Gladding were the leaders of the Virginia City team which went undefeated and won the state "B" championship. Weatherford was an important member of the Sparks team which won the Northern "AA" zone tournament.

Other players on the team include: Georke Bamberg, Sparks; Dave Buhlig, Fallon; Craig Congdon, Wooster; Damon Drakulich, Reno; Jeff Dwyer, Elko; Jerry Maldonado, Sparks; Jerry Millert, Lund; Bill Nelson, San Rafael, Calif.; Mike Newmarker, Reno; Joe Sceirine, Yerington; and Russ Winters, Sparks.

Wrestling Squad Drops First

The University of Nevada wrestling team dropped its opening dual meet of the 1965-66 season at San Jose State College last Friday by a score of 40-0.

Wrestling coach Lee Newell attributed the loss to the lack of experience and confidence on the team. This is the second year Nevada has wrestled in league competition.

"In wrestling you cannot make mistakes. In basketball it costs you two points, in football 15 yards, in wrestling it costs you the match."

Coach Newell feels that with the team being able to work out five times a week, they should make a better showing when they meet Southern Oregon in the gymnasium tonight. Because of schedule conflicts, the team has been able to work out only four days a week.

Newell announced the starters tonight will probably be the same as those who started at San Jose.

Wrestling at 123 lbs. was Leonard Batchelder, at 130 lbs., Bill Teglia; at 137 lbs., Ken Glendhill; at 145 lbs., Charles Ballard; at 152 lbs., John Rogers; at 160 lbs., Earl Wilkins; 167 lbs., Roy Kreizenbeck; 177 lbs., Wes McVey; 191 lbs., Tim Bernhard and at heavy-weight was Larry Stiff.

Wolf Pack Travels To San Jose Mon.

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack will travel to San Jose Monday to play San Jose State.

Last year San Jose whipped the Wolf Pack, 81-54. This year the Spartans have defeated Stanford who in turn has defeated the University of San Francisco. USF is the 11th ranked team in the nation.

Following the San Jose game Nevada will leave for a tour of the Midwest where it will play Parsons College, Southern Illinois University, and play in the Rock Island Tournament. The Pack will return the 23rd of December.

Miami Here For Pack Opener

The Hurricanes of Miami University will blow into town for the second time in three years tomorrow night when they meet the University of Nevada Wolf Pack at 8 p.m.

This will be the second home game of the season for the Pack. The results of last night's game against Idaho State were not available at press time.

Miami had a 1-2 record at press time as results of their game last night with the University of San Francisco were not available either.

The Hurricanes defeated Tampa University in their season opener but have lost to Florida and Santa Clara. Nevada lost their first game against Idaho State but came back to defeat the College of Idaho last Friday to even their record at 1-1.

In 1964 the Hurricanes defeated Nevada 81-78 in overtime. They had Rick Barry then who was last years highest scoring player in the nation.

Barry presently is playing with the San Francisco Warriors and is in the running for Rookie of the Year honors.

Miami's record last year was 22-3 and they had one of the highest scoring teams in the country. This season they have been led by two junior guards in the scoring department. Junior Gee and Rick Jones are both under six feet tall but have been the best scorers for the Hurricanes.

Nevada's scoring has been well balanced with four players in double figures the first game, and five the second. Nap Montgomery, Larry Moore, Bill Nicholson, Bob Gilliam, Frank Bruno and Tom Andreason have all scored over 10 points in a single game this season.

Starting for the Wolf Pack will be Nicholson at center, Montgomery and Moore at forwards, and Bruno and Gilliam at guards. Miami will have Gee and Jones at guard, Don Patrican at center, and Mike Wittman and Stewart Marcus at forward.

WRA Volleyball Meet At Davis

Thirteen representatives of the University of Nevada will travel to Davis, California, to enter in competition with women from other four-year universities.

These representatives are members of the Volleyball Club, an activity of the WRA (Womens Recreation Association), attending a playday at the University of California at Davis.

The women attending the event are: Darlene Johnson, Lou Breen, Ellen Bedell, Eleanor Kerr, Patsy Smith, Fran Spikes, Pat Miltenberger, Kathy Leonard, Carla Rost, Bonnie Johnson, Frenie Sewell, Marcia Williams, and Sharon Smith.

From the End of the Bench

By GREGG ZIVE

If you heard strange names being yelled on the basketball court last night it is because each of the twelve players on the squad has his own nickname. So everybody will know the players here are those nicknames:

Plato—Larry Moore, House—Nap Montgomery, George Yardley—Bill Nicholson, Shark—Frank Bruno, Tic—Bob Gilliam, Dudly Doright—George Shoenberger, Roadrunner—Tom Smith, Bug—George Corder, Willowby—Jerry Hart, Bub—Frank Fovilly, Hawk—Tom Andreason, Woodpecker—Dave Decker.

