Lecture Series Is Living Memorial

"We could put up a concrete monument somewhere, but that's dead. The lecture series we have planned for as a memorial to Mike would be alive and contributing, and much more in keeping with the spirit of his leadership."

The lecture series being mentioned was the Mike Ingersoll Memorial Lecture Series. And the speaker was the late campus leader's successor, A.S.U.N. President Bill Chaffin.

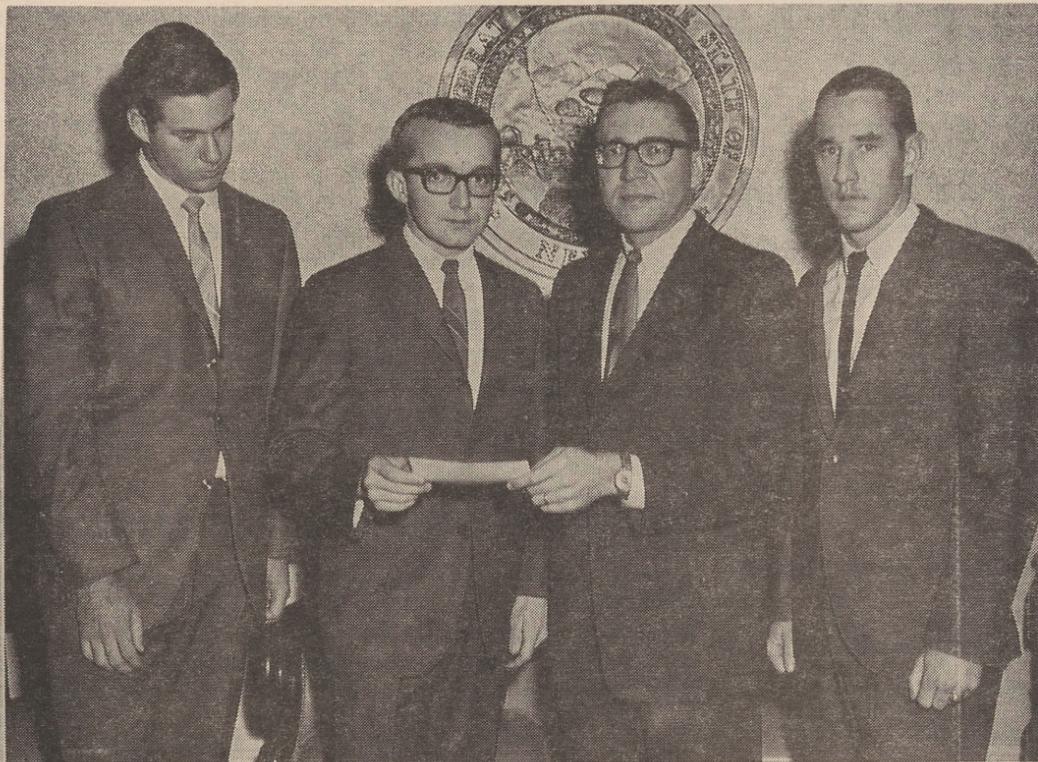

Ingersoll served in the university's highest student office until his death in a parachuting accident December 18.

The drive to finance the memorial has just begun. Chaffin said last week the first two days yielded $185 in small individual donations. Chaffin added that individual contributions are not being solicited, but that the A.S.U.N. will accept any that are given.

As gratifying as the early response has been, $185 is a long way from the memorial fund's goal of $10,000. According to Chaffin the lion's share of the finances may be raised by benefit dinners and shows for students and state dignitaries. Tentative plans call for a dinner, show and dance for students for $7.50 per couple and a $15 per person banquet for state leaders.

"If the response to the drive is as enthusiastic as we expect it to be, the lectures could begin next fall," Chaffin said.

The memorial foundation would bring to the campus each year a well-known, dynamic speaker. His lecture would be recorded and published in book form by the university. Chaffin noted that often such books are used in colleges around the country as texts for classes. Each book would be labeled "produced under the Mike Ingersoll Memorial Foundation, University of Nevada."

Another memorial being planned for Ingersoll will be in the form of an A.S.U.N. scholarship be awarded each year to an outstanding junior student active in campus affairs.

Ingersoll's fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega, is also establishing a memorial scholarship to be given annually to an outstanding graduate of Carson City High School. The late student body president was an alumnus of the capitol-city school. The fraternity's plans also include a plaque to be erected in Ingersoll's memory.

