Next Monday Office Filing Deadline Set

The deadline for filing for ASUN elections is Monday, March 7, at 5 p.m. Candidates may file in the ASUN offices of President Bill Chaffin or First Vice-President Chuck Murphy.

Offices open for filing are ASUN president, ASUN first vice-president, ASUN second vice-president, men's and women's senator-at-large, class presidents, AWS president, AWS vice-president, six offices in the Student Union Board, and college senators.

The requirements for all candidates are a 2.2 overall grade point average and a five dollar deposit.

The candidates for the ASUN offices must be second semester juniors and the candidates for men's and women's senator must be second semester sophomores.

The College of Arts and Sciences will have seven senators, Business will have two, Education will have three and all the other colleges will be represented by one senator.

Arts and Sciences, Education, and Business college senatorial elections require that at least one independent must be elected. If none run, the Senate will appoint an independent senator.

Six positions on the Student Union Board will be filled by the general election. The other members are appointed from the ranks of the present Board.

Craven Appointed State Trial Judge

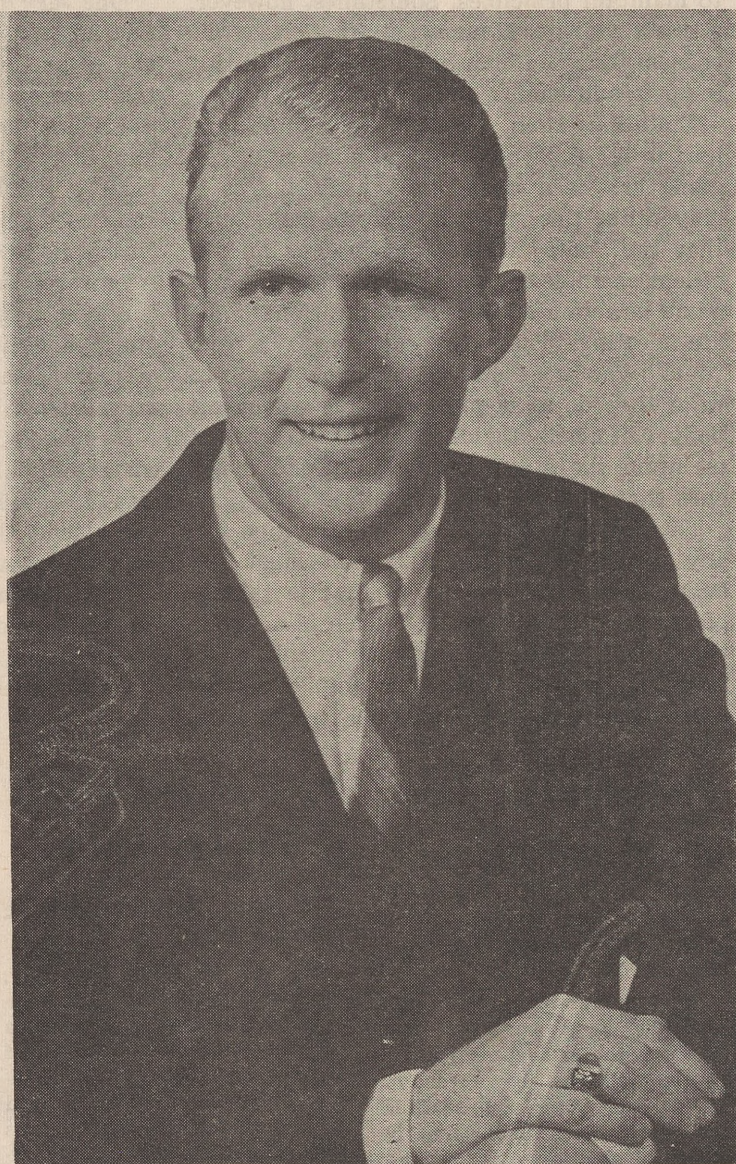

A Reno lawyer, District Judge Thomas O. Craven, has been appointed to the board of directors of the National College of State Trial Judges at the University of Nevada. The appointment was made recently by the Board of Governors of the American Bar Association.

Judge Craven was chosen along with other officials from California and Oregon to direct the college activities. Included in activities he will oversee is the intensive training for newly appointed or elected state court judges.

Small sessions to train the new judges are held at the University of Nevada where the national headquarters was established in September, 1965.

Judge Craven is a former United States attorney. He has been active in the work of the American Bar Association.

New Union Board President

CRAIG HOWARD

Travis Student Union Board Votes Craig Howard President

The Jot Travis Student Union Board recently elected Craig Howard as its new president.

Norman Beesley was elected Vice-president, financial director.

A past Union Board Senator, Howard is a member of Blue Key, the Junior Class Committee, and Alpha Tau Omega. He was Winter Carnival Chairman for 1966, and served on the 1965 Homecoming Committee.

Howard attended Reno schools before coming to the University of Nevada. He has a 3.1 overall grade-point average, and is a Political Science major.

Elections for six new Student Union board members will be held at the same time as ASUN elections. Persons interested in filing for a position on the board may discuss the opportunity with Craig Howard or Norman Beesley in the Student Union office, room 104 of the Jot Travis Student Union Building. Filing deadline is March 7.

