

ASUN Committees Report Findings to Senate

By Susie Bruckart

Reports of the ROTC Investigating Committee, the English "A" hearings, and the Publications Board were the main business of the ASUN Senate meeting Wednesday night.

The Senate Committee on ROTC, headed by Dave Firestone, has proposed to send out questionnaires to all ROTC classes and other students in order to obtain the public view of the value of the ROTC program.

The points to be answered in the questionnaire will concern: Should ROTC be voluntary; would the student elect it if it were voluntary; is enough credit given for ROTC; should letter grades be given; how much time does the student devote to the class study; does the student believe he has gained personally from the program and does the student feel he will benefit from what he has learned from ROTC later on in life?

It is the hope of the Senate committee that this survey will show a percentage of opinion which can be used as a framework for a presentation to the Board of Regents for evaluation and consideration.

Pat Tullis, chairman of the Senate English "A" Investigating committee, reported on the hearing held Wednesday with the English department on the issues of the English "A" program.

Senator Tullis said that the hearing was mainly a "clarification of issues". One issue being considered is why students go down grade points when failed, yet don't receive grade points if passed? English department representatives said

English "A" is a non-University course, and in the past people have continually repeated the course with no penalty for failures.

Another question concerned the $54 assessed students for the course. The reason for this is that English "A" is a University Extension course which comes under the evening program. Therefore, the student is paying the regular fee for the night program. A complete refund is given those students who are promoted out of English "A" and into 101 within the first few weeks of class. If a student drops the course, he is refunded three-fourths of the fee.

Student attitude toward the course was also considered. It was felt by some that a student's pride was offended and a sense of punishment felt by those having to take the course. English representatives stressed that the course is given to benefit the student and help him to succeed in 101.

It was maintained by the English department that a student having passed "A" has a 1-1 chance of succeeding in 101. The purpose of the "A" program is to bring up the standards of the student and help him in his studies.

The department representatives added the Academic Standing committee makes the rules governing this program, not the English Department.

The next hearing will be December 7 at 3 p.m. in the East-West room of the student union. At this time administration members will be heard.

Senate also approved the decision of the Publications Board to revert back to the method previously in effect for a fee split allotment. The Forum and Brushfire will receive funds directly from the General Fund rather than from the Publications Board.

Kersey Explains Recent Clamp-Down On Dining Cards

"Students sign their dining commons cards with the understanding that they have read the conditions of the use of the card," says Mr. Bob Kersey, Director of Auxiliary Enterprises. Mr. Kersey was referring to a recent clamp-down on dining commons rules.

One of the conditions that card holders are responsible for is that they cannot transfer their cards to any other person. Mr. Kersey gave a theoretical example of what would happen if everyone gave his meal card to someone else each time the card owners didn't plan to be at a meal.

From past experience, the Dining Commons staff knows just how many attend a Saturday morning breakfast. As a result, a certain amount of food is allotted for the breakfast meal. If the people who did not usually attend that meal were to give their cards to someone off campus, the result would be that more food would have to be purchased.

"This is an example of how we could lose money. We would have to go out and replace the food that was eaten by the card borrowers in order to feed those who legitimately hold meal cards," Mr. Kersey added.

Mr. Kersey explained that a pamphlet will be circulated spring semester stating Dining Commons conduct and rules.

Faculty to Receive Report on ROTC From Dean's Investigating Committee

The pros and cons of mandatory ROTC at the University have long been discussed. Now, something definite is being done on the question.

A report will be given to the University Council (the faculty governing body) at its forthcoming January meeting. The report will contain the final recommendations on the voluntary-mandatory aspects of the ROTC program, stated Dean of Students Affairs Sam Basta.

Basta is chairman of the faculty Ad Hoc Committee to Study ROTC. The committee has been studying the problem for nearly a year, since President Charles Armstrong asked for a report.

Since President Armstrong requested the report, it will first go to him. Armstrong will then give the report to the Council for recommendations.

Previously, the committee was unable to arrive at a decision, so it made no definite recommendations.

Basta says the committee plans to meet several times between now and January. It has much information, he added, and will be able to go through the data, and base the final decision on it.

Inquiries into the course content, credits, and other phases of the ROTC program will be made, although, as Basta said, "a lot depends on our recommendations."

