

Royalty to be Chosen for Aggie Comic Rodeo

Six University of Nevada women and four men are vying for the title of Comic Rodeo King and Queen for 1966.

The chosen beauty and beast will reign over rodeo festivities which will be held tomorrow at Steen Ranch in Washoe Valley.

The winners will be announced tomorrow night at the rodeo dance which will take place at the Display Building at the Reno Fair Grounds. The dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Entertainment will be provided by the "Five Too Many."

The events for men will include wild cow riding, hay stacking, calf scramble, cow undecorating, wild cow race, and lamb stuffing. Those events slated for women will be steer riding, calf dressing and scramble, calf tying, barrel race, and lamb stuffing.

All students will be able to pick their choice for queen at the ticket table located at the entrance gate of the rodeo. Student identification cards must be presented at the ticket table before votes can be cast.

Diane Nelson, a sophomore from Menlo Park, Calif., is representing Delta Delta Delta. Diane is interested in interior design and hopes to take her talents to the San Francisco area after graduation. She likes to go barefoot and cannot stand snobby people.

Candidate for Kappa Alpha Theta is brown-haired, brown-eyed Cheri Pickett. Cheri hails from Fallon and wishes to teach the mentally retarded. Cheri likes writing and football.

Rachel Testolin, representing Manzanita Hall, likes to travel and bowl, but dislikes Sunday brunch at the Dining Commons. Rachel calls Fallon her home. She is a sophomore, and Agriculture-Business is her major.

Yini Watts, running for Gamma Phi Beta, is a blonde-haired, blue-eyed junior from Winnemucca. Yini likes rodeos and dislikes work. Her major is elementary education.

Suzette Swanson, Pi Beta Phi candidate, is from Reno. Suzette likes to ski, but she dislikes finals. Her major is elementary education, and she would like to teach third grade. Suzette is a sophomore.

Trudy Bisagno, representing the Off-Campus Independents, is a brown-haired, brown-eyed sophomore from Sparks. Her major is physical education, and she wants to teach in high school. Trudy likes everything.

King candidates are: SAE's Fred Noonan; Joe Guild of Sigma Nu; Phi Sig Matt Day and Joe Wage, a Lambda Chi.

Current trophies are held by Sigma Nu fraternity and Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The real raw-hiding interests of these two groups are expected to be heavily challenged.

Invitation For Students

Foreign students at the University of Nevada are invited to participate in the 14th annual Adventure in World Understanding to be held Dec. 20 thru 29, at Michigan State University.

Mr. Jack Selbig, Foreign Student Advisor at Nevada, stated the Adventure is designed to promote friendship and peace among future leaders of the world.

About 80 students, who are now attending American Universities will take part.

"The Challenge of Friendship" is the theme for this year's 10-day event.

The foreign students will live together, dine together, study together and sing together at MSU's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, an internationally known residence conference facility.

They will hear MSU professors and other learned people interpret the problems of the world today. They will join in cross-cultural discussions.

The foreign students will be overnight guests of mid-Michigan farm families, to get a closer look at American agriculture. They will tour a mid-Michigan industry and spend Christmas eve in the home and church of a mid-Michigan urban family.

Those foreign students interested in more information about the Adventure should contact the Foreign Student Advisor, Mr. Jack Selbig, room 108, Clark Administration.

Kersey Says More Food, Higher Costs

by Gregg Zive

"If the dorm residents want more food they must realize a raise in the price of meal contract cards is necessary," Bob Kersey, director of student services, explained in reference to the food riot last Friday night in the Dining Commons.

Kersey noted that there was an 8 per cent increase in the cost of contracts for the dorm residents this year but noted several facts to explain the fee hike.

"This was the first increase since 1961 and since that time labor cost has increased nearly 18 per cent and food has gone up 10 per cent. Also, since 1964 we have had to assume the cost of utilities which previous to 1964 the University paid for."

Kersey said a food committee meeting, composed of staff residents, resident assistants, and hall managers, was held Tuesday evening where suggestions for improvement and explanations of the present program were brought.

He went on to say studies that were made comparing Nevada's operation with similar ones in this area showed, "Nevada has the lowest price of any school in the area. Sacramento State charges its students $880 a semester, California charges $920 and Stanford charges $1,020. Even Nevada Southern charges more than we do."

The director of student services urged unhappy students to take their complaints to the food committee rather than throwing it around.

Kersey also said other schools only serve 19 meals a week and Nevada had to cut down from 20 to 19 a week because of the financial situation.

"Compared to other schools we are very reasonable. As far as seconds are concerned, in most dining commons they are not allowed on all the food offered on a certain meal. I only ask students to check prices and food at other campuses before complaining about ours. If any student has a good suggestion he should give it to the food committee where many ideas have been brought forth and put in practice," he noted.

