McCarthy polls national vote

Nixon wins campus choice '68

By TIM COUNTIS
Political Editor

Richard Nixon narrowly edged Sen. Eugene McCarthy in the Choice '68 balloting at the University of Nevada, though taking a third place slot to McCarthy in the national rating.

Nixon won in only four of the ten regional areas included on the ballot — The Southeast, South, Mountain and Southwest (Arizona, Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas) regions. In the Far West region, which included Nevada, California and Hawaii, McCarthy polled 33,789 votes to Sen. Robert Kennedy's 22,789 and Nixon's 14,345.

Nixon appeared on the Nevada scene a little more than two weeks ago. The Republican hopeful made a brief visit with Gov. Paul Laxalt in Carson City.

Also Nixon met with some of the state's top Republicans. He commented that the Nevada delegation would go to the August convention uncommitted, but he knew he has support in Nevada.

During the Republican convention in Winnemucca there was no confirmed Nixon support, but his name was mentioned more than other possible presidential candidates.

Second place choice at this campus went to Kennedy, who edged McCarthy by four votes—177 to 173.

The third choice was Rockefeller with 167 votes. McCarthy was second with 123.

Over 1,072,830 students on some 1,200 campuses across the country participated in the April 24 mock-election sponsored by Time Inc. Over 44 per cent of those who voted, about 475,000, will be eligible to vote in the November election.

On the question of military action in Vietnam, 18 per cent of the national vote was for immediate withdrawal, 45 per cent for phased reduction, seven per cent favored the current policy, nine per cent favored an increase and four per cent wanted "all out" effort.

Here on campus the same question drew almost the same results. Of the 966 votes cast for that question, 16 per cent wanted withdrawal, 40 per cent favored reduction, six per cent agreed with current policy, 12 per cent wanted increased efforts and 26 per cent favored "all out" effort.

On the second question of bombing, the doves won nationally—29 per cent wanted permanent cessation and the same figure proposed temporary suspension of all bombing. Twelve per cent agreed with the current bombing policy, 26 per cent said we should intensify bombing and four per cent wanted the use of nuclear weapons.

At the University of Nevada the bombing question coincided pretty much with the national results, though leaning a little more to the hawkish view. Cessation was desired by 26 per cent, suspension by 24 per cent, current policy by ten per cent, intensify by 34 per cent and use of nuclear weapon by six per cent.

To solve the urban crisis, 40 per cent of the national vote favored education. Close behind was

Sen. Eugene McCarthy won overwhelming support from the nation's college students in the Choice '68 vote sponsored by Time Inc. He beat second-place Robert Kennedy by over 70,000 votes.

Richard Nixon, who showed up in third place on the national rating, was the first place choice of students on this campus.

Groups discuss U. S. strategy

Liberal and conservative elements squared off in a debate over U.S. policy in Vietnam Tuesday night in the Thompson Education building, and for nearly two hours hit upon a wide gamut of controversial topics—from guerrilla warfare to the '68 elections.

Nearly fifty people listened to discussion and debate from the Students for a Democratic Society and the conservative Young Americans for Freedom.

John Pafford, a graduate student for the YAF, called the Vietnam situation, "part of the communist drive to dominate the world." He said if Vietnam falls to Communist hands, surrounding countries would follow.

Joe Peer, arguing for the SDS, said "continuation of the war is based on misconception of what U.S. priorities are." He said we base our priorities on "anti-communism." He said a more effective policy would be one of containment, subverting Chinese interests and aiding underdeveloped countries.

Mike Erga of the YAF said South Vietnam did not sign the 1954 Geneva Accords (ending the French domination), and therefore South Vietnam cannot be expected to abide by the rules therein—such as free elections to be held within two years after the end of conflicts (1956).

This was in reply to the SDS' argument that the South Vietnamese government from 1954 to 1956 was corrupt and undemocratic.