Colonel Earl W. Ralf, Head of the Military Science Department, gave his personal opinion: "If there is sufficient benefit for the student to take ROTC, then he should. If not, then he should not take it. I personally feel there are benefits."

The Colonel said the Military Science Department will support whatever the University decides in the mandatory-voluntary issue.

The final word on the ROTC question rests with the Board of Regents, which must approve any change.

The University is required to offer ROTC, because it is a land grant college. However, the course does not have to be mandatory. Presently, two years of the military classes are necessary for graduation.

If the compulsory program is abolished, the change cannot take place immediately. It will be mandatory for at least one more year.

Agreements with the U.S. Army require that both parties give a year's notice of any change in the military program.

Library Now Opens At Noon on Sundays

The Getchell Library is now open on Sundays at noon.

Previously the facility opened its doors at 2 p.m. Sundays. The new time is part of a program to possibly liberalize library hours if students show a desire to take advantage of them.

Harvey Instrumental in Death Penalty Delay

University of Nevada English Professor Dr. Robert Harvey has possibly been instrumental in delaying the death sentence of convicted rapist Pierce Spillers.

Dr. Harvey started a petition objecting to the death penalty which was signed by 271 persons. The petition was drafted last Friday, in protest of the sentence, which Harvey and the other signers considered too severe for the crime committed.

Spillers' lawyers have asked District Judge Grant Bowen for a new trial. The decision on whether Spillers will be re-tried came too late to make the Sagebrush deadline.

The defense attorneys, Rayner Kjeldsen and Richard Fray, filed for a retrial on the grounds that the first trial was not fair and contained errors of law.

If the retrial is granted, a change in Spillers' sentence may be possible. If not, the death penalty must be imposed by Judge Bowen.

Harvey, in writing the petition, asked the judge to delay the imposition "of this barbarous sentence and to instruct the jury to reconsider their action." The judge is not empowered to do this.

No opinion on the guilt or innocence of Spillers is stated in the petition, emphasized Harvey, nor is there any stated opposition to capital punishment.

The petition-signers feel the crime committed, in which no loss of life resulted, is not grounds for the harsh penalty.

Spillers was convicted of rape with extreme violence in an assault upon a Reno housewife. He was an inmate of the Peavine Prison Camp in northwest Reno at the time of the crime.

VARSITY and Frosh jumped into the new season Tuesday night. Varsity won, 85-58 (See story Page 4).

Popularity Contest

The ASUN Senate has established a committee to study the possibility of a program under which students would be able to rate their professors.

As our student government considers such an idea one fact should be known: such faculty rating systems have been tried elsewhere and have been failures. They have shown themselves to be inaccurate and often unfair popularity contests.

It's not that the idea is a bad one. Certainly an accurate evaluation of students reaction to their teachers would be of value to the administration. However, there is no practical method of doing this.

In "A Theory of Data" Clyde Coombs analyzed a typical student-faculty evaluation system at the University of Michigan. His study showed the results of the program didn't present a true picture.

The problem, according to Coombs, is the numerical rating system used. In order to give each professor a "score", the students rate them from 1 to 10. It's in the transferring of opinions from words into numerals that the inaccuracy begins. Coombs says it's extremely difficult for anyone to rate a professor accurately using this abstract numerical system. Even if this were possible, its doubtful the rating would mean anything.

Dr. Paul Secord, chairman of the psychology department, says it would take an extremely detailed process of individually examining each students' impressions in his own words to approach any degree of accuracy. The reasons for each student's ratings would have to be considered also. The variables involved are tremendous.

And so if we consider all the necessary steps to make a student-faculty evaluation system work, it's obvious it would be a colossal undertaking.

The faculty is already annually evaluated by the departmental chairman. When they "rate" a professor they also take into account important criteria other than his performance in class and popularity with the students.

We think they've done a creditable job. Let's leave it that way.

For Your Information

by George Frank

When I first decided to write a column for the Sagebrush I placed my hand on the writer's bible (in my case the dictionary) and I swore by the most inner and saintly oath that I would never write in the first person.