This is an official list from the players themselves. Some of the nicknames are easy to figure out but others cannot be explained in a newspaper.

The 1966 edition of the Wolf Pack has team spirit that is higher than any team since I have been here and according to people that have been at Nevada for a number of years it is the best in a long time. This is a short team but one that makes up for their lack of height by excellent shooting. If one player is cold here there is someone else who is hot. There were four players in the first game and five in the second who scored in double figures. Also in the rebounding department with Moore and Montgomery, Nevada will be pulling down a good share of rebounds. Moore is 6-3 and Montgomery 6-4, but they can outjump men 3 to 4 inches taller than themselves. Also Nicholson will clear the boards well for the Pack. A big surprise in last week's loss to Idaho State was the rebounding of guard Bob Gilliam who got eight to finish second to Montgomery who pulled down nine.

The sixth man on the team is Tom Andreason. When Moore fouled out with 16 minutes left to play Andreason went in to score 10 points against Idaho State. This is a good example of the complete shooting this team has.

Taft Jackson of the College of Idaho was talking to himself following Nevada's victory in Caldwell. Bill Nicholson blocked the first five of Jackson's shots and bottled up the big man completely in the middle. Jackson finished with 28 points but 8 of these were free throws and the majority of his 10 field goals came from the outside. He was quoted asking Nicholson why Bill blocked one shot which Jackson said was only a pass and excused his bad night near the basket by blaming a slippery ball.

One of the major reasons for Nevada's loss to Idaho State last week was the 60 per cent they shot. That is a fantastic percentage and since I do not have results of last night's game I do not know if they were just lucky or actually that good. This column is written Wednesday night so I am taking a chance when I predict a victory for Nevada last night. Everybody knows if I am right or wrong.

Monday the Pack travels to San Jose to play San Jose State and they are tough. They defeated Stanford Nonday night and Stanford has already beat the University of San Francisco, which is the 11th ranked team in the UPI poll.

Intramural Basketball Begins

Intramural basketball got underway yesterday with two games scheduled. The two games were SAE No. 1 against Independent No. 2 and Lambda Chi No. 2 against Lincoln Hall No. 1.

Eighteen teams are competing in three leagues this season. The teams and leagues are: American League; SAE No. 1, Lambda Chi No. 2, White Pine No. 1, ATO No. 3, Lincoln Hall No. 1, and Independent No. 2.

Teams in the National League are SAE No. 2, Sigma Nu, Phi Sigma Kappa, Independent No. 3, ATO No. 2, and Lambda Chi No. 1.

Teams in the International League are Lincoln Hall No. 1, ATO No. 1, Theta Chi, Independent No. 1, SAE No. 3, and White Pine No. 2.