John Carrico of SDS said the Vietnam conflict is not a conflict between two separate countries—North and South Vietnam—but rather an internal civil war within one country.

He contended that Vietnam never legally divided, and therefore the U.S. is only taking sides in an internal struggle. "Why should we support one side, when both sides have broken the agreements," he said.

Carrico further stated the communist National Liberation Front began in the South, rather than in the North as is commonly conceived, because of the corruption and oppression of the Diem regime.

He called Ho Chi Minh "the

George Washington of all Vietnam," because he is the father of the present day political entity of Vietnam, and is "more of

Sagebrush honors students, Dean

Pat Miltenberger

Miss Pat Miltenberger, 1967-68 president of the Associated Women Students, has been selected by the Sagebrush as one of the outstanding students of the year.

As Dean of Women Elaine Mobley has said, "Pat has an extraordinary perception of things that need to be done."

Miss Miltenberger has pushed for, and gotten, a number of reforms.

Dick Harris

Selected for one of this week's outstanding University of Nevada students is Dick Harris, out-going first vice president. Noted by his peers as a conscientious student, he has held many official university positions and has received many honors since he first started college here four years ago in the Geological Engineering curriculum.

Now a senior, Harris has been a Senator of Arts and Science twice (See Dick Harris page 2)

Harold Kirkpatrick

Sagebrush Honors to Dr. Harold L. Kirkpatrick, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and associate professor of history, was an easy selection for the staff.

Dr. Kirkpatrick is recognized not only as a highly capable administrator who maintains close contact with the students, and a competent teacher, but a most versatile man on campus.

Racial meet

Twenty three speakers are scheduled to appear on the Reno campus beginning Monday as the Nevada Summit Conference on Racial Discrimination and the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Lectures get underway.

The summit conference, with five sessions May 13, 14 and 15, will include 20 statewide governmental and civic leaders who are scheduled to participate or be represented.

(See page 3 for schedules)

The slate of speakers was completed with the announcement that Clyde Mathews, director of the Nevada Department of Economic Opportunity, will appear Tuesday afternoon.

Fleischmann grants aid trial judges

By Joe Helgerson

Over the last three years Fleischmann grants totaling more than $3 million have financed the National College of State Trial Judges.

Dean Laurance M. Hyde, Jr. said future programs under the grants include an orientation program for new judges, conferences with all groups involved in law enforcement, judicial seminars in every state and a program for improving court administration.

The National College of State Trial Judges was established at the University of Nevada in 1965 under an 11-year grant of $2,395,000 from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation. An additional $200,000 was provided for a law library.

In January of this year, a Fleischmann grant of $750,000 was made for a building to house the college. A library, offices, class rooms and conference rooms will be included.

"Last year we held an experimental conference at Lake Tahoe with convicts from the Nevada State Prison, judges and law officers," Dean Hyde said. "This was the first close look at the law enforcement procedure by the entire group involved. We could sponsor a program like this throughout the country."

"We have applied for a grant to finance a new judges orientation program. People are reluctant to suggest to a judge that he should go to school, but most judges realize that they could use some help. Most new judges are experienced trial lawyers, but they have not handled all types of cases, and have never had to make a judgment."

There are a number of people involved in the judicial process, such as judges, prosecutors, police officers, probation officers, social workers and psychologists. Each group is different and does not understand the problems of the other groups, Hyde said. Conferences could provide a better understanding among the groups.

Dean Hyde said he would like to have the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges establish its headquarters at the University of Nevada. Juvenile, traffic, probate and other limited jurisdiction courts should not have second-rate judges.

"Courts are big business, and they have management problems," he said. "Some courts are using management trained people to assist in court administration. We would like to create a training program for court administration here.

"A better system should also be devised for backlog cases. The Detroit riots last year added 4,200 cases in a few days, and the courts couldn't handle them."

