

Sagebrush Schedules Mock Election October 12

Student political enthusiasts will get a chance to cast a vote for their favorite state candidates in a Sagebrush mock election scheduled for Oct. 12, in front of the Student Union Building.

The contest will pit democrat against republican, as students ballot for the governor's, lieutenant governor's and congressional races.

It has been emphasized by Sagebrush editor Hampton Young that the mock - balloting is just "for fun" and is not expected to give a true, representative sampling of student political opinion.

"Too many of the students participating will be under the legal voting age, and many may be out-of-staters unfamiliar with campaign issues or the particular qualifications of individual candidates," he said.

In an effort to maintain order if several groups form to campaign, ASUN President Dave Russell has formulated a set of guidelines:

—Any ad hoc committees formed to back candidates must have the approval of the Dean of Students.

—Ad hoc committees must have at least 15 registered members.

—Any speeches made by any of the candidates must be sponsored by a recognized group or department on campus.

—There will be no political posters on campus outside of advertising for meetings.

Russell also emphasized the only official mock-election will be run by the Sagebrush.

Bill Adams, new director of the Student Union Building, said "It's alleged a small number of students were polled at Nevada Southern last year and results were published which probably didn't give a true representation of students' thoughts."

Adams also said, "Because of the crowded conditions of the Student Union Building and many other requests, we would hope that campaign literature and materials would only be handed out during the actual appearance of a candidate or during a recognized meeting."

Students will choose between democratic incumbent Grant Sawyer and present lieutenant governor Paul Laxalt, a republican, in the governor's race.

The lieutenant governor's race will pit democrat John Foley and republican Ed Fike against each other. And democratic seven-term congressman Walter Baring will battle with republican Ralph Kraemer for Nevada's lone congressional seat.

Second Half Rally Halts Willamette As Wolf Pack Wins Season Opener

SALEM—Down 21-7 at the end of the first half, the University of Nevada Wolf Pack came back for three second-half scores to drop hosting Willamette, 28-21.

Leading the Nevada comeback was junior quarterback Chris Ault, who combined good running and excellent passing to keep the Bearcat defense off balance.

Cot Quarters Get Apology From Official

An official apology has been given to students sleeping on cots at a new multi-million dollar dormitory on the NSU campus in Las Vegas.

Neil Humphrey, vice-president in charge of financial affairs at both the Reno and Las Vegas campuses, has apologized to 50 Las Vegas students and 37 out-of-state students who reserved rooms in the new complex.

Some were required to live in off-campus housing until the dorm had passed federal inspection. Students in the dormitory are now sleeping on Air Force cots.

Furniture is not scheduled to arrive until December, according to authorities.

Aggies Expect Rise in Enrollment

The Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture is expecting about a 10 per cent increase in enrollment this semester states Dr. Charles H. Seufferle, associate dean.

Last semester there were 220 agriculture students. Agriculture majors have four fields to enter with a number of options.

These four areas include agriculture with options in education, journalism, mechanics, and pest control; agriculture business with options in economics or business; animal science with plant, soil, and water science options; and renewable resources with options in forestry, range science, game management, and recreation area study as options.

Activities Parade

The annual activities parade students with an opportunity to join campus clubs will be held in the Student Union lounge this Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

All clubs wishing to set up a table should contact ASUN Second Vice-President Anne Marie Lesperance in her office before Thursday.

Nevada was potent both in the air and on the ground, gaining 98-yards rushing and 219 passing. Joe Sobek was the top runner for the day, gaining 109 yards. Sobek also had the honor of scoring the first Wolf Pack touchdown of the new season.

Willamette broke the scoring ice first, when tailback Jim Nicholson caught a 27-yard pass from quarterback Mike Shinn. Nevada then managed to tie the ball game at 7-7 on Sobek's one-yard run in the second period.

Nevada's Sobek and Bob Johnson carried the ball on Nevada's initial scoring effort, an 87-yard drive that required only nine plays.