Kersey said students had to pay cash for meals on Monday and Tuesday before registration day because the Dining Commons must justify costs to the Board of Regents and the official school year starts on registration day.

Kersey concluded by saying, "There are no great problems as far as the food is going. George King is doing a fine job. I would be glad to attend any dorm meeting to explain the operation of the Dining Commons and would again like to stress all students with suggestions should go through the food committee. That is the mature way to get something accomplished."

Dorms Still Have Problem After Meeting

What is being done about the conditions in the residence halls and the dining commons?

This question was still being asked by the members of the Committee on Residence Halls and Dining Commons as they filed out of a two-hour meeting with Bob Kersey, Director of Auxiliary Enterprises.

The meeting was called by Ron Shane, chairman of the Senate Standing Committee on Residence Halls and Dining Commons. The purpose was to present a list of compliments and complaints of living and eating facilities.

Present at the meeting were the five dorm presidents, all the dorm room assistants, the hall managers, and the Senate committee.

Ron Shane went over the reports of the dorm members. A summary of the requests is as follows:

White Pine Hall wants something done about inadequate heat in the dorm.

Manzanita Hall requested more phones be put in the dorm. There are now two phones—one of which is connected to the phones in Juniper Hall. Also, the women say more ironing boards are needed. They now have one board for 40 women. The furniture in the dorm needs to be recovered.

Artemisia Hall women want more washers and dryers in the dorm.

Juniper Hall women also want more ironing boards. They also want an additional bulletin board in the lobby. They say they were promised bedspreads for their rooms and have not received them yet.

The residence hall members would like cold milk. They say the milk machines are not working effectively. Since cold food is not appreciated, they suggest heat lamps be placed above the food.

There have been some complaints about hair in food and flies around the kitchen.

Military Ball Set for Nov. 19

Now that Homecoming activities have come to an end, plans for the 38th annual "Majestic" Military Ball are in full swing.

The event, to be held Saturday, Nov. 19, from 9 p.m. 'til 1 a.m. at the Centennial Coliseum, is sponsored by the University of Nevada Cadet Officers Club.

Frosh Coed Named J.C. Rodeo Queen

Ann Drumwright, a UofN freshman, has been selected to reign as Queen of the J.C. Rodeo, to be held in Carson City Oct. 29-31.

The pert elementary education major resides at Juniper Hall. She is 5'3", 110 lbs., with brown hair and hazel eyes. A few of her interests are photography, horses, and 4-H activities. Now a member of the UofN Aggie Club, she was once a president of the Carson City Jnuior Sheriff's Posse.

Miss Drumwright was chosen Queen from among four others on the basis of personality and horsemanship. The competition took place last Saturday at Carson's Fuji park, the site of this year's rodeo.

She will be crowned during the weekend rodeo activities, and ride in Monday's Nevada Day parade.

In past years the event has been considered one of the social highlights of the school year as many military, governmental and educational dignitaries attend. Last year over 1800 were at the ball.

Entertainment will be furnished by the Dick Rice Band with The Jets, a musical and comedy group, as an extra added attraction.

Tickets will be $3.00 per couple and will be sold by all advanced ROTC cadets. All students are invited to attend.

Formal introduction of the Military Ball queen candidates to the University of Nevada ROTC Brigade will take place at 11 a.m., Nov. 17, at the new Mackay Stadium.

The eight candidates will be escorted in convertibles past the reviewing stand and brigade, by senior ROTC cadets.

Lutz Cannot be Allowed to Use GSA or Brushfire as His Own

A publication which is sponsored by the ASUN cannot be allowed to become the voice of any group, especially a group which does not contribute to the ASUN.

In his campaign for president of the newly-created Graduate Students Association, Bill Lutz suggested that the organization give financial support to the Brushfire.

The Brushfire is an undergraduate literary-opinion magazine. Graduate students have the right to contribute to any publication they wish.

But, Lutz wants power and he sees the Brushfire as a media to publish his extreme views.

Recently Lutz resigned from his position with the "Ad Hoc Committee on Viet Nam." His reason was the work load of his English doctorate program.

Why then does he jump into a new position, and one which should require much more of its leaders than the Viet Nam committee could?

We suggest that this is another grab for power by Lutz.

Lutz was instrumental in the formation of the GSA. He was so instrumental many graduate students feel that he formed the organization for his own uses. The required membership and required fee is objected to by graduates who feel they neither need nor want an association.

Many graduates feel the large number of GSA members in the English department can give the power of the organization to their fellow student, Lutz.