I had many reasons for my decision. The foremost was my thought pattern. It doesn't seem to appeal to any specific group. I can't conjure the enlightened thoughts that are found in the deep and dark abyss of the intellectuality. What I mean is my thoughts are not profound enough to delight the scholar. So there goes one group.

The mediocrity are not easily moved. I guess my writing doesn't have enough fire to heat the metallic shield that protects their feelings and passions.

The third group is the uneducated. They are not present, at least according to the catalogue. And if there are some around they aren't interested in my column or what I have to say, or the newspaper or school or anything. So there I was, like a car without wheels, taking up a lot of room and doing nothing.

But my philosophy changed.

It happened in the strangest way. I was eating turkey on Thanksgiving Day and the chunks of meat were sticking in my throat, about half-way-down (right where the adam's apple is when you are not swallowing).

I quickly left the table, turkey and some astonished guests. I even forgot to excuse myself. After a short analysis I decided my physical malfunction was caused by worry and fretting.

The worry stemmed from school, which I had left 300 miles behind. But the distance did not stop me from asking the same question over and over. "How did I do on those tests I took?" And the other question. "How many notices will I have in the mail when I get back to school?" I decided that I had received the "cinchers" about five times already that day.

I stretched back on the bed and I filled my mind with the delightful thoughts of a school without the tribulations of tests and grades and the worry of "cinch notices". A school designed just for the sake of learning.

There is such a pleasure and I admire a person who can retain it under the adverse conditions of stress and strain. The feeling is very addictive and one it is experienced, it is very annoying when it disappears.

As I thought of its disappearance I hypothetically constructed an educational system that would allow room for it at all times. A system which would measure a student's abilities without the omnipresence of fear.

Next week the return of the "feeling."

Letters to the Editor

Harris Defends

Sagebrush:

Because of confusion resulting from a recent Sagebrush editorial, I think it necessary to define the objectives of the proposed Teacher Evaluation Program.

As the Committee has repeatedly stated, the program is to aid the professor in improving his teaching. It will do so by providing an objective evaluation of personal mannerisms, organization of the course, value of text, and other pertinent factors. The instructor may then realize certain weaknesses which can be corrected.

Obviously, the faculty will gain most from this program; but we as students will also benefit, for any improvement in teaching can only increase the value of a course. (Note that the administration is in no way involved. This is an ASUN program.)

As an ASUN program it will be financed by ASUN funds. The expense will be slight. We do not propose a massive evaluation costing $3000. Instead, we propose a voluntary program to begin in Spring 1967. This is a modest but reasonable beginning. The cost of printing 3000 evaluation questionnaires would be $15.28. An information sheet presenting guidelines for the evaluation would raise the total to $30.56. This sum would hardly destroy an annual budget exceeding $120,000.

As students, we must recognize that the program will succeed only if it wins the cooperation and respect of the faculty. The Committee is therefore proceeding in four steps:

- 1) Private interviews to sample faculty opinion (now in progress).
- 2) Public seminars to encourage suggestions and constructive criticism. (Jan.-Feb. 1967.)
- 3) A trial evaluation to determine objectively and validity of evaluation forms. (Jan. 1967)

- 4) A program for voluntary use by the faculty (Spring 1967). We tentatively suggest that the evaluations be collected and analyzed by the Committee, and that a sheet listing the strengths and weaknesses of the professor be returned to him.

This may seem a timid beginning to those who wish a booklet criticising both instructor and course. But a caustic catalog like the University of Washington Course Critique has proven a near disaster. Many professors have refused positions at the University because of the ridicule dominant in the Critique.

If ever this University attempts an information booklet, its editors must have a foundation of trust and information to build upon. This Committee, and those that follow must quietly and deliberately establish this trust and experience.

Dick Harris, Chairman
Senate Committee for Teacher Evaluation

Russell Backs

A recent editorial in the Sagebrush has unjustly laid criticism on the ASUN TEACHER EVALUATION PROGRAM and its Chairman Dick Harris. The editorial by feature editor, Dave Freeman, labeled the program a "farce" and expressed the opinion that its chairman was incapable of being objective in light of his father being a professor at the University.

If Mr. Freeman had done little research before he wrote his opinion, instead of basing his editorial on an article from a local newspaper, I am sure he would have been more favorable toward an evaluation program and Dick Harris.