Willamette's scoring splurge then began, with the Bearcats scoring 17 plays later. Nevada then fumbled one play after the kickoff on its own 17-yard line, and things looked bad for the Pack, with Willamette holding a 14-point edge.

Early in the third quarter Nevada started the game-winning comeback. Mike Sala, standout defensive player for the day, returned a punt 48 yards to set up a score. Signal-caller Ault hit Art Bayer on fourth down for the score.

Later in the third period, Ault ran in for another score from two yards out to tie the game 21-21. Setting up the play was a Bayer 43-yard double reverse and a 21-yard pitch from Ault to Bob Johnson.

Hereafter Willamette could not move its offensive machine. A tough Wolf Pack defense stopped the Bearcats in the air and on the ground.

With 11 minutes left in the game, Nevada went in for its final score when Ault ran 13 yards down the sideline behind a wall of Pack blockers. The drive went 51 yards in eight plays.

Willamette could not move the ball again and the Pack regained possession and ran the clock out to give the Reno squad its first opening-game win since 1962.

Willamette still holds a 4-2 edge in the overall series which goes back to 1936. Last year the Oregon club pulled out a squeaker over Nevada in the old Mackay Stadium.

Nevada's next game will be this Saturday when the Pack hosts the University of California at Santa Barbara to initiate the new stadium.

Grad students, hot under the collar over $8 Health Service fee, hash over a Graduate Student Association constitution, Post-graduate student in English, Bill Lutz, is attempting to organize some 600 grads. Thirty-eight attended the meeting.

Graduate Group Initiated

A student group comparable to ASUN was started recently when the graduate students of the University of Nevada united in a Graduate Student Association (GSA).

The progenitor of the GSA, Bill Lutz of the English Department, said grad students should unite. He pointed out in Wednesday's meeting that grad students are not allowed in the ASUN. This is in the ASUN constitution.

"Taxation without representation" was the reason the grad students united. They were objecting to the $8 health service fee voted on in ASUN Senate last year.

The fee, said the grads, was levied upon them without their prior knowledge. "As non-associated students," said Lutz, "we have no voice. The ASUN could next levy the $17.50 Associated Students fee, and grads would have no recourse."

Practical objections to the $8 fee were voiced by the grads attending the meeting. Most of them have their own insurance policies.

Chancellor N. Edd Miller and Dean of Graduate Students Thomas D. O'Brien told Lutz they approved of a graduate students association. Many other schools have such organizations, since grads are usually not allowed in the undergraduate governments.

Objections to voting on a graduate student constitution were raised by the 38 grads that attended the meeting. Some of them felt that 38 should not set up an organization that would include 600 members.

Compulsory graduate membership in the GSA, and compulsory dues are to be discussed at the next meeting. The article dealing with the mandatory membership and dues was deleted from the constitution until a larger group meets.

Bill Lutz and other volunteers from each college are to set up the next meeting and notify all graduate students of the time and place.

Money Available To Future Pupils

Nevada high school students now have $425,000 available in grants for graduates planning on attending college announced William Rasmussen, director of financial aid at the University of Nevada.

A new $25,000 grant, matched on a ten to one basis by private contributions, bolstered the fund to the present total. The USA funds' guarantee loan reserve for Nevada high school students who plan on entering any college in the nation including both campuses of the University of Nevada.

Students have so far received the low-cost loans for a total amount of $153,000.

Political Meeting

The "Collegians for Sawyer" will meet this evening at 7 p.m. in the Sawyer campaign headquarters at Second and Sierra Streets in Reno.

All interested are invited to attend.

Leadership Conference Excellent ... But How About the Freshman Class?

The ASUN student leadership conference, recently held at the University of California Alumni Center near Tahoe City, was the best conference the University has seen in many years.

Originating from the confab, helmed by ASUN President Dave Russell, were several new concepts toward the leaders' responsibility toward students.

As a result, the Student Health Service will be investigated, an honor system will be considered, a teachers evaluation program may get off the ground and an attempt may be made to put ROTC on a voluntary basis.

