Russell Outlines Campaign Views At Recent Rally

ASUN president hopeful Dave Russell is building his campaign platform around responsibility to the students, according to his campaign speech at Monday's Election Assembly.

"It's the obligation of the president to understand and cope with student problems and to administer and generate their (the students) interests," the 21-year-old SAE said.

Russell believes the ASUN president has more duties than that specified in the constitution. Russell said he must work for the students' interests.

He also feels its part of the president's responsibility to uphold and build the prestige of the University.

Russell came out for better communication between the ASUN and students. He believes the students should be made more aware of what's going on in the ASUN. He also wants the students to know more about administrative decisions involving the Associated students.

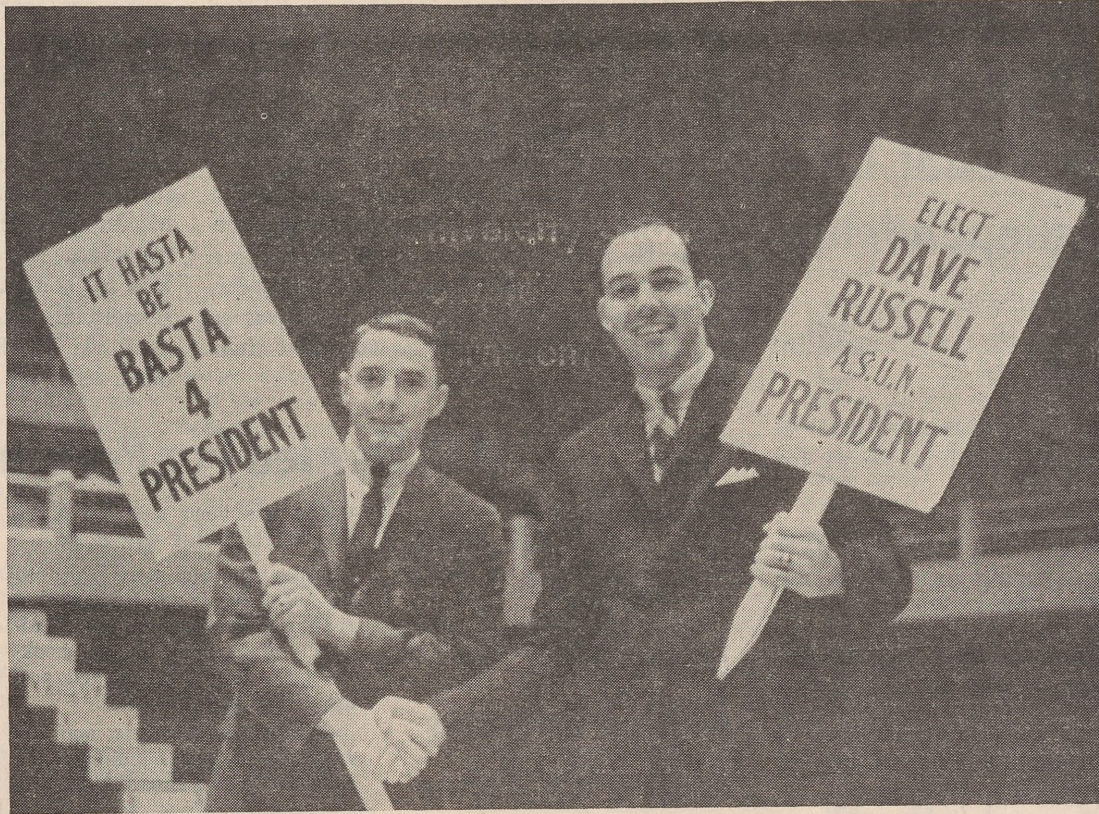

Russell would also like to see more direct and personal contact between students and the administration. He feels the administration could possibly meet with different clubs and organizations throughout the year. This would extend the usefulness of the new "Symposium," which has just been instituted to help bridge any student, faculty and administration gaps.

MAINTAIN CABINET

Russell, if elected, will maintain the ASUN President's Cabinet, which was instituted two years ago. He expressed a will-

Basta Presents Opinions During Wednesday Rally

ATO Bob Basta, a candidate for the ASUN presidency, is constructing his platform around a closer and more cohesive relationship between the students, the faculty and the administration, according to his speech at the Election Assembly.

Basta wants to push the professor evaluation program that was brought up before Senate last semester, but which was never instituted. Basta has been working with the Academic Standards Committee to attempt to get the proposed program under way.

Basta, who is 20-years-old, would like to see more communication between the administration and students. He wants to see more communication concerning tuition and dorm policy. The students should know why certain rules are in effect, according to Basta.

Students should be more involved with University expansion and improvement, according to Basta. Student ideas, in turn, should be conveyed to the administration concerning the Student Union, dorms, the library, student parking and so on.

Basta feels there should be a better communication between the faculty, administration and students.

OVERALL REVAMP

If elected Basta would institute an over-all revamping of the annual leadership conference held every June right after finals. Basta says he would make the conference more effective. He would also move the event to sometime in September in the week before school resumes or the first week

Senate Denies Aid To Student Parking

By Sue Blakley
Staff Writer

The parking problem at the University will receive no help from ASUN Senate.

A proposal to build a repay parking facility with student funds was defeated in Wednesday's Senate meeting.

A committee, headed by Gary Silverman, had requested information about parking facilities from other colleges and universities.

Silverman reported that parking facilities on other campuses had been financed by the state.

It is unlikely, said Silverman, that University of Nevada could build a student-financed parking garage.

In other action, the senate voted to continue studies on the Academic Standards program, and tabled suggested rally committee by-laws.

Senate heard recent Publications Board decisions.

Positions on campus publications are to be decided.

The nominations for editors and business managers of campus publications are:

Business Manager — Bob Corkern

Artemisia: Editor — Alice Cate, Judy Crowell, Molly Jacobs

Record 1003 Voters Turn Out For Primary Elections

A record 1003 voters turned out at the ASUN primary elections Wednesday.

The school record eclipsed the previous high of 871 by 132.

In the race for Junior Men's Senator, Sigma Nu Riley Beckett will oppose SAE Dave Diedrichsen. Beckett grabbed 300 votes to 297 for Diedrichsen.

The voter turnout eliminated ATO Ernie Maupin and Theta Chi Jim Emerson. Maupin was third with 266 votes to Emerson's 112.

Sigma Nu Jim Reynolds with 105 votes and Lambda Chi Al Levesque with 73, were eliminated from the sophomore race.

GOOD TURNOUT

Bernie Anderson, election board chairman, said the student turnout was, "one of the finest we have seen," and added the board expected more voters to take part in the general election next Wednesday, March 23.

Student voters will pick seven candidates for the position of Arts and Science Senator, said Anderson.

