

NORCROSS MADE FEDERAL JUDGE

Graduate of 1891 Is Successor of Farrington

F. NORCROSS '91

Frank Norcross was recently appointed Federal Judge of Nevada to replace Judge Farrington.

Judge Frank H. Norcross of Reno, who was a member of the first class to graduate from the University of Nevada in 1891, received last week the confirmation to his appointment as district judge for the State of Nevada.

Judge Norcross is a native of Washoe county, being born May 11, 1869 in the Truckee Meadows on the ranch of his father, Thomas W. Norcross, a pioneer rancher of the valley.

He attended the Reno schools and in 1888 entered the University of Nevada, graduating from the institution as Bachelor of Arts in 1891 with Fredrick A. Bristol, and Henry C. Cutting, who were the other two members of the first graduating class.

His first political post was county surveyor of Washoe and during the year that he served in that position the survey of Powning Park, where the State building now stands, was one of his chief engineering accomplishments.

This same year he also served as principal of the Verdi school and was ex-officio county superintendent of schools for a short time.

In 1892 he entered the college of law at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. After graduating from Georgetown in 1894 he returned to Reno where he was elected district attorney. Norcross was elected to the assembly in 1888 and was president of the Nevada Bar association in 1921 and two years before was chairman of the Nevada delegation at the Republican convention in Chicago.

He has held several other positions, which have brought him into prominence both as an attorney and writer. He was a candidate for a position on the United States circuit court of appeals a few years ago.

Judge Norcross was at one time a member of the law firm Hoyt, Norcross, Thatcher, Woodburn, and Henley and later the firm of Hoyt, Norcross, and Cheney was formed. At present he is connected with the firm of Norcross and Cheney.

Four Men Leave For West Coast Relay Carnival

Martie Expects Mile Team to Take Their Event

With hopes of taking two first places in their respective events, four Nevada sprinters and their coach left last night for the West Coast relays to be held at Fresno tomorrow.

The four men have been intensively training for the past week and hope to be able to better their record in the mile relay which is the event that they are interested in.

Kellogg in Century Dash. Kellogg, Nevada dash star, is entered in a special century yard dash. Kellogg has been a consistent point getter for the Wolves this season and his speed of ten flat in the 100 yard dash last Saturday gives proof that he will be among those to finish with the leaders of this race.

In the mile relay, Modesto and Occidental are probably the strongest contenders as they have some very enviable records in this race.

Many Teams Entered. These relays will give one sort of an idea as to the strength of the various teams in the Far Western Conference as the most of these schools will have teams entered in various events in the relays.

Far West Meet. The Far Western Conference track meet this year will be held at Fresno on Saturday, May 5.

UNION BUILDING PLANS NOW ON WORKING BASIS

PLEDGES AND DONATIONS ARE HOPED TO MAKE IDEA FEASIBLE

At a meeting of the Union Building Committee on Monday afternoon, definite plans were formulated concerning the pledges which will be made by the present Senior and Junior classes.

The Student Union Building Committee has been very busy working out some of the plans for the building and making new ones to be worked in with those that were made earlier in the semester.

The plans of the committee call for a building, which will be a great deal like the Education Building and will be situated between the Chemistry building and the Gymnasium.

NEVADA ALUMNI WILL HONOR '28

Faculty and Graduates Parents, Friends To Be Guests

Farrar, President of the Alumni Association, is now formulating plans for a better coordinated group.

In honor of the class of 1928, the University of Nevada Alumni will give an open house on Sunday afternoon, May 13, from 3 to 6 o'clock, at the Century Club.

At that time the classes of '28, '29, '30, '31, '32, '33 and '34 will have their anniversaries and reunions. Over two hundred invitations have been sent out by the Alumni Secretary, Louise Lewers, to the members of these seven classes in the hope that a large number of alumni will be present.

Class Representatives Chosen. The following class representatives have been appointed to gather as many of their members together for this open house as possible.

To Take Place on Baccalaureate Sunday has been substituted this year for the former Alumni luncheon following Commencement exercises on Monday because it is thought that more alumni are able to meet on Sunday than on the week-day.

ANNUAL SENIOR PICNIC WILL BE HELD AT TAHOE. With their school careers rapidly nearing an end, the Seniors have the next few weeks well filled with scheduled events.

Friday morning the traditional Senior pilgrimage will take place. The class will tour the campus and visit all spots of interest.