Previously, leaders had convened at the 4-H camp site just a "stone's throw" from the local gaming establishments at the South Shore of Lake Tahoe.

If nothing else, leaders led themselves through a good drunk at the annual affair.

But the proximity to gaming establishments at the north side of the Lake was several miles. Breaks between panel discussions were taken over coffee rather than more popular liquid refreshments.

The leaders got down to business.

However, it seems a shame that freshmen leaders are unable to attend the yearly conference.

Those chosen to helm the frosh could benefit from a conference as good as this year's even more than upper-classmen and sophomores.

Getting a good sampling of the problems that befall students, such as were discussed, would greatly help them to carry out their positions in the campus community.

Unfortunately, freshman class officers are not chosen until after the conference.

Freshmen elections should be held 2 weeks after school convenes and just prior to the leadership gathering.

During Orientation Week pamphlets could be distributed and speeches could be made announcing the elections and the requirements for office.

The new leaders could then get a wider view of their responsibilities and place in student government at the ASUN conference.

However, the conference that year would have to be run as smoothly, efficiently, and intelligently as the one President Russell organized.

Conference Proceedings Published

The Nevada Bureau of Mines at the University of Nevada has announced the proceedings of the Pacific Southwest Mineral Industry Conference held last year in Sparks have been published.

Dr. Vernon E. Scheid, director of the Bureau, said the conference took place in May and drew hundreds of participants from throughout the west.

The conference was opened by Governor Grant Sawyer, who spoke on Nevada's new mining boom. Some 29 leaders of mining, metallurgy, and geology presented papers during the three-day meet.

The confab was sponsored by the Nevada section of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers (AIME).

Intramurals — For Everyone

By Marty Bibb
Staff Sports Reporter

The intramural schedule for 1966-67 has been posted and given to all intramural managers according to Mr. Thorne Tibbitts, director for the program.

The fall sports are flag football, tennis, golf, cross-country, and volleyball. The winter sports include basketball, skiing, basketball free throw, table tennis, wrestling, gymnastics, fencing, and handball. The activities slated for the spring are bowling, baseball, swimming and diving, badminton, riflery, and track and field.

The stated purpose of the intramural program is "to provide all regularly enrolled students, undergraduate and graduate, and faculty of the University of Nevada an opportunity to participate in a wide variety of competitive athletics. It is our intent to provide for every interested male student a sport that he enjoys, a team on which to play and officiating that insures fair competition."

The direct supervision of the program is to be handled by the director of intramural sports. There is also an intramural board which is made up of the intramural director (chairman of the board), one independent student, one dormitory representative, one representative from the managers council, and one representative from the interfraternity council.

The board is set up to act as a judicial body for the program, and it will levy decisions on all protests lodged by competing teams. The managers council is made up of one person representing each participating dorm, fraternity, graduate, independent, and faculty organization.

The council will meet once per semester.

Leagues of teams will be set up at random, consisting of fraternity, dormitory, and off-campus organizations. Each team will have an intramural manager who will serve as his group's representative

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

At this point I am feeling rather angry and a little ashamed. I am a grad student and by generalization I can easily be counted with those who are causing fun to be poked at us.

A recent letter appeared in this paper condemning the health service for the mandatory fee levied on the grads. It was a sharp, caustic, bitter letter and would have been fine had its author taken the time to direct it where it was deserved.

The health service is a boon to the students at this university. It is always open, except for one hour a day to feed bed patients and the staff, and the $8, or $20, if it had to be, would be more than worth it. All a student needs is one cold during which some pills are needed and the fee has been paid. Try to see a private doctor for under $10 per visit or get some free pills.

The complaint about the fee being levied in an underhanded way may be valid, but to take out one's anger on a pawn is not only foolish, but a waste of energy. Let's get the fee made optional or whatever the grad association decides, but let's strike at the heart of the matter, not where it will only cause embarrassment.

