Series Of Talks Scheduled For Honors Study Students

By Dave Freeman
Feature Editor

A series of talks will be presented this school year as a noon-time colloquia to further supplement the education of students in the honors study program.

Dr. Robert McQueen, director of honors study board, says the colloquia will give the honors student an opportunity to listen to some distinguished speakers. He added, the honor student has asked for some recognition on campus and the talks will be limited to students active in or eligible for honors study.

Honors study is an answer to the impersonal aspect of mass education, says Dr. McQueen. With universities as large as they now are individual attention is unpracticable for most of the students, but the bright and well motivated student can get this attention in honors study, McQueen says.

Ten speakers have agreed to conduct a session of the colloquia. Each session will be held on the first Thursday of the month from noon until 10 minutes to one, in the Jot Travis Card Lounge.

October 6, Vice President of the University of Nevada, Dr. Wendell Mordy will present the first of the talks. As director of the Desert Research Institute and as a noted author in scientific and popular journals, Dr. Mordy's talk will probably be most interesting to the science oriented student.

In November Howard W. Cannon, U.S. Senator will speak for about 30 minutes and then engage in a discussion with the students and faculty at the meeting.

The other speakers have not yet set a date for their sessions at the colloquia program. They include: Leslie H. Gould, Psychiatrist; Dr. Paul F. Secord, author and chairman of the department of psychology; Laurance M. Hyde, Dean of the National College of Trial Judges; Molly Magee, Vice-chairman of the University of Nevada Board of Regents; Gordon Thompson, Justice of the Nevada Supreme Court; Robert C. Weems, Dean of the College of Business Administration; Samuel Ornstein, Child Psychologist; and Bruce R. Thompson, United States District Judge.

All students who are in the program or who are eligible for honors study may attend the colloquia. Dr. McQueen says about 200 students are active in the program this semester. Another 200 have taken honors courses recently and many more are eligible to enroll in honors sections. Dr. McQueen says, the program was started in 1960 and students who have a 3.0 in college work of their last semester are in the eligible group for the honors study. Freshmen who were in the upper 8 per cent of the ACT tests are also eligible.

Money is the main limit on the program now says Dr. McQueen. He says in the near future more classes will be added to the program in several colleges.

No Candidates For AWS Off-Campus Rep.

As of publication date no women have filed for AWS off-campus representative. The filing deadline will be 5:00 p.m. today.

A meeting has been scheduled for all candidates for the fall election today in the card lounge of the Student Union. This is a mandatory meeting for all candidates according to ASUN Elections Chairman, Joe Beloso.

The primaries are scheduled for Wednesday with the general election to be held on Wednesday, October 12.

Alcohol Is Out During Game

Saturday's game against Santa Barbara will be the first home game in the new Mackay stadium. Final preparations have been made in time for the event, including a new scoreboard, press box, and public address system.

According to Dean of Men James Hathhorn, this is an appropriate time for a restatement of University policy regarding alcoholic beverages. The University regulations state that the storage, possession, and use of alcoholic beverages is not allowed on University property.

Dean Hathhorn states, "Students are urged to bear this in mind. If any student is found guilty of violation of University rules and regulations he is subject to serious disciplinary actions. The responsibility rests with the individual."

The students' section is located on the 50-yard line. Since the students make up the bulk of the cheering section, they are encouraged to sit in this area, and to wear white shirts and blouses.

Examination Set For Civil Service

The Board of United States Civil Service Examiners in cooperation with the Social Security Administration has announced an examination for Service Representative for a possible career appointment with the Social Security Administration.

Annual salary starts at $4,776. The test will be given on October 8, in Room 108 of the Ross Business Administration Building during the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Application forms may be picked up in Room 108 of the Administration Building.

Interested persons should send the application form to the Social Security Administration, P. O. Box 7117, Reno, Nevada 89503.

Graduates Do Not Organize To Fight

By Susie Bruckart

The graduate student's association is not being organized over the controversy of the Student Health Service fee which was levied upon grads this semester.

Bill Lutz, graduate student, says his organization is being formed for the general representation of graduate students on this campus. Lutz says he conceived the idea for the group more than a year ago.

Lutz says, however, that the first action of the graduate student association will be to obtain representation on the Student Health investigation committee in order to help protect their interests.