'Candida' Sets Under Construction

Sets are being constructed and painted this week for George Bernard Shaw's play, "Candida." The play will be presented in the University Theater March 11, 12, 17, 18 and 19.

The sets were designed by Robert Ware, theater director. They are being made by members of the technical theater class, the cast and other volunteers.

The play will begin at 8 p.m. each evening. All seats will be reserved. Reservations may be made by phone at the box office in the Church Fine Arts building between 1 and 5 p.m. daily. The box office will open at 7 p.m. on performance evenings.

The play is to be presented by students under the direction of Robert Ericson.

Students will be admitted free.

Resolution To Give Underclass Prexies Senate Seats Killed

A proposal to allow freshman and sophomore class presidents seats in student Senate was defeated Wednesday night.

If passed, the resolution would have given the freshman and sophomore classes a voice in the Senate. Senator Dave Diedrichsen, speaker for the resolution, said although the freshman class makes up 41% of the student body, it has no representation in the Senate. Any underclassmen Senators, said Diedrichsen, are representing living groups—not their classes.

Draft Boards To Process Seniors

Most Nevada Selective Service Boards will start processing college seniors in the next few months, said Lt. Colonel A. A. Millard, Nevada Selective Service Director.

They will be ordered for physicals so they can be processed by the boards when they are graduated in June.

Colonel Millard said if seniors plan to apply for a commission they should do it now. A commission normally takes 90 to 120 days to complete and when the senior gets his notice from the local board he will not have that much time.

The armed forces get most of their officers from colleges. The senior should let his local board know if he plans to apply for a commission or some other type of service, he said.

Senior Histories Due Next Friday

Senior histories must be turned in to the Artemisia no later than Friday, March 7, according to yearbook editor Joyce Freeman.

"If they aren't turned in by Friday, they won't be in the yearbook," Freeman said.

Blanks are available at the ASUN Bookstore and at Sagebrush distribution boxes.

The completed senior history blanks are to be placed in the senior history box in the basement of the Journalism Building.

Scholarships For Masters Offered In Library Science

Two scholarships amounting to $2,000 each are available to University of Nevada seniors interested in obtaining a master's degree in library science. Majors in any field of study may apply.

Candidates must acquire the advanced degree within one calendar year and agree to accept employment in a Nevada Public Library for a term of two years.

The scholarships is applicable to any library school accredited by the American Library Association. A letter of application should be addressed to Mrs. Mildred J. Heyer, Nevada State Library, Carson City, Nevada, 89701.

Further information in regard to this or other scholarships available in library science may be secured from David Heron, Librarian of the University of Nevada.

The resolution, proposed by Senator John Utter, was defeated on the grounds that Senate is not organized to represent individual classes, but the student body as a whole.

An amendment to the constitution concerning presidential succession was passed. Presented by A.S.U.N. President Bill Chaffin, the amendment states if the president should be unable to fulfill his duties, the first vice president will take the president's office.

The men's senator-at-large will step into the first vice president's position, if the first vice president is not able to fulfill his duties.

Similarly, the women's senator-at-large may take the office of second vice president.

The amendment will be voted on in the coming election.

Head Cheerleader Jim Crane made changes in his proposal to make the head cheerleader a paid A.S.U.N. officer. Crane said a tuition waiver could possibly replace a salary.

He added if the head cheerleader is given power to dismiss song leaders and cheerleaders, they would be able to appeal the dismissal to Senate.

Senator Carl Fuetsch said the Senate Steering Committee will take on Crane's proposal Monday. The final decision on the resolution will remain in the Senate.

Senator Lance Sparks reported on the symposium to be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Mar. 21.

Professors, students, and administrators will speak on such varied topics as student-faculty relations, and responsibility for intellectual reputation of the University, said Sparks.

Other subjects include student-administrative problems, facility problems, the University of Nevada in the state, faculty-administrative problems, and fact vs. concept in education.

Speakers will prepare a talk on their topics, and then enter into discussion which will follow each talk.

Opinions aired in the symposium will be gathered in a report to be given to Chancellor N. Edd Miller, said Sparks.

Senator Bob Basta moved that a committee be appointed to help Sparks write the report. The motion was passed.

Maryellen Drake and Burney Anderson were accepted on the Election Board.

ID's Available

Student Identification cards for the Spring semester 1966 are now available in the Dean of Men's office in the Clark Administration building, according to Dean James Hathorn.

Students are urged to pick them up as soon as possible.

ASUN Election Time Draws Near; Students Should File For Positions

The campus will soon be filled with campaign activity now that ASUN election time is just around the corner.

Monday is the deadline for hopefuls to file for a student government post, while the primary elections are slated for Wednesday of the following week.

Competing for the various positions available is a worthwhile endeavor. It is not only an opportunity to fill a worthwhile position on campus, but it offers a chance to improve oneself.

Improvement of character through responsibility is the opportunity offered to students, merely by filing for a seat. Fulfilling the duties of the various offices, committees and boards on campus is a great area in which to test one's reliability and trustworthiness.

The ability to bear or shirk responsibility separates the men from the boys in the long road of life. Those that can't carry the burden will find it a rough go in this tough old world.

Those who are involved with campus activities are not, as some cynicals believe, simply attempting to become BMOC's. Participation is a richly rewarding, filling experience that will benefit those who try it for the remainder of their lives. In addition, it's a lot of fun.

