SEVENTEEN LETTER MEN BACK FOR START OF COMING SEASON

WOLVES DETERMINED TO HOLD ON TO TITLE IN CONFERENCE

With the first semester left far behind, and spring in the offing, the lure of lengthening days and a stray touch of warmth in the breeze has brought memories to the hearts of a half hundred men, and the urge of track and field already has brought inquiries about spring practice from a score of athletes.

Nevada's 1925 team, winner of the Far Western conference, was composed of a number of consistent men who made every effort count toward winning their particular events.

In addition to consistent performance, these men were of the "pinch-hitter" type—they could come out in the lead in a tight place.

Of the 20 men who were awarded the coveted Block N for piling up points for the Wolf Pack during last season, 17 are registered this semester, and have asserted their intention of repeating their demonstration of superiority on Mackay field this spring.

In gaining the title of champion of the Far Western conference, Nevada has achieved a distinction that she will not casually relinquish, and her competitors will have to put in a good many days clawing the cinders and turf before they wrest away the garlands of victory that were so appropriately gained by the wearers of the Silver and Blue.

Broken Records By-word

Broken records were the by-word of last year's team, and it has been predicted already that greater marks than ever before will be set by Nevada's 1927 track and field men, who intend to be in suit 100 per cent strong when a few of the lower snow drifts of Mount Rose start toward the Truckee.

Veterans of last year's team who will hit the grid for the U. of N. this spring are captain-elect Leslie Clover, Raymond Ede, Tom Towle, Jack Kellogg, Tom Rayercraft, Granville Leavitt, Vernon Cantlon, Bernarl Hartung, Ralston Crew, Archie Watson, Thurber Brockbank, Martin Melindy, Procter Hug, Kenneth Robinson, Earl Worden, Frank Bristol and Glen Wimer.

Veteran Miller

Captain Clover has seen two seasons of hard work under Coach Martie, trying the two-mile and mile races in his frosh year. Last year he took a whirl at the shorter distance of a half-mile, and for the second time earned his letter. He ran the mile in 4:38 last year and will be out to do better this year.

Ray Ede, the lightest member of the team, and one of the grittiest, donned the sombrero this year, and to set it off also won himself a white sweater with the blue N. Displaying extraordinary determination and tenacity (Turn to page 5)

PIRATE ROMANCE TO BE PRODUCED BY HILL TALENT FRIDAY, JAN. 28

SPLENDID CAST INSURES TENSE ATMOSPHERE OF UNIQUE PLOT

SCENERY AND LIGHTING TO BE LAVISH IN DETAIL

"Captain Applejack," the essence of thrills, mystery and romance is to be given January 28 at the Granada theater. Crammed full of pirates, foreign Princes and safecrackers, the play promises to be the best ever given by the Campus Players.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Luethal Stark and Edwin Duerr, the play has been worked up to a high degree of perfection. The cast is made up of the best talent on the campus and is as follows: Lush, Elmer Lyons '28; Poppy Faire, Grace Bassett '28; Mrs. Agatha Whatcombe, Isabel Loring '28; Ambrose Applejohn, Donald Burnstein '29; Anna Valeska, Ruth Streeter '29; Mrs. Penyard, Cecilia Sullivan '29; Horace Pensard, Emory Branch '28; Ivan Borolsky, Jack Gregory '29; Palmer, Renee Duque '29; Dennet, Granvil Leavitt '28; Johnny Jason, Raymond Ede '27. Stupendous

Not only is this considered one of the most stupendous productions ever undertaken by the Campus drama society, but those in charge of production declare the presentation to be larger than anything before attempted.

Dealing as it does with mystery centered about an old English castle, the piece is crammed with tense and highly dramatic situations. The actual production will be lavish in the scenery effects and lighting and will entail the use of a large stage crew.

While no definite plans have been made to take the play "on tour" in western Nevada and northern California towns, the Blue Key fraternity who is managing the publicity and staging of Captain Applejack, has announced that a road tour is under advisement.

If the Reno premiere of the show is as financially successful as the bill has formerly been in entertainment value there is little doubt that "Captain Applejack" will go on the road for a short tour.

Tickets for the production, which will be presented at the Granada theater, will go on sale Wednesday and may be obtained from members of the Blue Key fraternity.

MINES BUILDING NEARLY FINISHED

The roof on the Mackay School of Mines is nearly completed and the inside of the addition is being rapidly constructed. All the rough carpenter work has been finished and a metal lathe is being installed. The plastering was begun this week.

The exhibit space in the museum has been increased fully fifty per cent with the addition of the mezzanine floor, found in the new addition. The rooms of the second story will be: the historical geology room, the mineralogy laboratory, the microscopic room, dark room, office, store-room, map room, and chemical laboratory.

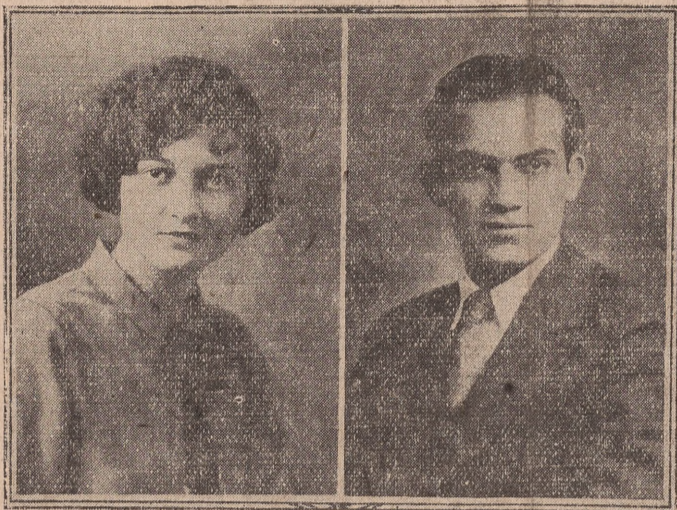

The newly constructed mill is three stories, with two mezzanine floors. Beside the mill a large store room will be found on the first floor.

In the older part of the School of Mines the former laboratory will be converted into two large offices for J. A. Fulton, director, and B. F. Couch, secretary.