Results show Jackie Ziegler leading all hopefuls with 212 votes. She is followed by Ed Horgan, 208; Bill Maupin, 202; Gary Silverman, 192; Lew Carnaharn, 174; Sara Anderson, 173; Dave Firestone, 170; Aryth Felesina, 157; Rich Oliver, 146; Marshall Lewis, 144; Kent Robison, 142; Marie Samon, 101; and Jim Crane, 95. aren Hungerford was eliminated with 89 votes.

Crane will automatically be the one of the senators as he is the only independent running for the position. ASUN constitutional laws state one independent must run for a seat in every college.

The law will be questioned by Nevada students next Wednesday as a proposed amendment, if passed, will do away with the independent requirement. (See Sagebrush editorial.)

Six positions will remain open for the ASUN Senate seat.

The top race in next Wednesday's general election will be for the post of ASUN president. Vying for the position is Bob Basta, ATO, and SAE Dave Russell.

Sheila Dwyer, a member of Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta Anne Marie Lesperance, will contend for the second vice-president's office.

Daryl Drake is unopposed for the office of first vice-president.

University of Nevada coeds will elect either KAT Marvis Cooper or PBP Ginny Gilbert for the office of AWS president. Anne Marie Havrilla is unopposed for the AWS vice-presidency.

The women's senator-at-large post will be vied for by hopefuls Delta Delta Delta's Pat Tullis and KAT Jan Strohsneider.

ATO Danny Anderson will oppose SN Ron Bath for the Senior class presidency.

SAE Jeff Reeves and LCA Jeff Lewis vie for the Junior Class Presidency.

SENATE

Three business senator seats are open with Mac Potter, Jud Clark, Mike Pollard, and Satch Carlson.

Robert Trimble, Mardelle Rowe, Art Racker, Pam Lee, Nancy Bacon, and Claire Wagner oppose each other for the three open College of Education senate seats.

Dick Harris and Cathy Cobeaga are unopposed for the Mackay School of Mines seat and the College of Nursing post.

Betty Murphy and Ron Shane vie for the single Agriculture seat.

Engineering's two senate posts will be filled by Tom Lambert and Tom Stephens.

Students wishing to vote in the general election next Wednesday must present their student identification cards. If a change has been made it should be cleared by the registrar's office before coming to vote.

Backward Constitutional Law Gives Seats To Independents

Wednesday's general election will offer University of Nevada students an opportunity to rid the ASUN constitution of ridiculous, backward material.

Initiative and incentive must be an important part of any election. A candidate surely must desire and work for the position he seeks.

The present ASUN constitution states that the "first Representatives from the colleges having more than one seat is to be unaffiliated."

In other words, if an Independent fails to register for such a college seat, the election board must go out and find an interested party. If no one is available, the election may be null and void. And if only one Independent runs then he is automatically elected, as is the case with Jim Crane, running for the senate seat from the College of Arts and Science.

Although Crane received the second lowest number of votes in the primaries, he has already been elected and doesn't have to worry about any campaigning in the general election. Crane is classified as unaffiliated.

Constitutional Amendment No. 3 would do away with this restriction.

Senators agree it should be done away with. The students will have to do the rest. If passed, the new law would read: "... the first Representative from the colleges having more than one seat is to be unaffiliated only if an unaffiliated student files for said office. ..."

Vote YES in favor of Amendment No. 3 to the ASUN Constitution at next Wednesday's election.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"—AND HE WAS CAPTAIN OF THE DEBATE TEAM."

Quorum Plus One

By MARILYN JONES

Observing, but unobserved, he stood on the grass. His authoritative hands were firmly clasped under his flapping coattails and his proud chin was lifted to the occasion. His teeth tingled melodically as the raging wind ripped through his smile. Blinking through the wind, he observed—he approved.

The light was fading, but only his coattails moved. Wind rippled through his eyelashes and over his wrinkled dimples, and the whiteness of his teeth faded with the light.

Still he observed the silent silhouettes blending into the dark, blowing through the grass, moving with the raging wind. He observed the fading forms as the wind lifted shadowed arms and let them fall on alien objects. His proud chin raised without moving as the message was delivered by the wind. The message was a faint, trouble-like tapping, and he understood the code.

He needed no interpreter. He accepted it with no questions—he already had the answers. He heard the answers in the tapping and he read the answers on the alien objects. But the objects were not really alien because he understood them, and he accepted their message.

The wind brushed the clouds away from the moon and the alien objects were signs. He observed, and he approved. The signs were the objects and he understood. He understood, too, the frail line that distinguished signs of the good from signs of the evil.

The signs of the good are pounded into the grass, their messages pounded into the brain by the code of consistency. The tapping does not stop with the shadowed arms. The signs of the good are mirrors—there are no reflections.

The signs of the bad do not violate tradition. Rather, they are carried, and their messages are carried above the minds. To look up would demand reflections—the mirrors would shatter with questions.

Just as God sanctified the works of the disciples, so he sanctified the works of his faithful lambs. With definite, positive nods, his dimples echoing approval, he blessed the messages. His ceremony was finished—there was no communion. Unwrapping his folded Hands, He faded, satisfied, back into the shadows of Clark Administration. He had observed—He had approved.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Great Educator

March 4, 1966

Sagebrush Editor
University of Nevada
Dear Sir,

Have you ever had the privilege of meeting a man whom you could a truly great educator? You have sir, if you are fortunate enough to know Professor John Gottardi. You are indeed lucky if you know Professor Gottardi not as a mere acquaintance, but as a true friend and a concerned counselor. I graduated from the University of Nevada in 1929, and during my four years of study I took courses from the professor. As time passed this professor became a friend and a trusted advisor to whom I felt I could turn to for counsel. Professor Gottardi has been an instructor, friend, and counselor to thousands of students like myself. And yet — have we really given this man the honor and recognition he so rightly deserves? "John", as he affectionately is called, has served the University of Nevada as the head of the Language Department for many hard and trying years. He is an outstanding man in his field with a world wide reputation. He has been decorated by foreign countries for his knowledge of their language and has been offered many positions, few of which he has made known. Despite all this, he has continued his work at the University of Nevada, because as he puts it—"He loves Nevada" and it is indeed our good fortune that he does.

Truly Professor Gottardi should have been a Rotarian because he is one person whose whole life has exemplified the Rotarian motto of "SERVICE ABOVE SELF."

Professor Gottardi is retiring from his forty-seven years of service at the University of Nevada at the end of this school term. He is the oldest living professor at the University and certainly one of the most devoted. I sincerely think all University of Nevada graduates, present students, the Board of Regents, and the University as a whole, should stand up and give him the recognition and honor he has so unselfishly earned during the past forty-seven years and salute him for being the great educator that he is. As we all join-in in wishing him well in the future, after his retirement, let us each and everyone say without hesitation: Well done thou good and faithful servant and may the best of everything be yours.