The Sagebrush urges all proponents of the far right, extreme left or the moderate campus points of view to throw back the dull-grey cloak of apathy and heartily engage in the upcoming political fracas.

As one unknown, but surely a philosopher, once said, "It ain't gonna hurt nobody to try it."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

AS AN ITEM FOR OUR STUDENT PRESS—WHAT'S YOUR ENGINEERS' OPINION OF THE EARLY CLOSING HOURS FOR WOMEN?!

Quorum Plus One

By MARILYN JONES

Consequently, we have just passed from "Keep off the Grass Month" to "Political Month" and the transition is much more simple than one might suspect. For instance, both months are dedicated to traditional values. One keeps off the grass because it is traditional that one does not get thrown into the traditional lake for actions that are contrary to tradition. Similarly, one traditionally goes to the polls in order to vote for his fraternity brother which is the traditional thing to do. Besides, one would get fined if one didn't.

However, there does seem to be an over-emphasis on the importance of politics. Politics is a fun little game. This is traditional. Power is also traditional, which brings us back to the game. The purpose of this game of politics, obviously, to maintain power, not to maintain principles. Sometimes, however, a traditionalist will maintain principles while concentrating on maintaining power, but this is not traditional.

Tradition, then, plays a very important part in U. of N. politics. The purpose of the game has been stated previously, but it is played like this: the "ins" try to make sure that the "outs" cannot get in. For an excellent example of this, one must observe the game in action as seen in a traditional Senate meeting. There are, of course, a few "outs" who are Senators, and you may ask what they do as members of this governing body. Not a hell of a lot. The "ins" effectively maintain the status quo in order to make sure that nothing gets done.

There is one fundamental qualification for any participant of this game: he must not be too aware of the action that is taking place. Why, you may ask, which is a good, traditional question for anyone to ask. And, traditionally, the answer is simple: if the participant were aware, he would not be participating. To be aware is to understand, and to understand is to get all the symptoms of the flu. Perhaps this is one of the reasons that the "outs" cannot attend classes for several days after each Senate meeting.

But the "ins" control much more than Senate. As upholders of truth, defenders of democracy, and triumphant of tradition, they have decreed themselves censors of that about which they know nothing. In their new roles, the "ins" have issued an ultimatum to the effect that the Forum will become a nonentity if they cannot get $100 in advertisements for each issue. Some kind of compromise is obviously necessary. The Forum could receive a more than adequate sum of money as well as loyal support from the "ins" if they would change the name from Forum to The Ingersoll Review.

One very definitely "out" Senator is Lance Sparks, who valiantly upholds traditional values inasmuch as he doesn't walk across the lawn unless he's late to class. Senator Sparks is organizing a symposium single-handedly for two reasons. First of all, the basic principles with which a symposium is concerned is against the basic principles with which traditional values are concerned. An awareness of what is going on might occur, resulting in a questioning of the status quo. Secondly, the "ins" are too involved in a more important matter to aid Senator Sparks in any way.

If one has no doubt that all men are created traditionally and that the actions of the "ins" should never be questioned, one should not attend the symposium lest one should be shot down by the Red Baron.

This column is humbly dedicated to the memory of Lance Sparks, whose constant efforts to improve the effectiveness of student government didn't.

Fleischmann Grant Awarded Nevada

The deadline for filing for a Max C. Fleischmann Foundation Grant is May 2, 1966.

Each grant will provide $1,500 annually for a period of four years to the student recipient.

The grant shall be awarded on a four year basis and shall be renewable upon application by the student prior to the opening of the fall semester of each successive school year.

The application shall be accompanied by the written recommendation of the Dean of the Medical School where the student is in attendance.

The purpose of the scholarships is to encourage Nevada pre-medical students to continue their education for a career in the medical field.

Applications can be received from William E. Rasmussen, director of financial aids.

Ag Library Sets Permanent Hours

Permanent Sunday hours have been established for the Life Sciences Library located on the third floor of the Fleischmann Agriculture building. Mr. Harold G. Morehouse, assistant director of the University of Nevada Library, made the announcement this week.

Sunday night hours have been established and will continue on a regular basis from 7-10 p.m. The decision to make the hours permanent was made after a two-week trial basis in mid-January.

I.B.M. Exhibit In Arts Gallery

"The Printmaker's Image" is the title of the current exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery. The exhibition is composed of original American prints from the collection of International Business Machines Corporation. They date from the mid-19th Century to the present and represent all major print-making techniques.

"The prints are works of art, conceived and executed by artists, and possess all the virtues inherent in authentic originals. Prints are executed in the scale decided on by the artist himself," said the IBM leaflet on the exhibit.

Some of the exhibiting artists are James A. McNeill—Whistler, Leonard Baskin, Ben Shahn, Sister Mary Corita, and J. L. Steg.

The prints are not for sale. The exhibit will continue through March 1.

Accounting Prof. Attends Seminar In San Francisco

Professor Walter S. Palmer Jr., the Accounting Department, College of Business Administration, attended a two day seminar in San Francisco, Feb. 10 and 11.

The seminar was conducted by the United States General Accounting Office for selected professors of Accounting in the western United States. Faculty members were shown current auditing and financial management practices of the General Accounting Office. The seminar included a tour of a missile tracking station.