The copper roof will be a feature of the building for, as it weathers it will mottle a green and gold that will flash in the sun.

HAROLD COFFIN '26 is spending a few days visiting parents and friends before leaving for the Hawaiian Islands where he plans to enter the newspaper field. Until recently he has been connected with the San Francisco Chronicle.

IN "CAPTAIN APPLEJACK"

Grace Bassett, '28, and Don Bernstein, '29, who ably carry the leads in "Captain Applejack," the three-act comedy to be presented January 28 at the Granada Theatre by Campus Players.

PUBLICATIONS OF COUNCIL PLACES CAMPUS TO GIVE BASKETBALL BAN STAFFS BIG HOP ON FRAT GAMES

PRESS MARDI GRAS TO BE FIRST OF KIND TO BE HELD HERE

For the first time in the history of the publications of the University of Nevada, a dance is to be given to the members of the staffs of the Desert Wolf, Sagebrush, Publicity Bureau and the Artemisia, on February 5. It will be known as the Press Mardi Gras.

The affair has been sponsored by the publications board, and is being given under its supervision. It is to be held at the new Dania Hall on Sierra street.

According to the present plans a number of new ideas will be brought out in the way of programs, stunts and entertainment that will provide a genuine newspaper atmosphere which has never been used on the Hill. As the publications differ greatly from all other organizations on the campus all efforts are being made to make the dance as unlike the usual cut-and-dried affair as possible.

Bids to be Given

Bids will be given to each member of each staff of the various publications, and he or she will be allowed to choose his or her own partner. The bids will not be transferable.

President and Mrs. Walter E. Clark, Assistant Professor and Mrs. Higginbotham, and Instructor Edwin Duerr have been announced as patrons and patronesses for the evening.

13 MEN TRY OUT TO JOIN WHELPS

Thirteen students signified their intention of trying out for the Whelps at a meeting of that organization held Tuesday afternoon in the Aggie building.

Among the new tryees are C. Eldridge '30, Ed Peck '30, T. Brockbank '29, Dale Lamb '29, A. Ocheltree '30, W. Webb '30, F. Lohse '30, Ed Dyer '30, H. Coffill '30, M. Guisti '30, Richard Harcourt '30, G. Jackson '30 and H. Nelson '30.

Although this semester will not be as hard as the last, still there will be enough work to keep the tryees busy, they were told.

A meeting will soon be held to pick out those of last semester's tryees who are eligible to be initiated.

COMMERCE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR SEASON

HARNEY FITZGERALD, '28, was elected to succeed Tom Fitzgerald, '27, as president of Commerce Club for this semester, at the meeting held Wednesday evening in the Education Building. Tillie Evansen, '27, was re-elected vice-president, and Frances Nelson, '28, will succeed Evelyn Anderson, '29, as secretary and treasurer.

There was also a general discussion of plans to add pep to the meetings and get more members to attend.

COUNCIL PLACES BASKETBALL BAN ON FRAT GAMES

HOUSES TO CO-OPERATE FOR UNIVERSITY BETTERMENT

The interfraternity council has definitely called off the interfraternity basketball tournament. Bob Stewart, '27, president of the council, states that at present it is concentrating all efforts to revive friendly relations among the fraternities and to remove all strife.

The council decided to discontinue the basketball tournament because of the current feeling that it was developing fraternity or clique spirit which was breaking down college life.

Exchange Dinners

A series of exchange dinners between the various fraternities will be given to foster brotherly spirit among the members of the different houses. The first of these will be given Thursday, February 3, as follows: Sigma Nu, Delta Sigma Lambda; Beta Kappa, Phi Sigma Kappa; Sigma Phi Sigma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Kappa Lambda, Alpha Tau Omega.

A committee consisting of Erle Henriksen, '27, chairman, Fred Anderson, '28, and Tony Blum, '28, has been appointed to arrange for permanent rules to govern the fraternities, and make the council a live organization rather than a mere meeting of fraternity delegates.

Plans are being made for interfraternity tennis and baseball tournaments and a track meet to be held in their respective seasons. Cups will be awarded the winners of the tennis and track events and the Spaulding baseball trophy, which was won by Sigma Nu last year but which has to be won three years in succession, will be awarded the winner of the baseball tournament.

LEWERS AWARDS TO BE GRANTED

Two recipients of the Robert Lewers Scholarships will be decided on by the committee on scholarships which will meet some time before February 1, according to Professor L. W. Hartman, chairman of the committee. The scholarships will be awarded to the most worthy man and woman of the Freshman class who has completed his or her first semester's work in the University and is enrolled in the second semester. The candidate must also come from a Nevada family, or have graduated from a Nevada high school.

The two scholarships have an annual value of $150 each, and were established in the spring of 1923 by the Scottish Rite Bodies of Masonry in Nevada as a memorial to Robert Lewers.

JUNIORS ELECT

Bruce Connelly was named to the presidency of the junior class at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. In taking this office for the remainder of the year Connelly will fill the vacancy left by Yell Nobles who is not registered this semester.

HUGE RALLY PUTS "NEVADA SPIRIT" BEFORE HUNDREDS THAT CROWD GYM

President Clark Gives Key- Note of Meeting in Address

Many Stunts Entertain Assembled Co-eds And Men

NOTICE! READ—MEN and CO-EDS—THINKERS and DOERS! REVOLT! REBEL! Are we playthings to be pushed about in this manner—come at 7:30 Thursday night and help decide!

Such have been the mysterious, anonymous signs about the campus. "What is this all about?" "What is going to happen Thursday night?" "Do we have to have a ticket?" "Are pro's allowed," etc., etc.

Such had been the campus conversation for over a week. Groups of students everywhere asking the same questions, waiting in suspense for Thursday night.

At last Thursday night arrived and as early as 6:30 throngs of Nevada men and women were heading for the gym. At the door were the keepers demanding signed tickets. The crowd rapidly filled the place. What was going to happen?

It's On!

At last the lights were dimmed and the "thing" was on. What was on? The biggest rally in years! The band played, the crowd cheered, Dean Hall and his horse performed. An orchestra held forth, Stohl gave some pianologues, Prof. Jones and "Doc" Martie "doodled" with the shot, and the Campus Players presented a tragedy, "What-No Beans!"