Otis Burrell Sets New Meet Mark

University of Nevada's Otis Burrell high jumped to a new meet record Saturday at the Seattle Invitational Indoor Track Meet as he cleared 7 feet 2 inches smashing the previous record by 5 inches.

Burrell was all alone in competition after last year's meet winner dropped out at 6 feet 12 inches, one inch over his previous best.

Burrell's jump was one half inch under his all time best of 7 ft. 2½ in. which is the best in the world this year.

Lecture Series, A Fitting Memorial, Deserves Student Help And Donations

A most fitting memorial to one who did so much for the University of Nevada is the Mike Ingersoll Memorial Lectures Series.

The series, initiated by student and faculty at the University, is underway, and already contributions have started to come in. However, the small donations are not nearly enough and in order to reach the $10,000 goal, help is needed.

Bill Chaffin, ASUN president, said the lecture series is "planned as a permanent part of the Reno campus," and further, "an important part of our educational climate."

Many have worked hard to get the drive underway. But many are unaware of the difficulties that may be encountered. The spirit must be there for people to work for such a project.

If the foundation is successful, dynamic speakers would be brought to the campus to talk, with their lectures being recorded and published in book form to be sold and used by colleges and universities everywhere.

Mike Smithwick, ASUN public relations director, has done a fine job in the past of setting up programs and fund-raising projects, and he is already working hard for the Ingersoll project.

However, help and donations are needed. The students and faculty of the University of Nevada must be part of this drive if it is to be a success.

Smithwick has planned benefit dinners and shows for students and state dignitaries.

Support them. The lectures series has long been desired at the University of Nevada.

It should be here. And it will be here. . . .

Wolf Pack Topples S.F. Gators 103-101 In Overtime Contest

By Mike Smithwick
Sports Editor

The University of Nevada basketball team squeezed through its ninth straight victory Saturday night as the Pack defeated the San Francisco State Golden Gators 103 to 101 in a thrill packed overtime duel.

The high scoring but narrow victory settled the Wolf Pack into an undisputed first place berth in the Far Western Conference pushing the Golden Gators into second position.

The fast moving game was an offensive duel from beginning to end with the leading score changing hands often. The Wolf Pack took an early lead but was unable to maintain it as the Golden Gators fought point for point with a well balanced attack throughout the first half of play.

See-Saw Battle Continues

Midway through the second half, Nevada began to pull into the lead as the Pack established an 8-point lead with the score standing at 68-60. But the quick moving Golden Gators dwindled the gap and established their own 8-point lead only to have it taken away from them by pin point sharp shooting of the Wolf Pack cagers.

With a 1:20 remaining in the game, the Wolf Pack seemed to have won the game as they pushed ahead with a six point lead, but the determined San Francisco five displayed a dazzling comeback performance and tied the score at the buzzer sounded with an 18 foot jump shot. At the end of the regular period of play, the score stood at 91-91.

The Wolf Pack scored an early lead in the overtime but the Golden Gators again tied the score and fought point for point throughout most of the overtime. With one half minute to play, Nevada's Larry Moore dropped in

Gators Miss

The Golden Gators missed an outside jump shot and 6 foot 5 inch Nap Montgomery come down with the rebound. The Wolf Pack then moved the ball down court as the final buzzer sounded giving Nevada its 103-101 victory over the San Francisco State Golden Gators.

The University of Nevada showed its usual fine form as Bill Nicholson and Nap Montgomery both came down with 13 rebounds for the game. Montgomery also scored the team high of 28 points.

The final statistics were:

New Athletic Facilities Are Nearly Completed; Tentative Occupancy Is Set For March 1st

March 1 has been the tentative date set for the occupancy of the new athletic dressing room facilities. Although a problem concerning the insulation of the water heater may delay the use of the new building, plans are now being made for the track and baseball teams to make use of the facility the first of next month.

The new dressing room facility, the first P. E. or athletic building to be built since 1943, features such things as a sauna bath, offices for coaches, storage room, training room, as well as a two dressing rooms and showers. Future plans call for the addition of a washer and dryer.

Athletic director Jake Lawlor says "it is a very practical building and is a welcome addition to the athletic plant.

Moving the dressing rooms to the north end of the campus is part of the large master plan of the university to move all the P. E. and athletic facilities to that area. Currently the area holds the dressing rooms, the new football field and bleachers, the all weather track, and six tennis courts.