Yours truly,
Robert E. Adams

Independents Hungry, Secure; Not Apathetic

Assistant Editor Young:

I do not need to associate myself with Greek letters in order to give myself identity, nor do I belong to any Greek letter organization in order to satisfy the need for security, as does a newly-weaned puppy.

For these reasons I, and others like me, have been labeled "independent". There is another type of "independent" (my quotes). He is the character who fell below a certain grade point average and thus was stripped of his Greek letter identity. It is this same fellow who is responsible for the ugly grade point average that fraternities so quickly point out when citing the GPA of various living groups.

Rather than try to impress people with the so-called outstanding grade point average of Greeks, why not compare the percentage of Greeks and independents who are in the following categories?

1) those that carry over 16 credit hours,

2) those that carry (let alone major in) courses requiring time and effort while challenging the student to the extent that courses in science and engineering do,

3) those who hold jobs for support,

4) those who have a wife and possibly children to support,

5) those who are upper classmen.

The point I am making is that Greeks live for day-to-day recognition by the "crowd" and have little concern for anything other than the social whirl; whereas the independent lives in the real world requires foresight, planning and working or goals and/or those for whom he is responsible.

When a person concerns himself more with his wife or the job that provides him food and rent or the courses that move a goal nearer to reality than with an insignificant senate election, then he is by no means apathetic. On the contrary, it is this type of person (the independent by choice) who molds the world in which you daily put on your face and claim that it is we who are apathetic.

Sincerely yours,
John Chadwick

Chairman Explains Scheduled Symposium

Editor, The Sagebrush:

An open letter to all members of the U of N community:

On Monday, March 21, at nine o'clock in the morning, Chancellor N. Edd Miller will convene the "Chancellor's Symposium." At that time, some one hundred or more individuals will meet in the Jot Travis Student Union; they will hear the Chancellor speak, then break up into seven assigned discussion groups and begin talking. The purpose of this letter is to explain what we hope to accomplish by their meeting and talking in this manner.

Chancellor Miller is a very intelligent administrator who is dedicated to making the University of Nevada into one of the finest institutions on this coast. He wants to know what problems the campus suffers from and what solutions the people on this campus may have to offer. To this end, he set the machinery in motion to create the "Chancellor's Symposium."

In discussions we decided to invite key persons — students, faculty, and administrators — who have shown themselves in the past to be vitally interested in the future on the University. These people will serve two basic functions: first, they will act as critics, pointing out what they feel to be definite and serious problems and proposing their solutions; second, they will interact with each other and the students who come in with questions, so that the secretaries who will be recording the proceedings will be able to give us the people's complete view of a subject. Moderators under the leadership of Mr. Hines of the Speech Department will serve to maintain a semblance of order in the discussions. The discussions will run until five o'clock or until the members of a given panel decide they have exhausted their subjects. At that time, the secretaries will turn their notes plus whatever written material the members of a panel have seen fit to contribute over to me and my committee. We will then set about compiling a report of the proceedings for the Chancellor, who will read the material and then decide what action can or should be taken. This alone is worth quite a lot.

There will be seven topics for discussion, all interesting and inclusive enough so that almost any particular subject even remotely related to the University of Nevada can be brought up within their bounds. These are:

1. Student-Faculty Relations — to discuss such matters as grading, attendance, the right to criticize, etc.
2. Student-Administration Problems — open to questions on the administration's power and duty to control student actions, dorm hours, compulsory R.O.T.C., student demonstrations, the problem of "special" students, drop-add, etc.
3. Responsibility for Intellectual Reputation of U of N — would deal with the intellectual reputation of the U, the matter of academic freedom, quality of students and teachers, etc.

4. Facility Problems — would provide a forum for debate on such matters as the library, the dining hall, parking, the Master Plan, the bookstore, classroom space, etc.

5. The U of N in the State — to consider the ability to express controversial views in a conservative state, the legislative attitude toward the U, the purposes of a liberal education in an agrarian and service economy, etc.

6. Student Functions — to discuss student government, publications, social functions, attitudes, etc.

7. Fact vs. Concept in Education — deal with the problems of a university education as preparation for a job or for intellectual contribution, the "specialist" vs. the "well-rounded man", etc.

These topics should indicate that we consider no problem too sacred to be talked about. Neither have we avoided asking any particular person to speak for any reason; we may have overlooked important individuals, and I now apologize for that. If any person feels he has something definite to say on any one of these topics, he can notify me at Extensions 277 and 278. I would be very happy to hear from them.

Finally, I would like to answer those critics who have told me that there is no use in participating in this function because nothing will come of it (and this also applies to those seniors who say, "What the heck, I'll be graduating. Why bother?") To them I want to say this: I consider this to be one of the most exciting events ever to happen on this campus. The very nature of the man who is responsible for this event, Chancellor Miller, makes it potentially the most important occurrence of the year. I strongly urge everyone to participate.

Yours at length,
Lance L. Sparks

Survey Shows Inadequate Post-High School Education

By Lee Harlan

The state of Nevada has not been providing adequate post-high school educational opportunities for its young graduates, according to the results of a survey conducted by the technical education department of the University of Nevada General University Extension division.

Until two years ago, the only advanced educational opportunities available to the high school graduate were to attend the University for the bachelors degree, or to leave the state in search of additional schooling.

There was little vocational training available, and no technical education, summed up Prof. Harry J. Wolf, director of the technical education department.

Last year, the University began a two-year associate degree program, on a limited basis, to provide an area of study for the student who did not wish to complete a four year program of study.

Three courses, electronic technology, drafting technology and X-ray technology, were the initial offerings of the program. Two year courses in agriculture and secretarial science have been added, and six more courses are planned when space and funds become available, according to Professor Wolf.

PERMANENT HOME

The application submitted by University president, Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, for the acquisition of Stead Air Force Base, states: "The acquisition of the Stead base would provide a permanent home for our two-year University programs.

"These programs are presently housed in Reno campus facilities, and are causing a severe strain on the facilities and space on the campus.

"The space problem is so acute, that even though several programs are planned and are ready to start, they cannot be started until space is made available."

The survey indicated that nearly 80 per cent of the 5,000 persons interviewed felt that the courses offered in high school were not providing sufficient training for the graduate to find immediate employment.

The high school courses, they said, were designed only for the student who was planning on going on to a full four-year college or university.

University administrators have spent seven years in planning the technical education program. New courses had to be developed, and instruction had to be coordinated with the various colleges and departments already teaching in the respective fields.

Industrial requirements were included in their planning, and the Engineering Council of Professional Development, the accrediting agency for two-year technical schools, set the guidelines for the curriculum.

SEVERAL ENROLLED

There are now 219 students enrolled in the courses, and eight full-time instructors and as many part-time teachers at the Reno campus.

Nevada Southern University at Las Vegas also offers the associate degree program to meet student requirements in the Clark County area.

If Stead were to become available to the University, the enrollment in the technical education programs is expected to double in the first year of operation, according to Professor Wolf.