We cannot believe Lutz can make himself as well publicized, as the few trouble-makers at Berkeley, with the Graduate Students Organization any more than he could with the "Ad Hoc Committee on Viet Nam." The graduate students won't let themselves be used by Lutz.

Debate Team Scores 15 Wins

The University of Nevada debate squad has returned from a tournament at Stanford University with a record of 15 wins and eight losses. The Nevada squad had a 69 per cent win ratio. Any percentile over 65 per cent is considered excellent by debaters.

Five teams participated in junior and senior division debating. The junior team of Doug Leonard and John Carrico had a record of five wins and no losses. They were one of the four undefeated teams in the tournament. Lura Batjer and Carol Alvinsino, also a junior team, chalked up a record of four wins and one loss. Both teams received awards for superior debating.

In individual events, Greg Corn received a superior award for junior extemporaneous speaking, while Ken Muller received the same award in senior extemporaneous speaking.

The squad was accompanied by Dr. Robert S. Griffin, chairman of the speech department, and Mr. Paul Page, debate coach.

Play Tapes Presented

A program of taped Shakespearean plays is being presented this fall in conjunction with English 271, 465, and 965.

Starring many famous actors and actresses, these plays are part of a series of recordings made by the Shakespeare Recording Society.

Jazz lovers will be allured by three hours of jazz now available for listening pleasure on KUNR-FM, the University of Nevada's radio station.

Mosaic Jazz, a program that features progressive jazz selections is scheduled for Tuesday afternoons from 4-5 p.m.

The program, which is hosted by Greg Haller, will present such great name jazz artists as Dave Brubeck, Miles Davis, John Coltrane, Thelonious Monk and George Shearing.

Haller will hold a prediscussion on each selection and point out the outstanding features of the music.

Progressive, big band and folk jazz will be played on the afternoon program, according to Haller.

World of Sounds, which is also hosted by Haller, plays two hours of jazz and contemporary music.

The Sunday afternoon program runs from 3:30-5:30 p.m.

OH, JUST HANGING AROUND

How to Win Friends and Influence People would be an appropriate book for Robert Kersey, director of Auxiliary Enterprises, to read in his spare time.

Mr. Kersey has been spotted in the strangest places lately. One distraught coed sighted him suspended from the post office flag pole late Friday night. Another saw him hanging around Kess Island.

During the effigial hangings, the outraged cry rang out. "Come down Mr. Kersey and face the problem."

What problem?

Apparently it is directly connected with the quality of the food that is being served in the university dining commons. The slogan, "if you can't eat it, throw it," provided the pounding rythm that led to a food throwing exposition in the commons last Friday night.

It has been known throughout history that social unrest is likely to develop during periods of famine. Friday night's "throw-in" may have been a sample of such unrest.

"If you can't eat it, throw it" will never enter the literary logs as a renowned epitaph, but on the other hand, neither did "through the stomach, a lot of hearts have been won."

THE CODGER IS GONE

Of all the strange phenomena which occur around us, the latest has taken place in the midst of the UofN campus. The bird that was so heavily grounded with age has, so well, said "farewell."

The pelican (claimed too old to fly) has flown the coop. After a near-month of rest and free fish, it has headed for greener pastures or bluer waters.

Last week it was spotted making unsuccessful attempts to leave the water, but drew little attention. It was common thought that the old bird was entering a second childhood and was gathering moments of strength through reminiscence. But alas, the mind over the body.

Since the pelican showed the spirit of youth, when it made its southerly flight, it should leave with the name Hebe. She was the Greek Goddess of youth. This may be the wrong gender, but who can be sure. Remember, the pelican was too old to fly.

INTERESTING STATS

As the gubernatorial race rounds the bend and heads for the home stretch some interesting statistics may be helpful in projecting an outcome.

The first is the mock election at the UofN. The results of this election put challenger Paul Laxalt in the winners circle by a landslide; he picked up a 275 vote margin over incumbent Grant Sawyer. The total vote was 655.

At Nevada Southern, our sister school, Laxalt won the top spot in the state with a 53 per cent margin. Governor Sawyer only lost by a slim 30 votes, out of a total of 394.

The J.C. Fremont Junior Sigh School of Las Vegas also ran a mock election. Sawyer only attracted 32 per cent of the vote, while Laxalt won by a comfortable 68 per cent.

Although many of these votes will never be tallied on election day because of age restrictions, there is parental and "of age" influence present.

In any event there is a trend of the young supporting Laxalt. It may be an indication that the old are also supporting him.

However, it is possible that Laxalt is ahead of his time.

When youth ask Robert Kennedy about running for president, he answers, "when you are old enough to vote."