The GAO may be tagged as the CPA arm of the Federal Government. It is an independent agency reporting to Congress on the activities of the Executive Branch of the Government.

Proposals Slated For Election

Three constitutional amendments will be placed before students in this year's elections.

The first is a recommendation by the Student Judicial Council. It was handed down after the council reviewed charges from Bill Isaef and Karl Ritterby last year that the ASUN constitution was not upheld in last year's elections.

The constitution now states that one representative from each of the colleges must be unaffiliated, an independent. There were no independents elected to the business and educational colleges, because none ran last year.

The second amendment was proposed to Senate last month. It was felt by some senators that editors and business managers of ASUN publications should be removed for incompetence by the Student Judicial Council. The Publications Board already has the power to remove editors or business managers.

The third amendment was brought up by the death of former ASUN President Mike Ingersoll. After Ingersoll's death it was discovered there were no rules of succession to his post written in the constitution.

Since there was a First Vice President's post the Judicial Council ruled it could be assumed the post was meant for succession to the President's office in case of death or otherwise.

AMENDMENT

Article IV, Section 1, New Part B & renumber following parts: Should a vacancy occur in the office of ASUN President because of the death, withdrawal, resignation or inability to serve of the incumbent, the First Vice-President shall succeed to the office of ASUN President. Should a vacancy occur in the office of First Vice-President, the Senior Men's Senator-at-Large shall succeed to the office of First Vice-President. Should a vacancy occur in the office of Second Vice-President, the Senior Women's Senator-at-Large shall succeed to the office of Second Vice-President.

AMENDMENT

Removal from office: The Editor or business manager of either publication may be removed from office in the case of incompetence. Such removal shall receive a 4/5 vote of the Student Judicial Council, all members being present. The defendant or defendants shall have the right to a fair trial by the Council, after indictment by the Publications Board, and upon request shall have the right to appeal to the Senate for a review and final decision concerning the case.

AMENDMENT

Article II, Section I, Paragraph A, of the A.S.U.N. Constitution be amended to read as follows:

The Senate shall be composed of one Representative from each recognized social fraternity and sorority on the campus, it being understood that such recognition be granted by the President of the University; one unaffiliated Representative from each of the dormitories; each college shall have at least one representative elected by the students within the college, the college representation to be based on a plurality of two-hundred students, the first Representative from the colleges having more than one seat is to be unaffiliated only if an unaffiliated student files for said office, the other representative can be either unaffiliated or affiliated; the A.S.U.N. President, A.W.S. President, four Senators-at-Large, one Student Union Board representative.

Language Students Take Test

All students taking a foreign language this semester took the MLA Co-operative Foreign Language Test at the first three class meetings of each section.

The test is given to determine the norms of University of Nevada students entering the University for the first time. It will also help to place students who have language credits in the appropriate classes.

The test was given in three sections: listening comprehension, writing ability, and reading comprehension.

"These new tests are designed to help build oral skills, not just grammatical correctness," said Dr. Charles V. Wells, chairman of the Foreign Language department.

CONTACT STUDENT PLACEMENT OFFICE FOR INFORMATION

From the End of the Bench

By GREGG ZIVE

THE PRESSURE is on the Wolf Pack players this weekend. Tonight and tomorrow night the Pack will play in the College Division Pacific Coast regionals with Fresno State, San Diego, and Seattle Pacific. The Silver and Blue is the highest rated team in the regionals by this week's UPI ratings. Seattle Pacific is number 13 and Fresno State was in the top 25. The ratings make Nevada the favorite which is right because they are going to be the toughest team in Fresno this weekend.

THE GAME LAST SATURDAY was great and so were the pre-game ceremonies. The Wolf Pack deserves all the praise they get. This is a team that never quits or stops hustling. The Pack has been called the "Cardiac Kids" because of their close games but some of the players didn't think too much of this nickname. Of course they have "the will to win" but the intangible reason for the success of this team is its confidence. They go into every game knowing that they are the team to beat and this attitude is important in every sport and to every athlete. The players complement each other—if one is cold then somebody else is hot. Each one plays well and fits into the team and is individually important. It is a team without a single star but instead has five outstanding, winning players. This team is the one Nevada teams in the future will be compared to.

NAP MONTGOMERY AND LARRY MOORE were the scoring leaders on this year's team. Nap hit for 476 points and Larry got 474. Both have 19.0 averages and Larry leads the conference with a 22.0 average in conference games. All the other starters have averages in double figures also. Frank Bruno is hitting at a 13.8 chip, Bill Nicholson is averaging 12.9 points a game.

ALL FIVE STARTERS scored 20 or more points in the San Francisco State game. Bob Gilliam was high for the game with 29 points. Ev (Goose) Adams led S.F. State with 27 points; 21 in the first half. Several Nevada players think Goose is the best player in the conference. However, as Larry Moore said he (Larry) never played against the best forward in the FWC because he is on the same team—Nap Montgomery.

HOME FANS AND THEIR NOISE are really appreciated by the ball players and they are hoping as many Nevada students as possible will make the trip to Fresno to give the Pack some vocal support. Statistics prove home crowds help the Wolf Pack as they won all 13 games they played in Reno this year. So try to get down there if at all possible. Fresno is about 250-300 miles from Reno and seats on buses still might be available.