Saturday the Associated Women students will sponsor a tea in honor of the parents of the graduating class. The scholastic fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi will hold their banquet Saturday evening.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Dr. John Stevens, pastor of the First Methodist church of Palo Alto, in the University gymnasium Sunday morning.

At the commencement exercises Monday morning, the assistant dean of men at the University of California will deliver an address on "The Challenge of the Changing World."

The alumni will hold open house to the graduating class at the Century Club. This will bring Senior Week to an end until another year rolls by.

ENGINEERS GET DEVICE CALLED DYNAMOMETER

MACHINE CAN BE USED TO OBTAIN DATA ON AUTO ENGINES

Two automobile salesmen and a garage foreman were invited to a demonstration of automobile engine testing equipment recently installed by the department of Mechanical Engineering and the Engineering Experiment Station of the University of Nevada. This question was put to them: Will an engine give greater braking effect, its throttle being turned off, when the ignition is wide open or when it is closed?

One salesman and the foreman declared that the throttle should be open for greatest braking effect, the other salesman maintained that it should be closed. Ordinarily a large argument could be raised on this question. The equipment was started and the figures in less than two minutes.

Automobile engine performance is subject to more than fifteen important conditions that are variable in ordinary operation. To attempt to estimate the effect of any one of them in ordinary road driving gives rise to much conversation but very little exact evidence.

Dynamometer Description

The dynamometer purchased by the university with the cooperation of the General Electric Company is of the latest and best design available for testing engine performance. By coupling the engine directly to the dynamometer, which is a form of electric generator under the control of a switchboard, any desired load up to 150 horse power can be placed on the engine at any speed from one hundred to 3500 r.p.m. Thus the engine may be put on a hill of any desired grade by the turn of a switch. Accessory apparatus measures engine turning effort, fuel consumption, lubricating oil consumption, cooling water, carburetor air, spark timing, intake manifold vacuum, composition of exhaust gases and so on.

Engine Tried Out

While a close check is kept on all of these variable conditions, the engine is put through its paces to determine the merits of different makes of gasoline and oil, to fine best settings of carburetor and to learn the effect of increased compression. At present three mechanical engineering students are determining to what extent changes in spark timing will make an engine overheat. Before long the department hopes to supplement this equipment with a rear wheel dynamometer which will permit testing automobile and tractor engines and transmission systems by anchoring the front wheels so that the rear wheels turn on a large drum located out of doors.

The dynamometer is available to the public for inspection and demonstrations will be arranged for any who are interested.

Blue Key Chooses Honorary Members

Ten new men were voted into Blue Key, campus honor service fraternity, at their meeting held last week for that purpose. The men were chosen in recognition for their service activities on the campus.

The new members are: Laddie Miller, Don Budge, Phil Weber, Marshall Guisti, Carol Cross, Milton Taylor, Hal Overlin, Elmer Lyon, Claire Lemkuhl and Carl Feutsch.

Membership to Blue Key is based primarily on service to the University, minor stress laid also on personality, ability and scholarship. The limitations to membership are two men in the organization at one time from any one fraternity and a maximum of four from the independents. The maximum number of members is thirty-five, the minimum twelve. The last meeting of Blue Key for this year will take the form of an initiation banquet for the new members at which the officers for next year will also be elected.

Harvard Studies Chinese Culture

Cambridge, Mass.—(PIP)—The most complete study and interpretation of Chinese culture ever undertaken in the Occident, according to the Harvard Crimson, will be entered into by Harvard University in conjunction with Yenching University, Peking, China, as the result of a $2,000,000 endowment for this purpose made by the estate of the late Charles M. Hall, of Niagara Falls, inventor of the new process of taking aluminum from the crude ore.

The step is hailed as of great significance in promoting friendly relations between the United States and China.

FIFTEEN-CENT SHOW CHANGES TO FIFTY

It's a wonderful opportunity! Just think! Such a good show for only fifteen cents! And so on throughout the day until more than one good resolution for a quiet afternoon of study joined the rest of those good intentions that are never fulfilled. Afternoon classes were nonchalantly cut, and the last fifteen cents was snatched from its lonely abode in the bottom of the pocket.

Gaily they set out for town, Manzanita in the afternoon and Lincoln Hall in the evening. Where? Oh, a very fine movie which was showing at the Nevada Theatre promised an unusually interesting entertainment. Of course these two were not the only ones to bite at this great opportunity, for plenty of other people from various houses were also present. Yes, they all fell, and even paid the fifty cents admission, too. The skeptical ones who had remained at home eagerly awaited the return of the susceptible theatre-goers, but the reports of the performance were not at all interesting, while the sheepish admission of having to borrow enough to satisfy their curiosity was the last straw as far as the wise ones were concerned. They never will cease groaning about their superiority.