Lutz Resigns

To All Members of the 'Ad Hoc Committee on Vietnam:

It is with deep regret that I find I must resign from the Ad Hoc Committee on Vietnam. My studies for my Ph.D. have reached the point where I must sharply curtail my extracurricular activities. I have greatly enjoyed my work with the Committee, and I am sure that the Committee will continue to provide the University community with a steady supply of discussion, debate, and information on the war in Vietnam.

If there are no objections from the members of the Committee, I would like to nominate Mr. Harold Brent, a graduate student in English, to take my place. Mr.

Brent is very interested in Vietnam, and his younger brother is in the Marine Corps and is presently stationed at Chu Lai, Vietnam. I am confident that Mr. Brent will do a fine job.

I would like this resignation to become effective on October 28, which will allow me time to straighten out the Committee's records and finish handling the details for our program of October 27.

Thank you for all the co-operation you have given me. I have enjoyed serving on the Committee, and I will always count it as one of the most rewarding experiences of my life.

Sincerely,
William Lutz

Dear Mr. Young:

Enjoyed your Oct. 7 issue of the Sagebrush, especially Mike Parman's comments in his From the End of the Bench.

"President's Own . . ."

Dear Sir:

In a letter to the editor for the 25 October Sagebrush Mr. Americo Chiarito chose to confuse the vision of a fine musical organization, "The United States Marine Corps Band", on campus with U.S. policy in Vietnam.

It seems that Mr. Chiarito and a number of other protesters we hear from these days are quick to criticize United States Armed Forces actions in Vietnam which result in accidental bombing of civilians, actions which are never planned or condoned on the highest or lowest level of command. On the other hand it is strange that we never hear of Mr. Chiarito's protests concerning the recent planned VC booby trap in the civilian area of Saigon which blew off hands and legs of several children and injured many others. We don't hear protests of the thousands of Vietnamese civilian officials who have been maimed, kidnapped, beheaded and shot by Viet Cong terrorists.

Yes, Mr. Chiarito, "The President's Own" is appropriate. The Marine Band does represent the Corps that helped stop Japanese imperialism, that has defended this country in many climes at times, that has a fine civil action program going in Vietnam and that is presently helping make possible for some of us to stay in the continental United States and write letters to editors.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Kersey
Director

Nevada Conference Discussed Earthquakes

An active summer season of conferences, lectures, and other meetings of national significance was highlighted with the presentation of a conference on Earthquakes and Earthquake Engineering. The conference was presented by the Mackay School of Mines and College of Engineering on the University of Nevada campus.

This major University event, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, was under the direction of Drs. Alan Ryall and D. B. Slemmons, of the Mackay School of Mines, and John A. Bonell, of the College of Engineering.

Some 70 scientists, engineers, and educators representing the fields of earth science and structural engineering attended the Reno conference. Included in the group as lecturers were men who have won national or international acclaim as experts in their respective fields.

The meeting was divided into three major categories. The first part was devoted to the history, basic theory, and recent advances in seismology. Among the subjects covered were great historic earthquakes, earthquake source mechanisms, seismic waves, fault creep, and microearthquakes.

The second part was concerned with faulting and geologic hazards in the western United States. Topics included active faults, geologic hazards, and tectonic evolution of the western United States.

The third part of the conference dealt with earthquake vibrations, and design features of earthquake-resistant construction. Subjects included analysis of spectra from earthquake records, performance of buildings, determination of response of structures, along with ductility and the energy absorption capacity of structures.

Nationally known western earthquake specialist, Dr. Slemmons, conducted a field trip to the central Nevada earthquake zone near Fairview Peak. Also included was a ground and air inspection of the Walker Lane and San Andreas fault systems.

Both an elementary coverage of the subjects and the latest advances in each field were provided by the lecture and discussions. The entire proceedings were tape recorded and will be transcribed for publication sometime this winter.

Art Exhibit Shown

Melvin Schuler, a northern California sculptor and painter, will exhibit his work at the University of Nevada Art Gallery through Nov. 11.

Schuler's showing is in conjunction with a series of exhibits sponsored by the University of Nevada Art Department throughout the school year.

Schuler, 42, studied art at the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland and at the Danish Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Professor William Howard, of the University of Nevada Art Department, said the next University exhibit will feature works from the Hansen and Dilexi Galleries of San Francisco on Nov. 13. That evening, the operators of the two galleries and Peter Selz, director of the art gallery at University of California at Berkeley, will speak about Bay Area art.

Foreign Student Director, Selbig Has Had Many Jobs

Teacher . . . Coach . . . Truck Driver . . . Dispatcher . . . Mechanic . . . Athlete . . . Advisor . . . Husband . . . Father. These are some of the many things familiar to Jack B. Selbig, foreign student advisor for the University of Nevada.