Then President Clark stirred the spirit of the University with his talk, "Back the Five," "Realize your responsibility," "Do your part," "Show the true Nevada spirit," were among his rousing words.

Came the doughnuts and coffee and the biggest rally in years was over!

CAMPUS ACTORS TRY OUT TALENT

Preliminary try-outs for Campus Players, in charge of Grace Bassett, '29, have been under way all week. The steps leading to the third floor of Stewart Hall have been a most popular parking place, with anxious students standing nervously about.

Tryees are taken in a room, one by one, and the nerve-racking trials take place. Some come out with despairing looks clouding their faces; others joyously skip out, sure they have been recognized as a second Sarah Bernhardt or John Barrymore.

It is expected that all primary eliminating will be done by Monday so that one-act plays can be cast during the ensuing week, in order to do the final eliminating.

Tryees this year number fewer than those of last, there being approximately 50. However, there is much good material which will be brought out by the one-act plays, Miss Bassett says.

COMMITTEE HAS FOUR ADDITIONS

Ernest Clays, '27, is the latest addition to the men's upper-class committee, having been appointed by Harry Frost, '27, to refill the vacancy left by George Fairbrother, '27, who did not return to school this semester.

Old members who will retain their positions on the committee are Harry Frost, '27, Earl Hendrickson, '27, Erwin Morrison, '27, Frank Bristol, '28 and Douglas Castle, '27.

Three other members were appointed at the beginning of this semester. These men are Emory Branch, '27, Rudolph Blum, '28 and Lawrence Niswander, '27. They will aid in carrying on the work of the committee this semester.

CHANGE MADE

The play that had been planned by the Debating council has been abandoned, and instead, the Washoe County Bar association will sponsor the men's debates.

It is also planned to have the Century club sponsor the women's debate. Tickets will be sold as last semester, and in this manner, debating will be practically a self-supporting activity.

"GRAY FOG" SWEEPS ON NEVADA CAMPUS FOR TILT WITH WOLVES

COACH NEEDLE'S MEN CONFIDENT BECAUSE OF PREVIOUS DEFEAT OF NEVADA WOLVES

With the basketball season well along and all preliminary games out of the way, the more serious business of winning the Far Western Conference looms as a possibility. A "rejuvenated" Wolf Pack, backed by an enthusiastic student body, showed the assembled mob last Saturday evening that they can and will play the characteristic old Nevada game. The exhibition was such that spectators of by-gone varsities said several nice things about the present group of gladiators and voiced the opinion that they showed more promise than any of their predecessors as early in the season.

AWARD WINNERS CHOSEN WILL BE ANNOUNCED SOON

SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE TO CHOOSE FINAL RECIPIENTS

The list of names of women eligible for the Chaloner scholarship award has been submitted to the committee on scholarships and prizes by the recommendation committee, which consists of Miss Sissa, Miss Mack, Amy Goodman, '27, chairman; Margaret Ernest, '28, Beatrice Ott, '29, and Gretchen Cardinal, '30.

The eligibility of the women is based upon their service to the campus at large since their registration. Other requirements the candidates must meet are the number of activities they participate in, helpfulness to the campus by attending meetings and willingness to accept responsibilities, high ideals in womanhood, the student scholastic attainments of the semester preceding, a grade of 2 or better being necessary for eligibility.

The recommendation committee has been hard at work sifting the names down to the required number. The final decision of the winner rests with the committee on scholarships and prizes, and the names will probably be released very soon for publication.

"GET TOGETHER" SET FOR FEB. 26

Due to the fact that the senior class was unable to get the hall desired, the "Senior Get Together" to be given to the campus has been postponed until February 26. The Seniors also decided in the meeting held last Tuesday, that the admission to the dance would be a dollar a couple.

Pauline Wrenn was appointed chairman of the committee to select the senior play. The members of the committee are: Pauline Wrenn, Ray Ede, Thor Smith, Bill Stark, and Emory Branch, all members of Campus Players. Another meeting will be held to decide what play shall be given from those presented to the class by this committee.

DEBATE PLANNED WITH LAW TEAM

A debate with the Hastings Law school has been added to this semester's forensic program, which will be held some time during the first part of April and will be on some phase of the crime question. Emerson Wilson, '28, and Ernest Bingham, '29, will make the trip, meeting the Hastings team the first night and journeying on to Palo Alto where they will meet Stanford the following night.

MEN OF CLONIA ORATE AT MEET

Entertainment by the men was the main feature of the Clonia meeting, held Wednesday evening in the Educational Building. Each man present at the meeting was called upon by Edwin Semenza, '30, chairman of the entertainment committee, to give an extemporaneous talk or declamation.

Refreshments were also served by the men members of the organization. A short business meeting was held before the entertainment committee took charge.

The first of Nevada's old rivals will be played on the home court Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. St. Ignatius College of San Francisco comes to Reno prepared to take the measure of the team they defeated during the recent holidays. What a surprise and disappointment is in store for them!

Four Veterans
That the Grey Fog is no slouch of a basketball team can readily be seen from the fact that four of their best men are veterans of four years. To this valuable nucleus has been added the services of Ray Maloney, California all-state forward last season. It has been said that this young man, almost single handed brought the state intercollegiate title to San Francisco. His basket shooting is superb as he has already demonstrated to the Wolves this season. It was his uncanny ability that snatched victory from the Pack when the two colleges met on last December 21.

Coach Needles' other athletes are stars of the first water and in their teamwork reflect the fine coaching they have received. Partridge, the other forward, has been top man in the scoring column several times this year and plays well with Maloney. They represent a sweet pair of forwards and function around the basket like clockwork. Morrissey, at center, is in old time form and his cunning often results in baskets. The guards are hard players and opponents sitting through them are few.

The Ignatian defense is a man to man affair and will be used in striking contrast to Nevada's zone defense. Students of the game will be enabled to see the advantages and defects of each system. Nevada's scoring machine is getting more power each practice and the defense of the Fog should be "duck soup" for the plunging Nevadans.