He informs his team of the rules, sees that they appear at all their contests on time, enters his team before prescribed deadlines, checks the eligibility of all his team members, makes arrangements for all postponements, and files all protests with the director of intramurals.

Each group may enter as many teams as they wish in competition, but only one team for each group will be designed as the point team. This is the only team which can accumulate or win competition points. Organizations must pre-designate which of their teams is the point team.

If a no-point team wins a certain sport, the organization is awarded the trophy but it does not receive points. Generally, each league will consist of no more than six teams.

The trophy for the all-University champion is known as the Kinnear Trophy, and it is awarded to the group compiling the largest number of points. The Bradshaw Trophy is awarded to the fraternity which scores the most points.

Last year, Alpha Tau Omega won both categories, and the trophies will be presented to them at the annual Interfraternity Council Banquet.

In flag football, baseball, volleyball, basketball and bowling, each team will receive 6 points for participating, and an additional 18 points for winning. Forfeiting teams will lose 24 points.

In tennis, table tennis, handball, and badminton, the participating team will receive 2 points for playing, and 6 additional points for winning, while forfeiting teams will lose 8 points.

The winning team in golf will receive 35 points, and the winning cross-country team earns 65 points. Scoring for the other sports are skiing, 50 points; free throw, 20 points; wrestling, 3 points per match won, and 4 points per fall; gymnastics, 30 points; fencing, 25 points; swimming, 50 points; riflery, 30 points; and track and field, 65 points.

Last years winners were flag football, Alpha Tau Omega; tennis, Sigma Nu; golf, Lambda Chi Alpha; cross-country, Sigma Nu; volleyball, Sigma Nu; basketball, Alpha Tau Omega; skiing, Alpha Tau Omega; free throw, Alpha Tau Omega; table tennis, Alpha Tau Omega; wrestling, Sigma Nu; gymnastics, Sigma Nu; fencing, Independents; bowling, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; baseball, Alpha Tau Omega; swimming and diving, Sigma Nu; badminton, Sigma Nu; riflery, Sigma Nu; and track and field, Sigma Nu. Handball was not on the intramural agenda last year.

Rules and regulations are published in the Intramural Handbook which can be obtained in room 107B of the gym, the office of the director of Intramural Athletics.

Lambda Chi Presents Trophy

Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity has announced the presentation of a new perpetual trophy to the University of Nevada.

The trophy, which stands 41 inches tall, will honor the outstanding athlete of the month at the University.

Each month an athlete will be chosen by the Sagebrush sports staff, the coaching staffs and a committee of Lambda Chi's.

The name of the athlete will be inscribed on the gold trophy which will be housed in a special display in the Jot Travis Union building.

The first selection will be made for the month of September and

Aggie Banquet Tonight

The Fleischmann College of Agriculture will hold its awards banquet tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union lounge.

The banquet will honor the scholarship recipients which involve about 70 students from the schools of Home Economics and Agriculture.

Chancellor N. Edd Miller will speak and scholarship certificates will be presented. Seventeen different organizations and families which have donated to this scholarship program will also be honored.

Rally Committee to Revive Traditions

The Rally Committee is initiating and reviving some traditions for the Wolf Pack in addition to planning for Friday's rally.

Soon there will be a giant wolf sign in front of the student union to announce all athletic events and rally activities, according to Kathy Goodish, publicity chairman.

The Rally Committee will begin the construction of a bell which was vied for at last year's will be announced in early October.

There is room on the trophy for 45 names and it is so constructed that new plates can be added.

"Meet Candidate" Nights Scheduled

A series of "Meet the Candidates" nights will be presented by the University of Nevada political science department.

Candidates for the state assembly will be invited to the first meeting at 8 pm in the dining commons on Tuesday, October 11.

Acting as chairman for the first meeting will be University Vice President Neil Humphrey. The second meeting on Tuesday, October 18, will feature the Senate candidates. Vice President Wendell Mordy will preside.

Candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor will appear at the final meeting on October 25. Chancellor N. Edd Miller will act as chairman.