An evaluation program has been discussed and rediscussed for the last few years without any usable accomplishments. Because of student interest, this year the ASUN Senate created a special committee with Dick Harris as its chairman to initiate such a program. This committee at the present time is in the process of attempting to create a teacher evaluation system which will be feasible on our campus.

The task of adopting a system is not necessarily an easy one for in order to be of benefit to the students and the University, a program cannot be haphazardly constructed. With this in mind, the committee has and will continue to sample faculty and student opinions, ideas, and criticisms. The very existence of a teacher evaluation system will depend upon the sincere cooperation of the faculty and this will be accomplished only when the students initiate a program which will gain their support. This is what the Senate committee is in the process of doing.

It should be the aim of teacher evaluation to aid in the caliber of education at the University by assisting the professors in the process of educating. The evaluation should be completely positive in nature, not mocking our educators, but helping them to improve themselves. The real concern should not be who gains directly; the professors, who learn about their instruction, or the students, who learn about the instruction, but the fact that the students will be the recipients of a better education.

The creation of an evaluation system which will be of benefit to the students and will have permanency is going to need the cooperation and support of the student body. It will be a while before the specifics of the program are settled and in the meantime we can help Dick Harris and his committee. If there are any criticisms, bring them to the attention of the committee! don't pass judgment on lack of knowledge.

Criticism has been levied against Chairman Harris because his father is a faculty member. In response, I would like to mention for Mr. Freeman's benefit that Dick is one of the most respected student leaders on campus—a student who has done an outstanding job in the ASUN Senate and who has put a great deal of time and effort into his committee. Those of us who know Dick Harris, are confident that he will continue to do an excellent job with his committee as he has done so far.

Harvard Graduate Driggs Returned to U of N to Teach

"The outcome of the recent national election will be good for the two party system," stated Dr. Donald W. Driggs of the Political Science Department, "it is a very healthy situation."

Dr. Driggs feels that the result of the election was a foregone conclusion, though it did surprise many people.

Busy with teaching classes and especially interested in political theory, Dr. Driggs' other activities include acting as secretary-treasurer of the Western Political Science Association. The annual meeting of this organization was held at Reno last spring and allowed political science professors and interested persons to present papers and collect awards for doctoral dissertations.

Dr. Driggs was born in Phoenix, Arizona. He attended many different schools including high schools in California and Illinois. His college career began at Brigham Young University and was continued at Harvard where he received his masters and Ph.D. He recalls taking classes from former adviser to President Kennedy, McGeorge Bundy, while working on his doctorate.

Coming to the University of Nevada in 1956, Dr. Driggs taught in the Political Science Department until 1961, when he received an offer to become chairman of the social science division at Stanislaus College in California.

He remained at Stanislaus College for two years and then received a Carnegie Fellowship to the University of Michigan to study college administration. While at Michigan, Dr. Driggs worked his internship with Roger Hines, now chancellor at Berkeley.

After finishing his studies, Dr. Driggs returned to Stanislaus College as assistant to the president.

"But I found I missed teaching," Dr. Driggs said.

And so he returned to the classroom and Nevada in 1965. Dr. Driggs teaches his favorite subject, political theory.

Summer Schedule To Appear Early

Class schedules for summer school sessions will be published before second semester said Richard Dankworth, director of the summer session at the University of Nevada Extension Service.

The early publication of the schedules is designed to help students plan summer courses prior to spring registration.

There will be greater course offerings in certain areas. It is hoped that students will accelerate their college programs through this new procedure.

Dankworth urges all students to investigate these summer offerings.

There will be two summer terms. The first will be June 12-July 18. The second will run July 19-Aug. 23.

Students will be able to earn six credits each summer session.

Newman Club Plans Schedule For Holidays

The Nevada Newman organization will open the holiday season with a full slate of events. A bake sale is planned for Sunday, Dec. 4, preceding all morning masses of Our Lady of Wisdom Church.

That same evening the Catholic Student Center will be the focal point for a hootenany from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30. Songbooks, refreshments and music will be provided.

Plans for a library of comparative religions, to be dedicated to John XXIII, are under way. In a city wide buy-a-book campaign, residents will be asked to donate a new book for the library.

