Letters: Supports Fuller

Editor:

The removal of Milton Fuller from the Parking and Traffic Board by Max Milam at the request of Jim Stone is one of the most incomprehensible acts I have ever heard of.

In trying to reason why such a decision was made one must consider Mr. Fuller's record. Was he removed because he attended every meeting? Or perhaps because he hand-carried a copy of the so-called "minority" parking proposal (which, by the way was signed by a majority of the board!) to Milam's office? Or because he dared to question the need for something near 1000 parking meters on campus? Or perhaps because he dared to ask how much money is collected in the existing meters (something no one seems to know).

Whatever Milton Fuller may have done to offend the system of parking shenanigans on campus, he is gone. But that shouldn't really bother anyone. The students still have one other representative who never goes to the meetings. The faculty still have several representatives who don't discern between majority and minority opinions. And, after all, who needs Milton Fuller on the Parking Board? Certainly not the company which manufactures parking meters and certainly not UNPD chief Keith Shumway who would have a lot fewer headaches, brought on by another opinion no doubt.

Lastly, why is it that the students and faculty of this campus have no idea of all this nonsense. It would seem that the Sagebrush should start confronting the problems in their own front yard (or garage if you like), instead of burying such issues under the guise of "balanced reporting," which seems to be something of a trademark, but not an actuality.

Bob Anderson

perhaps there is a more fundamental problem. I believe I Corinthians 3:11-16 may explain the problem:

"For who among men knows the thoughts of a man except the spirit of the man, which is in him? Even so the thoughts of God no one knows except the Spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might know the things freely given to us by God, which things we also speak, not in words taught by human wisdom, but in those taught by the Spirit, combining spiritual thoughts with spiritual words. But a natural man does not accept the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot understand them, because they are spiritually appraised. But he who is spiritual appraises all things, yet he himself is appraised by no man. For who has known the mind of the Lord, that he should instruct Him? But we have the mind of Christ. (New American Bible)

Christianity does not mean reciting a creed; it means knowing a person. Christianity is not "being good or you'll go to hell," as a matter of fact the Bible states "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God," (Romans 3:23) and "the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Romans 6:23) Yes, God offers a solution to this dilemma and that is Jesus Christ. Christ died on the cross in our place to pay for our sins. He rose from the dead three days later proving that He was God and validating all that He had said. When a person becomes a Christian he turns from self to God (repents) and receives Christ as Savior and Lord by faith (ie. Asks Jesus to forgive his sin and take control of his life). He experiences a "new birth" (John 3:1-8) and is indwelt by the Holy Spirit. (Romans 8:9, 11). Thus a Christian is in a position to "know the mind of God" because he has the Spirit of God. Christianity is not being good so you don't go to hell—it's wanting to do good because you have been given, as a gift, a full and free pardon from your sins and a changed life. God has set forth in the Bible principles by which the Christian may live his life and the issues of sex and marriage are clearly outlined.

I believe Mr. Myers' article is a clear validation of I Corinthians 3:14:

"But a natural man does not accept the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot understand them, because they are spiritually appraised."

Controversial student dismissed from duties

Sylva Maness

President Max Milam removed a controversial student member of the Parking and Traffic Board Wednesday.

In a letter sent to UNR student Milton Fuller, Milam said that he was removing him from the board at the request of ASUN President Jim Stone.

Several weeks ago Stone indicated to Milam his desire to have Fuller removed from the board. The letter from Milam did not state a reason for removing Fuller other than that the President was "concurring with his [Stone's] request."

Stone said he had asked Fuller "to meet with him to discuss some problems that some of his actions created."

He described Fuller's actions as "harassment; of ASUN Senator David Ritch, ASUN Secretary Peggy Martin, UNPD secretary DeSha Burau and myself when he came into where I work and picked an argument with me in front of my boss."

Fuller, however, denies any harassment, saying, "I have a right to express my opinion and I have a right to ask questions. I don't feel it amounted to anything at all. I often talk to grocery clerks."

Stone said that he wanted Fuller to discuss these things with him in the ASUN office, but "he [Fuller] wouldn't come in to see me." Stone added that he agreed Fuller was representing the students' interests at the Parking and Traffic Board meetings, but did not agree with Fuller's failure to talk with him at his office.