In his capacity he helps to find out the students' aptitudes and solve any problems that may arise.

When asked how he found the job at Nevada Selbig stated, "I just happened into it. I am fascinated with foreign students and the job has given me glimpses of people and places which I never much thought about before. These people have problems speaking English because most of them learned the language in schools, and don't understand our slang terms, so essential to one's being understood. I would very much like to see this young program grow."

Mr. Selbig was born and raised in Waterloo, Iowa, a small mid-western town. He graduated from

Jack B. Selbig

State College of Iowa with a major in physical education, and in math, biological science, English, and physics. During his years at the school, Selbig played football and ran dashes on the track team.

Prior to his senior year at "state" he went into the Army for one year, and the Air Force for three. During these years Selbig worked as a truck driver, dispatcher, and a mechanic for Uncle Sam.

Upon completion of his degree, he went to Lone Tree, Iowa, where he taught school and coached at the high school. In 1946 Selbig came to Nevada and went to work as an instructor at Mineral County High School in Hawthorne. In 1960 he received his masters degree in education and secondary schooling.

Selbig spent from 1962-65 at Arizona State University at Tempe, on a fellowship. In 1965 he was appointed as foreign student director for the University of Nevada.

Selbig resides in Reno with his wife and three daughters. His hobbies include bowling, water skiing, skating, and church work.

Orvis Dedication Tomorrow; Building Culminates Dream

This Saturday's dedication ceremony at the Orvis School of Nursing will culminate the dream of the Nevada medical and nursing profession for a modern, ideally-equipped educational institution.

But the new, split-level building will also stand as a memorial to Dr. Arthur Emerton Orvis who died before he could see his share in the dream materialized.

His death last year ended a quarter-century of philanthropic activities — in education and the arts generally and in the field of medicine in particular — from which Nevada has greatly benefited.

He is the founder of the school of nursing, and one of the founders of the Carson-Tahoe Hospital and the Nevada State Museum at Carson City. He has contributed to the support of Washoe Medical Center and the University of Nevada.

It is said that his interest in founding a school of nursing here was sparked by Maida Pringle, assistant administrator at Washoe Medical Center and the matriarch of nursing in Nevada.

After founding the school in 1957, he backed his faith in its success by starting a building fund with $200,000. The balance of the fund — $445,000 — was supplied in 1965 by the federal government and the state.

His title of doctor is not a medical one. He was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters by the University of Nevada in 1955, and an honorary degree in Humanities by the University of Hawaii in 1959.

Born in South Orange, New Jersey on July 21, 1888, Arthur Emerton Orvis was an eighth generation descendent of George Orvis who came to America in 1629.

Orvis was educated in New York and New Hampshire. He was graduated from Cornell University, College of Arts and Law, in 1911.

He was a World War I veteran of the Signal Corps, Aviation

Section, was injured in a crash, discharged, and then appointed Inspector of airplanes and engines in the Bureau of Aircraft Production.

After the war, he was with two New York exchange corporations and with Orvis Brothers & Company, an investment corporation.

He retired in 1933 and spent much of the remainder of his life in Nevada and Hawaii.

During World War II he served as deputy sheriff of Douglas County, and served on the Rationing, Scrap Metals and Rubber Boards.

In his honor, the Orvis Room of the new school of nursing will display his flag, his doctoral hood, and a portrait of him, painted by Craig Sheppard.

NTI Offers Course

An introductory course in computer programming will be offered this month by the Nevada Technical Institute. The course will cover both scientific and business applications.

Classes will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 7-10 p.m. for a total of 35 hours of instruction. The first meeting will be held in room 347 of the Scrugham Engineer-Mines building at the University.

Bands to Travel During Fall Tour

The University of Nevada Marching and Symphonic bands expect to play to more than 70,000 persons during their fall tour.

The bands, under the direction of Dr. John Carrico, will present a series of ten concerts at high schools in northern California. After the concert series, the marching band will play during halftime at the Nevada-Cal State at Hayward football game Nov. 5.

Sunday, Nov. 6, the marching band will perform at the San Francisco 49ers-Los Angeles Rams football game in Kezar Stadium, which will be nationally televised.

Library Gets Gift

The Friends of the University of Nevada Library held their annual dinner meeting Wednesday, in the Travis Lounge of the Student Union Building.

The Friends were founded in 1952 to foster the development of the library. Recently they presented to the library one of three known copies of the first printing of Nevada's Constitution.

Membership in the Friends of the Library entitles a person to use the library's facilities and receive a copy of Samuel B. Doten's "An Illustrated History of the University of Nevada."