The Health Service fee levied upon graduate students was not an ASUN Senate action. Dean of Students Sam Basta says that the Board of Regents levied the fee upon recommendation of the Health Service Committee, the Student Affairs office, and the Chancellor's office, and after consultation with the Dean of the Graduate School.

Dean Basta gave many reasons for the Health fee which all students paid this year. Increased enrollment in the student body, the previously expressed need of the Health Service by graduates themselves, and the fact that health is a matter that concerns all students—not just undergraduates.

Basta says difficulties were caused in the Health Service in previous years as to who was to receive service. Dean Basta says that if the fee were optional to graduates that the undergraduate fees would have to subsidize services for the graduates. All of these factors showed a necessity for a consistent fee to be paid by all students.

Lutz explained a "feeling of injustice" over the fee was created at registration. He said that on the first day the fee was assessed on students with 6 credits or more and on the second day assessed for 7 credits or more.

This inconsistency along with the opinion of the graduate students that they are not in need of the Health Service has caused the controversy over the fee.

The next organizational meeting of the graduate students will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in room 101 of the Scragham Engineering Building. Lutz encourages all those unable to attend to send their vote by mail before the meeting.

Executive Meeting

The ASUN Executive Council will convene this afternoon at 3 p.m. to determine the agenda for next Wednesday's Senate meeting.

Vice President's Agenda Is Full

Freshman class elections, Brushfire editor, Forum business manager, club budgets and publication and financial control board meetings are all on the agenda for ASUN First Vice-President Daryl Drake.

Candidates for freshman class president, AWS representative, and off-campus AWS representative must have applications in Drake's office by 5 p.m. today. The primary election is scheduled for Oct. 5, and the general election will be held Oct. 12.

Any person seeking the job as Brushfire editor must have an application turned in to Drake before the Oct. 13, meeting of the publications board. Three candidates have applied for the position at the present time.

The Forum is without a business manager since Bill McCloughlin resigned. Candidates for this job must also file an application before the Oct. 13, meeting.

Club budgets will be approved at the Oct. 11, meeting of the financial control board. Before they can be considered for appropriations treasurers of each organization must have a conference with Drake and a proposed budget submitted before that date.

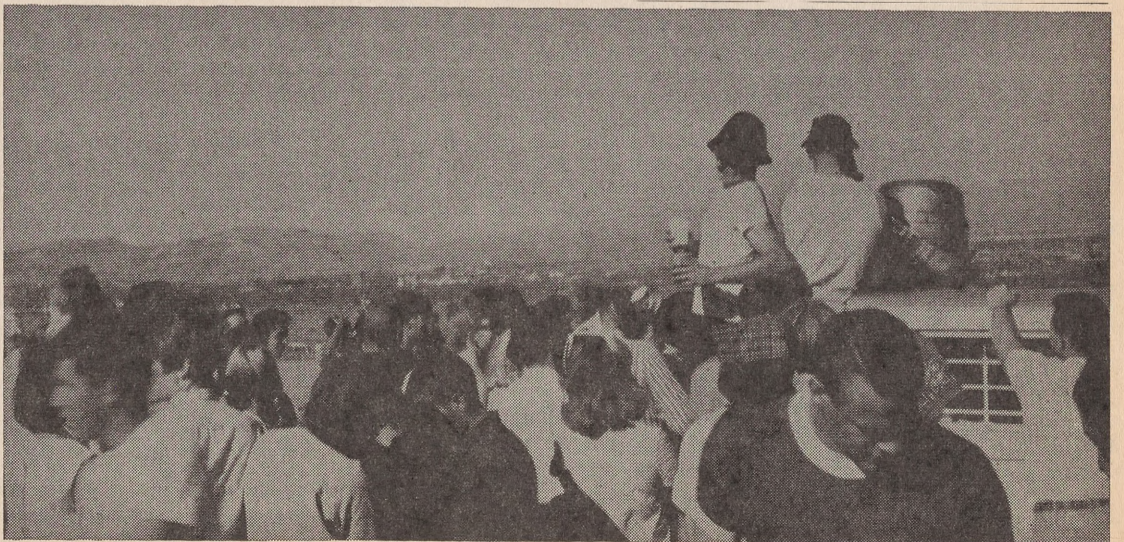

All candidates for the various open positions must meet the ASUN requirements of a 2.2 overall grade point average. The Brushfire editor must be an upperclassman.