Wolves Strong
The Silver and Blue looked better than ever against the Eagles last week. Snappy passing, accompanied by a rushing "follow" attack netted several baskets. Team work was stressed and the combination of Morrison, Bailey and Hainer worked to perfection under the basket. Lawlor with his long shots and strong defensive work added considerably to the worth of the varsity, while Clover played his usual stellar game. Inability to make their shots when they got the ball lost the contest for the Wolves and for that reason Coach Martie has emphasized that department of the game during the past week. He reports his charges in excellent shape for the San Franciscans.

This series is always an interesting one from a fan's point of view. It will be St. Ignatius' first participation as a member of the F. W. C., in any branch of sports, and although their games will not go down as official in conference standing, they will certainly have bearing on who will be finally named as champion. The Saints were not admitted as a member of the conclave until after the schedule for the year was drawn up and for that reason will not play all conference teams.

That the Fog will be out to win is assured, for they have already tasted victory. They are, however, facing a different type of team than the one they engaged a few weeks ago and every Wolf that goes into this game will bear a part of the duty in erasing the stigma of defeat and of upholding the honor of Nevada's "rejuvenated" team.

MEN NOMINATED FOR A. S. U. N. JOB

Milton Gooding, "Tiny" Buntin, Ian Mensinger and Emory Branch, all of the class of '27, have been nominated to fill the vacancy left by Walter Cox, ex-'27, as men's representative to Finance Control. Nominations are still open for this office and any senior men can be nominated by handing their names to Gertrude Wyckoff. Election of this officer will be held January 27.

Just because some of these women wear fur coats is no sayin' they're cold mammals.

FAMED NEVADAN CAMPUS VISITOR

James Bradshaw, '22, better known throughout the entire west as "Rabbit" since the days he sped over the gridirons of the Pacific coast with Nevada's ball tucked under his arm, returned to Reno a few days ago and has once more become acquainted with the University.

Bradshaw spent the years immediately following his graduation here as athletic coach on high school staffs. When the professional football teams began to attract attention following the reign of "Red" Grange, "Rabbit" was among the first to be spoken for. Since that time the little football star has shown on the professional fields in the same outstanding manner that he did when fighting for Nevada. Time after time he has brought the crowds to their feet with a roar as he ducked and darted down the field for a goal.

And now—"Rabbit" Bradshaw has returned for a short time at least to his old haunts, his family and to Nevada where he first began his meteoric career.

Bradshaw married Miss Ruth Wilson of Reno following his graduation, and now has a son and a daughter. The little "Bunny" was born but a short time ago.

CO-EDS' BANQUET PLANS PROGRESS

Plans for the volley ball banquet and the rifle spread to be held together on Friday, January 28, are progressing rapidly. Arrangements for the affair are being made by N. Ayres, '27, rifle manager, and A. Beccas, '28, who is now manager of volley ball due to the withdrawal of M. Addenbrooke from the University.

As announced by the committee, the party will be held in the library of the Agriculture building immediately following the finals of the inter-class volley ball tournament.

FIRE THREATENS S.A.E. HOMESTEAD

A burning cigarette dropped into the sod on the S. A. E. homestead started a small blaze last Sunday which threatened to become a larger and more dangerous one.

Two small boy scouts discovered the fire and immediately set to work to extinguish it. J. Claude Jones, professor of geology, who lives nearby, soon came to the aid of the boys.

Mrs. Don Robison had also seen the blaze, and hastened to the fraternity house to inform the men.

Not an S. A. E. was at home and the last one out had dropped the burning cigarette.

The two boys and Dr. Jones succeeded in putting out the fire before any serious damage was done.

Crowded Bleachers Exemplify "Spirit"

By SPEC TATOR
The real Nevada spirit reasserted itself Saturday night in the basketball game between Nevada and the Tulsa Eagles. Instead of the half-hearted groups of uninterested students who attended the Idaho game, the Tulsa game brought out a mob that was determined to do its best to cheer Nevada to victory. Every seat in the bleachers was crammed, and the balcony was lined with eager supporters. By ruthlessly segregating the men and women a more efficient rooting section was created, and the three yell leaders worked hard in stirring up enthusiasm before the game.

As for the game itself, it was one of the fastest and most exciting games ever played on the gym floor. The Tulsa Eagles proved themselves worthy of the enthusiastic publicity which had heralded their coming, but the Wolves put up a fight which showed them they weren't up against such a snap team as they thought they were. Incidentally, they probably would have found Nevada considerably easier to beat if the student body had not turned out as well as it did.

An enjoyable feature was the entertainment provided by the Men's Glee club between halves of the game. It was called entertainment, but it was something more than that. The college and bleacher songs the club sang put increased spirit into the rooting sections, and it is believed that the practice of having the Glee club sing between halves of basketball games will continue.

FEW FRESHMEN WOMEN BREAK U. N. TRADITIONS

With the exception of two freshman who did not appear at scrubbing posters last semester, but few women students have been breaking traditions this year, according to Grace Muran, '27, president of the A. W. S.

The women's upperclass committee met at Stewart hall on Thursday afternoon in order to talk over campus traditions and their enforcement for this semester.

M. BORING WILL VISIT STUDENTS

M. M. Boring of Schenectady, N. Y., with his assistant, L. H. Means, will visit the University on January 26, next Wednesday, for the purpose of interviewing students who desire to get employment with the General Electric company after graduation. He will also speak to electrical students at the meeting that will be held on the evening of the same day.

Each year the General Electric has taken one or more electrical students from the University of Nevada to take their testing course at their plant in Schenectady. Last year the following men were employed: Raemon Samuels, Everett Harris, Harold Johnson, and Lawrence Mathews.

Lloyd Smith, who has been doing graduate work at the Cornell University, under the Coffin Foundation scholarship, was employed by this company the year before last. Robert Plaus and Scott Hill are two more of the Nevada E. E. graduates who have been taken by this company in the past four years.

HOOP BEGINNERS START IN CLASS

One of the features of the women's basketball season that is to start next Monday is the special section for beginners. This section will include all women who have had no instruction or experience in playing the game.