Agriculture's Dean Bohmont On Study Tour of Nevada

Dr. Dale W. Bohmont, dean, Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture, is presently touring the state of Nevada and its county Farm Bureaus. He plans to meet with selective service clubs and high schools to seriously look at the pros and cons of a college education: should a student stop after high school or continue for a college degree?

His other topics for discussion are: the College of Agriculture's research and extension program, the need of state participation in communal projects, and the system whereby the Nevada Legislature appropriates money for the College of Agriculture.

The dean will be speaking in these counties:

October:

- 20—Humboldt County
- 21—Elko County
- 22—Churchill County
- 27—Lyon County
- 28—Washoe County
- 29—Eureka County
- 31—Pershing County

November:

- 1—Lander County
- 2—Clark County
- 4—Lincoln County
- 5—White Pine County

High schools also on the list for speeches are: Winnemucca, Elko County, Wells, Owyhee, Mesquite, Overton, Pahranaagat and Lincoln County Valley.

One area of major emphasis, according to the dean, will be the use of money appropriated by the Nevada legislature. In the past and present years its use has been to further research by the 4-H Club such as improvement in alfalfa and livestock production. The youth program has also benefited, having doubled membership in the last four years.

Projects involving leadership in the community and the adult education service have been able to aid citizens of Nevada. The new teaching program has helped to increase the College of Agriculture's student population 200% and the Home Economics population 100% since 1960. Another direct result of usage of this money in both these colleges has been a two-year associate degree program.

Nevada Southern to Field Tall and Talented Squad

By Mike Parman

LAS VEGAS—Nevada Southern will field a tall and talented basketball team for the 1966-67 schedule. The Rebels will be bolstered by several junior college transfers from California.

NSU plays a 26-game schedule, against such teams as Idaho State, Wyoming University, Creighton University, University of Hawaii, the Phillips 66'ers, Houston University, San Diego State, Portland University and Fresno State.

Although the Rebels compiled only a 16-11 mark last year the Nevada Southern team stands an excellent chance of bettering its old mark. Returning NSU lettermen are 6-4 inch Clyde Dawson, who averaged 14.6 points against opposition last year, 6-5 inch junior forward Ed Terwilliger, Charles Payton, Dixon Goodwin, and Chuck Campione.

Four junior college transfers may determine just how far NSU will travel in basketball circles this year.

Leading the transfer list is Vic Morton, a 6-6 rebounder who averaged 15 points per game at Imperial Valley JC last year.

He was all-conference on a team with a 31-1 record last year. He was also the team's leading rebounder.

The toughest player on the transfer list may be classy Jerry Chandler, who comes in at 6-3 and boasts a 25 point-per game scoring average at City College of San Francisco last year. Chandler was on the all-conference team and was also a member of the Air Force All-Star team in 1960.

Elburt Miller, who comes in at 6-4, is another player that may leave his mark. He averaged 23 points a game last year, and was the leading rebounder for San Diego City College.

Ron Carter, a 6-2 junior from Porterville College, averaged 17 points per game last year.

The Rebel camp will be without the services of Silas "Giant" Stepp, and Ron Weilochowski. Stepp was the dominant factor in NSU basketball while breaking all previous school scoring and rebounding records.

Nevada Pack To Face Chico's Hi-Ranked Passer

By Jim Marshall

Chico State's Joe Stetser, the fourth-leading passer in the nation, will try to outwit the University of Nevada defense tomorrow at Chico in a Far Western Conference football clash.

The Chico quarterback has already broken all Wildcat passing records, plus many conference marks.

Stetser threw 50 times against San Francisco State last weekend for a new conference record. He completed 19 to equal a school record set two weeks earlier. In the last six games the Chico ace has completed 88 times for 1,336 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Pete Franco has been Stetser's top target, catching 34 passes for 467 yards. Frank Hosteller and Pat Mello are also favorite receivers. Between them they have caught 40 passes for 527 yards.

Although Chico's running game is not as potent as the Wolf Pack's, the Wildcats do possess a running threat in halfback Bob Wallace. Wallace is the Far Western Conference sprint champion.

Wolf Pack quarterback Chris Ault is second in conference passing with a little under 1000 yards.

Halfback Joe Sobek is the second leading ground gainer in the conference with 289 yards in 62 carries.

The Wolf Pack will be in good shape for the game Saturday after emerging from a victory last week over the University of San Francisco, with only minor injuries. The game gave Coach Dick Trachok a chance to use many promising men to add more depth to the team.

Chico State has yet to win a conference game and has a 2-4 overall record. The Wildcats hold wins over Redlands, 28-24, and Southern Oregon, 39-16.