Considering the possible future demand on such a school, he said it would not be improbable for the school to grow in proportion to the enrollment of the University.

The department is now exploring the possibility of establishing extensions of the school in several outlying communities of the state to meet regional requirements.

Wolf said that one-year programs could be established in these communities that would provide preliminary education in the technical fields. Basic courses, such as English, would be designed so that the student could either apply them to completion of the two-year degree at one of the campuses, or transfer them towards their bachelors degree.

COURSES TRANSFERABLE

Under the present system, University courses may be transferred to the technical program, but technical courses cannot be credited by the University.

Courses in electronics and drafting would be used as a pilot and research project for the state plan, Professor Wolf said.

Elko and Winnemucca have expressed interest in the program, and several other cities are considering the project.

Fees for the technical courses are the same as those for the University. Resident students registered for seven or more credits pay a consolidated fee of $130.50 per semester. Students taking six or fewer credits pay $15.00 per credit hour, and non-resident students pay a consolidated fee of $430.50.

The ability of the Stead complex to accommodate many different educational programs, as well as an industrial park proposed by the city of Reno application, will create an area of inter-relationship that will complement each individual program, states Dr. James T. Anderson, dean of the College of Engineering and chairman of the University study committee in Stead.

"In addition to the obvious educational needs, a technical institute at Stead Air Force Base complements and reinforces the industrial park area, which would provide nearby training grounds and eventual employment for some of the students.

"It also complements the vocational education area (proposed by the State Department of Education) in that facilities in both areas, including lecture halls, laboratory facilities, and programs of instruction may be co-operatively employed," Dr. Anderson explained.

Research facilities to be established at the air base could also be exploited by the technical program, and the physical education program planned for the base would add that portion of the curriculum, Dean Anderson said.

Delays in construction requested by the University board of regents has given emphasis to the importance of the projects slated at Stead.

The technical education programs are now housed in temporary classroom facilities made available by the co-operating colleges. Many of these University classrooms are already scheduled for regular college usage in the near future, and the technical courses will have to be shifted to other space.

Without Stead, indications are that the technical education department could become a transient school on the University campus.

Press Club Honors Students At Lunch

Five University journalism students will be honored in a Press Club luncheon today at the Riverside Hotel. The students are Kay Maxwell, sophomore; Hampton Young, sophomore; Joe Helgeson, freshman; Lee Winne, senior; and Bob Alward, graduate student.

The students received scholarships for the current year from the Reno Press Club. They will be introduced at the luncheon by A. L. Higginbotham, chairman of the journalism department.

The money for the scholarships was raised by the Press Club in their annual "Sheepdip" dinner.

Grant Renewal Received By Chemistry Dept.

A $3,500 grant renewal has been received by the chemistry department from the National Science Foundation for support of independent research by undergraduate chemistry majors.

The grant will provide opportunities for two students during the coming summer and one student during the 1966-67 academic year to gain experience through research.

The grant will pay each student a stipend of $600 as well as provide any special supplies and equipment that may be needed.

The purpose of this program is to give a few outstanding undergraduates a chance for experience through research before graduation. Students taking part in the program for the summer will be allowed to work full-time for ten weeks on any one of a wide variety of new and novel research ideas suggested by professors in the department.

Students interested in taking part in this program should contact Dr. David MacDonald, Room 315 of Mackay Science for further information.

Sagens To Select New Membership

Sagens will soon select new members for the coming school year, according to Sagens President Susy Natucci. All girls interested may pick up application forms in the Dean of Women's Office.

Requirements for Sagens include a 2.5 overall grade point average and Junior or Senior standing by next Semester.

Application forms must be returned to the Dean of Women's Office or to a member of Sagens by March 28.

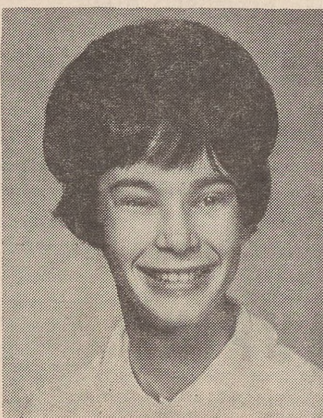

New members will be tapped before the completion of this semester.

Summer Job Opportunities Offered In National Forests

An opportunity to combine travel and education is offered to 100 men and women aged 19 through 23. The place is Puerto Rico and the opportunity is the Encampment for Citizenship. From June 26 to August 6, the campers will study the culture and language of Puerto Rico.

The Encampment for Citizenship is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-partisan organization founded in 1946 to help develop citizenship in young Americans.

The encampment in Puerto Rico held at Cavey, 35 miles from San Juan, is an educational program concerned with achievements and problems of social-economic development in Puerto Rico and in Latin America generally. A former Peace Corps Volunteer teacher of English in Latin America, together with a Latin American teacher, will spend the camper's free time each day improving the Latin American campers' English and the North Americans' Spanish.

Visits to social-economic projects and cultural events will be included in the encampment. There will also be an opportunity for part-time community service in a Puerto Rican village.

There is another Encampment for Citizenship for those 19 through 23 years of age at Washington, D. C. from June 19 to July 30. The educational program there is concerned with U. S. national politics and foreign policy.

The program includes visits to offices and homes of leaders of both major parties, to embassies, to improvement programs in slum areas, and to Peace Corps, VISTA, anti-poverty and civil rights agency headquarters.

The Encampment also sponsors two centers for education in democracy for those 15 through 18 years of age in New York City and Eastern Kentucky.

The cost of both the Washington, D. C. and the Puerto Rico encampments is $450 for board, room and tuition for six weeks. Scholarship aid is available to those who need it most, but all campers must pay for their own transportation to and from Puerto Rico.

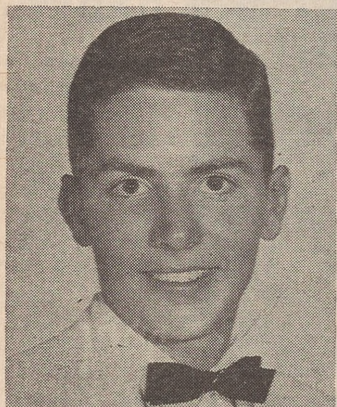

Further information about any of the Encampment programs may be obtained from the Foreign Language Department or by writing The Encampment for Citizenship, Inc., 2 West 64th Street, New York City 10023.

Fifty Bands From Five States Here For Stage Band Festival

A total of fifty bands from five states will participate in the two-day festival beginning today continuing through Saturday evening, stated Dr. John L. Carrico. Bands from junior high through college level will perform in 20 minute concerts.

The public is invited to the concerts. Tickets are on sale at the University Bands Office on campus and at the box office on the performance days.

Climaxing the festival will be the appearance of Jack Sheldon, Hollywood trumpeter-singer-actor-star of the new CBS-TV series, "Run, Buddy, Run." An original composition and arrangement by Raoul Romero, Las Vegas composer-arranger, will highlight the festival.