The first session of the National College of State Trial Judges was held at the University of Colorado in 1964. Classes and seminars were conducted to give trial judges additional training. "I attended the first session," Dean Hyde said, "and it was a tremendous help. I was a judge in Missouri at the time. The following year I was invited to return as a member of the staff."

"In 1965, the college was moved to the University of Nevada, under a Fleischmann grant, and I was asked to be dean. I accepted the position because I sincerely believe it is an opportunity to make an almost unlimited contribution to the administration of justice."

"They couldn't have made a better choice," said Nevada Supreme Court Justice Gordon Thompson. "He is interested in community affairs, and can get along with all kinds of people."

"After visiting Reno and bringing my family, I decided it was a good place to live," Hyde said. He likes the outdoor life in Nevada, especially camping and hunting.

"He's a crack shot with a shotgun or pistol," said David Heron, director of the University of Nevada library. "He has a progressive, inquisitive mind, and is willing to consider all points of view and break with tradition. The Tahoe seminar is an example of his progressive approach."

Laurance M. Hyde, Jr. was born in Princeton, Mo. in 1927. He was graduated from the University of Missouri with A.B. and LL.B. degrees.

After being admitted to the Missouri Bar in 1952, he was associated with a St. Louis law firm until 1953. He served as general attorney for the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company from 1953 until 1962.

He was selected under the Missouri Non-Partisan Court Plan in 1962 as judge of the circuit court of the city of St. Louis. His father, who was also a St. Louis judge, helped found the Missouri Plan under which judges are appointed from a list of candidates prepared by a commission of judges, lawyers and laymen. After serving a stipulated period, the judge's name is placed on the ballot unopposed, with the voters being asked to approve or disapprove the continuance of the judge in office.

He resigned as judge in 1965 to accept his present position.

Dean Hyde lives in Reno with his wife Nancy, and their children, Anne, seven, and John, three.

a nationalist than a communist."

Erga asked Carrico later in the session if the U.S. should not honor its commitment. Carrico said "We must change it if it is a mistake."

Pafford said there "is no middle ground," in combatting world communism. He said either it must be completely eradicated, or eventually it will engulf the world.

The YAF did not agree with present military strategy in Vietnam, and called for the bombing of more key areas. They contended, however, that nuclear weapons are "not necessary."

They also said a coalition government in Vietnam would not be feasible, for the NLF and South Vietnamese factions could not cooperate.

When asked by the audience who would be the best president for handling Vietnam, SDS endorsed Kennedy or McCarthy while the YAF was in favor of either Wallace or Reagan.

Peer concluded, "The important thing in Vietnam is the political, economic and social reconstruction of that country." He said the "money will have to come from our pockets," since we are the ones who destroyed it.

Erga summed up with, "It's time we stand up and say 'This is as far as we go.'" He said we should not consider the cost of the war, but rather its long-run ramifications.

job training with 39 per cent, riot control received 12 per cent of the balloting, housing received six per cent and income subsidy trailed with 3 per cent.

Nevada students again followed the national results closely. Education got 42 per cent, job training 39 per cent, riot control 13 per cent, housing five per cent and income subsidy 2 per cent.

Although Hubert Humphrey did not announce his candidacy until three days after the election, he received 18,535 of the 31,775 write-in votes in the country. This accounted for 60 per cent of the total write-in and two per cent of the total vote.

Rockefeller, who came in fourth on the national scene, did not announce his candidacy until six days after the Choice '68 event. Almost 11,000 foreign students voted in the mock election. Kennedy polled most of the foreign vote with 3,976 ballots. McCarthy was second with 3,049.

At the University of Nevada 12 foreign students voted. Kennedy pulled eight of these, Nixon two and McCarthy and Johnson got one apiece.

State Service Chairman for the Young Republicans, Larry Wahrenbrock, said of the results, "It is very interesting there was only a 17 vote spread (on campus) between a flaming anti-war candidate and a conservative."

"The only thing I can see is McCarthy is big with the college students. He has based his whole campaign on a lack of funds and made it up in manpower. He thinks young," said Wahrenbrock.