The first three weeks of the season will be devoted to straight practice, after which time novel tournaments will be held. Among those planned at the present time are color tournaments, ladder tournaments, and round-robin tournaments. A banquet will be held at the end of the season.

ST. CLAIRE WILL HEAD PRE-MEDS FOR SEASON

Kenneth St. Claire, '29, was elected president of the Pre-Med club at the meeting held Wednesday night. Other officers elected were Louis Lombardi, '29, secretary, and Martha Huber, '29, treasurer.

Election was held after a short address by Peter Frandsen, professor of biology, on "Medical Schools and Their Requirements."

VOLLEY TOURNEY MEN, WOMEN ARE SEPARATED FOR HOOP CONFLICTS

Class teams for the interclass volleyball tournament are being chosen at the practice periods this afternoon. The interclass games are scheduled to be played off the 24, 27, and 28 of the month.

Basketball will begin the week following the volley ball finals. As now planned, if enough beginners sign up, there will be a special section for them in order to give them sufficient practice to be able to cope with the more experienced players.

U. N. STUDENTS SUFFER INJURIES

Two patients at the University hospital, Vera Sopp '30, and Lee Burge '30, were transferred to the County hospital last week when it became certain that they were afflicted with chicken pox and measles, contagious diseases.

Lloyd Moon '29, suffered a serious accident last Saturday afternoon when he broke one ankle and sprained the other while playing basketball. He has been confined to the hospital where he is now recovering.

Kathleen Malloy '28, was confined to the hospital this week with a bad cold and sore throat, which prevented her from continuing her performances at the Majestic theatre.

Herbert Faulkner '28, was injured Tuesday when he fell off a horizontal bar at the gym. It is not known yet whether he sustained injuries to his ribs, or severely strained his shoulder. He is recovering rapidly.

MARRIED OR NOT, CO-EDS MUST SIT ALONE TO SEE GAMES

Athletic Manager Ray Henricksen is instituting an experiment at the basketball games to increase the volume of the cheers and pep of the student body. The first attempt at this was made last Saturday night at the Nevada-Tulsa game. All the men were seated at the southwest corner of the gym. The women were seated in the southeast corner. It is thought that by not allowing the women and the men to remain together will produce the desired effect and that by seating them as stated that they would be in a more concentrated group.

There were ushers at the game to see that the students were so seated. The effect of the experiment was an increase in the pep over that of the last few games, but Henricksen thinks that the maximum has not yet been reached.

New Seating Method

A new method of seating will be tried at the game tomorrow. The men will all be seated on one side of the gym and the women on the other. Henricksen believes that in seating the students in a concentrated group the spirit and pep that has been missing for the last few seasons will be regained, also that more interest in the games will be aroused.

CRISIS PASSED

Last night five hundred Nevada students and faculty packed the gymnasium. Some of the five hundred, very few, knew what was planned for the evening. The big majority came through a desire to know what was to be the outcome of a week's mysterious advertising. Posters had flaunted a plea for student loyalty in a time of crisis. Just what crisis needed support was difficult to ascertain. Wild flights of imagination coupled with rumor had it that certain of the student body or even members of the faculty might be on the verge of expulsion.

But the situation in reality was even more dark. The old Nevada spirit itself was on the verge of dying. For three years it had been slowly ebbing. Students often attended intercollegiate athletic games only when no other excitement was available, or when a game promised to be extraordinarily good because of the reputation of opposing teams. A few, it was true, still clung to the old Nevada spirit and were motivated by it when backing the Wolf Pack on gridiron or basketball court.

Last night's rally, then, was to effect a revival of the stick to the end, win or lose, loyalty that should ever be given Nevada's teams. Five hundred crowded into the gymnasium seeking excitement, thrills, something new. And the five hundred left satisfied. The crisis was past and the Nevada spirit was alive once more. Those who had never known the spirit realized it for the first time; those who had forgotten, revived it. And tonight and tomorrow night the hundreds who cheer and fight with the Wolf Pack in that same gymnasium will prove that once more the Nevada spirit reigns.

THIS RUSHING BUSINESS

The conventional sorority rushing season of this semester closes tomorrow night at eight o'clock. A day of assuming silence follows, and the period of "unnatural relationships" is presumably a closed book in this volume of co-ed history. But, after a two-week period of tea-table finery, feminine dissection, and strenuous gossiping, how could "unnatural relationships" cease at once without some well directed effort on the part of sororities themselves?

It would be rather presumptuous to expect such a procedure to arise from pledges, where the atmosphere of rushing delicacies can still be discerned. A policy, however, from the active groups as a whole would in no wise be misunderstood.

As mere suggestions, each sorority woman might assume the responsibility of bringing non-sorority women within her circle of acquaintances. Perhaps a representative from the latter group could be asked to attend social functions. Sorority exchange dinners have been managed in the past, but never have non-sorority women been invited to participate in those exchanges. It is also quite possible that non-sorority women have well defined views of rushing and its rules. Valuable suggestions might be offered to Pan-Hellenic were a non-sorority representative allowed to be one of its component parts.

Sorority women and non-sorority women are both a vital part in the life on Nevada campus. At all times the relationships between these two groups is at best forced or "unnatural."

You want to go to Italy?
Ah, yes, I'd like it well
If there were no fascisti
And it had a pleasant smell.

You want to go to Mexico?

But how about a shot of that

You want to go to Arica
And see a shiek or two?
But what about the sheikess

CONFESSIONS OF A DEAN'S SON

My dear gentle readers, here is another chapter of my corrupted, but eventful life. Although I was a freshman in High school at the tender age of 8, it was there that I met my first real love.

She was a darling divorcee, and 24 years of age, but she paid little or no attention to the handicap of my age, because of my worldly bearing, and mature mind.

I will never forget the night we met, after a drunken celebration. Our basketball team had won the state championship, due to my unerring eye and unexcelled floor work, which, by the way, is still talked about in my high school.

It was a case of true love at first sight, as she proved to me at 2 o'clock in the morning by the unique method of sobering me up by throwing a glass of water in my face.

A lump comes in my throat—a tear drops into my coffee, as I think of that day I lost her, but that is a story in a later chapter.

(To be continued as long as you can stand for it.)