Independents

Marvis Cooper, Associated Women Student's President, is trying to organize the Independent off-campus women students into one unified group.

At present Miss Cooper is trying to get all interested off-campus women who would like their names on the mailing list to sign-up in the AWS office. It is next to the Sierra Room in the Student Union.

Anyone interested in filing for off-campus freshman representative for AWS should file with Miss Cooper by today.

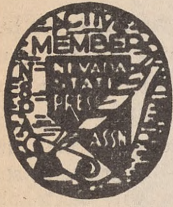

MOURNFUL 'DOWNERS' surround plucked "dry" turkey at their first "turkey shoot" of the season. Second "Shoot" of 1966 season to be held this afternoon at 3 p.m., west of Horseman's Park. Sundowners Dance will be held tonight at the STURDY County Fair-ground's Exhibition Building immediately after the Bonfire Rally in Mackay Stadium.

Complaining Students and Faculty Can Use "Brush" Opinion Column

Stop complaining to the garbageman and the milkman. The Sagebrush not only opens its columns to student letters, but challenges the unsatisfied students on campus to put their opinions into column form.

Most students find it hard to understand why LSD holds a fascination for anyone. LSD users this your chance to tell the world. If you believe in free-love or compulsory ROTC the Sagebrush wants to give you a opportunity to explain your beliefs in print.

Editors and staffers on the 'Brush hate to listen to the coffee-drinking crusader with all of the answers to the problems on campus.

All of the discontents who only tell their gripes to people like their hairdresser or barber are cowards, or not really as discontent as they like to think they are.

Students and faculty alike are requested to submit their gripes to the Sagebrush typewritten, double-spaced and not over 500 words in length.

Articles for the 'Brush opinion column must be in good taste and well-written to appear in print.

Moon Show At Planetarium

The University of Nevada Atmospheric-Planetarium is currently presenting a program, "Destination Moon".

The program which will run October 12, explains the details which the United States will use in preparation for its first manned expedition to the moon.

In planning for this historic venture, which should place three astronauts on the moon, an active manned space program has been under way. It began with Project Mercury and will continue through the current projects, Gemini and Apollo.

Using the unique Atmospheric projector, visitors will board an Apollo spacecraft, witness themselves lifting off the pad at Cape Kennedy and placed into earth orbit.

From there they will journey with the astronauts to a lunar landing and will step out to gaze at a weird landscape of the earth's satellite.

All of these are simulated in a dramatic, realistic manner using the latest techniques developed in the Fleischmann Atmospheric-Planetarium laboratories.

Programs are held at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, with 3:30 p.m. programs held on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. There is also a 2 p.m. showing and a 3:30 p.m. showing on Sunday.

Admission is .50 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. University faculty and staff will be admitted free.

'Colonel's Coeds' Auxiliary Forming

"Colonel's Coeds," a women's auxiliary to the University of Nevada ROTC program, is now being formed under the direction of Cadet Robert R. Habecker.

The auxiliary has counterparts in "Army's Sponsors" and the Air Force's "Angel Flight" on campuses throughout the nation.

Women will be selected through interviews with ROTC members, and five from each living group will be chosen. Military Ball queen candidates will also be selected from the membership.

The "Coeds" will act as hostesses at all ROTC functions, and will also form a synchronized drill unit.

AWS Vice-President Ann Havrilla described the organization as "no small thing." She feels that it "will go over well and draw its membership from the most outstanding women on campus."

Cadet Habecker will visit each residence hall to distribute information and applications for "Colonel's Coeds."

It is imperative that the graduate students of the University of Nevada realize that the ASUN Senate did not levy the Health Service fee. At no time during the last year has the student Senate as a body even considered a recommendation as such.

This action to levy a health service fee on graduate students was taken by the Board of Regents who has the sole power to do so. The action was taken upon recommendation of the University Health Service Committee and, after consultation with the Student Affairs Office, Chancellor's Office, and the University President. It is also interesting to note that the Dean of Graduate Students was consulted on the matter.

The reasons for this fee are sound ones: in the last few years there have been increasing demands on the Health Service by the graduate students. Although it has been optional to receive service, it has become increasingly apparent that these graduate students who have exercised the option, and more specifically the undergraduate students, are subsidizing the graduate students who don't do so. The costs of handling the entrance medical reports and possibly accident insurance files have been, and are being born by these student's fees. In order to create a more uniform policy, in keeping with the concern for all the students' health, it was decided that all graduate students should be required to pay the $8 fee.