Wahrenbrock, a University of Nevada student, said the campus newspaper's editorial stand in favor of McCarthy, probably was a significant factor in the good showing the Minnesota senator made on this campus. "Nevada is known to be conservative," he said.

Lew Carnahan, treasurer for the McCarthy organization on campus, said, "there is an increase on this campus towards more political awareness. A few years ago a liberal candidate would have found much less support on the Nevada campus."

Carnahan said this shows Nevada students are taking more interest in "what is going on beyond the borders of the state of Nevada."

Choice '68 chairman on this campus, Bill Dunfield said, "I think we had enough turnout that some valid generalities about the whole campus can be made."

He said Choice '68 headquarters has contacted him about the possibility of a similar mock-election in the fall, between the two party candidates.

Guild interns in Washington

"I hope the experience I gain this summer will help me in my post as Junior Class President."

This was the statement of Dan Guild, newly elected Junior Class President, about his appointment to work in Senator Bible's office in Washington D. C. this summer.

Guild also said "The experience I gain this summer in Bible's office will help me in law school."

While in Washington D. C., Guild's job will be to attend various committee meetings and write briefs on the proceedings.

Guild received the internship by writing Senator Bible and asking for the job.

Besides working in Senator Bible's office, Guild plans on taking two classes at George Washington University, while in Washington D. C.

Guild also commented on the possible racial trouble in Washington D. C. this summer. "The Negro population in Washington is about 65%, therefore it can not be discounted as a major trouble spot this summer."

He will leave for Washington D. C. in early June and will be there until the middle of August. After leaving Washington D. C. Guild plans to attend an SAE leadership school in Evanston, Illinois.

Guild is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Blue Key.

an excellent counselor and an enlightening speaker or participant in student and other university functions, for which he avails himself without hesitation.

His background speaks for the man:

He graduated with honors from Mexico City College in 1952, received his MA degree from the University of California at Berkeley in 1954, and his Ph.D. from the same school in 1962.

He taught English in Prague, Czechoslovakia, through the beginning of World War II, was an instructor of personal services and CIC subjects in the U.S. Army from 1944-47, and later taught the English Language and literature at Mexico City College.

He came to the University of Nevada in 1960 as an assistant professor of history. In 1960, he was named assistant dean in 1961 and made an associate professor in 1966.

In addition to his many elected and appointed committee assignments, he has been president of the Faculty Senate and is a member of the executive board of that organization, and is chairman of the College of Arts and Sciences Committee on Courses and Curricula.

Basta pleased

While complimenting the Mackay Day Committee today (May 6) for its work during the annual festivities, Dean of Student Affairs Sam Basta suggested an "open house" theme for future Mackay Day celebrations.

"The dean and staff are extremely pleased and appreciative of the hard work and effort of chairman Bob McQuaid and the committee," said Basta.

"It is hoped that the new chairman, whomever he shall be, will seriously consider an open house for parents, alumni, and friends to visit on that Saturday," said Basta.

The entire university, including all colleges and separate departments, could present displays of accomplishments within a particular area, he said.

"The campus atmosphere was excellent this year and the rodeo was well coordinated," said Basta.

In past years, Mackay Day activities have been accompanied by occasional disruption by students who had to be dealt with by university and city police.

Basta said the Sundowner dance was well conducted.

hours has been one of her biggest accomplishments this year. She was the main force in getting liberal hours for seniors with a 2.5 GPA in the second semester, and obtaining "grace minutes" for tardy students.

Under her guidance the AWS sponsored the first "Psychedelic Symposium," which brought before the students the question of drug usage. This was one of a series of AWS sponsored lectures.

Miss Miltenberger was the chief promoter of a panel discussion on campus discrimination problems in February. At that time many Negro students voiced their complaints about discriminatory practices on campus.