The Sunday 10 o'clock mass has been reserved for college students with the introduction of songs from the Mass of Young Americans.

Nevada Newman president, Joe Bell, has extended an invitation to all college students to attend the weekly meetings held every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Catholic Student Center across from the women's dorms on Virginia St.

Mistletoe on Sale

Mistletoe will be on sale in the student union or from any Colonel's Coed all next week.

Proceeds from the sale will go toward uniforms for the newly formed women's auxiliary to the ROTC.

The mistletoe will be sold for twenty cents.

Vocational Educator Fills New State-University Post

A new position of Teacher Educator, Industrial Vocational Technical Education has been created at the University of Nevada. The joint efforts of the Vocational-Technical and Adult Education Division of the State Department of Education, and the College of Education, at the University made this possible.

Mr. Ivan Lee of the Clark County School District has been appointed to this position.

Mr. Lee attended Utah State University and graduated from that institution with a B. S. Degree in Industrial Technology.

He began his teaching career at Francis E. Warren Air Force Base in January of 1951, and one year later joined the staff at Utah State University where he taught for six years in the Technology Department of the School of Engineering. While at Utah State, Lee continued his education and received his Masters of Science Degree in Industrial Education in the Spring of 1955.

Lee has attended many service schools such as General Motors Institute, and the Bear Safety Service School, as well as summer school sessions at Utah State to complete administrative certification requirements for the State of Nevada. This past summer he attended a seven-week institute for Industrial Arts and Vocational Teachers at San Jose, California.

In order to fill the need for qualified vocational instructors in trade and industrial education in Nevada, Mr. Lee hopes to develop an in-service program for the 1967 spring semester. An undergraduate program is anticipated for the fall semester of 1967.

Lee resides in Reno with his wife and their two sons.

Four Nevada Coaches are ready to kick off their respective seasons.

Mat Action Slated in San Jose

The Nevada Wolf Pack wrestlers face top caliber competition when they travel to San Jose this weekend. On schedule today is a dual meet with San Jose State. Saturday, the Pack goes against such teams as Fresno State, Santa Clara, USF, Cal Poly (SLO) and several other large schools in the San Jose Invitational.

All Far Western Conference teams will also be represented. The meet may provide the Wolves with a chance to prove they have one of the best wrestling teams in recent years.

As a warm-up for this weekend's meets, Nevada faced Lassen Junior College in the University Gym, Wednesday.

The Nevadans looked impressive in winning six matches, losing none, and tying one.

Before the meet began, LJC had a 10-point lead because Nevada was forced to forfeit two matches in the lower weights.

Even so, the Wolf Pack won easily with a 32-13 bulge.

When asked about his team's showing in the Lassen meet, Wolf Coach Billy Daniels said, "We showed lots of hustle, I'm pleased."

He went on to say that this year's crew is further along than the team was last year at this time, but that a little more work on techniques is needed.

Individual results of the Lassen meet are as follows:

137—Duane Quick (N) pinned Mike O'Kelly (L) in the second period.

145—Mike DeHart (N) outpointed Lassen opponent, 4-1.

152—Terry Moreland (N) pinned Fred Roath (L) in the second period.

160—John Rogers (N) outpointed Jim Bonistell (L), 4-0.

167—Roy Kreizenbeck (N, Nevada captain, pinned Clayton Servillican (L) in the first period.

177—Ted Boyetti (N) pinned Richard Gile (L) in the third period.

191—Chip Carter (N) drew with Gene Ryan (L)—Carter gave away 18 pounds Heavyweight — Larry Stiff (N)

outpointed Lassen opponent, 4-2.

Students Bags 'Monster' at Pyramid

"I finally did it. The monster of the lake is dead."

These were the words of Joe Waage, UofN student, last Saturday afternoon at Pyramid Lake. Waage had just landed the largest cutthroat trout of the season on a fly he tied on the way out to the lake.

Waage, who makes many of his own lures, tied a fly out of some thread, an old feather, and a bit of red yard from his cap.

He hooked the 11-pound, 5-ounce "monster" at the north end of the lake on his fourth cast. Twenty minutes later he had the 30" trout beached, with the fly hanging loosely from its lip.