Fuller responded, saying, "I did not feel I was prepared for any such meetings. I did vote in line with the students. None of these things [calls to Burau, Martin or Ritch] interfered with my job on the board. I was doing research on the Sundowners at the time." He said it was his opinion that Stone and ASUN Vice-President of Finance and Publications Marc Cardinali have not learned to handle their affairs maturely.

Stone said he thought any student who is appointed to a university board should take responsibility for his actions.

Fuller said he has no plans to meet with Stone in the next week. "I don't feel I'm ready for a formal get-together."

He explained, "Essentially I don't believe that the ASUN president is the President of the United States. I don't believe that he has the right or the authority to command me to a meeting."

"If he doesn't like other things I do, that has nothing to do with the fact that I am an accredited student, I did attend the meetings, I did vote and I did follow the policies of the ASUN."

Fuller said that he believed that he had served the board well, attending every meeting. He added, "I haven't seen the other student representative [Donald Finney] at any meetings at all, but he hasn't been fired."

Stone told Sagebrush that Finney was excused from the first meeting and was at the second.

Meanwhile, Fuller indicated that he would continue to attend Parking and Traffic Board meetings, including the next one on Dec. 20.

During Monday's meeting, the board's second this year, graduate representative Pete Howells presented a letter to board chairman Stan Barnhill requesting an investigation of a story in Sagebrush last week indicating that Stone and the board's secretary DeSha Burau had discussed the removal of Fuller with Milam.

Burau was praised by Barnhill and given a vote of confidence by the board for her work as its secretary, after UNPD Chief Keith Shumway explained that Burau had gone to the meeting with Milam at the request of Stone and as Shumway's representative because he was out of town.

Howells said he was satisfied with the explanation, and he agreed that Burau had performed her secretarial duties satisfactorily.

Howells defended Fuller's position on the board and explained, "He is one of the best-prepared members of the board."

Commentary

Don Griffith

UNR's parking situation is dismal and it doesn't look like things are going to get much better if we continue the trend that has now developed.

I would like to share with Sagebrush readers my opinion of what is happening with parking on campus and why it is so bad. Having been on campus now for three years, I have seen a total lack of planning in this area.

I began following the Traffic and Parking Board in fall 1974 when I was required to cover its meetings for a reporting course. And that's when I began wondering just what this board was all about. The board met infrequently and came up with few solutions to anything.

I kept close track of the board and its activities last year when I joined the Sagebrush staff as a reporter. Under the direction of chairman Tom Reed, the board met more frequently but there was much tension among the members at the meetings. Pursuing the issue, I found that there was a lot of politics within the group. But why?

All roads led to UNR Police Chief Keith Shumway. It appears that there were several Shumway backers on the board and, apparently, the others on the board had difficulty getting their views across to the chairman.

I know you have been bombarded with parking information this semester but I would like to bring up some facts that have not been publicized yet. The first deals with the present status of parking on campus. The overcrowded conditions in the various zoned lots on campus can be directly attributed to UNPD.

Look at student parking first. There are about 8,000 students coming to campus each day and 1,439 spaces to accommodate them. UNPD has issued nearly 5,000 "S" stickers this semester when the spaces aren't there. Of course, everyone is entitled to buy two stickers, but many do not.

There are about 700 staff persons and 526 spaces to accommodate them. But UNPD has issued 960 "A" stickers.

And for the faculty, well, they're getting the worst end of the deal. Seven hundred of them drive to campus daily and there are only 400 spaces for them. Yet UNPD has issued 1,480 "B" parking stickers. This is more than two each. Something's haywire.

Summarizing the present situation, there are 11 different parking zones (types) and 13 entrances to campus. And more than 7,000 parking stickers have been issued this semester when there are only about 3,000 parking spaces.

At the end of last year, Reed rushed a copy of the Traffic and Parking Board's recommendations to President Max Milam even though four board members were strongly opposed to the plans. We can thank Milam for sending copies of this report to various governmental bodies on campus. It might have slipped right through had Milam not stopped it at this point. It appears that few persons on campus would like to see hundreds of meters installed, not to mention numerous gate fee zones, which is what the proposal concerned.

Let me enlighten you as to what such changes would mean for UNPD and why Shumway's department would benefit. According to figures compiled by a Traffic and Parking Board member, UNR's present 106 meters yield an annual income of more than $12,000. According to the map with the proposed parking meter increases, the new total of 650 meters would produce six times the existing income, $72,000 a year. This money would go into a parking maintenance account—just think how much more of our campus could be paved over then!