University students as well as the general public are invited to attend and participate in informal discussion with the political candidates. Admission is free.

annual Nevada Southern basketball game.

The bell will be kept by whichever team wins yearly.

This year the Rally Committee is asking all students to wear white shirts to emphasize the rooting section.

Also at the last meeting, the committee elected Rhonda Stodmeister chairman. Former chairman, Jim Crane will remain in an advisory capacity since he now holds an office in the Senate.

Psychology and Sociology Receive Grants

Special training grants totaling $344,400 have been awarded to the University of Nevada psychology and sociology departments. The grants will provide financial support for the graduate program leading to the doctorate in social psychology.

A grant of $281,400 was awarded by the Office of Education for a five-year period, and $63,000 was awarded by the National Institute of Mental Health for a three-year period. Both grants are under the direction of Dr. Paul F. Secord, chairman of the psychology department.

A major portion of the funds will be used to attract outstanding graduate students by providing stipends ranging from $1800 to $2800 per annum. The grants will also provide money for supplies and equipment to be used in research by the graduate students.

There are tentative plans to set up a position to receive a distinguished visiting professor of psychology for the years covered by the grant funds.

Dr. Secord stated that the prerequisite for receiving such grants is a high quality faculty.

The doctorate program, which started in 1963, has helped upgrade the undergraduate program, and interest higher quality teaching assistants, who help professors in undergraduate courses.

Since the program was initiated it has graduated three persons with Ph.D.'s in social and general psychology. Dr. Secord said that approximately 40 graduate students will be in full-time resident study in social and general psychology this school term.

Artemisia Sets Meeting

The Artemisia will hold a "Pack Your Dinner" staff meeting this evening at 5:30 p. m. in the Artemisia office. Staff and photographer assignments will be announced.

Staff members unable to attend should contact Judy Crowell. Additional persons are welcome at this meeting.

Lower Standards Will Provide 20,000 More Men for Draft

Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara set Oct. 1 for a lowering of the testing standards of the selective service. Mental and educational standards will be lowered at that time to provide an additional 20,000 men for the services.

This move is to begin a plan where 40,000 men will be taken into the service by next June 30, who would otherwise have been deferred. The year following will bring 100,000 men into the service who would have been rejected.

Under the new standards the 1-Y grouping will not be re-screened immediately. Some of the more than 2.4 million men now classified 1-Y will be examined again.

This will probably come next year when the induction rate of previously sub-standard men will reach 100,000.

400 ATTEND DANCE

Sigma Alpha Epsilon held their annual lawn dance Saturday night and an estimated attendance of 400, according to SAE Dave Russell.

Nevada's Journalism School Adds Two New Professors

The University of Nevada Department of Journalism has added two members to its faculty this year. With the retirement of Professor A. L. Higginbotham and the recent death of Professor Kieste Janulis the department has added one full-time instructor and one part-time instructor to the faculty. The two new members are William G. Ward, assistant professor and Edward R. Slingland, lecturer.

William Ward was born in Saskatchewan, Canada, and raised in the state of Minnesota. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Mankato State College in Mankato, Minnesota. History was his major field of study, and in 1958 he returned to Mankato and received his Masters Degree in English.

Professor Ward's journalism experience includes working for the Minneapolis Tribune from 1959-1960, and on active duty with the U.S. Army, as a Public Information specialist.

Ward has also worked as sports editor, copy editor, and general assignment reporter with the Mankato Free Press and the San Bernardino, Calif., Sun-Telegram.

He has also been a public relations agent for different colleges, and was once a high school basketball coach. Articles and reviews he has written have been published in the National Observer, The Nation, and his photo work has been displayed in Camera Magazine. Most recently Ward was a journalism teacher at Syracuse University in New York.

He is a member of The National Press Photographers Association and Pi Delta Epsilon, a national honorary journalism fraternity.