Varsity Wheels Past Frosh In Pre-Season Cage Clash

Nevada fans were offered an early look at both the 1966 varsity and frosh basketball squads when the two clashed Tuesday night in the New Gym. The varsity won, 85-58, in a game that saw Coach Jack Spencer use many different combinations of players.

Frosh basketball coach Frank Bruno also rotated his players frequently.

The varsity poured it on in the second half, after leading by only a 39-31 margin at the close of the first period.

When the second half opened, Nevada's varsity hit for 19 points, compared to the frosh squad's seven. With about two minutes left to play in the last quarter, the varsity had a 29-point lead.

Nevada's only returning starter, Bob Gilliam, snagged 13 points to take varsity scoring honors, while the frosh was paced by Alex Boyd's 15.

Nevada, using its new ball-control offense, started off slowly, until Gilliam scored three consecutive baskets to break a 14-14 tie.

Nevada hit 52 per cent from the floor, compared to 24 per cent for the frosh. The frosh got more shots at the basket than the varsity.

Joe Madigan, a new addition to the varsity, took rebounding honors with eight.

Breaking double figures for the varsity were forward Rick Waters with 12 points, former Virginia City guard Hugh Gallagher with 12, center Dan Briggs with 10, and forward Tom Smith with 10. Varsity guard George Shoenberger led the fast break and scored eight.

Wolf Pack Tangles with College of Idaho Monday

By Mike Parman

"We saw a lot of things we have to work on . . . but I was pleased at some things."

So said basketball Coach Jack Spencer regarding the varsity's topping of the frosh, 85-58, Tuesday night in the New Gym.

Spencer is readying the Wolf Pack squad for Monday night's home opener against the College of Idaho.

Regarding Idaho, Spencer said "They had a nice ball club last year." He is traveling to Sacramento to watch tonight's Sacramento State-Idaho game.

Nevada defeated the Idaho squad in its own territory last season, 84-66, despite the play of center Taft Jackson. Jackson, the key to the C. of I. offense last season, averaged about 25 points a game but has been lost to graduation.

At this time, the starting lineup for the Wolf Pack is a question mark. Bob Gilliam, the only starter back from last year, appears to be the only sure choice. Spencer substituted freely against the frosh.

Spencer said that he as yet does not know what to expect from the Idaho squad. In facing Sacramento State, the touring Idahoans will be facing one of the toughest teams in the FWC.

Concerning the game against the frosh, Spencer remarked, "We stood around too much . . . Actual game experience is what we need."

The Wolf Pack hit 52 per cent from the floor against the frosh, who fired a cold 24 per cent.

Physically, this year's squad is bigger than the conference-winning 1965-66 team that compiled a 21-6 season record. Although unable to jump as high, the 1966-67 team has more weight to throw around under the backboards.

Spencer also pointed out that the varsity needs some improvement on defense. Although beaten, the frosh actually got more shots from the floor.

Nevada, one of the highest-scoring teams in the conference last season, will rely on a steady, ball-control type offense this season. They will not have the outside scoring punch, and will work for the good shot.

One bright spot in the frosh game was the outside shooting of veteran Tom Smith from Winnemucca. Although he saw little action last season, Smith showed exceptionally good shooting from far out and netted 12 points against the frosh.

Classy Bob Gilliam is only returning starter from last year.

From the End of the Bench

By MIKE PARMAN

NEVADA BASKETBALL TEAM . . . Will be one of the shortest in the conference. Sac. St. has several 6-7 or 6-8. Chico St. has three 6-6ers and a 6-5 player. Cal Aggies have four or five in the 6-4 to 6-5 range. SF State is also tall, while Humboldt St. has one of the tallest teams in its history.

NSU BASKETBALL TEAM . . . Was upset by its alumni in the annual game. It appears that too many players with high JC point averages have trouble working together.

CARSON COLLEGE BASKETBALL TEAM . . . May do very well. They are playing some very good teams but have high caliber players. Among them is George Winters, 6-5 forward, guard, or center, depending upon what he's needed for. From Sparks, Winters averaged about 25 points a game in high school, more than that in city league ball, and was also a stand-out for the UofN frosh several years back. He could play on almost any team on the West Coast.