The old "fieldhouse," as it has been called for many years, was originally dedicated to the university by the Mackay family in 1909.

Part of its colorful past includes a tradition that members of the Block N may watch games from the porch of the fieldhouse. This custom was carried on through the 1930's, but the addition of bleachers on the east side of the stadium, the addition of training room facilities, and increasing numbers of Block N members forced this custom to be abandoned. No date for the razing of the fieldhouse has been set, but the old fieldhouse will probably be gone by the end of the school year.

The term "fieldhouse" is a miss use of the term, Coach Lawlor points out. The actual meaning of fieldhouse on college campuses today is a large gym facility, not just a dressing room.

Library Rates As One Of Largest Employers Of Students On Campus

The University of Nevada library is one of the largest employers of students on the campus. Fifty-three students are being employed part time this semester in what is termed a tradition of student employment, according to Mr. David Heron, librarian.

The students employed at the library work part time in a variety of jobs. Jobs are awarded in accordance with the academic load they are carrying and with library needs.

Students referred to the library by Dean William Rasmussen, director of placement and financial aids, are placed in the library to supplement the 47 clerical, technical and professional workers. These regular staff members help train the novices who usually have no training in library work, Mr. Heron says.

Typical jobs included shelving and checking in books, filing books, working the Xerox copying machine, and placing call numbers on the book spines. Students do work in the reference, serial, acquisition, and government publications departments, also.

Along with work in "reading the stacks," the students' work is equivalent to 18 people working full time. "Reading the stacks" refers to checking to see that books are in order on the shelves in accordance with the cataloging system.

Recently the cooperation of students helped cut the time needed to rearrange the "800's" classification, says Brad Stanley, library assistant. The moving of books was the first in a series of changes designed to change the University of Nevada library to the Library of Congress classification system.

Mr. Heron credits student help as one of the reasons the library is able to be open an unusual working week of 87 hours.

From the End of the Bench

By GREGG ZIVE

THE TORCH LIGHT PARADE at Sky Tavern has been canceled until this Saturday. The parade was previously scheduled for last Saturday but stormy weather at Mt. Rose prevented students from going to the ski area.

THE NEW STADIUM HAS many new innovations which do not meet the eye. The new locker rooms are as modern as those inhabited by the professional football teams. Each player has his own dressing stall with private compartment which can be locked. But the most modern device in the locker room is the ventilation system with outlets throughout the room which will guarantee dry practice uniforms every day.

INJURIES WILL BE PREVENTED as well as healed faster in the new training rooms. Beside each of the dressing rooms is a room completely devoted to taping, whirlpools, rub downs, and first aid. The athletes will now be able to receive the treatment they need and get it faster.

BUT THERE COULD BE A FEW FRIGHTENING GLANCES when the two teams trot on to the playing field because the teams must use the same door. This is only a trivia at the beginning of the game, but at half time when the players are tired and mad about a hard tackle or what ever might have gotten them mad, those glances may get pretty frightening. Especially when you have to walk down the hall with the guy.

AND A GOOD PRESS BOX is what every sports writer dreams about. The new one will be high above the stands and will have a commanding view of the entire field—coaches on the phones will be able to see plays develop and can send more vital information to the bench.

DON'T FORGET to participate in the Winter Carnival activities this weekend.

Wrestlers Capture Upset Victory

The University of Nevada wrestling team captured an upset victory in the University of Nevada gymnasium Saturday night as the Wolf Pack matmen upset the strong Cal Aggies 26 to 13. The determined Wolf Pack grapplers won three matches by decision, one by pin, tied one, and won two by default. Nevada's only pin came early in the evening when 137-pound Ken Addams easily scored his 5-point victory.

Nevada's Duane Quick, 130 pounds, out scored Jim Marchio to give the Pack another three points. One hundred fifty-two-pound Roy Kreizenbeck also defeated their opponents by decision. Bili Teglia, 123 pounds and Bob Seymore, heavyweight, both won their matches by default.

The evening ended with the hardest fought match of the dual meet. 191-pound Larry Stiff went three grueling periods with Chuck Husted to end in a 2-2 tie.

Library Saw Books Switched Over Holiday

Students returning to the University of Nevada library to do research this semester will find a change in the "800's" classification. The former block of "800's" has been moved from the first floor to the bottom floor.