— blah —

Of course, it's a very embarrassing thing to mention, but there is a new nurse at the hospital, and a lot of the boys have very suddenly discovered that they are suffering from a very severe case of the hollygomalls, and are apparently enjoying their sojourn at the campus hospital.

— blah —

I AM HERE TO TELL YOU THAT——THE NEW GAMMA FIE HOUSE.

— blah —

Among the novel features discovered by the lassies is a "Rose Room"—second floor back.

—Blah—
Leave it to the women, tho', if there's a mystery concerned, if they don't know ALL about it, they're around—that's all—they're THERE! Banjo Eyes said he didn't know there were so many girls went to this institution until last night.

Needless to say, four roses of the sorority are now occupying it.

—Blah—
ANOTHER QUAIN TITTLE FEATURE IS "THE MYSTERY ROOM," WHICH IS OCCUPIED BY THE HOUSE MOTHER.

NO ONE KNOWS WHO SHE IS!
—blah—

Above news foto explains in detail a very popular method now in vogue of getting around the 30 cents a meal rule for rush season which is laid down by Pan-Helen.

— blah —
All of which goes to remind me that an unsuspecting little pledge of one of our prominent sororities was conversing with a rushee the other day.

It was the afternoon of the BIG tea, and refreshments were just about ready to be served.

Says the pledge to the rushee, "We'll be having eats pretty soon, but don't get excited—it will only be a cracker and a cup of tea!"

Suffice it to remark that the black looks were thick as gravy!

— blah —

The trouble, you see, was because she had said the wrong thing at the wrong time. What she should have said was:

"Don't get excited—it will only be a couple of crackers and a couple of cups of tea!"

— blah —

And just then a little girl with tears in her eyes, completely broke down and whimpered:

"I HAD ALWAYS THOT HE WAS A GENTLEMAN—"

—IMAGINE MY CONSTERNATION WHEN I FOUND OUT THAT HE WAS A SUNDOWNER!

—Blah—
Last week when all of US were very rebellious, WELTY airmails:

Dear Ed—
Say, fella, what's the idear of all this revolt stuff. Enny stranger comin' up to this Kampus would get the idear that we had enanas among us. I figures that whoever started this is tryin' to get the STUDENTS' goat—but I'm here to tell you that it will take more than a court order to get the STUDENTS' goat. Of course, Doc Martie's BULL might scare it away but then that's to be expected, 'cause his BULL is so much stronger than our GOAT.

Revoltingly yours,
WELTY.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Tulsa Eagles Outplay Wolves 24-18 in Final Rally

EAGLES OVERPOWER WOLVES IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME SATURDAY

OKLAHOMA TEAM LIVES UP TO REPUTATION, BUT REJUVENATED WOLVES ARE NEMESIS

Displaying the old Nevada fight and determination, the Wolf Pack went into the Tulsa game last Saturday night the decided under-dogs in the battle. The boys from the oil fields of Oklahoma were rated to the sky before the game and lived up to all that was said of them, but they encountered a far different bunch of Wolves than they or the spectators expected to see. After the poor brand of ball displayed against the Idaho Vandals the week previous, the varsity suddenly snapped out of things and all but played the Tulsa men off their feet.

After trailing at the end of the first half by a score of 14 to 9, the Wolves came back in the second period fighting mad, forced themselves up even with the surprised Eagles and then slipped past them. At this stage of the game the terrorized Tulsans dropped a couple of scores from the middle of the court and took the game. The game itself was lost for the Wolves by their inaccuracy in sinking baskets, and had it not been for this would have romped in ahead of the Eagles by a good margin.

For the varsity "Les" Clover was the main attraction. Back at his old pace at guard he almost proved the downfall of the Eagles on numerous occasions and they had a hard time making any close-in baskets at all. For the invaders, "Chief" James was high point man, making 12 points of his teams total. Captain Carter also lived up to all advance notices and was easily the most brilliant floor man seen on the Nevada court for some time.

First Half
The game started with a rush, neither team securing any breaks for a while. Finally Hainer broke away and caged a close-in shot, but James evened matters up with a neat under the basket shot. Thomas sank a foul and Whitefield zipped in another from the double lines, making the score 5-2 in their favor.

Morrison started on his career with a nice one-handed basket, but the Tulsa men could not be stopped from making three more counters by a goal by Thomas and a foul by Whitefield. Hainer dropped in another for the Wolves, but James followed him up with two more, making the score 12-6 in their favor.

The Wolves closed their scoring for the half by Lawlor dropping in a foul, while Morrison sank a pretty bucket from the corner. James finished things for the Eagles with another under the basket, bringing the score up to 14-9 as the gun sounded.

Second Half
The Wolves came back, rating to go and Hainer dropped in a short shot to start things going. James stopped things for a minute with a spectacular bucket from out in the court, but Lawlor took up the parade with one just like it, making the score 13-16. Morrison seconded him with one under the opposing guard's nose and then made himself the hero of the day with two fouls, taking the Wolves ahead of the Eagles 17-16.

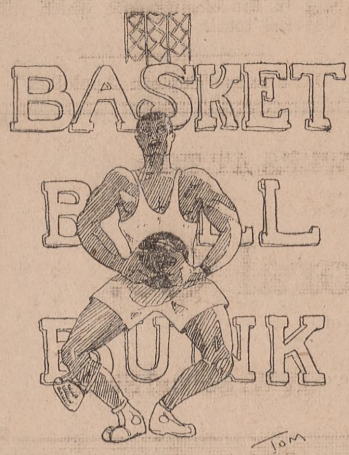

At this stage of the game the Eagles woke up and Carter and James dropped in a foul apiece, giving them a one point lead. Carter made his first bucket of the game here with a long one, but Morrison was right on his heels and dropped in a foul, bringing the score up to 23-18. James sank one more as the gun sounded and the game ended 24-18.

The line-up started as follows:
Nevada Position Tulsa
Lawlor, J. F. Whitefield
Bailey F. Jerome
Clover C. Thomas
Hainer G. Clemens
Morrison G. James

After driving to Gardnerville last Friday, Coach Ray Fredericks' squad of freshman basketballers met the Douglas county high school basketball team and scored a decisive victory over the prep school lads to the tune of 34 to 12.