NEVADA FROSH . . . May have another outstanding year. They looked terrific the other night against the varsity, although cold from the floor. They play Reno High School Monday night in a prelim to the Wolf Pack-College of Idaho game.

WRESTLING TEAM . . . Is in San Jose this weekend for several big meets. Usually we have not done all that well against the big schools in the tourney, but we might pull a lot of surprises this year.

BOXERS . . . Are still running, and running, and running. It's still not too late to go out. The first match is quite a ways off yet.

OUT OF THE PAST . . . December 6, 1923—Prof. J. E. Martie has just been appointed coach of the '23 basketball squad. The Sagebrush goes on to say "the Wolf Pack will be among those to be reckoned with on the court this season. . . ."

Carson Rangers Open Season

While teams like Nevada, NSU, Sacramento State, and even Reno High School are grabbing the pre-season basketball headlines, tiny Carson College is quietly embarking on its basketball season.

Our small neighbor to the south played College of Southern Utah last night in Cedar City. The final score was not in time for this issue of the Sagebrush.

Carson, which recruited basketball players this year, will have a starting lineup that is taller than Nevada's.

Startnig at center is 6-7 John Soltis. Forwards are 6-6 Jack Crowell and 6-5 George Winters. The two starting CC guards are 6-3 Larry Wright and 5-9 Jim Barrick.

Tomorrow night, Carson will face Pacific College of Fresno, in Fresno, and then meet Chico State in Chico, Dec. 14-15.

The Rangers will play only two home games this season, both in the Carson High gym. On Jan. 17, Coach Jerry Nielson's squad hosts Western Baptist, while Pacific of Fresno visits Jan. 30.

Carson College opened just this year south of Nevada's capitol, Carson City.

A blindfold test for beer.

If anybody ever says you can't pick Budweiser with your eyes shut, you can call his bluff.

First, stick your nose close to the foam of each glass of beer and take a sniff. Notice a difference? The one with the clean, fresh aroma is Budweiser.

Now taste. This gets a bit tricky. But the one beer that tastes like beer without any one flavor jumping out at you (like hops, or an extra sweetness, or sometimes a sour or sharp taste) is Budweiser. That's because Budweiser is blended—by our Beechwood Ageing. We want you to taste the beer, not the recipe.

If anybody pulls a beer-tasting test on you, now you know how to win. Just follow your nose.

League Basketball Squads Seek Early-Season Wins

With football scarcely ended, basketball teams across Far Western Conference territory will be seeking to endear themselves to their fans as the first week of cage action begins.

Several games were played last night, with a full slate of contests scheduled for the weekend.

In tonight's action, San Francisco State faces the University of Portland, one of the better teams on the coast. Chico State is at Central Washington, while improved Humboldt State hosts the San Francisco Presidio. Sacramento State, with one of the tallest teams in the conference, hosts the College of Idaho.

In games last night, Cal State at Hayward was at home against the University of Pacific, last season's West Coast Athletic Conference champion; the Cal Davis Aggies visited Colorado School of Mines and Sacramento State traveled to St. Mary's.

Nevada will open regular season play Monday, against the visiting College of Idaho, Wolf Pack victims the last two seasons.

Saturday also rates as a big basketball night, with the College of Idaho at Cal State, the Cal Aggies at Colorado College, San Francisco State at Portland, Chico State at Seattle Pacific, and the San Francisco Presidio at Humboldt State.

The WFC's newest member, Sonoma State, will begin its season Dec. 13, against Cal Baptist, in Sonoma.

In other Monday night games besides the Nevada-College of Idaho affair, the Cal Aggies are at Regis College, and Chico State is at Western Washington.

The "International Bake Shop" will be presented at the same time with the help of the International Relations Club.

Proceeds of the International shopping bazaar will go for a scholarship to Ellen Smith, U. of N. YWCA delegate, to attend the National Student Assembly of the YWCA-YMCA in Chicago over Christmas vacation.

Pilfering Increase Seen in Library

Have you lost something lately? There has been an alarming number of thefts at the library in the past week.

Roger Tissier, assistant of circulation, asked students to help the library staff in assuring that articles aren't taken.

The first step to take is not leave articles such as purses, wallets, and keys lying on the desk in open view. And secondly, if a student sees an article taken, report it to a member of the library staff.