Perhaps this will clear the misconception on the part of the graduate students.

The second point that I would like to make is that, although I favor the adoption of a Graduate Student Association, that would aid in improving communication between the graduate student and the other parts of the University community, I resent Bill Lutz's method of obtaining such an organization.

Surely Lutz can obtain the needed graduate interest without fabricating a feud with the ASUN. I say this because I know he is well aware that the ASUN Senate does not set the policy on student fees.

As good as Mr. Lutz's intentions are, he will, in order to help the graduate students, have to do better than he has done in the past. There are, I imagine, some graduate problems that need discussion without using unsubstantiated issues with the ASUN.

I, as well as the other ASUN officers, will be more than willing to assist in the formation of a responsible graduate association, for we have a common interest as students—our academic environment.—Dave Russell

Letters to the Editor

Editor
The Sagebrush

I would like to clear up a few misconceptions about the Graduate Student Association.

The Association was not begun because of the Health Service fee. The constitution of the Association was written during the summer and was read by Chancellor Miller and Dean Thomas O'Brien. Both were very helpful with their suggestions and encouragement. The Health Service fee became something of a cause celebre during registration and provided a catalyst for the forming of the Association. I think it is safe to say that graduate students are upset over the manner in which the fee was levied rather than the services the fee provides. In any event, the Graduate Student Association would have been formed even if there had been no Health Service fee levied.

The Association is not simply a social or protest group. It is an organization dedicated to guarding, improving, and promoting the welfare and interests of all graduate students. It will deal with serious issues and will attempt to do all it can to see that the interests of graduate students at the University are represented. Current proposals for such things as a group hospitalization plan for graduate students and possible tax-free teaching assistantships seem to indicate that the nature of the Association is serious.

I would like to thank the Sagebrush for reporting on our first meeting. One of the problems we have is communicating with all the graduate students, and the Sagebrush is helping us solve that problem.

Bill Lutz
Graduate Assistant
Department of English

Pick Up I.D. Cards

Today is the last day for students to pick up their ID cards. They are available in the Travis lounge for all students who had their pictures taken on Sept. 13, 14, and 15.

Counsel Given To Objectors

Counseling service is available to students who are considering conscientious objection to the draft and war.

The Reverend John L. Dodson of Reno is referring requests for such counseling to members of the Washoe County Ministerial Association and the University of Nevada faculty who have agreed to talk with interested individuals.

The counseling service is aimed at clarifying the existing legal rights of conscientious objectors and what it means to be a conscientious objector, including the meaning of belief in a Supreme Authority such as God, individual conscience, etc., says Rev. Dodson. Advice may also be given as to the proper procedure in seeking draft status as a conscientious objector.

No attempt is made by counselors to persuade individuals to be conscientious objectors. Reverend Dodson's telephone number is 322-1318.

Recent "Time" Magazine Features Trial Judge College at Nevada

By George Frank

The University of Nevada's most recently formed college received national acclaim in a 600 word article that appeared in the August edition of "Time Magazine."

The article on the National College of State Trial Judges, that appeared in the nationally circulated magazine, emphasized the operational procedure and the need for such a school.

The purpose of the college, according to a recently released brochure, is to acquaint relatively new state judges of general jurisdiction with the techniques of trial procedures and court administrative development in like courts throughout the country.

The college, which also has a branch at the University of Colorado, Boulder, began its first summer session at the University of Nevada in 1966.

The college originated at the

Counseling Center Serves Students

The Psychological Service Center, located in 204 Morrill Hall, is starting its fourth year of service to University students.

The Center provides counseling and psychotherapy for those who seek help in handling certain personal problems.

Dr. James B. Nickels, Director of the Center, says psychologists recognize how often the college period is a time of decision, adjustment and strain. The Center's function is to help members of the University community during this period.

Lambda Chi Initiates

Recent initiation ceremonies of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity has led to the acceptance of eight men as new members.

Laurence Wilson, Harvey Stephen Moltz, Joseph Handy, Michael Starrett, Timothy Martin, Donald Kozacek, Michael Lang-an and Edmund Wojick have all been formerly accepted by the Epsilon Iota chapter of the fraternity at the University of Nevada.

University of Colorado in 1961 and moved its headquarters to Reno last September.