Nevada has lost only one game this season, by a 27-0 margin to San Francisco State. The Pack has a 4-1 overall record.

Frosh Trounces Chico

The University of Nevada Frosh football team trounced Chico State 34 - 0 Friday afternoon. Coach Floyd Edsall's team took advantage of five fumble recoveries and one pass interception to turn the game into a rout.

Halfback Bill Pearson and fullback Ed Lantis each scored a pair of touchdowns. Ted Boyett accounted for the final tally with a pass interception.

Hours for One Unit

By Jeanette Wiley

How Many Hours Can Go Into A One Unit Class?

Autumn is here and with its brisk days comes the fall sport—football. Suddenly on college campuses throughout the nation, football is the big event as everyone's attention turns to the game.

At the University of Nevada students start planning their weekend activities around the football schedule. The fans sit glued to the stands and as the Wolf Pack comes onto the field, they are greeted with a loud roar from the crowd.

The players, bounded in large shoulder pads, bulbous helmets, with their ankles and hands thickly taped, have become to their fans, October heroes.

Long before autumn rolled along, however, the boys on the team were thinking, sleeping, and playing football. Many started getting in shape for the season during the hot July days.

Official training began September 1st. The boys report to practice two to three weeks before the commencement of school, meaning they have to leave summer jobs early, which sometimes results in $400 loss in earnings.

For the first day of practice potential players have to be able to run a six minute mile, which means they must be physically fit beforehand.

Double session practice immediately begins and lasts for two weeks. The boys are on the field by 9 a.m. Those who have to be taped must report to the field house 45 minutes earlier. For two hours the players do calisthenics and work with new plays.

At 11:30 a.m. practice ends and the boys break for lunch. At 3 p.m. the team suits up and is again out on the field for more contact drills and experimentation with new plays. At 5:30 p.m. a tired group of college youths sit down at the training table to a hot meal, and discuss the day's program. This routine continues daily, including Fridays and Saturdays.

As school begins the players find themselves doing as much studying for football as they do for their classes.

Double session ends and the team now reports to practice Mondays through Thursdays for three hours. Many players come an hour early to work on specific skills.

On Fridays, short pre-game workouts are held in preparation for the game the following day.

Saturday is game day and the boys are tensed up. They eat their pre-game meal in the early morning. It consists of steak and baked potatoes.

A good two hours before the game, the team assembles in the locker room to be taped and dressed. Tension is mounting. Coaches give brief talks and go over the plays. Some of the boys lie on the locker room floor, staring up at the ceiling, contemplating the forthcoming game. All are nervous.

Before going into the field for warm-ups, the players hear another chalk talk. A half hour passes and the team comes back to the locker room for the final suiting up and last instructions.

At 2 the Nevada team enters the playing field to meet its opponent and hopes its hard-earned abilities result in a victory.

Tuesday nights and Wednesday afternoons are set aside for films of the previous week's game. The team discusses its mistakes in plays with the coaches and goes over weak spots.

Team determination, emotion, and physical exhaustion goes into the making of a team. Fans who will make these boys heroes in October do not even know of this.

For all the team's efforts and hard work its only replacement is football skills, enthusiastic backing from the college, and one single unit received for participating in the sport which is better than a cleat in the mouth.

Volleyball Signup

Registration deadline for intramural volleyball is 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 2. Interested students and groups should contact Thorne Tibbitts, director of intramural athletics, in room 107B in the gym.

Play is scheduled to begin Nov. 6.

Pack Runners Meet Hayward

The University of Nevada cross country team will meet California State at Hayward this Saturday. The event will take place in Hayward. The Pioneers edged the Wolf Pack by one point earlier in the season at Sacramento.

Coach Dick Dankworth feels his team is in good condition. He also stated that he was very satisfied with his team's performance last Saturday at Arcata, Cal. The Pack defeated the Humboldt State Lumberjacks in a driving rain.

The team took five of the first seven places. Steve Dunlap with a 34:07 clocking was the first to cross the finish line for Nevada. He was followed by Kevin Scherlock and Arlen Melendez for third and fourth places.

Regent Is Outstanding Alum

An outstanding alumnus of the University of Nevada, former editor-in-chief of the Sagebrush, and 1928 graduate, is Dr. Fred M. Anderson. A former Rhodes Scholar, Dr. Anderson is now starting his third term on the Board of Regents as Chairman.

Dr. Anderson received his medical degree, cum laude, at Harvard in 1934; he entered the Medical Corps of the Army in November, 1941 and became chief of surgery in the 148th General Hospital on Saipan, leaving the service after the closing of the war with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Dr. Anderson is now active in many organizations, some being a member of the Nevada Cancer Commission; a regent for Nevada, California, and Hawaii of the American Association of University Governing Boards and Colleges; and secretary of the Nevada Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee since 1945.