Looking to the future, Miss Miltenberger has worked on plans to fit the AWS into the university's ten year program. Another innovation is the "Codgers' Coffee Hour," designed to increase participation in women students 25 years and over.

Her good humor and foresight have brought the AWS to the forefront of university activism.

He is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity and has served as the Cadet Colonel of the university ROTC brigade, from whom he received the outstanding senior cadet award at the recent Governor's Day Celebration.

Debate team is third

The Nevada debate team of Mike Stano and Greg Corn placed third at Eugene, Ore., last weekend in the only "all male" contest in the country, The Pacific Forensic League Tournament (P.F.L.T.).

Stano, a Salina, Kan., junior, also placed third in oratory speaking while Corn, a Reno junior, won third place in after-dinner speaking.

Gordon Zimmerman, debate coach said: "This was the only tournament in the entire country that is restricted to men."

Plans for campus building awaiting federal approval

Plans for the new four-story chemistry building and lecture demonstration hall were sent to San Francisco, Calif., Monday (5-6-68) for approval by the federal government's Office of Education.

The Office of Education must approve the building and then release the date that bidding will begin. Bids will be taken for 30 days.

Edward L. Pine, director of the Physical Plant, said he hoped construction could start in July. It will take an estimated year and a half to complete the building, he said.

Finances to build the new 10 buildings will come from the federal government, state appropriations and student fees for capital improvements. Each will pay one-third of the total cost.

The contract will include the removal and destruction of the old field house, located in old Mackay Stadium.

Once construction begins the parking lot to the east of Effie Mona Mack Social Science Building will no longer be used.

Faculty may park on the west side of the building during construction.

Pine said the new buildings could be open in the Spring or Fall of 1970. Once the buildings are completed, landscaping will be done.

Total cost of the chemistry and demonstration buildings is $3.5 million.

A four-story physics building is also planned for the old stadium.

'Speak-In' covers campus problems

By Pete Stoll

President N. Edd Miller Tuesday defended University of Nevada standards, called for student autonomy and academic freedom, and discussed Nevada's future growth.

His comments were made at a Student Union Board-sponsored "President's Speak-In," held in the lounge of the Student Union. "Nevada is a fully accredited institution which had not failed to receive any accreditation it has applied for," Miller began.

"In recruiting faculty members we have been successful" in getting good quality professors. "The students also help establish the university by the quality of their work," he explained.

Miller reported that Nevada Southern University received approval from the Board of Regents to use a different admission standard. Nevada would not change, he said.

Their new standard "allows students with a high school grade point average of less than 2.3 to go on a special program . . . they are given two semesters to prove themselves," Miller elaborated.

He also told of University plans to give Nevada students more "chances."

"A university committee recently recommended that a student who does not qualify for English 101 upon entrance can choose whether he wants to take 101 or English A," related Miller.

Miller has proposed to the Chancellor's office that a year from now the $54 fee for English A be eliminated.

"Dead Week is now being reviewed to define it more thoroughly and we will be able to take action on this next year," Miller responded.

"I also feel that the Student Senate should not be considered as a showpiece, because it has an important function to play in the University," he said, talking about student government.

"I have great confidence in the students managing themselves."

He also expressed his belief in allowing the Student Judicial Council to have more authority.

"I feel the students should police themselves," Miller added when a question arose concerning the hazards involved in "laking" people.

He also said the Mackay Day Committee has been working for two years to get classes dismissed on Friday. This year it succeeded in getting them dismissed at 2 p.m.

"I would oppose Nevada seceding from the Far Western Conference," said Miller when talking about athletics. "This school has tried that once before and we went bankrupt."

"If Nevada Southern is successful it will put pressure on us, but we will not allow them to dictate our policy."

Commenting about a university swimming team Miller said, "If there is an interest in starting any team, the Intercollegiate Athletic Board would consider it."

When asked about fraternity discrimination he replied, "Our expectation is that national charters will be changed and if they aren't there will be corrective measures taken at this university."