TWO VICTORIES at Fresno would send the Wolf Pack to the national playoffs in Evansville, Ind. next week. There will be eight teams there from all regions of the country and it would be great if Nevada was one of them.

UPI Honors Pack Cagers

It was a week of praise and honors for the Wolf Pack cagers as a team and individually.

Wednesday it was announced that the Silver and Blue had moved from the 16 slot to the 10th position on the weekly United Press International board of coaches small college basketball ratings.

The Little-All Coast team was named Thursday and five players from the Far Western Conference were placed on the honorable mention list.

Two of the five were Nevada's Larry Moore and Napoleon Montgomery. Between them they scored 850 points this year for Nevada.

Others named from the conference were Lynn Livie, Sacramento State; Ev (Goose) Adams, San Francisco; and John Langenhiem of Hayward State.

Registration For Tutoring

The Foreign Languages Department is preparing a register of potential translators and tutors of languages. Requests have come to the University from Reno and the surrounding areas for help in translating and learning languages not taught at the University.

In the last few years, most of the requests have been for Chinese, Danish, Dutch, French, German, Modern Greek, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, and Swedish.

Dr. Wells, chairman of the Foreign Languages Department, asks that people who can translate or tutor these languages and others submit their names to the department to be included in the register. The telephone extension for the Foreign Language Department is 389.

Special Reading Workshop Offered

"Reading problems in Junior and Senior High Schools" is the theme of a one-credit workshop to be conducted this summer by Dr. Robert G. Stauffer at the University of Nevada.

The special workshop will be given from July 18-22, at 9 a.m. to 12.

Dr. Stauffer is director of the Reading-Study Center at the University of Delaware Reading Laboratory School.

His experience includes seven years teaching in public schools. In 1945 he became assistant director of the Temple University Reading Clinic, and in 1950 he joined the faculty of the School of Education at the University of Delaware.

The workshop is listed under secondary education 499 and 799.

Sergeant Given Gift By UNCOC

The University of Nevada Cadet Officers' Club recently presented Chief Master Sergeant Henry Erben with some small remembrances in appreciation for a survival lecture Sergeant Erben gave the cadets.

Bennie Ferrari, President of UNCOC, presented Sergeant Erben with a cigarette lighter, a key chain, and an honorary membership in the University of Nevada Cadet Officers' Club. The ceremony took place in the office of Colonel Reed, Commander of Stead Air Force Base.

Sergeant Erben will soon leave for Fairchild Air Force Base, Washington, where he will be the head of the new survival school which is being organized to replace the old school at Stead Air Force Base which is being phased out.

Pi Phi's To Stage Pageant Night Sat.

A parent-daughters night will be held for members of Pi Beta Phi and their families, at 5:30 p.m., on Saturday, March 12, at the chapter house. Dinner will be served. The annual function enables the girls' parents to become better acquainted with their daughters' sorority and their friends.

More than eighty invitations have been sent to members' parents, who will arrive from throughout Nevada and California to attend the function.

'Nap' Montgomery

Little All-Coast Honorable Mention

FORWARD Napoleon Montgomery, who played a major part in putting Nevada in the national ratings, will also see action in Fresno tonight.

Pack Invades NCAA Regional Tournament; Competes With Fresno State College Tonight

by Greg Zive
Sports Editor

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack will play Fresno State College in the second game of the NCAA Pacific Coast College Division regional's tonight in Fresno.

Nevada finished the season with a 20-5 record and won their last 16 games. The Pack was undefeated in conference competition to win the Far Western Conference title and qualify for the regionals.

Fresno State will be led by their 6-7 center Lonnie Hughey. Hughey is one of the finest small college centers in the nation in Nevada, coach Jack Spencer's opinion.

Also in the regionals tonight and tomorrow are Seattle Pacific and the University of San Diego. San Diego was chosen over Cal Poly of Pomona earlier this week. Seattle Pacific is the 13th ranked small college in the nation on United Press's weekly coach's poll while Nevada is number 10.

Larry Moore and Nap Montgomery were named All Coast Little by United Press Tuesday. They are the two top scorers for the Silver and Blue. Montgomery scored 476 points this year while Moore finished two points behind him with 474 total.

If the Pack wins tonight they will play the winner of the San Diego-Seattle Pacific game tomorrow night for the championship and the right to go to the nationals in Evansville next week.

The points will go towards winning the Kinnear Trophy at the end of the semester.

Pack Splits Double Header With Sac

by Gary Daniels Sportswriter

The University of Nevada baseball team opened the 1966 baseball season by splitting a double-header with Sacramento State Tuesday in the California capital city.

Fred Dallimore led the Pack performers on the day of throwing a sparkling two-hitter against last year's champions of the Far Western Conference. The Wolf Pack won the first game of the double header 5-0 on Dallimore's two hitter, but dropped the nightcap 7-3.

Dallimore struck out two in the seven-innings game with the Pack infield helping him out with the support of three double plays. Nevada picked up five hits with Rod Mathisen delivering the biggest blow of the day with a triple in the second inning.

Nevada fell victim to walks and errors in the second game to suffer its first defeat of the year 7-3. Mike Zuppan, transfer from Vallejo Junior College pitching in the first college game, gave up eight walks before leaving the game. Zuppan allowed three hits in the three and one third innings that he pitched. Ron Bath, who relieved Zuppan in the fourth, allowed three hits and gave up four walks.