The Gardnerville boys were fast, but somewhat inexperienced, and were unable to hold their own against the strong offensive of the first year men. The quintet that started the game for the university boys consisted of: Richards, Hayes, forwards; Gilmarlin, center; DeReemer, Whitehead, guards. During the first half Baldini substituted for Hayes, and Stewart went in for Whitehead. The fourth quarter was slow and the entire frosh second string was run in against the high school boys. Nine men made the trip. Other members of the squad were Duane Mack and William Gibson. Johnson and Raycraft were the outstanding performers on the high school team.

A preliminary game was played between the Gardnerville high school girls and the town girls. After the game a banquet was given by the high school girls, with both boys' and girls' teams present. Members of the freshman squad declare that they were treated splendidly by the Gardnerville folk, and are looking forward to the second game that will be played against Douglas in the near future on the university court.

CO-EDS REFEREE IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Women in Physical Education 60, a course in theory and practice of directing organized games, have been getting practical experience this semester.

The course requires a study of all sports in which women commonly indulge. Last semester soccer, hockey and volley ball were taken up. This semester basketball will be the first to be studied. As part of the work girls are trained to be referees and on request they referee high school games.

On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at one-fifteen three girls from each class meet and play basketball with students from P. E. 60 officiating.

Those who have refereed out-of-town games are Elsie Mitchell, '27, Vincent Alexander, '27, Isabel Loring, '28, Mae Bernasconi, '28, and Eva Adams, '28.

The games were in Gardnerville, Dayton, Sparks, Reno and Fallon. "Captain Applejack" comes Thursday.

And now comes the referee himself. This jovial young Irishman is not only a trained and expert acrobat, but is a living exponent of the far famed ostrich theory. We all remember our childhood days when the first primer announced that the beautiful and speedy ostrich hid his head for protection. Later we found that self-preservation is the first law of nature. Well, the referee is no law breaker. The first time the contestant rushed down upon him he saved himself by a neatly executed back-flip which was slightly marred by the fact that his foot slipped on the floor and he made a forced landing on his left ear. Somewhat discouraged, he resumed his refereeing. Then a swarm of Frosh and Indians tore down the court again. Once more his very life was imperiled. Obeying the teachings of his childhood he crouched on hands and nacity of purpose, Ede struggled through two long seasons of punishing practice, each year showing marked improvement. Last year he reached the pinnacle when he jogged his lanky length around the track for a new two-mile record, traversing the eight laps in 10:23.

Tom "Clean" Towle met with success as a freshman last year, when he stepped the high sticks in record-breaking time of 15:45. The big red-head is back in school this semester, going strong, and anxious to get used to the feel of the cinders after a strenuous season on the football squad.

Sprinters Plentiful
Kellog, another of last year's freshman stars, is a short distance runner of no mean ability, having gathered unto himself one of the big Ns in double-quick time. He was right on the heels of Robison, who broke the 100-yard and 200-yard records, and put more than 20 feet between himself and the take-off in the broad jump.

"Kernie" Robison, still another last year freshman performer, made things hum last spring when he kicked dust in the eyes of the Far West Conference's best veterans, and hung up two records in a single day—9:9 for the 100-yard dash and 21:9 for the 220. The lad with the winged feet has been taking care of himself during the winter interval, anticipating a strenuous season, and will be among the foremost to crouch for the starting gun.

Relay Looks Good
Raycraft and Cantlon, both members knees and buried his head in his arms while the oncoming mob swept up his spine, over his neck and on to the basket—and he was saved!

The Tulsa game opened with a rush. Great range was demonstrated in skipping from octave and octave in the "ooooohs" and "aaaaahs" of the spectators as the ball tickled the rim of the basket and dropped outside, time after time.

The champions of ten (or was it eleven) states sure are accustomed to service. One of their stars was forced to only have four assistants in removing those blue flannels (right in public, too) and then managed to fall flat on his face. And it was a nice little game of football, too.

of Nevada's record-breaking half-mile relay team, will be out on the track at the first call, and intend to do their best to back Martie's statement last fall that Nevada can develop a group of relay men who will show up well in any Eastern relay meet.

Hartung, another gritty member of the Wolf Pack, battled hard last year against strong competition in the 880 dash and was rewarded for his pains with the N, earned in the conference meet with a 2:03 race.

Crew and Leavitt are aching for a chance to get the long bamboo in their grip again, and hit the sawdust pit for bigger and better records in the vault. The two men tide last spring at 11 feet 7 1/2 inches, breaking the then existing record with room to spare. Leavitt is also a hugh hurdler of no mean ability and intends to demonstrate his ability on the high sticks.

"Bozo" Watson, holder of the high jump record, may be prevented from competing this season on account of leg injuries received during the basketball game with the Idaho Vandals. Watson is captain of this year's varsity cage artists, and was one of the "old reliables" of the squad. There is a possibility that his hurts may be improved sufficiently by spring to allow him to participate in track.

Melindy won his letter in the high jump last spring, and intends to clear the horizontal bar with lots to spare, and may be counted on as a point gainer for the team.

Earl "Hank" Worden surprised the fans and upset the dopsters last spring when he leaped from obscurity to prominence in the mile and two mile events. Another "dark horse" who rose to the front last year is Glenn Wimer who started in total obscurity and ended up by breaking the javelin record and earning a big N for himself. Last year he was just getting the hang of the thing so that this year he should go big.

The last letter earner from last year is "Mutt" Brockbank, who fought his way through a hard season and finally got on N out of the deal. Mutt can step the high sticks off in close to 16.1 and should give Towle a good race.

Dark Horses Plentiful
In addition to the group of sturdy veterans who will report on Mackay field at the first trace of spring, "Doc" Marties is viewing with ill-concealed satisfaction the wealth of new material that is crowding the campus, waiting for a chance to display itself.

The high schools of Nevada contributed a large number of new men who are declared to have the makings of good varsity men, and not a few young fellows from sunny California are in the offing, ready and waiting for the call.

Taken by and large, Nevada seems destined for a record year in track, and, with the championship meet to be held in Reno, the best group of athletes ever seen in Nevada will probably meet on Mackay field in the spring.