President Miller also discussed the future growth of the university.

"I favor expansion of the student union. And there are many directions in which it can go besides into the lake," he declared.

"It can expand to the west where Artemisia will be torn down or where the humanities building is, because it will come down in the future," explained Miller.

He also termed the gymnasium inadequate. "It is also on our list of funding, but is not on the next biennial," said Miller.

"The university also intends to increase its scholarship program and is trying to increase and improve its work study programs," he continued.

However, he pointed out the raising of funds is the big problem.

At the top of the expansion list is the chemistry building and then the College of Education. Funds have already been given to the school for a building to house the College of State Trial Judges.

"Also in future years, more faculty members will be added and teaching loads will attempt to be reduced," Miller concluded.

Nye residents elect officers, Kurt Schweer is president

Vice President Kurt Schweer was elected president of Nye Hall Monday. He was unopposed.

Schweer was the principle student figure involved in improving Nye Hall's controversial parking lot.

Jay Davis was elected vice president, and Steve Schweer, brother of the president-elect, was elected senator. Gene Lee and William Pratt were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Nye Hall's five Residence Hall Association (RHA) council seats, filled for the first time, were captured unopposed by Olin Beall, William Farmer, Michael Howell, James Nadeau and Robert Wagner.

All Nye Hall officers take their positions next semester, using the remainder of this semester as a training period.

President-elect Schweer's major plans include building up the money-making projects of Nye Hall such as the new radio station, KNYE, a snack bar, and the present arcade in Nye's basement.

Schweer wants to organize these on an independent business basis. He said that the "students don't want to be forced to do things," and that this plan will provide "things to do that are fun, but not required."

He intends to maintain a loose relationship with RHA. He feels the proper roll of that organization will be to take care of the previous external duties of the hall presidents "and leave me to work with Nye Hall."

Schweer will replace president Dave Baleria.

'Hobbit Hole' for campus

By Buz Olian

The University of Nevada's Hobbit Hole opens today to students who would like a place to be entertained in comfort.

The Hobbit Hole is not a hole as the name suggests, but rather a student club opened to any "college minded" person, according to Roberto Crawford and Chuck Herger, student co-owners. The Hobbit Hole is located at 1035 N. Virginia, directly across from Juniper Hall.

"Fifty cents will entitle a student to eternal, non-transferable membership to the Hobbit Hole," Crawford said.

"We will order books and records for students and carry an inventory of the most popular orders. Also we provide a place where people can sit and read these books, or listen to some sample records," Crawford explained.

"As a further service to the members we will serve a variety of refreshments on a donation basis," he said.

The two men believe there is a need for a place where students and faculty could exchange ideas over a cup of coffee. "We haven't

'Fantasticks' opens tonight

The first musical in two years will open on the stage of the University Theatre tonight at 8 p.m. "The Fantasticks," by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, is a colorful two hours of lighthearted melodrama.

The plot is a simple one—boy meets girl. "But it's the way it is treated that is interesting," says play director Robert Erickson. He said audience reaction is very important, and the Fantasticks draws the audience in with the characters.

There is not much of a set for the production, but Erickson says this is part of its magic. "The audience gets used to it right away, and is entranced by it."

Four musical instruments are used during the course of the play—a harp, drums, piano and a bass fiddle. Erickson says professional productions of the play rarely use more than two instruments.

"The Fantasticks" first opened in New York nine years ago, and has been playing ever since.

Erickson says it is the longest running show in New York history, and has broken all attendance records. It also opened in San Francisco about six years ago "as an experiment," and has been running ever since.

This will be the only production of "The Fantasticks" within 500 miles of the San Francisco show. Normally the same play is not allowed to be put on by a college within this space limit, because it detracts from the professional production. Erickson said an exception was made in this case.

This, the last play of the university season, will run for five days. The play can be seen tonight and tomorrow, and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Student art, photos exhibited

Three art exhibitions can be seen on campus.