High school musicians will compete for honors at the festival, being judged by a panel that includes Al Bell, Orville Fleming, Dr. Roscoe Booth.

Two trophies are being provided by the University of Nevada Alumni Association through the courtesy of the Executive Committees which is headed by William C. Thornton, alumni president. Selmer, Inc., will give the "Benny Goodman" stage band award.

Grades Subject Of Department Study

A study conducted recently by the secondary education department found that student teachers score highest in their major fields of interest, and lowest in their professional education courses.

During the fall semester, the mean grade point average among the 36 applications received was 2.75 in their major field, 2.65 in their minor field and 2.60 in their professional education courses. It was slightly higher in the spring semester, with a 3.1 in their major field, a 2.74 in their minor field and a 2.57 in their professional education courses.

Professional courses include methods of teaching, social backgrounds, psychology of adolescents, counseling and guidance, and supervised teaching.

Humor Magazine May Soon Run With Sagebrush

A campus humor magazine named Humbug may soon share the university newsstands with the Sagebrush. Publications Board approved a trial run for the magazine. Humbug will appear twice a month in the Sagebrush for the remainder of the semester.

The first nominations for editorships of the campus publications were made at the recent meeting. The race for Sagebrush editor is thus far a two-man affair with Gregg Zive and Hampton Young vying for the post. Bob Corkern was nominated for Business Manager of the Sagebrush.

Alice Cate, Molly Jacobs and Judy Crowell were nominated to head the yearbook, Artemisia, next year. The sole candidate thus far for Business Manager is Carol English.

Running for the editor's position on the Forum staff are Jan Webb and Gordon Carlson. Bill McLaughlin was nominated for business manager.

The nominations will remain open until Monday, March 28 at 4 p.m. The Publications Board will elect next years editors and business managers the following day.

Famous Writer Van Tilberg Clark Edits $55,000 Dairies

Author and Writer in Residence Walter Van Tilberg Clark is editing $55,000 worth of dairies and personal papers of early Virginia City newspaperman Alfred Doten.

Clark estimates that there are more than three million words in the "Doten papers" and he will cut them down to about one and a half million or about two volumes. When he is finished the Universities of Nevada and California will publish the edited version as a co-venture. The papers will be available in transcript form at the University of Nevada for research when Clark has completed his task.

Doten was the decedent of two families who were signers of the Mayflower Compact. He came west in the mid 1800's and worked as a rancher, miner, and newspaperman.

"Alf," as Clark refers to him, was the editor of the Gold Hill News during the boom days of The Comstock.

U of N Chemistry Department Gets Foundation Grant

The chemistry department of the University of Nevada has received a renewal of a grant from the National Science Foundation for support of independent research by undergraduate chemistry majors.

The $3,500 grant will provide opportunities for two students during the coming summer and one student during the 1966-67 academic year to gain experience through their own research work.

The purpose of this program is to give a few outstanding undergraduates a chance for experience through research.

Students taking part in the 1966 summer program will be allowed to work full-time for ten weeks on any one of a wide variety of new and novel research ideas suggested by professors in the department.

The grant will pay each student a stipend of $600 as well as providing any special supplies and equipment that may be needed.

Students interested in taking part in this program should contact Dr. David MacDonald, room 315 of Mackay Science for further information.

GOLD HILL NEWS

The Gold Hill News is considered by many to be the second best paper in early Nevada, after the Territorial Enterprise.

"Alf" was one of an exclusive group of early journalists in the west which included men like Mark Twain, Dan DeQuille, and Joseph Goodman. All were associated with many of the western papers during their careers.

In the edited version of the Doten dairies Clark hopes to maintain the continuity of the way of life in an old mining camp. He also wants to include as many personal items about the people of the camps as possible.

Clark read the dairies several times before he began the editing job. He has finished editing about half of the dairies and has gone through about three fourths of the related papers.

The dairies were written in pencil and are more than one hundred years old. Clark said they are in perfect condition.

NEVADA PURCHASES

The University of Nevada bought the Doten dairies, related papers, and a great many pictures from a San Francisco publisher. Some of the pictures are familiar to many people but others have never been released to the public.

Clark is widely known for his novel "The Ox-bow Incident", which was made into a movie. Clark teaches classes at the University and during the summer takes part in the University's Summer English Institute for school teachers.

Clark earned his B.A. degree at Nevada in 1931. He also holds two masters degrees and a Doctorate of Literature from Colgate University.

He has published several novels and plans to begin work on another this fall.

"The Doten papers will provide a great wealth of background material for future stories, but I have no plans to use them especially for a story," said Clark.

Nevada Receives Fund Increases For Work Study

Under terms of the Higher Education Act of 1965, W. E. Rasmussen, Director of Financial Aid, states the University of Nevada received notification recently of an increase in the funding of its Work-Study Program.

An additional $25,339 has been allocated by the U. S. Office of Education to the previously approved Spring Semester grant of $59,389 for use on both campuses of the University from now through June 30, 1966. Approximately thirty percent of the $25,339 will be used at the Nevada Southern University campus in Las Vegas.

These supplementary funds are intended to provide new work-study opportunities on both campuses for a number of needy students who could not previously qualify under the rather rigid Federal regulations. The new Higher Education Act does provide, if funds permit, that work-study jobs may now be offered to full-time, regularly enrolled students in good standing who need additional earnings from campus employment in order to stay in college the rest of this semester.

Students who meet the preceding requirements should immediately contact the Director of Financial Aid in Room 104 Clark Administration.

Chief Accountant Hattori Will Be New University Controller

Henry M. Hattori, chief accountant at the University of Nevada since 1961, has been promoted to University Controller, the board of regents announced Saturday.

His new job will involve the accounting of all funds spent by the university.

He will be directly responsible to Neil D. Humphrey, Vice President of Finance.

Hattori, who came to the university in 1956, was manager of the accounting and fiscal department before becoming chief accountant.

Prior to coming to the university, Hattori was a revenue agent for three years with the Internal Revenue Service in Reno.

Before working for IRS he was an accountant with the San Francisco Public School System.

He received his bachelor of business administration degree from Golden Gate College in San Francisco in 1950 and a bachelor of science degree in mathematics from Adams State College, Alamosa, Colorado in 1940.

Hattori's military experience included four years service for the famed 442 Infantry Regiment during World War II. The much decorated American - Japanese regiment took part in many major campaigns in Italy. Hattori left the Army in 1945 as a Staff Sgt.

Nevada Research Emphasized By Conference Representation

The status of the University of Nevada as a growing research center in the West has been emphasized by representation at three recent national and regional research conferences. Two additional regional conferences are meeting on the campus this week.