Nevada picked up only four hits off two Sacramento State pitchers in the second game, with Bob Gilliam providing the big wood with a double in the fourth inning.

Nevada will open its 1966 home schedule tomorrow at Moana ball park. Tentative time for the game with the Philly Rookies is 12 noon. The Rookies ball club is comprised of first and second year ball players who will be on their way to minor league training camps within the next few weeks.

'Tele-Lecture' Used At Nevada

A "tele-lecture" was used last semester for the first time in Nevada, by the University of Nevada. It is a lecture given by telephone to students in various parts of the state simultaneously. The lecture phones the classroom and his voice is amplified so that everyone there can hear him.

The students, using microphones, can comment and ask questions without leaving their seats.

It is also possible to lecture to more than one class at a time. Last semester 50 teachers and administrators in five towns throughout Nevada (Mesquite, Tonopah, Wells, Panaca and Alamo) participated in a graduate extension course.

The class is given for the benefit of teachers and administrators who cannot come to Reno to take courses.

Some of the crucial issues discussed last semester were "The American Character," "Should Communism be Studied in the Schools", and "Can Education Change?". The students were required to write a paper in depth on one of the topics discussed in class.

Dr. James C. Davis, associate professor of school Administration and supervision, and David L. Jesser, director of the Western States' Small Schools Project, planned the idea of having an extension course by amplified telephone.

Dr. Davis will be the lecturer for this semester, and Dr. Thomas T. Tucker, chairman of the school administration and supervision, will be a guest lecturer.

Variety Of Elementary Education Classes Offered In Summer Session

The department of elementary education at the University of Nevada is offering a variety of courses for the 1966 summer session.

Undergraduate credit courses in the teaching of social studies, language arts, reading, science, the creative arts and arithmetic designed to assist teachers certify and recertify, are being offered.

Short term workshops in science, reading, the creative arts, and arithmetic will be offered for teachers who can attend only two and three week sessions.

Courses will also be offered for persons who hold a bachelor's degree but wish to qualify for teaching.

All of the required graduate courses leading to a master's degree with a major in elementary education will be given during the summer session.

For the first time, a specialist in the area of the mentally retarded child will offer a course for teachers and qualified parents.

In addition, two clinical courses are planned for children. Dr. Melvin Dunn will conduct a class for the bright child and Dr. Rex Bolling of Los Angeles State College, will direct a reading clinic for children who wish to improve their reading.

For further information, contact the department of elementary education at the University of Nevada.

French Group Hears Speaker

G. E. Weiss, president of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, was the guest speaker of the Alliance Francaise this week at the Holiday Hotel.

Mr. Weiss has been a professor at Smith College, the University of Massachusetts, Mount Holyoke College, Ohio State University, Army Language School and Robert Louis Stevenson School for Boys. He has taught in France, and came to the United States in 1948.

The Alliance Francaise of Reno, which was started in the fall of 1961, is one of more than 200 similar groups in the United States. There are over a thousand Alliances Francaise and allied organizations throughout the world. The aim of the organization is to encourage study of the French language and French literature and to make known the contribution of French culture to our civilization.

Fine Arts Hosts Poindexter Display

Pictures in the Poindexter Collection now on exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery, are the works of paintings, of the "New York School of Art" and others. Most of the paintings were collected during the nineteen-fifties, many from the artists themselves.

"Each collection of art has the extra dimension of the quality of the collector's personality somewhere in the background, however subtly present," said the catalogue on the exhibit.

While the exhibit includes examples of artists who have achieved world renown, such as William DeKooning, Arshel Gorky, Phillip Guston, Franz Kline, Adolph Gottlieb and Jackson Pollock, it, as a whole, represents a cross section of contemporary American painting.

It contains not only the works of the early and late abstract expressionists but also two American individualists, Earl Kerkam, Robert DeNiro, and examples of the new pure color painting school.

This exhibit was a gift to the Montana Historical Society for the people of Montana in memory of Joseph Boyd Poindexter and Lt. Colonel Everton Judson Conger by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gentry Poindexter.

YWCA Discusses Projects

A plan to help the blind was discussed at the YWCA (Young Women's Christian Association) Coke Date recently.

Other possible YWCA projects discussed were helping in the War on Poverty, aiding the League of Women Voters by writing brochures on available services, and establishing a child care center.

President Mari Kae Ennis emphasized that increased membership in the campus YWCA would help in realizing such plans.

A booth will be entered in the WUS (World University Service) Carnival. Definite plans for the kind of booth have not yet been made.

Yvette Hash, regional chairman of YWCA, proposed a trip to some other campus. This trip would help realize the YWCA goal, which is understanding and acceptance of the world today.

Affiliated with the national YWCA, the campus "Y" has a special goal of service to others, and to themselves.

Promoting service to others was the VISTA representative, who spoke briefly on how the domestic peace corps works, and what its aims are.

Helen Peterson of Minden, who heads the Advisory Board, and Jean Parks, of Reno, also a member of the board, gave suggestions for service projects.

Research Into Problem Of Water Conservation Conducted By University

By James Nelson
 Research into the problem of conservation, development, use has been conducted in part by various sections of University of Nevada.