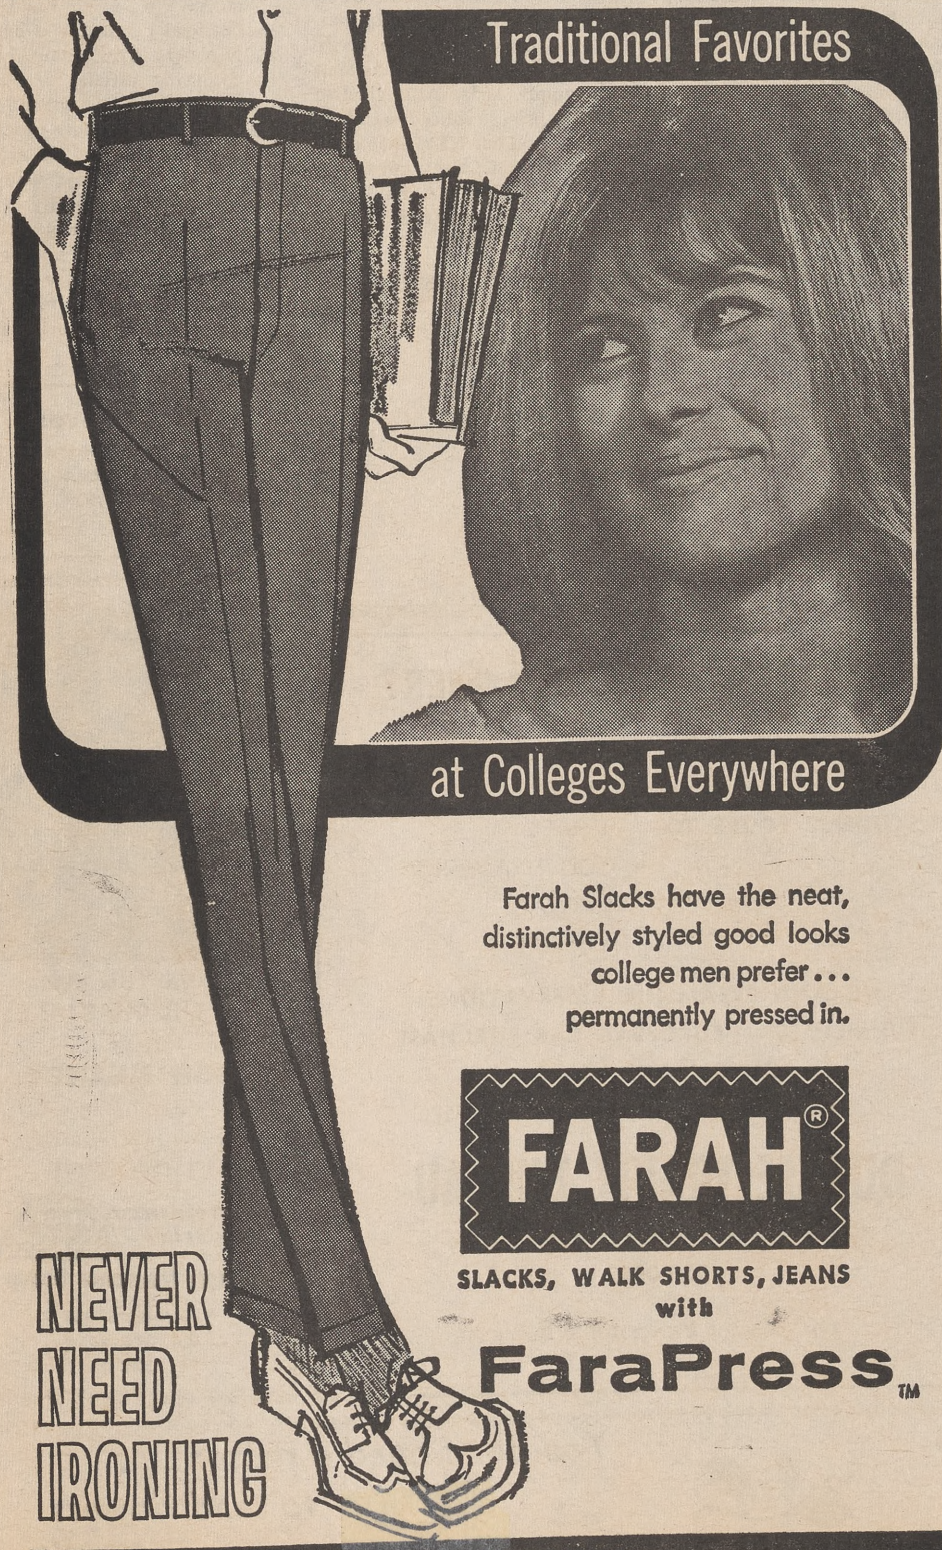

Season play will go into full swing next week with a full week's schedule of games.

Variety Of Viewpoints Aired At Viet Seminar

The Vietnam Running Seminar held Wednesday went off very well according to Dr. Elmer Rusco, professor of political theory. "There was no common viewpoint presented. There was very little discussion on what we should do. The intent of this discussion was to inform the students," Dr. Rusco said.

James S. Grant, assistant professor of management disagreed. He called the discussion a means to "propagandize the students."

His objections came after five professors took part in a panel discussion on the merits of U. S. involvement in Viet Nam. The University Dining Commons was packed during the panel discussion.

Grant was specifically referring to Dr. Erling Skorpen, University philosophy professor, S k o r p e n was criticized recently for expressing support for a Viet Cong blood drive if it was for humanitarian purposes.

Skorpen drew the largest crowd of students when he spoke. He questioned the right of the United States to impose its national interest on others.

Skorpen said, "What allows us to describe the efforts of the enemy as horrible and not our own? How do we justify presenting a different picture of ourselves from the enemy?"

He then called on the United States to initiate a move to bring the Viet Nam affair to a conclusion.

Rusco, who spoke on the prospect for democracy in Viet Nam, said he disagreed with Dr. Skorpen's views on the difference of dictatorships on North and South Viet Nam.

He defended right-wing dictatorships on the grounds that eventually they are more likely to evolve into a democracy.

Dr. Friedwart Winterberg, associate professor of physics, who was not on the panel, expressed concern that the government viewpoint was not presented.

Other faculty members taking part in the panel discussion were Prof. LaRue Gilleland, journalism professor, on press coverage of the war; Valerie H. Shinaver, a political science instructor, on the interdependence of Southeast Asian nations; and Dr. John Morrison, English professor, on the history of conflict in Viet Nam.

The seminar was sponsored by the Y.W.C.A., co-sponsors were Friends of SNCC, the Neuman Club, the Campus Christian Association and the International Club.