Dr. Dale W. Bohmont, dean of the Fleischmann College of Agriculture, represented the University:

—Bohmont was chairman of the Western Experiment Station Directors, which met with representatives of ten other Western states at the University of Arizona. As the only university representative of the 12 member Research Development and Evaluation Staff, an advisory group to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, he attended a meeting at Kansas State University.

—He in his capacity of administrative advisor for the Western Directors, met with the Western Home Economics Research Association in San Francisco. Dr. Marilyn J. Horn, associate director of home economics, was the University of Nevada representative.

The Nevada Annual Pest Control Conference, representing state and industrial interests, met Tuesday on the use of insecticides and pest control methods.

Wednesday, the Western Weed Conference met with members of government, industry and the University participating.

Each of these conferences stress the importance of cooperation in research, said Dr. Bohmont.

At the Western Directors meeting, methods of combining individual school efforts in research for the purpose of saving time and money, and avoiding duplication in effort, were discussed.

"Instead of Nevada having to work on all phases of a particular project of common interest, each state would work on the various problems concerning their particular area," said Dr. Bohmont.

The Directors proposed the exchange of materials and study findings among the eleven schools in the Western region, and joint use of laboratory facilities at the various schools.

According to the Dean's records, there are now 67 research programs under study that could be facilitated by this cooperative approach.

The University's Agricultural Information Office has recently announced plans to enter into a similar arrangement for joint publication of information with several other Western colleges.

Nevada WRA Group Heads Tri-State Organization Meet

The Nevada Women's Recreational Association has been elected President School of a tri-state organization of 68 colleges and universities. The University of Nevada WRA, which is the only one in Nevada, was elected at the yearly conference held March 11-13 at Aslomar Satte Park, near Monterey, California.

About 450 delegates from schools in California, Arizona, and Nevada attended the three-day conference. Eleven representatives from Nevada attended.

As president school of the Pacific Southwestern Regional Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women, WRA will be in charge of the annual meeting in 1968. Until that time, the local organization will take over the newsletter and attend all committee meetings of the Federation.

Patricia Miltenberger, president of Nevada's WRA, says that observation is necessary for the next year because of the two-year range of the annual conference. During this time, the president school will be arranging for speakers for the 1968 meet and will evaluate the 1967 conference program.

Last weekend's conference was "Focus on Leisure." The Nevada group joined in discussions on subjects such as finances, cultural acceptance of recreation and the role that recreation plays in mental and physical rehabilitation.

The University of Nevada also served as the conference's Ways and Means committee. Elfrena Sewell was in charge of the committees report.

WRA board members attending the conference were: Patricia Miltenberger of Manzanita Hall, president; Elfrena Sewell of Kappa Alpha Theta, past president; and Carla Rost of Juniper Hall, secretary.

Off-campus representatives were Karen Yamamoto, Sharon Smith, Carol Mardero, and Francis Spikes. Kitty Foote represented Kappa Alpha Theta and Sherri Wiley was Delta Delta Delta representative.

Other representatives were Pam Dayton, Phi Beta Pi and Kathy Leonard, Juniper Hall.

SAE's Ready For Old Irish Wake And Dance Tomorrow

Paddy Murphy is dead. He had returned to the University of Nevada for the first time in almost fifty years and he will not come back.

Paddy Murphy came to this country from his native Ireland and worked in the copper mines of northern Nevada. He made a rich strike and retired from mining to travel and pursue many philanthropic projects.

Paddy Murphy's story was related by SAE John Glenn. Glenn said that during Paddy's travels he met William C. Levere, a prominent alumnus of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The two became fast friends. Through Levere, Paddy Murphy became interested in the fraternity system, and he began making contributions to SAE. As a result of his friendship with Levere and his contributions to the fraternity he was initiated into SAE. In 1917 he helped establish the Nevada Alpha Chapter of the fraternity.

For the past week he has been staying at the SAE house. On Tuesday Paddy Murphy fell ill. As the week progressed his condition worsened, and today, Friday, he died.

Anyone wishing to send flowers or condolences should forward them to the SAE house. Services will be held Saturday afternoon. The coffin will be carried to all living groups where the men will pick up their dates. The funeral procession will then proceed to the Chapter house for an Irish wake in honor of the deceased member of SAE.

The Sagebrush also had learned that Mr. Murphy may have been a figment of Mr. Glenn's imagination and that Mr. Murphy's death may be a mere excuse to hold an Irish wake.

Nurseryman Says Nevada's Grass Problem Worse

If University students continue to walk on the grass the campus will soon look terrible, said Herbert Preuss, university nurseryman. Walking on the lawn compresses the soil and kills the grass.

The answer is for an upper-class committee to impose some sort of fine, said Preuss. The problem gets worse every year and now even the faculty walks across the lawn.

Almost every corner of the campus has been trampled. Some of it will not grow back. Even if the university had enough men to keep replanting the grass it would not do any good, because the students do not seem to care how the campus looks, he said.

Preuss said if people keep walking on the Quad, "cow-paths" will be worn into the lawn.

"It isn't too bad yet but I don't think they will stop unless there is a penalty to make them stop," said Preuss.

Golfers To Face Chico Today In First Home Competition

by Gregg Zive
Sports Editor

The young University of Nevada golf team will play its first home Far Western Conference match today when it meets Chico State on the Hidden Valley Country Club course at 1 p.m.

The golfers opened their season last week when they met San Francisco State and the University of California at Berkeley. S. F. State defeated the Pack 19½-1½ in San Francisco. Cal came to Reno and whipped the Nevada golf squad, 19½-6½.

Competing in last weeks competition were Ernie Maupin, Gary Brafford, Jeff McEachron, Lance Hanson, and Fran Menante. Maupin shot the low score of the week for the Pack with a 75 against Cal.

All members of the team except the two with the lowest score in the previous match must qualify each week to play in the coming match.

Other top men on the coach Jack Spencer's team who did not compete last week are Ian Kelly, Larry Swecker, and Mike Myers.

This is a young squad as all but Menante, a junior, and Swecker, a senior, are either sophomores or freshmen. Maupin and Hanson are sophomores and Brafford, McEachron, Kelly, and Meyers are freshmen.

Spencer is expecting his green team to improve considerably as the season progresses.

All home matches will be played at Hidden Valley and will start at 1 p.m.

Mathisen Leads Batting Averages

Statistics released after the first five baseball games show Rod Mathisen leading the Nevada club at the plate with 412 average. Mathisen has seven hits in seventeen trips to the plate. Mike Sala follows Mathisen in batting average percentage with 375.

Bill Gillham has paced the Pack thus far with the big bat. He has accounted for five runs batted in. Gillham has had a double and also pounded out the Pack's only home run this season.

Others who have hit for extra base hits include Steve Small and Earl Nursement who have hit double. Owen Toy, Mathisen and Nursement have hit triples.

Mathisen, the former Manogue High School athlete, also leads the Pack in one other department, stolen bases. Mathisen has stolen four bases in five games.