The 21st annual Student-Faculty exhibition will run until Wednesday, May 15. The student exhibit is in Church Fine Arts Building; the faculty show is in Jot Travis Union.

Director of exhibits William Howard said the department still is not using the hallway gallery because of the danger of damage and theft. The student show is hung in the west side of the department.

Sheppard's picture in Missouri show

A watercolor by university artist Craig Sheppard has been accepted in a major competitive exhibition at the Springfield Art Museum in Missouri.

The exhibition, called Watercolor USA, has attracted more than 1,300 entries from almost every state. Fifty paintings will be chosen from the show to go on a year's tour to museums and galleries throughout the midwest.

Sheppard recently won the "Best in Show" award in the first all-Nevada competitive exhibition at the Nevada Art Gallery.

Members of the photo-journalism classes will have exhibits in the lobby cases of Mack Social Science until the end of the semester. The work of Greg Ray is now on exhibit.

Two more films this semester

Last chance for films this semester between this coming Sunday and next Wednesday.

On Sunday evening, May 12, at 6 and 8:30, the last Travis Union Board "Sunday Flicks" for the year will feature "One Potato, Two Potato" in Jot Travis Lounge.

On Wednesday evening, May 15, at 7:30, the Art Forum will show two Buster Keaton classics, "Buster Keaton Rides Again" and "The Railroadier." The films will be shown in room 139 of the Church Fine Arts building.

Last get-together

Last of this year's campus social gatherings:

Nye Hall will hold open house on Sunday, May 12, in the afternoon.

A spaghetti feed will be given by the Women's Recreation Association on Monday night in the Dining Commons at 7 p.m.

CASH PAID FOR BOOKS

Used textbooks fall into three groups. The following categories determine the price at which the bookstore may purchase a used book:

1. Current copyright books that have been selected for the next semester and there is an inadequate supply in the bookstore. These books are worth 50 per cent of the current new price.

2. Current copyright books that are no longer in use at the University of Nevada, or have not been definitely selected by the instructor. These books can be sold to a wholesale book jobber. The ASUN Bookstore acts as an agent and can pay cash to the student for these books at the jobber's catalog price. These books are shipped from the campus for use on other college campuses. The price paid cannot be too high as the jobber has considerable expense involved in shipping, warehousing, and selling of these books. Too, the wholesaler faces a risk of not selling them at all.

3. The third group includes old editions, out of print and similar titles which are no longer in demand, and have little or no value.

Track ace wins award

Nevada track star Vic Simmons was named "Athlete of the Month" for April by the Sierra Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association.

Simmons, a senior majoring in journalism, was a near-unanimous choice. In the Far Western Conference championships held in Reno Saturday, Simmons won a first in the high hurdles, two sixths, and served on the second place 440 relay team.

Vic Simmons

A stand-out hurdler for the past three years, Simmons established the FWC record for the 120 yard high hurdles in last year's championship meet. His mark of 14.2 looked sure to fall this year until he suffered a leg cramp over the last few yards.

His time of 14.3 was still good enough to take the title.

"It's an honor I've hoped for for nearly three years," said Simmons. "I was very happy to get it."

Saturday Simmons will compete in the West Coast Relays at Fresno, Calif. Last year at the relays he set his top time in the high hurdles, 14 flat.

"I know I can do better than that," he said. "The consistently tougher competition I will face (at Fresno and subsequent meets) should help me."

"I think I can break 14 seconds, and I'd like to get my time down to about 13.7."

An Olympic hopeful, Simmons said a consistent showing of about 13.7 is his present goal. "That should be good enough to at least make the trials," he said.

A native of Los Angeles, Simmons will also compete in the 440 and 880 yard relays at Fresno.

After the Fresno competition, Simmons will run in the NCAA college division regionals at Davis, Calif.

Next come the California Relays in Modesto, NCAA college division nationals at Hayward, and the NCAA university division nationals at Berkeley.