Results of these studies are a point of departure for more intensive ventures planned by the Center for Water Resources Research.

Center is directed by Hugh Berger, Associate Director, Desert Research Institute, has earned a national reputation in the field of natural resources conservation.

Shamberger directly supervises a group of scientists specializing in water and related problems, and works with an Advisory Board which includes representatives from the College of Agriculture, Mackay School of Mines, and the College of Engineering.

Two other divisions of the Desert Research Institute will participate in the program of the Center. The laboratory of Atmospheric Science, headed by Director Wendell Morley, will assist on problems of precipitation and related subjects. The laboratory of Desert Biology, headed by Professor Frits Went, will make contributions in the field of plant-water relationships.

Funds for the support of the Center come from various sources. Several agencies of the federal government have made major grants covering specific projects and general research. Similar contributions have been made by the State of Nevada and funds for special purposes have been provided by the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation of Nevada.

The Center is concerned with water in all of its forms and uses including precipitation, runoff, streams, stored water, and underground water. Following an inventory of the water resources of the State of Nevada, the Center hopes to perfect plans for the conservation and efficient use of available water supplies. The Center feels it will then be possible to make accurate estimates of future needs and sources of supply to meet them.

A study of the precipitation patterns of the State will be made as a basic point of departure for work in this field. Studies will be made of runoff in order to determine a pattern for more efficient management of Nevada watersheds. Research is continuing in attempts to increase water supplies by tapping the water reserves of the atmosphere through cloud seeding operations.

The Center plans to study all Nevada rivers and streams, following the pattern of the study of the Humboldt River system which has been under way for some time. Plans for increased and efficient storage of Humboldt waters are expected from these studies.

A survey will be made of presently unused reserves of water such as underground water utilized either through springs or wells. An examination is being made of the ground water basin in the State in an effort to control wasteful uncontrolled use of such water. According to the Center, it is possible to predict accurately the effect of large scale pumping and the amounts of stored water which must be imported in order to prevent undue deterioration of ground water reserves.

The Center claims that the analog computers devised by the Desert Research Institute to simulate ground water conditions are the first to have been designed and built for use in ground water management.

Attention will be paid to increased water storage in dams. Additionally, water use control methods will be re-examined and techniques for the control of surface evaporation will be studied.

Debate Squad In WP Championship

The Nevada debate team of Kenneth Muller and Stanley Smart will compete with the top 16 teams from four western states at the West Point Championship Qualifiers March 17-20.

States represented will be California, Utah, Nevada and Arizona. The four top teams to emerge from the qualifiers will enter the championships at the West Point Academy later in the semester.

The IBM interviewer will be on campus March 17

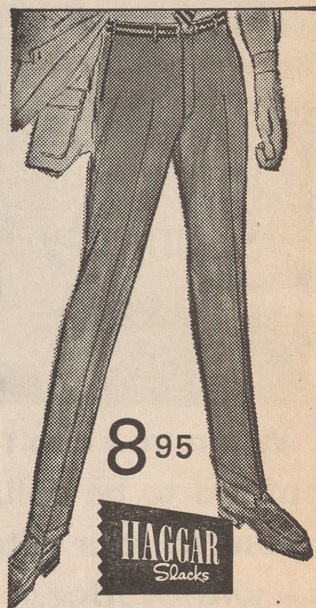

Interview him. How else are you going to find out about new ways to use your talents and skills in an exciting "go-places" career?

You could visit a nearby IBM branch office. You could write to the Manager of College Relations, IBM Corporate Headquarters, Armonk, New York 10504. But we would like to see you on campus. Why not check at your placement office today? See if you can still make an appointment for an on-campus visit with IBM. ROTC Considers Flight Training Program At Stead

By Lee Harlan

The Army Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University of Nevada is seriously considering adding a flight training program for advanced course students to its curriculum.

"If a civilian flight training facility were located near the campus, for example at Stead, the nearness would definitely be a contributing factor in our final decision," explained Col. Earl W. Ralf, commanding officer of the University ROTC unit.

The Ag Aviation Academy, now located at the Douglas County Airport at Minden, is looking for a new home with more room and hangar space.

They have an eye on the facilities at Stead Air Force Base. The Minden flight school, primarily an agriculture aviation school, holds a contract with the state to train pilots under the Manpower training program in cooperation with the vocational education division of the State Department of Education.

Under the cadet flight training program, the Army will pay for the instruction of qualified ROTC students. To participate, the student must have an aptitude for flying, and meet required military physical and mental qualifications, according to an Army brochure.

Commissioned Later

Colonel Ralf explained that the student, after completing the flight program, would not be commissioned as a pilot at graduation. Students interested in receiving their "wings" would still have to complete the Army Aviation program after entering active service.

"The ROTC flight program would be an extraordinary activity for the student, but it would give him an advantage if he does apply for Army Aviation after he is commissioned.

"The students who successfully complete the instruction may qualify to take the FAA examination for a private pilots license, however.

"Many of the Army ROTC units throughout the country which have private aviation schools readily available have such programs," Colonel Ralf said.

The civilian flying school chosen has to meet with the approval of the Federal Aviation Agency, the Department of the Army, and the University, with the University making the final decision.