Edward R. Slingland, newly added part-time journalism instructor at Nevada was raised in the northern part of New Jersey. He received his Bachelors Degree in math from Montclair State Teachers College in New Jersey and taught in the state for one year. Slingland served as a logistics officer with the Army Air Corps, and retired as a major at the end of the war.

He has worked as an insurance salesman, publicity assistant for the Reno Chamber of Commerce, reporter for the Reno Evening Gazette, Advertising and Publicity Supervisor for Sierra Pacific Power Company, and with KCRL

Foundation Grant Given Planetarium

The Max C. Fleischmann Foundation has assured the support of the Atmospherium-Planetarium for an additional five years with a grant of $300,000.

The award was announced by President Charles J. Armstrong, who also acknowledged that in 1960 the foundation made funds available to construct the facility. The Planetarium, near the new Mackay stadium, will soon host its 50,000th visitor.

Operating expenses, new equipment, as well as modernization of the present facilities will be accomplished with the $60,000 a year provided for in the grant.

Poli Sci Initiates "Parties" Course

"American Political Parties and Electoral Behavior" is a new course being taught at the University this semester.

An upper division course taught through General University Extension's evening division, it examines the structure and functioning of American political parties in the governing process.

Stanley Pearl, instructor of the course, says part of the course consists of analyzing party voting in elections, with special emphasis on the Nevada general election in November.

Artists Series Features Talent

Six outstanding and varied concert ensembles and soloists will be featured during the coming school year in the University of Nevada's 1966-67 Performing-Artists series.

All performances will begin at 8 p.m., and will be held in the Church Fine Arts theatre, the Jot Travis Student Union or the Dining Commons.

The first performance will present the Dolmetsch-Schoenfeld Ensemble on Oct. 13 in the Church Fine Arts theatre. Their program will include music of the Baroque era as well as contemporary works.

Next on the schedule for Nov. 7 is Beveridge Webster, one of today's outstanding keyboard masters. Webster has performed on television, and also has played in chamber music ensembles and accompanied prominent singers and instrumentalists. He will appear in the Church Fine Arts theatre.

The sounds of the Lenox Quartet will be heard on campus on Dec. 16 in the Jot Travis Student Union. The quartet has been described by the New York Times as, "One of the finest quartets this country has yet produced."

The members of the group were previously on the faculty of the Berkshire Music Center, better known as "Tanglewood."

Violin soloist David Abel will appear Feb. 14 in the Church Fine Arts theatre. Abel has been featured soloist in a national tour of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and has been guest artist with various other orchestras.

The Paul Winter Ensemble will feature jazz sounds when they come to the university Dining Commons on March 7. The ensemble has appeared at jazz festivals, played in major clubs in the country, and made several network television appearances.

They also played the first jazz concert ever held in the White House at the invitation of President John F. Kennedy.

Appearing April 24 in the Church Fine Arts theatre will be the Alma Trio. They have made tours of the United States and Canada, played in Cuba and Alaska, and given 25 concerts in New Zealand.

Season tickets for the events, now on sale, are general public, $10, or 2 for $18; general public children, $5.00; University faculty and staff, 5.00; and University students will be admitted free of charge with proper identification.

OUT OF THE SAGEBRUSH FILES . . . September 21, 1915, finds the seniors romping over the "junior aggregation," 24-0, in an inter-class football game. The Sagebrush mentions that "the hardest kind of fighting" was necessary to win.

SEPTEMBER 30, 1938 . . . Coach Dashiell feels that the Wolf Pack is not ready for its upcoming game in Las Vegas against Arizona State Teachers', who lost a narrow decision to Brigham Young University in its last game.

"CRIPPLED WOLVES MEET DUCKS on Eugene Turf," is the headline in the October 3, 1947 issue of the Sagebrush. The Pack was mauled badly at San Francisco last week and it is felt Nevada will be in over its head against the tough Oregon team. (Nevada defeated Oregon, 13-6, when the Pack held off the Ducks on the one-foot line.)