Dr. Anderson, as a member of the executive committee of the university alumni association in 1939-41 and from 1948 to date, is a highly interested alumnus. A plaque for outstanding service to the association was presented him in 1963.

While at the University of Nevada, Dr. Anderson was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, scholarships honoary; was editor-in-chief of the Sagebrush; was assistant editor to the Artemisia; and was active in Campus Players, Blue Key, and Coffin and Keys.

Dr. Anderson, married to the former Miss Anne Luckinbill, lives at 1350 Frederick Lane, Reno. He is the father of two, Suzanne Claire, a freshman at the University, and Fred Mather, Jr. He is now in specialty practice of general surgery in Reno with two partners at 275 Hill Street.

Regents Prepare Two Resolutions

Two resolutions have been prepared by the Board of Regents to be submitted to the 1967 state legislature.

One proposal would call for a raise in the University's capacity for indebtedness from one to three per cent and the second would raise the capacity to two per cent. If the legislature approves either, a constitutional amendment would be required to make it law.

A review of residency and tuition requirements for married students was ordered by the regents. State Deputy District Attorney, Dan Walsh, will make the study for the university.

Bureau of Mines Has Press File

Forget a date? Misplace a clipping? Wondering if there is any recent information published locally on a new mining project?

The Nevada Bureau of Mines, the state's mineral industry agency at the Mackay School of Mines, has one public service which is not generally known. This service consists of a press file, available to visitors, which contains a running record of Nevada's mineral industry news.

The file includes published information relating to Nevada mining, geology, metallurgy, and exploration activities. This information is gathered through the services of a professional Nevada clipping bureau and by members of the Bureau of Mines staff.

There is a permanent scrapbook, begun in 1929, which features major items along with a selection of duplicate stories and Nevada mining news of purely local character.

The Nevada Bureau of Mines is located in the new Scrugham Engineering Mines building on the University campus in Reno.

Trot to the Ticket

The annual Ticket Trot, sponsored by the University of Nevada Cadet Officers Club, is on.

Every year a Military Ball ticket is hidden somewhere on campus awaiting only the diligent searcher who can decipher clues published in the Sagebrush.

The finder of the ticket can go to the "Magnificent" Military Ball, Nov. 19, free and take several prizes home.

Initial prizes for this clue are: a free dinner for two at Miguel's restaurant, a cultured-pearl necklace from Roger's Jewelry and a Westclox travel-clock from Glaser Bros. Prizes will be added for each clue.

Running Record Set by Sigma Nu Bob Stauts

Bob Stauts, Sigma Nu, set a new record in the Homecoming cross country meet Saturday, running a longer track than in any previous meet, according to Thorne Tibbitts, intramural athletic director.

Stauts, with a time of 25:49.9, cut 78 seconds off last years time by 27:07.9, made by Sigma Nu Dave Dee. The existing record of 27:04 was set in 1963. Stauts shattered this by 75 seconds.

The track had been extended this year by approximately two tenths of a mile, to 4.4 miles, ending in the new Mackay Stadium.

Tibbitts also noted that student participation is growing in intramurals. Last year 117 crossed the finish line in the meet. This year 150 students and ten graduates ran.

Former Student On Moot Court

Steve Morris, a former student and debater at the University of Nevada, has been selected a member of the 1966 National Moot Court Team at the University of Texas in Austin.

Morris graduated from Nevada in 1965, where he participated in intercollegiate debate for three years. He is now attending the University of Texas Law School. He is the only second year law student to become a member of the team.

The University of Texas presently holds the National Moot Court Championship and the International Law Moot Court Championship.

670 Others Sans-Major

If you are undecided about about your major at the University you are not alone — 670 other students are in the same position. Of the students who have declared their majors in the College of Arts and Science has the largest enrollment with 1457 students (this excludes those who are undecided). The College of Education and the College of Business Administration are a distant second and third.

The smallest of the seven colleges at the University is the College of Nursing with only 118 students. Two of these are men.

Women outnumber men in two of the colleges, Nursing and Education, this excludes the School of Home Economics which is a part of the College of Agriculture.

Of all the 451 students in the College of Engineering only 9 are women, of these the majority are in mechanical engineering.

AWS Convention

"Values—Morals or Masks" will be the theme of an Associated Women Students Convention. It will be held Saturday, Nov. 5, at the University of California, Berkeley, from 9-4, according to Marvis Cooper, AWS President.

The convention will have discussion groups, a keynote speaker, and a panel made up of a doctor, psychologist, churchman and professional women.