In addition, the books have been changed from what is known as the "block" system to the "range" system, Brad Stanley, library assistant, says.

The change, which is the first in a series planned to change the classification from Dewey Decimal System to the Library of Congress System, was completed the last week in January.

Southern Cousins To Invade Wolf Pack Territory Tonight

By 'The Rat'

Nevada Southern's invading Rebels are in Reno tonight to play the Wolf Pack with this year's version of the Rebel quintet not being as strong as in the past few years.

The Southern team is only playing .500 per cent ball, quite different than the last three years when NSU won a total of 61 games to only 18 defeats. They have been hurt by a series of misfortunes, first with pre-season loss of starters Bob Glasgow and Roosevelt Lee, mainstays on last years Rebel team but both scholastically ineligible.

With a new coach and a new offense to learn the team hasn't jelled as a cohesive unit. But Nevada Southern hasn't played its usual easy schedule and the harder competition has taken its toll.

At the beginning of the new semester three more starters had been declared ineligible. Forwards Bob Brown 6'4", Bill Davis 6'3" and Ken D'Andrea, starting guard, had scholastic difficulties. So the Rebels will be coming to Reno with a different nucleus than when the Wolf Pack played them in Las Vegas last January.

But the Rebels can't be counted out yet. They still have big Silas Stepp 6'5" 230-pound center who has received little All-American Honorable Mention honors for the last three seasons. He is currently averaging 19.9 points per game and played one of his best games of the year against Nevada. Scoring 25 points and grabbing 14 rebounds, seemingly "up for the interstate rivalry."

NSU also has a 6'4" "jumping-jack" forward in the person of Clarence (Clyde) Dawson who played one of his poorer games against Nevada and was said to have a sore and swollen right hand. If "Big Si and Clyde" play up to their capabilities then NSU can make it a close game. But if either has an off night the Wolf Pack will walk off the court an easy 15 to 20 point victor.

It should be an interesting duel between Nevada's big center Bill Nicholson and Stepp, who know each other quite well and have never had "any love lost between them."

The Nevada Southern-Nevada series started back in 1961 with the Wolf Pack taking two victories in Reno. The next year Nevada traveled to Las Vegas and the Rebels won both games. In 1963 the current game series was started with each team winning on its own court.

1964 saw the same pattern being followed with the teams splitting the two encounters.

The year of change came for Nevada when the Wolf Pack went to Las Vegas and beat the Rebels on their own home court 74-71, to give us the current series standing as of tonight. With Nevada holding a 5-4 edge in the series, tonight's game should see the triumph by about 14 points—prediction—Nevada 86 NSU 72.

Volkswagen Narrowly Escapes Lake Plunge

When he saw a University Volkswagen poised precariously over Manzanita Lake, Robert L. Kersey, director of auxiliary enterprises, just said, "Oh well, it's a Volkswagen, it will float."

Clark D. Peterson, the driver of the vehicle, said that he had made a sharp turn onto the sidewalk beside the Snack Bar. When he tried to go up the hill, the clutch failed to catch and he rolled back until the left rear wheel caught and stopped the vehicle.

Peterson said that there are brakes on all four wheels, and that kept him from going off into the lake. Peterson is a senior and works in the Snack Bar.

Campus Patrolman Ken Harkema jokingly said that this was a case of illegal parking, since it was obstructing the sidewalk.

Dean of Students Sam M. Basta suggested that Kersey drive the Volkswagen from its position, but Kersey rejected the idea.

The All Nite Garage, Inc. pulled the vehicle out around 6 p.m. The cost to the University for the towing service was 20. There was no damage to the Volkswagen.

Basketball And Table Tennis Initiate Spring Intramurals

The spring semester intramural sports program will start off with basketball and table tennis running in conjunction to save time until the program gathers full steam and recovers from the semester break.

Basketball is now only half completed and table tennis is just starting. With the Intramural Circus due on Feb. 18, the various teams participating are urged by Mr. Newell, director of the intramural program, to get their entry blanks in as soon as possible. "It might also be a good idea for the teams to start getting in shape for the Intramural Circus night, if they haven't already begun," he added.

Teams will be competing in basketball free throw, gymnastics, wrestling, and fencing.

The ski meet will be held on March 12. Bowling will start as soon as basketball has ended.

Further information concerning the dates and regulations about the intramural program may be obtained in the Intramural Sports office in the Gymnasium.