SEPTEMBER 28, 1951 . . . Nevada is trying to promote interclass football to keep up interest in the sport around campus. Nevada will not field a football team this year. . . .

Sala, Ault Chosen Athletes of Week

Quarterback Chris Ault and linebacker Mike Sala were named Sagebrush co-athletes of the week for the period ending Sunday, September 25.

Ault took control and led the Pack to an impressive opening-game victory. He passed for 219 yards and also ran in two touchdowns.

Leading the Pack defense was junior Mike Sala. The Reno linebacker made several key tackles during the game and seemed to be in on every play.

FWC Footballers Claim Victories

Far Western Conference football teams generally fared well for themselves over the weekend, winning four games and losing two.

Nevada opened the 1966 season by defeating tough Willamette, 28-21, giving an indication that the Wolf Pack may have one of its best teams in recent years.

The Cal Aggies, beaten badly last week, surprised by drubbing the University of California at Riverside, 27-7.

In another surprise, Chico St. broke a long losing streak by nosing out University of Redlands, 28-24. The Wildcats had not won a game in two years.

Sacramento St. stepped into more than it could handle, being edged 7-3 by Santa Clara. Clara.

Humboldt St. held on to nip visiting University of British Columbia, 9-7.

San Francisco St., FWC co-favorite along with Nevada, came up with a good effort in losing to powerful Long Beach St., 24-18.

Big Billy Ray—Defense specialist Holman weighs in at 250—but he's fast.

Pack Profile

Billy Ray Holman, a transfer from San Francisco City College, is again holding down the line for Nevada this year. Holman is a defensive tackle with excellent speed.

The 5-11, 250-pounder is remembered for his 39-yard touchdown run last season against Humboldt State on an intercepted pass.

Holman plans going into secondary teaching in physical education upon graduation.

UC Santa Barbara Invades Saturday

The Wolf Pack will kick off the 1966 home schedule October 1 when the University of California at Santa Barbara invades the new Mackay Stadium. It will be the first football game played in the new stadium.

The Gauchos are coached by Jack Curtice, 1965 College Coach of the Year. He coached at Stanford for several years.

The California team defeated the Wolf Pack by three points last season, after rallying in the last quarter. Santa Barbara then went to the Camellia Bowl, losing 18-10 to Cal State Los Angeles.

Leading the Gauchos will be sophomore quarterback Mike Hitchman, who has broken most of the school's quarterback records. Twenty-four veterans round out the team, big in size both offensively and defensively.

Snake Dance Set For Friday Rally

A snake dance and bonfire rally will be held Friday in preparation for the Wolf Pack's first home game in the new Mackay Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Rhonda Stodmeister, Rally Committee chairman, announced that the dance will begin at 7 p.m. in front of the student union.

Participants will then snake through the streets by all the dorms and fraternity houses. The caravan will return to the parking lot of the new stadium for the bonfire rally.

All students are invited to participate in the annual event which honors the football team and coaches.

Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by AT LEAST THREE TIMES with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student who does not triple his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and subsequent tests, or the student may retake the course free of charge. A refund is conditional upon the student attending all classes or having made up missed sessions with the teacher. The student must also have practiced the required number of hours, following the assignments as outlined by the teacher. The average student may expect a five-time increase in reading speed, and an improvement in comprehension and recall. Any student who must withdraw from the course for any reason may re-enter any subsequent courses at any future time, at no additional cost.

Masons Lay Nye Hall Cornerstone

Cornerstone laying ceremonies were performed Saturday, Sept. 24 for the soon to be completed Nye Hall. The Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons commemorated exactly 100 years of cornerstone laying ceremonies with this event.

Presiding over the ceremonies was Grand Master Frank Logar of Hawthorne. Grand Orator Gerald Roberts discussed Nye County's history and the development of the University of Nevada.

Coordinator Silas Ross reported that the ceremony went off as scheduled.

Nye Hall cost approximately $2 million. Two more dormitories and dining commons are planned for the area.

The new dorm will house 560 men.