Debaters Qualify For Championship At West Point

Kenneth Muller and Stanley Smart, University of Nevada debate team, are competing in the National West Point Championship Eliminations this weekend in San Francisco.

They will compete with the top 16 teams from four western states. The four top teams to come out of the qualifiers will enter the championships at the West Point Academy later in the semester.

Track Squad To Face Tough Competition At Meet Sat.

Nevada will compete with two of the toughest track teams on the West Coast and the nation tomorrow when they met the University of California and San Jose State at Berkeley.

Wolf Pack mentor Dick Dankworth said that there would be a number of world-class stars at the meet.

San Jose will have Tommy Smith who Dankworth rates as potentially one of the greatest sprinters in the United States and Ed Johnson and Gene Zubrinski entered in the high jump. Johnson has gone seven feet and Zubrinski has cleared 6-10.

Forrest Beatty will lead an impressive running squad from Cal. Last Saturday Beatty ran the 440 in 46.9 and the 220 in 21.2. Bob Price ran the two-mile in nine minutes and Mike Schafer ran the 880 in 152.7.

Going against such impressive competition will be Otis Burrell in the high jump and the hurdles, George Puce in the shot put and discus competition, Dave Taylor and Al Lansdon will pole vault, and distance runners Mark Wynne, Terry Forbyn, Don McCarthy, Steve Valle, Ron Lee, and Rich Brown.

Dankworth expects the competition "to be tough but good for the team. I feel it is good because we have enough good men to compete with the large schools

"I think we will score some points against them."

A big factor in tomorrow's meet will be Nevada's main point man of last year, Houston Williamson. Dankworth explained, "He's slow coming around. He was slow last year, too. But he was outstanding last year in the sprints and jumps."

Williamson ran a 9.6 hundred and broad-jumped 24.4 feet last year. He runs on both relay teams as well. This year he has not triple-jumped but has competed in the 220 to build up his speed.

General Electric is passing out GENIUS buttons. What's the point?

We want to spread the word that there's room at General Electric for talented people who want to take on big challenges.

We like to call these people GENIUSES. But what they're called isn't so important as where they're headed. And at the General Electric Company, there's plenty of room for GENIUSES, no matter what their particular field of interest. If you want to be recognized for your talents come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.

And be among the first on your campus to own a genuine GENIUS button. It will serve as a reminder that G.E. . . . and GENIUS . . . and important challenges . . . all go together.

Wolf Pack, San Jose Spartans Slated For Afternoon Battle

Coach Bill Ireland's University of Nevada baseball team will be out to better its 2-3 record when it meets the Spartans of San Jose State this afternoon. The Wolf Pack will meet the perennial champs of the West Coast Athletic Conference at 1 p.m. at Moana Stadium. There will be two seven inning ball games.

Fred Dallimore and Carl Bossieux have been slated as the tentative starters by coach Ireland. The two former Reno High School pitchers have received the nod from Ireland due to their performances to date. Dallimore threw a brilliant two hitter in the Pack's opening game against Sacramento and Bossieux had a near no-hitter last weekend against University of Pacific. Both boys have been hampered with back trouble, and may be forced to the sidelines.

The remainder of the starting lineup is not definite as coach Ireland is still trying to take a good look at all of his ball players before the conference season starts.

Members of the baseball team will also be in action Saturday in an intersquad game. The intersquad game will be played under full game conditions, with umpires and the "works", according to coach Ireland. Time for the intersquad game will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Moana ball park.

From the End of the Bench

By GREGG ZIVE

THE NEVADA BASEBALL team will play a double-header this afternoon at Moana Stadium. This year's team is basically the same as last years Pacific Coast College Division Champions. It is a team that had the leading hitter in the nation last year as a freshman—Owen Toy. Catcher Steve Kosach also broke the Far Western Conference batting average last year and he is back. Last year's excellent double-play combination of second-baseman Rod Mathison and Bob Gillham shortstop is back. Slugging outfielder Earl Nursement also played on last season's champion team. On the mound again this year are Fred Dallimore and Carl Bossieux. It is a good well-balanced ball club and with coach Bill Ireland at the helm they play an exciting brand of baseball. Go and watch play and see another good Nevada team.

FRED DALLIMORE has pitched for three years for the Wolf Pack. The Reno High graduate is the outstanding lefthander on Bill Ireland's staff and has been a frontline pitcher the past two seasons. Yet few people know that Dallimore has suffered through a serious back ailment for these years. He has pitched on days when most people would stay home and in traction. Ireland says that Dallimore is an outstanding example of a pitcher that comes to win everytime he walks out to the pitcher's mound. The hard-throwing southpaw will probably start one of today's games.

THE TRACK SQUAD will really be tested tomorrow when they compete against Cal. and San Jose State. Both of these schools are stocked with national and even world caliber stars. Of course the Pack will have their own international and national champion Otis Burrell in the high jump and hurdles. At least in track Nevada is meeting the finest competition in the country.

Superintendents, Principals, Counselors Conference Today

The University of Nevada will host the Sixth Annual Conference for Superintendents, Principals, and Counselors in Nevada Schools, today in the Church Fine Arts building.

Included in today's meeting sessions are coffee breaks to give the visiting secondary school representatives an opportunity to discuss mutual interests with the faculty, deans and department chairman representing the University in the conference.

The University will be represented on the program by Dr. N. Edd Miller, Chancellor; Dr. Robert M. Gorrell, chairman of the English department; Dr. Edmund J. Cain, dean of the College of Education; Dr. George E. Sutton, chairman of the mechanical engineering department; Dr. Charles H. Seufferle, associate dean of the College of Agriculture; and William E. Rasmussen, director of financial aids.

A luncheon will be held in the Jot Travis Student Union for the high school representatives with all administrative and academic deans invited to attend.

Nevada Nine Uses Moana Park

When the University of Nevada baseball team plays its home games, it has the use of "one of the finest baseball facilities in Nevada and California," according to baseball officials.

Home park for the Wolf Pack, last year's NCAA District 8 champs, is Moana Stadium, located in Southwest Reno. Moana is also the home park of the Reno Silver Sox, Reno's pro ball club that plays in the California League in the A classification. This year the Reno team will be a farm club of the Cleveland Indians.

Moana Stadium, built in 1961, offers many features for ball players and spectators.

The ball players play on what has been said to be "the finest playing field in the California League" by those who have played in all the league's ball parks. Team members also enjoy the facilities of dressing rooms right at the ball park. In addition, the field is completely fenced which adds to the real "park" feeling.

For the spectator, Moana offers a large grandstand and bleachers, restrooms, concession stands, electric scoreboard and Public Announcement system, as well as ample parking.

The new ball park is very different from the old Moana ball park. The old stands, which served Reno for many years, faced the other way (facing the northwest). In twilight doubleheaders, the batters and the catchers were looking directly into the sun for the first few innings. In addition, winds blew in from the outfield and turned many potential home-run balls in to high, pop flies. Also, the wind blew across the infield and whipped dust into the faces of the spectators and necessitated blankets and heavy coats during most of the season.