The school operates under a ten-year grant from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation of Nevada. It is awarded $219,000 annually for operational purposes. In addition, a grant of $200,000 was given for the establishment of a law library.

The college is under the direction of Judge Laurance M. Hyde. Judge Hyde has served on the Missouri Circuit Court. He is also a member of the American Law Institute, past chairman of the Missouri Bar Journal Committee and of the St. Louis Bar Association Administrative Law Committee.

Hyde resigned his seat on the Missouri Circuit Court in 1965 to take the Deanship of the college.

In the first summer session last summer at Reno, the college attracted 96 state judges from 45 states.

Nevada Hosts Rugged Gauchos Snake Dance, Bonfire Tonight To Drum Up Nevada Support

The University of Nevada Wolf Pack will initiate the New Mackay Stadium tomorrow when they meet the University of California at Santa Barbara Gauchos at 2 p.m.

Santa Barbara will come to Reno with a 2-0 record having defeated the University of Hawaii and Sacramento State. Nevada has a 1-0 record having defeated tough Willamette 28-21. This was the first time the Wolf Pack won its opening game since 1962. This year's team is one of the finest Nevada has had in more than a decade.

Last year the Gauchos narrowly defeated the Nevada squad 21-18.

The same team will be back this year with 24 returning lettermen.

UCSB head coach Jack Curtice was named 1965 College Coach of the year by the Football Coaches' Association of America. Curtice coached the Gauchos to an 8-1 season record last year giving USCB one of its finest teams in 29 years. They earned a bid to the Camellia Bowl to face nationally ranked Cal State at Los Angeles.

GaUCHO quarterback Mike Hitchman, who has broken most of the UCSB school records, has been named the man to stop by Wolf Pack coach Dick Trachok.

Last year Santa Barbara's defensive unit was dubbed the "Green Weenies", limiting 9 teams to a meager 77 points.

The Wolf Pack's quarterback Chris Ault passed for 219 yards against Willamette and is in top shape for the first home game. Joe Sobeck will give the GaUCHO defensive unit a tough time after gaining 109 yards in last week's game. Along with 250 pound defensive specialist Billy Ray Holman the Nevada Wolf Pack will prove a tough foe for Santa Barbara.

Coach Trachok stated that injuries have been at a minimum and the team is in good shape. Trachok said the ballplayers are eager for this game, since it is the first game to be played in the new stadium and Santa Barbara is ranked among the top ten small college teams in the nation.

A snake dance through the streets of Reno at 7 p.m. and a bonfire rally in the new stadium parking lot tonight will prepare the Wolf Pack for its first home game on tomorrow.

Following these activities will be the Sundowner dance at the fairgrounds.

The Rally Committee has planned the snake dance which will begin at 7 p.m. in front of the student union. A large flat bed truck with a pep band and cheerleaders will lead the parade down South Virginia Street and pick up all the on-campus living groups.

The caravan will proceed to the Sigma Nu house, Gamma Phi, Lambda Chi, ATO and down sorority row to Fourth Street. Then they will go by SAE's and return through the campus to the parking lot of the new Mackay Stadium for the rally.

Three houses of wood will be burned for the bon fire. Coaches and team members will be introduced. After the rally the Sundowners will have their dance in the Fairgrounds. The cost is a dollar per head.

Basketball Player Fraternity Guest At Tuesday Lunch

Jim King, 6 foot 2 inch, guard for the San Francisco Warriors was a luncheon guest of the Lambda Chi's on Tuesday, September 27.

King, who is a three year veteran of the National Basketball Association, spoke informally concerning his education and his basketball career and he later toured the campus.

A graduate of Tulsa's school of Journalism, where he earned a B.S. degree, King played three years of varsity basketball and averaged more than 18 points a game.

Following the completion of college King signed with the Los Angeles Lakers. He was with the Lakers until he was drafted by the newly formed Chicago Bulls.

King never made it to Chicago however, he was traded to San Francisco with a player to be named later for Guy Rodgers.

Ineligible to play until October because of league rules, King was forced to watch while his San Francisco teammates defeated the Philadelphia 76ers. The game was played Tuesday night in the Centennial Coliseum.

Nelle Buchanan, a freshman prize-winning majorette from San Antonio, Texas, will lead the University of Nevada marching band this fall, according to Dr. John Carrico, director of bands.