According to estimates I have made while surveying parking on campus, the proposed gate fee zones would replace about 600 present "A" and "B" spaces. Parking in these areas would cost about $40 for the year. We're talking about $24,000 a year that would go into an account for "a future parking facility." This account already has nearly $90,000 in it, funded by our sticker fees. This facility would probably be a parking garage that we would have to pay to use. In other words, we would be paying to park in a building we paid for.

There is no doubt that the entire campus community is getting shafted with such a plan.

I presented the plan—and my figures—to an urban geography class. We discussed how using space on campus with an environmental frame of mind is necessary to have a practical parking plan.

Such an attitude has not been taken by past Traffic and Parking Boards. The board must work to eliminate pavement from the center of campus rather than think in terms of how the police department can expand its income and facilities.

President Milam has finally appointed a chairman of the board who is a lot more promising than those in the past. He is Criminal Justice Prof. Stan Barnhill, an expert in traffic regulation and control.

It has been hinted that in the past, Shumway has done more than play an advisory role on the board. For example, he was involved in the planning of the current proposal from its beginnings. It is time Shumway stepped aside and let the board function as it should.

Wolfpack beats Wolf Pack, 83-70

Bob Carlson

"We didn't get started right away," said UNR basketball coach Jim Carey about Saturday's 83-70 loss to the North Carolina State University Wolfpack in Raleigh, N.C.

And indeed Carey was right as the Wolfpack of the East opened up a 12-point lead before Reno's Wolf Pack could put any points on the board. "We just didn't move well enough without the ball," Carey said.

Before a crowd of more than 9,000, Reno never got closer than five points in the contest which was deemed, "the battle of the Wolf Pack's."

After dropping behind 12-0, UNR exploded to out-score North Carolina State 16-9. But then in a scoreless five minutes the Pack fell behind, 32-16. At half-time the score stood 40-29, NCSU. The Pack hit the last six points in the half, one of the few times UNR carried the momentum.

The second half proved to be fairly even. Reno chipped away at NC State's lead but could come no closer than eight points. High point man for NCSU was freshman Charles "Hawkeye" Whitney with 17 points.

For Reno it was Edgar Jones. Jones finished the game with 27 points and 14 rebounds, mostly in the second half, which led both teams in each category. Rich Travieso sparked Reno's comeback attempts with 12 points.

NC State caused the Reno Pack to turn the ball over 22 times. "I was pleased with our defense," North Carolina coach Norm Sloan commented. Reno, though, also played pretty good defense causing the Wolfpack to turn the ball over on 20 occasions. Carey said he felt the Pack could have played better defensively and he hopes to regain the defense displayed in last Thursday's upset over the Oregon State Beavers, 53-51.

Reno dropped to 2-3, but has a chance to even up its season Tuesday. The Wolf Pack hosts North Dakota State University at the Centennial Coliseum at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday the Pack will be in Houston, Texas, for the Bluebonnet Classic.

Chairperson found

We offer our congratulations and thanks to the new 1977 Winter Carnival Chairperson, Diane DeLauer. This little fire ball already has a list of activities as long as your ski pole.

With the week of Jan 31 - Feb. 6 fast approaching, what Diane needs now is a committee to help in organizing a week of ski races, prizes, movies, munchies, contests, discount beer nights, dog sled races, igloo building, snowshoe, varnishing, dances, ice hockey, snow eating, bands and wing-dining, queen and king voting, cross-country skiing, ice skating, ballet, snow sculpture, and snow blindness.

For all the details see Peggy in the ASUN Office. Telephone: 784-6589.

Movies half-price

Have we got a deal for YOU! Honest. Believe it or not, ASUN has cooked up a deal with a national outfit by the name of Mann Theaters, which owns the Keystone Cinema and the Crest Theater on West Second.

As of today, all ASUN students may purchase tickets to these theaters at a half-price discount in the Activities Office. That's $1.50 instead of the usual $3 charge. Any ticket purchased is good for a six month period and will also be accepted at any of the 300 Mann Theaters across the nation— just in case you travel a lot.

This little scam we worked out for you will continue all year. But remember to have that indispensable I.D. card with you. All information concerning the student discount will be available in the Activities Office. Telephone: 784-6505.

From the ASUN Executive Officers:

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Such apathy

As this semester draws to a close, we'd like to announce the final progress report on the ASUN peptic ulcer—POOR. The obstinate list of committee vacancies that managed to survive an entire semester proved too much for us. We lost the battle. Nervous disorders and a spell of whooping cough have become the tell-tale signs of our growing concern. What can we do—we're at the end of our rope.