The old stands burned to the ground on October 31, 1960. The following year the new concrete and steel structure was built, facing to the northeast.

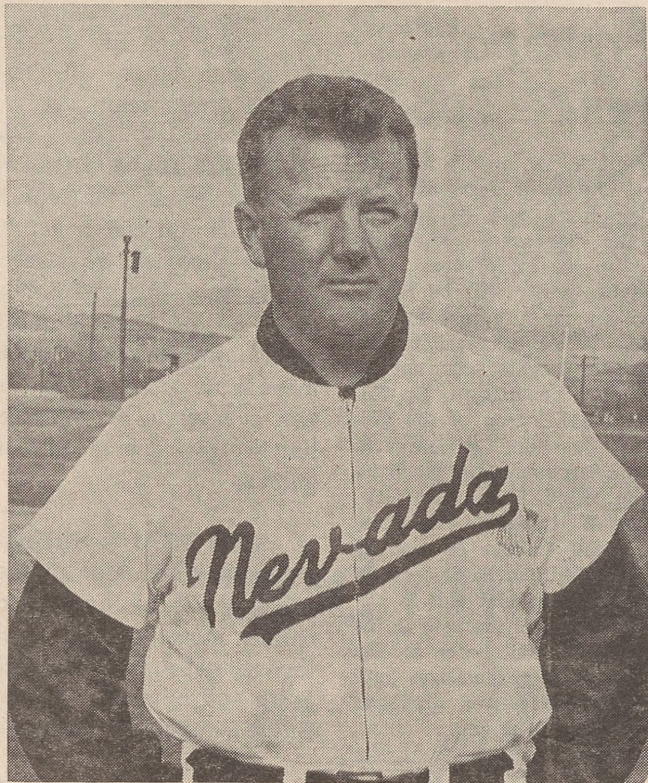

The Moana site itself has long been used as a recreation area. Moana Springs, as it was then called, was used as the training site by Jim Jeffries when he trained for his heavyweight title fight against Jack Johnson on July 4, 1910. At that time a trolley car ran from downtown Reno to Moana, which was then out in the country.

Since that time, the area has been a well-known sports center.

The Silver Sox used the old park as far back as 1947. There are many players now in the major leagues who pounded the base paths of Moana. Such players as Willie Davis, Jim Lefvbre, Vada Pinson, Charlie Smith, Pete Richart, and countless others played in the park at one time or another.

The Graduate Placement Office at the University of Nevada has six summer trainee job opportunities (starting in June) in five national forest areas scattered throughout Utah and Idaho.

The jobs must be filled by April 1, according to W. E. Rasmussen, Director of Placement. Positions are offered by the Forest Service to provide undergraduate students on-the-job experience and training within the U. S. Forest Service. They are limited to students who will have completed their freshman year or higher by June 1, 1966, and who are majoring in Civil Engineering or in areas within Renewable Resources in the College of Agriculture.

The Director of Placement must assign these summer contracts to the six best qualified applicants in the next two weeks. All interested students should contact Mr. Rasmussen in Room 104 Clark Administration.

Student Nurses Hold Joint Meeting To Merge Into State Organization

Four representatives of the Las Vegas chapter of the Student Nurses Association will meet with members of the Reno chapter to merge to form a state organization. The members will meet March 19 at 10 a.m. in the Jot Travis Student Lounge. Ballots that were mailed out for the election of state officers will be tallied and the new officers installed.

The six new officers elected for one year will coordinate functions between the two district groups and between the state and national group. They will be the first officers representing both the Reno and Las Vegas campuses, since the nursing program was just started last September at Nevada Southern.

According to one nursing instructor the function of the Associated Student Nurses Association is to make the nurses "better members in their professional organization after graduation."

'Lost and Found' Display In Union

It shouldn't be hard to find due to the fact that it is probably being displayed right now in the display case in the Student Union.

Numerous items are in the Lost and Found department, including books ranging from "Veterinarian Guide for Farmers" to "notebook on music; 22 pairs of glasses, 20 sets of keys, three pairs of gloves and six singles, and four coin purses.

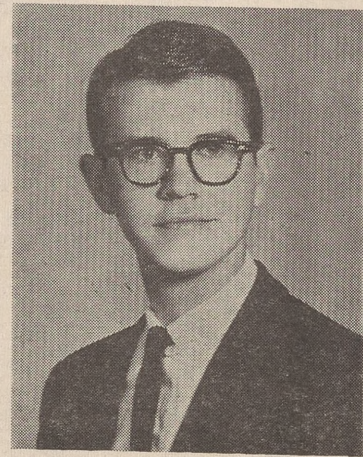

It seems that a great percentage of the 18 books in the collection are those required for the freshman English courses. In addition various small items such as a medalion, which may be the remains of a tragic love affair, and a class card for psychology are in plain view of all who pass. Owners may claim their long lost possessions in room 104 of the TUB.

of college. The exact time would have to be worked out with leaders.

Basta would also revitalize the high school recruitment program. He would like to hit as many northern Nevada schools as possible with the program.

He feels it would be rough to recruit students in the southern half of the state with competition from Nevada Southern University. Basta would gather a panel of four or five persons to speak to high schools.

The panel would consist of specialized students who would speak on one specific subject such as: student participation, social life, fraternities, academics and so on.

Basta is a northern Nevadan himself. He is a native of Reno and was graduated from Reno High School.

While at the University as a pre-med major, Basta has been a member of Blue Key, Coffin and Keys, the Finance Control Board and the Publications Board. He is the Junior Men's Senator-At-Large, was sophomore Class president, and is a member of the Mike Ingersoll Memorial Lectures Foundation Committee. He also served on the 1965 Mackay Day Committee.

DAVE RUSSELL

ingness to use the Cabinet more diligently. The body could assist and advise the president and analyze ASUN affairs.

The high school recruitment program needs improvement, according to Russell. He says the ASUN recruitment program has not been entirely successful in the past. Many students are going to college out of state, according to the presidential candidate.

Russell would like to utilize more University campus leaders and outstanding faculty members for recruitment.

Russell himself went out of state for a year. He transferred to the University at the beginning of his sophomore year.

In the year and a half he's been here he has become a member of Blue Key, was this year's Homecoming Chairman, in addition to serving on the '66 Winter Carnival Committee. He is also on this year's Mackay Day Committee, the Junior Class Committee, and the Mike Ingersoll Memorial Lectures Foundation Committee.

He is a member of the University of Nevada Cadet Officers Club and is vice president of the SAE house.

Russell is a graduate of Carson High School, but went to school for three years in South America before attending at Carson High.

Dave's father, Charles Russell, was governor of Nevada from 1950 to 1958. Dave and his twin brother, Craig, were both named by the Nevada State Legislature.