"The Ag Aviation Academy meets all of these requirements," said its co-founder and director, Murray A. Kahn.

The academy is approved by the FAA, Veterans Administration, U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, Nevada Department of Education, Nevada Department of Labor, and many other State and national agencies.

The directors of the academy are now negotiating with Washington for a contract to provide regular Army primary flight and helicopter training.

Largest Academy

The academy is the largest resident flight training school in the world, with the exception of the military academies, according to Kahn.

In addition to the agriculture flight training, the academy gives instruction towards commercial rating.

Colonel Ralf pointed out that he had not entered into any discussion of a contract with the academy, and that such facility that met the qualifications would be considered for the program by the Army.

The University ROTC staff has visited the Minden school, however, and has indicated that its facilities and instructors seem adequate for such a cadet program.

The Ag Academy is now training 159 students, and employs a staff of 53 instructors and other personnel.

Director Kahn said that he has talked to both University and Reno city officials about the possibility of moving the operation to Stead.

"The academy is also authorized to give all phases of flight instruction to students covered by the G.I. Bill of Rights," Kahn said.

During the 1965-66 school year, there were 820 cadets enrolled in flight training programs at 131 institutions around the country, according to Army directive.

Of those cadets who successfully completed the flight training program, only nine per cent failed to finish the regular Army Aviation Flight Training program, as compared to 15 per cent who had no previous experience, the directive stated.

The program, which was begun in 1956, so far has produced 4,591 cadets who were recommended by FAA examiners to continue into the Army flight training.

Nevada Families Source Of Library Books; Anonymous Exchange Department Handles

A source of books for the University of Nevada library are the numerous gifts and memorial collections donated by Nevada families. These books and magazines are all handled through a seldom-heard-of department known as the gifts and exchange department.

Located on the bottom floor of the University library, the library division last year handled almost 4,000 books. Under the direction of retired librarian Mrs. Edith Holmes, the section also sold 2,700 books to University students and faculty in a duplicate book sale.

Donations made to the library go through Mrs. Holmes' department, where the titles are checked to see if they are a duplication of materials already catalogued.

If the gifts are titles not owned by the library, they are scanned by a representative from each University department. If the representatives think the books would be valuable in their field, they are sent to the cataloging department and put on the shelves.

In the case that a gift is a duplication, the University of Nevada's Southern library has the opportunity to have the books. If they are not needed by that library, other Nevada libraries are offered the books, including the Washoe County library, the Nevada State library, the Nevada State Penitentiary, and the school libraries.

Requests for books are also taken care of by the branch. Materials have been sent to Brazil, Pakistan, Nicaragua, and the Philippines.

An exchange program with 39 other universities is also under the direction of Mrs. Holmes and her assistant, Mrs. R. M. Collins. The cooperating universities send their publications to the University in exchange for two University Press publications. They are the "Nevada Studies in History and Political Science" and "Bibliographical Studies."

Among the recent functions of the department is the gift of several books to the Nevada State Penitentiary. Approximately 1,000 books were given to the penitentiary to set up its own library. Textbooks given to their library are used for classes.

One of the more interesting collections is a set of 300 books which Mrs. Holmes calls the "old time goodies." They are novels which were popular at the turn of the century. Mrs. Holmes notes that they are typical of the sweet sentimental type of story with what she terms "amusing illustrations."

Locke, Tullis Win Trophy At Debate Tourney Recently

The University of Nevada Junior debate team of Sheila Locke and Patricia Tullis won both the junior and senior women's division trophies at the Desert Invitational Speech Tournament in Tucson last week. According to debate coach, Larry Hines, this is the first time a dual honor of this kind has been won.

Locke and Tullis went undefeated in the junior division competition against the University of New Mexico, Arizona State University and Brigham Young University.

They competed in the senior women's division to capture both junior and senior trophies.

This is the third year a Nevada team has beaten Brigham Young University at the Arizona tournament.

In senior men's competition, Kenneth Muller and Stanley Smart lacked one qualifying point to enter the finals. Junior division team of Jim Conton and Jim Clarke missed the finals by one point.

In overall scoring, the Nevada squad placed second in the tournament. This insured the University of Nevada of receiving the revolving trophy for the next school year.

All schools that enter the Arizona tournament are eligible for the trophy. The school with the highest accumulated score in all tournaments or meets during the year wins the trophy. Nevada has a 154-point lead over all other schools.

If a school gets the trophy three years in succession, a permanent one is placed in the school.

Teams from 44 schools competed in the tournament. Included were University of Southern California, Texas Western and the Air Force Academy.

University Receives $25,000 To Help Teachers Of Retarded

A $25,000 grant to help students become teachers of the mentally retarded was given to the University of Nevada recently. The grant, given to the University by the United States Office of Education, which is under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, will be directed by Dr. Walter R. Higbee, associate professor at the Teaching and Research Center.

The money will be available to juniors graduating in 1967. Under terms of the grant, a $1,600 stipend will be given to the awardee, to be paid in monthly installments. "Financial need is not a requirement for the grant, but a strong desire to work with the mentally retarded is," said Dr. Higbee.

Dr. Higbee applied for the grant early last fall, and received notice on Feb. 7 that the University was approved. The University is only one of many which received grants.

Applications are now available from Dr. Higbee in the Teaching and Research Center.