The musical marchers will perform at tomorrow's Santa Barbara-Wolf Pack contest.

The Nevada band will present shows at each of the Wolf Pack's home games at the new Mackay Stadium. The band will also perform at California State College at Hayward and a special CBS-TV show at the San Francisco 49er game at Kezar Stadium, Nov. 6, 1966.

According to Dr. Carrico, the Nevada band ranks as one of the most active bands in the Far Western Conference. In addition to recognition as a marching unit the group has been acclaimed as a concert group and a stage band.

Striking Workers Delay Completion Of Nursing School

The signs around Stewart Hall tell the story. "Nursing 101 will meet in Frandsen Humanities". Orvis School of Nursing is not ready for occupancy. Just when it will be ready depends on the sheet metal workers. If they go back to work this week, the building will be ready by the end of October. The dedication ceremony will be October 29, even if the building is not finished.

When the nurses move into the new building, Political Science will move into the Stewart Hall. During the first year in the new building Sociology will be sharing the nursing school until they move into a building of their own.

'Last Chance' Wolves Frolic Minus 'Downers'

Wolves' Frolic, the traditional homecoming fraternity - sorority skit presentation, is being presented in a "make-it-or-break-it" contest this year.

Last fall, the Frolic, plagued by overtime running and substandard skit presentations, was voted down by the Inter-Fraternity and Pan-Hellenic councils.

However, Dave Hornbeck, this spring's newly-elected Inter-Fraternity Council president, felt that the Frolic deserved a second chance and submitted the issue once more to the fraternities and sororities who decided to try one more year.

Fraternities and sororities will work together this year on skit production based on the theme, "Nevada — Where the Action Is." The skits will be limited to ten to twelve minutes apiece with no limitation on expenses.

Three individual acts will also appear as fillers during the production. Auditions are now being held and an audition time may be set through Doug Copsey.

The fraternity - sorority and the individual acts will comprise the entirety of the Frolic. No Sundowner skit will be presented this year.

Profs To Do Navy Research

Professor William Van Tassel and Dean James T. Anderson, college of Engineering, have been contracted by the United States Naval Ordinance Test Station, Pasadena, California, for a computer research project.

Primarily, the contract states they will conduct a series of tests that will seek to improve the accuracy and efficiency of digital computers in connection with heat transfer problems.

Materials range from high conductivity metals like aluminum and copper, to low conductivity plastics, resins, and foamed epoxies. Thicknesses range from a few thousandths of an inch to several inches.

Their main interest is in the heat-transfer response of the materials to time-variant boundary conditions, or rapidly changing conditions of temperature and density experienced by rockets in flight.

The University of Nevada has a digital computer with three disk drivers and a monitor system for batch processing which can effectively handle test programs of this kind.

Dean Anderson is a recognized expert in the field of heat conductivity of materials, as is exemplified in his recent invention and experiments with the artificial womb that effectively kept a monkey fetus alive.

Governor's Committee Meets in Student Union

The Governor's Committee on Education will meet Saturday, Oct. 1, in the Travis Lounge of the Student Union. The meeting will take place between 9:30 and a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The committee, headed by Herbert E. Grier, president of a research and development firm in Las Vegas, will direct the meeting.

Elko Cave Yields Artifacts

A cave site in Newark Valley, Elko County, has yielded deposits which are estimated to have originated between 500 and 1500 A.D. Over two cubic yards of fill uncovered several thousand artifacts. Chipped stone, pottery, bones, and several charcoal samples were among the major finds.

The contents of the cave indicated that, at one time, it was inhabited by two different cultural traditions. The earlier tradition was probably related to the "Puebloid" culture of eastern Utah and southern Nevada. The later culture as related to the Shoshonean tribes which occupied the Great Basin region.

This was but one of several projects carried on this summer under the direction of Dr. Don D. Fowler, Assistant Professor of the Sociology and Anthropology department. Dr. Fowler is working with a group of people in cooperation with the Nevada Archeological Survey to uncover possible archeological resources in Nevada. The entire program is being directed by Dr. Robert Stephenson of the Desert Research Institute.

The aim of the survey was to begin a systematic inventory of the archeological resources in eastern Nevada, principally in Elko, White Pine, and Lincoln counties.

Some seventy-five new archeological sites were discovered during the survey plus revisiting several others which had previously been reported.

The project is to continue in the area with further survey and excavation work.