COLLEGE RULES CHANGE GREATLY

O. S. C., Corvallis.—(PIP)—Things are different now than they were in the old days!

"If the faculty advises any student to withdraw from school, or his parents or guardian withdraw him, refusal to follow this request or advice of the faculty shall result in expulsion of such student." That was in the college catalogue as late as 1892 to warn students.

Reports of absences or misconduct were given to the President each evening and students were required to answer for the offense the following day. The President would then assign punishment for the offender.

Penalties were in the form of demerits—five for absence from recitation, drill or chapel; three to five for disorder at recitation, drill or chapel; or about the college campus; two for being out of uniform and five for being in Corvallis during college hours. Any student punished by 50 demerits during a term or 25 in a month was subject to expulsion.

A uniform of "cadet gray" was to be worn every day during college hours. The catalogue said it was "suitable for all occasions."

INCREASE SHOWN IN LAW SCHOOLS

During the last ten years there has been a very large increase in the number of students attending law school, especially in New York. In six law schools located in that city, there are at present 10,470 law students as compared with 6,225 in 1923 and 2,705 in 1916. While the increase has been greatest in those schools requiring but one or two years of college work as an entrance requirement, there has been a similar expansion in many of the highest grade university law schools.

Under the new rules of the Court of Appeals requiring two years of college work as a condition of admission to the bar, the number of applications for admission to law schools is almost certain to increase annually over a considerable period of years.

CLARK ON TRIPS

President Clark will be out of town for the rest of this week and most of next week according to his schedules. He left Friday morning for Loyalton, Calif., where he will deliver an address before the students of the high school on "The Modern Youth and College." Returning from Loyalton tomorrow morning, he will leave Monday night to judge the National Oratorical Contests at Los Angeles.

MANY ALUMNI BRANCHES NOW IN EXISTENCE

SACRAMENTO SLATED TO BE NEXT PLACE FOR GROUP

That Nevada's stick together no matter where they may be evinced in the fact that several branches of the Alumni association have been established in various places where a number of Nevada graduates are located.

In Los Angeles there is a well-established branch of the Alumni association, and the old grads get together and talk up the old days.

In San Francisco there is the Nevada Sagebrush club, which meets once a week for luncheon at some downtown place. This club is not limited to Nevada Grads but they all seem to belong. Whenever a team from the University goes to the Bay region, they are most royally treated by these former Nevadans. There is also an alumni association branch for the Bay district which has no special time of meeting but which gets together whenever enough of its members are in one place.

Another Proposed

There is still talk of an alumni branch in Sacramento but to date nothing definite has been decided. Over the state those Nevada grads who are near enough to one another to get together once in a while hold their private meetings and find what is happening at the old school.

Sometimes letters from a group far away, come asking for information as to the activities on the present campus. There seems always to be that spirit of "stick-togetherness" shown everywhere.

LEAP YEAR HELPS GLEE CLUB DANCE

"All's well that ends well," is the saying that applies to the Glee Club dance. At the beginning of the evening there was a row of stags in this corner, and a row of stagettes in another. It looked as though the affair was going to resemble a Sunday-school party at which all the little boys were afraid to ask the little girls to dance. Finally, however, the ice began to melt or perhaps it was a direct result of Leap Year. Anyway, the two-stag corners began to merge into each other, and before long not a lone individual was to be seen. And so it ended happily, as the old fairy tales used to say, for no one had to walk home alone.

DR. BOYD WINS FAME IN WORK

Dr. M. F. Boyd, who was bacteriologist at the University of Nevada State Hygienic Laboratory some twelve years ago, under Dr. Mack, at that time Director, has won much fame, according to word received here recently, and is at present recognized as the leading authority on the subject of malaria in the United States.

Dr. Boyd is soon to become a member of the Malaria Committee of the League of Nations, and he will go to Europe in June on his first assignment which consists of malaria work in Italy. He is at present in charge of malaria investigation for the International Health Board.

The word concerning Dr. Boyd was sent to the University through Dr. Henry Albert, now on leave as director of the University Hygienic Laboratory and at present acting as Commissioner of the Iowa State Department of Health.