Northwestern University has a co-ed rifle team and plans to compete with similar organizations of other schools by telegraph.

Not only did Princeton win the "Big Three" football championship, but it also had more 1926 Rhodes scholars than did any other university.

WOMEN SNIPERS SHOOT MATCHES WITH COLLEGES

NEVADA CO-EDS LOSE TO U. OF CINCINNATI BY 27 POINTS

Anita Beccas, with the high score of 99 out of a possible 100, led the list of women's varsity rifle list this week in the matches with the University of South Dakota and Michigan State College.

The only returns received so far are from the University of Cincinnati, who won the match with 488 points out of a possible 500, while Nevada girls shot 461. This makes the University of Cincinnati lead by 27 points. This match was shot prone and sitting.

Last week matches were also shot against Pennsylvania State College and the University of Montana.

Others Scheduled
Other matches to be shot are with Utah Agricultural College, Washington University, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Oregon Agricultural College, Northwestern, University of Maine, University of California, Carnegie Institute Technology (Pennsylvania), Syracuse University, University of West Virginia, University of Michigan, University of Nebraska, University of Arizona, University of Missouri, University of Illinois, and the R. O. T. C. team at Nevada.

GARRETT TALKS TO ENGINEERS

P. B. Garrett of the Westinghouse Electric Company gave an interesting and entertaining speech before the A. I. E. E. on the "Supervisory Control of Electric Systems," and on an electrical instrument called klydonograph, Wednesday evening. He also showed a number of instructive slides during the talk.

Garrett spoke on the klydonograph a year ago. This instrument makes pictures of surging of high-voltage currents in power lines. By the pictures one can determine the size of the surge and the time or day or night when it took place. Through this instrument it was proven that very dangerous, costly and troublesome short-circuits in power lines were caused by large birds who roost upon the towers.

At the regular meeting it was decided upon that the electrical engineers begin working on plans for Engineers' Day, which will be on March 19. The next regular meeting of the A. I. E. E. will be on February 1.

FIVE CHOSEN ON ELECTION BOARD

Five were chosen to act on the election committee at a special meeting of the executive committee held last Tuesday. Those appointed were: Betty Coleman, '28, Grace Muran, '27, Margaret Hill, '27, Bob Stewart, '27, and Tom Rayercraft, '27.

Elections will be held in the library of the Mining building Thursday, January 27, from nine to four.

The committee also approved the plan presented by President Clark regarding the parking of cars on the campus.

Artemisia

Art Says:

We want to apologize. It's not our fault, but since we're handiest we'll take all the blame. We're used to it, anyway.

It seems that some of the organizations understood that the Artemisia would run a panel for them if they would pay for it, so they sent their members down to the studio to have their pictures taken. But we want to keep the Artemisia uniform if we don't do anything else, so instead of having the few organizations which said organizations were willing to pay for, and running group pictures of the rest, we decided to run group pictures of all organizations except fraternities, sororities and honorary organizations. And that's not all.

We originally announced that we would run panels for Manzanita and Artemisia Halls, but Hall officials changed our minds for us.

Result: About 40 young ladies spent their good time and money to get their pictures taken and won't have anything to show for it. We're telling you now so that we won't have to quit school and flee the country the day before the Artemisia comes out. Exit—in sack-cloth and ashes!

At Northwestern University, four students are appointed to serve on the highest faculty board for the supervision of student affairs.

Dolls, more than 350 of them, were displayed by university women at the twentieth annual doll show held at the University of Illinois.

M. ERNST TELLS OF HOLIDAY TRIP

Margaret Ernest, '28, Nevada delegate to the Milwaukee Y. W. C. A. convention, held during the Christmas holidays, gave a detailed talk concerning her trip at the Y. W. C. A. meeting held at Manzanita Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

The chairman of three interest groups: Mable Marianni, '28, Amy Goodman, '27, and Margaret Ernest, '28, gave brief discussions on the work planned by the groups this semester. The interest groups, under the direction of the chairman named are: Foreign Relations, Campus Problems, and Religion.

During the course of the afternoon Ethel Lunsford, '27, accompanied by Helen Hibbert, '28, rendered a vocal solo entitled, "A Little Coon's Prayer."

Covering Iron Boards Is Penalty for Mazies

Traditions are not a part of the past in the women's dormitories, it was discovered last week when 16 frosh women were charged by the sophomores with misdemeanors, and were assigned the novel and enlightening task of covering the ironing boards.

A committee of sophomores headed by Mary Margaret Thompson, reviewed the efforts of the freshmen and saw that orders were properly carried out.

REGISTRATION CLOSING WITH FEWER STUDENTS

January 25 is the closing date for enrollment, according to Miss Louise M. Sissa. At present there are 764 students entered, 448 of whom are men and 316 women.

Registration for this semester is slightly lower than at the same time last year, but there are two registration blanks out now and a small number of students are expected just prior to the closing date which will raise the total.

60.11 miles per hour

A New World's Hydroplane Record with Richfield!

EXCEEDING the best previous record by 17 miles an hour and breaking every existing mile straightaway record for 151 class hydroplanes, Harry Miller's "Angeles I", driven by Ralph Snoddy and powered by a Model 151, 4 cylinder Miller engine using Richfield Gasoline, established a new, electrically timed world's record of 60.11 miles per hour January 9th at the Newport Bay time trials of the Pacific Coast Hydroplane Ass'n.

The only entry to use Richfield Gasoline in a field comprised of the fastest hydroplanes on the Pacific Coast, the "Angeles" remarkable record was 20 miles an hour faster than any boat competing, over 13 miles an hour faster than "Spitfire V" holder of the Elgin Speed trophy and bettered by more than 16 miles an hour the record of "Spitfire VI", winner of the National Motor boat championship at San Diego on December 12th.

Harry Miller, internationally famous motor designer whose racing motors hold many of the world's existing speed records, uses and recommends Richfield Gasoline for all his engines. He uses Richfield exclusively in his own car because he knows it is the most perfectly balanced fuel obtainable for present day motors. Use Richfield in your car and get maximum efficiency...easier starting, speed, power and mileage combined!