Presently, these six committee vacancies remain to be filled. With one week left, you still have time to redeem yourselves. Applications and the last details will be available in the ASUN Office for the remainder of this semester. But we're pulling the plug Friday, Dec. 17, at 5 p.m. Hot-line: 784-6589.

County helps A/P

Washoe County School Board member Dr. Robert McQueen was on the UNR campus last week to present a $10,000 check to UNR President Max Milam for the Fleischmann Atmospherium/Planetarium fund drive.

This check represents the first installment of the school district's $30,000 commitment to save the Space Place.

"Washoe County Schools was the first public agency to make a commitment to the fund drive," said Dr. Richard T. Dankworth, fund drive co-ordinator.

Dankworth explained that school shows are a major priority in planetarium programming.

Children's classics

Two mornings of film classics for children are being shown Saturday, Dec. 18, and Wednesday, Dec. 29, at the Nevada Art Gallery, 643 Ralston St.

The first program will include White Mane, by Albert Lamorisse and James Agee; The Fish and the Fisherman, a Russian fairy tale version of a poem by Pushkin; and an animated version of The Return to Oz.

The second program will include The Doughnuts, an episode from Homer Price by Robert McCloskey; Zlateh the Goat, a color movie of Isaac Bashevis Singer's book for children; The Magic Horse, a Russian cartoon feature in brilliant color; and Kosmodrome, a very funny fantasy about space.

These films have been carefully selected for children between 5 and 10 years of age. There will be a small donation, and as the seats are first come—first serve, children should come by 9:15 a.m. The show will be over at 11:30.

Sports seminar

The Physical Education and Recreation Department is planning a workshop, to be given by the staff, on teaching techniques of various sports.

Department chairman Dr. Keith Loper said that the seminar is open to all students whether they are P.E. majors or not. "We are looking for anyone who would be interested, and especially for those who may be teaching younger children later on," he said.

Some of the sports the seminar will cover, according to Loper, are conditioning, bicycling, tennis, backpacking and mountaineering, softball, volleyball and team handball, the type that is played at Olympic level. There are also 15 other sports that may be included.

It will be a three-day event over the semester break beginning on Jan. 7, and will be worth one university credit.

Registration will be at 6 p.m. on Jan. 6.

Space shuttling

Dr. Robert A. Parker, Chief of Scientist-Astronauts for the Science and Applications Directorate of NASA, will speak at 8 p.m. tonight in the gym about "Operations in Space—The Next Step." His lecture, on space shuttling, is sponsored by the Fleischmann Atmospherium/Planetarium.

Parker, an associate professor of astronomy at the University of Wisconsin prior to his selection for astronaut training in 1967, arrived in Reno this morning for the lecture.

Dr. Karl G. Henize, who is involved in a project in California, was originally scheduled to speak. Parker, who is substituting, has logged over 1,550 hours of flying time in jet aircraft and was a member of the support crews for the Apollo 15 and 17 missions.

Brain boost

Need an extra brain boost for Finals Week? A half gram each of B-vitamins choline, B-1 and B-12 will temporarily increase the brain's efficiency according to Dr. Win Wenger in his new book How to Increase Your Intelligence.

However, says Wenger, any B-vitamins in concentration should be accompanied by a broad-spectrum B supplement such as Brewer's Yeast. This is because a concentrated dosage of one B-vitamin causes the body to use up other B-vitamins more rapidly.

Other supplements suggested by Wenger that are especially important to the brain's functions are Vitamin E, 200-400 i.u. per day; bioflavinoids, 200 i.u. per day; Vitamin C, ½ gram per day; and a general multivitamin.

Make it safely

The Nevada Office of Traffic Safety is conducting a special alcohol awareness program for Nevada drivers during the period of Nov. 24—Jan. 2 to alert Nevada drivers to dangers of drinking and driving.

John Borda, director of traffic safety, said the office is concentrating on this 40-day period due to the high probability of drinking drivers or pedestrians out on the roadway during the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

"The holiday period brings with it a feeling of celebration and joy. Unfortunately, that celebration is often translated into alcohol-related traffic deaths in our state. We urge everyone to make sure their friends who have been drinking get home safely," said Borda.

Borda noted that motorists should observe three simple rules to ensure a happy and safe holiday period: "Don't drive after drinking, observe the posted speed limit and wear your safety belts at all times."