Assuming he has his time down, Simmons' next competition would be the Olympic trials, and then possibly the Olympics in Mexico City.

Baseballers wind up season, have slim chance to cop flag if Hayward and Sac State lose

With its back to the wall, the Nevada Wolf Pack will meet the Chico State Wildcats Saturday at 11 a. m. in Moana Stadium.

Two games out of first place with only two games remaining, Jerry Scattini's squad needs a double win and twin losses by Sac State and Hayward to gain a share of first place in the Far Western Conference.

Nevada's record stands at 8-4 while Sac and Hayward are 10-2.

On the mound for Nevada will be Don Weir and Rich Stephenson.

Weir, the mainstay of the Nevada pitching corps, boasts an impressive 7-2 record for the season with a microscopic earned run average of 1.30.

Stephenson owns two Nevada wins, and was the victor last week in the nightcap against Sonoma. Nevada's line-up will be rounded out by Larry Getz at first, Steve Cryer at second, Mike Sala at third and Paul Giambra at short. Larry Galassi, Craig Congdon and Tippy Miller will patrol left, center and right field. Gary Woods will be behind the plate.

Miller leads the Pack batters with a solid .366 average. Giambra is close behind at .352. Rick Booth and Sala round out the Nevada .300 hitters with .314 and .301 averages respectively.

As a team, the Wolves are connecting at an impressive .285 clip.

Against Nevada, Chico will send its southpaw ace Lynn Sparks and right-handed Ben Cayce to the mound.

An all-FWC selection last year, Sparks has contributed substantially to Chico's 18-10 over-all mark. The Wildcats stand at 6-6 in FWC play.

Coaching clinic slated for June

The annual coaches clinic sponsored by the University of Nevada will be held on campus June 17-21. It will feature instruction by professional coaches and trainers.

Subjects to be covered and discussed during the week-long session include football, basketball, track, baseball, training and medical problems.

George Allen, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams and Coach of the Year in 1967, will be the chief instructor for football.

Athletes to be feted

A banquet for University of Nevada athletes will be held tonight at 6:30 in the Jot Travis Lounge.

Featured speakers will be Craig Bayham of the Dallas Cowboys (Eastern Division champs of the NFL) and Bob Price, University of California at Berkeley track star.

Dave Hannah, former football star for Oklahoma University and the Los Angeles Rams, will be the Master of Ceremonies at the banquet.

The banquet is sponsored by the American Athletes in Action.

their best seasons ever in 1967 and has written four books on football.

Assisting Allen with the football instruction will be Charles McClendon, head football coach at Louisiana State University.

McClendon has a six-year record of 43 wins, 17 losses and 4 ties at Louisiana. His team went to the Sugar Bowl this year and beat previously-undefeated Wyoming for the title.

Alex Hannum, head coach of the American Basketball Assn. Oakland Oaks, will be one of the guest lecturers in basketball.

Hannum led the National Basketball Assn. Philadelphia 76ers to a best-ever 68-13 mark and the N.B.A. Championship last year.

He will bring more than eight years of professional coaching experience to the Reno clinic.

Robert C. King, whose University of New Mexico team rated among the top six in the nation last year, will assist with the basketball instruction.

Nevada coach Jackie Jensen will be the baseball instructor. Jensen played 12 years of professional baseball with the Boston Red Sox and was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1958.

Jensen led the league in runs-batted-in three times and played in five All-Star games.

Head track coach Jim Bush of U.C.L.A. will instruct the track sessions. Bush was coach of the United States National Team in 1967.

The portion on training will be taught by Jerry Rhea, trainer for the Los Angeles Rams.

Dr. Daniel H. Levinthal, team physician for the L. A. Rams and a clinical professor of orthopaedic surgery at U.C.L.A., will instruct the medical sessions.

Fees for both resident and non-resident coaches attending the clinic will be $38.50. Housing will be provided in the Nye Hall dormitory.
