CHALLENGE OF FOUR YEARS STANDING IS FINALLY ACCEPTED

Four years ago, the Women's Literary Society of McGill University, Canada, sent a challenge to the women of the University of Toronto, for debate. Later, the co-eds of Queens College, Ontario, began to entertain forensic ambitions. Consequently, for the first time in history ladies met in intercollegiate debates on dominion soil in November.

The subject for debate was: "Resolved, that unions of employed workers are beneficial to society."

The co-eds of McGill carried away the honors, defeating the Toronto "team" which upheld the affirmative and also the Queens "team." The third battle was won by Toronto.

SURE ENOUGH, HERE'S THE STUFF ON CO-ED GARB AND CO-ED BLUFF

"You see one wave, you've seen them all," the wags have said, and wondering, they turned to gaze upon a coed head. If, when at night she sinks to rest—'tis knowledge they do crave—is she old fashioned? Would one find a white cap on the wave?

In answer, coeds do your stuff, with cleverness and wit, and tell the soda-drinking brutes you're never out of style. From the bent hairpins in your locks, down to the naughty shoe that won't conceal the zebra socks—your feet play peekaboo—you're nothing if not modern, dears. As all the college knows, you raised the men up to your style, and then you wore men's clothes.

You wore their shirts, you wore their ties, you took frat pins away. You wore their vest, you wore their coats, in desperation they, did sneak your fuzzy sweaters and they thought they had you there, but, coeds, here's your chocolate cake, you shingled off your hair!

You wore their knickers out to golf, you wore their suits to swim and when you rode, you wore their hats. You always wear a grin. But when the college man did seek to protest and kick, you found he had a yellow streak and straightway wore his "slick."

You have your dainty evening gowns, your tulle and your bouquet and being feminine you have a very taking way. At taking time you take the prize. You give, oh ladies fair, with all your generosity, the gate your hand, the air.

In answer, coeds, make it strong and let the college see that you just started for the top and got there.—Marquette Tribune.

BALKAN PEACE WILL BE AIDED BY UNIVERSITY

Chicago Man on Board of Trustees and New York Educator Present

Special to The Sagebrush
CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Another step toward harmonious relations of the Balkan states has been made by the founding of a university in the Balkans, and the appointment of Dean Elmer E. Jones of Northwestern University, upon whose recommendation the plans were made for the university, as one of the trustees.
The establishing of such a school will, in the opinion of Dean Jones, do much toward promoting inter-Balkan peace, by drawing students from all the Balkan countries, and bringing them together in a school where the teaching of Christian ideals will eliminate the feeling of tension so noticeable there at the present time.
N. Y. Man President
Albania's new University will be known as the Albanian-American School of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, with C. Telford Erickson of New York City as its acting president.
The government of Albania has set aside 300 acres opposite its great port, Durazzo, for the university grounds. It is to be known as a state university, but will, in reality, be more of a technical institution for training experts in agriculture, natural sciences and industries of the country.
The people of Albania seem exceptionally eager to improve themselves, and are deeply interested in the founding of their university.
Aggie College Needed
The college of agriculture will fill a long felt need in the Balkan countries. Agriculture as practiced 2000 years ago is still the agriculture of the present day, and with a climate similar to that of southern Italy, and wide valleys particularly adapted to the raising of tropical fruits and grain, a modern study of agriculture will greatly benefit the people in this section of the country.

Students Hear Many Speakers
Members Propose Speakers, Committees Pass and Arrange Meeting
(By New Student Service.)
CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 5.—Student members of the Harvard Union can hear in their hall any speaker whom they wish, regardless of faith, conviction, color, or social standing, so long as he is allowed to speak in public by the United States Government.
Members can propose names to their Undergraduate Union committee which makes proposals to the new Speakers' Committee. If the Undergraduate Committee doubts the General Committee interest, it can request that the sponsors show fifty signatures on their petition, which then is voted on by the Union.
Speakers are chosen by the speakers committee, consisting of the undergraduate president, of the graduate secretary of the governing board and a liberal. This committee is to get both sides of the questions presented; to serve the interest of the members and to take in account other activities of the union.
Speakers Nice Men
Previous speakers of the Union were all nice men. A group of undergraduates decided to have radicals as well so they might have some resistance against which to think.
Corliss Lamont, president of the undergraduate committee led the fight. The governing board thought there should be limits to this freedom of speech business. The president said he had no power, the business belonged to the governing board. Gradually the battle calmed, and counsel seems to have prevailed.

Colleges Pledged to Aid Near East
Nation's Institutes Working to Help Feed and Educate Stricken Children
A committee composed of prominent educators throughout the country is working to enlist the immediate co-operation of the various colleges in the support of Near East relief. This organization was chartered by congress to provide relief for the refugee and orphaned population of the Near East.
The organization needs money to further its work of providing help for destitute children, and to secure aid in educating, training, and bettering living conditions.
Enthusiastic co-operation is expected from college people inasmuch as it is they who are carrying on the work of Near East Relief overseas.
Three years of schooling and training for self support are part of the program. Every boy and girl who leaves his care is equipped to look after himself and as much as possible, educated to take a place of leadership in the new life that his people are building from the wrecks of the old.

COSMOPOLITANS PLAN ANOTHER TERM'S PROGRAM

Members Will Talk Before Various High School Student Bodies

Plans of the Cosmopolitan Club for the coming semester will be similar to the scheme of last year, according to a statement made by William H. Anderson, president of the club. These plans include talks by members of the club before different high schools in Western Nevada, besides the work done on the campus.
At the general assembly today the Cosmopolitan Club co-operated with the Y. W. C. A. in presenting a talk by Miss Maude Russell, formerly National Y. W. C. A. Secretary in China.
Representatives from 13 different countries, who are attending the University of Nevada, will introduce themselves and their countries in short talks at the next meeting of the club, which will probably be held on Thursday evening.
Plans for further work of the club will also be discussed at this meeting.

ADDITION TO GROUNDS PLANNED BY REGENTS

A suggestion concerning the purchase of land near the University of Nevada will be made to the legislature when it convenes this month, according to Walter E. Pratt, chairman of the board of regents. He will point out the importance of preparing for the future growth of the University.
The levies now imposed by the state for the benefit of the university are sufficient and necessary the regents believe. A recommendation that these levies be continued will be made.
The regents will also report that they now have approximately $75,000 in the building fund which will be ample means for any immediate improvement.
